For descriptive brochure apply to MANAGER.

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS AND LITTLE BOYS. Mrs. Rudge, Crowland, 163, Trinity-road, Upper Tooting, London, S.W. Good house, healthy situation; near Wandsworth Common Station and Balham trams.

To Hotel Proprietors who regularly file "The Era."

HANDSOME ILLUMINATED METAL TABLETS
of
"THE ERA."

PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

Being a digest of the Law relating to Theatres and Music Halls, and containing chapters on Theatrical Contracts, Theatrical, Music and Dancing, and Excise Licences, Dramatic and Musical Copyright, &c., with an Appendix containing the Acts of Parliament relating thereto, and the regulations of the London County Council and the Lord Chamberlain, by

ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (London), Solicitor.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS—

THE ENCORE, May 26, 1910.
We have just received the third edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's book on Theatrical and Musical Law, which is published at The Era Office, 5, Tavistock Street, Strand. Since the second edition of this work was published—nine years—many changes have taken place in the laws relating to entertainments, and these have necessitated a considerable enlargement of the volume. Full texts of the recent Berlin Convention and the United States Copyright Law are included in this edition, in which is also published the awards governing the relations between artists, agents, and managers. A number of new cases are also cited illustrating the effects of the barring clause. The Musical Copyright Act, children on the stage, the sketch question, and the Workmen's Compensation Act are all fully dealt with and in a readable and easy style, as free as possible from legal phraseology and technicalities. It is a legal axiom that ignorance of the law is no excuse for breaking it, and, therefore, it behoves everyone connected with the entertainment world to make himself acquainted with the law as it stands in relation to the profession or business in which he may be engaged. To everyone connected with the Drama or Variety Mr. Strong's book is a necessity, and this last edition is so comprehensive that anyone who consults it can have no possible excuse for infringing the law on the ground of ignorance. The work will, no doubt, have a ready and rapid sale, for all artists, managers, and agents should have it at hand.

SPORTING LIFE, May 16, 1910.
Dramatic authors, composers, and all of those interested in dramatic enterprise will find much that is useful and instructive in "Dramatic and Musical Law," by Albert Strong.

SPORTSMAN, May 14, 1910.
"Dramatic and Musical Law," by Albert A. Strong, LL.B. ("Era" Office, W.C.), has gone into a third edition, which would seem to prove its usefulness.

SUNDAY TIMES, May 29, 1910.
A third edition of Mr. Albert Strong's "Dramatic and Musical Law" is just published. The work has already established its value, as a comprehensive and accurate book of reference, and the new edition has been brought up to date by the inclusion of all recent decisions of the courts, and the texts of the Berlin Convention and the new Copyright Law of the United States.

REFEREE, May 15 1910.
Mr. Albert A. Strong's valuable work "Dramatic and Musical Law" published at "The Era" Office, Tavistock-street, has reached its third edition. The author has made every effort to bring the book right up to date.

THE PERFORMER, May 12, 1910.
THE ARTIST'S LEGAL HANDBOOK.
We welcome a third edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" Offices), as it is nine years since the second appeared, and much has happened since then, not least the foundation of the V.A.F. and the resultant Award of 1907. This will be found incorporated in the now greatly-improved and extended Appendix of Statutes, ranging from the Disorderly Houses Act of 1751, to last year's L.C.C. Cinematograph regulations. As far as is possible with further developments in daily progress, this invaluable work of legal reference for all interested in the entertainment profession has been brought up-to-date. Sixty pages have been added, and the whole revised and rendered easier of reference by the re-arrangements that have been made, and the numerous marginal headings that have been introduced. Strong, on "Dramatic and Musical Law," may be regarded as the layman's complete authority on the subject, whether he be PROPRIETOR, MANAGER, or ARTIST, and with a lucid explanation of the law so readily available, the artist will be wise to consult its pages before venturing on new contracts and agreements, whether as employed or—in these days of "combinations," sketches, troupes, and what not—as employer.

THE MUSIC HALL, May 12, 1910.
Mr. Albert A. Strong's valuable treatise on "Dramatic and Musical Law," published at the offices of "The Era," has reached a third edition. This includes the text of the recent Berlin Convention and the new Copyright Act of the United States, also all the important decisions of the Courts, since the last edition, on which the compiler has been able to lay hands. As Mr. Strong remarks, "There is probably no more fruitful source of litigation than the ordinary theatrical contract." If the work under notice achieved no other object than to impress this fact on the parties concerned, it would still be worth its weight in gold.

Third Edition. Price 5/- Post free 5/4.

THEATRICAL ACCOUNTS FOR BUSINESS MANAGERS.

How the Affairs of a Theatre can be Most Efficiently Controlled by the Adoption of Systems of Internal Check.

BY CUTHBERT E. SMEDLEY, A.C.A.

Price 3/6. Post free, 3/9.

Published at "THE ERA" OFFICES, 5, Tavistock St., Strand, W.C.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 29.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Known, Beatrice Bonnie and her Dancers on the Stairaphone. Latest novelty. One lady, three gents. Topping, Winter Gardens, Morecambe. Vacant next two weeks; also Stylo, Expert Juggler.

WANTED, Monday next, by Geo. Bernard, the Actor-Vocalist far above the average. Wire, Black's Palace; or, 4, The Crescent, Gateshead.

WANTED, June 13, 20, 27, by Jammy Shields, the clever one-legged Comedian and Dancer. Address, Hippodrome, Exeter.

WANTED, June 13 and 20, Sam Ello, Comedian and Dancer. D.C. lithos. and photo. frames.

Hippo., Swadlincote, Burton.

WANTED, June 13 and 20. JEAN SEUL, Address, next week, Hippo., Wallsend-on-Tyne.

WANTED, Known, Tom Verne, the Continental Novelty Skater, vacant June 13 and 20. Best offers. Address, Pavilion, Wishaw, N.B.

WANTED, Known, Harry Kardoc, the World's Greatest Handcuff King and Gaol Breaker. Vacant June 13, on. Sure Draw. (See Card).

WANTED, Known, Manek-Shah Troupe, Indian Illusionists, direct from Bombay. Monday, Hippo., Margate; June 13 and on vacant.

WANTED, Monday, Tommy Ellis, Quaint Comedian; Marion St. John, Vocal Soubrette. Hippo., Rotherhithe (Gibbons). Wire, 145, Loughborough-road, Brixton.

WANTED, Monday next, by Marcus Boyle, Comedian; Ada Whitton, Vocalist. Wire, King's Theatre, Edinburgh; after Saturday, 39, Hedon-road, Hull.

WANTED, Aug. 1, Sept. 5, also Panto., by Harry Keebie, Ventriloquist; and Gladys Wells, Contralto. Mon., Palace, Bradford.

WANTED, Known, We are the Original Comedy Duo of the name Ward and Davis (Howard and Louie), not singles. Fifth Successful Year of "Wanted, a Typist." Monday, Palace, Warrington. Vac. June 13.

WANTED, June 13, Stuart and Evans, The Real Comedians. The turn you want. Wire or write, Hippodrome, Aldershot.

WANTED, by Hector and Lauraine, Upside Down Boxing Grotesque Comedians. Peals of laughter. Vacant June 13, 20, for galas, picture shows, gardens, or any first-class variety theatre. All coms., Theatre Royal, Thornley, Durham Co.

WANTED, by the Bros. Webb, July 11, Aug. 1, 8. Address, 4, Speenham-road, Stockwell, S.W.

WANTED, by Fields and Lewis, Great Comedy Act, vacant Monday, also June 13. Wire, 248, Brunswick-st., Manchester; after Sunday, 1, Cross-street, Morecambe.

WANTED, Known, Pearce and Ward, Comedy Artists. This Hippo., Preston. Vac. Monday to save time. Wire, 72, North-road, Preston.

WANTED, Fêtes and Galas, Alex and Jolly, Knockabout Triple Bar Act; The Holmars, Acrobatic Clowns; two acts. 35A, Cemetery-street, Woodhouse-lane, Leeds.

WANTED, June 6, onward, by Rohde and Roche, Chameleon Artist and It, combining Singing, Dancing, Patter, and Comedy Contortion Pot-Pourri Act. Wire, 41, St. Mary's-square, Kennington-road, London, S.E.

WANTED, Monday, by Billy Ross and Co., Greatest Comedy and Speciality Boxing Act before the Public. London halls. Wire, 66 Somerleyton-road, Brixton.

WANTED, by Mlle. Sylvesto, Queen of Contortionists, the lady with a figure, and Comedy Assistant, June 6, 13, onwards. Wire for a success. 25, Hercules-road, London, S.E.

WANTED, 6, 13, 20, by Atlas and the Beautiful Miss Vulcana's Troupe of Five Champions, including the World-famous Classic Poses of Miss Vulcana. The Originator, and still ahead and out of reach of all others. Conclude Borough, Wallsend, Sunday, on. P.A., The Hollies, Fulham.

WANTED, Known, Elton and Elma, greatest of all knockabout trip e bar acts, Liberty June 13. Address, 282, Gt. Colmore-st., Birmingham.

WANTED, by the Benetti and Kellino Trio, Eccentric Risleyists, immediate and future dates. Also Galas. Two distinct Acts. Address, 23, Hercules-road, S.E.

WANTED, June 13, on, the Four Flying Oreniuses, an Aerial Act for Vaudeville or anywhere. June 6, Theatre R., Ilkeston.

WANTED, Known, Walonells and Dog, Comedy Gymnasts, at Liberty June 6 and 13. Wire, Grand Theatre, Gravesend.

WANTED, Monday next, by La Dor Troupe, male and female Novelty Acrobats, three Acts. Hippodrome, Burslem, Staff. Wanted, smart Youth, Acrobat.

WANTED, a few Odd Dates by Gulliver, Comedy Ventriloquist Speciality. First class act in every respect. Address, 46, Derngate, Northampton.

WANTED, June 20, July 4, 11, by Hulbert, Ventriloquist; and De Lil, Illusionist. Two smart acts. Offers invited. Empire, Aberdare.

MISS ELLA'S EDUCATED LION SHOW.
WANTED, Managers to secure this sure draw. Vacant for the months of June, July, and Aug. Offers invited. 18, Gloucester-st., Jersey, C.I.

WANTED, Known, Miss Shanara's Great Troupe Deer, Goats, Great Novelty, the only Known Act of this kind; refined, up-to-date; something out of the usual. Stage Set and Costumes A1. Rig Turn for Parks, Fêtes; the one Original. Marvellous performance. including the High-springing Bok. Address, 24, Worcester-street, Gloucester

WANTED, Known, Miss Tudora's Ponies, Lib. June 13, break to Dublin; Lib. June 27, prefer Ireland. Smart, refined. All coms., Pier Pavilion, Hastings.

WANTED, Known, Mlle. Hengleur and her Beautiful Troupe of Russian Poodles, great novelty, including champion Challenge Leaping Hounds. Success everywhere. Liberty June 6, 13. Great attraction for Galas, Garden Parties, &c. Thanking Ercole's Agence, Paris, offer Continental tour. Sorry cannot accept, being practically settled for the summer. Coms., Tudno House, Rhyl.

WANTED, by Lorenzo's Marvellous Dogs, Monday and onwards, Halls, Circuses, Pictures, Al Fresco, &c. Sure draw. Permanent address, 5, Union-buildings, Stafford.

WANTED, June 6, 27, by Miss Doris' Troupe of Fox Terriers, the Smartest Act in the World. Halls, Galas. Wire for June 6, 27. Albert T., Brighouse.

WANTED, Known, Clown Inanda presents Bute, the marvellous educated canine wonder, refined speciality, humorous, clever, the only dog performing the Barrel Act. Free June 13 and some on. Address, 24, Worcester-street, Gloucester. Big for Pictures and Galas.

WANTED, Known, The Cyclinis, Comedy and Champion Somersaulting Cyclists. This, Vic. T., Kettering; vac. 6th, 13th, 20th; good Act for Galas. Perm., 7, Ebberstone-st., Moss Side, Manchester.

WANTED, Swift Duo, a really funny act on Bicycles. Vac. June 13 and 20. Wire or write, Empire, Edmonton.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Known, Pauletti, Acrobatic Juggling and Somersaulting Cyclist. Free for few Galas. One or two acts. 106, Bigland-st., Salford.

WANTED, Shop, by a young Trick Cyclist, straight or comedy, can play polo, England or Continent, offers. Box 7,786, "The Era."

WANTED, Wanted, Wanted, by Kirk and Saraski, the Girl Aquatic Marvels, June 20 and 27, 1910. The only two vacancies this year. Wire, this Theatre Royal, Dublin; next, Winter Gardens, New Brighton.

WANTED, Known, Managers please note, Colley Ashton's Sensational and Mysterious Rope-tying Act, without a rival, direct from the Continent, at Liberty June 6, onwards. Correspondence invited. 30, Farndale-street, York.

WANTED, Known, Comedy Knockabout, Hand Balancer, Hand Jumper, and Strong Gymnast, at Liberty Monday. F. THOMAS, 62, Frithville-gardens, Shepherd's Bush, London, W.

WANTED, Known, Edward Kroney (of Kroney Bros.), open to join good Juggler, to play Comedy, on Shares; can do bookings. C/o "The Era."

WANTED, Known, Operator requires situation, abstainer, good references. Apply, J. SHAW, 3, Fitzwarren-street, Pendleton.

PIERROT WANTEDS.

TO AMUSEMENT CATERERS, PIERROTS, &c.
WANTED, offers from those interested, for the Sole Rights to provide Amusements and Entertainments during the Midlands Aviation Week at Dunstall Park, Wolverhampton, June 27 to July 2, 1910.
Visitors estimated at 300,000.
Tenders at once to Secretary, W. IVY ROGERS, Grand Hotel, Birmingham.

WANTED, Amateurs of Education, Refinement, and Ability, for First-class Concert Party. LYNN and HARDING, Savoy House, Strand, W.C.

WANTED, Troupe Pierrots, Six in Number, open June 20, on Shares, must be flip, and produce Concerteds, Sketches, &c. Gold mine for smart boys. FRANK NEWBURY, Empire, Cowdenbeath.

WANTED, Artists High-class Al-fresco, Fresh Town near Manchester; also Lady or Gentleman willing to invest. ELECTRIC ENTERTAINERS, 608, Stretford-road, Manchester.

WANTED, for Al Fresco, Lady and Gentleman Artists in all Lines, also good Ventriloquist. State full particulars, how long, when at liberty, and very lowest terms, in first letter. Photo if possible. Money sure. INCE, Princess Rink, Nottingham.

WANTED, four Juveniles (boys), age 16 to 18, to complete Company for Al Fresco, good voices. Apply, with Songs, 12 o'clock, Percy Hall, Percy-street, Tottenham Court-road.

WANTED, First-class Complete Concert Party, June 13, and several other dates. Covered Pavilion, Sydney Gdns., Bath. FREDERICKS, Winter Gardens, Bournemouth.

WANTED, by George Casey, Comedian, Summer Shop, 8 years' Al Fresco experience; splendid rép.; funny, refined songs; can open at once. Wire, 21, Auburn-street, Dublin.

WANTED, by Phil Durham (the Philosophical Dame), Summer Dates, Comedy and Scotch Songs in Character or otherwise; Speciality if required. 46, Claverton-street, S.W.

WANTED, to Let, Pierrot Theatre, Handsome, well-appointed Building, capable of seating 700 to 1,000. Cheshire suburb of Manchester. 25,000 population. Unrivalled opening for Permanent Troupe.

Replies, WHEELER, 45, Deansgate-arcade, Manchester.

WANTED, to Let or Sell, good Pitch, with Al Fresco, Stage and Dressing-rooms, near London. Apply, ALFRESCO, Poste Restante, Colchester.

SHOWMEN'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE CAKE-WALK AND SEE-SAW SLIP MACHINES.
By Royal Letters Patent in all the Leading Countries of the World.
Providing for the Public a Sensational Ride and Thrilling Slip. Always on the Move. Quick Money-takers. Apply for full particulars to TAYLOR, PLINSTON BROS., and Co., Ltd.

WANTED, Known, we are Sole Makers of W. Taylor's Patents for above Novelties, 94 Farncombe-street, and 98, Bermondsey-wall, London, S.E. Registered Trade Mark "Cake Walk."

PIPE ORGANS.
WANTED, Wanted, Known, the Patent Posauto.

Can be played by Hand or Paper Roll.

Unlimited Répertoire.

Impressive and Beautiful Tone.

Full particulars from The POSITIVE ORGAN Co., LTD., 44, Mornington-crescent, N.W.

WANTED, Known, Cartridges, all Brands, Winchester Repeaters, Glass Globes, Water Balls, Targets, and every size cartridge, for the Stage, in stock. GREENE, 74, Falmouth-road, S.E.

WANTED, Known, Fairkeepers, Rifle Ranges, Bazaar, Everything for the Fair. BRITISH Co., 457, High-road, Tottenham. Range supplies a speciality. Lists free.

WANTED, Freaks, Novelties, and Attractions, now and onwards. Full particulars, Sample Lithos. and Post Cards in First Letter.

A. E. PICKARD, American Museum, Glasgow.

WANTED, Quick-selling Shop Novelties, and Hire of a number of Mutoscope Machines. Box 7,802, "The Era."

WANTED, First-class Freaks and Other Good Attractions, for Crouch's Old-established Wonderland and Variety Theatre, Argyle-street, Glasgow.

WANTED, Novelties in all Lines, for Dr. Ormonde's Great Irish Tour, commencing Aug. 15. References, lowest terms. Dr. ORMONDE, 3, Cathedral-terrace, Armagh, Ireland.

WANTED, for Hancock's World's Fair, Plymouth, to open on June 24, for one, two, or three weeks, a good Aerial Show or a Sensational Act that can be worked on a 25ft. platform, for open-air performances. Will Lorenzo, the Aerial Show; write in? All parties requiring ground for the above apply until Saturday, W. C. and S. HANCOCK, Fair Ground, Falmouth; Monday, St. Day Scorrier; after, Richmond-walk, Devonport.

WANTED, Auctioneer, also capable man to Assist in Auction Rooms; also Watchmaker; first-class berths.

Box 7,815, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, Erinia, the Successful Drawing-room Entertainer, Mandolinist, and Character Reader. At Homes, Bazaars, &c. Box 7,758, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, to Showmen, Actress Disengaged, Illusions, &c.; appearance brilliant, pretty dresses. EVE, 120A, Ferndale-road, Clapham.

WANTED, by Handkerchief Embroideress, Engagement, Own Machine. EMBROIDERESS, Box No. 7,803, "The Era."

SHOWMEN'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

WANTED, for Fun City in large Midland town of over 100,000 population, sixty miles from London, in large Skating Rink and land adjoining, for ten weeks certain, opening on the 13th inst., all kinds of

RIDING MACHINES, CAKE WALK, SKELTER, HAUNTED CASTLE, BIOSCOPE, and other Shows, Games, &c.

Spaces to Let for PALMIST, SIDE SHOW NOVELTIES, and Stalls of every description, on reasonable Rent or Sharing Terms.

Apply immediately to TOM NORMAN, Auction Dept., "The Era" Office, London, W.C., for the Promoters.

WANTED, Showmen to Know that the following is a complete COPYRIGHT LIST OF FAIRS, FEASTS, WAKES, AND CARNIVALS, FOR JUNE.

ENGLAND.

5. Normanton (12,353)
7. Southrapps (1,800)
9. Prescot (7,500)
10. Bicester (3,023)
11. Cranbrooke (3,949)
11. Haverhill (4,064)
13. Tetney (800)
13. Thorne (Yorks.) (3,708)
15. Lambert Castle
16. Kidderminster (24,700)
17. Taunton (21,078)
18. Astwith (74)
18. Dore and Totley (2,217)
18. Falmouth (11,779)
18. Hardstaff (190)
18. Mexboro' (10,417)
18. Staveley (11,420)
18. Abingdon (6,500)
Chipping Campden (1,700)
20. Coleford (2,541)
20. Maidstone (83,500)
20. Newcastle-on-Tyne (264,511)
21. Cinderford (3,112)
21. Southampton (104,911)
22. Newport Pagnell (4,000)
22. Shipston-on-Stour (1,700)
22. Selby (7,780)
22. Wadebridge (2,300)
24. Andover (6,500)
24. Bromsgrove (8,416)
24. Cambridge (38,939)
24. St. Just (6,000)
24. Willersey (356)
25. Brampton (112)
25. Bridgwater (15,200)
25. Burslem (38,766)
25. Coal Aston (1,000)
25. Duckmanton (525)
25. Dronfield (3,809)
25. Elmton (675)
25. Penistone (3,071)
25. Tibshelf (3,000)
25. Unston (1,810)
25. Winster (844)
25. Yeovil (9,838)
27. Feckenham (4,587)
27. Halifax (104,938)
27. Pershore (3,970)
28. Bolton by Bowland (600)
28. Folkestone (12,093)
28. Inkberrow (1,631)
28. Saltash (2,357)
29. Belper (10,934)
29. Camborne (14,726)
29. Fareham (8,246)
29. Reedham (1,200)
30. Dereham (5,545)

SCOTLAND.

4. Hawick (15,000)
Lanark (6,440)
5. Saltcoats (4,237)
14. Alyth (3,000)
14. Largs (3,550)
17. Selkirk (5,701)
21. Peebles (3,093)
24. Renfrew (10,000)
29. Fraserbargh (8,998)

WALES.

9. Llandovery (1,869)
11. Brynmawr (6,534)
14. Ferndale (10,300)
17. Llangefeloch
17. Usk (1,476)
25. Lydney (4,200)
30. Ton-y-Pandy (6,027)

WANTED, to Let, Spaces, from £10, Season. Houpla, Auctioneer, Palmist, Watchla, Already booked, Juvenile Roundabouts. NIXON'S Waxworks, Southend.

WANTED, Known, Kidwelly, South Wales, Fair Field to Let, low terms, good business. Recent successes: Alexandras, Fossett's Circuses, Haggar's Bioscope, all big. Apply, MORRIS, Cowparks, Kidwelly.

PLEASURE BEACH, BLACKPOOL.
WANTED, Known, Good Sites for Automatic Machines, both in Building and Outside. Only good machines wanted. Apply, SECRETARY, Blackpool Pleasure Beach, Ltd., Blackpool.

PLEASURE BEACH, BLACKPOOL.
WANTED, Known, Applications invited from Photographers, sole right available. Apply, SEC., Blackpool Pleasure Beach, Ltd., Blackpool.

WANTED, to Let, Handsome Shops, Electric lighted; also Spaces. Real Novelties only. F. W. WALKINGTON, Manager, Pal. Pier, Brighton.

WANTED, to Sell, a Nice One-horse Living Van, every convenience, nearly new. Price £60, or offer. A. RHODES, Mays-lane, High Barnet.

WANTED, to Sell, Sale Van and Tent, &c. Tent can build to hold 600 or 800. Fitted with scenery. Suit pierrots, auctioneering. WHITAKER, 14, Handman-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, to Sell, Arctic Railway, Locomotive Engine, splendid running order, 5 carriages, carrying 50 people, 60ft. circular track, sleepers, and effects, to be sold cheap.
Also a good Trumpet Barrel Organ, almost new, suit Roundabout or Cake-Walk. Price £35.
Letters only, T. E. READ, World's Fair, Agricultural Hall, Islington, N.

WANTED, to Sell, Splendid Side Show, with Printing. Enormous money-taker. No waiting for audience, new. 10, Crieff-road, Wandsworth.

WANTED, to Sell, Love Letters, Palmistry, Fair, Dark, Comic Cards, Eyes, Marriage Liars' Licences. Illustrated Catalogue. MEURICE, 39, Argyle-square.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatic Machines, New and Secondhand, Card Delivery, Mother Shiptons, marvellous money-takers. New Catalogue. MEURICE, Argyle-square.

WANTED, to Sell, Gold-framed Photos, Husbands, Wives, Babies, X-rays, latest sensation, for Automatic Machines. Catalogue illustrated. MEURICE, Argyle-square.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatic Machines all kinds, lists free, Husband, Wife, Eye, Hair Fortune, Astrologer cards, 5s. 1,000; Love Letters 9s. LESLIE, 5, Denning-road, Hampstead Heath.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatic Machines of every description, (including the marvellous Guess Your Weight Weighing Machine). WORMALD, 123, Blythe-road, West Kensington, London.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatics, various, bargains, Pianos, Punch Balls (Mills'), Pictures (American), Mutoscopes, American Lifters, Electrics, Phonographs, Motor, alternating and direct, Fortunes, also massive Showman's Brass Pipe and Reed Organ, cost £750, hand wind or electric power; present owner attached penny in slot, ideal instrument for Fair business, Picture Palace, or Skating Rink; all guaranteed. Apply, UNITED SPORTS, 174, High-street, Shoreditch, E.C.

WANTED, to Sell, 20 Automatics, various, sacrifice; would let Hire or Rental to responsible person. Box 7,807, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, Hindu Spirit Writer, genuine Money Getter. Great Novelty, soiled, 60s.; cost £8. Sure living. BRITISH Co., 457, High-road, Tottenham.

WANTED, to Sell, Phonographs, Gramophones, Illustrated Songs, Palm Readers, Fairbank Scales, Mutoscopes, Punch Balls, Lifters, Electric Shock, Fortune Tellers, Mystery, Skill, and other up-to-date automatic machines, in good condition. No reasonable offer refused. Apply, DEAN and STARR, LTD., 199, Piccadilly, London, W.

WANTED, to Sell, good Working Models, Fortune Tellers. No reasonable offer refused. Apply, OWNER, 16, Coleraine-road, Hornsey.

WANTED, to Sell, Films of the late King's Funeral, 7 copies (Cricks and Martin), 525ft.; 9 copies (Warwick), 868ft., London and Windsor; all despatched on Sunday at 1d. per foot.; 5 copies of the Derby, despatched Thursday, 275ft., 1½d. ft. MAGNET FILM Co., 30, St. Martin's-court, Charing Cross-road, London.

WANTED, to Sell, Rifle Range, Running Animal Set, 10ft., £6; 6ft., £4., cost double. Motor, 80s., &c. BRITISH Co., 457, High-road, Tottenham.

WANTED, to Purchase, Good Living Waggon (one horse preferred). Must be cheap. Send full particulars. CRAGG, 216, Hainton-avenue, Grimsby.

WANTED, to Purchase, any Novelty, Joint, new or secondhand, for Fair Grounds, must be money-takers. S. TOMPKIN, 202, Waterloo-road, Blackpool.

SKATING WANTEDS.

WANTED, Change, by Floor Manager and Lady Instructress, at present working one of the largest Rinks in Provinces, own Waltzes, own Two-Steps; something new, good Exhibition Skaters. For photos and references apply TAYLOR, 118, Pilton-lane, Halifax.

WANTED, Position as Floor-Manager or Instructor, good references, newspaper reports for Exhibitions. Write H. G. MARTIN, 2, Drill-st., Keighley.

WANTED, Skating Rinks, commencing Nov.; must be in large towns. Apply, with particulars, to Box 7,789, "The Era."

WANTED TO SELL.

WANTED, to Sell, Modern Fireproof Theatre, in prosperous Midland town. For full particulars write Box 7,798, "The Era."

WANTED, to Sell, for Electric or Picture Theatre, in Edinburgh, First-class Premises, best attractive position for business; present hall seats about 600, which, with little alteration, could be much increased.

Address, No. 222, KEITH and Co., Advertising Agents, 43, George-street, Edinburgh.

WANTED, to Sell, Portable Electric Light Plant, suitable Bioscope Hall. ARTHUR CARLTON, Theatre, Worcester.

WANTED, to Sell, Marquee, 55ft. by 35ft.; Wooden Stage, 35ft. by 12ft, 19ft. high; Footlights (electric); Fly Batten; New Scenery; New Pit Seating, part upholstered; Bioscope Box (regulation); Pay Box. JACK HARRIS, Hippodrome, Dewsbury.

WANTED, to Sell, Several Fine Panto. Productions; or would Let on a Percentage of the Receipts. ARTHUR CARLTON, Theatre, Worcester.

WANTED, to Sell, a Large Quantity of Theatrical Scenery and Properties. Apply, ORMESHER'S, Duke-street, Stockport.

WANTED, to Sell, Films, cheap, and Films for Hire, up-to-date. THE BENDON TRADING Co., 75, Jamaica-st., Glasgow

WANTED, to Sell, Films. Excellent subjects from 2s. 6d. each, by Leading Makers. Lists free. REED, 20, Belgrave-terrace, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

FILMS FOR SALE.
WANTED, to Sell, King's Funeral, various lengths and makers, ½d. per foot. Also Incidents, Proclamation, and this year's Derby, all very cheap.

Apply, RUFFELL'S BIOSCOPE, 12, Little Newport-street.

WANTED, to Sell, Buckingham Palace and George V. Proclamation Film, Warwick, 340ft., ½d. foot, excellent quality. MILSOM, Victoria Hall, Cowes.

WANTED, to Sell, splendid pictures of Lying in State and Funeral Processions, by Barker, Jury, Warwick, Gaumont, Pathé, and other leading firms, various lengths, 2d. per foot. Wire, POOLE, Palace, Gloucester.

WANTED, to Sell, Warwick Film of King's Funeral, crossing Oxford-st., and St. George's Chapel, Windsor; also Lying in State, Buckingham Palace. Condition good as new, 30s. MANAGER, Granville, Walham Green.

WANTED, to Sell, Gaumont's Film, King Edward's Funeral (London and Windsor), 1,010ft., £3 10s., dispatch Saturday night. DAVIS, Tredegar Hall, Newport.

WANTED, to Sell, Film, King's Funeral, 600ft., condition as new. Can be dispatched to-night (Saturday). Wire or write best offers to MANAGER, Picturedrome, Bradford.

WANTED, to Sell, Film, Wednesday's Derby; can be despatched to-night. Wire best offer, MANAGER, Picturedrome.

WANTED, to Sell, Isler's Patent Registering Turnstile, nearly new, great bargain, £4.17.6. JUSTIN, 23, Severn-avenue, Weston-super-Mare.

WANTED, to Sell, a 90ft. by 45ft. White Tent Top, as used for tenting Pierrots last year. Seen at Fleetwood. Price £20. JOHN WALTERS, 2, Exchange-street, Blackpool.

WANTED, to Sell, New Illusions, Devant's Educated Gold Fish, Leroy's Floating and Vanishing Lady, Defying the Budget. Empty Cabinet Changes to Saloon Bar with Barmaid &c. PROFESSOR, 10, Crieff-road, Wandsworth.

WANTED, to Sell, 95 Full Military Band Army Journals, Boosey, Chappell; £16 the lot. BANDMASTER, 74, Florence-road, Brighton.

WANTED, to Sell, Smart and Original Comedy Sketch, £1 1s.; also gent's evening dress, excellent condition, 5ft. 10½in., 17/6. JAMES, 10, Elfort-road, Highbury, N.

WANTED TO BUY.

WANTED, to Buy, Theatre or Fully Licensed Hall, in Provinces, on Long Lease, or will purchase Freehold. Must bear strict investigation. Principals or solicitors only need write, giving full particulars in first instance to Box 7,804, "The Era."

WANTED, a cheap Fit-up, about 18ft. opening, 18ft. depth, 14ft. from back to front, with Act Drop, Garden Set, and Box Chamber Set, Front Street Cloth and Front Landscape Cloth; 100 Tip-up Chairs, and Tip-up Forms, to seat about 500 (state length of forms); also Artists for June, July, and August, double turns preferred. Apply, THE SECRETARY, The Garw Valley Roller Skating and Amusements Company, Limited, Pontycymmer.

WANTED, to Purchase, good "Babes in the Wood" Pantomime for Next Season's Production at Large Theatre. Must be in first-class condition, or of no use. State size of cloths and flats, number of costumes, and give full particulars to Box 7,787, "The Era."

WANTED, a really fine well-painted Oak Chamber Set and Illuminated Landscape Cloth, suitable for West End Production; must be in good condition. Box 7,797, "The Era."

WANTED, to Purchase, a good Football Dog. Apply, DRAYCOTT, 25, Vernon-terrace, Longlane, East Finchley.

WANTED, for Stage use, a large Electrolier. Lowest cash price to A. R. FEATHER, The Depository, Cazneau-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, Copy, Words, and Music of Song or Duet, "Lady Hummingtop," from Musical Comedy, "Gay Mephisto." Write, MEGSON, 15, Eade-road, Finsbury Park, London.

WANTED TO LET OR HIRE.

WANTED, to Let, Alhambra Music Hall and Alexandra Hotel, Sandgate, Folkestone. Fully licensed. The only Establishment of its kind in population of 55,000. ALFRED J. BURROWS, Auctioneer, Ashford, Kent.

WANTED, to Let, Dates in June and onwards, Bycullah Athenæum, Enfield, any kind entertainment, Scenery, Electric Lighting. MANAGER.

WANTED, to Let, during Vacation, Picture Palace, suitable for Exhibition, Bazaars, or Concert Party, in a thickly populated district of South Wales, seating 1,000. Apply, A. SMITH, Post Office, Cardiff.

WANTED, to Let, Large Hall and Balconies in crowded thoroughfare, principal street in Brighton. Apply, 47, Havelock-road, Hastings.

WANTED, Known, Films for Hire, from 15s. per 1,000ft. per week. Send for new lists. Bargain Films, Accessories. Cut Prices. Cross's Imperial Pictures, 12, Macclesfield-st., W. Ger. 9844.

WANTED TO LET OR HIRE.

WANTED, in Town or Country, Halls or Sites, suitable for Cinematograph Shows or Roller Skating. Letters only. M. W. SHANLY, 33, King Henry's-road, South Hampstead, N.W.

WANTED, Cinematograph Theatres or Halls, suitable for Cinematograph Show, for one week during Summer Months, with or without staff. Apply, stating full particulars as to position, seating capacity, terms, &c., immediately. Box 7,811 "The Era."

PARTNERS WANTED.

HIGH-CLASS ALFRESCO PAVILION, South of England. Now in its Second Season.
WANTED, Known, the Proprietor, having other interests to attend to, is prepared to entertain PARTNERSHIP in the above.
Only principals dealt with. Bank references exchanged. Apply by letter to CHARLES KNOWLES, 36, Upper Marylebone-street, London, W.

WANTED, Working Partner, with £150, to take half share in London Production, Tour booked at best Dramatic Theatres. Advertiser will invest same amount, only cannot travel with company.
Apply, with banker's reference in first instance, Box 7,792, "The Era."

WANTED, Smart, Clever, Pretty Comedienne, with Small Capital, to join Comedian, with own Act, on Halls.
Address, Box 7,805, "The Era."

MISCELLANEOUS.

TWENTY WORDS, ONE SHILLING. Each Additional Six Words, Sixpence.

WANTED, Known, Fred Karno's Theatrical Factory and Cartage Stores, 28, Vaughan-road, Camberwell, S.E. All kinds of Scenery, Properties, Costumes, and Electrical Effects made and supplied; Sketches and Models free. The Scenic Factory is equipped with full-sized Paint-Frames, capable of carrying any size Cloth. The Scenic Stores are large, lofty, and dry.
Estimates for Storage given on application. Every Description of Theatrical Cartage (day or night) on most reasonable terms. Omnibuses, Broughams, Lorries, and Motors on Hire. Contracts wanted for above. Telephone 3550 and 3551 Hop. Telegrams, "Karno, Camberwell, London."

WANTED, Known, F. G. Wright, Gymnastic Apparatus Maker, Electrical Engineer, and Theatrical Blacksmith. 66 and 68, Kennington-road, S.E.

WANTED, Known, C. Kinch, Gymnastic Apparatus Maker, Theatrical and General Blacksmith, 17, St. Mary-sq., Kennington-rd., S.E. Large Hall for Practice.

WANTED, Known, for Ventriloquial and Marionette Figures and Specialities, LE MARE and SON, 79, Burlington-st., Oxford-road, Manchester.

WANTED, Known, Pictorial Postcards reproduced from your own Photograph, 250 for 8s., 1000 for 16s. SENIOR & Co., Cotham-hill, Bristol.

WANTED, every Member of the Profession to go to LYNN and HARDING, If you wish to place Songs, Plays, Sketches, &c., or to Purchase Songs, Plays, Sketches, &c.

This quarter's Clients for whom we have done business include:—
Messrs. Herbert Fordwych, Mark Melford, John S. Egan, Max Cardiff, H. E. Garden, R. Findlay, B. Beir, W. Hart, Bert Cramer, A. Harding, A. Lewis, T. Dalrymple, Robert Ayrton, A. Jennings, A. Wyndham, A. Mitchell, The Misses D'Alroy, Milner Rowna, Noel, Kersey, Carroll, Mignonne, &c., &c.

WANTED, Artists to write for Free Samples. Memos. from 1s. 100, two colours; Cards, Envelopes, &c. Mention paper. ARTISTIC PRINTING Co., Forest Hill, London, S.E.

WANTED, Known, Band Parts, Orchestral, Military, neatly, legibly scored by experienced arranger; a speciality. HIRST, 56, Chestnut-street, Southport.

WANTED, Known, Melodies Composed and Arranged. Band-books supplied. Sample 9 stamps. FOX and SON, 134, Queen's Park-road, Brighton.

Bogus Managers.
WANTED, Known, Members of the Actors' Association are invited to consult the Secretary before signing Agreements. Members wishing the Council of the Actors' Association to recover Unpaid Salary would greatly assist by not allowing arrears to accumulate. 32, Regent-street, Piccadilly Circus. The Council regret they cannot utilise the Funds of the Association for non-members.

PEOPLE'S PICTURE PALACE, HOLLOWAY HALL.
Proprietor, F. R. GRIFFITHS; Manager, J. PALMER.
WANTED, Known, the Artists, Band, and Staff wish to thank F. R. Griffiths for his kindness in paying salaries in full during the time the hall was closed owing to the death of His Majesty King Edward VII.

WANTED, Information of the present Addresses of Robert Brunton, Scenic Artist, last heard of at Winnipeg, Manitoba; and Frederick Brunton, sometime employed as a ship's steward between London and Cape Town.
R. S. GORDON, Solicitor, 462, Paisley-road, Glasgow.

WANTED, Address of Edwin Palmer Gee. Address, Box 7,790, "The Era."

WANTED, Reg Amber to wire address at once to EDWARD MARRIS, Opera House, Jersey.

WANTED, Known, E. Leon (Stumps) still alive. All coms., 205, Victoria-st., Westminster. Do not forget me.

WANTED, Known, Large Rehearsal Room, Ground Floor, separate entrance; one minute Kennington-road Baths; good piano; 6d. hour. F. CAVILL, Spread Eagle, Lambeth-road, S.E.

WANTED, Tenders, for rebuilding Hippodrome, Ton-y-Pandy, on present site, must be up-to-date and movable structure.

Applications to be made at once to W. THOMAS, Proprietor, Pandy Hotel, Ton-y-Pandy.

WHAT DO YOU WANT?
If it is Artistes or Engagements, Scenery or Properties, Baggage Collected or Delivered, To Buy, Sell, or Hire Wardrobe, Scripts, Parts or Letters Typed, a Permanent Address for Redespatching Letters—in fact, if you are in any Doubt or Difficulty, and want to save yourself Time and Trouble, Ring up
Gerrard 3714,
THE UNIVERSAL THEATRICAL BUREAU,
49, Bedford Street, Strand, W.C.
Telegrams—"UTRIBURO, LONDON."

WE WILL FIND IT!!!

C. G. SPENCER and SONS,
56a, Highbury Grove, London, N.
Manufacturers of Airships, Aeroplanes, Balloons and Parachutes, Captive Advertising Balloons, and Small Toy Balloons. Price Lists or Quotations 1 Stamp.
SPENCER BROS., LTD.,
45b, Aberdeen Park, Highbury, N.,
Aeronauts to the Crystal Palace, &c.
Balloon Ascents, Parachute Descents, Captive Balloons, Airship Flights.
Terms upon application.
Telegrams, "Aeronaut, London." 'Phone, 1295 Dalston.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Robert Arthur Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—Women and Wine is being played here by Mr. J. Forbes-Knowles and his talented company. Mr. J. Forbes-Knowles scores a distinct success as Dick Seymour; Miss Nellie Shirley acts the part of Marcel with seductive charm; Miss Violet Lytton represents Mary Andrews with sweetness; and Mr. Richard Nugent as Professor Sawter, Mr. Harry Momber as Charles Sawter, and Miss Winifred Wellard as Janet Marlow play their parts with brightness.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Percy H. Gallagher.—Mr. Will Lytton and company present here a clever comedy sketch, entitled Sergeant Longfellow; the Pasquali Brothers give a remarkable exhibition of acrobatic agility; Bertha Stuart sings some pretty Scotch character songs with consummate skill; Mr. Alec Lawson as the "filleted dancer" is happily original and varied in his methods; the Three Phydoras present an interesting act; Vi Laurie dances and sings with graceful ability; and Natalia and Diana perform gymnastic feats with refreshing zeal.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Draycott have been here with The Ticket-of-Leave Man. Mr. Charles Draycott gives a fresh and manly rendering of Robert Brierley; Mr. Clinton Baddeley is thoroughly convincing as James Dalton; Mr. George Stell sustains the part of Hawshaw with credit; and Mr. Joseph Magrath as Melter Moss is remarkably good. Mr. Theo Balfour is sufficiently dignified as Mr. Gibson; Mr. St. John Stuart is capital as Green Jones; and Miss Nana Flemsburg is much in evidence as Sam Willoughby. Mrs. Charles Draycott interprets May Edwards in sympathetic and captivating fashion; Miss Issa Steel is a graceful and pleasing Emily St. Evremond; and Miss Louise Millward is adequate as Mrs. Willoughby. The performance was repeated on Tuesday. The Colleen Bawn was given on Wednesday and Thursday.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Accrington Hippodrome Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—Jake Friedman and his powerful company in Happy Holland are proving a draw here; the Rizarelis, in a marvellous trapeze act, win much applause; and the Soho Trio, with capital songs and clever dances, are deservedly popular. The Three Comedy Chanters find much favour; and the Recar Trio are charming lady gymnasts. Vincent, acrobatic table expert, does a daring performance; and Miss Lena Verdi is an entertaining mimic.

ALDERSHOT.—ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jack Gladwin.—The chief item of an excellent programme is Percy Honri, in the musical fantasy Concordia, the features of which are the scenic effects, the concertina solos by Mr. Honri, and the clever contributions of some twenty or thirty artists. The Musical Bentleys are a great success in a novel musical mélange; the Borella Brothers are clever gymnasts; the Four May Girls are entertaining vocalists and dancers; Stuart and Evans are big favourites as cross-talkers; Andrews and Thompson do well in a vocal gipsy scene, The Rube and the Romany; and Harry Tomps, eccentric comedian, also provides amusement. Mlle. Quetta Papucci's columbine dancing as the fairy in the musical fantasy is both graceful and charming.

WIDE WORLD PICTURES.—Proprietors, Messrs. J. Golder and B. Sloman.—A fine programme of pictures is shown here.

ASHINGTON.—BUFFALO PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. J. and E. Lamb; Manager, Mr. W. P. Carr.—Zasma, the gentleman gymnast, gives a capital turn; Capt. Fox, ventriloquist, is popular with his audience; and the pictures are fine.

PAVILION PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. McGraw and Weallans; Manager, Mr. Joe Curry.—The Acmes, in their speciality turn, are particularly good; U. R. Owen, musical entertainer, is very well received; Mr. Dan Ashton appears in his collier song and story; and the pictures are good.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill, jun.—Mr. Will Casey's company is here with An Unwedded Wife. Miss Chrissie Dunbar sustains the title-part with considerable pathos and feeling. Effective interpretation is given by Mr. E. St. Clair Forbes to Philip Blackstone; Mr. L. Ernest wins favour as John Hawthorne; Mr. Will Casey as Napoleon B. Boomer keeps things lively; Mr. Arthur Cleeves wins the good opinion of audiences with excellent work conscientiously done; Miss Ethel Spense as Elsie Langham portrays very cleverly the darker shades of the female character; and Miss Annie Mitchell makes a comical Carraway Crumpet. Little Doris Sorsby is good as the child Reggie.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Jesse Burslem.—The leading turn here is Ada Pagini, the Italian Court violinist, who played a concerto by Max Brach and other classical selections with extraordinary facility of execution. The other artists of a good "variety" programme are a couple of expert comedy acrobats, Pichel and Scale; Butt and Ward, duettists; the Three Favourites, who give harmonious vocal "specialities"; Penstone and San-Go, speciality artists; the Seven Wulfrunas, comedy acrobats, in Fun in a Café; Sullivan and Edwards, excellent comedians; Syd Gorti and Miss Lucky Law in the novel sketch Jack's Mother; and Tom East and Stella West in a vocal sketch and patter act.

THE NEW PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech; Assistant-Manager, Mr. E. A. Sims.—A very good selection of pictures, historical and otherwise, is shown here.

THE ODDFELLOWS' HALL.—Lessees, the Ashton Entertainments Syndicate; Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Marks.—Excellent support is given to the best procurable of animated photography. The artists are Miss Eva Nelson (contralto vocalist) and Walter and Eva Grey in Sharps and Flats.

THE PICTUREDROME.—Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros.; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Leckie.—Good work in the sphere of photographic art is still exhibited here by the cinematograph bioscope.

BACUP.—COURT THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. Jno. Walters.—A comedian of originality and ability is Tom Hulme, who tops the bill. Mr. Tom Lewis sings in a very pleasing manner; Elsie Kesward is an exceptionally clever dancer; and Dan Belmore is a capable descriptive vocalist. A number of pictures are shown. Friday was set apart for the benefit of Mr. Tom Hulme.

BARNSLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. A. C. Mitchell.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's company, in The Wrecker of Men, pays a return visit with a specially selected company which includes Miss Ruth Zillwood, a powerful Risca Mallinson.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Smithson.—The programme here includes the Juggling McBans, who give a wonderful performance; King Luis and partner present an acrobatic turn of good quality; Ruby and Laws have a refined vocal and comedy act; Mme. D'Aubyn reappears, and is well received; the Zanfrellas, the American novelty equilibrists, give us something out of the ordinary; Peter Shannon has a smart show; the Three Royal Temples, in an operatic turn, are good; and the Palacescope presents good pictures.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Miss Winifred Chalmers' company in Miss Plaster of Paris is here. Mr. Charles Tolcher is a capital Numbskull Nubbs and Mr. Leslie Hawkins plays the nephew well; Mr. Harry Ed. Ray is an amusing Alexander; Miss Winifred Chalmers a clever Medea Hamilton; and Miss Celestine Brandon an attractive Eliza Plaster.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—The Will o' the Wisps, under the direction of Mr. L. Sherrington Chinn, continue their charming entertainment here.

TIVOLI.—Lessee, Signor R. Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Wood.—Chief among the pleasing items of the programme is Miss Lucy Gillette, who gives a decidedly clever juggling performance; Gillin has a smart ventriloquial entertainment; W. G. Webber renders his songs in artistic style; Albert C. Penrose, comedian, Albert Letin, the illustrious dame, Rose and Jeanette, song and dance artists, and Vernon's Bioscope also contribute.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. C. Routledge.—The Fred Newman British Empire Picture and Variety Company continue to enjoy immense popularity here. Lovers of pictures are well catered for, and the varieties are always of the best.

BARRY DOCK.—PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brogden.—At the above popular house Phil Rees' Stable Lads are loudly applauded for a very interesting entertainment.

BATH.—PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—Mr. Jules Simpson, the manager pro tem., has another good all-round programme. Barrington, a unique pianoforte performer, and Ruth Molloy, an expert mimic of "stars," receive cordial recognition for their clever work; Arthur F. Ward, hoop juggler and eccentric dancer, displays wonderful skill. An ovation is accorded Little Georgie Harris; and another juvenile of promising talent is Gladys Wyse, her dancing being extremely neat. The simultaneous dancing of the Rosses wins them a well-deserved recall. Return engagements are being paid by the Miltons, skating comedians; and the Bartholomew Girls, in song and dance. The pictures conclude.

ELECTRIC THEATRE.—The Funeral Procession of His Late Majesty and The Race for the Derby are still the leading films here.

ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Manager, Mr. W. Lawson Howes.—Mr. Ralph Pringle is fulfilling an engagement here with pictures.

SYDNEY GARDENS.—The third week of the season finds Mr. Oscar Mills' Les Militaires Costume Concert Party in possession of the Cosy Corner stage, and their efforts to amuse are appreciated.

BELFAST.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Salmond.—Monday commenced the fourth week of the revival season here, when, under the direction of Mr. Matthew H. Glenville and Mr. Fred Osmond, the Anglo-Russian drama, The Woman from Russia, was produced. Chief honours were achieved by Miss Hettie Zillwood, who, as Wanda, the woman from Russia, gained a noteworthy success, her acting throughout being worthy of high praise. Mr. Reginald T. Fox furnished a capital impersonation of Frank Haldane, and no less successful was Mr. Frank Sutherland as Reggie Fitzgerald, the other war correspondent. Mr. Charles H. Gallier appeared in the difficult rôle of Ezra Caroni, the Hebrew, with credit to himself, and Mr. Fred Osmond was inimitable as Jerry Moriarity. Mr. R. H. MacCandless was good as Sergeant Petroff, and the rôle of Captain Yarviski could not be in better hands than those of Mr. Albert Guyon. Mr. Robert Mann appeared as Wun-Hi, and the part of Edith Haldane was capably sustained by Miss Margaret R. Frame. Miss Lilian Malvern appeared to advantage as Mary Ann Smith, and the cast was completed by Mr. Lewis Gordon, who interpreted the rôle of James Haldane.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred Willmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The inimitable Scotch comedian, Mr. Harry Lauder, tops the bill here, and on Monday drew enormous crowds. Kremka Bros., comedy acrobats, are successful, and Pyck, Tholl, and Taylor appear to advantage in their capital act The Dancing Master. Perrier is an exceedingly smart ventriloquist, and Miss Lil Hartley, vocalist and comedienne, is loudly and deservedly applauded. Recco, burlesque acrobat, is certainly most amusing, and Selby and Myers furnish a good exhibition of the terpsichorean art. The Hipposcope, with some capital films, completes.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. C. Laidler.—The leading feature here is supplied by Miss Alice Raymond and company in a novel musical production, A Night in Egypt. Spry and Monti are paying a return visit, and their comedy act, The Song-writer and the Soubrette, is unquestionably mirth-provoking. Emma Don and company appear in her vocal scena On the Thames Embankment. The entire performance is one of the hits of the programme. The acrobatic act of the Jackley Trio is first class, and Miss Edna Deno is aptly described as a dainty comedienne and dancer. The fine voice of Miss Mina Denville, ballad vocalist, is worthy of much commendation; and also on the programme are Mr. Tom Moore, character vocalist and dancer, and the Bioscope.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Will White.—Among the many beautiful pictures exhibited here may be mentioned The Irish Boy, The Right Decision, and Spike's Last Bottle. The vaudeville element is sustained by Mr. R. C. Note, a clever vocal comedian, with good songs and a voice to sing them, and Mills and Warlock, capital comedians and dancers.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL.—General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Rogers.—Some interesting films have been shown here, including Twelfth Night, Brothers, The Little Foundling and The Tramp's Story. Mr Phil Lester, musical speciality artist, appears at each performance, and his reception has been gratifying.

PRINCESS PICTURE PALACE.—General-Manager, Captain T. A. Blake.—This latest picture palace here continues to command immense patronage in this highly-populous district. This week some attractive pictures have been exhibited, including The Girl and the Fugitive, The Burglar and Little Phyllis, and A Duel in Mid-air. Miss Rita O'Neill, a chorus songstress of much ability and charm, gains deserved encores nightly.

BILSTON.—ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Edwin C. Jazon; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Tunstall.—An attractive bill of fare includes Relwyskow, champion light-weight wrestler; the Brentwoods, comedy entertainers; Lily Gold, comedienne and dancer; and George Barr, comedian. Pictures are projected by the Hippograph.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Herbert M. King.—Mr. Frank Lindo's company is playing twice nightly Home, Sweet Home. Mr. Lindo is conspicuous with a fine rendering of Stephen Armitage; and Miss Marion Wakeford is equally prominent with a clever portrayal of Joan. Miss Helen Thompson is successful as Sybil Fay; Mr. Bert Dench is a commendable Hon. Percy; and Mr. Harry Belford, Mr. Norton Shields, Mr. Sidney Dench, and Mr. Leonard Lawrence are all good in their respective impersonations. On Friday David Garrick, with Mr. Lindo in the title-rôle, was announced for that gentleman's benefit.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Keating.—Mr. George Formby is appearing here with his customary success, as also are Carter Livesey and Lillian Rosebery in their amusing sketch Would-be Actors. Miss Ella Shields is an accomplished comedienne; and a fine company also includes the Alberto troupe of equilibrists; the Brothers Ford, vocalists and dancers; Welda and Wynne, comedy jugglers; Victor Kelly (assisted by Miss Agnes), a versatile comedian; Frank Harwood, light comedian; Geo. S. Melvin, Scotch comedian; the Sisters St. Julien, duettists and dancers; and Brown's Royal Bioscope.

HIPPODROME.—Director of Entertainments, Mr. Will Sley; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Weston.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's A Sister's Sin company is doing well here. Miss Edie Macklin as Floss Perks displays emotional power of a high order; Miss Mabel Scudamore is an excellent Minnie Hastings; and a strong combination includes Miss Cissie St. Elmo, Messrs. J. Dobson Clyde, Sidney Piennes, Will Hee, Ernest Frere, Harry Lyndon, and J. Russell Bogue.

WINTER GARDENS, ROCK FERRY.—General-Managers, Messrs. B. Alandale and L. Blattner; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry A. Dooley.—Mr. Sydney James's company of Royal Strolling Players, under the direction of Mr. G. Fernie, is the attraction.

BIRMINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davies; General-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—The promenade concerts will conclude this week, and next week will be devoted to the production of The Heiress by local amateurs, after which the theatre will be closed for the summer vacation.

PRINCE OF WALES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnstone.—Closed for summer vacation. During the next three weeks the theatre will be occupied by the controllers of a missionary exhibition, which is being held in the Bingley Hall, adjoining.

ALEXANDRA.—Proprietor, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. T. Guest.—An exciting drama, entitled The Heathen and the Christian, dealing chiefly with adventures in the East, is scoring a big success this week. Mr. Frank Adair's No. 1 company is responsible for the drama, Mr. Adair displaying remarkable ability as Li, the Avenger. To Miss Louie Adair is entrusted the exacting character of Mira Sampson, but she always maintains the high-water mark; Mr. Gerald Shirley creates a good impression as the hero, Lieut. Lord Allendale; and Miss Stanley Bart is well chosen as May Beresford. Miss Eva Reid is a big favourite as a lovesick slavey; and credit is also due to Mr. Chas. Luck, Mr. Gerald Turner, Mr. R. Payne, and Mr. Fred Waring.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward.—The drama As Midnight Chimes is given an adequate representation at the hands of a clever company, and the two performances each evening are appreciated by full houses. The story is of a thrilling nature, and the attention of the audience is fully occupied; Mr. Joseph Millane, in the character of Luke Dezzard, the smuggler, provides a clever study; and Mr. George Gainsford is popular in the part of the hero, Dave Stannard. Miss Blanche St. Albans earns praise for careful acting as Mary Stannard; and the other principal rôles are well sustained by Mr. J. T. Ellis, Mr. Percy Boacher, and Miss Ella Wilmer.

METROPOLE.—Proprietor, Mr. Andrew Melville; Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—The theatre is crowded each evening by audiences who wax enthusiastic over a series of four productions by Mrs. John Lawson and company. This is Mrs. Lawson's first appearance in Birmingham, and she makes an excellent impression. She is equally at home in the characters of Hazel Grove in Sally in Our Alley, Fay Faber in The Devil's Sunday, Silvester Valmore in The Woman and the Apple, and Lil Latimer in Supremacy. Mr. H. E. Herbert, Mr. Cohen Owen, Miss Cissie Williams, Mr. Herbert Gee, and Mr. Boon St. Joseph are also prominent. Pleasant interludes are provided by Miss Camilla Feo, comedienne, Jack and Willie, equilibrists, and Miss Mildred Gibbs, soprano.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis M. Chapman.—The 10.30 Down Express is proving attractive. The drama is presented by Mr. Horace Stanley and company, Mr. Stanley giving a creditable portrayal as Sam Wagstaffe; Miss Kate Kilpack acts with vivacity in her old rôle as Peggy Potts; Mr. T. Arthur Plummer is clever as Jack O'Malley; Mr. George Arthur scores as James Inderwick; and the other characters are capably represented.

CARLTON THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—The Carlton Dramatic Company are adding still further to their laurels this week by a successful production of The Shaughraun. The popular Irish drama has splendid drawing powers, and the story is followed with close interest. Mr. Haldane Dalton is frequently applauded for a clever study as Conn; and Miss Nellie Thorn Hallam does full justice to the character of Claire Ffolliott. Mr. Victor Gardom as Corry Kinchela, the leading spirit of the "Moonlighters," gives a good account of himself. Miss Yoxa Summers is popular as Arte O'Neal; Mr. Norman Tracy makes a good impression as Captain Molineux.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Williams.—A programme of all-round excellence is greatly enjoyed by crowded audiences. Chung Ling Soo's entertainment is among the brightest and most mystifying of its kind. Mr. Hubert Carter acts delightfully in a David Garrick sketch; the Gothams sing in perfect harmony, and their mimicry of various musical instruments is particularly good; Roze and Calvert give a lively burlesque of a novel and versatile description; May Mars sings with her usual power and attractiveness; the Sisters Tower are graceful dancers; Little Keeno is brimful of humour; and Devon and Earle are expert clog-dancers.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Foster; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Lucas.—R. G. Knowles, the famous American comedian and raconteur, heads the bill, and the general verdict is that he is better than ever. In lively manner he relates new stories and sings humorous songs; a delightful "drawing-room act" is that of Jessie Broughton and Dennis Creedon; John Humphries creates roars of laughter in his farce, entitled Ancient Britons; the Marconis give a wonderful exhibition of the power of electricity; the Kirbys are expert funmakers; Walter Munroe is an up-to-date Irish comedian who dances cleverly; Cressie Leonard is a pleasing comedienne; and Jock Mills sings comic songs in Scottish dialect.

GAIETY.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—At the head of a good all-round programme is the popular American humorist, Mr. Caryl Wilbur, in 91, Prospect-street. The sketch is skilfully handled and provokes wholesome laughter. Mr. George Grenville takes a prominent place in his burlesque, entitled The Disappointed Spinster; and Mr. G. W. Blythe presents "The Toilers," an attractive vocal scena, in which two popular young ladies score a great hit. Waldo and Wade provide plenty of humour in At the Party; the Zaid Trio of gymnasts perform difficult feats; the Spanish Moors are a clever combination; Harry Zetter makes an excellent impression, and the turns of George Cassell and Madge Beresford also win appreciation.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Barrasford's, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. P. D. Elbourne.—Joe Peterman and Geo. Ricketts have a great reception in their bright musical comedy sketch, The Belle of the Orient. Mr. Ricketts plays a leading part as Ike Novinski, and has the support of a capable company. Tiny and Mite, a pair of dainty young artists, who have lately come well to the front, are enthusiastically applauded in songs and dances; Keeley Brothers are a clever combination of American ball-punchers and acrobats; Mr. C. amuses in song and story; Maud Courtney is a pleasing comedienne; the Two Lillys are smart head and hand balancers; Young and Evans are amusing Hebrew comedians; the Scottish Meisters are popular; and A. Lennard is a bright comedienne.

ASTON HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Aston Hippodrome, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. T. H. Middleton.—The Cattaneo company of acrobats head an attractive programme in a comedy sketch that keeps audiences in a merry humour; Lily Lonsdale's sweet soprano voice is heard to advantage in two songs, for which recalls are demanded; Ike and Will Scott excel in song and patter; Little Lady Betty proves a charming singer and dancer; E. J. Sheldon, comedian, has a flattering reception; Eadie and Ramsden are as delightful as ever in their absurdities; Ernie Myers is a popular patter comedian; Vera Mayne sings effectively; and the Hipposcope pictures are interesting.

CURZON HALL.—Lessee, Mr. Waller Jeffs.—The Barber of Seville is the title of a new picture that splendidly illustrates the humorous opera of that name. Amongst a long list of other good subjects are The Birth of a Big Gun, An Original Revenge, A Broken Friendship, and The Plot that Failed. Mr. Frank Clark, the popular baritone vocalist, concludes a successful engagement this week.

KING'S HALL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. J. P. Moore and B. Kennedy.—An Aviator's Romance is a topical subject that proves very popular, and Lieutenant Rose and the Spy is an exciting military subject. The reappearance of Pongo, the flying monkey, is a big attraction, and audiences are delighted with the daring way in which he planes round the stage in a miniature Blériot machine. Fern and Wallace also contribute an enjoyable vaudeville turn.

BISHOP AUCKLAND.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Hippodrome (Bishop Auckland), Ltd.; Managing-Director, Signor Pepi.—Holt's Juvenile Follies in songs and dances are particularly smart; Mr. Will Douglas's troupe of Five Jolly Bakers are entertaining; Waul Langtry is a clever comedian; and Rene gives her juggling performance in a charming manner. Roy Beavis (conjurer), the Lovelaces and the Belmoir Sisters (comediennes and dancers) are very successful; and the Hipposcope shows the Derby (1910).

EDEN THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. Huntley.—All the films are very enjoyable, especially The Last Deal, How Life Changes, and Why Girls Leave Home.

BLACKPOOL.—HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Mr. Ernest E. Norris and company are extending their visit here, and this week they are attracting good houses with Dr. Wake's Patient. Mr. Norris presents a careful study of Dr. Wake, whilst Miss Gladwys Faunce is again seen to great advantage in the title-rôle. A very fine sketch indeed is Mr. Fred A. Marston's assumption of Andrew Wake, and Miss Una Erle is good as Mrs. Wake. The other parts are also ably portrayed.

GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. George H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Harrop.—The Mummy and the Humming Bird is being capitally played here this week by Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart and company. Mr. Stewart plays Lord Lumley with striking success, and Miss Bruce Joy does every justice to the difficult rôle of Lady Lumley. Mr. Lewin Mannering as Signor D'Orelli, Mr. Charles Grove as Guiseppe, and Mr. Percy Marmont as Lord Ronalds also play their parts with credit and distinction.

PALACE.—General Manager, Mr. George H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—Frank and Jen Latona deservedly top a big bill here this week. Marcel and Boris are a couple of extraordinary equilibrists; Arthur Aiston is a capital comedian; Mr. and Mrs. Jordon Wilde present their shadowgraphy act; Stene Bartle is an expert concertina soloist; Flor Parkinson is an engaging comedian; John Kurkamp contributes a vocal scena; Talbot and Price appear with success in a Japanese musical dialogue; and Godfrey Price presents an impressive song-scena, entitled The Trumpeter.

BLYTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—Miss Mary Austin and Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds, supported by a very capable company, have paid a successful visit with The King's Romance. Mr. Edmonds in the rôle of Prince Andreas submits an artistic performance; Miss Austin as Vera Navairre makes a pleasing impression; and the remaining members of the cast leave nothing to be desired.

THE pictures at West's Palace and the Hippodrome have met with liberal patronage.

BOOTLE.—WINTER GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale; Joint-Managers, Mr. Ludwig Blattner and Mr. Bobbie Allandale; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Wellings.—Kit Keen, an ideal coon, makes an excellent impression here; an interesting item is that contributed by Baddow, whose ventriloquial entertainment is very popular. Others who appeared were Mr. Pavanto, a favourite comedian; Zettmah, a clever Chinese illusionist; Mr. Wilfred Burnand, character impressionist; Mr. H. Neill, basso; and Miss Decima Troughton, soprano.

BOSCOMBE.—HIPPODROME, LTD.—Joint Managing-Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. H. Burdett.—The Ten Genis, in their daring and novel act, give a clever exhibition; Lily Burnand, the lively burlesque actress, is much appreciated in her latest successes; the Four Vagabonds are a smart quartette of harmonious comedians; Billy Howard and Katherine Harris are paying another visit with The Adventures of a Happy Tramp, which is full of mirth; George Campbell, patter comedian, is well received; and Nellie Lunelle, comedienne and dancer, is successful, as also is Tom Franks, ventriloquist. Up-to-date Hippo pictures conclude.

BOURNEMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietors, David Allen and Sons; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Hubert Dunbar.—Mr. Harry W. Lumley is presenting The Cruise of the Constance. Charles McNaughton as Potts, the steward, keeps the house amused with his clever antics, songs, and dances; Miss Irene Verona as Mrs. Hope is quite delightful; Mr. Fredk. Hobbs, the Lieut. Wensleydale, R.N., has a fine voice, and contributes some excellent songs; Miss Ruby Vyvyan is a clever actress, and gives a finished performance of Clements, the maid; and Mr. Lockwood Philpot gives a complete study of Mr. Hardy, the thieving secretary. Other parts capably filled are those by Mr. Albert Kavanagh as Capt. Jackson, by Miss Carlotto Sylvano as Miss Isobel, and by Mr. Tom Prentice as the café proprietor.

BRADFORD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—A return visit of Are You a Mason? forms the attraction here. For the laughter Mr. Howard L. Tracey as Frank Perry and Mr. William Lockhart as Amos Bloodgood are, in the main, responsible. Miss Agnes Maude is good as the exacting Mrs. Caroline Bloodgood; and in winsome manner Miss Grace Denbeigh Russell, Miss Rennie de L'Estrade, and Miss Claire Townshend fill the parts of her daughters. Mr. Archie Selwyn as George Fisher, Mr. E. J. Hinge as John Halton, Mr. Gordon Blyth as Ernest Morrison, and Mr. Stanley Arthur as Hamilton Travers are largely instrumental in keeping the fun going; and the other characters are well filled. Mr. A. MacNin's comedietta My Lady Help forms an excellent curtain-raiser.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Councillor F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. M. Hamilton.—Mr. H. Armitage presents for the first time here this week Mr. Vincent Brown's emotional play The Greater Love, which is admirably staged. Mr. Campbell Goldsmid's acting as the self-sacrificing Paul Penfold was full of power; and Mr. William Clayton naturally portrayed the strong character of Jack May. Miss Marion Fawcett was convincing in the part of Mrs. May; and Mr. Algernon J. Hicks was excellent as the bluff Andrew Isted.

THE EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. J. Kelly.—The Carmos present here this week a distinctly original performance as equilibrists and jugglers; and J. W. Wilson and Nellie Waring, American humorists, elicit laughter with their clever and bustling entertainment. Harry Herbert is a very quaint comedian; there is plenty of fun in the absurdity On the Track, presented by the comedian Harry Roxbury as Archibald Longfellow, and he is well supported; Holden's cleverly manipulated mannikins are a great source of amusement; Chas. J. Johnson, coloured comedian, Conan and Doyle, comedians and dancers, Nellie Farrell, Irish singer and dancer, and Alice Maydue, comedienne, complete the company; and fine films of the Welsh-McFarland fight are shown by the Bioscope.

THE PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. E. Harrison.—Miss Mary Mayfren's company is presenting here J. G. Brandon's sketch The Yellow Fang with much success; and the cinematograph is employed in dramatically portraying The Martyrdom of the Falsely Imprisoned Adolf Beck. The Brothers Hannaway, comedians and dancers, are entertaining, and so are Milner and Story; in comedy duologue Reed and Stevens are good; Jeannie Haven, with her picture songs, is pleasing; Harold Heath submits an acceptable "coon" song and dance; Leolin (juggler) displays rare skill as a club swinger; and Harry Keeble, who completes the excellent company, gives a clever ventriloquial turn.

BRIDLINGTON.—ROYAL PRINCE'S PARADE.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—Mr. Harold Montague and his talented company of "Vagabond Players" commenced their engagement in the Grand Pavilion on Monday evening before a crowded audience. Miss Gwen Lewis, Miss Winifred Kaye, and Miss Belle Green were warmly applauded for their various items; Mr. Leslie Burgess, Mr. Will Tomlin, and Mr. Arthur Thomas very quickly established themselves in favour; and Mr. Harold Montague's humorous efforts kept the house in a continuous state of hilarity. The vocalist at Mr. Norfolk Megone's Promenade Con-

On their garments not a blemish,
But fresher than before.—The Tempest.

CLEAN UP FOR YOUR

AUTUMN TOURS.

By special arrangement

TOURING MANAGERS CAN HAVE THEIR WARDROBES CLEANED BETWEEN SHOWS WHEN IN OR NEAR LONDON

by the

CHEMICAL CLEANING & DYEING CO.,

T. HARRIS, Manager.

ORIGINAL THEATRICAL CLEANERS & DYERS.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS.

"27, Moore Street, Lennox Gardens, S.W., May 22nd, 1910.

Mr. HARRIS,—I am very much obliged to you for the prompt way in which you attended to my request, and also for the very satisfactory way in which the things were dyed.—Yours faithfully (Signed) ENID SPENCER-BRUNTON."

"45, Green Road, Southsea, Hants, May 18th, 1910.

Dear Mr. HARRIS,—Thanks so much for taking the trouble to do a little order like this so quickly for me.—Faithfully yours, STUART ALEXANDER."

"Royal Aquarium Theatre, Great Yarmouth, May 26th, 1910.

Dear Mr. HARRIS,—Goods just received; am delighted with them. Very many thanks. Kind regards.—Yours faithfully, J. W. CORDINER."

For further particulars apply to

6, ARGYLL STREET, REGENT STREET, W.

Telephone: Gerrard 1911 (2 lines). Telegrams: "CLEANING, LONDON."

certs in the Floral Pavilion this week is Miss Phyllis Archibald, a lady with a contralto voice of good quality.

NEW SPA GARDENS AND OPERA HOUSE.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. R. C. Luxton.—The Gaieties conclude their engagement here this week, and their entertainments are still drawing big houses. Miss Ruby Wilson is a charming comedienne; Miss Gertrude Hart is a pleasing soprano; Mr. Frederick Gregory possesses an effective baritone voice; Mr. Bert Meredith as a banjoist is remarkably clever, and his humorous songs are appreciated; Mr. Harry Hudson's songs at the piano and also his solos on that instrument are artistically rendered; and Mr. Wilson James, the director of the Gaieties, keeps the house heartily amused with his exquisite humour.

BRIGHOUSE.—ALBERT THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Albert Theatre Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Joseph Midgley.—Mr. Joseph Midgley and Co. have rented this popular playhouse for a few weeks to produce high-class vaudeville. A good programme is given this week. Miss Collerton is very popular as a ballad vocalist; Reparation, a dramatic sketch, is well acted by Mr. Vayne and a lady; Jack Lacey as a light comedian gains much applause; Miss Francis Mayne is a clever comedienne; Mons. G. Dollin is a capital mimic; Cliffe and Vanstan are a smart couple; and there are some good pictures on the Bioscope.

BRIGHTON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Ernest Gates; General Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—The drama A London Actress is attracting good houses here this week. Mr. F. E. Petley achieves great success with his thoroughly artistic enactment of Sergeant-Major Clive Crawford; Miss Lucy Murray merits unstinted praise for her treatment of the title-rôle; Mr. Austen Milroy gives an excellent portrayal of Lieut. Ned Kingston; Mr. Jack G. Maine is admirably suited as Captain Mannering, R.N.; Mr. Fred Acton is seen to great advantage as Moses Mendoza; and Mr. Tom E. Sinclair is a pleasing Pat Maloney.

ALHAMBRA.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Alfred Smith; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Smith.—J. H. Milburn, comedian, secures the heartiest of applause for his amusing contributions; the Six Frolics sing and dance themselves into high favour; Melton and Horton are clever horizontal bar artists; Gus Brown's eccentric dancing is warmly appreciated; Elliott and Warne are effective in comedy and dancing; Jenny Moss is a refined comedienne; Will Sullivan, comedian, sings his songs in capital style; the Sisters Harcourt are charming singers and dancers; the Fontellas are well received in their speciality wire act; and the Alhambra Picturegraph is interesting.

BARRASFORD'S HIPPODROME.—Resident Manager, Mr. Bertram J. Brown.—George Robey, who is enthusiastically received, keeps the house rippling with laughter with his latest successes; the Rangers are clever trick and comedy cyclists; Harry Nelson is a very droll comedian; La Belle Nello submits a graceful acrobatic performance in her bathing scena; Henri Helme is an accomplished French baritone; Rastus and Banks are capital coloured entertainers; Harry Rogerson is distinctly effective as a tired comedian and tumbler; the Markies, vocalists and novelty instrumentalists, are cordially received; the Floradora Girls are dainty vocalists and dancers; Charles Stevens, the convivial comedian, is diverting; and the Goodlow Trio are able novelty acrobats.

WEST PIER.—Secretary, Mr. A. W. Scholey.—Mr. Arthur Leigh's company is here this week with Lucky Durham. Mr. Edmund Kennedy repeats his well-known and masterly impersonation of John Durham; Mr. William Calvert achieves great success as Lord Mountfallon; Mr. Arthur Leigh submits a clever and amusing enactment of the Hon. Reginald Steighton; Mr. Charles Wemyss acquits himself admirably as Mr. Vallerton; Miss Florence Tressilian makes a graceful and charming Helen Vallerton; Miss Nellie Bonsor gives a delightful embodiment of the warm-hearted Mrs. Durham; and others meriting praise include Miss Dorothy Turner and Miss Frances Wolviston.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Jay and Man; Resident Manager, Mr. Wilfred H. Kent.—Animated pictures are the attraction here this week. Barbarine, a stirring drama, is submitted with great realism; Logging in the Cumberland Mountains, United States, is admirably depicted; An Affair of Honour is strongly dramatic; Quick Changes, The Sculptor's Easy Task, The 'Tec's Dream, and False Friar are amusing; and The Derby of 1910 is interesting and exciting.

COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. M. Barrasford; Manager, Mr. F. J. Thompson.—An excellent series of animated pictures is exhibited here this week. Isis, the Moon Goddess, conveys a fine drama; and A Noble Sacrifice and The Customs Officer's Dog are also of a dramatic character. The Derby of 1910 and Scenes in the Life of the late King Edward VII. are admirably descriptive films. Much fun is afforded by Calino's Dinner Party, The Smoker, The 'Tec's Dream, His Last Dollar, and A Pennyworth of Potatoes. Mr. Ostand Denner contributes baritone songs in good style and with rich tone; and a word of praise is due to Mr. Arthur W. Briggs for his appropriate pianoforte accompaniments to the pictures.

THEATRE DE LUXE.—Proprietors, Electric Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. H. Cousens.—Good houses still patronise the animated pictures exhibited here. Dramatic incidents are depicted by A Mother's Gratitude and Hearts are Trumps. Hearty laughter is evoked by Mr. Poorluck Gets Married and An Unhappy Soldier Boy. From Marseilles to Sunny Algeria is highly picturesque; The History of Butterfly is instructive; The Derby of 1910 is interesting; and the retention in the series of King Edward VII.'s Funeral Processions in London and Windsor adds considerably to the attractiveness of the programme.

BRISTOL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mrs. Emma Carpenter; Manager, Mr. Henry C. Alty.—Messrs. Fox and Leonard's company is here with Greed of Gold. The play is well staged, the real working model of a beam engine in the first act adding much to the realistic effect. Mr. B. M. Fox acts excellently as Tom Welstead; Miss Mabel Phillips displays much ability in her fine impersonation of Dora Hood; Mr. Scott Leighton acts effectively as Harry Hood; Mr. Herbert Leonards and Miss Violet Leyton are amusing in the comic parts of Con Creamer and Patty Mayfield; and other important parts are capitally taken by Miss Nora Bedford, Mr. Alf Edwards, Master Bernard Fox, Mr. Allan Gordon, and Mr. G. Newell.

PALACE.—Local Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Assistant-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Ellaline Terriss and her company are here with their amusing musical sketch, The Pink of Perfection. Miss Terriss has a very cordial reception at each performance, and the amusing little Scottish play is capitally performed, well staged, and fully appreciated. Vardon, Perry, and Wilber entertain with their latest American singing and dancing novelty; Charles Collette and Joan Derry amuse with their farcical duologue Pyjamas; Mlle. Eldee (the girl in the golden frame) successfully presents some pretty poses; Edie Reynolds charms with her violin solos; Ryan and Hall do a smart act as comedy acrobats and wrestlers; George James, comedian, is appreciated; Will E. Stopit, comedian and eccentric dancer, does a good turn; and interesting pictures conclude.

INVALUABLE FOR THE COMPLEXION.—LAIT-LAROLA is delightfully COOLING and REFRESHING during the SUMMER after MOTORING, GOLFING, CYCLING, TENNIS, &c. The daily use of "Lait-Larola" effectually prevents all Roughness, Redness, Heat, and Irritation, and gives a resisting power to the skin surface in changeable weather. Gentlemen will find it wonderfully soothing if applied after shaving. Bottles, 1s. and 2s. 6d. each, of all chemists and stores.—M. BEETHAM and SON, Cheltenham.—[ADVT.]

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—La Milo is here with her living statuary, which is confined to strictly classical subjects, and is most artistic. Edouard Jose, French character actor, presents his English version of The Strike, the sketch being staged effectively, and M. Jose acting in clever and natural style. The Sarnthaler Troupe of Tyrolean singers and dancers obtain much applause; Amy Clevere is a pleasing comedienne; the Schafer Four entertain with their musical act and comedy; the Violet-Shelley Trio amuse with their sketch, The Ideal Woman; Charles Santon, male soprano, obtains considerable appreciation; and Snowball and Dolia entertain with eccentric dancing and comedy. A fine set of films representing the Derby is shown.

COLSTON HALL.—Mr. Ralph Pringle's animated pictures are here for a third week, and are well patronised. Numerous excellent pictures, both serious and amusing, are included in the entertainment, which closes to-day (Saturday). The Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and other members of the Corporation attended last week.

BURNLEY.—VICTORIA OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Animated pictures are a great attraction, and are welcomed by good audiences. In addition to films of topical interest, there are shown a number of very fine dramatic subjects and a series of comic items, which are thoroughly enjoyed.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—The Six Brothers Luck are occupying first place with their extremely laughable sketches Liftems, Limited and The Demon of the Cellar. Both items are very well mounted, and the fun is kept merrily going. The Carina Sisters give a refined and pleasing turn with violin, flute, and piano selections; as acrobats the Adras Brothers are well in the front rank; and Mark Anthony is applauded for song and patter; whilst Colin Carlisle proves an excellent light comedian. The Claymere Trio are very good in club throwing; and the Empire Theatrescope illustrates Trained Birds and The Up-to-Date Imps.

PALACE THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident Manager, Mr. J. R. Badcoe.—Remarkable interest is evinced here in Dr. Wilmar's spirit paintings, which are shown and explained by Mr. P. T. Selbit. Fred Maitland and company, in Roots, Rash Chemists, provoke roars of laughter; and John Macaulay sings "To-morrow will be Friday" in rich style; Madison and Webb are funny in the sketch My Husband; and Cassie Walmer pleases with songs. Peter Birmingham has good Scotch patter, the Palace pictures show House Repairs.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. de Hague Body.—The variety programme submitted here this week is headed by the Tan-Kwai Troupe of Chinese jugglers, contortionists, and conjurers; Lucia Collins submits some of her late mother's répertoire in good style; the Baynhams cause roars of laughter in their comedy musical act; the Dancing Paseys, in speciality dancing, are much above the average; Mr. Chas. See, comedian, also does well. The Davies-Gledhill Trio, with their motor sensation, were unfortunately out of the bill through an accident. The Operascope is still giving much pleasure.

CAMBRIDGE.—NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—Messrs. Silvanus, Dauncey, and Browning's company opened on Monday night with Dolly Reforming Herself. Mr. Ethelbert Edwards's Harry Telfer was extremely good; Dolly was cleverly and prettily played by Miss Dorothy Giles; Mr. Cyril Brooking as Matthew Barron was excellent; a praiseworthy performance of the part of Lucas Wentworth was given by Mr. Hanworth Browning; Mr. Russell Barry was amusing as Professor Sturgess; and Mr. Arthur Vezin as the Rev. Filcher was also very good. Miss Florence Stevenson as Mrs. Sturgess was all that could be wished.

CANTERBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. G. Falcon.—Mr. James Stephens and his répertoire company occupy the boards. On Monday and Wednesday evenings The Golden Chance was admirably enacted. Mr. Stephens made a typical Isaac Shelberg, the moneylender; and Mr. James Hart was a capital Arthur Hastings. The Stephen Clinton of Mr. J. G. Miller was another excellent portrayal. Mr. Roote as Sam Brown and Miss Lucie Victor as Susan caused considerable merriment; and Miss Louise Cooper as Viva Zac, the ballet dancer, was another strong impersonation, Miss Ruby Lee ably sustaining the part of Lydia Hastings. For Tuesday evening H. J. Byron's masterpiece, Our Boys, was performed, and the house fully attested its appreciation. The Perkyn Middlewick of Mr. Stephens was an irreproachable enactment; and the Sir Geoffrey Champneys of Mr. J. M. Miller was greatly enjoyed. Talboy Champneys and Charles Middlewick, as impersonated by the Messrs. James Hart and R. Ellis, were a source of endless mirth, and they worked splendidly with the ladies, Miss Lucie Victor enacting Mary Melrose very sweetly; while the Violet Melrose of Miss Ruby Lee was equally successful. Miss Louise Cooper as Clarissa Champneys was a well studied presentation; and Belinda receives an admirable reading at the hands of Miss Vivianne Douglas.

CARDIFF.—NEW THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—Sir Herbert Tree and His Majesty's Theatre company are appearing in an extensive répertoire. The Merchant of Venice was put forward on Monday and Tuesday, when large and fashionable audiences filled the theatre to accord a truly Welsh reception to the distinguished actor. Sir Herbert's impersonation of Shylock is admitted to be one of the finest delineations in which he has yet been seen in this district, and the applause which greeted the final fall of the curtain was enthusiastic and continuous. Miss Evelyn D'Alroy as Portia submitted a portrayal which won the admiration of the thousands privileged to witness her sweet rendition. Mr. Arthur Wortner distinguished himself as Bassanio, making an ideal lover. Antonio was enacted by Mr. Henry Morrell with histrionic skill, and Lorenzo was portrayed by Mr. Shiel Barry with exceptional ability. Miss Hilda Moore was a strikingly handsome exponent of Jessica; Miss Gladys Harvey as Nerissa was particularly successful; and Mr. Henry C. Hewitt as Gratiano and Mr. Edward Sass as the Duke of Venice both gave talented performances. The staging of the piece was elaborate, and the dresses are beautiful in the extreme. In the répertoire of the week are included The O'Flynn, Trilby, and The Man Who Was.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Taylor.—Miss Ada Reeve is proving an attraction, the famous comedienne presenting several of her most entertaining songs in a manner and style positively irresistible. Jack Pleasants appears in a couple of humorous items, and Harry Lamore, the versatile comedy entertainer, proves equally diverting. Tom Davis's Trio of Motorists are undeniably sensational, their mid-air act being simply marvellous. La Freya's artistic visions are beautiful studies; the Royal Delomes present their novel dancing speciality, entitled The Phantom Clogs, with much success; Lily Flexmore displays remarkable powers of contortionism; and Luis Alvarez obtains hearty applause for his pleasant tenor vocal number. The Bioscope concludes a capital programme. Miss Esta Stella is billed this week, but on Monday night was unable to appear through indisposition.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will A. Jackson.—At the head of a strong and varied programme this week is Florrie Forde, a great Cardiff Palace favourite, who has been delighting crowded houses with her latest successes, which never fail to draw audiences who love a catchy chorus. John R. Poodle presents the Cairo Trio in a really talented musical speciality performance. As a comedian Josh Dixon causes continuous laughter; Zellini, described as a comedy juggler, proves both clever and humorous; Harry Martell is a smart wooden shoe dancer; Norah Desmond, in pleasing picture songs, obtains considerable approbation; and Clarke and Mostol, rare comedians and expert dancers, and the Perfection pictures complete a most interesting entertainment.

CARLISLE.—H.M. THEATRE.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. S. M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—Mr. Edmund Tearle reproduces some of the most popular plays in his répertoire this week, commencing with Ingomar the Barbarian. In this Mr. Tearle again appeared in the title-rôle, and his powerful impersonation of this fine character was much admired. Miss Kate Clinton was not a whit less successful as Parthenia, acting throughout with an artistic appreciation of a by no means easy part. Mr. Ernest Lodge, Mr. Stuart Black, Mr. Samuel Seldet, Miss Ray Parry, Miss Mary Campbell contributed sound support. Richard III., The Shadows of a Great City, East Lynne, and a benefit performance in aid of the Infirmary are also on the week's bill.

THE PALACE.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. D. Askew.—Carlton is the centre of attraction this week, and proves himself a wonderfully versatile and clever entertainer. His card manipulation and sleight-of-hand tricks are novel, amazing, and amusing. In a knockabout sketch entitled "The Circus" he contributes a really funny portrait of a showman; and "The Mysterious Cross" is distinctly sensational and very cleverly worked. The Belmonts are two smart lady dancers; and Bert Crosbie sings comic songs in capital style. A fine gymnastic act by the Fitzroys meets with warm recognition; Joe Belmont is a whistler above the ordinary; and May Knight, vocalist, is also quite successful.

CASTLEFORD.—QUEEN'S THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Charles H. Beanland and Will H. Emerson.—The Cedrics keep the audience in a state of merriment by means of some clever acting and amusing patter. A decided hit is made by Vela, who displays much suppleness, and provokes loud applause for his laughable business on the slack wire. Animated pictures by the Loyal Dominion Co. still find high favour.

CHATHAM.—BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—Here we have Fred Shurley; the Ludo Quartette, in a popular turn; the Melbournes, in a well-liked comedy act; Lee and Bentley, who score a hit in their playlet The King's Counsel; Walker and Lake, in a highly amusing travesty on phrenology; Fred Hastings, a comedian whose "Good-bye, Jack" pleases immensely; Julia Kent and company, who present in capital style a costume comedy sketch entitled Pistols for Three, Miss Kent making a pleasing Lady Doris, Mr. Charles Horner a powerful Nicholas Roach, and Mr. William Manning an amusing Codlin. Pictures by Lacey's Erascope form an excellent termination to an attractive programme.

CHELTENHAM.—MONTPELLIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. Alfred W. Newton.—Charley Harvey's vaudeville company provides a capital entertainment. Mr. Harvey's drolleries are irresistible; and Mr. Dave Laird plays up to his chief in capital style. A funny interlude, Count Popitoff, as played by these gentlemen, causes much amusement; Mr. Laird has an excellent baritone voice, and makes good use of it; Mr. Bert Tay is a quaint comedian; Mr. Dave Jenkins sings some excellent baritone songs; Miss Nora Lloyd sings contralto ballads with much feeling; and Mr. James A. Lowe's pianoforte solos are much enjoyed.

POOLE'S PICTURE PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. B. Shinton.—A third series of funeral pictures are showing, supported by Miss Molly Gwynne's illustrated songs and the Vocophone.

CHESTER.—ROYALTY THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—A potent attraction is the first appearance in Chester of Reano and his famous Band, whose masterly rendering of inspiring and vigorous music is much appreciated by a bumper house. Fox and Melville are tuneful and clever song illustrators; Harry Friskey gives a unique display of American comedy juggling; and the Tennessee Coloured Guards present a well-acted military skit entitled Camp Life. Barney Murphy shines as a comedian, and provokes much mirth with his funny little dance. A taking and original turn is the Croisit Trio, billed as French acrobats. Vernon's Imperial Bioscope, with up-to-date films, concludes.

CHORLTON-CUM-HARDY.—THEATRE AND WINTER GARDENS, LTD.—Proprietors, The Charlton Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Walter Stott.—On Monday Mr. Edgar Cook's "Ideal Entertainers" presented an enjoyable programme. Mr. Arthur Owen sang "The Bandolero" and other popular songs; Mr. G. E. Ford made his dog Prince perform wonderful tricks; Sinclair was the exponent of a clever marionette act; Mr. Sam Johns delivered some racy patter; Mr. Edgar Cook mystified by neat conjuring tricks; Miss Bessie Burdon sang baritone songs pleasantly; and Miss Olive Dent charmed by her dainty dancing.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Graham Macdona.—Mr. Leslie Stanley's company in the musical absurdity The King of Mystonia, is here for six nights. Mr. Charlie Towers is hugely funny as the porter of the hotel; Mr. Tom Ashby as Peter Pip dances in good style; Mr. Tom Lyle sings well as Frank Warrington; Miss May Warden as Estulah is very good; and Miss Vere does well as Trixey Sherlock. Miss Kitty Vernum makes a capable Violet. The Rialto Trio of lady dancers are immensely liked.

HIPPODROME.—Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—La Pia, the Enchantress, tops the bill this week. Victor Newman is seen to advantage in a number of famous characters; Richard Wally contributes a fine series of juggling feats; Ian Colquhoun, the popular baritone, excels in his Irish melodies; Geo. Rapley, comedian, is exceedingly racy; Ciss and Will, juvenile artists, perform cleverly; and Ethel May also appears.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. R. J. Bell.—Mr. J. E. Watson's company is here in A Country Mouse. Miss Evelyn Ormonde as Angela Muir acts in charming and captivating manner; as Lady Sylvia Bowlby Miss Madeline du Val fills the rôle with much success; and Miss Elswick as Violet Aynsley is excellent. Mr. W. Besley Beltram's comic representation of the Duke of St. Kitts arouses continued merriment; the amorous Lord Robert Wyckham of Mr. J. Poole Kirkwood and the Hon. Archibald Wyse of Mr. Frank Bradley fit well into the picture. Mr. J. E. Watson as the Butler is satisfactory; Mr. Townsend Whitling as John Bowlby, M.P., Mr. Dudley Walton as the servant, and Miss Phyllis Manners as Mrs. Croppy ably sustain their characters. The piece was preceded by Judged by Appearances, in which Miss Elswick and Messrs. Bradley and Whitling took part. The New Boy was also in the bill.

COVENTRY.—THE OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—Her Life in London, by Arthur Shirley, is at the above house this week. The capable company is under the direction of Mr. Stanley Carlton. Miss Ruble Maude proves a charming and capable actress as Astra Bell, an orphan; Mr. Stanley Carlton is seen to advantage as a young clergyman; Mr. Claude Aymond does good work as Gratton Gale, the blind burglar; and other characters are well presented.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. S. T. Newsome; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. E. Wright.—Albert Whelan, the Australian entertainer, provides half an hour's amusing entertainment. Tom Taylor and company give a farcical comedy entitled Ain't that a Leak, 'Erb? I'm Sure! or The Plumbers. This farce keeps the house in convulsions. The world-renowned Cumberlands give a wonderful acrobatic cycle display; Griff, the jesting juggler, assisted by his son George, gives a bright entertainment; Jennie Johns, comedienne, submits a bright turn; Moon and Morris do some good dancing; and other artists are Ena Correlli, speciality dancer, and Master Harry Clarke, juvenile comedian. Pictures finish.

CROYDON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Alexander Watson; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest Archer.—A vaudeville entertainment is being given here by Messrs. Percy Cahill, Reginald Adair, Jack Gray, Leonard Stanton, Clement Locknane, and Misses Gladys Carlton and Gloria Egmont. The programme includes Jury's Bioscope and the one-act musical comedy The Capture of Venus. Mr. Percy Cahill makes a whimsical Mr. Jolliboy, Mr. Reginald Adair is good as Mars; Mr. Jack Gray is well placed as Neptune; and Miss Gloria Egmont is a charming Venus.

EMPIRE PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace Jay.—Fred Karno's clever company is causing a big sensation here in the sketch R.M.S. Wontdetania, the scenic effects being worthy of special mention. Harry Cotton is a humorous comedian; Martin Henderson, blind instrumentalist, is well received; Mabel Mignon is a neat comedienne and dancer; Will Johnson is a droll comedian; Bonnie Goodwin's Apollo Piccaninnies are untiring dancers; the Brothers Brooks, comedy entertainers, are always cordially greeted in Croydon; David Poole is a smart ventriloquist; Phil Percival, comedian, is up to the mark; and other items are the Bioscope and Evelyn Taylor.

DARLINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Bell.—For the summer stock season dramatic and comedy sketches with variety and living pictures will be the fare here. On Monday, to a crowded house, a sketch entitled A Devil's Dupe was played by Mr. William Heilbron as Count Ferrara, Mr. Arthur Dudley as Gussie Leigh, and Miss Cissie Podmore as Mabel Merton. It was well received. A comedy sketch, Up the Pole, was also produced by the same company. A series of pictures were shown during the evening. The Auxeto played selections by H.M. Coldstream Guards.

HIPPODROME THEATRES, LTD. — Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert E. Nicholls.—At the head of an attractive bill here is Miss Lottie Lennox. The Three Prestons give a novel act, entitled The Village of Shift-'em; the Almars are clever hand balancers; Arthur Lewis is an expert dancer; Percy Dalton is a smart comedian and dancer; and other turns include Sisters Henderson, vocalists; Venie Clements, refined comedienne; and the Hipposcope pictures.

DARWEN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. F. R. Griffiths; General-Manager, Mr. D. P. Cooper; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Sutcliffe.—The Melburns create roars of laughter in their comedy sketch; Barney Stuart, actor-vocalist and mimic, is also successful; some good clog dancing is provided by T. Brindle; and the usual high-class films are shown on the Bioscope.

ALBERT HALL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Holden.—Films include Combat Between Buffaloes, An Eye for an Eye, and By the Mill Stream. Vennie Veldon supplies good buck and sand dancing and Will Willis, comedian, makes a hit.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Owner and Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley.—Foremost on an excellent bill are O'Hana San and company, whose scena, A Vision of Japan, replete with dainty songs and dances, would certainly be hard to beat in point of spectacular magnificence; Silbon's cats are a group of highly-trained animals, and their tricks are performed in a most intelligent manner; the Crown Trio, as part-singers, are in every way pleasing; the Lafaille Troupe's clever feats are generously applauded; the Two Mackays take the house by storm; Jack Hayton is a comedian with a quaint style; Lily Eyton, comedienne, sings pretty melodies; and Blair and Allen intersperse their songs with some very neat clog dancing. The Bioscope, with its film The Funeral Procession of King Edward VII., is an outstanding feature.

PALACE.—Sole Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Moyes.—Mr. W. Graham Arthur's company are here this week with a drama entitled The Mockery of Marriage. The piece is an exciting one, and is being cordially received. As the villain Sir Montagu Jephson Mr. Graham Arthur works well, and acquits himself successfully all through, while Alva, his deserted wife, is eminently well accounted for by Miss Mabel Elliott; Mr. Norman D. Cannon as the hero Ned Stanley gives a manly impersonation; and Miss C. Middleton is a charming Rose Verham. Messrs. Jos. Barker and Lowe Mackenzie do well as Joseph Verham and Seth Pearce, while the comedy is capably represented by Miss Ada Band and Mr. David Phillips as Mary Ann Barnicoat and Toby Wright respectively. Minor characters are also well sustained.

DEVONPORT.—HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. G. Prance.—The Seven Bramusas are responsible for some brilliant brass instrument playing, two juvenile specialists receiving prolonged applause for their clever contributions; Maude Mortimer scores with three captivatingly rendered songs possessing tuneful and catchy refrains, which are soon taken up by all parts; Marie Dreams, a young lady with a baritone voice, provides a highly interesting vocal number; Elmo and Rego are responsible for some skilfully executed knockabout business; Yost and York have an entertaining military scena; R. H. Douglass is an interesting monologue artist, and Tiny Arnold has a flattering reception.

METROPOLE.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—Mother and Home, from the pen of the manager, is again staged here. We had an opportunity of commenting on the piece a short time since, and the company—practically the same as formerly—does full justice to the overflowing amount of sensation and comedy in which the play abounds.

DEWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Herbert Asquith.—Messrs. Silverstone and Wright's company is playing The Nihilist here twice nightly. Mr. Geo. Mitchell plays the part of Ivan Nowasky, the blacksmith, in a manly style; the villainy of Prince Alexander is fully illustrated by Mr. O. Silverstone; Mr. C. Newton Buckland gives a good portrayal of Piertree Petroff; Alexina Orloff is effectively played by Miss Edna Clare; Miss Florry Kelsey deserves praise for her excellent depiction of Princess Olga; Mrs. Cowell Clarke is well placed as Karl Orloff; and Mr. J. Brunelle Harvey does well as Father Gourko. The comedy element is in the able hands of Mr. Henry Wright as Bobby Smart and Mrs. O. Silverstone as Katrina.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. G. W. and G. E. Smith; Manager, Mr. Claude Shayler.—At the head of the bill here is Kartelli, who gives a remarkable exhibition of walking and cycling on the wire; The El Tampicos prove a big success in an elaborate musical and vocal scena; Tom Gott, the Yorkshire comedian, evokes roars of laughter with his quaint singing and patter; Hattie Petro and Pete Leon, simultaneous gymnasts, get through a lot of clever work on the rings and trapeze; Watson and McQue are well received for their singing, patter, and excellent dancing; White and Emilie introduce some good singing and dancing; Ida Dorrie is a captivating comedienne; Jules Kiaro is a clever equilibrist; and the singing of Dan Conroy is appreciated.

INDUSTRIAL HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. A. and H. Andrews; Resident-Manager, Mr. B. J. Christian.—The animated pictures here continue to attract large houses. The illustrated vocal items and the Travel series of pictures are much appreciated.

DINNINGTON (Yorks).—LYRIC THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Jas. England.—The Scapegrace (John Levey's company) is drawing full houses. The title-rôle is ably filled by Mr. F. H. Cresswell, and Mr. W. A. Buckstone makes an ideal Captain Harry Fanshaw. As the heroine Miss Beatrice Western is sympathetic, and interpreted well a difficult part, whilst Nellie Lambert is seen to advantage as a Red Cross nurse. Miss Maudie Lambert makes an excellent housemaid, full of fun and mischief, and sings and dances in excellent style. Miss Maud Western as Dick establishes herself a favourite. Mr. John Levey plays with considerable power the part of Bill Burke. The villain of the piece is ably portrayed by Mr. J. Willoughby, and the comic element finds a capable exponent in Mr. Larry Clements. The piece is excellently staged.

DOUGLAS.—BUXTON'S AMUSEMENTS.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Fred Buxton.—Mr. Fred Buxton has organised a very artistic and interesting series of pictures in his larger pavilion, and the films interest and amuse large audiences. Mr. F. Buxton's well trained and powerful voice is heard in two captivating songs. Mr. Ernie Famont is a genuine comedian. Roller skating still obtains here twice daily. There is a full band at each session and a clever instructor, Mr. Harold Jones.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Proprietor, Mr. Charles Dare; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Carr.—Admirable pictures are presented. Mr. Neville Landler is an artistic character actor and elocutionist.

OTHER amusements available are The Palace, with dancing, skating, and pictures, and Mr. Charles Dare's White Minstrels on Douglas Head.

DUBLIN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frederick Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Terry.—The Hippodrome season continues here. Mlle. Liane D'Eve, "La Belle Parisienne," in her original chansons and transformations, wins hearty plaudits for her chic and pleasing performances; Mlle. De Verneuil and her Five Posing Ladies present an artistic and clever exhibition of studies; the Tally-Ho Trio are amusing in mirth and harmony; the Wolkowsky Russian Troupe are expert whirlwind dancers and balalaika instrumentalists; Francini-Olloms and Pagò are well applauded for their juggling, acrobatic and comedy tumbling, with musical interpolations on the xylophone and concertina; and Walton and Lester, the World's Worst Wizards, and Marguerite Broadfoote, comedienne, also appear with success.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Hyland.—Mr. Charles Constant's No. 1 company is here in Florodora. Tweedlepunch is in the able hands of Mr. Johnnie Schofield, who makes the house roar with laughter; Mr. Martin D. Pitts sings extremely well as Abercoed; Mr. Stanley White makes the most of Gilfain; Miss Kate Leicester is a most acceptable Lady Holyrood; Miss Daisy Lake acts and sings well as Dolores; and Miss Florence Hersee is most effective as Angela Gilfain.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Marriott-Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Wright.—Mr. James O'Brien and Mr. H. Ireland's company this week is playing Outcasts of Dublin; or, Weeds and Flowers of Erin. Mrs. Glenville is a most amusing Molly Molloy; Mr. W. J. Davis does well as the Policeman; and Mr. James O'Brien excels himself in his humorous reading of Tricky Dicky.

EMPIRE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Assistant-Manager, Mr. George H. Marsh.—Mooney and Holbein, the "advanced vaudevillians," head the bill here, and meet with undoubted success. The Five Delevines in their comedy dancing act "Flipp and Flop" are highly amusing; a charming and graceful exhibition of dancing on the wire is submitted by Mlle. Yetta; Frank and Free, comedy artists, contribute an admirable turn; Neville Delmar, comedian, is going strong; Aida Martine has a host of admirers; Barry Eldon renders his songs in excellent style; Andy Burns, comedian, is also to the fore; and the Empire Pictures are up to date.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Chas. M. Jones; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—The chief items here this week are the Verona Troupe of clever and amusing cyclists, and the Child Trio of juvenile actor musicans. Good turns are added by Zetta Grey and company in their comedy act The Lancashire Lass; Davis and Deane, comedians and shadow dancers; Kitty Kearns, comedienne and dancer; J. W. Gallagher, eccentric comedian; Fenton Cross, speciality entertainer; Tinross, in comedy shadows; and Horace Jones, comedian. The Pictures complete.

WORLD'S FAIR.—Proprietor, Mr. Charles A. James.—This week the company includes Layne and Valroy, comedy duettists; Will Emerson, comedian; Flo Meeson, soubrette; Dan Dalton, eccentric comedian; Gertrude Rowen, comedienne and dancer; Moore and Moore, duettists and dancers.

DUDLEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—There is a complete change of pictures this week, and the many patrons of this house have enjoyed the interesting episodes.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Midland Entertainment Corporation, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Robert Watt.—The fun is fast and furious during Ernest Cadle's production The Battle of Casey's Backyard. Will Murray as Mrs. Casey works very hard; Miss Lil Elfrida, in impersonations of popular artists, is smart; Della and Pley, acrobatic and pugilistic eccentrics, prove a capital turn, as also does Learto, eccentric comedian, with his intelligent little dog Pom Pom; Wat Moore, a clever topical vocalist, has a rousing reception; Flo Warner, comedienne and dancer, scores heavily with catchy songs; and Helen Guest, vocalist, with illuminated picture songs, is much appreciated. Empire pictures complete.

DUNDEE.—KING'S THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Manager, Mr. S. McIntosh.—Topping a bright and entertaining bill are Leslie Brothers in their laughable act Music Mad; McLallen and Carson, in a gorgeously staged roller skating scene entitled The Awakening of Toyland, give a neat and clever display on the rollers; Harriet Rose has a capital budget of chorus songs; Florence Esdaile's cultured voice is heard to advantage in a pleasing medley of operatic gems; the turn of Jack Lane, "The Yorkshire Rustic," constitutes quite an agreeable entertainment; Julian Mack's humour tickles the audience, his jokes being delightfully fresh and witty; the comedy juggling of Newman and Knight is distinctly clever and amusing; and the Kingscope pictures are, as usual, excellent.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Acting-Manager

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Murray King and Clark.—Mr. F. R. Benson's North company is appearing here in a number of Shakespearean plays. On Tuesday evening King Lear was very successfully staged. The conspicuously-successful performance was that of Mr. Henry Herbert as Lear, whose distinct utterance and fine dramatic ability were recognised by an appreciative audience; Mr. Robert Atkins took a good share in the general success by his appealing and able work as the Earl of Gloucester; Mr. H. S. Cohen did admirable duty as Edgar; Mr. Cyril Sworder was an excellent Edmund; Mr. John Cairns a distinct and individual Earl of Kent; and Mr. Andrew Leigh a good Fool. Miss Gladys Vanderzee was a picturesque and gentle Cordelia; and Miss Kate Turner and Miss Lila Barclay shared in the praise as Goneris and Regan.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Mr. W. W. Kelly's company is appearing here very successfully in A Royal Divorce. Mr. Frederick Moyes is always a striking figure and interesting actor as Napoleon; Mr. J. H. Roberts does capital work as Talleyrand; Mr. Charles Stirling is a very earnest and forceful Marquis de Beamont; Mr. Ernest Plumpton is happily placed as Augereau; and Mr. George Hudson gives a clever and effective rendering of the part of Grimaud. Miss Violet Ellicott, prettily womanly and appealing, is a splendid Josephine; Miss Winnie Tempest is an austere and dignified Marie Louise; Miss Dorothy Garth introduces much brightness and fun as Stephanie; Miss Florence Cuddipp and Miss Julia Wren do good duty as Blanche and Angelique; and Miss Dorothy Hudson plays the little King of Rome very prettily.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. F. Woodward.—Heading the bill here is the world's champion of ju-jitsu wrestling, Mr. Tarro Miyake, whose skill, strength, and quickness are nightly shown to many admirers; Miss Rosie Lloyd, bright, animated, and beautifully gowned, sings her songs with her accustomed smartness; Mr. Monty Walker attains the favour of his hearers by his quaint style; Mr. Walter Ellis and company have a very amusing sketch, The Sleepwalker; Mr. Dan Weldon sings with good voice and much feeling; the Lowells have a musical and juggling act which is original and amusing; and Miss Gladys Warren sings and dances well.

ECCLES.—CROWN THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert Rogers.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company is here in Two Little Drummer Boys. Mr. Edward Bikker as General Kingsley is responsible for a realistic delineation; as Captain Frank Carsdale Mr. J. L. Leigh acts with distinction; Mr. Polson Turner as Captain George Darrell is all that could be desired; the humorous element is in the capable hands of Mr. Will Percy and Mr. A. Selwood as Quiney O'Quirk and Timothy Trimmer, and their efforts in this direction are well rewarded; Miss Maggie English and Miss Maudie B. Douglas as the two little drummer boys are excellent; Miss Patricia Connaughton is a dainty Molly Meadows; and Miss Violet Langley as Alma Kingsley acts naturally.

EDINBURGH.—ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Dourie.—Mr. William Mollison's present revival of Rob Roy is a pronounced success at this house. Admirably acted and beautifully staged, the old-time drama still shows signs of enduring popularity. Mr. John Clyde's imposing figure, impressive action, and fine elocution make him an ideal representative of the title-part, and the artistic study of Bailie Nicol Jarvie by Mr. Mollison is worthy to rank amongst the best impersonations of the character. Mr. Seth Hughes's voice in quality and training enables him to give a stirring and sympathetic rendering to the ballads allotted to the rôle of Francis Osbaldistone, and other able vocalists whose singing is of service in the interpolated numbers are Mr. Montague Alliston, a rollicking Major Galbraith, and Miss Eda Bennie as Diana Vernon. Mr. C. Quinton Fullford is a gallant Captain Thornton; and Mr. R. B. Drysdale acts as vigorously as ever as the Dugal Cratur. The broadsword combat between these two players is splendidly done. Miss Evelyn McNay acts with dignity as Helen Macgregor; and the skill of Miss Josephine Woodward imparts more than its customary importance to the character of Jean McAlpine. Mr. Archie W. Chappell is effective as Rashleigh Osbaldistone, and it is refreshing to see such a capable actor as Mr. W. S. Stevenson in the part of Sir Frederick Vernon. Mr. Stevenson gives life to the character, instead of making it a walking automaton. The choruses are capitally sung, and Miss Jeannie Macintyre, who is good as Mattie, renders the solo in "The Tramp Chorus" with force and expression.

KING'S THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Amand Mascard.—At the head of an attractive programme stands Mozetto, whose feats of juggling and sleight of hand are performed with a grace and dexterity which rivets the attention of his audience and ensures prolonged recalls. The Lannons give a remarkable display of pedestal dancing, and, being besides pleasing duettists, their turn is an excellent one. Miss Rena Radford's several songs were greatly enjoyed, her rendering of "Goodbye" and "Killarney" being very acceptable. A farcical interlude entitled The Five Wishes, played in admirable fashion by Mr. Edward Lewis, Miss Laura Leycester, and Miss Lylie Lewis, proved irresistibly amusing, and was heartily applauded; and Miss Nellie Coleman was successful in a number of comedy impersonations; Mr. Mark Leslie supplied a good turn, in which clever grotesque dancing was a special characteristic; Dome, the clay modeller, was also smart and diverting; Mr. W. B. Raby's comedian turn was thoroughly appreciated, as was also the singing of Miss Ruby Norton and Miss Bee Smart; and the bioscope exhibited a series of very fine films illustrating "The Barber of Seville."

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—Mr. Lew Lake presents his new sketch, King Nobbler, this week. The part of Nobbler gives Mr. Lake the opportunity of displaying his undoubted dramatic talent, and he is well supported by the members of his company, the stage management of the auxiliaries being admirable. The xylophone playing of the Five Vernons elicits the enthusiastic applause of the audience. The performers render operatic and popular selections with extreme taste. The Lyric Quartette sing with much expression various numbers, which are illustrated by pretty descriptive films; Mr. Bert Coote and company are entertaining in a brief dramatic sketch, entitled A Lamb on Wall Sreet; and other artists who appear include Mr. Fred Earle, comedian; Miss Annie Fielding and Mr. Bert Hull, in their eccentric sketch, Mixed Bathing; Miss Florence Yaymen, coon caricaturist; and Mr. H. O. Wills. Excellent views of the Derby are shown by the bioscope.

OPERETTA HOUSE.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. J. H. Sanders.—The Prisoner of the Golden Gate, a tale of the days of Louis XI., and Hearts are Trumps, a stirring story of Wild West life, represent, in attention to detail and the representation of dramatic action, the acme of cinematograph photography. The Fearless Sportsman is a film which causes the audience to hold their sides with laughter; and other droll and varied subjects prove how excellently Mr. Sanders caters for the entertainment of his patrons.

PRINGLE'S PICTURE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Edmunds.—Mr. Edmunds has provided a specially attractive programme for this week, in a series of films, entitled Pathé's Daily Journal, which are views by Pathé Frères of striking events in this country and the Continent. A Brother's Devotion and A Girl of the Range are two strong stories, admirably worked out, and the humorous subjects comprise a number of extremely funny incidents. Mr. Jack Linny, Scotch comedian, and Mr. Tony Clifford, mimic, add to the variety and interest of a good all-round bill.

MARINE GARDENS.—Manager, Mr. G. B. Smith.—The main attraction here on Monday was a marriage celebrated in the Somali village, which excited considerable interest. The bridegroom, Oubrai Debate, is twenty years of age, and the bride, Fatima Said, is three years younger; and the ceremony was performed by the chief of the tribe, at whose house a reception was held in the evening, when a purse of sovereigns was presented to the young couple by the manager of the gardens. The band of H.M. Life Guards provide the outdoor music this week, their playing being highly appreciated. Mr. Fred Rome's Comedy company occupy the concert hall with an excellent variety entertainment, in which Mr. Rome himself is conspicuously humorous and diverting. Football and billiard matches have been arranged by way of adding to the allurements of this summer resort.

ELLESMERE PORT.—HIPPODROME AND PICTURE PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Corelli and Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Corelli.—Mr. Coleman Davis and company presented during the first half of the week Beneath the Stars, the remaining portion being devoted to Sherlock Holmes. The leading parts are undertaken by Mr. Coleman Davis, his portrayal of the title-rôle in Sherlock Holmes being worthy of special praise. Messrs. Courtney Robinson, Tom Roydon, Merriman, J. N. Turner, and Misses Florrie Hall, Nora Temple, and Unice Udall, and others appear to great advantage. Up-to-date pictures are thrown upon the screen prior to, and at the conclusion of, each performance.

EXETER.—NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Resident and Acting-Manager, Mr. Frederick Sandy.—Flora Cromer, the popular contralto, heads the bill this week, and proves as attractive and accomplished a vocalist as ever; the De Wynne Brothers appear in a series of difficult athletic feats, which they perform with a maximum of smartness and a minimum of effort; Tom Lloyd renders songs in eccentric manner and wins hearty recognition; Harry Taft is another very popular comedian of original manner and method; an attractive number is provided by the singing and dancing of Flo Cecil; Barney Vox appears in a clever ventriloquial sketch; and Jimmy Shields, the one-legged comedian and dancer, wins much applause.

EXMOUTH.—KING'S HALL.—Leon Vini's Pictures and Variety; Manager, Mr. Aubrey Allen.—An excellent programme is presented here this week by Lydia Neilson's Boys and Girls, who are much appreciated in their clever comedy act; Willie Black, a comedian who calls forth much applause with his comic ditties. Special pictures are The Converts, Count Nomo, Traitor, The Derby, 1910, Cyclist Carabineers, and Halley's Comet. This hall, which has only been opened a few weeks, is transformed into a very pretty house, and is well patronised by Exmouth and surrounding districts.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—The presentation on Monday before a well filled house of the fairy play Alice in Wonderland, by Mr. H. Cecil Beryl's company was cordially welcomed. The play is lavishly mounted and gorgeously dressed, and the acting and singing are of high merit. The most attractive feature of the production is the clever acting and dancing of little Ivy Sawyer, a child actress who wins all hearts as Alice. A good deal of fun is provided by Mr. Dan Leno, jun. as the Caterpillar and the Red King, Mr. Frank Collins as the Mad Hatter; and Messrs. Roland Henry and Tom Graves as Tweedledee and Tweedledum. The Misses Marjory Neville, Phyllis Munro, Doris Kent, and Doreene Lamport are responsible for some excellent dances and Miss Ada Danks sings well as the Lily.

GATESHEAD. — KING'S THEATRE. — Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Local Manager, Mr. Sydney B. Stringer.—The "star" item here this week is a sensational cycling act by Wizard Stone and Irene Stone; Raglus, an accomplished ball manipulator, returns to make a "hit"; the Phœnix Trio are entertaining singers; Edie Veno is an original comedienne; the Calcottis, in a musical act, are pleasing; Leo Fields is a comedian with an original style; and Morimura, Japanese illusionist, and the Kingscope complete the bill.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Dixon.—Mr. Bolam's stock company draws good audiences, The Lights o' London being the play staged this week. Mr. John B. Shinton does well as Harold Armytage; Mr. Stanley Bedwell efficiently portrays Clifford Armytage; Miss Ada Ryder gracefully impersonates Mrs. Armytage; Mr. Bert Atherton as Jarvis makes another hit; Miss Annie Brunnette cleverly depicts Mr. Jarvis and other parts are in excellent hands. Mr. Sydney Rennef is the stage-manager and producer.

GILLINGHAM (Kent).—THE PUBLIC HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. Barnard Bros.; Manager, Mr. Geo. Ridley.—The pictures continue to be highly popular, and Mr. "E" delights. The Evalos give a clever gymnastic and juggling turn, and Clarke and Glenny have a popular comedy sketch.

THE GEM.—Proprietors, The Goodman Entertainments Co.; Manager, Mr. C. Goodman.—The films shown here are attractive and interesting, and good turns are given by Fred Lester (descriptive), George Lane (a good comedian and patterer), and Mabel Barlow (soprano).

GLASGOW.—KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. W. Wyndham and G. T. Minshull; Business-Manager, Mr. Hugh Macfarlane.—Genuine pleasure is derived from the appearance of Mr. Charles Windermere and his company in the comedy Where is William? which is brimming over with amusing situations well brought out by an able company. The part of Sir William Gregory is exceedingly funny and entertaining in the hands of Mr. Charles Windermere; and Mr. Rule Pyott plays with plenty of spirit as the butler, William Jolly. The young lovers, Harry Gregory and Phyllis Patterson, are adequately portrayed by Mr. Robert Urquhart and Miss Clare Manifield; Miss Belle Donaldson makes a p'easing Lady Gregory; and Mr. Leslie Norman acts the pompous General Rubbub in most amusing manner. Misses Zoe Davis and May Roeine, in their portrayals of Eliza and Emily, act in meritorious manner. Small parts are ably played by Mr. Fred Lake and Mr. Albert Plant. The comedy is preceded by a bright little comedietta, Clause No. 6.

METROPOLE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—This week sees the commencement of the annual season of Irish drama at this popular house, and on Monday The Shaughraun was presented in first-class style. Mr. Tyrone Power as Conn, plays the character to the very life; Mr. Fred Lloyd's Captain Molyneux is another particularly good performance; and as Claire Ffolliott Miss Annie Hylton acts with fine spirit. The rôle of Father Dolan suits Mr. Dane Clarke admirably; the young lovers, Robert Ffolliott and Arte O'Neale, are touchingly represented by Mr. Kendrew Wilson and Miss A. Grahame; the Corry Kinchella of Mr. Henry C. Ward is a convincing study; and as Harvey Duff Mr. M. Morley Carroll is also successful. Miss Jessie Glen makes a pleasing Moya; Miss Amy Wood is highly characteristic as Conn's mother; and Mr. Henry Richardson is good as Sergeant Jones.

EMPIRE.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Reynolds.—The top position on the bill is allotted to Dan Lipton's company in the vocal scena Songland, which is excellently staged. Miss Eva Keland renders several songs in capital style, and is ably supported by other members of the company. The Twelve Fezzans (natives of the Sahara) submit an acrobatic exhibition which is well described as wild, weird, and wonderful; W. F. Frame, the great Scotch comedian, is also very successful, his humorous songs being greatly enjoyed; and Woodhouse and Wells, comedians, are undeniably popular. The other members of the company include Luke Russell, the Californian Venus, a smart comedienne; Horace Hunter and company, in an interesting sketch; Harry Blake, comedian; Harry Jobson, operatic black face comedian; and Elsa Brull and A. Hemsley, in Fun in a Music Shop.

PAVILION, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Evan Good; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest R. Foster.—Victoria Monks is always a draw here; Friend and Downing are a couple of comedians with quaint and original ideas; Arthur Aldridge's tenor songs are sung with great taste and feeling; Clara Coverdale's Nine Dainty Dots give a most enjoyable song and dance turn; Mona Vivian again proves herself a dancer of ability, and her imitations are good. Selley, Rhodesia, and West give their combined musical and juggling items, all of which take well; Aggie Nolan sings sweetly and is a neat dancer; Willie Allan, Scotch comedian and eccentric dancer, completes a good bill.

PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Rich. Waldon; General-Manager, Mr. Harry M'Kelvie.—The Royal Banzai Family are Japanese acrobats of great ability and daring; Harriett Vernon is again to the fore, and meets with an excellent reception. Her latest success, "Emblems," she renders in her own inimitable style, and her choruses are heartily taken up. Millie Engler and company, in Beauty and the Burglar, are responsible for much amusement; Miss Louie Tinsley as Polly is capital; Ethel Campbell receives a hearty welcome; the Darntons, duettists and soloists, are possessed of capital voices; Cestria, comedy juggler and acrobatic waiter, is exceptionaly good; Leslie Race sings in capital style; Osborne and Brookes take well in their double musical turn; and Barrie and Wood do excellently. The Palacescope films are, as usual, first rate.

COLISEUM.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd. — Fred Karno's sketch Jimmy the Fearless, with its amusing burlesque of boys' papers and stories of adventures, makes an enjoyable turn here. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lucas take well in their scenes from "Bleak House" and "Pickwick." May Henderson's dusky coon items prove highly popular; Hall and Earle are a very smart couple of acrobatic comedians; Mitchell and Cain, as "The Frenchman and the Other Fellow,' are responsible for a succession of hearty laughs; Roma and Romani's musical items are particularly good; Johnny Walker is a clever eccentric comedian; and a lengthy film of the Welsh v. MacFarland fight evokes a deal of interest.

GAIETY, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Dickinson.—The pictures are of a high standard of excellence. An Indian's Bride and The Flower of the Ranch call for mention, the various scenes and incidents in Indian life being interesting and instructive. In London's Fish Supply we are brought into touch with the numerous organisations at work to cope with the demand for this article of diet. Mr. Jack Ramsay is a clever and capable comedian; Mr. J. H. Maddock's instrumental work is first class.

PANOPTICON.—Proprietor, Mr. A. E. Pickard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Sinclair.—The Waltons' comedy duo, The Irishman and the Maid, is an item well worthy of the support it receives; a good comedienne is Cissie Arris, and her dancing is smart; Wallie McDougal is a Scotch comedian with a pawky style which is effective; the Sisters Sember sing and dance well; and Happy Jolly Jumbo, blind patter comedian, receives merited applause. The Bioscope films are most enjoyable. The audiences have been excellent.

GLOUCESTER. — PALACE. — Messrs. Poole's Theatre, Ltd.).—A new set of the late King Edward's Funeral Procession Pictures are the chief films exhibited this week. A fully military band plays suitable music. Miss Kitty Woodford sings illustrated songs, and the Vocaphone contributes a popular song.

GOOLE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. Hainsworthy.—A good all-round bill is headed by the Beckstein Trio, vocalists and dancers, who deserve all the applause bestowed upon them; Claude Bowlby, light comedian, keeps the audience in the best of humour; Rosie Pink is a clever juvenile vocalist; Florrie Irving, international dancer, is successful; Amy Belwood, comedienne and dancer, sings and dances charmingly; and Miss Dolly Boston, descriptive vocalist, is entertaining. The Monarch-scope pictures are new and attractive.

GREAT YARMOUTH. — ROYAL AQUARIUM. — Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. H. Nightingale. —Mr. E. H. Albury's company is here this week in Why Smith Left Home. Mr. Albury gives a clever impersonation of the Count; Miss Sybil Chester plays well as Amelia; Mr. Charles Clarke is an amusing General Billet-Doux; Mr. Lawrence J. Lawrence is good as Major Duncombe; Miss Edna Eden is excellent as Mrs. Smith; and Miss Maude Shelton creates a lot of fun as Lavinia.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Geo. Gilbert; Manager, Mr. Geo. Zalva.—Messrs. Howell, Webb and company are topping the bill this week in a stirring episode, entitled The Galley Slave; Ray and Douglas are amusing as The Postman and the Girl; Fred Bronte's songs are well received; Bella Leaburn and Lilly Esplen are charming comediennes; and pictures complete.

THE GEM.—Manager, Mr. E. V. Barr.—In addition to an excellent display of pictures, the Two Ransoms give a clever musical entertainment; George Christo is an up-to-date ventriloquist; and Tom Taylor is popular with his song scenas.

GREENOCK.—HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—John G. Brandon and company win approbation for their humorous sketch, The Lovely Liars, and later on appear with much success in a dramatic sketch, entitled Clancy; Les Wartanas give an exceedingly smart juggling and equilibristic performance; Mary Meek submits two well-rendered songs; and J. H. Smart, comedian and dancer, is much appreciated. The Dromoscope shows Lemberg winning the Derby.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr. J. J. Bennell; General-Manager, Mr. J. B. Lawton; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. L. Clayton.—Another excellent series of films is shown here this week, two outstanding pictures being The Soul of Venice and Across the Plains.

GRIMSBY. — PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—Mrs. Frank Bateman's company is presenting a répertoire of plays. On Monday Sapho was staged, with Miss Bateman as Fanny Legrand, and her emotional acting in the passionate scenes was very powerful; Mr. Fred W. Goddard acted with sincerity of purpose as Jean Gaussen; Mr. Percy Shaw gave a touch of quaint humour to the part of Uncle Cessire; Mr. Charles Clifford played Henri Dechelette with commanding force; Miss Camille Treherne was excellent in the pathetic part of Alice; and others responsible for good work were Mr. Harry Aynsleigh as Flamont, Mr. George Herbert as Jules Delbret, Miss Lily Pawley as Irene, Mr. Tom Pountney as Hettema, and Miss Winnie Redfern as Mme. Hettema. Other plays presented during the week were Camille and The Way Women Love.

THE PALACE. — General-Manager, Mr. F. Verner Walford.—The high-class musical entertainment provided by the Zigeuner Quartette is winning unqualified approval. The lady member of the party is an accomplished vocalist, and the performers on the violin, violoncello, and pianoforte are all masters of their instruments; Miss Ray Wallace, the lady mimic at the piano, gives a series of her delightful impersonations; Lillie Soutter is a comedienne with a singularly bright and lively style; Jean and Josie give a remarkable contortionist display; Edward Rose and Dora Challoner are excellent in their comedy act; Harry Kimberley has some amusing songs, which he sings well; and Calile and Walker give an entertaining vocal and comedy speciality.

GUERNSEY. — THEATRE ST. JULIANS.—Joint Lessees, Messrs. Ed. Marris and Albany Ward; Resident-Manager, Mr. George A. Deighton.—Imperial electric pictures and varieties form the premier attraction here, the coloured art drama Isis and The Roman being particularly striking. Mlle. Sara's marblesque Trio give clever examples of descriptive white living pictures. The Will Elton team, triple-bar comedians, are wonderfully smart and active.

HALIFAX.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Mr. Stephen Pritt's company is here in A Woman's Passion and Almost His Bride. In the latter play Mr. Stephen Pritt is an excellent Simon Simson, a butler; Miss Lily Prescott a capital Myra Thorne; Mr. G. R. J. Austin acted as Philip Rowland; Mr. R. F. Stacey a good Jaspar Thorne; Miss Ybda Moore's a successful Mona Gilchrist; and Miss Marie Florence a charming Emma.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—Emerson and Baldwin, jugglers, top the bill here with a clever and entertaining turn; the Countess Bekoffska shows considerable skill as a lightning painter; Great Scott maintains his high reputation; Miss Yolande Noble and Mr. C. Y. Fixott are successful in Susan; Clive Watts, comedian and dancer; the Hon. St. Vincent Ellesmere, R.A.M., baritone; Daisy Hicks, chorus comedienne; and the pictures complete.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—The Three Van Dammes, in an exhibition of tumbling, have created a sensation here; Tom Hearn as the lazy juggler is a treat, and his quick-change scene a marvel of ingenuity; The Rat (Gaston Chevalier and Co.) is intensely dramatic and well played, the Apache dance, by Mlle. Etoil Le Noir and Gaston Chevalier, being a feature of the sketch; Kitty Clinton is a refined and taking artist; Alfred Long a sweet alto vocalist; Lily Edwardes, comedienne, is successful; and Clara Reid and John Power, comedy entertainers, and the pictures complete.

HANLEY. — GRAND. — Proprietors, Hanley Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Arthur Rand.—A fine programme here is headed by Tom Foy and company in The First of April. Also appearing are Maudie Forde, comedienne; Lindsey and Harte; the Brothers Curran, in a boxing comedy act; Bert Rayburn, comedian; and Willie Garvey, comedian.

KING'S.—Proprietor, Hanley Theatres, Ltd.; Lessee, Mr. J. P. Moore; Manager, Captain F. Shaw; Acting-Manager, Mr. Colin Hazelwood.—The films presented are of exceptional excellence.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Eric Fielding Smith.—For the first three nights of the week Mr. Edward S. Petley and Miss Una Gilbert's company appeared in Little Mrs. Cummin. Mr. J. Edgar Stevenson as the young husband Clarence Glamore was excellent, as was Miss Rayner as Juliet. Miss Una Gilbert as Mrs. Cummin was a typical stage mother-in-law; Miss Fenton was effective as the dignified Mrs. Plain; Miss Jessie Perceval made a merry Susie; and Mr. Petley as Uncle Horace was good. For the remainder of the week Miss Fyfe Alexander and her company appear in A Sense of Humour.

THE KURSAAL.—Manager, Mr. J. E. Wilshire; Musical-Director, Mr. Julian Clifford.—A condensed version of grand opera is presented by the Imperial Opera Company, Faust, Carmen, Il Trovatore, Maritana, and The Bohemian Girl being announced for different nights.

HARTLEPOOL.—EMPRESS.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albert Maxstead.—Mr. J. W. Hall once more finds abundant favour; Ted Gill's phenomenal tenor voice never fails to please; Vera Cruz is smart in her song and dance; Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope has a remarkably interesting subject in A Shadow of the Past, which is made more attractive by the Biospeech accompaniment.

HASTINGS. — PIER PAVILION. — Entertainment-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—A varied and interesting programme is opened by Miss Ivy Mayer, an expert skipping-rope dancer; a successful turn is given by Sing Ling Chin, Chinese juggler; some fresh and original pictures are shown on the Pavilion Bioscope; Mr. J. D. Hunter and his smart combination of artists engage in a very diverting farce, A Quiet Family; Mlle. Bartinilli is a graceful contortionist; and Miss May Templeton a pleasing vocalist and dancer.

HOUGHTON-LE-SPRING. — GAIETY. — Proprietors, Messrs. Ainsley and Hall.—This week pictures are the chief attraction. The Rowntrees (Bert and Edna), the smart comedy couple, contribute variety.

PICTURE PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood.—An excellent programme is submitted this week, features being A Daughter's Devotion and From Gipsy Hands. Lieut. Rose, R.N., is meeting with success.

HUDDERSFIELD. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—The fine playing of the Canadian Kilties Band is a real treat for music-lovers. In addition to their concerted playing there are dances by the Clan Johnstone Troupe, brilliant solos on the cornet by Bert Daniels, the skirl of the pipes from Piper Major Albert Johnstone, and a well-sung tenor song, "Thora," by J. C. Lockhart. Other artists are Bromley and Fontein, comedy musicians; Miss Azella Wilson, lady gymnast; Bros. Webb, two amusing musical clowns.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Herbert Garside.—The artists appearing here are Miss Maude Vera, comedienne; Chas. Woodward, light comedian; Miss Addie Dorina, in her amusing little protean act, entitled Dr. Spot's Patients; Dene and Dixon, singers and dancers; Sisters Maynard, duettists and dancers; Canard, a contortionist of original ideas; Chas. Vincent, a comedian with a good style; and Williams' Jubilee Singers.

HULL.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Mortons, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Miss Lancashire, Ltd., is creating great laughter. Miss Baines, under whose auspices the company is run, fulfils the leading rôle with great success, for not only is she a talented comedienne, but a delightful singer; Mr. David Donaldson makes the most of the Trustee; and praise unstinted should be the reward of Miss Mary Collier. There is a charm of light-heartedness in the work of Miss Nellie Dyson. Mr. D. Sinclair Holdenby plays the part of the son with good effect.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Mortons, Ltd.; Manager, Mr Geo. Morton.—Another play in which the Alexandra audience have cause for delight is that of Mrs. Kimberley's Was She to Blame? Lilian, a rôle allotted to Miss Nancy Roberts, is very well played; Mr. Clavering Craig portrays Frank Roselle with skill; and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley paints the kind-hearted actress in favourable colours. The comic element is well sustained by Miss Nita Owen and Mr. Kenneth Black. The Wm. Clark of Mr. F. G. Kimberley is a fine presentation of the old actor.

ILKESTON. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albert Leigh.—Miss Arabella Allen, in impersonations from Dickens's works, is an artist of great talent; Edith Courtney and Florence Wilton, in a comedy duologue, A Marble Flirtation, receive well-earned applause; and Eglen and Percival, in Love and the Landlord, come in for a fair share of honours; Babe Lloyd, comedienne and dancer, wins good opinions; and Miss Iris Banfield, comedienne, is highly successful. Morris and Marie score in song, dance, and patter; and the Four Crenvises, in an aerial performance, conclude a strong programme.

IPSWICH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The full variety entertainment is discontinued at this house for the summer months, the management relying on the Bioscope with a good variety of up-to-date films. Miss Gertrude Lovedale sings some catchy songs, and Shepherd and Granvillo, two versatile artists, keep the house in a roar with their comic patter.

JARROW.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Lionel Locke.—A first-class variety company here includes the Craggs, acrobats, with most excellent feats; Florence Raymond, ventriloquist; Charles Cassell, comedian; Leo Carle, protean comedian; Annie Casey, chorus vocalist; Charles Chard, comedian and dancer; Corcoran Brothers, in a musical speciality and quick-change act; and Charles Ulrick, the Barrel King.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr Edward Marris; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley Hope.—Albany Ward's electric pictures include President Roosevelt in Africa and the Derby (1910). La Belle Duchesse is still a big draw with her boxing stallions. Sewell and Dudley, in the musical comedy sketch, The Sun Bath, are good.

OLYMPIA WINTER GARDENS.—Manager, Mr. C. A. Barnett.—The Cremona Ladies' Orchestra is conducted for this week by Miss Dorothy Augusta Vincent. The rest of the programme is good.

LEEDS.—THE GRAND THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—Messrs. Platt and Towers' company is here with You Never Can Tell. Mr. J. Edward Pearce represents Fergus Crampton cleverly; Gloria Clandon is convincingly and delightfully embodied by Miss Winifred Beech. Miss Edith Hunter sustains the part of Mrs. Clandon with great success; and Dolly Clandon is prettily characterised by Miss Ida Southern; Mr. Geoffrey Wilkinson gives an amusing study of Philip Clandon; and Mr. Graham Colmer makes the most of his opportunities as Valentine. Mr. Bellenden Clarke scores as a K.C.; and the waiter is well played by Mr. Claude Haviland. Finch McComas has a worthy exponent in Mr. Allan Jeaves.

THE ROYAL THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. Nathaniel Hepworth.—Mr. T. Arthur Jones presents an interesting drama, When Other Lips, to a good audience. The company responsible for the production leaves little to be desired. The character of Ruth is convincingly portrayed by Miss Marie Daventry; whilst Mr. John Davidson gives a dignified representation of her sailor lover; Mr. T. Arthur Jones has an excellent part as Phylocrates Jenkins; Nancy Jenkins is well taken by Miss Irene Tracey. The remainder of the company fulfil their rôles in a satisfactory manner.

THE EMPIRE.—District-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—Mark Sheridan heads the bill here, and is as great a favourite as ever; Ella Retford has a tremendous reception; Oswald Williams has several new tricks which create much surprise; W. Selkirk presents a new spectacle, The Boy Scouts, assisted by a number of Leeds children; Dot Stephens wins much approval for her clever character impersonations; a popular turn is that of Zalco and Elda, who give a clever exposition of ju-jitsu methods. Maudie Francis shows merit in song and dance; and the Bros. Redmond, art acrobatic comedians, complete a capital company.

THE HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Dunford.—The Vampire dance, done by Miss Mildred Deverez and Mr. Tom Terriss, is a good turn; Paul Conchas surpasses himself in his feats of strength; Rosie Elliott has some nice songs; Athas and Collins are entertaining in song and dance; Regan and Ryan are smart knockabouts; Bruce Green impersonates female characters; and Patty Yole, Frank Seeley, and Smit and Smit also appear.

THE VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sam Jones.—Park's Eton Boys and Girls are a big success here; Bertha Ward, in a musical scena, The Blacksmith's

Odol possesses

the three essential characteristics of a good dentifrice and mouthwash:

1. It is genuinely antiseptic, and prevents decay of the teeth.
2. It is innocuous to the most sensitive mouth.
3. It is agreeable and very refreshing to the palate.

A liquid antiseptic is the only one which is able to penetrate all the hidden cavities of the teeth—tooth powders or pastes never can do this—but in the case of Odol the antiseptic does its work thoroughly: the good effects are lasting for hours after the mouth has been rinsed with it.

Daughter, does well. Other excellent turns are supplied by Wynnie Darrell, Boston Twins, Wyllie, Jack Barker, and Sam Williams.

THE QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Bush.—Harry Weldon tops the bill here with several popular songs; the Berg Brothers do some smart bicycle tricks; Beatrice Allen is a great favourite; and Maggie Walsh's voice is much admired. The Gilberts and Mr. Sydney Bach are also applauded.

LEEK.—GRAND THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Leek Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. James Bibby.—A very entertaining programme is presented by Lily Gaston, male impersonator and dancer, and Winnie Laurie, comedienne and burlesque artist. Large crowds nightly appreciate the excellent pictures.

LEICESTER. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Allerton Turner.—Mr. Andrew Emm's company is here in The Diver's Luck. Prominent in rôles calling for special eulogium are Mr. William Macready as Martin Faber, Mr. Edmund O'Grady as Barney Bawn, Miss Phyllis Spalding as Winnie Hall, Mr. Herbert Vere as Tom Hall, Mr. Harry Briss as Snowball, Mr. James Burt as Pedro, Miss Chrissie Bickerstaff as Helen Wyngate, Miss Enid Turner as Peggy Mahoney, Mr. H. J. Walton as Maurice Wyngate.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. S. Buccleuch.—Starring here this week is Anna Chandler, America's latest comedienne, a versatile and clever lady. At the other end are Tom and Marie Motramo, who also score a well-deserved success. An ovation is rightly accorded to Tysoe Smith's famous Eighteen Lancashire Singers; Tom Leamore is as funny as ever; Ben Albert creates plenty of merriment; Lux and his dogs give a performance that stands out as one of the best of its kind; the Three Laurels are making a hit with their smart acrobatic act; Amy Marsden as a low comedy artist is good; and Beaty and Blanche are entertaining comediennes and dancers.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joseph Lawrence.—A capital programme here comprises the following:—Jeff Martin in The Sports of a Hundred Years, assisted by Dick Murray (Limehouse) and Joe Willow; Bardoff, a seventeen-year-old strong boy; the Sages (Will and Jenny), vaudeville artists; Le Hurst, ventriloquist; Mamie Morris, expert dancer; Sim Moree, the indiarubber Mohammedan; the Burdetta Bros., hand balancers; George Belmont, a good dancer; Reg Ewen, light comedian; and the Bioscope.

EMPIRE.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Company; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. R. Craig.—Excellent and varied pictures here include A Tale of the West, A Race for a Monkey, Grin and Win, Eat Your Soup, The Secretary's Crime, The Vendetta, The Detective's Bag, An Extraordinary Duel, Sons of the Soil, and Tobacco Growing in Malay. Captain Roberts, the King's trumpeter, assisted by two ladies and two young gentlemen acrobats, provide the variety portion of the programme.

EMPRESS PICTURE PALACES, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. H. V. Horton.—Pictures here are changed twice a week.

LEITH.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Licensee and Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—Arthur Shirley's sensational French drama The King of Crime provides Mr Richard Ferris with a strong composite rôle in which he successfully trebles the characters of M. Lemaire, Captain Hercules, and Ronjarre in a vigorous and effective manner; and Miss Doris Brookes portrays the blind wife, Henriette, with great tenderness and charm. Mr. J. W. Austin and Miss Eleanor McHardy are alike excellent in their renderings of Louis Mascarot and Mathilde Haudry; Old Tabaret is humorously played by Mr. Addison Thomas; Mr. Percy Dysart presents a careful study of the elder Gondelu; while Gondelu fils is made delightfully unpleasing to the gods by Mr. Ernest Regent. Comic relief is mainly supplied by the Mick Maloney and Clarisse Tabaret of Mr. J. T. Dale and Miss Kitty Thomas, supplemented by Mr. A. W. B. Kingston's Toto Chopin and Miss Pauline Gear's clever character sketch of Mère Crochard; and Messrs Faber Joynson, Mark Hannam, John Wayford, Robert Caling, and John Nelson do useful work in less prominent rôles. A farce by Jas Garrow entitled Cousin Sandy Macpherson follows the drama, but the cast is not printed on the programme.

LIMERICK.—RINK ELECTRIC PALACE.—Manager, Mr. Edward Kidd and Co.—The Walturdaw Bioscope has been the great attraction here since the opening day, and the pictures have been appreciated by large audiences.

LIVERPOOL.—SHAKESPEARE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wentworth Croke; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—This theatre has been closed this week, with the exception of Thursday evening, when the manager took his annual benefit.

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—The attraction here this week is Mrs. F. Wybert Clive's company in The Outcast of the Family. Foremost in the cast is Mr. Herbert Bentone, who, as Stephen Barry, acts with some degree of dramatic strength, and gains general approval; Mr. Bert Oates is well in evidence as Richard Martin; Mr. Wybert Clive distinguishes himself in the rôle of Sir Henry Thorne; Harry Thorne is excellently presented by Mr. S. Leigh-Courtney; Miss Maud Leslie-Cudd is a sweet Grace Redburn; Miss Elsie Shelton earns distinction in the character of Ruth; Mr. Edward W. Cudd handles his original part of Abraham Wasper in good style; and capital comedy is provided by Mr. Tom Armitage (Joe Bushell) and Miss Freda Beckett (Nancy Bray).

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—Her Fatal Past is here this week, presented by Mr. T. Edward Ward's combination. Miss Ward shows much talent in the part of the distressed Honor Symes; Miss Kate Newman gives a capital character study of the old hag Sal Jenkins; Mr. Bernard Elliott pleases generally with his manly Mark Desmond; Miss Emilie Entwistle carefully plays the child Leonard; Miss Gabrielle Romero makes a powerful Belle de Lara; Miss Clarrie Yandell (Kitty Sprigwell) and Mr. H. Macauley (Dicky Bird) are responsible for some lively comedy; and good support is also provided by Messrs. T. Edward Ward (Jonathan Nobbs), Charles Yorke (Gilbert Fernside), and Harry Emmerson (Leonard Fernside).

KELLY'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant.—For Wife and Home is here this week, with Messrs. John Power and Robert Faulkner's company. The work is being received with every satisfaction. In the part of Celeste Legrand Miss Georgina V. Clifford acts with vigour; Miss Marion Ryder presents a sympathetic picture of Rosette; as the heroic Roland St. Pierre Mr. Robert Faulkner finds great favour; Mr. Wilton Llewellyn is a powerful Henri St. Pierre; and the rôle of the mesmerist, Gaspard, is in the good hands of Mr. Edwin Maydew. The drama is put on in good style.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Manners.—Miss Annie Hughes and company are here this week with an excellent comedy sketch, Napoleon's Washerwoman, which affords the utmost enjoyment; a really artistic and refined musical turn comes from Olga, Elgar, and Eli Hudson, who earn rounds of applause; as comedy conjurers Les Marco Belli present a particularly able entertainment, which earns for them much approval; The Little Stowaway, on a farewell tour, is here again, the supporters being Messrs. John K. Walton, Arthur Temple, S. Griffiths Moss, Bevan Lorimer, Ernest Fosbrooke, Ernest Coutrel, Miss Maude Osmond, and Miss Marjorie Armstrong; the Kratons (Harry and Ethelyn) delight everybody with their hoop-rolling show, which is watched with the closest interest, and well merits the applause bestowed upon it; Lydia and Amelys have a smart Continental dancing act; as a Scotch comedian and eccentric dancer George Rae affords satisfaction; Mildred Bryan renders several soprano pieces to the general pleasure; and Harry Marte, comedian and dancer, also appears.

LYRIC.—Lessees, Liverpool Lyric Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—Here this week we are having Mr. Will Glaze's company with No Mother to Guide Her, played twice nightly. The work is well put on, affording every satisfaction. Miss Rene-Belle Douglas in the part of Nan is very popular; as the Rev. Tom Pelham Mr. John S. Milward shows much ability, and earns hearty recognition; Miss Georgette Thierry handles the rôle of Julia Patterson with every discretion; as Felix Campbell Mr. Paul Barry-Lewers is well placed; and valuable support comes from Miss Betty Seymour (Millicent Saxby), Mr. Will Glaze (Bob Coleman), Mr. J. O. Stewart (Bill Bunce), and Mr. George Gormley (William Saxby).

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—Foremost here are the famous Mirza Golem troupe, with their Asiatic novelty, The Slave Dealers, which affords a deal of pleasure; the Society Quartet of vocalists and dancers are an acceptable turn; that merry sketch Ferdie's Ma-in-Law, given by Arnold, Richardson, and Co., causes screams of laughter; as pantomimical acrobats the Havannas troupe show to great advantage; Herbert Sleath's company present a capital dramatic sketch, The Deputy Sheriff; L. W. Harris has some particularly taking songs; the Tintos, in "African Gambols," go through some clever acrobatic work; Harry Taylor is a comedian with good points; and Lily Hayes dances and sings in acceptable style.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The stock dramatic company here are this week giving Man's Enemy, from the pens of Charles H. Longden and Eric Hudson. Principal parts are ably undertaken by Messrs. Harry Tresham (Harry Stanton), Cecil Ravenswood (General Stanton), Sydney Grant (Tom Drake), Miss Lina Nazeby (Sally Banks), and Miss Gertrude Entwistle (Grace Lisle). Good support also comes from Messrs. Tom. H. Solly, Leo Montgomery, R. Seath-Innes, E. D. Allen, Charles Townsend, and the Misses Gertrude Gilman, Millie Dench, and Gwynne Watson. Brown's Bioscope shows The Englishman and the Girl.

OLYMPIA. — District-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wighton.—The big line here this week is Herbert Darnley's company in Private Potts, a screamingly funny affair, which causes audiences to rock with laughter. Fred Kitchen is at the head of the trouble, and, needless to say, keeps matters very lively. Among the supporters are Mrs. Herbert Darnley, Miss Jessie Crammond, W. Wilbey, Jack Williams, and Harry Lappo. The popular Nellie Wallace is here again delighting admirers with her latest songs; Pat Rafferty renders several of his favourite Irish songs; the Villions go through a remarkable turn as cyclists, and dance well, besides causing a deal of fun. They are highly appreciated. Pete and Minnie Lee arouse much laughter with their trifle, A Scotchman's Visit to London; J. J. Dallas, with his "People we meet," introduces some exceedingly funny song impersonations; as banjoists Elton and Edwin, along with Miss Fannie Elton, want a deal of beating, and deserve the hearty applause they receive; and Sylvia du Barry gives much pleasure with her charming song scena, "In Andalusia."

PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. George F. Slatter.—Heading the programme here this week we have Lawrence Brough and company with No. 9, a merry sketch that earns every approval. The supporters are, in addition to Mr. Brough, Miss Olga Esme, Mr. Percy Marshall, Miss Amy Singleton, Mr. Watkin Wynne, and Mr. Ray L. Cody. The Derrington Family execute some daring feats on cycles; Louis Taylor's company have a strong sketch, The Adder's Tooth, in which Messrs. Fred D. Bromwich and Hodgson Taylor, and the Misses Katherine Carew and Ailsa Lorne take part; Ronald George pleases as an instrumentalist; Jock McNeil is a humorous Scotchman and excellent dancer; the Harringtons present a comic juggling combination; as vocalists and expert acrobatic step dancers the Vaudeville Trio are excellent; the Whimsicals give a clever turn of melody, mirth, and movement; and Ada Cerito, comedienne, pleases entirely.

LLANDUDNO.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arnold Macara.—Gesta and Hoe in a pot-pourri drawing-room entr'acte are clever and amusing. Tom Merry scores as "Sergeant Green" and "The seaside waiter"; William Kingsley is an expert handbell soloist; Master George Doonan contributes songs and dances; Witt is an entertaining comedian; and Fayre and Manning are excellent in song, dance, and repartee.

LONDONDERRY.—ST. COLUMB'S HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. R. A. P. Williams.—Mr. Williams wound up the present season with the motorscope representation of the funeral of King Edward VII., which attracted large and appreciative audiences. The programme included vocal items by Mrs. Lillie Williams, a charming singer; and an entertainment by the ventriloquist, Mr. Dan Derry.

LOUGHBOROUGH.—VINT'S ELECTRIC HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brogden; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lindsey Edwards.—An interesting series of pictures is shown here. At interludes Messrs. Chester and Lee's Marionettes are highly appreciated; and the Musical Dunvilles and Fred Charles, comedian, also appear.

TEMPERANCE HALL. — Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur S. Evanson.—The "World in Motion" pictures maintain their high standard of excellence. Variety is provided by the Four Scoreys, in their musical ménage, introducing Palmyra, the elastic lady.

LOWESTOFT.—MARINA.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer.—A capital attraction this week is the appearance of Miss Beatrice Moreau and Mr. Horace Lingard in Fanny and the Servant Problem, which is skilfully treated and thoroughly enjoyed. Miss Moreau scores a decided success in the name-part; while Mr. Lingard makes the most of his opportunities as Martin Bennett. Divorçons is announced for the latter part of the week.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert; Manager, Mr. W. Alvar.—The variety bill includes Karr and Kooney, comedians; Jennie Claremont, in imitation of well-known artists; and J. C. Jacques, comedian. The pictorial portion of the entertainment is decidedly good.

MAIDSTONE.—PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Ewart C. Potter.—The Zelanders, mental telepathists, are a great attraction here; Miss Veronica Brady is clever in song and dance; the Five Colonials are well received in a musical and dramatic scena The Unexpected Guest; Jules Charmettes gets many to join in his French and English choruses; the Cecilias are good lady instrumentalists; Dan Kirton, comedian, and Violet Desmond, comedienne, also add to the entertainment, which is completed by electric pictures.

MANCHESTER.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietor, Miss A. E. F. Horniman; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edwin T. Heys.—A highly-interesting bill here this week comprises a new play, The Choice (a notice of which appears elsewhere); a finely-delivered recital by Mr. Esme Percy of Oscar Wilde's prose poem "The Happy Prince"; and a revival of W. Kingsley Tarpey's eccentric comedy The Amateur Socialist. It is always difficult to make distinctions among the members of the Gaiety company, however long the cast may be, and to select Mr. Henry Austin as the principal and most amusing figure is merely to say that the part of Sir Hubert Pennefeather provides the most conspicuous opportunities, which certainly were made the most of. The distressed wife was well represented by Miss Muriel Pratt; Miss Lilian Christine made a charming Evelyn Rivers; and Mr. Basil Dean was capital as the immaculate Spencer. Among the others, Mr. Edward Landor and Mr. Charles Bibby as Sergeant Fell and Inspector Bott added greatly to the fun, but all the remaining parts were remarkably well filled, and the piece was thoroughly enjoyed by a good house on Monday.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Owners, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Lee.—Theodor's Flutter is being played here. Miss Doris Woodhall, the celebrated prima donna, Mr. Charles Victor, the eminent baritone, and Mr. E. C. Hedmont, that delightful and favourite tenor, all sing and act in fine style; and excellent support is given by a well-selected company, including Miss Marion Broom, Miss Annie Van Dyck, Miss Hilda Morris (all delightful as Durand's daughters), Mr. Wm. O'Connor, Mr. Robert Turley, Mr. R. F. Matthews (fine figures as French hussars), Mr. J. Kneale Campbell (capital as Moreau), Mr. S. Boulderstone (very effective as Theodor), and Miss Lawson Taylor (pleasing as Toinette). Mr. Percy Blanden and Miss Jessie Dalter make the most of their opportunities as Boniface and Winnie.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason.—Mr. Herbert Fuller's company is here in As Your Hair Grows Whiter. The cast includes Miss Agnes Collier, who is well placed and popular in the appealing rôle of Alice Waters; Mr. Fred Emery has also a good part as the Rev. John Alberry, in which he certainly shines; and Mr. N. Nelme Grasswell gives an admirable character performance of Farmer Walters; while Mr. Cuthbert Taylor has the villainous doing of Squire Stoneley in hand. At the head of the humorous element is Mr. Herbert Fuller as Timothy Slough, well supported by Mr. Louis Weston, Miss Lily Fuller, and Miss Lizzie Lennon.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—The big thing in the bill here is the Great Raymond, who contributes a large share of the entertainment, and offers frequent changes in his large and varied répertoire of mysteries. Les Grossi do their Vampire Dance sensationally; Little Sunbeam is Marie Lloyd in miniature; Ryde and Beeman are a pair of quaintly funny acrobats; and other good turns are those of Morris and Moore, expert dancers; Luella Cross, dainty comedienne; and Fred Dunstone, comedian.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hearn.—Mr. W. V. Garrod presents here this week the successful drama A Country Girl in London. It is interesting and exciting, and the title-rôle is admirably filled by Miss Bertha Kingston, who depicts with feeling and naturalness the vicissitudes of Marjorie Hamilton. Mr. H. V. Garrod makes a hit as Frank Gordon; Mr. C. Halling figures well as Squire Hamilton; and Mr. W. Bradford plays cleverly as the adventurer, Godrey Clinton, supported by Mr. Owen Remonde as the rascally Job Smithers. The comic parts are in the safe hands of Mr. F. Dallas, Mr. S. Perry, and Miss A. Clarke, while among the remainder of the cast Miss E. Crawford is a very acceptable Gwendoline Gordon.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Brearley.—Mr. Raynor, supported by Miss Cecilia Dare and Mr. B. Montague and company, are here in répertoire, attracting appreciative houses. The plays presented are Jim the Penman, An American Citizen, and David Garrick.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. R. Flanagan; Business-Manager, Mr. Albert Jones.—The play here this week is Mr. James Willard's The Girl with the Angel Face. It is played by Mr. Mat Lynton's company, who adequately exploit its sensational possibilities. Miss Minnie Love handles the title-part with skill and effect, and Miss Laurie Potter gives a lively and practised depiction of Mollie Maitland; and among the best of the remainder are Mr. William Hicks as the chauffeur, Miss Rhoda Douglas as Ena Wentworth, Miss Rosina White as Ena's child, Mr. Graham Wingford as Sir John Wentworth, and Mr. Arthur Lawrence as the Rev. Gordon Cross.

KING'S THEATRE, LONGSIGHT.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. R. Trippett.—Miss Ethel van Praagh and Mr. J. Edward Whitty's company are here in I Want to be Loved. Miss Nellie Garside plays an interesting character part in very good style; Mr. J. Edward Whitty gives a strong rendering of the prosecuting counsel, Caleb Valentine; Mr. Charles O'Connor does well as Capt. Parkhurst; and among other characters of intrest conspicuous work is done by Miss Elsie Capell as the Duchess of Pimlico, and Miss Flora Hastings as Lady Cecilia Constantine. The staging is appropriate.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—Hetty King is the bright particular star here, her act being received with enthusiastic appreciation. Alexandra Dagmar is also prominent, and makes a big hit with her breezy stories and pleasing songs; the Bob Pender Troupe of comedy giants and dwarfs are a quaint turn; Syd Walker, comedian, is well received; Fasola does some wonderful things in Indian magic; Rich Taylor proves himself an excellent ventriloquist with novel notions; and other capital items are Kerr and Koe, comedians and dancers; Wullie Walker, Scotch comedian; and Bertha Winder, an accomplished lady dancer.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—Le Roy, Talma, and Bosco are to the front here in a résumé of magic and mirth; Billy Merson, comedian, meets with a good reception, his Russian dancing burlesque being particularly funny; Eddie Girard and Jessie Gardner are quietly amusing in Dooley and the Diamond, and are well received; Rossi Ashton, the well-known war artist, is excellent in sketching to music; Lotto, Lilo, and Otto are remarkable trick cyclists; Ernie Lotinga and others cause much laughter in the absurdity, Her Husband; May B. Brilliant is a good dancer; Johnny Fuller is capital as a cat, on the wire and off; and Ellis Barrieton is a good baritone vocalist. Up-to-date pictures are also shown.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Manager, Mr. A. J. Carter.—Joe Peterman and George Ricketts's company, in a burlesque, entitled Chanteclair; or, Hi-Cockalorum, a feathered phantasy, is here this week, and causing much laughter. Vastly amusing also is that versatile comedian, George Mozart, who scores in a moving picture novelty, entitled The Thief; George Barnes, light comedian, is very well received; the Sisters Caselli are first-rate dancers; and other enjoyable turns are those of Horton and La Triska as the Clown and the Human Doll; the Four Juggling Geraldos; Dora Lyric, popular chorus comedienne; and the Three Cunards, singers and dancers. Pictures complete.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—May Moore Duprez, the jolly little Dutch girl, meets with a big reception here; Mr. Joe Almasio and Miss Yamma are seen to great advantage in a novel and original juggling and tumbling act; the Brothers Gerard, American comedy duo, are smart dancers: the Dalgarnos, in Caught Napping, are good; Bella Belmont, comedienne, takes well; Lillian French, comedienne and mimic, is well received; Ada Oxley and company act well in Peggy; Elsie Athas, comedienne, is pleasing in song and dance; and the Hudsons are a capital comedy duo.

HULME HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Dry.—Callahan and St. George present The Old Neighbourhood here, a turn of comedy, music, and pathos, and are well received; O'Gust makes his usual hit as imitator of animals and instruments; Chas. M. Daly and his company act well in the amusing sketch, I Must Have It; and good items are provided by Capt. Ellis and Son, musicians of merit, and the son a smart dancer; Ada Bessell, clay modeller; the Little Vestos, juvenile dancers; the Cromwells, in novel juggling act; Zara and Zema, Continental equilibrists; and Sammy Foster, patter comedian and dancer.

RUSHOLME PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Leslie; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Phillips.—An excellent all-round show is offered here this week by The Gems, a capital combination, including Victor Kahn, comedian; Ernest Attwell, baritone; Olive Mortimer, light comedian; Nellie Walker, soprano; Wallace Kennedy, tenor; and David Norton, piano.

BIJOU ELECTRIC THEATRE (Erskine-street, Hulme).—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thos. Morrison.—Large audiences are drawn to each house to see the excellent pictures, which this week include Two Portraits, Fence on Bar Z Ranch, The Pierrot's Farewell, Coco Turns Nigger for Love and others. The audience joins lustily in the choruses of several songs which are introduced.

MARGATE. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. Edward Michael; General-Manager, Mr. F. Weathersby.—Mr. Tom Craven's company still contributes the attraction here, and is presenting this week, with marked success, his play The Wife and the Woman. Mr. Herbert Alexander sustains the rôle of William Fulcraft, the novelist, with great ability; Mr. P. Ramsey Foreman plays the scientist, Dr. Henry Newton, most successfully, and Mr. Louis Palgrave, as Dick Filter, portrays the character capitally; Miss Rita Trekelle makes a successful Mrs. Helen Fulcraft; Miss Josephine Middleton enacts Rhoda Nettlethorpe exceedingly well; Miss F. Meredith presents in a forcible manner the part of Miss Amelia Asa; Miss Dorothy Maude gives a vigorous presentment of the wealthy widow, Mrs. Patrick Newton; Miss Helen Arden, as Nurse Whitmore, and Miss Ella Dixon, as Alice Inkelden, are entirely satisfactory; Messrs. George F. Ide, as Philip Nettlethorpe, a waiter; Mr. Frank Stoney, as Dr. Aubrey Baruch; Mr. Edward Linley, as Mr. Abel Javan; Mr. Harry Ainger, as Mr. McAllister; and Mr. L. Streete, as Job Ricketts, are commendable.

HIPPODROME, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Mayall.—The Ten Loonies, the mad musicians, head the bill with their hilarious sketch Dotty, in which they keep the audience in a continuous roar of laughter; Bill and Bellay, acrobatic eccentrics, give a smart show, and the Sisters Kaufmann, Continental acrobatic dancers, are charming exponents of their art; Manek-Shah, Hindoo necromancer and conjurer, performs some bewildering tricks; Vandyke and Brown give a new and unique entertainment, including vocal and instrumental items and the rapid painting of pictures; and T. G. Royde, comedian, and Pete and Juno, dancers, are also included in the programme. Great interest has been evinced in the Bio. pictures.

MERTHYR TYDFIL. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee, The South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. A. Jackson Withers.—The Love that Women Desire is being played here this week. Mr. Hugh Montgomery gives a strong rendering of Squire Abingdon; Philip Carnaby is capably rendered by Mr. Arthur Chisholm; Mr. Wilford Bailey does well as Frank Hardy; Miss Margaret Brodie makes a delightful Sybil Thorburn; Miss Nellie Navarro plays Madge Abingdon admirably; and Miss Marie Tempest is good as Mariquinha.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. G. H. Smith.—Mr. Carr Loates and company are presenting the musical comedy drama At the World's Mercy. Mr. Fred Muntz makes a sturdy Captain Manley; Jabez Barber and Morris Goldstein are cleverly personified by Mr. Carr Loates and Mr. A. Burrows respectively; Miss Cissie Milford skilfully fills the dual rôle of Skittles and Kitty Knott; Miss Maggie Hobart is a graceful Alice Lloyd; Miss May Douglas does well as Dot; as Charlie Smart Mr. W. H. Irving is responsible for some rich drollery; and specialities are given by Miss Cissie Milford, Miss May Douglas, Mr. W. H. Irving, and Mr. Fred Muntz.

PICTURE HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Leading pictures in this week's programme are A Woman's Folly, An Old Story, Along the Nile, In Old California, and humorous pictures.

MIDDLESBROUGH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Imeson.—Mr. Fred J. Webb and his company are fulfilling a successful engagement with For Old Times' Sake. Mr. Webb sustains in masterly fashion the arduous rôle of Rupert Sidney, and in the part of Gareta Berkley Miss Marie Danvers-Smith is a pronounced success.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles G. Rembges.—Chief interest centres in the clever and comical risley entertainment presented by the Dayton Family and the capital musical turn given by the Jackson Family. Other acceptable numbers are the Three Armadas, tight-rope performers; O'Malley and Brown, comedians; Algie, juggler; Arthur J. King, in his Lilliputian act; Miss Dulcie King-Lloyd, comedienne; Miss Dot Hardy, comedienne; and the Empirescope pictures. Good houses rule.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. C. R. Ingledew.—A capital programme of pictures continues to draw.

MORLEY. — ALEXANDRA PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Tom Diacoff; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Izon.—A very picturesque scena, entitled Deutschland, is admirably produced this week; Misses Beattie Howard and Gracie Hunt are attractive in their melodious vocal efforts; and the humorous songs, funny sayings, and eccentric antics of Messrs. Sid. Bazley, Tom Sloan, and Joe Shamrock keep the audience in a continual state of merriment. George Bernard also appears.

NEW BRIGHTON.—WINTER GARDENS.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Jones and Douglas.—Another strong programme is presented here. Misses Kirk and Saraski, in a fine aquatic act, and the Crisps, in delightful and clever dancing, have made pronounced successes; Messrs Hodgson and Lowther's company in Barmaids is very funny; and The Fantastics, Master Kershaw, wonderful boy soprano, the Cheers, with educated cats, Miss Aidee Mellor, vocalist, and splendid animated pictures complete the entertainment, first-class in every respect.

TOWER.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. R. H. Davy.—Another series of admirable films and variety items are given twice daily in the theatre. Mr. Arthur Weber has a good voice, whilst Mr. Neven-Tossan submits lightning sketches in colours with effect. The Sisters Aindow are responsible for a charming musical turn.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale.—Variety and music continue at this place of amusement, the turns consisting of the Great Sylvesta, illusionist; Mr. Fred Mason, whistler; Miss Dorothy Watson, songs at the piano; Miss Benita, vocalist; Mr. Fred Walmsley, comedian; Messrs. Harley and Melton, cross-talkers.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—TYNE THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessees, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham; Manager, Mr. Fred Sutcliffe.—The attraction here is Mr. Charles Stewart's company in Facing the Music, in which Miss Iris Hoey plays the leading rôle. On Monday and Tuesday the play was preceded by The Last Drop, and on the other nights by Love and Laudanum, in which Mr. Charles Stewart and Miss Hoey appeared with great success.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Manager, Mr. E. B. Clarke.—Mr. Walter Steele's company in A Fast Life is drawing good houses. Principal rôles are admirably sustained.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Manager, Mr. W. P. Wells; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. W. Kilgour.—Marie Lloyd, the principal attraction on the bill here this week, is unable to appear, and a deputy has been put forward in Mr. J. C. Scatter, the Tyneside comedian, who was accorded a hearty reception, quaint humour and smart dancing bringing him unlimited applause. Mr. G. H. Elliott, the chocolate-coloured coon, sings and dances in his own inimitable style, and fully earned the enthusiastic cheers which were accorded him. A graceful and clever gymnast is Alcide Capitaine, and Binns and Binns are amusing and clever musicians. Other noteworthy turns are presented by Vesta and Minnie Pine, the comedy girls; the Findens, sketch artists; Bob and Jennie Leonard, in a comedy act; and the Bros. Durant.

NEWPORT.—EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Major Gallagher; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Percy A. Wilde.—Marie Kendall, in her latest success, gets a warm reception; sharing the place of honour with her is Charles Norton, with his clever mimicry of notable pros. at the races; a display of expert banjo-playing is given by Stanley and Greenop; the troubles of a seedy swell are indicated by Tom E. Hughes with comic effect; Bessie Butt is a favourite comedienne; Alicia Ramsey and Rudulph de Cordova's sketch The Organ-grinder receives a hearty welcome, the staging being well done, and the artists portraying with excellence the characters entrusted to them; Steve McCarthy is also successful. The Bioscope is, as usual, interesting and up to date. Business is good.

NORTHAMPTON.—TEMPERANCE HALL.—Secretary, Mr G. Skempton; Resident-Manager for Andrew's Pictures, Mr. Frank Lyndon. — In Old California, The Ranger and the Girl, Sexton Blake, Jewel Robbery, and The Indian's True Heart are films shown here this week. Foolshead on Skates is a "roarer." Miss Margaret Payne sings two fresh songs with success, "The sleeping camp" and "Don't go down the mine, dad."

THE COUNTY ELECTRIC PAVILION.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Lyle Edwards.—Life in a Submarine is an apropos film; The Hindoo's Treachery and Hunting Wolves in Russia are good subjects; and amusement is created by A Pennyworth of Potatoes, The Knot in the Handkerchief, the Viaphone, and others.

PICTURE PALACE. — Proprietors, Messrs. J. F. Bentley; General-Manager, Mr. J. W. Borrowman. —The Toymaker's Secret, Love Conquers, Lieut. Rose and the Robbers of Fingall's Creek, The Deserter, &c., are the principal films shown here.

NORTH SHIELDS. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—The stock season is proving a great success here, and Trilby has been presented twice nightly this week before large audiences. As Svengali, Mr. Albert Sember gives an excellent performance; Mr. Edward E. Louis puts in some good work as Taffy; Mr. C. Alan Hineson distinguishes himself as Sandy; Mr. Ernest R. Allen ably undertakes Little Billie; Mr. W. E. Passmore makes the most of his opportunities as the Rev. Mr. Bagot; and Mr. William Turnbull does well as Zouzou; as Trilby Miss Fay Garnet Vayne displays conspicuous ability; Miss Kate Froude makes a capital Mrs. Bagot; and Miss E. Macintosh a satisfactory Mme. Vinard.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. William Mould.—Another good programme is attracting good houses here. The Bijou Juvenile Troupe, in their refined musical scena, Pansy's Birthday, meet with a very hearty reception; James Brady, eccentric comedian, is a great local favourite; the Buxtons, vaudeville artists, are much appreciated; and the pictures are, as usual, greatly enjoyed.

NORWICH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—The management has suspended the variety entertainment until the August Bank Holiday, and, as last year, are giving a Bioscope entertainment. Wisper, comedy juggler, gives his skilful entertainment; and Miss Beattie Bloom sings some popular chorus songs.

SPRING GARDENS, MOUNTERGATE-STREET. — Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt opened this very old pleasure resort on Thursday with a pierrot entertainment.

THE NEST, ROSARY-ROAD. — Messrs. Goodman's pierrots are being well patronised, each of the artists having found favour with the public.

THORPE GARDENS.—Mr. Frank Lynne's company, yclept the Madcaps, consisting of two ladies and five gentlemen, opened here on Monday last for the season under the management of Mr. Bert Gordon. The Gardens, being adjacent to the river, are very attractive, and the entertainment should be a success.

NOTTINGHAM. — GRAND THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. Harry J. Crane.—Lost by Drink is given by the stock company with realistic effect; Mr. Otto Minster draws a strong and effective picture of Dan Thomas's downward career. In striking contrast is the Harry Goodwin of Mr. Gerald Venning, who depicts the teetotaller's point of view; Mr. Herbert Morgan makes the most of his part as Jim Black; and Mr. Leslie Nolan is good as Bill Smith. Miss Bessie Rignold's powerful acting calls for praise; and Miss Violet Agnew portrays Jenny in a thoroughly sympathetic manner. The humour of the piece is capitally exploited by Miss Daisy Maynard as Biddy Malone and Mr. G. H. Asquin as Tumbler Pidgeon.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—As a raconteur, Mike Whallen excels, and his versatility and witticisms evoke the heartiest laughter. The military sketch Drummed Out is presented by A. C. Lilly and company,

TOM ROBERTSON AND "M.P."

The revival of M.P., Tom Robertson's comedy, at the Coronet reminds us that its brilliant author was patiently waiting for the Angel of Death when it was produced at the little theatre in Tottenham-street. Mr. T. Edgar Pemberton, Robertson's sympathetic biographer, who dwells so lovingly upon the last days of the playwright, writes:—

"School was withdrawn after three hundred and eighty-one performances, and M.P. was, with brilliant success, produced on April 23, 1870.

"On the fateful first night the poor author was unable to leave his bedroom, and his anxiety was intense. In the interval between each act the Bancrofts despatched rapid messengers with the good news of favourable reception; and immediately after the final fall of the curtain he had the assurance of another well-won victory. This success, there is no reason to doubt, prolonged his life at least by months, and rekindled for awhile the flicker of hope that was left in him. Indeed, he became temporarily so much better that, after the new play had been running for a few weeks, he was able to go to the theatre and see it, expressing, to the delight of the loyal company, his great pleasure at the manner in which it was performed.

"We have said that Robertson was sensitive—and who is not?—to adverse criticism; but the sting of this was but momentary, and when it had passed away he would be the first to acknowledge the justice of well-merited censure. But of malevolent criticism—of which, in common with all men who come rapidly to the front, he received from writers of the baser sort his full share—he had an almost morbid horror. This fact may be illustrated by the following anecdote: On the day following the production of M.P., an old friend came, in accordance with a thoughtfully-made promise, to read the invalid the newspaper criticisms on his play. With manifest delight he listened to the appreciative notices of his work written by the best critics in the leading London papers, when suddenly he asked in a tone of voice that denoted apprehension:

"'What does —— say?'

"Now his friend had brought the paper in which this so-called 'critic' had written his miscalled 'notice,' but it was so monstrously and cruelly adverse that he had secreted it in his pocket, intending to leave without reading it.

"'Do you wish to hear what he says?' he asked.

"'Yes,' replied Robertson, with an anxious look on his worn face.

"His friend then produced the paper, and read a most unnecessary and unjustifiable onslaught on the piece and its author. Before finishing he paused, and, glancing at Robertson, saw his head droop, and, as he turned to find a handkerchief, a single drop of blood fall upon the newspaper that lay on his knees. All the pleasure that he had derived from the encomiums of those who were qualified to judge and impartially review his work was wiped away by this one malicious attack. His friend, who describes this sick-room scene as being at once painful and dramatic, was asked in later days to help this 'critic' in an hour of need.

"'No,' he said, buttoning up his pockets. 'Robertson was dying, and the man knew it. I cannot forget that drop of blood!'

"Memorable performances in the first production of M.P. were the Dunscombe Dunscombe of Mr. Hare; the Chudleigh Dunscombe of Mr. Coghlan; the Talbot Piers of Mr. Bancroft; the Isaac Skoome of Mr. Addison (this was an admirably written part); the Ruth Deybrooke of Miss Carlotta Addison; and the Cecilia Dunscombe of Mrs. Bancroft.

"This admirable actress has expressed her great liking for this cleverly-conceived character.

"'Cecilia Dunscombe,' she says, 'was a part I liked immensely, and I always felt sorry not to have had a chance of playing her again. She was written at a type of a "girl of the period," who, if not carefully handled, might on the stage become offensive. There are many temptations in a part of this calibre to enlarge upon the eccentricities of a "good fellow" sort of woman. I was careful to preserve all the points the author intended when he wrote the play; but I worked to make the audience like her by giving an amusing, but at the same time feminine, rendering of her character.

"'When poor "Tom," who was then fading fast, saw M.P. he said to me: "I must write more parts for you, Marie; it does me good, for I can see you as I put the words on paper!" He never wrote another. I have an affection for Cecilia Dunscombe, and one reason may be that this was the last part I ever created for the author, although he would often, during his sad illness, speak hopefully of the three plays he had made up his mind to write for us to succeed one another, which were to be called in turn Faith, Hope, and Charity—"such good parts for you, Marie," he would say. It made me wretched indeed to hear him talk in that way when I know how fatal was his malady.'"

Early in 1871 this gifted creature died. The end of poor Tom has been pathetically described by the Bancrofts.

"On the night of the Friday following, when the play was over, Dion Boucicault was waiting privately at the theatre to gently break the news to us that, quietly and suddenly, the end had come that evening.

"Never were the oft-quoted words, 'What shadows we are! What shadows we pursue!' more fully realised.

"After an early manhood, passed in struggling misery, and sometimes almost want, Robertson was snatched from life when he had only just begun to taste its sweets. His footprints, as it were, upon the shore of fame were quickly placed, but he trod deep enough for even the sands of Time not readily to efface them.

"Shortly after this, his two children (by his first marriage) spent the day with us; and as we were walking round the garden, 'Tommy,' who was but a small boy then, seemed to love to dwell upon the sad subject of his father's death, and the little fellow was very pathetic in his boyish remarks. All at once he said, 'A few days before father died, I knew he was going to leave us.' 'How could you know it?' we asked. 'Because he looked so handsome. I have heard that people get such a beautiful look upon their faces when they are going to die.' It seemed as if the son had inherited the father's poetic mind.

"Only a few weeks before, Robertson had been deeply shocked to hear of the death of Frederick Younge, his schoolmate, best friend, and original George D'Alroy in 'Caste.' He was killed in a railway accident."

Thus passed away, writes Clement Scott, the one author of my time who has had the greatest influence for good on the English stage. He kept it sweet, and fresh, and green, and sunny. He always touched the major chords of love, and faith, and hope; never the jarring discord of hopelessness and misery and despair.

AT a little Montmartre theatre, at present closed, it was announced a short time since that a play called Banco was in rehearsal. In one act the characters were shown playing "banker," and the police commissary of the district noticed that it was only this act which was rehearsed, the excuses being various. Investigation revealed that the play was a myth; the theatre was being used as a gaming-house, and banker, roulette, and baccarat were played by gamblers masquerading as actors. The usual raid was made, the cards and money seized, and the gamblers arrested.

"COMPENSATION."

Comedy, in One Act, by Alex C. C. Somers, Produced at the Queen's Theatre, Manchester, on Monday, May 23.

John Bentley ..... MR. W. H. PERRETTE
Joe Bell ..... MR. J. D. FOX
Mr. Morton ..... MR. J. R. DARNLEY
Mrs. Bentley ..... MME. GHERADHA
Mrs. Gibson ..... MISS JEAN ASHTON

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The scene is Bentley's Kitchen, and the time 9.30 in the morning. We find Bentley stretched upon a chair, with his feet resting upon another chair, and suffering, to all appearances, agonies from an injured back, caused by his having been knocked down in the street by a cab. John is a labourer, and a very robust-looking one, even though he has lain for twelve weeks incapacitated from work; and his voice, as he discusses with his wife the prospects of his impending action for compensation—encouraging her to believe, in spite of her fears to the contrary, that his case is a good one—is so far from the voice of a sick man who will never work again, that one scents from the beginning the ruse of an impostor. John has provided himself with a witness, one Joe Bell, a hawker, whom Mrs. Bentley, nevertheless, distrusts, on account of the stupidity with which he has given away a similar case; but John will not admit the possibility of the repudiation of his claim. His solicitor, Mr. Morton, comes to see him, hoping so to modify it that he may go into court with a chance of coming out with something. Mr. Morton suggests that twelve weeks' wages at 25s. per week (not disguising his belief that John's injuries are imaginary) will honestly meet the case. John, however, sticks out for £500. Incidentally there is the enlightenment of his wife, and her natural wrath, over the matter of the 25s., for John has hitherto led her to understand that his wages were no more than 22s., having pocketed the 3s. for himself. In the middle of the argument Joe Bell is called in to corrobate the alleged facts of the accident, as he intends to tell them in court. Joe makes a dreadful hash of it. He says it was a tram that did it, the tram being at the time on the wrong side of the road. It is quite clear, in fact, that Joe knows nothing about it. Finally, the solicitor departs quite hopeless of the couple. The next person interested is a neighbour, Mrs. Gibson, who is anxious to recover out of John's compensation a sum of £3, which he has borrowed of her, and her attitude in the matter is also treated in the same spirit of humour. Meanwhile, John, with many groans and twistings, has been wheeled out upon Joe's barrow to the court. The upshot of the enterprise is, of course, as has been foreseen. Joe Bell makes a still worse mess of the tale; the magistrate stops the case; and Bentley is non-suited. Joe, however, duly brings him home again in the barrow, groaning now to another purpose, though he keeps up his pretence of incapacity. With effort he makes his way to a chair, but the pretence does not last much longer. Goaded and chagrined by the presence of the neighbour, Mrs. Gibson, who insists on having her £3, and irritated by the foolish Joe, who, nevertheless, wants to know about his "expenses," Bentley orders the pair of them out of his house. They refuse to go, and he then stands erect, as firm and strong a man as ever he was, and practically throws them out.

Simple and obvious as it all seems, the piece teems with humorous dialogue and light but shrewd knowledge of character; and the performance was one long laugh from start to finish. Mr. Somers is a solicitor, and may be assumed to have written his clever little sketch from experience, for the characters are lifelike, and the whole thing bears the stamp of actuality. Mr. W. H. Perrette gave a vigorous and natural delineation of the burly "invalid," John Bentley, well sustaining the central interest; and the anxious, sensible wife found a good exponent in Mme. Gheradha. Mr. J. D. Fox's idea of Joe Bell was really funny, quiet, easy, and not the least bit overdrawn; Mr. J. R. Darnley gave a smooth and effective depiction of Morton, the solicitor; and the Mrs. Gibson of Miss Jean Ashton was also well portrayed. The piece proved an undoubted success, and might be toured to good purpose on the halls.

AN ACTRESS'S ACTION.

In the King's Bench Division on Monday, before Mr. Justice Channell and a common jury, Miss Anna Elsa Hayman, professionally known as Miss Olive Tempest, was plaintiff in an action for damages for breach of agreement from Mr. Percy Yorke, who engaged her to play in A Prince's Love Story, on tour. Mr. Henlé and Mr. S. P. Low (instructed by Messrs. A. and E. Cohn) were for plaintiff; and Mr. Duncan (instructed by Messrs. Blackwell) for defendant.

Mr. Henlé explained that the agreement which was come to by Mr. Cohn, plaintiff's solicitor, and the defendant last July, provided that the lady should play the chief part for the run of the piece, with liberty to accept a pantomime engagement. She was to receive one-fifth of the takings, with a guaranteed minimum of £3 a week, a reasonable dress allowance—as she provided her own dresses—and travelling expenses. She toured with the company, and when she signed her pantomime agreement in October she told Mr. Yorke, who agreed to her accepting it and returning to the sketch afterwards. In November, however, defendant wrote to her to consider her engagement at an end, as he had had to engage another actress while she was in pantomime. She only received £3 a week, and now she claimed the other items, as well as damages for wrongful dismissal. The defence set up was that plaintiff was employed as a weekly servant at 3 guineas a week, and not to be paid any dress allowance.

Miss Tempest, who gave her address at Riverview-gardens, Barnes, said that in July, when working at Southend, she received a telegram from defendant: "Can you open Dublin, Monday?" That was Saturday, and there was no time to get dresses, so she used five of her own, which cost her £70. The sketch was nothing but rushing about, and Mr. May, one of the other actors, used to tread on her frocks every night, and she had to mend them every evening. After the sketch she was in the pantomime at Brighton at £10 a week, and then she had nothing until a month ago, when she got an engagement at the Gaiety Theatre. At Southsea they were talking about luck, and the defendant told her that she had been very lucky to them, as since she had been in the sketch they had booked forty-two weeks. When she got the telgeram at Southend she accepted, she came up to London, entered into the agreement, learned the part, and rehearsed it before seven o'clock the next night, when she left for Dublin.

Miss Lucy Agnes Gloagh, theatrical dressmaker, stated that she made two of the dresses for £10 15s. and £12 15s. She had seen the others, which cost probably £18 each, a cloak £6 16s., and two hats at 2 guineas each.

No evidence was called for the defence.

The jury found that plaintiff was engaged for the whole run of the piece, and that she was entitled to one-fifth of the takings. They assessed the dress allowance at £20, and gave her £45 damages for wrongful dismissal.

Judgment was given accordingly, with costs on the High Court scale.

"THEATRICAL ACCOUNTS FOR BUSINESS MANAGERS." How the affairs of a theatre can be most efficiently controlled by the adoption of systems of internal check. By Cuthbert E. Smedley, A.C.A. Price 3s. 6d., post free 3s. 9d. Address: The Publisher, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

The first performance this season of Puccini's La Tosca was given on Saturday evening, June 4, at Covent Garden, Mlle. Destinn as the heroine again repeating her powerful and intensely dramatic embodiment, being in fine voice. Tosca's great solo in the second act was splendidly sung, and the famous artist did not spare herself in the tragic scene with Scarpia, so full of horror and ghastly incidents. Mr. R. Martin made a youthful and manly Cavaradossi, and sung the music with fervour, while his artistic restraint in the torture scene toned down much of its repulsive features. At the close of the second act both Mlle. Destinn and Mr. Martin had a most enthusiastic reception. Signor Sammarco's Scarpia is familiar, and his polished acting of the cold, sarcastic villain as perfect as ever. The old Sacristan of Signor Malatesta was amusing, but not particularly refined in character; nor did Signor Sampieri give a very striking performance of Angelotti. The parts of Spoletta, Un Carceriere, and Un Pastore were filled by Signor Zucchi, Signor Pini, and Mlle. Egener. The Bellew and Stock choir sang well, and Signor Panizza, who conducted, secured a good performance.

A fine performance of Samson et Dalila was given at Covent Garden on Tuesday evening before a large audience, which included the distinguished composer of the opera, Dr. Camille Saint-Saëns. After a short absence abroad, Mme. Kirkby Lunn again gave her splendid and dramatic reading of Dalila, while the rich tones of her beautiful voice were heard to the greatest advantage in music so admirably adapted to the famous contralto. M. Dalmorés, who appeared as Samson for the first time this season, sang with power and real artistic expression, his fine presence being also particularly effective in such a part, and of the many artists who have undertaken this character M. Dalmorés' reading may, in many respects, be considered the best. As the old Hebrew Mr. Murray Davey was excellent, and continues to deepen the good impression he has already made by his full, resonant voice and clever acting. M. Bourbon made a dignified High Priest, and the rest of the cast was the same as on a former occasion. The chorus sang well, and M. Frigara conducted with the confidence that comes with experience in an opera which continues to advance in public esteem.

AMUSEMENTS IN ROTTERDAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

ROTTERDAM, JUNE 6.—The season of 1909-10 is at an end. The two closing performances at the Grand Theatre have been a commemorative Multatuli evening and a revival for one night at special request of the season's success The Straight Line. The Multatuli commemoration was a most interesting affair, the programme consisting of three acts of De Vorstenschool" ("The School for Sovereigns") and fragments of an unfinished comedy of Multatuli entitled Aleid. This bill had already been given in Amsterdam for the same object, which was to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of Max Havelaar, the most popular of the writer's works and one that has been dramatised and put on the stage repeatedly. Multatuli, a pseudonym for Eduard Douwes Dekker, and a combination of the Latin words multa tuli ("much have I suffered"), was born in Amsterdam in 1820, and died in 1887. He is admitted to be one of the most brilliant lights of Dutch literature. His play The School for Sovereigns remains as a standard work on the Dutch stage. It is written in blank verse, and is full of fine and elevated sentiments and effective scenes. As the Queen, the leading character of the play, Mrs. Tartaud scored her customary success. The other dramatis personæ were well enacted.

A SPECIAL series of performances have been organised at the Tivoli Theatre under the management of J. H. Speenhoff, the poet-singer. The name of Speenhoff is so popular in Holland that a number of his ditties sung by him to his guitar accompaniment are always the crowning point of the programme in every music hall of the land. The performance, which is of the parlour entertainment style, or say, of the German Reed order, consists of ditties sung by Speenhoff himself and by his wife and sketches and recitations, all from the gifted and easy pen of the poet-singer. The sketches are three in number, two of the light comedy nature, entitled Culture and The Foot, and one Bo-peep, of the farcical class. Mr. Speenhoff has made much of the summer vacation granted to the members of the Grand Theatre company, and has succeeded in engaging four of the younger artists of the same, to wit, Mesdames Mauhs and Van Twist and Messrs. Van Der Lugt Melsert and Dommelshuizen, their engagement lasting till August, when they return to their posts at the Grand. The four young artists did capital work in the sketches, the brunt of the labour falling, however, to Cor. Van Der Lugt Melsert whose finished and artistic acting entitles him to unstinted praise.

AMUSEMENTS IN NEW ZEALAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

WELLINGTON, APRIL 26.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson.—Mr. George Willoughby's English farce company, under the direction of Messrs. Clarke and Meynell, commenced a short season here with gratifying results in Weedon Grossmith's play The Night of the Party. The most truly drawn character was played by Mr. Willoughby himself, and that was the servitorial aristocrat Mr. Flambert, most formidable and incorruptible. Miss Mab Paul and Mr. Buckler were both responsible for excellent work; Miss Violet Paget as Lady Hampshire was also delightful, and Mr. David James gave a quiet and effective performance of Crosbie. General support was given by Miss Nellie Mortyne, Amy Willard, and Messrs. A. Cornell, Leopold Stach, and Harry Halley (an excellently mellow Bogle). The mounting was good.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

BY A. A. STRONG, LL.B. (LOND.), SOLICITOR.

Mr. Strong states the whole case very clearly.—Illustrated London News.

The work succeeds in making plain the thorny legal path that every manager and artist must tread, and by a timely consultation of its pages they may avoid much misapprehension and trouble.—Star.

"Dramatic and Musical Law," by Albert A. Strong, LL.B. (Era Offices, W.C.), has gone into a third edition, which would seem to prove its usefulness.—Sportsman, May 14, 1910.

Price 5s., post free 5s. 4d. Published at The Era Offices, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

"IT is seldom," says Mr. George Edwardes, in "My Reminiscences," in the Strand Magazine, "that a musical play, however popular it may be, pays its producer in London alone. The expenses are so enormous in the Metropolis—'stars' salaries, costly staff, and, above all, the expense of keeping up a West-end theatre—that even if the house is filled every night for a period running into months, there is, nevertheless, more often than not a loss incurred in London. Naturally enough, there are exceptions to this rule—for example, The Merry Widow paid, and paid well, but that was because of the great length of its run; but it is none the less a solid, unpleasant, and indisputable fact that in the majority of cases the real money-making enterprise is provided by the provincial, Colonial, and American tours which invariably succeed 'a hit' in London."

DETECTIVE PLAYS.

Poe, in his three short sketches of Dupin's penetrative talent, gave rise to the whole school of detectives in fiction, and thus communicated his influence directly to the drama—writes Mr. Robert Thurston in "The Green Book Album," an American publication. Sherlock Holmes, for example, is Dupin brought up to date, with practical criminology added to his genius for analysis; A. Conan Doyle has admitted the source of his inspiration, and the fact is patent to all who will read and compare.

France, among whose writers detectives have always been a passion, saw Dupin's possibilities first, and in the middle of the last century Gaboriau undertook to rival him with Lecocq and Vidocq, who were brought to the stage in various forms. Almost fifty years later, Sherlock Holmes sprang from Doyle's pen as Dupin's truly begotten son and heir, and William Gillette set him before the footlights with keen fidelity. The exploits of these gifted sleuth-hounds of the law naturally evoked an antithesis, the gifted rogue in E. W. Hornung's Raffles, and Arsène Lupin, but, of course, these gentlemen had to have good detectives to struggle with, just as Sherlock needed brilliant criminals to set off his skill.

The early history of the stage detectives must begin in France, since the French drama supplies the English and American with almost all of their material during the period of 1820-1890, and it still continues to contribute heavily. Melodramas that originated in France were adapted and copied and rewritten for consumption in London and New York, until the family tree of many plays that our fathers loved is too complicated to trace.

In 1867, Alexandre Dumas, the younger, wrote a novel called "L'Affaire Clemenceau," which was soon dramatised by himself and became known to the English-speaking stage as The Clemenceau Case. Crime and crime detection formed the basis of its plot. He followed it with a melodrama called The Danicheffs (written with a "silent partner") that also contained some notable detective work. Then from his father's novels about the great charlatan, Cagliostro, he made a play called Balsamo, which appeared in this country in different forms, one of them entitled The Queen's Necklace.

Then Sardou took up the game. In Poe's story of "The Purloined Letter" he found the germ of a play that he named Pattes des Mouches, and which is familiar to most of us as A Scrap of Paper. All of the leading actors of the older generation have appeared in this piece, and even now it is always first choice whenever a club of amateurs wish to give a dramatic entertainment. A Scrap of Paper is primarily a comedy of mysterious intrigue, the element of professional detection being minimised, but the plot takes many turns that would have appealed to Poe's Dupin. The letter which is its basis figures in the intrigue at every turn. It is hidden under a porcelain bust; it is half burned to light a lamp; it serves as a prop under the leg of a shaky table; it is used as a wad in loading a gun; it becomes a receptacle for butter; and, finally, it carries the proposal of marriage that brings everything to a happy ending.

Equally famous, and more typical of the true detective play, is Sardou's Dora, known to us as Diplomacy. The matter of foreign spies, which excited Paris during the Franco-Prussian war, was its motive, and its plot revolves upon the false accusation lodged against a girl on her wedding morning of having stolen an important official document from her husband and sent it to the enemy. The police officer who solves the mystery finds his clue in a peculiar perfume that lurks in "the papers." He traces it to the adventuress whose favourite scent it is, and lo! the villains are discovered. Augustin Daly gave Diplomacy its first American production, which was an event of much significance to the old-timers. Three years ago the New Theatre of Chicago (now defunct) revived it in its original form, with the true name of Dora.

Less known now, but of greater influence upon the old-fashioned American melodramas, is Meilhac and Halevy's Tricoche and Cacolet. The two gentlemen whose bizarre names form the title of this piece were a firm of private detectives, whose ingenuity is not surpassed even in the classic stories of Poe, Wilkie Collins, and Gaboriau. Tricoche and Cacolet were as fertile in disguises as Nick Carter, and they were constantly playing tricks upon one another in their impersonations. The play, in fact, is hilarious farce-comedy.

This brings up to the point that there are two types of detective plays, both melodramatic of course, but one serious and the other comic. In the former, of which Sherlock Holmes is a standard example, the exploits of the thief-catcher are always in the mood of tense excitement; in the latter, the plot, although adventurous, is pointed toward humorous effects. Arsène Lupin and Detective Sparkes are examples of the detective comedy of the day, and they are direct descendants of Tricoche and Cacolet.

From that play, also, came the concoctions of melodrama and burlesque that were the rage in this country thirty or forty years ago. Crude though they were, they trace back to the deft workmanship of Meilhac and Halevy. The gallery gods of those days, now the staid heads of families, remember with much glee The Phœnix, played by Milton and Dolly Nobles, which gave currency to that insane remark: "And the villain still pursued her." Sidney C. Franz was another representative of this school. He appeared in such "thrillers" as Marked for Life, in which a man's finger was shot off and did service as a clue, and The Blocked Game. Franz was originally a "black-face" comedian, and in these plays he donned a new disguise with every scene, like Tricoche and Cacolet, ending with his popular medium of burnt cork.

The detective tradition of those days, inherited from the French stage, was the relentless policeman and the sleuth of many disguises. Lecocq, of Gaboriau's stories, was only a diligent policeman, expert in disguise, and this strictly official view of the detective can still be found in Guerchard, the antagonist of the noble thief in Arsène Lupin, which came from Paris. The deductive detective, the cool, analytic thinker who solves the mystery without moving out of the room, is a creation of the English-speaking stage; he began with Dupin, figured in Jim the Penman, and came to a climax in Sherlock Holmes.

Mention of Jim the Penman brings that fine actor, E. M. Holland, into an interesting light. His portrayal of Captain Redfield in that play was so memorable that many years afterward he was asked to re-create the character in a different play—Raffles—which was dramatised by Eugene Presbrey from E. W. Hornung's stories. Those who saw the stuttering, bland Captain Crawshay run the gilt-edged Raffles (Kyrle Bellew) to earth, only to have him escape through a grandfather clock that masked a secret passage, were actually seeing Captain Redfield at his old tricks again. E. M. Holland, with his brother Joseph, also figured in another good detective piece, A Social Highwayman, a melodramatic comedy made by Mary A. Stone from a novelette by Elisabeth Phipps Train. That production was put on at the Garrick Theatre, New York, in Sept., 1895, under the auspices of Richard Mansfield. It and The Man with a Past, by the Paultons, also with the Holland brothers in the leading rôles, were the only plays ever staged by Mansfield as an actor-manager in which he himself did not appear.

The Ticket-of-Leave Man should not be overlooked among the detective plays. This melodrama by Tom Taylor was one of the most successful of its generation.

FOOTE AND GARRICK.

When Mr. Garrick was at the noon rehearsals (says Tate Wilkinson, as quoted by Mr. Percy Fitzgerald in his amusing Life of Samuel Foote, which was recently published by Messrs. Chatto and Windus, and which we reviewed) he ever was on the listen, and if he heard Foote and the performers joking, would enter all full of whim and affected affability and equality, and made himself one of the laughing group, and at every jest of Foote's appeared to pay particular tributes of surprise, applause, and attention; but when in turn he related what he had studied and prepared as very comical, if the same repetition of approbation as had gone before attendant to Foote's humour was wanting to his, he has been cut to the soul at finding Foote's superiority, which was generally the consequence when both were pitched for battle and eager for victory at the game of repartee and sparring sarcasm.

One great reason, as a man of wit, for Foote's superiority in such convivial meetings was that he, like the American, felt bold, knew his superiority, which was raised by the perfect knowledge of Garrick's fears, and which made Foote assail him, for he gave not himself the trouble to hate. Mr. Foote would frequently say to Mr. Garrick, "Bless me! we have been laughing away our time, it is past three o'clock; have you and Mrs. Garrick enough for a third without infringing on your servants' generosity, for I know they are on board wages? Besides, the kitchen fire may be gone out if it be one of your cold meat days; or, if one of Mrs. Garrick's fast days, I cannot expect a dinner on emergency." On Foote's repeating such a whimsical jargon, Garrick would act a laugh like Bayes, though all the joke lay, like Mr. Bayes's, in the boots.

Many meetings have I been at between those two great geniuses, and truly enjoyed them from that time to the present. But Mr. Foote's knowledge of Garrick was but superficial when compared with Mr. Murphy's; for Mr. Murphy's cool and sensible penetration made him a perfect judge of the whole inward soul of Mr. Garrick, while Foote, without perplexing himself with the fatigue of thinking, was contented with slighter materials to garnish his merriment—which amply satisfied his love of satire and cheerfulness. To speak seriously of these gentlemen, why Foote should have entertained such an inconceivable disgust to Mr. Garrick I cannot devise, unless from that implacable attendant, more or less, in the human breast called envy, which ever haunts the theatre. That Garrick had much reason to be offended with Foote is certain, and that he inwardly hated him is as certain; nor is that to be a matter of surprise, as Foote was ever endeavouring to expose, and even, if possible, to injure him. He gloried in it, and seized every opportunity to have a cut at him, and served him up as the maimed, not perfect Garrick—unless to acknowledge perforce, like Colley Cibber, who allowed (but with great difficulty) to Mrs. Bracegirdle, that really Garrick, he believed, had merit; but Foote never introduced his deserts or heard of him as an actor with pleasure or allowed him any credit for his theatrical abilities, but wished the conversation was over; or, if obliged to give his sentiments, would conclude with: "Yes, the hound had a something clever, but if his excellence was to be examined, he would not be found in any part equal to Colley Cibber's Sir John Brute, Lord Foppington, Sir Courtly Nice, or Justice Shallow."

But justice bids me say in favour of Mr. Garrick that to my knowledge he often assisted Mr. Foote with sums of money, not trifling, and Foote always attributed the favour done from fear, not generosity; yet it certainly was an obligation, and that service tendered when Foote has been in awkward situations for want of cash, and to relate facts on all sides I am here answerable.

The next night (he says) the house was jammed in every part—the morning of which was strongly rumoured that the actors of Covent Garden were highly enraged—that Mr. Sparks in particular was really disordered on the occasion—Mr. Holland called at the theatre and informed Mr. Garrick and Mr. Foote he had actually heard that Mr. Sparks was so much hurt and unhappy that he had taken to his bed and was dangerously ill. Foote immediately replied (in his laughing manner) that it could not be true, or that it must be a d——d lie; for he had met his wife with two pounds of mutton chops on a skewer for her husband's dinner. This impromptu occasioned a hearty green-room laugh.

At night the house was what we of the theatrical tribe like to see, and term chuck full in every part. On my first entrance there were marks of disapprobation, and on my second sounded to me at such an alarming height that I thought all was over; but the multitude of well-wishers, and the number whose curiosity had been raised, longed to be satisfied, and bore all before them.

This little piece went on in a most flourishing state till about the fifth or sixth night, when Mr. Sparks, of Covent Garden Theatre, felt himself so wounded by my attack on his acting (which truly was a very picturesque one, and those who remember him and me at the time will allow what I have here said) that he waited on Mr. Garrick, and requested he would not suffer him, as a man of credit in private life, and an actor of estimation in public, to be destroyed by such an illiberal attack on his livelihood, and, as it struck at his reputation, hoped he would not permit it in future as far as regarded himself, whom it had rendered miserable. Garrick said: "Why, now, hey, Sparks! why, now, hey, this is so strange now, hey, a—why, Wilkinson, and be d——d to him, they tell me he takes me off, and he takes Foote off, and so—why, you see that you are in very good company." "Very true, sir," says Sparks, "but many an honest man has been ruined by keeping too good company," and then Sparks made his bow and his exit. Mr. Garrick, however, came to the theatre at noon, paraded with great consequence up and down the stage, sent for me, and when I obeyed the mighty summons he was surrounded by most of the performers. "Now, hey, d——n it, Wilkinson!—now, why will you take a liberty with these gentlemen, the players, and without my consent? You never consulted or told me you were to take off, as you call it; hey, why, now, I never take such liberties—indeed, I once did it, but I gave up such d——d impudence. Hey, now, that is, I say—but you and Foote, and Foote and you, think you are managers of this theatre. But to convince you of the contrary, and be d——d to ye, I here order you, before these gentlemen, to desist from taking any liberty with any one of Covent Garden Theatre; and I think it necessary to avow and declare my abhorrence of what you have done, and at the same time to disclaim my consent or knowledge of it. I do not allow myself such unbecoming liberties, nor will I permit them from another where I am manager, and if you dare repeat such a mode of conduct after my commands I will fine you the penalty of your article."

"THE wonder is not that women should have produced so few good composers, but that they should have produced any, hampered as they have been in their musical education, in the means of supporting themselves during their early years, and in gaining a public hearing," says The Musical Times.

MISS MARIE WIECK, the sister-in-law of Schumann, took part recently in a concert in Berlin. In spite of her seventy-eight years, her fingers are said to be still agile. It was Miss Wieck who introduced Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto to the London musical public at the Crystal Palace in 1864, not Mme. Clara Schumann, as has been so often stated.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

"ON NE BADINE PAS AVEC L'AMOUR."

Lyric Comedy, in Verse, in Three Acts, founded on Alfred de Musset's Play, by Louis Leloir and G. Nigond, Music by Gabriel Pierné, Produced at the Opéra-Comique on May 30.

Camille ..... MLLE. CHENAL
Rosette ..... MLLE. BILLA-AZEMA
Dame Pluche ..... MME. DUVERNAY
Sylvaine ..... MLLE. CANTERY
Agélique ..... MLLE. JURAND
Nicole ..... MLLE. HERLEROY
Perdican ..... M. SALIGNAC
Blazius ..... M. VIGNEAU
Le Baron ..... M. CAZENEUVE
Janot ..... M. GUILLEMAT
Pierre ..... M. COULOMB
Belhomme ..... M. LANDRY

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS.—THURSDAY, June 2.—The great poet Alfred de Musset having died some fifty years ago, his works have become public property, with the result that irresponsible men of letters now pounce upon these masterpieces and "arrange" them to suit their own convenience. On ne badine pas avec l'amour is written in prose, but those acquainted with that delightful play know that this prose is music itself, and cannot be "improved." MM. Leloir and Nigond, however, thought otherwise, and they compiled a libretto, in verse, wherein they distorted and twisted the work like some "new art" furniture. The story is as follows:—In the opening act the Baron expects his son, Perdican, who has been studying law in Paris, and also Camille, his niece, returning from the convent where she has finished her education. Camille and Perdican have not met for years, but whereas Perdican is delighted to see his pretty cousin, the latter receives him so coldly that, sad at heart, he starts for a long walk in the forest. Suddenly he hears the voice of a young girl. It is Rosette, Camille's foster-sister; and she, his old playmate, welcomes him with a hearty kiss. When Perdican and Camille again meet the youth tells her that he plainly sees that she does not intend to become his wife, but that they might be friends for all that. Camille thereupon becomes less reserved, and confides to him that she wants to become a nun. "All my girl friends," she says, "have loved and suffered. I want to love, but I will not suffer. See, here, my lover!" and, taking a crucifix from her pocket, she shows it him. Camille writes to one of her friends that she pities Perdican, so madly in love with her. This letter falls into Perdican's hands, and he decides to teach the little coquette a lesson. He arranges things so as to meet Rosette when he knows that their conversation, near the fountain in the forest, will be overheard by Camille. He tells Rosette that he loves her, and that he is sure she will not become a nun and cultivate a selfish and mystic affection. The shot has struck home. In a violent scene with Perdican, wherein she upbraids him for the comedy he played with Rosette, Camille says: "I know that you did this out of revenge. I know you love me, but if you do not marry that girl after all you said to her you are a coward!" Perdican is quite prepared to marry the little peasant girl, but he wants a last interview with Camille. The two cousins meet, and before many moments have passed they fall into one another's arms. Suddenly a heartrending shriek is heard. Camille rushes into the next room. "What is the matter?" asks Perdican. "Rosette is dead," replies Camille. "Good-bye, Perdican." In the libretto, however, all the grit has been taken out of the work, and nothing remains but a commonplace anecdote wherein the personages seem to belong to another world. As to the music, it is very grey in tone, and not at all what we expected from such a clever composer.

"HANS, LE JOUEUR DE FLUTE."

Operette, by Maurice Vaucaire and G. Mitchell, Music by Louis Ganne, Produced at the Théâtre Apollo on May 31.

Lisbeth ..... MLLE. GINA FERAUD
Ketchen ..... MLLE. MILET
Mme. Pipermann ..... MLLE. DHERVILLY
Marcheande de Plaisirs ..... MLLE. DELYANE
Mme. Tantendorff ..... MLLE. LANDON
Hans ..... M. JEA PERIER
Yoris ..... M. DEFREYN
Van Pott ..... M. PAUL ARDOT
Pipermann ..... M. POUDRIER.
Petronius ..... M. HENRY
Guillaume ..... M. MILLER

M. Louis Ganne, the composer of this operette, wrote the famous song "Le Père la Victoire," as well known in England as it is in France. The plot of Hans, le joueur de Flûte is by no means novel; the music is not very original, yet the work scored a tremendous success. The ladies and gentlemen in the boxes and stalls shrieked themselves hoarse crying "Bravo!" and hundreds of gloves of all sizes were split in their enthusiasm. The fact is, the public did not so much applaud the work, but the triumph of French operette over the "musique savante," of which audiences have grown awfully sick; and as M. Ganne's score is very melodious, the house was delighted, and gave him quite an ovation. The plot is not complicated. Milkatz is a funny little town inhabited by terrible Philistines, solely bent on making and saving money. At one time Milkatz was famous for its beautiful dolls, but this industry has disappeared, and when Yoris, a young poet, manufactures a doll—which, according to custom, he wants to exhibit on the market-place—the people try to smash it. But an avenger arrives in the person of Hans, a mystic personage, the apostle of the ideal. He has a magic flute, and at his bidding millions of mice invade the warehouses filled with corn, the wealth of Milkatz. The townspeople then decide to steal Hans's flute so as to put things right. They gain possession of the instrument, but nobody can play it, and fresh calamities befall the city. The burgomaster then implores Hans to put an end to the visitation, and Hans grants this request on condition that they hold a competition of dolls, and that he may take for himself the one he likes best. This prize doll, however, is no other than Lisbeth, the burgomasters daughter, with whom Yoris, the poet, is in love, and who, of course, in the end becomes Yoris's wife. We have seen all this before, and the music, written chiefly in march time, is full of "reminiscences." But the work is all so bright and pretty, so charmingly sung and magnificently staged, that it is sure to have a long and pleasant run.

"LE CRAMPON."

Farce, in Two Acts, by Robert Dieudonné, Produced at the Nouveautés, on June 1.

Angèle ..... MLLE. TEMPLEY
Lucie ..... MLLE. DELYS
Femme de Ménage ..... MME. JENNY ROSE
Vieille Dame ..... MME. DAUBREY
Paul ..... M. COQUET
Eugène ..... M. CORBY
Octave ..... M. LANDRIN
Le Cocher ..... M. LAURET

PARIS, THURSDAY, June 9.—The Nouveautés is one of the few playhouses that remain open during the summer, and the management have given us the farce that will have to keep the bill during the hot months of the year. Like most farces, Le Crampon is a trifle complicated, but it is funny, and raises much laughter. Paul and Eugène are friends. Paul is married to the fascinating Lucie, and, according to custom, Eugène, the gay young bachelor, is Lucie's lover. At curtain rise we are in Eugène's chambers. Lucie has just left Eugène when Paul enters. He has come to ask Eugène a service of a delicate nature. He has met, in the Rue de la Paix, a young milliner called Angèle, and after a little conversation has asked her to meet him at Eugène's chambers. In fact, he not only wants to use his friend's apartment for his rendezvous, but has even passed himself off as Eugène. After some trouble Eugène consents to this dangerous arrangement. A few moments later Mlle. Angèle makes her appearance, bringing with her a huge trunk and several hat-boxes—all her worldly possessions. For Angèle belongs to that class of ladies the French call "crampon," i.e., creatures who, like the ivy, cling to those with whom she is brought into contact. She has not come on a flying visit—she has come to stop. When Paul sees the turn things are taking he clears out, leaving Eugène to get out of the business the best way he can. Some time after the latter, to his surprise, finds a lady in his bed. She calls him an intruder, and says she is waiting for the pseudo Eugène. Eugène orders Angèle to clear out, and when the lady refuses to move he tells her that Paul is a married man, who has assumed his (Eugène's) name, and that she will never set eyes on him again. Angèle, however, again shakes her pretty head. She says she has come to stay, and stay she will, if not with the pseudo Eugène, with the real Eugène. After awhile Lucie comes upon the scene, and after upbraiding her lover for deceiving her with another woman, she boxes his ears. Next we witness a violent dispute between Eugène and Paul, wherein Paul hits Eugène in the eye. Finally a visitor is announced, a M. Cufin, Angèle's former lover, whom she has thrown over to follow Paul. Cufin calls Eugène a scoundrel, and departs after having given him a sound box on the ears. Eugène then collapses. He accepts the inevitable, and allows Angèle to remain with him, secretly hoping that she may meet in the Rue de la Paix another gentleman to whom she will cling. Women of the Angèle type are not infrequent, and although the character of the lady has been somewhat overdrawn, the author has made her a very amusing personage, in many respects true to life. As the obstinate, gentle Angèle, devoid of any moral sense, Mlle. Templey was truly remarkable. In less able hands the character might have become caricaturesque, but Mlle. Templey came safely through the ordeal. M. Corby was very good in the difficult rôle of Eugène, and Mlle. Delys looked pretty and acted charmingly.

"BAGNES D'ENFANTS."

Drama, in Four Acts, by MM. André de Lorde and Pierre Chaine, Produced at the Ambigu, on June 2.

Mme. Lamare ..... MME. LEONTINE MASSART
La Directrice ..... MME. TALMONT
Mariette ..... MLLE. LEDUC
Charles Lamare ..... M. COLAS
Le Directeur ..... M. ANDREYOR
Louis Lamare ..... M. GOUGET
Bricard ..... M. DAILEU
Bardin ..... M. LIEZER
Georges Lamare ..... M. LAURENT
L'Idiot ..... M. CHEVILLOT

The French Revolution of 1789 swept away many shocking practices, yet, strangely enough, a few iniquitous laws have survived worthy of the Middle Ages. One of these confers on a father the right to have his son sent to a reformatory without the case being brought for investigation before a magistrate. In other words, a document signed by an irresponsible man is sufficient to deprive a youth of his liberty until he is of age. Worse still, some of these so-called reformatories are places where the unfortunate children are exploited and compelled to perform work beyond their strength to fill the pockets of heartless contractors. George Lamare, the sixteen-year-old son of a wealthy merchant, is a young rake who constantly gets himself into trouble, and in order to withdraw him from his bad associations the father writes to the director of a reformatory to fetch the boy. The latter is violently dragged from his home, and in the second tableau we see him thrown amidst a lot of miserable wretches, ill-treated by brutal warders, ill-fed, and overworked. The tyranny at last reaches such a point that the boys decide to make a fight for liberty. In an impressive tableau we see them crouched on the floor, apparently resting, but watching the two scoundrels to whose care they are entrusted. The silence is so intense, and the boys' motionless attitude is so uncanny, that the two cowardly warders are suddenly overcome with fear. Something tells them there is danger in the air, and one of them, overcome with abject terror, is on the point of going to seek help when a low whistle is heard, and in a second the boys have thrown themselves upon their tormentors and leave them half-strangled on the ground. In the final tableau the runaways are being hunted by the police. Louis Lamare, thanks to the kindness of a little peasant girl, is hiding in a barn; but when his retreat is discovered and the officials enter the barn Louis hangs himself. And by a cruel chance his parents happen to come upon the spot a moment after the drama has taken place. Admirably acted, Bagnes d'Enfants is sure to remain on the bill for a very long time.

A COMPANY from Brussels have taken possession of the Théâtre de la Rénaissance for the summer months, and have started their season with Le Mariage de Mademoiselle Beulemans, a play by MM. Fonson and Wicheler, which had a tremendous success in the Belgian capital. It was a bold venture for the Brussels artists to play before a Paris audience, but their boldness was well rewarded, for they had a tremendous and well-deserved success. The play is of the ordinary sentimental kind, but it gives us an insight into the life of the Belgian bourgeois, and the funny scenes and the queer Flemish French roused the laughter of the audience, who gave the Belgian artists a splendid reception. When, at the close of the performance, according to custom, the names of the authors had to be given to the public, M. Jacque, the funny man of the play, came forward, and, in his queer Belgian French said: "You want to know the names of the authors? Well, I don't mind telling you that they are two of my best friends, MM. Fanson and Wicheler!"

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

Minutes of the Council meeting held on Tuesday, June 7, at 32, Regent-street. Present: Mr. F. J. Arlton, in the chair; Mr. H. W. Mote, Hon. Solicitor; Messrs. Fred Morland, Robson Paige, C. F. Collings, Langford Reed, Murri Moncrieff, Clarence Derwent, Misses Vita Spencer and Beatrice Chester, and Mr. D. Young, Secretary.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The Secretary was instructed to acknowledge the letter of Mr. Thring (Secretary of the Society of Authors), and to inform him that the Council were in sympathy with his remarks re infringement of the rights of English dramatists, and that they would be glad if Mr. Thring would inform them by what method they could assist the Society of Authors in preventing the evil.

The Hon. Solicitor reported on three cases and the Council sanctioned action in one.

The Finance Committee's report was tendered by Mr. Arlton, and the Secretary submitted the report of sixty-two engagements negotiated through the agency from Jan. 3 to May 31. The House Committee's report was submitted by Mr. Arlton and adopted.

A motion by Mr. Fred Morland that £50 worth of debentures should be paid off caused prolonged discussion. Mr. Arlton, as a member of the Finance Committee advocated the advisability of waiting until the end of the year, so that the financial position of the Association could be clearly defined. The motion was carried by 6 to 2.

Election: Mary Goulden. Nominations: Margaret Dolamore, P. Gredge Twyman, William Guilbert, and Eve More Dunphie. The Secretary reported four engagements through the agency.

REPERTORY AT LIVERPOOL.

At the University Club, Liverpool, on the afternoon of the 2nd inst. Mr. Granville Barker, Miss Horniman, and Mr. Nigel Playfair delivered interesting addresses upon the subject of a Repertory Theatre to a large and representative audience, which included Sir Edward and Lady Russell.

Mr. ROBERT HIELD, who presided, said they were met that afternoon with the idea of starting a repertory theatre in Liverpool. There was a public large enough here to support such a theatre, for other cities had tried the experiment and had succeeded. What Glasgow and Manchester had done surely Liverpool could do.

Mr. GRANVILLE BARKER remarked at the outset that his main object was to afford what information he could as to the running of a repertory theatre. It was a serious problem in our social economy, and one that could not be got rid of. They could not now take up the position of the old Puritans and say, "We will get rid of it." They must have it. Taking Liverpool as a whole, he calculated, roughly, that 10,000 people went nightly to theatres and music halls, and seventenths of those people were between the ages of seventeen and thirty. Mr. Granville Barker went on to speak of the influence which the theatre must have upon the emotions, and contended that it was the most real and dynamic of all the arts. It was amazing to him that municipal rulers concerned themselves with all forms of art and almost invariably passed by the theatre on the other side. They concerned themselves with pictures, books, and music, but the theatre, which combined the three, and was, therefore, more a live influence, seemed to frighten them. He hoped that the old Puritan prejudice against the theatre as being dangerous, because it was alive, was being removed. How great was the evil they had to deal with, and how far did it fall behind what it ought to be? Many good people were in the habit of saying, "You have nothing between Shakespeare and Sheridan worth consideration." Well, he traversed that. There was a modern English drama which was well worth consideration. Looking back over the history of the English theatre for the past twenty years he saw what sacrifice and devotion there had been to bring about a renaissance of the English drama—a sacrifice of which they had a right to be proud. The state of the drama in England was really very bad. What had been done in Liverpool? Roughly speaking, it was true of Liverpool as of other towns, except one, that it merely got the scraps from the London stage. And those were often only got by accident. The speaker proceeded to give details of the character of the performances in Berlin and Hamburg, where, he said, the authorities saw that the public got good drama. It could not be got here by private management, and his complaint was that the whole of the English drama was produced in order to appeal to the greatest number of people in the shortest time. In art is was more important to consider the rights of the minority. It would, he averred, morally and socially pay Liverpool to put up a municipal theatre, and keep it open all the year round. It would be both honourable to art and economic in principle. They should have a good try at the repertory system, and do it for forty weeks in the year, taking a small theatre. If they wanted Shakespeare and the classics it would cost anything between £600 and £700 a week, but a cheaper compromise of lighter work would not amount to more than £400 a week gross. In Glasgow during three seasons forty plays, including six new and original ones, were produced. The expenses were £400 a week, and the receipts something over £300 a week. In conclusion, Mr. Barker said that a small theatre should be taken, and a company of youngish people, with elastic minds, engaged. They must have a catholic repertory, and play the best pieces of all classes. If they could get 4,000 people a week to pay an average of 2s. they would have a success.

Miss HORNIMAN, who has been so artistically successful in Manchester, delivered a short speech, and related the interesting advent of Arms and the Man at the Avenue Theatre, London. At the outset the play was so unpopular that they could not even "paper" the theatre. In Manchester she had not yet, she said, made a profit, but she was going to hold on. It seemed a great pity that nobody in Liverpool, where there was so much wealth, had the pluck to come out and fight her.

Mr. NIGEL PLAYFAIR, in supporting Mr. Barker's observations, communicated a message of cordial goodwill and sympathy from Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, who was greatly interested in the movement. The repertory theatre must not subsist on any one class of play—it must be educational. It was a reproach to Liverpool that generation after generation should be allowed to grow up without making the acquaintance of the Elizabethan plays and those of the Restoration period. The present taste, unless guided into better channels, must inevitably tend to sap the public mind.

Sir EDWARD RUSSELL, in proposing a vote of thanks to the speakers, hoped that systematic and well-considered efforts would be made to bring the undertaking into a businesslike form.

Mr. J. G. LEGGE seconded the proposition, which was carried.

NEW THEATRE FOR WASHINGTON.

Owing to the enterprise of the Alexandria Theatrical Co., Ltd., the erection of a large and commodious new theatre at New Washington, Co. Durham, improves the architectural appearance of the town, and meets a long-felt want. The site secured is in a central position, in close proximity to the main thoroughfare, and the building, which is built of red brick, with a slate roof, presents a noble and compact appearance. A handsome portico, ornamented with neatly designed pillars, gives to the entrance a fine aspect. The interior arrangements are of an up-to-date character, provision having been made for the seating accommodation of 1,800 people. The orchestral stalls have been furnished with superior tip-up chairs, and the pit has been made comfortable and cosy. The dress-circle is of semicircular shape, and the fittings are of a lavish and costly character. Red leather has been utilised for upholstering the whole of the seating accommodation throughout the interior of the building, which gives it quite a bright and attractive appearance. Much attention has been given to the stage construction, which provides every facility for first-class dramatic, vaudeville, and concert touring companies.

The dressing-rooms—six in number—are arranged on each side of the stage, and are replete with every convenience. In case of fire, a fireproof curtain can be readily lowered, and the exit arrangements are of a complete character. The entire building—stage and auditorium—is lit by electricity.

The contractors were Messrs. Hope and Tasker, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and the work has been carried out in a most satisfactory manner. The joint duties of secretary and manager have been entrusted to Mr. J. Turnbull, a gentleman who enjoys much popularity in the district. The formal opening of the theatre took place on Monday afternoon, Mr. Hugh M. Stobart, of Biddick Hall, performing the ceremony in the presence of a large and representative gathering. At night Mr. Wilson Howard's capable company appeared in Under the Iron Heel, with Miss Arnson in the chief rôle.

A COPY of "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

THE DRAMA IN BERLIN.

"GEWEHR AB!"

Play, in Three Acts, by Gert Hartenau, Produced at the Hebbel, May 25.

Larsen ..... HERR ROSEN
Gretchen ..... FRAULEIN SCHMIDT
Von Massow ..... HERR EHRENS
Von Nordan ..... HERR KARSTEN
Von Berg ..... HERR LUTTJOHANN
Bleier ..... HERR JOSEPHSKY
Keidel ..... HERR GROSS
Niess ..... HERR VON WOLZOGEN
Foekel ..... HERR WITTINGLER
Rein ..... HERR FREUND
Cohn ..... HERR LEOPOLD
Lange ..... HERR WERNER
Schmidt ..... HERR NOWOTNY

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, June 2.—This play is the work of a new author, and although the reception accorded to it was cordial, there is not very much to be said in its favour. A few dramatic moments save some of the scenes, and at times the dialogue is convincing and natural; at others, however, it is stilted and wearisome. Possibly these are faults of the amateur which may be eliminated by careful work in the future. The plot is dramatic; the action passes in military circles, and we are introduced to barracks life in a big town at the present day. Lieutenant von Berg is the hero—unfortunately the reverse of heroic. He loves Gretchen Schmidt, a pretty and charming girl of the middle classes, and intends to marry her. She has no fortune, and neither has he, so he finally decides it will be necessary to look out for a wealthy bride after all, and yet he cannot find it in his heart to give Gretchen up. The young officer then makes the acquaintance of Fräulein Rosen, the only daughter of a millionaire. She is inclined to favour the dashing Von Berg, who speedily proposes, and is accepted. He thus find himself in the embarrassing position of a man with two brides in spec. The climax is reached when Gretchen's brother—who happens to be serving his time in the army in Berg's regiment—is sent to the lieutenant's room with a message from the captain. Receiving no answer to his knock, the youth enters, finding his only sister—whom he adores—and his superior in each other's arms. Schmidt forgets himself in a burst of natural fury, and throws himself at the lieutenant, giving him a black eye and covering him with epithets the reverse of flattering. There can be but one end to such insubordination, no matter what has been the provocation. Schmidt is sentenced to several years' imprisonment, but the offender does not go scot free. He is advised to doff the scarlet coat of which he is so proud, and the unkindest cut of all is that his rich fiancée's father turns out to be an old friend of Gretchen's father, so that his disgraceful secret is a secret no longer. The lieutenant does the only thing possible to a Prussian officer under such circumstances; he puts a bullet through his brain as the curtain falls. The acting was good throughout, Fräulein Schmidt giving an excellent reading of the part of Gretchen, which is the only female rôle in the piece, as the second fiancée is kept behind the scenes. Herr Hartenau was called and warmly applauded.

AN amusing farce in four acts, entitled Der Vielgeliebte, by MM. Schmasow and Heinz, met with considerable success at the Friedrich Wilhelm Städtisches Theatre last week, and is still running well. The "Vielgeliebter," or much loved one, is Hugo Doering, an up-to-date young aeronaut, who is so fascinating and so easily fascinated that he has, in various weak moments, promised to wed no fewer than three young women. He is a Don Juan to his finger-tips—Don Juan of the aeroplane, who loves and flies away. His adventures are many and comical, and must be seen to be properly appreciated. The fun of both situations and dialogue is irresistible, and the acting was very bright. The piece should run well into the summer.

QUITE an unusual number of our theatres are playing this year through the summer, the reason being that Berlin is becoming more and more a visiting centre in the summer months—people passing from East to West and back again fill the city alone, to say nothing of the country cousins who come up to the capital, which is never overpoweringly hot, even in August. The Berliner will give its successful draw, Taifun, through the summer months; the Friedrich Wilhelm-Städtisches, the Apollo, Lustspielhaus, Kleines, Metropol, Neues Operetten Theatre, Schiller, and probably the New Schauspielhaus continue playing all the summer. During the holidays of the companies proper at the Komische Oper, Deutsches, Lessing, and Schiller O., their respective stages will be occupied by visit companies—at the Komische Oper by Director Linsemann, at the Deutsches by that of Dr. Emil Geyer, at the Lessing by the Cologne Residenz Theatre company (with a successful farce Kasernenluft), and at the Schiller O. by a first-class opera company. The Volks Oper continues its season of drama right through the summer, and while the Thalia company is away arrangement will be made for the boards to be occupied by other artists. All in all, our theatres this summer intend to be very busy. The Royal Opera and Royal Schauspielhaus close, as usual, for an eight weeks' vacation.

"DIE GOLDENE RITTERZEIT" (When Knights Were Bold) has passed its seventy-fifth performance at the Neues, and still proves an attraction.

"LENA WARNSTETTEN,"

Play, in Five Acts, by Ernst Ritterfeld, Produced at the Luisen Theatre, June 4.

Von Sattenfeld ..... HERR GERTNER
Von Warnstetten ..... HERR BERGER
Anna ..... FRAULEIN MILBITZ
Fred ..... HERR BREDOW
Lena ..... FRAULEIN SPRENGEL
Von Borkenhagen ..... HERR HAUSSIG
Kaete ..... FRAULEIN FISCHBACH
Fritz ..... HERR RITTERFELD
Von Romitten ..... HERR KOHLNER
Fanny ..... FRAULEIN RENIUS

BERLIN, THURSDAY, June 9.—A most cordial reception fell to the lot of the popular actor-author's new piece, and, despite a thermometer of something like 85 in the shade, it is filling the bill and the house as well every night. Herr Ritterfeld knows his audience thoroughly, for he has written and acted for them a goodly number of years, always conscientiously and well. The taste of the -n audiences is in the direction of the melodrama, or, failing that, the volks-play. It is at this house that so many English melodramas have been produced successfully. Herr Ritterfeld has combined the characteristics of both types of piece in Lena Warnstetten; there is humour and pathos, tragedy and comedy, and some little sentimentality in every act, while the plot is admirably developed and the characters are well drawn. Lena is the daughter of an impoverished nobleman, Hermann von Warnstetten. She loves Heinz von Romitten, the friend of her childhood, and he loves her dearly, too. Heinz, however, is poor, comparatively speaking; he is a gentleman farmer on a modest scale and the girl is prevailed upon, after a long and bitter struggle, to sacrifice herself for her family, and wed a wealthy landowner named Fritz von Borkenhagen, although she entertains a great dislike for him. Once married, she tries to make the best of things, and be a good wife to Fritz. He is a man of noble qualities, and gradually Lena learns to like and respect her husband, although her heart still belongs to Heinz, who is naturally disconsolate. She struggles to overcome her love for the wrong man, but in vain. Borkenhagen now proves himself the hero he is. His wife is calumniated, and he defends her to the extent of challenging the offender to a duel. He takes a tender farewell of his young wife; you never can tell how these things may end, he thinks, no matter how good a shot you may be. And his instinct proves correct; he is killed, and Lena is left a sorrowing widow—sorrowing, but not inconsolable. We are assured that when the time of mourning has expired—it is said to be two years, but we feel convinced the period will be shortened—Heinz will claim the reward of his patient waiting. The interpretation was good all round, and the author and his brother-artists were summoned before the curtain repeatedly in response to general applause.

THE Wagner cycle at the Royal Opera has been attended with complete success, notwithstanding the smallness of the stage at the New Royal Opera House, where the company is playing until such time as the old house is patched up again. The only work of the series that was unable to be given on account of the difficulties of staging was The Flying Dutchman, but all the others, including the "Ring," went splendidly. Margarete (Faust), Lohengrin, Mignon, The Merry Wives, and Madama Butterfly, with one performance of Tristan and Isolde, are filling the bill until next Tuesday, when the eight weeks' vacation commences. The house does not close; on the contrary, Herr Hermann Gura—who has given three successful seasons there already during the summer months—will again occupy the boards with his first-rate company, one of the stars of which is his wife, née Fräulein Hummel, daughter of the well-known Berlin composer.

MISS FLORENCE EASTON (Mrs. Francis Maclennan) will unfortunately not be able to sing the part of Butterfly (which rôle she created at the Royal Opera) on Saturday, as she has been compelled to undergo an operation for appendicitis. Her many friends and admirers are very anxious about her, and her husband spends all the time he can spare from his duties at the private hospital where the patient is lying. Mrs. Maclennan is doing well, according to the doctors' latest reports, but she will have to take a long holiday after she is convalescent.

HERR REINHARDT, of the Deutsches Theatre, is on tour with his entire company. They are now at Vienna, playing at the Theater on der Wien, and drawing, I am told, excellent houses. In the meantime Herr Geyer is occupying the Deutsches with a good company. The piece thus far produced with most success is Björnstjerne Björnson's drama, Ueber unsere Kraft ("Above our strength"), which is the late author's best work, and which ran for a long time at the Berliner a number of years ago. It has not been revived here for a long time, and is drawing well.

CRICKET.

MISS HORNIMAN'S CO. v. NEW THEATRE (CAMBRIDGE) STAFF.

This match was played on Parker's Piece, Cambridge, on June 3, and resulted in a draw. Miss Horniman's company batted first, and the well-known actor-manager Mr. Ian Maclaren opened the innings with Mr. Leonard Mudie. Mr. Maclaren made 18 in good, vigorous style, and gave his side a useful start. Mr. Henry Austin, who went in third wicket down, played excellent cricket, and carried his bat out for 21. The highest scorer on the opposite side was Bennett, who was bowled for 15. Scores:—

MISS HORNIMAN'S COMPANY.

Ian Maclaren, b Laughton	18
Leonard Mudie, b Dye	4
Charles Bibby, c and b Dye	2
Stanley Drewitt, c Alphonso b Adams	0
Henry Austin (capt.), not out	21
Drey, b Dye	5
Vic. Newman, b Alphonso	12
J. V. Bryant, b Alphonso	1
McWilliams, st Evans b Laughton	1
Owen, b Laughton	4
Keogh, b Laughton	2
Extras	9
Total	79

NEW THEATRE COMPANY.

Laughton, not out	3
Bennett, b Drewitt	15
Gray, b Maclaren	9
Dye, not out	4
Extras	0
Total (2 wickets)	31

THE GRAND THEATRE STOCK COMPANY, NOTTINGHAM, v. THE HYSON GREEN TRADESMEN.

This match was played on June 7, and resulted in a win for the Stock Company by the narrow margin of one run. For the winners Gerald Venning bowled really well, and Messrs. Geo. H. Asquin and Herbert Morgan batted in excellent style. Scores:—

HYSON GREEN XI.

G. Davis, b Venning	1
A. Hempsall, b Porter	0
H. Seaney, b Venning	14
J. Badder, c Asquin, b Venning	7
T. Shipside, c Minster, b Porter	1
R. Badder, c Sharman, b Porter	0
L. Hopper, c MacIver, b Porter	9
E. Stokes, not out	7
R. Phillips, lbw, b Asquin	0
W. Seaton, st Morgan, b Asquin	1
T. Apinshaw, c and b Asquin	2
Extras	15
Total	57

GRAND STOCK CO.

G. Venning, b Seaney	0
B. Levey, run out	6
Geo. H. Asquin, b Badder	16
Herbert Morgan, b Badder	16
B. Porter, c Stokes, b Badder	0
Otto Minster, c Hempsall, b Badder	0
A. Schipper, b Hempsall	1
L. Nolan, c Phillips, by Hempsall	0
H. Kenney, st Hopper, b Stokes	3
T. MacIver, not out	6
T. K. Sharman, b Stokes	0
Extras	10
Total	58

NEW PLAYS OF THE MONTH.

BERLIN.

Der Albino, one-act farce, by Gustav Meyrink; Deutsches Chamber Plays, May 1.
Brüderlein fein, musical farce, by Leo Fall and J. Wilhelm; Deutsches Chamber Plays, May 1.
Goethe, burlesque, in two acts, by MM. Friedell and Polgar; Deutsches Chamber Plays, May 1.
Der Flieger, three-act farce, by MM. Brennert and Lehmann; New Schauspielhaus, May 4.
Des Mädchens Lebenswege, melodrama, in four acts and twelve scenes, by W. Melville-Luisen; May 5.
Staatsanwalt Alexander, four-act play, by Carl Schüler; Volks Oper, May 6.
Die Liebe wacht, four-act farce, by MM. de Caillavet and de Flers; Schiller, May 7.
Der neue Paris, comedy, in three acts, by Fedor Cohn; Hebbel, May 14.
Glück bei Frauen, three-act farce, by MM. Engel and Horst; Thalia, May 14.
Die Rast der Kavallerie, ballet, in three acts, by Arnsheimer (Imperial Russian ballet season); Komische Oper, May 17.
Der Generaldirektor, play, in two acts, by Kiara Blüthgen; Volks Oper, May 17.
Der Vielgeliebte, four-act farce, by MM. Schmasow and Heinz; Friedrich Wilhelm Städtisches, May 18.
Nur ein Traum, comedy, in three acts, by Lothar Schmidt; Kleines, May 19.
Marianne, five-act volks-play, by C. Drexler-Manfred; Luisen, May 20.
Gewehr ab! drama, in three acts, by G. Hartenau; Hebbel, May 25.

"OH, CHRISTINA."

A Comedy, in Three Acts, by J. J. Bell and Laurence Therval, Produced for the First Time at the Royalty, Glasgow, on Monday, June 6.

Miss M'Indoe ..... MISS LOLA DUNCAN
James Baldwin ..... MR. CAMPBELL GULLAN
Miss Purvis ..... MISS ELSPETH DUDGEON
Christina ..... MISS MARGARET NYBLOC
Customer ..... MR. CYRIL GRIFFITHS
Jimale McPhie ..... MR. GEORGE TAWDE
Child ..... MISS ALICE SMITH
Mrs. McLeerie ..... MISS AGNES BARTHOLOMEW
Dr. Reid ..... MR. NORMAN MCKEOWN
Flora ..... MISS BLANCHE PEARL
Rev. Mr. Beaton ..... MR. WALTER ROY
Mrs. Pumphrey ..... MISS P. WHITE
Customer ..... MISS WINIFRED GUNN

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The latest novelty submitted by the Glasgow Repertory Company is a dramatic version of the story of the same name by Mr. J. J. Bell, the author of Wee Macgreegor. It tells of the sensation caused in the household of a quiet, and prim old maid, Miss Purvis, who keeps a small stationery and fancy goods shop in a Clyde watering-place, by the advent of her niece, Christina, a young Glasgow girl of twelve years, with an extensive knowledge of slang and a boisterous tom-boy disposition that cause Miss Purvis many an anxious moment. Christina is an ardent reader of novelettes, and with the romantic notions gathered there, sets herself to bring about a marriage between her aunt and Mr. Baldwin, an elderly traveller, who visits the shop on his monthly rounds. Christina also devotes a deal of her surplus energy to reforming the rather sleepy method of conducting a shop adopted by Miss Purvis, and with her sharp wits and the buoyant unscrupulousness of youth, she introduces a number of business ideas that rather shock the sedate aunt. In the evolving of the story various characters tend to help or hinder the progress of the elderly wooers, but in the end all is arranged to Christina's satisfaction.

The play can hardly be called dramatic in form, being rather a cleverly-devised series of character studies, but their truth and fidelity, with the humour of Mr. Bell's dialogue, combined to catch the fancy of the first night's audience, and they were unstinted in their appreciation. The outstanding character is, of course, Christina, and this part was acted with infinite skill and humour by a young Glasgow actress, Miss Margaret Nybloc, who made a decided hit in the part. Miss Elspeth Dudgeon as the prim old aunt, Miss Purvis, gave a delightful study, and her scenes with the niece and with her elderly admirer, Mr. Baldwin, cleverly acted by Mr. Campbell Gullan, were extremely well done. A richly-humorous impersonation of a talkative dame, Mrs. McLeerie, was given by Miss Agnes Bartholomew, and was a genuine excerpt from real life that roused the audience to enthusiasm. Mr. George Tawde as the "little vulgar boy," who first annoys and then aids Christina in her schemes, added another to the amusing parts he has played during the Repertory season. The other characters are merely sketches, but each was given with the artistic moderation necessary to fit into the general scheme. The play was produced by Miss Madge M'Intosh, assisted by the author, and two excellent scenes were specially designed and painted for the production by Mr. Leslie J. Cacey. The first scene shows the back parlour of the shop, with the array of toys and fancy goods seen through the dividing partition; and the second and third acts take place in the shop itself, with the parlour in the background. The staging of the shop was extremely good, a wealth of "properties" being requisitioned to give realism to the scene. The reception of the play was very cordial, and in response to the demands for the author, Mr. Alfred Wareing introduced Mr. J. J. Bell, who thanked the audience, on behalf of Mr. Therval and himself. The amusing comedietta, The American Widow, by Miss Rosina Filippi, was given in front, and in this Miss Agnes Bartholomew was particularly happy as Mrs. Van Bright, assisted by Mr. Cyril Griffiths as the Earl of Somerville.

A WARRANT WITHDRAWN.

At the Edgware Police-court on Thursday Joseph St. Clair, 46, Brewer-street, Woolwich, theatrical manager, was charged, on remand, with embezzling £160 10s., belonging to the Moody-Manners Opera Company. Mr. Huntley Jenkins (instructed by Mr. W. H. Mote) appeared for the company, and Mr. H. H. Olley defended.

It was alleged against defendant, who had managed one of the touring companies for seven seasons, that on receipt of notice in May that his services would not be further required after the completion of the tour, he wrote to Mr. Charles Manners, enclosing a statement of account claiming that the company owed him £155 10s. Two members of the staff had been dispensed with during the tour, he wrote, and as their duties fell upon his shoulders he was entitled to claim their wages, together with repayment of an unwarranted reduction in his own salary. Added together, these items made a total of £295 10s., against which he had £140 in hand, leaving a balance due of £155 10s. He added that he welcomed an investigation in court, as it would afford him an opportunity of exposing "the company's mean and contemptible methods of producing grand opera in English."

Mr. Huntley Jenkins, after reviewing the facts, said during the adjournment defendant had taken the very proper advice of Mr. Olley and had written Mr. Charles Manners a letter, in which he said:

"Referring to my letter to you of May 11, in which I made various statements against you, your wife, and her sister, I hereby unhesitatingly withdraw such statements, and say they are not correct, and I hereby express my regret for having written such a letter, and I consent to your publishing this letter in any newspaper you think proper."

Counsel added that the accounts were entirely a matter for a civil court, and should not have been made a matter of criminal prosecution, and for that reason he asked leave to withdraw the warrant.

Mr. Olley said he could have satisfied the Court that no criminal offence had been committed by his client, and he endorsed the remarks of Mr. Jenkins.

The Bench then consented to the withdrawal of the warrant.

AT the Paris Opera objection has been taken by a subscriber to the slightness of the costume worn by Mme. Marie Kousnezoff in Thais. Mme. Kousnezoff wore the same costume in Massenet's opera at Brussels, St. Petersburg, and in Paris last year, and no one took exception to it. M. Messager, one of the managers of the Opera, asked the artist to make an addition to her dress, but she refused on principle.

SIR GEORGE REID, High Commissioner and first Premier of the Federal Government of Australia, received Mr. Richard B. Mason personally on the 3rd inst., and accepted the dedication of a new patriotic song, composed by Mr. Mason, entitled "Young England," words by the Lord Norton. Mr. Mason was until recently for three years a member of Mr. Brandon Thomas's company with Charley's Aunt, and played the part of Charley Wykeham in four revivals of this comedy in the West End. "Young England," the words of which were approved by our late King, is now in the Press, and will be published by Messrs. W. Morley and Co.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MISS VIOLA COMPTON.

Miss Viola Compton is one of those fortunate people who are actors and actresses by inheritance as well as by temperament, for she comes of a famous theatrical family on both sides. The eldest daughter of Mr. Edward Compton, her mother delighted playgoers under the name of Virginia Bateman, and her aunts, Miss Compton (Mrs. R. C. Carton) and Miss Bateman (Mrs. Crowe) bear names written largely in the theatrical annals of our time. Miss Viola Compton made her first appearance on the stage at the age of five, when she played Charles Darnay in the prologue of her father's production of Sydney Carton. Apropos of this, a story is told to the effect that her two brothers were intensely jealous of her being selected for the part, so were allowed to go on in the crowd during the trial scene as compensation. They afterwards declared that their parts were far more difficult than hers, for "Viola only has to say 'Yes, I will, mother,' whilst we have to keep on shouting till the curtain goes down!"

A gap of thirteen years was bridged over by school performances and charity matinées, and Miss Compton's professional career may be said to have begun when, at the age of eighteen, she joined her father to play a round of parts in his company—Selina in Davy Garrick, Maria in The School for Scandal, Julia in The Rivals, Mrs. Thornton in The Reformed Rake, Mrs. Beauclere in To-morrow, and Gabrielle in Tom Noddy's Secret, a one-act play. She played these for a few months, at the end of which time she succeeded Miss Haidee Gunn in the leading parts—Lady Teazle, Kate Hardcastle, Lydia Languish, and Violet Gresham—in Davy Garrick, and Anastasia Coke in To-morrow, all of which she studied in the short space of a month, rehearsing them by day and playing the other parts at night. During this time she was appearing under the name of Mackenzie in order to obtain a perfectly unbiased opinion from Press and public. She took the family acting name of Compton when she appeared with her father during his London season at the St. James's Theatre, succeeding Miss Suzanne Sheldon in The Eighteenth Century, and playing Lady Sneerwell in Mr. Compton's revival of The School for Scandal. Since then she has again been playing lead with the Compton Comedy Company, and has also appeared with signal success as a reciter, having scored a veritable triumph at a recital she gave at the Steinway Hall. She, however, finds reciting rather solitary and wearing work, and prefers the stage proper. Last autumn Miss Compton won honours in the part of Nell

[Photo by Hubbard.

MISS VIOLA COMPTON.

Gwynne in a play by Frankfort Moore entitled The Impudent Comedian, produced at the Coronet at the matinée for the Actors' Church Union.

MR. EDWARD AVINAL.

Although born in Chepstow, Mr. Edward Avinal, who is well known as a leading aristocratic heavy man, is proud to call himself a "man of Kent," descending as he does from an old Kentish family. Educated at Cheltenham College, and afterwards at Clare College, Cambridge, his people intended him to enter the Church, as so many of his family had done, but he preferred to try for the Army as an University candidate. However, he failed in this, and was debarred a second attempt owing to the age limit. He entered the theatrical business under the able auspices of Mr. Edward Lockwood, learning acting-management with Messrs. Horace Sedger and William Greet's Maid Marion company, afterwards touring with The Mountebanks. He then had his own tour of eight weeks with the successful musical comedy Randolph the Reckless, travelling over forty people. After this he obtained a remunerative billet in the Controller's Branch of the G.P.O., but the glamour of the stage was too strong, and after a while he threw it up and obtained an engagement with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Scarth, to play a small part and acting-management with their tour of their own play, Forgive Us Our Trespasses. At the conclusion of a fourteen weeks' pantomime engagement with the Milton Rays in Dick Whittington, at the Grand Theatre, Glasgow, Mr. Avinal rejoined Mr. and Mrs. Scarth for another long tour. Then succeeded a variety of parts with various managers, during which he gained practical experience in all departments of the business. The autumn of 1898 found him playing Charles Prescott and serving as acting-manager for Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's My Jack tour, at the conclusion of which he was engaged by the same firm to play Henri Martin in the spring tour of The Terror of Paris. Miss Marie Dagmar next secured him for the part of Colonel Tumbleoff and acting-management for her first tour of A Life's Revenge. Then came a long and most successful tour with Mr. James Stephens, playing Stephen Clinton, the heavy lead, in The Golden Chance. Among subsequent engagements were those of Matthew Mardyke and Cromwell with F. H. De Quincey's tour of The Days of Cromwell, The Ratcatcher, lead in James Bell's Through the World, Sir Rupert Warriner in A Queen's Vengeance, heavy lead in On Active Service, Captain Badaire in The Gamester of Metz (two tours), Hunter Gowan in The Rebel's Wife, Lieut. Langley in The King of Terrors, Captain Gilchrist in Bootles' Baby, Silas Bradley in For the Woman He Loves, and Roland Goldsworthy in When the Lights are Low.

In 1905 came Mr. Avinal's first engagement with Messrs. Haddon and Loader, playing the title-rôle in The Greatest Scoundrel Living. Afterwards he played Harry Travers in The King of Thieves. At the conclusion of this engagement he was retained by Mr. Walter Howe to play Frank Manton, lead, in A Victim of Villainy. He then produced for the late George Ginnett the spectacular sketch Dick Turpin, at the Hippodrome, Birmingham, and also toured with same. After this came his first engagement with Miss Winifred Mande, playing Charles Etherington in The Stowaway and Ralph Blackwater, K.C., in The Sins of a City. A special six weeks' heavy lead in At War with Women was followed by a summer tour with Mr. Sidney Dench, playing the heavy lead in The Rich and Poor of London. He then joined Mr. Jack Haddon to play Michael Ramonoff in his autumn tour of Under the Russian Flag. In the following spring he rejoined Mr. Haddon, this time playing Wolf Marischka. Afterwards he was engaged by Messrs. Cameron and Alexander to create the leading heavy rôle of Colonel Jules Vermond in their production of Under the Stars and Stripes. Then followed eighteen months with Mr. Henry L. Ormond in répertoire, playing Phillip Manners in The Master Criminal, George D'Alroy in Caste, Robert Overstone in A Woman's Revenge, and Mr.

[Photo by Jamieson and Cowsill.

MR. EDWARD AVINAL.

Brownlow in Oliver Twist. At the termination of his engagement with Mr. Osmond, Mr. Avinal was engaged by Messrs. Sherwood and Martin to play Captain Slade in The Way of the World. For the first six months of last year he was playing the principal heavy parts with Mr. H. G. Brandon's sketches on the London halls. In the autumn he joined Miss Winifred Maude, to play his old parts. Since last November he has been playing Gilbert Carlton, the heavy lead in J. Forbes Knowles's successful drama, Her Marriage Vow, and is engaged for principal heavies in J. Forbes Knowles and Robert Arthur's stock season at His Majesty's Theatre, Aberdeen.

MR PERCY RHODES.

In 1891, under the management of the late Sarah Thorne, Mr. Percy Rhodes made his first appearance on the stage. During his two seasons with her he appeared in many and various characters, ranging from melodrama to Shakespeare, among them being the Prince in Romeo and Juliet, Don John in Much Ado, the King in Hamlet, and Lord Stanley in Richard III. for one night only, the occasion being the benefit of Mr. Lyall Swete, who appeared as Richard, Buckingham being portrayed by Mr. Seymour Hicks. Mr. Rhodes next appeared in "a silent part," that of a footman in Lady Windermere's Fan at the St. James's Theatre; but after six weeks of "walking on" and understudying, he went into the provinces in search of a wider experience. The following is a list of his engagements from 1892 to 1904, many of them being what are technically known as "gentlemanly heavy" parts:—Dick Dugdale in The Pointsman, Jem Dalton in The Ticket-of-Leave Man, Captain Crozier in A Woman's Reason, Lord Thamesmead in An Artist's Model (Mr. Rhodes's only appearance, so far, in musical comedy), Nigel Chester in Tares, John Mildmay in Still Waters Run Deep, Paul de Vigne in Human Nature, Father Michael in The English Rose, Captain Maitland in Tommy Atkins, Captain Chandos in A Life of Pleasure, Clifford Armytage in The Lights o' London, Richard Redcliffe in Alone in London, General Ivanoff in The Broken Melody, Denby Grant in The Great Millionaire, and Lord Burford in Hearts Are Trumps. The accompanying portrait is of Mr. Rhodes as Charles II. in His Majesty's Servant, one of his favourite parts.

[Photo by Small.

MR. PERCY RHODES.

In the summer of 1905 he appeared as Jaques in some pastoral performances of As You Like It, under the direction of Miss Madge McIntosh, and in the autumn of the same year he went on tour to play Lieutenant Alan Graeme in Mr. J. B. Fagan's Adelphi play Under Which King? In the spring of 1906 he appeared in the provinces as Paul Sylvaine in Leah Kleschna, under the management of Mr. Charles Frohman, and was after this engaged by Mr. Forbes-Robertson to go to America to play the Ghost in Hamlet, Antonio in The Merchant of Venice, and Rufio in Mr. Bernard Shaw's Cæsar and Cleopatra. On his return from America, in May, 1907, he was engaged by Mr. Henri de Vries to play the Magistrate in A Case of Arson at the Haymarket Theatre. Following this came two further engagements with Mr. Forbes-Robertson, to play Nilghai in The Light that Failed, and Brabantio in Othello, re-appearing as Rufio in Cæsar and Cleopatra at the Savoy Theatre in December, 1907. In 1908, during this most pleasant engagement, he married Miss Dorothy Paget, also a member of the company, and who has recently appeared with Mr. Robertson as Stasia in The Passing of the Third Floor Back. In the spring of last year Mr. Rhodes went on tour to play Philip Christian in Pete, and quite recently visited Berlin with Mr. Gerald Lawrence, appearing in the German capital as Jaques and Friar Lawrence. Recently he concluded an engagement as Izra Mahomet Khan in The Fighting Chance at the Lyceum Theatre. He is very fond of walking and golf—and his own fireside.

MR. ROBERT ENTWISTLE.

Twelve years ago Mr. Robert Entwistle started his stage career by touring in the Adelphi drama, The Fatal Card, in which he played four parts, and made himself generally useful. At the end of that tour he had a turn in fit-ups, and experienced twelve months of one-night towns. He then returned to the regular theatre, and for three years he had an excellent schooling in drama, stock seasons, &c. Subsequently he devoted his energies to comedies and plays, especially stage-management, which he had the good fortune to learn under Mr. Percy Hutchison, a gentleman so adept at the business. After two years under this management, Mr. Entwistle joined Mr. Norman Macowan, playing Beau Nash in Monsieur Beaucaire, Sir Oliver Surface, Harker in Violets, and Marshall in Captain Swift. His next important part was that of the Earl of Dorincourt in Little Lord Fauntleroy, and went from this to Mrs. Patrick Campbell as stage-manager. Soon afterwards he assisted Mr. Davey in producing pantomime at Kingston, also producing it the following year and stage-managing on tour. Some time ago Messrs. Jay and Mann entrusted to Mr. Entwistle the responsibility of producing all their three companies for their second tour of An Englishman's Home. He was also their stage-manager on the first tour of the piece mentioned, and has recently officiated in the same capacity with one of their other companies. Mr. Entwistle's greatest wish is to get an appointment in America, where his brother, Mr. Harold Entwistle, is doing well under Mr. Chas. Frohman's management. "America," says Mr. Entwistle, "is a land of great possibilities, and where one's work is appreciated far more than in the old country. My motto is the more work the better the remuneration and the position. Therefore I hope to get the chance to go to the States, where one can get any amount of work." Five years ago Mr. Entwistle married, and he and his wife have always held joint engagements. He finds in Mrs. Entwistle the greatest help and guide, whose advice he has never found at fault.

MR. ROBERT ENTWISTLE.

THE FUTURE OF THE THEATRE.

Mr. Granville Barker lectured on the "Future of the Drama in England" at the Times Book Club on Thursday. We were now, he said, fairly launched on a rather important theatrical development, such as began in France eighty or ninety years ago. There were evidences of this in the movement for a national theatre. The "muddlement" in art at the present day was absolutely ludicrous. Serious literature in England was practically barred except to men of independent means. He was glad to say the theatre was a thoroughly vulgar and democratic art. Now it was awake to its needs it would probably have no scruples against making its complaints heard, and shouting in the market-place until it got what it wanted.

One of the reasons why nothing had been done in England for the theatre was that English people had hardly got over their shame at the existence of such an awful place. To say that Shakespeare was not only a national inheritance but a national responsibility was to utter a phrase that had now acquired real meaning. The work of the State was being extended in ways quite undreamed of a generation ago. He really could not see why the State should not be given the responsibility of looking after dramatic and literary intelligence.

Why not put artistic and literary institutions under the direction of a Ministery of Fine Arts, half advisory and half mandatory? It might build and open a theatre simply and solely for the sake of Shakespeare's plays alone. This theatre might be opened free, just as we had a free National Gallery and British Museum—and he did not think it would cost much more to maintain. A free theatre would always be full—filled with people who really wanted to see plays; it would not be a convenient place for flirting or sleeping. It would only cost a paltry few thousand pounds a year. He would rather choose as a name for the new theatre, the Normal Theatre, giving normal drama, about normal people, who could be normally successful under normal conditions.

If we were to have an artistic nation we must see that our workers had a little more leisure to enjoy good art—two hours less work a day meant all the difference in a man's selection and appreciation—and that our idlers had a little less leisure. The play of the future would be a vivid reflection of the life of the time. The people attending would prefer to see people other than those who could not exist upon an income of less than £5,000 a year, and would like to have a view of dukes and duchesses from some other angle than that of the average shop girl.

"THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER." By Albert A. Strong, LL.B. (Lond.). Price 3s. 6d., post free 3s. 10d. Address, THE PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-st., Strand, W.C.

"MY LADY BELLAMY."

Play, in Four Acts, by Dorothea Moore, Produced at the Theatre Royal, Leamington, on Monday, June 6.

King William III. ..... MR. E. H. BROOKE
Lord Crawford ..... MR. ARTHUR LAYLAND
Mr. Robert Tarfax ..... MR. HERBERT MAULE
Sir Geo. Barclay ..... MR. L. D. ARTHUR
Captain Van Hesler ..... MR. HAMPTON GORDON
Captain Otley ..... MR. A. L. BURKE
Sim Waring ..... MR. PATRICK ALEXANDER
Mr. Hemming ..... MR. ARTHUR BLAIR
Sudwell ..... MR. GEO. LITTLETON-HOLYOAKE
John Hemming ..... MISS NELLIE SHAW
Maurice Hemming ..... MISS NORAH JOHNS
Sir Gervase Bellamy ..... MR. ALEX. MACLEAN
Queen Mary II. ..... MISS ALICE PALMER
Mrs. Bathsheba Hemming ..... MISS MAUDE HARCOURT
Mrs. Mackie ..... MISS MARGHERITA GORDON
Henrietta Lady Bellamy ..... MISS LAURA LEIGH

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

My Lady Bellamy shows considerable originality. During the four acts many thrilling incidents occur, and there is a liberal amount of comedy and pathos. The period is between the years 1690 and 1694, in the reign of William of Orange and Mary. Here we are in an atmosphere of conspiracy and intrigue, of plot and counter-plot, and the great drama of which Dutch William and Le Grande Monarque were the protagonists is interwoven with the story of the hero and heroine. Sir Gervase Bellamy, an Irish Jacobite of the generous devil-may-care type, is married to a child of ten years for reasons of family estate. After the marriage the child is taken into the care of her guardians, Mr. and Mrs. Hemming, until she reaches years of discretion. After two years have elapsed she has an adventure with her husband in the garden of Mrs. Hemming's house, but neither recognises the other. The soldiers of William are hot upon the trail of Sir Gervase, but through the resourcefulness of Lady Bellamy and her two companions he is able to give his pursuers the slip. After Sir Gervase has left, Lady Bellamy overhears a conversation between Mr. Robert Tarfax (a Williamite spy) and Mr. Hemming, in which the former unfolds a scheme for the capture of Sir Gervase Bellamy and his fellow conspirators at Waring's hut the same evening. Lady Bellamy escapes from her guardians' house during the evening and warns her husband and his companions of the approach of Tarfax and the Williamite soldiers. Here we witness the reunion of husband and child-wife, who in her loyalty and devotion to him decides to accompany him in his perilous escape. An exciting scene closes with Sir Gervase and Lady Bellamy escaping from the troops through a trap-door in the floor. Tarfax and his army break into the hut, only to find Waring, the smuggler, apparently in a drunken sleep, and the "birds flown." Sir Gervase and his wife are, however, traced to the Bagpipes Inn, Edinburgh, where, after an exciting incident with Tarfax, they are captured in the act of escaping on horseback.

A trial takes place, conducted by Lord Crawford (President of the Privy Council of Scotland), and, in order to save his child-wife from the torture of a dark cell, Sir Gervase commands her to tell all she knows about himself and the Jacobite risings. She does so, but, later, foils her husband's enemies by taking possession of some despatches in cipher found on him, which the burns. Sir Gervase refuses to divulge the names of his confederates, and, with threats of torture, the prisoner is taken before the King to have the necessary order signed. In the meantime, however, Lady Bellamy gains an audience with the King, and with childlike simplicity pleads for her husband's life. She informs his Majesty of the cruelty displayed both towards herself and her husband by Lord Crawford and Tarfax. A strong scene concludes with the King dismissing the suave Lord Crawford and the oily Tarfax with stern rebukes. William examines Sir Gervase himself, but his tempting offer of a pardon in exchange for the names of the Jacobite conspirators has no effect on the prisoner. But William, if callous, is not vindictive. The useless slaughter of a brave man does not appeal to him, and he eventually pardons Bellamy, but sentences him to a period of banishment to France.

The last scene opens in the gardens of Kensington Palace four years afterwards. It is Lady Bellamy's sixteenth birthday, and the King and Queen, having formed a strong attachment for the girl, offer her the best birthday present she can choose. She asks that her husband might be restored to her in preference to the gift of a necklace which the King jokingly proposes, and a pretty scene closes with the gratifying of her desire, and the happy reunion of man and wife.

The piece was cleverly cast, and Mr. Maclean's splendid all round company held the audience in a very firm grip of interest from beginning to end. Mr. Alex. Maclean, with his handsome presence, his fine voice, and excellent Irish brogue, was admirably adapted for the romantic character of Sir Gervase. He has an excellent style, which in this instance made him the pivot around which the success of the piece revolved. Miss Laura Leigh played My Lady Bellamy with delightful simplicity throughout, and time after time both she and Mr. Maclean were called before the curtain. Mr. E. H. Brooke was a dignified King William, and Miss Mary Palmer a warm-hearted Queen. Mr. Herbert Maule played Tarfax with considerable distinction, and Mr. Arthur Layland's Lord Crawford was a keen study of conventional Puritanism. All the other characters were ably interpreted. The piece was magnificently staged and the dresses were admirable. It was produced under the personal supervision of Mr. Alex. Maclean, who is to be congratulated upon its success.

AN interesting gathering was held on Saturday evening in the great hall of Winchester House, which had been kindly lent for the occasion to the Rev. Montague Fowler, Rector of All Hallows, London Wall. Mr. Sydney Paxton gave a delightfully humorous parody of a village public meeting, representing the various characters both in dialogue and at the piano. The quarrel scenes out of The School for Scandal were played in costume by Miss Mary Forbes, who made a most charming and attractive Lady Teazle, with the Rector as Sir Peter. Mr. Stanley Howlett recited the St. Crispin's Day speech from Henry V.; Mr. Dennis Cleugh, Mr. Everard Vanderlip, Miss May Saker, Miss Irene Delisse, and Miss Evelyn Grey contributed songs and recitations; while the quarrel scene between Brutus and Cassius from Julius Cæsar was excellently given by Mr. Victor Wiltshire and Mr. Howard Baynton. A clever fencing display was given by Miss Tanqueray, Miss Marjorie Hodges, and Miss Letty Paxton.

AT the close of the proceedings Mrs. Montague Fowler who presided, read a message from Her Majesty the Queen to the working girls and men of All Hallows. The entertainment was provided in the interests of 200 working girls attending All Hallows Church, whom the Rector had, during the afternoon, conducted over Lambeth Palace, explaining the many features of historical and archæological interest connected with the home of the Archbishops of Canterbury.

FRAULEIN KORNELIA KOGL, a young actress of the Vienna Court Theatre, has thrown up her profession and become a member of a religious order known as the "Daughters of the Holy Ghost," the sisters of which, all of whom have to pass an examination in nursing, attend the poor in illness for charity's sake.

LONDON AND SUBURBAN THEATRES.

ROBERTSON AT THE CORONET.

On Monday, June 6, the Comedy, by T. W. Robertson, entitled

"M.P."

Dunscombe Dunscombe....Mr. O. B. Clarence
Chudleigh Dunscombe..Mr. Arthur Wontner
Cecilia Dunscombe .....Miss Rosie Begarnie
Talbot Piers .....Mr. James Carew
Isaac Skoome .....Mr. Lionel Rignold
Ruth Deybrooke .....Miss Nell Compton
Mr. Bran .....Mr. William Rokeby
Mr. Bray .....Mr. Charles Harley
Mr. Malhowther .....Mr. James R. La Fane

"A very interesting, and in every respect artistic and successful, revival of M.P. was given at Toole's Theatre in July, 1883, under the management and direction of the author's son, Mr. T. W. Robertson, the younger. In arranging with Mr. Toole for the first revival of M.P., his avowed object was to produce it in the theatre most in size like that wherein it originally saw light, so that, together with the best available talent to create the characters employed, it might have the author's intentions rightly carried out. That this was well and loyally done," says Mr. T. Edgar Pemberton in his "Life of Tom Robertson," "was amply shown on the first night of the revival, when the comedy, beautifully put upon the stage, went without a hitch from beginning to end, and provoked the constant laughter and applause of those present. On this occasion Mr. A. Beaumont was the Dunscombe Dunscombe; Mr. B. D. Ward, Chudleigh Dunscombe; Mr. F. H. Macklin, Talbot Piers; Mr. J. F. Young, Isaac Skoome; Mr. Albert Chevalier, Mr. Hulhowther; and Miss Gerard, Ruth Deybrooke. Contenting himself with the cares of stage-management, Mr. T. W. Robertson did not figure in the cast, but his wife (Miss Cora Stuart) made a charming Cecilia Dunscombe; and when, later on in the season, Ours took the place of M.P., he proved by his excellent performance of the difficult character of Hugh Chalcot how well he understood his father's intentions, and how admirably he could play his parts. Could Robertson have been among the audience that gave cordial greeting to his son, and constantly applauded his successful and highly-finished performance, he would not have regretted the fact that, in spite of parental warning, 'Tommy' had, in the usual Robertsonian way, 'drifted.' His daughter, Miss Maud Robertson, was also a member of the company."

Mr. Robert Arthur made a good start with the piece on Monday, the first of his second season of Robertson comedies, produced by Mr. Eade Montefiore, his able lieutenant and resident-manager, at the revivified and florally decorated Notting Hill Gate Theatre. A capital company has been collected, and the enterprise deserves success. If only the plays were dressed to the period and not brought up to date, and if the excellent classical music by the Chamber Quartet were not quite so uniformly classical, we venture to think improvement would be effected. Simplicity and that one touch of nature which makes the whole world kin were the secret of Robertson's success as a playwright. He held the mirror up to Nature, free from artificality and the vitiated garish atmosphere which characterised so much stage work in his time. M.P. strikes a modern audience, maybe, as very unsophisticated and a trifle crude; but its brilliant characterisation, with dialogue and directness of method, make for success. Mr. O. B. Clarence as Dunscombe Dunscombe, the elderly aristocrat, so cheerful on the brink of ruin, gives one of the best-thought-out impersonations in the piece, an assumption full of characteristic touches. Mr. Lionel Rignold is hugely diverting as the vulgar "ready-made" man, Isaac Skoome, and his attitude in the zenith of success and again in the doldrums of despair is equally comic and diverting. Miss Rosie Begarnie as Cecilia Dunscombe is full of arch and merry coquetry and frolic; and Miss Nell Compton as the timid and modest, yet wide-awake, Quakeress, Ruth Deybrooke, acts as a good foil, and looks as pretty as a picture in her puritanical garb. Mr. James Carew saunters easily and leisurely through the part of Talbot Piers, the military man in search of Parliamentary distinction; and Mr. Arthur Wontner as the impulsive and intense Chudleigh Dunscombe acts with verve and enthusiasm. As the trio of "free and independent electors," Messrs Bran, Bray, and Mulhowther, Messrs. Wm. Rokeby, Charles Harley, and James R. La Fane are well to the fore, and supply some amusing samples of this type of man. The scene on the lawn is very picturesque, and the whole mounting is all that could be desired. Mr. Thomas Sidney is stage-manager, assisted by Mr. Montague Wigan.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, June 6, the Drama, in Four Acts, entitled

"THE FEMALE SWINDLER."

Melodrama still continues to win immense favour with "Shakespeare" audiences, and the management is to be congratulated upon securing such a powerful attraction as The Female Swindler, one of Mr. Walter Melville's numerous successes, for the present week. The piece, though following familiar lines, nevertheless contains many dramatic situations which demand skilful handling, and the members of Mr. Douglas Bruce's company are to be congratulated on the excellent manner in which the play was presented. As Jack Coulson Mr. Henry Lonsdale displayed considerable energy and acted throughout with dramatic vigour and earnestness. Mr. Fred Hodson won favour by his amusing character study of Abraham Mikestein, and Mr. Fred de Vere's humorous impersonation of Billy Binks evoked roars of laughter. Mr. Frank Howard gave a favourable delineation of Harold Travers, and Mr. A. Kenyon Gray enacted James Oliver in the most satisfactory manner. Warm praise must be accorded to Mr. W. T. Riley for his powerful representation of Geoffrey Warden, and his efforts earned due recognition. Valuable assistance was also contributed by Mr. George Elsworthy as Fred Fellows and Mr. Arthur Vasey as Detective Dixon. Miss Olive Warne created a deep impression by her finished embodiment of the female swindler Lu Valroy, the varying moods and passions being well portrayed. Miss Irene Atchinson was a pleasing and unassuming May Andrews and Miss Gertie Henderson a vivacious Mary Ann Mee.

THE BRIXTON.

On Monday, June 6, the Drama entitled

"SAVED FROM THE SEA."

Another favourite Princess's drama is being this week presented by the stock company, and Mr. Fred Melville and his genial manager, Mr. Newman Maurice, are to be cordially complimented on the heartiness with which Saved from the Sea has been received by the habitués of this cosy playhouse. Full of sensational incidents, it appeals to all lovers of melodrama, and with many of the stock company, who have made themselves popular, in the cast, a capital interpretation has been given. Mr. Bonhote Wilson essayed the part of Dan Ellington, and gave a vigorous and manly rendering. Miss Mary Pemberton made an ideal Nancy, and won warm applause by her really fine acting. Mr. Newman Maurice made himself very popular in the congenial character of Billy Snooks; Mr. Marius St. John did well as Richard Penton; and to Mr. Victor Loraine praise must be awarded for a capital portraiture of Inspector Jennings. Mr. Walter Graham was effective as Jim Weaver; and Mr. W. H. Porter was very good as Peter Scalcher. Mr. George Belmore did justice to Jenkins; and Mr. H. Ogden was a good Head Warder. Mr. Will Smith was to the fore as the Prison Governor; and Mr. H. Johnstone was impressive as the Chaplain. Miss May Day was a winsome Polly Blake; Miss Gladys Newcombe was admirable as Mrs. Blake; and a pretty piece of acting was done by Miss Rosie Elmore as Jack. Saved from the Sea was well mounted, and the stage management was praiseworthy.

THE ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.

On Monday, June 6, the Drama, by Dion Boucicault, entitled

"ARRAH-NA-POGUE."

The attraction here this week is Dion Boucicault's Irish drama Arrah-na-Pogue, presented by a capable company under the direction of Messrs. Matthew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond. Mr. Edward E. Hobart plays in a subdued manner throughout as Beamish M'Coul; Mr. Matthew H. Glenville adopts an easy style as the sorely-tried yet stout-hearted hero Shaun; as Arrah Meelish (known as Arrah-na-Pogue) Miss Lalla Stanhope elicits the sympathies of her audience by her natural acting; and Mr. Wilton Reed is quite at home as the kind-hearted Col. Bagenal O'Grady. He has some fine lines to say, and takes full advantage of the opportunities afforded him. Miss Lydia Audre is well suited to the character of Fanny Power, and Mr. H. C. Gilpin is responsible for a fine character-study of the cringing and despicable Michael Feeny. Mr. Lewis Jordan as the Irish Secretary of State and Mr. Ernest Hamilton as Winterbottom are both worthy of mention. All the minor characters are in safe keeping, and the drama on the whole is well staged. The Elephant Bioscope supplies an admirable series of pictures at the close of each performance.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, June 6, the Drama, by Herbert Leonard, entitled,

"THE GIRL OF MY HEART."

Presented by Mr. Wentworth Croke, the naval and military drama, The Girl of My Heart, is greatly interesting patrons of the Dalston Theatre this week. Mr. Ernest Owttrim as Will Stewart, an able seaman, represents a thoroughly manly fellow, and his loyalty to "the girl of his heart" enlists general admiration. The heroine, Mary Grahame, has a most attractive representative in Miss Gladys Purnell, who becomes an equal favourite in stalls, pit, and gallery. In the matter of character acting, Mr. William P. Sheen presents an excellent and most amusing example as Joshua Bradley, a laundryman, and Miss Florence Harcourt, as Sarah Bradley, a laundress, materially aids Mr. Sheen in sending the audience into convulsive fits of laughter. The peculiar part of Peter Scraggs, the proprietor of a private lunatic asylum, is sustained by Mr. Leonard Godfrey in a way which specially interests the audience. Mr. Morgan Richards creates some merriment as Private Tim Hooley, of the Marine Light Infantry. Miss Mary Auckland as Jenny Warden, otherwise known as "Mad Jenny," so interests the audience that she becomes a central figure of attraction in the story. Mr. Philip Renouf is quaint as Ben Lanky, a bo'sun's mate; and, as an exemplification of dignity, Mr. H. P. Illington, who represnts Admiral Rawlins, is all that is desired.

THE PAVILION, E.

On Monday, June 6, the Drama, entitled

"THE SIN OF HER CHILDHOOD."

The stock company have been playing to crowded houses this week in Mr. J. A. Campbell's emotional drama The Sin of Her Childhood. Mr. Fred Rivers deserves much praise for his fine impersonation of Thomas Haysel, as Stephen Haysel Mr. A. Bradley scores a decided success, Mr. Ashley Page exhibits some fine dramatic acting as the Rev. Allan Grey, Capt. Thornton is played in an excellent manner by Mr. Oswald Lingard, who wins much applause, Mr. Allen Carruthers is good as Barney O'Reilly, Mary Haysel is played by Miss Barbara Bateman and Miss Marion Denvil, the former sustaining the rôle of a young schoolgirl, and Miss Denvil enacting the later phases of the part. The character is exceedingly well impersonated both by Miss Denvil and Miss Bateman. Miss Phyllis Orme makes a typical stepmother, and Miss Nellie James supplies the humour of the evening in the character of Lizzie Muggins. At the conclusion of the second act Miss Marion Denvil was presented with a handsome bouquet.

THEATRE ROYAL, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, June 6, the Drama, entitled

"THE SORROWS OF SATAN."

The patrons of this theatre are being highly entertained by the presentation, by Messrs. Travis Green and Arthur Hinton's principal company, of the well-written play The Sorrows of Satan. The play is well mounted, and the episodes and strong dramatic situations are dealt with in masterly fashion. Mr. Arthur Hinton essays the rôle of Prince Lucio Rimanez in a powerful manner, maintaining a strong hold of the audience throughout the play. Mr. Travis Green also gives a good account of himself in the character of Geoffrey Tempest, and is duly rewarded for his efforts. The strong part of Lady Sybil Elton is in the experienced hands of Miss Leila Zillwood, who is warmly applauded for an excellent rendering of a difficult part. Mr. Arthur Lowry, as the much sat-upon Lord Elton, offers an amusing interpretation, and is the source of hilarity. Mr. Arthur Beaufort is suitably placed as Auriel, and the same may be said of Mr. Charles Morton as Lord Lynton; while Mr. David Allen, Mr. Frank Brunell, and Mr. Harry Sidney, as Morgenson, Bentham, and Ellis respectively, make the most of their opportunities. Miss Mabel Coleman is seen to advantage as Mavis Clare; Diana Chesney is ably characterised by Miss Shirley Dalton; and Miss Irene Joyce as Mrs. Gibson and Miss Maud Evans as Annette fill the remaining parts.

ARTILLERY THEATRE, WOOLWICH.

A very hearty welcome was accorded The Mikado on its presentation by the D'Oyly Carte principal répertoire opera company on Monday last, when a large and appreciative crowd testified to the popularity of this evergreen opera. The members of the cast, who are all talented artists, together with a large chorus with well-trained voices, form an exceptionally able company, whose excellent rendering of the familiar strains called forth great enthusiasm, encores being numerous. Other operas presented in the week's bill are The Yeomen of the Guard, The Gondoliers, H.M.S. Pinafore, The Pirates of Penzance, and Trial by Jury. In the opera under notice Mr. Leicester Tunks sustained the part of the Mikado of Japan in a very efficient manner and his vocal numbers were well rendered; Nanki Poo was capitally undertaken by Mr. Henry Herbert, whose excellent voice was heard to the best advantage, his songs being duly appreciated; Mr. Henry A. Lytton, as Ko-Ko, won fresh laurels, his very amusing portrayal of the Lord High Executioner bringing down the house. The dry humour of Mr. Fred Billington as Pooh-Bah kept the house bubbling over with merriment; Mr. Sydney Granville made a capital Pish-Tush; Go-To was ably represented by Mr. Fred Dramater; Mrs. Arthur Rousbey scored considerably in the part of Yum-Yum; she possesses a fine voice, which she used with good effect, and her singing is greatly appreciated. Miss Beatrice Boarer, a talented little actress and singer, made a charming Pitti-Sing, and obtained well-deserved applause; Miss Marjorie Stone submitted a good rendering of Peep-Bo, and Katisha found an able representative in Miss Louie Rene.

"THE GREAT GAME."

A Trifle, by W. Cronin Wilson, Produced as a Curtain-raiser at the Lyric Theatre on Tuesday, June 7.

J. Marsh .....Mr. Alec F. Thompson
Bill Hamlin .....Mr. W. Cronin Wilson
Snippy .....Mr. Stanley Logan

To playwrights and novelists the enterprising burglar has always been an alluring character, and in one-act pieces he is generally presented as a playful cuss—not without grimness certainly, but always with a sense of humour. In Mr. W. Cronin Wilson's "trifle," produced at the Lyric on Tuesday evening in front of Mr. Lewis Waller's fine production of Don Cæsar de Bazan, the cracksman, who is named Bill Hamlin, is a close (stage) relative of the late Mr. Bill Sikes. His brutality is unrelieved by a gleam of humaneness. In the basement of a house at Tilbury, where he is "resting," he deplores the lack of opportunity and the necessity for lying low, in consequence of a tap on the head administered with a heavy hand to an old gentleman who objected with too loud a voice to Bill's practices. He is in no mood to be cheered or heartened by the singing of a music-hall song by his pal Sniffy, one of the light-fingered gentry, who informs him that J. Marsh, the smartest detective of the day, is on his (Hamlin's) track. Hamlin's female partner has announced her intention of retiring to the country, but before going she has arranged a visit from her Scotch nephew. He arrives by basement entrance, and is immediately seized by Hamlin, who does not mince matters. The young gentleman from Clackmannan by his behaviour arouses suspicion, especially when he rushes right into an aperture revealed by the opening of a secret door. From his home the visitor has brought toothsome fare in a bag, the contents of which are viewed with considerable satisfaction until Bill finds at the bottom of the receptacle a pair of handcuffs. He turns fiercely on the "Scotch laddie," only to face the gleaming barrel of a six-shooter, held by the celebrated detective Marsh, who in his own natural voice tells him that the game is up, and that he must allow Snippy, his companion, to clap on the "darbies." Resistance is useless, for the house is surrounded. Hamlin sullenly submits to his fate, and is walked off. The author played with an unrestrained exhibition of brutal ferocity as Bill Hamlin; Mr. Stanley Logan displayed all the low cunning and "ikeyness" of the sneak-thief; and Mr. Alec F. Thompson made a humorous detective.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, N.

On Monday, June 6, the Comedietta entitled

"JACK'S LITTLE JOKE."

Jack .....Mr. R. Barrie
Mr. Youthful, sen. .....Mr. J. J. Daly
Madge .....Miss Frances Ruttledge
Smutty .....Miss May Hallatt

On Monday last was produced Jack's Little Joke, which, although described as a comedietta, should rightly be styled a farce. The plot turns on the old theme of a young man marrying unbeknown to the person on whom he is dependent for his support, and the means he adopts to keep the secret from that person—in this case his father—on receiving an unexpected visit from him. In the present instance he decides to pose as an invalid and to disguise his wife as a nurse. The difficulty of accounting for the presence of a baby he overcomes by bribing his servant to acknowledge it as hers. The father duly arrives, and, after a good deal of fairly amusing business, he naturally succumbs to the fascination of his son's young wife, and all is forgiven. The piece was smartly rattled through, Mr. R. Barrie as Jack working with unflagging energy throughout. Mr. J. J. Daly made the utmost of the part of the stern parent. Miss Frances Ruttledge was an attractive Madge, and Miss May Hallatt scored a success as Smutty, a familiar type of stage "slavey." The little play was well received by the audience.

The chief attraction in this week's picture programme is the film showing last week's Derby, and an agreeable feature which also lends variety to the entertainment is the singing by Miss Rosie Fitzgerald of two illustrated songs.

That favourite old farce Leave it to Me also finds a place in the programme, and is chiefly noticeable for the performance of Joe Sprouts by Mr. Mark Lester, who proves himself not only a sound and resourceful comedian, but also an arch-gagger. The remaining parts are filled by members of the Alexandra stock company, Messrs. J. J. Daly, H. Hallatt, and R. Barrie; and Misses F. Hallatt and F. Ruttledge. Good houses continue to be attracted by the present fare provided.

FULHAM THEATRE.

The picture season still continues at this house, with bi-weekly changes of subjects. The King's Funeral films are no longer shown, and those numerous folk who have not yet seen enough of them have to retire or to remain disconsolate. Miss East Robertson and Mr. George Delaforce are again seen in a humorous little sketch He and She, dealing with the way in which a lady cures her husband of too great a devotion to "the odds." Other pictures are shown to suit various tastes—melodramatic, farcical, picturesque, and so forth. A notable one is a Biblical subject, The Life of Moses. This is apparently an American production, and is really well carried out, the dresses, backgrounds, and accessories generally are well thought out, and have an air of historical fidelity, nor is there anything in it to which the most fastidious could take exception.

THE LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, June 6, the Drama, entitled

"HOW GIRLS ARE BROUGHT TO RUIN."

Mrs. Morton Powell's great human story draws crowded and enthusiastic houses here. The company engaged includes Miss Osia Garnet-Vayne, Mr. Harry Scott, Mr. Edward M. Heanley, and Mrs. Morton Powell. The latter deserves warm praise for her acting, and as the cast-off mistress of Philip Edge is piquant and irresistible. Miss Isla Garnet-Vayne as Jessie Burton, a workgirl, displays acting power of a very high order, the scene in the night club and that in the Lambeth cellar being particularly realistic. The rôle of Harry Hailing falls to Mr. Harry Scott, whose strong voice is heard to advantage. Mr. Edward M. Heanley's acting of the part of Philip Edge needs little comment; suffice it to say that it was very strong and realistic. As Jack Jessie Mr. Sydney Bryant caused great amusement, and as Lucy Lawton Miss Jeannie Ridley was very comical. Mr. Alaric Burton was piously wicked as Mr. Solomon Sleek, and as Mr. Stirling Mr. Julien Mitchell was an excellent counsel for the defence. Mrs. Burton, Jessie's stepmother, was finely played by Miss Kathryne Eckhart. The piece is doing very good business.

At a recent meeting at Croydon in connection with the Shakespeare Memorial National Theatre, it was stated that there were traditions that Shakespeare used to go over from Dulwich, and stayed in Croydon at the old George Inn, from which George-street was named, and which stood on the site now occupied by the County and Westminster Bank at the bottom of the street, and also that the north bank of Duppas Hall, Croydon's most popular recreation ground, was the bank which Shakespeare had in mind when he wrote the lines in reference to the bank wherein the wild thyme grew in A Midsummer Night's Dream. It was further suggested that a connection between Shakespeare and Croydon might be found in the statement that Shakespeare was married by Whitgift.

TRAVELLING THEATRE MANAGERS' ASSOCIATION.

The fourth annual general meeting of the Travelling Theatre Managers' Association was held on June 1 at the Criterion Restaurant, a room having been courteously placed at the disposal of the committee by the management. The following members attended:—Mrs. King, Mrs. Langley, Messrs. De Marr, Ebley, James, Johnson, Langley, Little, and Mr. Newell (secretary). Mr. Geo. Shirley represented the Copyright Play Protection Association and Mr. F. L. Loveridge forty-one of the independent authors. The chair was taken by Mr. A. E. Drinkwater. Letters and telegrams of regret for absence were received during the meeting from members Garrett, Holloway, Allworth, Denville, Sinclair, Bell, Haggar, and Poulton. The minutes of the 1909 meeting were read and passed. The officers for the ensuing year were unanimously re-elected thus: Mr. Drinkwater, chairman; Mr. Newell, secretary; Mr. Denville, emergency committee; Mr. Allworth, auditor (with the addition of Mr. Langley).

Mr. De Marr brought before the meeting the question of the giving of assistance to members when needed, and the granting of loans, &c. It was resolved that any member requiring assistance should place the matter before the emergency committee, who should consider it, and report their decision to the member direct, and that no publicity should be given to the matter in any shape or form.

The question of legal advice was next considered, and it was passed that any member needing such should communicate with the Association's Agent stating the nature of his case. The latter should place it before Mr. Judge for opinion, and the member's case, together with the solicitor's advice, should be sent to the committee for consideration as to what steps should be taken, the committee to have the sole discretionary powers to fight the case on behalf of the member should they deem it prudent so to do.

A review of the financial position showed that the Association had about £140 to their credit at the North-Eastern Bank, Morpeth. It was decided that a full statement of the Association's financial position should be got out in the form of a balance-sheet by the secretary and the agent, sent to the auditors for signature, and after being passed by them a copy sent to every member.

A member asked what the expenditure for the year had been, but as these figures had not been got out he could only be informed that the expenditure had been very little indeed. It had been reduced to a minimum, there being no management or office expenses, nothing but legal expenses (roughly, £5 for the year), postages, stationery, and printing, somewhere near another £6 to £6.

Mr. Shirley was asked if he had any complaints to make on behalf of the Copyright Play Protection Association, and that gentleman informed those present that he had not.

Three new members were proposed, Messrs. Edwards, Noakes, and E. Rayner, and elected.

A cordial vote of thanks to Mr. Drinkwater for taking the chair and for his valuable services and interest in the welfare of the Association, and to the management of the Criterion Restaurant for the use of the room, brought the meeting to a close.

It is hoped that many new members will join this year. At present the membership stands at forty. The subscription of 5s. per month is amply repaid when free legal advice can be had, the use of 250 copyright plays at a nominal fee, reduced insurance rates on fire and accident ranging in reduction from 9d. per cent. to 1s. 6d. per cent., and many contracts for cheap printing and free medical attention in the towns where the Association is represented by a medical officer. A lending scrip library has just been established, which affords members the benefit of getting any play for a fortnight on loan for a few pence to cover postage and typewriting.

The committee would like publicly to thank its hon. medical officers for their kind services during the past year.

The secretary, Mr. Newell, Pavilion Theatre, Nantwich, Cheshire, will be pleased to receive the names of any intending members, and place same before the committee with a view to early election.

SIR HERBERT TREE ON TOUR.

Sir Herbert Tree, at the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool, on Saturday, in response to demands for a speech, expressed his thanks for the warmth of Liverpool's welcome. He was delighted to think that The O'Flynn had danced himself into the hearts of Liverpool audiences as he had into the hearts of the Dublin people. It afforded him delight to know that The O'Flynn had proved a success, but he admitted that when in Dublin he ventured upon the programme with some trepidation, fearing that his accent in the rôle of the Irishman would be somewhat lacking. If there was an Irishman present that night who objected to it, he tendered him an apology. ("Not at all.") He had not been in Liverpool for some years, but circumstances beyond his control had kept him away. It was not because he loved Liverpool less, but because his responsibilities in London were greater than formerly. It was one of the joys of an actor to present the works of Shakespeare on the stage, and he would like to believe that although they had given The O'Flynn for most of the week, they had afforded some pleasure by opening with The Merchant of Venice. He trusted that before many months had passed he might be in Liverpool again.

Sir Herbert, at the close of the performance of The Merchant of Venice at the New Theatre, Cardiff, on Monday, in answer to repeated calls, came forward and said:—"You want me to say a few words to you. Well, I am glad you are pleased with what you have seen to-night, but I have seen more than you have. You have seen the play—I have seen an aeroplane. I went out between the acts and I saw an aeroplane—at least, a dirigible—hovering over this theatre. I am glad to think that you did not know of this, or the theatre might have been emptied. And this gives me a little thought. It is a wonderful age indeed that we live in. We have the telephone, we have the wireless telegraphy, we have electricity, we have the cinematograph, and we have aeroplanes. How wonderful is this new invention! But it is as nothing, I am thinking, as compared with the flights of fancy which caused Shakespeare to soar above humanity and from that wonderful poise of his mind to gaze down upon the surging mass of humanity beneath—at first the great grey innumerable mass, and then, with the magician's art, he disintegrates it and dissolves it in the individuality as he has done in the case of Shylock the Jew, physician at the Court of Elizabeth, and out of that one experience he has built up this eternal figure of the eternal Jew, a type of the suffering Hebrew for all the ages. At that moment was it when he said he must bring sympathy for this man—the sympathy that you accorded him this evening in the great Trial scene. But Shakespeare realised, as all great thinkers do realise, that no one is wholly bad or wholly good—no one is ever quite black, and no one is ever quite white. For it was the humanity that was in that realised and sympathised with the humanity which is in us all."

Mr. J. K. Jerome will be interested to hear that the Judge at Marylebone County Court the other day asked a medical witness, "What is housemaid's knee?" adding, amid the usual loud laughter, "It is the only thing I have not got." Once again we see that truth is no stranger to fiction.

DRESSES AT THE PLAY.

White is the dominant note of the dresses worn by Miss Mary Moore in The Case of Rebellious Susan at the Criterion. Her first dress is of fine white-embroidered lawn, simply made with a slightly full skirt and the bodice cut square to open over a chemisette of clear white tulle. The second dress is decidedly original, the bodice being arranged with a pinafore of foulard printed in a Persian design in charmingly low tones of pale blue and yellow. Narrow folds of white muslin are drawn from the shoulders to the waist, where they are caught in by a narrow folded belt of the foulard; and small motifs of the silk appear in the skirt heading the bands of embroidery which decorate the tunic. The latter is quite straight, and is only just sufficiently short to disclose a band of the foulard which edged the underskirt. The elbow sleeves are of the embroidery cut quite straight and loose, and they are finished with a narrow edging of fine Valenciennes lace.

In the third act Miss Moore wears a dress of white net embroidered in white silk and arranged as a tunic over a silk slip. The corsage is cut low and round, and is filled in with a fine net guimpe, drawn up by a narrow ribbon of pale blue silk. This, in its turn, rests on a tiny vest of the same fine net, finished with a narrow insertion. Pale blue ribbon, run through the insertion, makes a pretty decoration at the throat.

Miss Ellis Jeffreys makes her first appearance in a rose-red satin, brocaded with a conventional design. The skirt is quite straight and uncut from waist to hem, and the corsage is cut in one piece, with a tiny piece of the broché design making a point turned upwards from the waist, a slight decoration that breaks the severity of the otherwise plain bodice. There are turned-back cuffs of fine lace at the neck and elbow sleeves. Miss Jeffreys' hat is of black satin trimmed with long ostrich feathers.

The second act finds Miss Jeffreys in a charmingly picturesque costume, carried out in dark blue and red shantung. The former makes the corsage and tunic, the latter being short enough to show many inches of the plain red skirt. The corsage is quite plain and simply crossed before it is caught beneath the red waist-belt, and the edges are outlined with a narrow piping of the red shantung. A band of Persian embroidery, worked in red and blue, is carried across the shoulders and on to the sleeves; and a small square of the same richly coloured material is introduced at each side of the tunic. A large hat of blue straw, lined with dull red silk and trimmed with a band of blue velvet, fastened at one side with two bunches of cherries, completes the costume.

Miss Jeffreys is also seen in a charming dress of palest grey mousseline mounted in satin. The under-skirt is pleated, and over this falls a very graceful tunic of the mousseline, which is opened up each side, but is caught together at the bottom by a motif of gold embroidery and a knot of royal blue satin ribbon. The same ribbon is carried from the waist beneath the tunic, crossed in front, and knotted at one side. It again appears on the bodice, helping to give the suggestion of a bolero as it appears benath the embroidered mousseline, which is drawn across the bust and falls over a full under-bodice of the plain mousseline. The upper part of the corsage is tucked, and is moulded to the shoulders and arms. With the costume is worn a large hat of white Tegal straw, lined with grey velvet and trimmed with a long grey pleureuse feather.

In Don Cæsar de Bazan at the Lyric some very beautiful costumes are disclosed. A particularly charming one worn by Miss Madge Titheradge is of pale amber-coloured satin, made with a tabbed bodice, outlined with brown satin ribbon and trimmed with three tiny brown satin bows. The sleeves are puffed, and are finished at the elbow with a pointed cuff of cambric and lace, and a deep berthe of cambridge edged with lace decorates the corsage. The skirt is quite plain, except for two bands of the ribbon, which is carried round the foot; and two other bands outline the waist. Miss Titheradge also wears a dress of white satin, cut low and trimmed round the décolletage with silver lace. The sleeves are arranged in one puff, cut away to show an under-sleeve of silver tissue, and these also are finished with deep cuffs of silver lace. A panel, worked with silver braid, arranged in a diamond pattern, which is studded with pearls and diamonds, is carried down the corsage and finished with silver fringe; and another panel of the same description ornaments the front of the skirt. The latter is further trimmed with a heavy silver cord, which outlines its hem.

In her character of a gipsy Miss Titheradge wears a picturesque dress consisting of a petticoat striped with purple and gold, and a shirt bodice of soft white cambric held in at the waist by a deep belt of rabbit fur. Over this corsage she folds an embroidered shawl of deep purple silk, and round her head she twists a striped yellow scarf. Numerous necklaces of gaudy beads are hung round her neck and shoulders to complete a striking combination of colours.

Miss Minnie Griffon, as the Marchesa, wears one very beautiful dress of pale green satin, with the skirt inset with a narrow panel of gold tissue. The two puffs of the sleeves are held in place by two gold rosettes, and gold braid outlines the décolletage. A deep ruff of cream-coloured lace finishes the bodice, and lace cuffs are turned back on the sleeves. This dress is succeeded by one of terracotta satin. Here, again, are the tabbed bodice and the same galloon trimming, but this time the latter is of silver and not of gold. The very pretty sleeves are made of straps of the satin sewn together, and each strap is edged with silver and steel; and a graceful air is given to the bodice by a fichu of soft cream net and lace.

MISS BRAYTON IN SYDNEY.

Miss Lily Brayton, the popular actress, and other members of the Asche-Brayton company, took up collections at intervals on Hospital Saturday at a little chalet on the corner of George and Wynyard streets, Sydney. On a pennant above the chalet was inscribed those well-known words of Portia in The Merchant of Venice, "The quality of mercy is not strained." Miss Brayton's arrival was the signal for a remarkable demonstration. Hundreds of men and women gathered about the chalet, all anxious, presumably, to drop a coin into her box, but many could not get within several yards of her, and the police were powerless. Within a comparatively few minutes the popular actress had filled a box and was holding out a second. At times she was almost carried off her feet in the surging of the crowd. But the money kept rolling in, and her face was radiant. After she had filled a third box an admirer created a diversion. "How much for the rose?" he called out. Immediately Miss Brayton's nosegay was put up to auction. A well-known city man took the bids, which quickly rose from 3d. to 4s. No sooner had the flower been knocked down at that figure than other nosegays sprang mysteriously from somewhere, and were similarly auctioned, bringing prices ranging from 4s. to 6d. As a result of Miss Brayton's efforts £37 12s. 3d. were added to the day's collections. Miss Brayton was naturally delighted with her experience. "I shall cherish the memory of it," she declared, "as long as I live." As a memento of the occasion the executive of the movement presented her with a Hospital Saturday badge in gold, hung on a blue ribbon, with a gold clasp.

From to-day (Saturday) the performance of The Dollar Princess at Daly's will commence every evening at 8.15, and Saturday matinées at 2.15.

SHAKESPEARE MEMORIAL THEATRE.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE KENSINGTON COMMITTEE.

Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Baring kindly placed their drawing-room at 195, Queen's Gate, S.W., at the disposal of those ladies and gentlemen who are taking an interest in this movement in Kensington, on Tuesday afternoon last.

Sir JOHN HARE presided over the meeting, which was splendidly attended, and a very interesting address was delivered by Mr. J. Forbes Robertson on the question of a National Theatre.

SIR JOHN HARE'S VIEWS.

After a number of letters had been read regretting absence from the meeting Sir JOHN HARE said that he had great pleasure in seeing amongst them one of their most brilliant and distinguished actors, and he cordially congratulated Mr. Robertson on his success in America. The necessity for a memorial to the greatest dramatist the world had ever known was admitted by all. We as a nation possessed the finest dramatic literature in the world, and yet we as a nation had paid no lasting tribute to our greatest dramatist. The greatest of men in literature, science, and art in this country had resolved that this reproach should exist no longer. France had her House of Molière. Where was our House of Shakespeare? All the great cities of Europe possessed national theatres, and was it not a scandal that London, the richest city in the world, should be conspicuous—he would almost say, ridiculous—in being without one? (Cheers.) They should share with other nations those refining influences which served to brighten and illumine their lives. (Hear, hear.) They should knit together a band of actors who could give us that most perfect of all results—a perfect ensemble. (Cheers.)

HOW LONDON LAGS BEHIND.

Mr. FORBES ROBERTSON, who was greeted with cordial cheers on rising, said that it was good to see a full meeting of Shakespearean enthusiasts such as the one there assembled. The men in the movement were anxious to get a theatre in London that should be worthy of the Bard of Avon, where his great works could be adequately produced. The Statue Committee were particularly anxious that the Theatre Committee should be in the movement to erect some lasting memorial to William Shakespeare. It was incumbent on London to erect some beautiful edifice—Heaven knows such a building was wanted in London. Something that would make foreigners say: "Here is a beautiful theatre"; something to make the man in the street say: "What is this drama?" The objectors to their enthusiasm said: "You can't start like that—Molière's memorial is sanctified by age." Another says: "We must feel our way—we must begin in a humble way." To talk about beginning in a humble way was ridiculous. They were committed to a monument. There had been several admirable efforts which made their efforts all the more important. They wanted funds and plenty of them to establish this theatre on a firm basis. He had just come from America, which was going ahead in a most extraordinary way. His words had come true, that Americans would have a National Theatre before the English had. Four or five years ago he prophesied that New York would have a répertoire theatre before we should in London. A small band of enthusiasts in New York had forestalled us. The New Theatre was not a professedly Shakespearean memorial, but it was a theatre where Shakespeare's plays were properly produced. It was the most beautiful theatre he had ever seen. It was absolutely complete. He had sought to find fault with it being a Britisher, but he reluctantly had to admit that it was the most beautiful and complete temple in the world. It was perfect as far as human ingenuity could make it. He desired to see in London a national theatre which should be a fitting monument to Shakespeare as well. (Cheers.) It should be subsidised, so that they could produce those plays which appealed to the educated minority—plays which no manager could afford to produce—and from which appreciative audiences derived, at any rate, some good. (Cheers.) New York, which in a way was our own child, was setting us an example. It was a question of art, and they must see that the drama was as well protected as were music and painting by their respective academies. (Hear, hear.) A school should be attached to the national theatre. In time such an institution would become entirely self-supporting. By these means the reproach so justly levelled against us would be removed, and we should not only be elevating ourselves, but we should be improving our artistic sense. (Cheers.) If the stage was not an educational force, then no branch of art was educating. If the drama was not art, then music, painting, sculpture were not educating. The drama was being allowed to perish through crazes—the last play, which might be a rubbishy play of the mere tawdry kind. The "latest craze" might be very entertaining to some people, but because a certain piece filled a theatre and kept it full for months, or even years, it did not follow that it was a good play. That sort of play would not be handled by their theatre. The establishment of a National Theatre would be the means of the old actor being looked after in his old age. It would improve the artistic sense of the people. Under the proposed scheme actors, when incapacitated, and no longer able to work, would not pass into obscure and miserable oblivion, waiting for a crust of bread. (Cheers.) He had been long enough in the profession to have seen that misery. Actors would be prepared to take smaller salaries, be they would know that they would be cared for in their old age. (Hear, hear.)

Sir JOHN HARE said that he now had the greatest possible pleasure in calling upon Mr. J. H. Barnes to move the first resolution, which was as follows:

"That this meeting cordially approves the project for the establishment of the Shakespeare Memorial National Theatre, and pledges itself to use its best endeavours to raise a substantial local contribution to the fund. That a committee be formed for Kensington and district, consisting of those whose names appear on the invitation card to the present meeting, with power to add to their number."

The following have signified their willingness to serve as members of the Kensington Committee: Mrs. Anstruther, Mr. John Cann Bailey, the Hon. Mrs. Bailey, Mr. Godfrey Baring, M.P., Mrs. Godfrey Baring, Mr. and Mrs. Granville Barker, Mr. Malcolm Bell, Mr. Edward Bond, Mr. A. C. Bradley, Mrs. Braithwaite, Mrs. Frank Bury, Mrs. George Cartwright, Mrs. Chapin, Mrs. Child, Mrs. Fairfax Cholmeley, Miss Diana Cholmondeley, Dr. and Mrs. Stanton Coit, Mrs. Colefax, Mr. Thomas Coote, J.P., Mrs. Thomas Coote, Mr. Cadogan Cooper, A.R.A., Mrs. Alastair Currie, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Davenport, Mrs. Dick, Mr. H. F. Dickens, K.C., Mrs. H. F. Dickens, Mr. Arthur Dillon, Mrs. Hugh Dumas, Miss Hilda Erskine, Mr. C. E. Fagan, Mr. R. J. Fennessy, Mr. H. F. Ford, Mr. G. Baxter Forman, M.D., J.P., Mr. and Mrs. F. Douglas Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Fox-Symons, Mr. John Galsworthy, Miss Violet Galton, Mrs. Pearson Gee, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gibbs, Colonel Gore Brown, the Lady Muriel Gore Brown, Mr. E. Vaughan Grey, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hallward, Miss Hancock, Mrs. F. G. Hogg, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Holland, Baroness Hildegarde von Hugel, Mrs. Holman Hunt, Miss Gladys Holman Hunt, Miss Hutchinson, Mr. Ronald P. Jones, Miss Sidney Keith, Miss Dorothy Ker, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kerr, Mme. Lichtenberg, Mrs. Limond, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fuller Maitland, Mrs. Mayne, Miss Mary Montagu, Miss Olga Montagu, Miss Morres, Mrs. Saxton Noble, Miss Hilda Oakley, M.A., Mrs. O'Hagan, Mr. Louis N. Parker, the Rev. Prebendary Pennefather, D.D., Mr. Alfred Praga, Mr. and Mrs. Nigel Playfair, Mr. and Mrs. G. Jopling Rowe, Mr. J. H. Saffery, Mrs. Leonard Sartoris, Mrs. Schlacht, Mrs. Adam Sedgwick, Miss Blanche Sidgwick, Mrs. Sington, Miss Blanche Sitwell, Professor Victor Spiers, M.A., Mrs. Spiers, Miss Symonds, Mr. Arthur M. Talbot, Mrs. Tennyson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tyrrell, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Walkes, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy White.

Mr. J. H. BARNES said that until recently he was most sceptical as to the movement. Mr. Robertson had touched on a school that was to be attached to the theatre. From his own knowledge such a school was absolutely necessary. Direction of effort was wanted. Should the theatre take shape, he hoped the first man to direct its operations would be Mr. Forbes Robertson himself. He was now a convert to the scheme.

The resolution was seconded by Mr. W. R. WALKES and carried unanimously.

The second resolution was moved by Mrs. CARL MEYER, and was as follows:

"That an Executive Committee be appointed comprising the following, with power to add: Mrs. Granville Barker, Mr. Godfrey Baring, Mr. Malcolm Bell, Mrs. L. Braithwaite, Mr. Arthur Dillon, Mrs. Dumas, Miss Hilda Erskins, Mr. C. E. Fagan, Mrs. Pearson Gee, Mr. J. A. Fuller Maitland, Mr. E. Vaughan Grey, Miss Gladys Holman Hunt, Miss Sydney Keith, Miss Olga Montagu, Miss Morres, Mrs. Jopling Rowe, Mrs. Spiers, and Mr. W. R. Walkes. That Miss Walkes and Mr. Malcolm Bell be requested to act as hon. secretaries to the committee, Mr. Chapin as hon. treasurer, and that the committee be authorised to appoint such other officers as may be necessary."

The Memorial Committee desire to emphasise the objects and importance of the movement, and accordingly are circulating broadcast a pamphlet giving the origin and aims of the movement.

ORIGIN.

The scheme is the outcome of two separate movements, now happily united: (1) The desire to erect a living and worthy memorial to Shakespeare in connection with his approaching tercentenary (1916); (2) the desire to enlarge, enrich, and elevate the standard of dramatic art and life in this country by the establishment of a permanently endowed National Repertory Theatre. A great meeting held at the Lyceum Theatre on May 19th, 1908, placed the stamp of public approval on this project, and led to a union of the two committees which had been seeking to attain these ends.

The Shakespeare Memorial Committee is the result of this fusion. The chairman of the Executive Committee is the Lord Mayor of London. Eminent Shakespearean scholars, actors, dramatic authors, journalists, and public men are included in its number. The Hon. Treasurer is the Right Hon. Alfred Lyttelton, K.C., M.P., and the Trustees (in addition to the Hon. Treasurer) are the Earl of Lytton and Lord Avebury. The Chairman of the Ladies' Committee is Mrs. George Cornwallis West, and the Vice-Chairman, the Hon. Mrs. Alfred Lyttelton. Many hundreds of eminent representatives of the literary and artistic world, and of public life, are to be found amongst the avowed supporters of the movement.

The amount to be raised is £500,000, which includes a sum of £100,000, estimated to be necessary for a suitable site; £150,000 for the theatre building and its equipment; and the remaining £250,000 for a permanent endowment, which will, it is estimated, produce an annual revenue of £10,000, an amount approximately equal to the subvention received from the state, or the purse of the monarch, by the Comédie Française, and other foreign theatres of the kind. It is proposed to raise this sum by an appeal for voluntary contributions from the English-speaking race throughout the world. Few will deny that the amount required, though large, is comparatively trifling when compared with the debt we owe to our great national poet and dramatist, and the permanent benefits which the Memorial Theatre will confer upon the life and thought of our own and succeeding generations

GOVERNMENT.

The ultimate control of the National Theatre will be vested in Governors to be appointed by the Crown, the Universities, various learned bodies and societies, the L.C.C., the Corporation of the City of London, the municipalities of five great cities of England, two of Scotland, and two of Ireland. The English-speaking nations beyond the seas will also be represented. The actual management will be vested in a small Standing Committee, which will appoint a managing staff. Thus, while practical knowledge of the drama will obtain free play, security will be taken that the great purposes of the foundation shall be adequately maintained.

The main objects that will be kept in view in the conduct of the theatre may be thus summarised: (a) To keep the plays of Shakespeare in its repertory; (b) to revive whatever else is vital in English classical drama; (c) to prevent recent plays of great merit from falling into the oblivion to which the present theatrical system (of the "long run") is apt to consign them; (d) to produce new plays, and to further the development of the modern drama; (e) to produce translations of representative works of foreign drama, ancient and modern; (f) to stimulate the art of acting through the varied opportunities which it will offer to the members of its company.

RELATION TO EXISTING THEATRES.

The purpose of the movement is not to supplant or oppose existing theatrical enterprise, but to supplement it. The demand is steadily growing for a high-class Repertory Theatre, where the works of Shakespeare and other classical playwrights, and also the finest products of modern dramatic art, may be regularly and efficiently represented. The permanent endowment of the National Theatre, and its authority as a national enterprise, will provide for this. Amongst the members of the Executive Committee may be mentioned such eminent actors as Sir John Hare, Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Mr. Forbes Robertson, and Mr. Martin Harvey, in addition to the well-known playwright-actors Sir Arthur Pinero and Mr. H. Granville Barker. It is highly probable that a School of Dramatic Art, and also a Pension Fund for Actors will be established in connection with the theatre. The project, therefore is likely to confer great and lasting benefits upon dramatic art in this country, and upon actors as a profession.

1616—1916.

If the Shakespeare Memorial National Theatre is to be built and opened by April 23, 1916 (the Tercentenary), there is no time to be lost. Foreign countries have their national theatres. We, as yet, have none. To the English-speaking race throughout the world the Committee appeal with confidence for the means to wipe out this reproach to our national spirit and national intelligence. An anonymous donor has started the fund with a munificent contribution of £70,000. The committee trust that this stirring example will bear fruit, and that people of all classes will come forward with prompt and generous contributions according to their means. The movement is being organised by means of local committees, whereby it is hoped that a truly national and representative Shakespeare Memorial National Theatre Fund will be created.

A vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Baring for their hospitality, to Mr. Forbes Robertson for his address, and to Sir John Hare for his services in the chair terminated the proceedings.

FLOWERS AT THE FOOTLIGHTS.

A living garden graced the stage of the Queen's Theatre on Tuesday afternoon, when the entertainment provided at Miss Lila Field's dramatic and musical matinée gave manifest delight to a large audience. An admirably diversified programme was provided, chief interest centring in a fairy play in two scenes, dramatised by Lila Field, from S. R. Littlewood's poem "The Ride of the Flowers," with lyrics by S. R. Littlewood, and music by Clive M. Waterlow, entitled

"THE LILY QUEEN."

HOT-HOUSE FLOWERS:

The Lily Queen	CHRISTINE HELGA
Peach Blossom	DORA DEVERE
Chrysanthemum	MARGARET LANDAU
Pink Hyacinth	JULIA LANDAU
Blue Hyacinth	AURIELLE BRINA
Carnation	SYBIL PEARCE
Fuchsia	RUBY WOODS
Orchid	DOROTHY CHILDS

COTTAGE FLOWERS.

Rosebud	MONA SINCLAIR
Poppy	NORA HURST
Buttercup	EILEEN FAITHFUL
Forget-Me-Not	VICTORIA PACY
Sweetpea	IDA TAYLOR
Daisy	SYBIL ROYLANCE
Ivy	NELLIE TERRISS
Daffodil	AILEEN BOWERMAN
Mistletoe	OLGA HOPE
Sunflower	HILDA TAYLOR
Herald of the Dawn	OLIVE GOFF
The Queen's Page	JACK SACKVILLE EVANS
The Love Star	EDNA MAUDE

It was a most elaborate production, in which talented little children in pretty costumes sang and danced daintily. The story is simplicity itself, and shows how the cottage garden flowers, the Rosebud, the Poppy, the Forget-Me-Not, and kindred blooms all aspire to the hand of the Lily Queen, who is about to be betrothed. The whole of the community resolve to journey to the Lily Queen's Court, led by Rosebud. They are received with disdain by the hot-house courtiers, but the Queen herself is delighted with the simple charm of the cottage flowers, and lends an appreciative ear to their wooing. The coming of dawn shows that one of their number is missing—no other than Rosebud, who had so valiantly led the way. The Queen orders her courtiers to scour the woods in search of the missing Rose, but they all make excuses, and the task is left to the cottage flowers themselves. Led by the kindly rays of the Love Star, Rosebud arrives, having in his anxiety to be first missed his way. His devotion touches the heart of the Queen, who rewards him with her hand.

Innumerable dances illustrate the play, all the flowerets at one time or other giving specimens of their ability in terpsichorean revels. Edna Maude, a phenomenal little artist, claimed to be the youngest classical dancer in the world, played the Love Star with conspicuous cleverness, her simultaneous dance with Christine Helga, who made a handsome and well-spoken Queen, being very curious and captivating. The performance that won most commendation was that of Olive Goff, who as Herald of the Dawn delivered her speeches in quite tragic fashion and danced with rhythmic grace. She was persistently recalled, and it was amusing to watch Ivy's abortive efforts to continue the action of the play until Miss Goff had given a further exhibition of her skill. Another little artist to whom praise should go is Olga Hope, who enacted Mistletoe perfectly, her delivery being particularly pleasing. Mona Sinclair did excellent work as Rosebud, Nora Hurst was a smart Poppy, and the sweetest little Forget-Me-Not imaginable was Victoria Pacy, whose lines were so quaintly uttered that they were frequently drowned in a ripple of laughter. Jack Sackville Evans had the distinction of being the only male representative, and rose to the occasion with a dignified rendition of the Queen's Page.

Miss Field's ability as a dramatic writer was also displayed in the comedietta from her pen, entitled

"THE WALLINGFORDS."

Mrs. Wallingford	MISS MARIE ILLINGTON
Mr. Wallingford	MR. CLARENCE DERWENT
Chiffon	MISS PEARL KEATS
Lord Stuckley	MR. DAVID DARRELL

A slight story, but a very diverting one, tells how a match-making mother has taken an expensive house in the country in order to arrange a union between her daughter and a young aristocrat, only to find after all her trouble that the pair were secretly engaged long before her scheme was thought of. The little piece had the advantage of the presence in the cast of Miss Marie Illington, who acted the mother with delicious drollery. Mr. Clarence Derwent delivered his lines capitally as the overborne husband; Miss Pearl Keats was very sweet and girlish as a romp, and Mr. David Darrell acted the embarrassed lover cleverly.

Another dramatic item in the bill was The Shooting Star, by F. Kinsey Peile, which we remember to have seen before. It was amusingly acted by the author as a jovial huntsman; by Mr. Stanley Turnbull as a deceitful wooer; by Miss Mary Mackenzie as a young lady who is called upon to impersonate a circus-rider; and by Mr. Charles Dodsworth as an irresistibly comic butler. The miscellaneous part of the programme was contributed by Miss Bertha Scholefield, who sang exquisitely "Voices of Spring" and Signor Tito Mattei's "No, no, no," which had the distinction of being accompanied by the composer; and little Mona Sinclair, who was encored for her cleverly-executed Highland dances. Not the least appreciated part of the entertainment came at the end, when the youngsters who had taken part in the fairy play assembled at the footlights to receive bouquets and sweetmeats, a handsome basket of flowers being reserved for Miss Field, who is to be highly commended on her production of the play.

MISS WANDA RADFORD'S RECITAL.

A very successful recital was given by Miss Wanda Radford at Steinway Hall on Thursday evening, June 2. Although Miss Radford appears only about fifteen years old, she recites with ease, confidence, and admirably clear enunciation, while the youthful character of her voice made "The Fairies on the Lawn," by R. C. Lehmann, particularly effective. That the little lady also has humour was clearly evident in "David Copperfield and the Waiter," from Charles Dickens's famous novel. The Potion Scene from Romeo and Juliet, intelligently recited, concluded the English examples. Miss Radford was assisted by Miss Martha Brüggemann, an Australian soprano, who had a pleasing voice of considerable power. Both ladies were evidently accomplished linguists, for Miss Radford, besides English, recited cleverly some works in German and French, and Miss Brüggemann sang in German, French, and English. Leo Delibes' sparkling "Les filles des Cadix" was capitally sung, and the vocalist greatly pleased the audience in "The year's at the spring" (Mrs. Beach), Edward Grieg's "From Monte Pincio," and Verdi's "Ah, fors' e lui," from Traviata. At the close the audience gave Miss Wanda Radford and Miss Martha Brüggemann a very hearty reception.

PRESENTATION.—On the termination of the performance at the Brighton Theatre Royal on the 2nd inst., Mr. Lawson Lambert, who is retiring from his position as manager of that house, was presented by Mr. Sommerlad (musical-director), on behalf of the staff, with a suit case and Thermos flask. Mr. Lambert acknowledged the presentation in feeling terms.

IRISH NATIONAL THEATRE.

A triple bill was furnished for the latter end of last week, visitors to the Court Theatre being entertained on Friday and Saturday with a three act comedy and two one-act pieces. It was a generous programme for one evening, and necessitated a start being made a quarter of an hour earlier than was expected—to the obvious discomfiture of many of those who arrived at the accustomed hour—while the waits were minimised almost out of existence. An audience of much larger proportions gave gratifying evidence of the increased interest that is being taken in our Irish visitors, and, indeed, it seems to be realised that a playgoer's education would be lacking without an experience of their work, which is quite in a class of its own. They succeed in a remarkable degree in bringing the atmosphere of the Green Isle into the midst of the English metropolis, and the romance, the charm, and the glamour of the country are carried over the footlights in a way that is distinctly refreshing.

The opening piece on the night under notice was Mr. W. B. Yeats' symbolical tragedy Kathleen-ni-Houlihan, which has been presented by the Irish players on former visits. Miss Sara Allgood was again seen in her finished assumption of the old woman who represents the homeland, her exquisitely modulated voice giving excellent expression both to the lines and the snatches of song. Mr. J. M. Kerrigan gave a sincere and convincing performance of the lad who gives up home and kindred to answer the call of the country, and the remainder of the cast rendered adequate support.

The most important item of the evening was the three-act comedy, The Playboy of the Western World, the merits of which were recognised on its former representations in London. The fantastic proposition put in the piece is one that is difficult of acceptance. Moreover, the name of the Deity is introduced far too freely, and our observations of the Irish peasantry hardly encourage the belief that they would tolerate so frequent a use of the name in the mouth of a besotted inkeeper. Mr. Fred O'Donovan's sterling abilities as a comedian were worthily employed in the part of the versatile playboy, who gains renown by the fact that he has killed his father, plays havoc with the hearts of the colleens of a country village, and triumphs over all until it is discovered that he is no murderer at all, and all his distinction vanishes. Mr. O'Donovan's droll resource and innumerable comedy methods as the temporary hero kept the house irresistibly amused, while the picturesqueness of the impersonation was agreeably apparent. The comedy gifts of Miss Maire O'Neill were again revealed in the part of the dainty and spirited colleen who loses her heart to the crime-laden "playboy," and her mellifluous voice sounded delightfully distinct in the expressive lines allotted to the part. Mr. Arthur Sinclair's drunken publican was a gem of character drawing, and he was responsible for many a laugh; and Mr. Sydney J. Morgan made the quaintest effects out of the part of the supposed dead man. Well-drawn studies were also those of Mr. J. M. Kerrigan as Maggie's jilted lover; of Mr. John Carrick as a tipsy old man, and of Miss Sara Allgood as the amorous widow. Miss Eileen O'Doherty pleasingly led the blithe young trio of colleens, whose fresh voices calling from the glen sounded quite enthralling.

The evening concluded with Lady Gregory's comedietta The Workhouse Ward, a piece of rich satire which won the appreciation of all on its production last year at the Court. The story of the two bedridden old workhouse men who are forever quarrelling until a relation comes to take one of them away, when they refuse to be parted, was divertingly played by its former exponents, Mr. Fred O'Donovan quite completely masking his identity in a clever impersonation of one old man, and Mr. Arthur Sinclair giving a well-diversified sketch of the other, though his spasmodic methods of delivering his lines had the effect of making them frequently inaudible. Miss Maire O'Neill does not seem quite so well suited as an old woman, and her appearance therein seems rather to impair the illusion created in more pleasing parts.

"THE ELOQUENT DEMPSY."

Comedy, in Three Acts, by William Boyle, Played for the First Time in London at the Court Theatre on Monday, June 6.

Mrs. Catherine Dempsy	MISS SARA ALLGOOD
Jeremiah Dempsy	MR. ARTHUR SINCLAIR
Dr. Bunbury, J.P.	MR. J. M. KERRIGAN
Mike Flanagan	MR. J. A. O'ROURKE
Brian O'Neill	MR. FRED O'DONOVAN
Mary Kate	MISS EILEEN O'DOHERTY
Captain McNamara, J.P.	MR. SYDNEY J. MORGAN

Certainly one of the most diverting pieces produced by the Irish National Theatre Society is Mr. William Boyle's racily-written comedy The Eloquent Dempsy, Monday night's audience at the Court according a most enthusiastic reception to the play. Jeremiah Dempsy is the principal character, and his persuasive oratory for a while seemingly bamboozles everyone, with the exception of his good wife Catherine. He is a publican, grocer, and County Councillor for Cloghermore, and at the opening of the play, for diplomatic reasons, feigns a serious illness, when he is really in most robust health. His wife knows he is shamming, and his medical adviser, Dr. Bunbury, J.P., is eventually made aware of it. The doctor, anxious to get him over to the side of "law and order," gives him to understand the Chief Secretary may pass through Cloghermore, and wants him to sign an address of welcome. Previous to this his fellow townsmen and customers have waited on him, congratulating him on his recovery from his "serious illness," and Dempsy, in his speech, returning thanks, has aroused their enthusiasm with his fine flow of words. His daughter Mary Kate is in love with a young working-man, Brien O'Neill, and Mrs. Dempsy, who is anxious that her husband shall retire from public life, knowing he will get himself into trouble sooner or later, tries to persuade Brien to oppose Dempsy's re-election, hinting that it will be to his advantage to do so. Brien, however, determines to stick to the eloquent one, and Mr. Dempsy expresses pleasure at his loyalty. In the next act the doctor and Captain McNamara, J.P., call on Dempsy with the address of welcome to the Chief Secretary, and ask him to sign it. Although he professes his willingness to do so, it is made very evident he is nervous about taking the plunge, and eventually he makes the excuse that his name could not possibly figure first. Let them get a reverend gentleman to head the list and he will follow. Disgusted at his shilly-shallying, they retire, and then enter Mike Flanagan, a working man, and Brien O'Neill with another address, denouncing the Chief Secretary, which they request him to sign. After a lot of amusing business, Dempsy is prevailed upon to sign both addresses, and is accused of being a traitor by both parties. His excuse is that he has been intimidated into putting his name to each paper. Flanagan and Captain McNamara then determine to put up against him on the Council, and Dempsy's eloquence with the people for once fails—he has incurred their anger by referring to the place as a "cracked pitcher"—for he is beaten at the poll, and roughly handled, Flanagan being elected. Even then he will not be silenced, and addresses the crowd from his window. The Doctor and McNamara come and offer him the appointment of Justice of the Peace, but in his final oration Dempsy tears up the paper before the mob, thereby partly regaining their confidence. He also announces his intention of making over his business to Brien and his daughter, and moving to the country to indulge in agricultural pursuits, retiring from public life beaten but not disgraced.

Description of the plot gives but a poor idea of the humour contained in the play, which provided a splendid part for Mr. Arthur Sinclair as the blarneying, irrepressible Irishman Dempsy, a character in which he evidently revels. Very funny is the actor in the first scene, where he poses as an invalid, but his impersonation throughout is a very droll one, and it is difficult to imagine this arduous part being in better hands. Miss Sara Allgood also contributes a capital impersonation as his good-natured Catherine; and the other parts are all admirably impersonated. In strong contrast to this amusing comedy is the play in one act, by Lord Dunsany, entitled

"THE GLITTERING GATE."

Jim	MR. FRED O'DONOVAN
Bill	MR. J. M. KERRIGAN

The scene of this grimly mysterious piece is A Lonely Place, presumably Hades. On a darkened stage stands out prominently the Glittering Gate (of Heaven). The two characters—Jim and Bill—are both burglars. Jim has been there quite a long time, and while Bill, a new arrival, talks of futures, and hopes, and sunsets, &c., Jim only groans for the hopelessness of it all. Bottles are being continually lowered from above, and they are always empty, but Jim tries them all on the off-chance that they might make a mistake some day up above, and put some beer in one. Eventually Bill recalls to Jim a little of the past, and the latter talks of Jane, a fair-haired, blue-eyed girl that he used to know. If there's a heaven, she's there. And so, Bill asserts, is his mother—at least, if she has got her deserts. Bill has brought his little pal "Nut-cracker" with him. It has never failed him yet, and with it he will open "the Glittering Gate." After working at it for some time he at last succeeds, but disappointment again awaits the couple. There is no mother and no Jane—only a vast, starry space. Mr. Donovan contributed an impressive performance of Jim, and his more hopeful pal Bill was excellently enacted by Mr. J. M. Kerrigan.

On Tuesday, June 7, for the First Time in London, a Play, in Three Acts, by S. L. Robinson, entitled "HARVEST."

Jack Hurley	MR. FRED O'DONOVAN
Mildred	MISS SARA ALLGOOD
Bridget Twomey	MISS EILEEN O'DOHERTY
Maggie Hannigan	MISS EITHNE MAGEE
Timothy Hurley	MR. J. A. O'ROURKE
Maurice Hurley	MR. J. M. KERRIGAN
William Lordan	MR. ARTHUR SINCLAIR
Mary Hurley	MISS MAIRE O'NEILL

The Irish Players again supplied an interesting programme on Tuesday, Mr. Robertson's serious play Harvest, produced in Dublin on May 19, being a powerful, if depressing and pessimistic, drama of Irish peasant life. Jack Hurley, a young Irishman working in a chemist's shop in Dublin, has lately married, and, when the play begins, has brought his bride Mildred home to his father's cottage at Knockmalgoss after six years' absence. The couple are hard up, for Mildred has married against her father's wish, and they have spent all their money on their honeymoon and new home. Jack is under the impression that the farm is in a very flourishing state, and tells Mildred so, and he intends to borrow £50 off his brother Maurice. He is, however, soon disillusioned. Maurice, somewhat bitterly, tells him all the money has gone on educating him (Jack) and the other brothers and starting them in life. Maurice is the only one to stay at home and work on the farm, which is now mortgaged, and he and his father have not a sovereign to their name. Jack's old schoolmaster, William Lordan, is very proud of his old pupil, and orates on the benefits of education and going out into the world, and the curtain descends on Maurice, in decidedly strong language, reviling Lordan. Jack has a sister Mary, who has been in London some years. She has evidently been doing well there, but her father and brother have not any idea as to how she is earning a livelihood. She is coming home, and Jack is overjoyed at the prospect of seeing her again after such a long interval. He and Mildred decide to stay on at the farm. He will leave the chemist's at Dublin, and they sell up the home, raise a few pounds, and work to help his brother and father. But it is soon apparent neither can stand the life. Mildred is a failure at butter-making, and Jack faints while at work in the fields. Meanwhile, the old father, Timothy Hurley, has set light to some outbuildings in order to get compensation. There is a fine scene when the old man chucklingly acknowledges to his two sons what one can do with a match, and thinks what a clever chap he has been. Jack is horrified, and threatens to expose him, but Maurice sides with the old man. One of the absent brothers has been written to for money, but replies that he is unable to spare any. Mary has returned home, but does not seem very happy. She takes no interest in the farm, and has been heard walking about her room in the middle of the night sobbing. And when she flatly refuses to help Schoolmaster Lordon find a place such as hers for one of his girl friends in London one guesses her mode of life. Jack and Mildred eventually decide to emigrate to Canada, and Mary to return to London. Unbeknown to all, she has got £50 from the man she has been living with, and sent it to her father, and he and her brothers are under the impression it has come from the absent son who has been written to for money. In a powerful scene with Jack she is prevailed upon to disclose her shame. He begs her not to go back to London, but her mind is made up. She cannot start life at the farm. She longs for fine clothes and luxury again; and besides, she will be able to help her father and Maurice. He asks Mildred to persuade Mary to go away with them; but Mildred, on hearing the reason and the life Mary has led, flatly refuses. It would not be respectable! An angry scene follows, in which Jack, completely losing control of his temper, becomes again "a brutal Irish peasant," and turns Mildred from the room. Mary, on her return, ready to depart for the station, quite understands Mildred's attitude towards her, and tells Jack he will have to beg her pardon. She then bids farewell to Maurice and the old schoolmaster, the latter still proudly talking of what fine things his old pupils are doing out in the world, and Mary ironically agrees with him. It has been a splendid harvest!

Mr. Fred O'Donovan as Jack Hurley portrayed a trying part with much conviction and ability. In the first scene he was the buoyant, hopeful young bridegroom to the life; later, he realistically indicated the inability of a town man to work in the fields, the scene where he has to admit he is "done" being very impressive. Effective also was his acting in the final scene with his wife, and his performance throughout was a most praiseworthy one. Miss Sara Allgood again did good work as Mildred, particularly convincing being the scene where the young wife, who has been brought up as a lady, determines, for her husband's sake, to work on the farm, and has so soon to confess what a failure she is. Humorous studies of Irish peasantry were given by Miss Eileen O'Doherty and Miss Eithne Magee; Mr. J. O'Rourke submitted a realistic portrait of the aged farmer, Timothy; Maurice Hurley was powerfully enacted by Mr. J. M. Kerrigan, the bitterness and scorn of the brother who has had to stay at home being skilfully shown; and the schoolmaster, William Lordan, was quite safe in the hands of Mr. Arthur Sinclair. Miss Maire O'Neill as Mary delicately and cleverly handled the scene where she confesses her shame to Jack, and gave throughout a quietly effective portrayal.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

SIR HERBERT TREE is in favour of repertory theatres. "It ought to be achieved," he says. "If not a repertory theatre in each large town, there might be a travelling repertory theatre for a district playing for a certain time of the year, because the continuous production of fresh work in one town might be a great strain on the resources of the dramatists, the intelligence of the actors, and on the enthusiasm of the public. Such a travelling repertory company would make a public; it would carry the oriflamme from town to town. They used to have circuits with the stage, and that might be done with a repertory theatre. It might in that way, by linking up of the theatres and cities for each province or circuit, become a national movement. Either one of the existing theatres might be used for the repertory theatre, or there might be some building specially devoted to the exploitation of the repertory theatre, though I am inclined to think money should not be thrown away too much on bricks and mortar, which might, after all, only be a cold monument to warm endeavour."

YESTERDAY (Friday) afternoon a deputation from the West End Theatrical Managers' Association was received by the officials of the London County Council at Spring Gardens. The deputation appointed consisted of Sir Charles Wyndham, Mr. Frank Curzon, Mr. George Edwardes, Mr. J. M. Gatti, Mr. F. Harrison, Mr. Edward Terry, Mr. J. Vedrenne, Mr. Lewis Waller, and the solicitor of the Association, Mr. W. F. Fladgate. The purpose of the deputation was to point out to the L.C.C. the great danger to life that exists when crowded performances of plays are held in clubs unlicensed or in any way uncontrolled by that authority. The deputation was being heard as The Era was going to press, so we are unable to give a report of the proceedings, but we understand that the L.C.C. was strongly urged by those present to seek such powers as would compel clubs to comply with the same regulations that both theatrical and vaudeville managers at present must conform to.

As we have already pointed out, there are over 1,100 working-men's clubs and associations spread over the country, with about 400,000 members. The Working-men's Club and Institute issues to its clubs associate and pass cards, which give the holder the privilege of honorary membership of the other clubs of the Union in all parts of the country. A subscription of half a crown a quarter carries with it the right of the member to introduce to the club, for performances, free of charge, two women and two children; and gives him also the right to introduce one man at the charge of one penny. All that the introducer has to do on entering the hall is to buy for each of the party a 2d. programme, having attached to it a voucher for a reserved seat, so that he is able to entertain himself and five other people at the cost of one shilling and a penny.

ENTERTAINMENTS given at these clubs seriously compete with those at regular theatres. The fact that the pits and galleries of some of our theatres are less patronised than they used to be is partly due to the fact that the working-man will not pay to go to a regular theatre when he can see the same play at his club. These places of amusement are quite beyond the control of the County Council. Precautions against fire practically do not exist; there are rarely any fire-extinguishing appliances or hydrants, and no safety curtain. The authorities watch over the safety of the public assembling in licensed theatres, and harass the managers to provide safety appliances and extra exits, and one is astonished at the immunity from control enjoyed by these clubs. The theatre-manager is, in fact, at the greatest of disadvantages as regards their competition.

MR. WEEDON GROSSMITH has settled on Thursday, the 23rd inst., for the production at the Garrick Theatre of Billy's Bargain, the new farce by Mr. Robert Lascelles, whose season at that theatre will be under the management of Mr. Richard Maynard. In the cast are Mr. John Clulow, Miss Fortescue, Miss Marjorie Doré, Mr. Arthur Chesney, and Mr. Weedon Grossmith himself.

THE snake in Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's drama The Speckled Band, at the Adelphi Theatre, is not a mechanical property, but a live python. Every night in a box it makes its journey from the East End, where its proprietor, a naturalist, lives, to the theatre. It is quite six feet long and very strong, yet it allows itself to be put through the aperture in the scene of the last act with complete submissiveness.

A STARTLING accident occurred in the duel between Mr. Oscar Asche as Count Hannibal and Mr. Gerald K. Souper as Tignonville, in Count Hannibal, at the Criterion Theatre, Sydney, on May 4. The two actors were fighting hard, for the duel, which is fought with swords and poignards, is a strenuous conflict throughout. It was in the third stage, just before the incident in which Count Hannibal sweeps the candelabra from the table, that he dunged at his opponent, and the point of the sword struck him at the side of the left eye. The skin was penetrated, and the point passing through emerged above the eyebrow, blood pouring from the wound.

WITH his face bathed in blood, and hardly able to see, Mr. Souper valiantly kept his blade flashing before Count Hannibal, and once got so close that his weapon scratched Mr. Asche's neck and the point came through his shirt collar. The audience breathlessly watched the conflict, eaget to see whether Mr. Souper could hold out to the end before receiving the vanquishing blow from Count Hannibal; but this he did, and when the fight was over the audience accorded the plucky actor an ovation. Mr. Souper lost much blood, as the state of the stage indicated, and was very weak when he appeared on the following night.

MR. W. CLARKSON'S case against the lessees of the Porte Saint Martin, MM. Hertz and Coquelin, for alleged breach of contract in £2,000 damages in connection with the Chantecler costumes has come up for hearing, but will not be settled for some time. The defendants have urged a provision of French law, by which a foreign plaintiff may be compelled to pay into Court a surety—"judication solvi"—before his action be entertained, and they ask that plaintiff be ordered to deposit £200. The latter's counsel replies that the amount is exorbitant, and that £6 would be ample surety. The Court must settle this preliminary question before going into the rights of the case.

MR. H. B. IRVING will give a series of revivals of popular plays during the present season at the Queen's Theatre, Shaftesbury-avenue. In accordance with this plan, the performances of Judge Not and Robert Macaire will terminate this evening, and on Monday Mr. Irving will be seen as Lesurques and Dubosc in The Lyons Mail for a limited number of nights. The Lyons Mail, it will be recalled, was played by Mr. Irving before King Edward at the last state performance given at Windsor Castle.

"THE DAWN OF A TO-MORROW" having gradually grown into an indisputable success, despite all it has had to contend against, will, by arrangement with Mr. Charles Frohman, be transferred to the Duke of York's Theatre on Monday, the 20th inst., terminating at the Garrick on the 19th. This transference has been rendered necessary by the fact that the theatre is wanted by Mr. Wentworth Croke for Mr. Weedon Grossmith's season. Mr. Weedon Grossmith opens with Billy's Bargain on the 22nd.

THE annual general performances of the British Empire Shakespeare Society, which have hitherto been always held at Stratford-on-Avon, will take place this year in London. In order to emphasise the representative character of the society, the locale of the performances will in future be altered from one centre to another throughout the kingdom from year to year. As You Like It is the play chosen for this year. Six performances (four evening and two matinée) will be given at the Royal Court Theatre during the week commencing Monday, Oct. 17, under the direction of Mr. Acton Bond. Two casts will again be employed, composed of members of the Society, drawn from all over the kingdom. Special attention will be paid to the music, scenery, and costumes, and a stately masque of Hymen is being arranged.

MR. J. M. BARRIE unexpectedly presented a one-act farce called A Slice of Life in front of Chains at the professional matinée of that piece at the Duke of York's Theatre on Tuesday. It was a parody of a modern drama, in which a husband and wife, each with an alleged "past," make mock confessions to each other, and confess in the end that neither has been in the least guilty, and that their self-accusations have been inventions. The piece was cleverly acted by Miss Irene Vanbrugh, Miss Cecilia Loftus, and Mr. Gerald Du Maurier, the performance being liberally embellished with imitations. Among those present were Mr. J. M. Barrie, Mr. Edward Terry, Mr. Fred Terry, Mr. Granville Barker, Miss Lillah McCarthy, Miss Alexandra Carlisle, and Miss Edyth Olive.

MR. EDMUND PAYNE, who has been absent from his part of Cousin Timothy in Our Miss Gibbs at the Gaiety, from illness, for six months, will return to it to-night, when Mr. George Edwardes will introduce into the piece various new scenes, songs, and dances.

MR. FRANK CURZON has made an arrangement with Mr. du Maurier to appear at Wyndham's Theatre after the termination of the run of The Naked Truth, in a play called Nobody's Daughter, written by "George Paston."

A SPECIAL service for the members of the Actors' Church Union was held at St. Mary Abbots, Kensington, last Sunday afternoon. There was a large congregation. The sermon was preached by the Rev. F. L. Boyd, vicar of St. Paul's, Knightsbridge. The lives of actors, said the preacher, were largely spent in learning how to express the work of other men, and to the members of the dramatic profession the teachings of Christianity, as expressed through the personalities of the Apostles, should be easy of acceptance. They were accustomed to continual rehearsal and attention to the slightest detail, and their whole lives of training, therefore, specially fitted them for living Christian lives.

LAST Saturday night, while playing Julie in The Man of Fate, Miss Ella Erskine received an absolute ovation from the Manchester audience with whom, during her week's visit, she had become so great a favourite. Among other floral offerings there was a gigantic and very beautiful basket of white, yellow, and purple blossoms, a bouquet of yellow iris, and a laurel wreath from the playgoers of Manchester. The play, which owes much of its success to her fine performance, will be seen in the principal provincial towns this autumn, and there is also every probability of a London production.

MR. WENTWORTH CROKE wishes it to be thoroughly understood that he has sub-let some of the No. 2 and all the No. 3 and fit-up rights of the old version of The Christian to Mr. Marcus D. Draper for one year. Mr. Croke retains all the No. 1 rights of the piece himself, and also has the right to approve of all artists engaged by Mr. Draper.

THE Actresses' Franchise League are organising a matinée in aid of the funds of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies, to be given on Tuesday, June 21, at the Kingsway Theatre. The programme will consist of How the Vote was Won, by Cicely Hamilton and Christopher St. John, and Mr. Bernard Shaw's Press Cuttings. Miss Maxine Elliott will also recite. Among the artists who are giving their services are Miss Lilian Braithwaite, Miss Adeline Bourne, Miss Marianne Caldwell, Miss Pollie Emery, Miss Di Forbes, Miss Auriol Lee, Miss Lillah McCarthy, Miss Edyth Olive, Miss Nella Powys, Miss Agnes Thomas, Mr. Leslie Faber, and Mr. Ben Webster. A reception will be held in the foyer of the theatre after the matinée by Miss Gertrude Elliott.

THE Actor's Church Union (South-West London district) is holding its inaugural social gathering in the Kensington Town Hall, on Tuesday, June 14, from 3.30 to 6.30, to meet the vice-presidents, among whom are the Bishop of London, Sir Charles Wyndham, Sir Herbert Tree, the Bishop of Birmingham, the Bishop of Argyll, Mr. Cyril Maude, Mr. Edward Compton, Mr. H. B. Irving, Mr. Martin Harvey, and others. Applications for invitations from those interested will be received with pleasure by the hon. secretary for the South-West and district, lady correspondent and visitor, Miss E. G. Clarke, 190, Finborough-road, Earl's Court, S.W.; or by Miss Gordon Barrett, 1, Phillimore-terrace, W.

MISS MARIE LOHR is to be the presiding goddess of The Temple of Flora at the Theatrical Garden Party on the 28th inst. The continuous entertainment promised by the Water Rats is taking shape as a Palais de Luxe, under the direction of Miss May Warley and Mr. W. H. Clemart—145 artists have volunteered their services. Mr. John Ansell, who has accepted the honorary post of musical director, is writing special music for Mr. Cyril Maude's "entrancing melodrama," and Mr. Gerald du Maurier has announced his intention of joining forces with Miss Alexandra Carlisle, in the Anglo-American shooting gallery, where they will superintend competitions and guide the visitors in selecting from the caricature targets of celebrated persons which Miss Carlisle is having prepared. Miss Polly Emery is designing a special matinée hat for exhibition in Jarley's Living Waxworks, and Mr. Herbert Trench is making a special effort to be present and assist in a certain "bower." Psychomancy, palmistry, and crystal gazing are to be done by Mesdames Mora and Olga, and mandoline and guitar music is promised by the Hampstead orchestra, of which Mr. Albert Roberts is conductor. Miss Lillian Braithwaite will preside at the tent of strawberries and cream. Tickets and programmes are to be had of Mr. Anslow J. Austin, 26, Old Buildings, Lincoln's Inn.

MR. J. B. MULHOLLAND'S new theatre at Wimbledon is nearing completion, under the direction of those able young architects, Messrs. Masey and Young. These gentlemen have suggested various improvements which the local authorities have welcomed, and which Mr. Mulholland has been quick to adopt. Several novel features in theatre construction may be looked for in this very handsome and spacious new building.

MR. CHARLES HAWTREY, after the run of The Naked Truth at Wyndham's, will become actor-manager of a leading West End theatre, where he will produce several plays in succession.

DAVID GARRICK'S villa on the Thames at Hampton, with eleven acres of pleasure grounds, was put up for auction at the Mart on Wednesday by Messrs. Edwin Fox, Bousfield, Burnetts, and Baddeley. As the starting price, Mr. Fox suggested £12,000, but no one responded. At length a sporting offer of £5,000 was made, and from that point the bidding ran up to £9,600, at which figure the property was withdrawn, together with Garrick's Ait. The Hermitage, which was described as a cottage orné, on the river bank, with garden, and which also once belonged to Garrick, was then put up, and was knocked down at £1,475.

THE members of the Savage Club are well represented at the Kodak Gallery, 40, Strand, W.C. The walls of the gallery are hung with no fewer than one hundred speaking likenesses of "brother Savages." That indefatigable artist Trevor Haddon, R.B.S., has accomplished this work within twelve months. Although one hundred members constitutes but a sixth of the strength of the club, Mr. Haddon hopes it will be his privilege in the course of time to paint the whole membership. It is to be hoped that the club will secure this wonderful collection of pictures for the walls of the historic Savage Club.

"THE LITTLE THEATRE," which is being constructed in part of the old premises of Coutts's Bank, Adelphi, is to be decorated, very appropriately, in Adam style. The colour scheme is to be blue-grey and white, suggestive of Wedgwood ware; and the old chimney-pieces are to be retained. Miss Gertrude Kingston, for whom the work is being carried out, has notions as to the setting of scenery. She contends that sky borders have usually a very unreal effect, and ruin an otherwise fine piece of work, and that above the stage should be an arched ceiling of pale blue to represent the heavens.

THE Poets' Club dinner, held at the Imperial Restaurant on Tuesday, was one of the most successful of these always interesting functions. It was of special interest, theatrically, owing to the fact of Mr. Herbert Trench being in the chair. Mr. Owen Seaman, the editor of Punch, read a witty and entertaining paper on "Parody." Mr. Robert Ross, who was among the speakers, with his usual ready wit finished his all too short speech with a reference to "Apollo" (indicating Mr. Trench) and the "Seaman." Among the members and visitors were Mr. Henry Murray, Mr. Tancred, Mr. Heldman, Mr. Walter Pearce, Mr. J. D. Bone, Mr. Rathmell Wilson, Miss Janet Alexander, and Miss Ella Erskine, who, by special request, read Mr. Herbert Trench's beautiful poem "Multatuli Remoulded." Both Miss Erskine and the author received much delighted applause, and certainly the fine lines, with their splendid philosophy, could scarcely have been read with greater feeling, beauty of voice, or intellectual insight.

MR. FROHMAN has made arrangements to terminate the present season of the Repertory Theatre company at the Duke of York's on Friday next, and on Monday, the 20th inst., Mrs. Hodgson Burnett's play The Dawn of a To-morrow will be transferred to that theatre from the Garrick. At the conclusion of its run the Duke of York's will be closed for renovation and repairs.

FOR Mr. Frohman's next repertory season he has arranged for plays to be written by Mr. J. M. Barrie, Mr. Somerset Maugham, Mr. Henry Arthur Jones, Mr. Alfred Sutro, Mr. Haddon Chambers, and Mr. Henry James. There will also be revivals of Mr. Barrie's Quality Street and Mr. Chambers's Tyranny of Tears. In September Mr. Frohman will present Miss Irene Vanbrugh in a new play, which will be replaced in December by the annual revival of Peter Pan. The winter and spring of each year will be devoted by Mr. Frohman to repertory. The stage management, not only of the Duke of York's but of all his other theatres, will be under the direction of Mr. Dion Boucicault.

MR. FROHMAN will, on Aug. 26, produce Our Miss Gibbs in New York, with Miss Pauline Chase in the title-part and Mr. Fred Wright, jun., as Cousin Timothy. Miss Julia James, Miss Molly Lowell, and Miss Kitty Mason will also be in the company. On Dec. 20 Miss Chase will sail for England, arriving in London in time for a dress rehearsal of Peter Pan prior to its revival. Later on Mr. Barrie's immortal fantasy will be sent upon a long Continental tour.

MR. DURWARD LELY will send out The Bondman on tour this autumn with a strong company, by arrangement with Mr. Wentworth Croke, who has sub-let the No. 3 and fit-up rights to Mr. Lely.

A NEW theatre, named the Theatre Royal, has just been opened in Tralee. The building is 82ft. long by 46ft. wide, having a stage 44ft. by 20ft., with a proscenium of 28ft., and has accommodation for 1,000 people. It has two large dressing-rooms, and is also fitted with a maple floor for dancing purposes. The theatre was opened on Tuesday night before a large audience with a concert. Mr. Clarke Barry's orchestra performed, and the artists included Miss Alice Keogh, Miss Agnes Treacy, Mr. Denis O'Connor, Mr. Robert Johnston, and Mr. W. F. Cope.

MR. PENNINGTON-GUSH has been engaged by Mr. Frank Weathersby for all the leading rôles in his répertoire season at the Opera House, Torquay. He opens on Monday as John Glayde in John Glayde's Honour, followed by Sir Charles Wyndham's part in Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace, Mr. George Alexander's part in The Builder of Bridges, &c.

MISS KITTY RICIMER has been engaged to play Kathie in Old Heidelberg during an autumn tour, including the principal towns of the South and Midlands. Miss Ricimer, it will be remembered, played the part at the St. James's Theatre when Miss Eva Moore was indisposed.

MISS GEORGIA BRYTON, who has returned to London after a long visit to America, has had an extensive experience in the States. She made her first appearance there with the late Augustin Daly's famous stock company, with whom she stayed two seasons. Afterwards she played three seasons with Charles H. Hoyt's A Trip to Chinatown company enacting the part of Willie Grow. After that came a few appearances in vaudeville, until the production of A Chinese Honeymoon, when the late Sam Shubert engaged her to play the part of Fi Fi, alternating with Miss Katie Barry during the long run at the Casino Theatre, Miss Bryton subsequently undertaking the part altogether on the road for two seasons, travelling as far as the coast. She then played the leading comedy in Fantana for two seasons, making seven seasons under the Shubert management.

MESSRS. WENTWORTH CROKE, Milton Bode, and Edward Compton have engaged Miss Marie Polini for Miss Gertrude Elliott's part of Glad in The Dawn of a To-morrow, when they send this piece out in the autumn, the tour starting at Eastbourne on August Bank Holiday.

"THE BLUE BIRD" having reached its 250th performance, Mr. Herbert Trench is very shortly withdrawing it at the height of its popularity, with a view, of course, to its periodical revival. His next production will be the fantastic comedy Priscilla Runs Away, by Countess Von Arnim, author of the famous "Elizabeth and her German Garden." The part of the impulsive and wayward Princess will be played by Miss Phillida Terson, the accomplished daughter of Mr. Fred Terry and Miss Julia Neilson, whose recent performances as Viola in Twelfth Night at His Majesty's, as well as in her celebrated parents' productions, aroused such high hopes of a brilliant career.

MR. TRENCH is sending the original London company of The Blue Bird on a short provincial tour this autumn, beginning at Leeds on Sept. 5.

IT is announced from Paris that M. Le Bargy, the distinguished actor—whose rupture with the Comédie Française caused some excitement recently—will enter into partnership with Mme. Sarah Bernhardt at the end of the year. As associates of the French national theatre are not allowed to act at any other Paris theatre, it is anticipated that proceedings will be taken by the Comédie Française against M. Le Bargy.

MISS MAY SAKER will play the title-rôle in the Duchess of Down, the new three-act play by Mrs. George Norman, to be produced at the Rehearsal Theatre by Mr. Victor Wiltshire on Friday afternoon, June 17. Included in the cast will also be Messrs. Charles King, Valentine Penna, Alfred Drayton, W. R. Staveley, Keith Shepherd, and Duncan Yarrow, and Misses Margaret Mackenzie, Estelle Stead, Evelyn Grey, and Eileen Savage.

MISS KATE WALBRAN, who concluded her engagement with Messrs. De Jong and Black in Cape Town recently, after scoring a success in all the leading rôles in the comedies of the repértoire, has accepted an extension of contract that will carry her on to the end of the year with the same management. The De Jong and Black combination are acquiring the rights of several others of Mr. Somerset Maugham's plays, as Miss Walbran's style seems particularly suited to the methods of that brilliant dramatist.

MISS NORA LANCASTER terminated on Saturday a nine months' engagement with Mr. F. R. Benson, with whom she has been playing a round of leading characters, such as Juliet, Rosalind, Viola, Queen in Richard II., Princess Katharine in Henry V., Perdita, &c.

MISS AUGUSTA HAVILAND has been engaged by Mr. J. C. Williamson and Mr. Gaston Meyer to play the part of Mrs. Futvoye in The Brass Bottle in Australia. She sailed on Friday, June 3, in the P. and O. ss. Mongolia. Miss Haviland desires through our columns to thank her friends for their kind wires, letters, &c., which have been too numerous to acknowledge individually before leaving.

MASTER CHARLES HAVILAND CHAPPELL is this week playing Bobbie in Cousin Kate, with Mr. Percy Hutchison's company, for a special week at the Opera House, Southport.

"TURNING THE TABLES," a new farcical comedy by Oswald King, will be presented by Mr. Augustus Bingham for the first time at the Devonshire Park Theatre, Eastbourne, on June 20. Mr. Forbes Dawson produces the play. Thrice before, it may be opportune to recall, has the title been used, the most recent being for a sketch produced at the Empress, Brixton, in May of last year.

A SPECIAL matinée of As You Like It, followed by a new play by Gaston Gervex, entitled The Accolade, will be given at the Court Theatre on Thursday next, under the direction of Mr. Clive Currie. Mr. H. A. Saintsbury will play Touchstone, Miss Mary Forbes Rosalind, and Mr. Clive Currie Jaques. The casts will also include Messrs. Clarence Derwent, Fred Grove, Walter Ringham, Dennis Cleugh, Coats Bush, Montague Mazeran, B. A. Pittar, Lewis Carlton, and Misses Jean Graeme, Evelyn Vanderzee, May Saker, Evelyn Grey, Violet Moréne, Rose Macdonald, Irene Delisse, and members of the Rehearsal company.

MISS DECIMA MOORE, after appearing at the Court Theatre on June 23 as Lady Betty, in The Betrothal of Lady Betty, will take part in the repertory season for Mr. Hutchison at Southport, playing Lady Frederick, Mrs. Dot, &c. Miss Moore returns to town the third week in July.

THE Miners' Theatre, Ashington, which has been closed for some time, has now been leased by the proprietors to Mr. Arthur C. Moody, the popular lessee and manager of the New Theatre Royal, Blyth-by-the-Sea. It is Mr. Moody's intention to redecorate the theatre, and he hopes to open some time in August.

MISS EILA ERSKINE, who recently made such a great success in the new Napoleonic play The Man of Fate, at the Queen's Theatre, Manchester, has been engaged to create the leading part, that of a young, fascinating, and "merry" widow, in a new farce, by Helene Gingold, entitled Looking for Trouble. It is to be produced in Brighton on July 4, under the immediate patronage of King George of Greece. Mr. Walter Pearce will be seen in the leading juvenile part, and among other artists engaged for the production are Messrs. Blake Adams, Stephen Ewart, Henry Doughty, and Miss Rita Tomkins.

"SMILER'S WATCH," a troopship episode, by F. D. Bone, will be produced next week for the second piece of Mr. Bagge's one-act play season at the Camden Theatre. The parts will be played by Messrs. Lionel Atwill, Edward Sorley, Olaf Hytton, Hugh Wakefield, and Henry Bagge.

MR. COLE ASPINALL, at the conclusion of his engagement with Daughter of the Sea company at Kelly's Theatre, Liverpool, on Saturday, June 2, in addition to receiving the congratulations of many friends on his return to the Mersey city, in which he is so well known and respected, was presented with a very handsome gold and coral pin by Mr. H. G. Gourdan.

MR. FRANK MARSHALL, Mr. Grahame-White's secretary and Press manager, has arranged that Miss Pauline Chase (Peter Pan) shall fly with Mr. Grahame-White at Brooklands on June 18.

Two charming frocks are seen in The Case of Rebellious Susan at the Criterion Theatre. One, worn by Miss Ellis Jeffreys in Act 3, is of écru ninon and lace. The tunic is bordered with a deep band of lace, through which is seen a bright blue satin sash. A band of lace goes straight across the bodice, and is edged with satin and veiled with ninon. The picturesque hat is of écru satin and is trimmed with écru feathers and pink roses. Miss Mary Moore's frock in Act 2 is of silk-spotted cream net and cream lace. Some pretty Paisley embroidery forms the round yoke and trims the front of the corsage. A deep blue satin hem on the underskirt is visible through the lace hem.

MR. HENRY TWEEDIE, business-manager, of Daneswood, Twickenham, is making a very interesting collection of old silver shillings, his store including examples as far back as 1504. When the collection is complete he hopes some theatrical charity will benefit by its sale.

THE meeting at Mrs. Godfrey Baring's, 195, Queen's Gate, in favour of the National Theatre, on Tuesday afternoon, was of special interest, showing that support from members of the theatrical profession is increasing. In addition to Sir John Hare, who presided, and Mr. Forbes-Robertson, who addressed the meeting, the well-known actor Mr. J. H. Barnes proposed a resolution in favour of the scheme, and Mr. James Hearn spoke to a resolution.

THE late Edmund Yates called School the most fascinating of all the Robertson plays, the sunniest, pleasantest, and brightest of all idylls. On Wednesday Mr. Robert Arthur will offer it at the Coronet, with Mr. O. B. Clarence as Beau Farintosh, Mr. Athol Stewart as Lord Beaufoy, Mr. James Carew as Jack Poyntz, Miss Rosie Begarnie as Naomi Tighe, Miss Estelle Winwood as Bella, and Mrs. A. B. Tapping as Mrs. Sutcliffe.

MR. J LINDSAY ELLIS has arranged to send out in July the well-known military play, Lights Out, on an autumn and spring tour. A strong company has been selected, and the piece will be equipped with entirely new scenery and costumes. The production is in the capable hands of Mr. Francis J. Bethell, who will stage-manage the play on tour.

THE many friends of Mr. Stanley Hope, the popular manager of the Opera House, Jersey, will be sorry to hear of his wife's sudden illness, which happened whilst they were on a holiday.

MR. GEORGE MARLOW, Australia's enterprising manager, has just concluded his season at His Majesty's Theatre, Perth, with a production of Edward Thane's popular drama, Lured to London. In the course of this visit Mr. Marlow has successfully produced a new play by Mr. Arthur Shirley entitled The Mother of His Child.

MR. CHARLES R. STONE has just recovered from a short but severe illness. During his illness he was compelled to refuse two offers, but now that he is fit and well, is ready to welcome renewed proposals for his services.

MR. R. LAWSON LAMBERT, who has just terminated a long engagement as manager of the Theatre Royal, Brighton, has been engaged to look after the interests of Messrs. Wentworth Croke, Milton Bode, and Edward Compton, when these gentlemen begin their lease of the Garrick Theatre on the 20th inst. Mr. Richard T. Maynard will, of course, continue to represent Mr. Weedon Grossmith.

WHEN Mr. Wentworth Croke does East Lynne at the Camden Hippodrome on June 20, Miss Beth Elliott will be the Lady Isabel, Mr. George R. Montford will play the part of Levison, Mr. Leonard Yorke (Archibald Carlyle), Miss Madge Lanerton (Cornelia), and Mr. Arthur E. Maskell (Ebenezer Walker). Although in this version—another novelty—Little Willie does not speak, Mr. Wentworth Croke, in order to do the sketch well in every respect, has engaged Miss Winnie Rousby, a grand-daughter of the late Wybert Rousby, to play the part. Entirely new scenery from the Lyric Opera House, Hammersmith, Studios, will be used for this production

THE management of the Prince's Theatre, Portsmouth, intend next month to try the twice-nightly system of popular plays.

MR. NORMAN V. NORMAN is taking an original course on the occasion of his benefit at the Theatre Royal, Plymouth, this week. A first-class drawing-room suite has been purchased from a local firm, and will be presented to the holder of a winning number to be determined by ballot this (Saturday) evening.

KEITH G. KENNETH, who finished a successful tour with The Woman of Kronstadt last week at Croydon, starts out with Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace and Under the Greenwood Tree next week. The clever young actress Miss Betty Fairfax is the leading lady.

MR. HERBERT RAYMOND, manager, Regent Theatre, Salford, and his wife (Miss Dorma Morgan) will sail for New York from Liverpool per Arabic on Saturday, June 18, where they will spend their holidays.

MR. J. F. GRAHAM'S benefit performance in aid of the Birmingham Football Club at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Birmingham, on Tuesday night proved most enjoyable. Mr. Graham appeared in a farcical comedy entitled His Last Legs, and was ably assisted by his daughter, Miss Leslie K. Graham, and Mrs. F. W. Langley, Miss Alice Hancox, and Messrs. S. Sellars, J. F. Retallack, W. H. Kendrick, L. Retallack, and E. Newman. Mr. Hart, the chairman of the Birmingham Football Club, thanked Mr. Graham and the artists from the local music halls who had kindly contributed to the programme for their generous assistance.

MISS MARIE AUCKLAND concludes on June 18 her second engagement with Mr. Wentworth Croke. In the part of Mad Jenny in The Girl of My Heart Miss Auckland has made a great success.

MR. W. V. GARROD will shortly produce for copyright purposes a new play, in three acts, from his own pen, entitled Atonement. The regular production will take place early in the autumn. The Atonement has several times figured as the title of a play, notably for a three-act drama founded on Victor Hugo's Les Miserables, and produced at the Victoria Theatre in 1872, while a one-act drama called simply Atonement was produced by Mr. Albert Chevalier at Eastbourne three years ago.

MISS RUTH WINGROVE (Mrs. Willox Cadogan), who has been playing Satanella in The Midnight Wedding, was taken ill with diphtheria last Friday week at Chester. She is now at the isolation hospital, and will have to remain there for at least a month.

THE summer stock season at Torquay will commence on Monday next, under the direction of Mr. Frank Weathersby. The opening plays will be John Glayde's Honour and Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace. Miss Lilian Hallows and Mr. Pennington Gush will play leads, and Mr. Arthur Gibbons will produce the plays.

"ARE YOU A MASON?" seems to be "pulling the strings," in spite of the warm weather. At Leeds Grand Theatre last week the play drew really good houses, which gave entire satisfaction to both resident and touring manager. The same results have been achieved at many towns, including Blackpool, Bristol, Liverpool, Birmingham, and Scarborough, where return dates were offered. The play is rejuvenated, and has a strong cast. A very pretty colour scheme has been secured in the scene painted by Mr. Thos. F. Dunn, of Howard and Wyndham, Ltd. The walls are of a delicate pale mauve, the carpet being in a lighter shade of the same colour, with a conventional design in pale green. The chairs and settees are all in chints with a dainty design of pink rose buds, the remainder of the furniture being pure white.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Too Far Gone.

JOHN REEVE, says Edmund Yates in his "Recollections and Experiences," was the principal low comedian at the Adelphi Theatre in the early forties—a man of much humour and an enormous favourite. So popular was he that his frequent appearance on the stage when considerably overcome with drink was generally good-naturedly condoned by the audience. On one occasion, however, and when he happened to be playing a supposed scene of intoxication, he was really so far gone that he could not keep his balance, and fell down. This was too much, and the spectators lustily hissed. John Reeve raised himself with difficulty, advanced to the foothights, and, in thick tones of virtuous indignation, asked: "What's the meaning of this? Don't all of you know that I'm a drunken individual?" The unconscious double entendre delighted his hearers, and peace was restored.

Orders and Disorder.

THERE is a good story, says the same author, of my father, in connection with his power of quelling uproar among the audience. One night a tremendous row occurred at the end of the first act of a new piece. Loud cries for "Yates" brought my father on the stage. "What's all this?" he asked, peremptorily. Unintelligible yells and shouts from all parts of the house. "Look here," said my father, on the first approach to silence, shaking his finger menacingly at the audience generally, "if there is any more of this disturbance you shall have your orders back!"

A Modest Ambition.

FECHTER, says Mr. Yates, wishing to avail himself of the services of a rising young actress, who shall be nameless, requested me to arrange the engagement with her. After some preliminary talk she called upon me one day at the Post-office, accompanied by her father, then an actor in a very small way. After we had settled the matter the father said to me, "You have a pleasant sinecure here, Mr. Yates." I mildly hinted that, although the duties were not absolutely slavery, the position was not a sinecure. "Equivalent to it," he said, with a fine liberal air. "You gentlemen in Government offices are indeed well off. I said to my daughter as we walked up your grand staircase: 'Well, my dear, your father would give up all his dreams of ambition, and be content to settle down here on a mere five hundred a year.'" Whatever his dreams of ambition may have been, adds Yates, his actual salary probably never exceeded thirty shillings a week.

Charles Kemble and the Thunder.

I DO not think, says Yates, I ever met a man more hopelessly deaf than Charles Kemble at seventy. Some of us were sitting one afternoon at the Garrick Club, when a tremendous thunderstorm broke over the house. It raged with extraordinary fury, one clap exploding with terrific noise immediately above us like a volley of artillery. We looked round at each other almost in horror, when Charles Kemble, who was calmly reading, lifted his eyes from his book and said, in his trumpet-tone, "I think we are going to have some thunder; I feel it in my knees."

A Crushing Reproof.

ONE dusty summer's night, says Mr. Yates, I turned into the Strand Theatre, where were being exhibited the Bosjesmen, some wretched African savages, at a charge of 1s. to the boxes, 6d. to the pit, and 3d. to the gallery. I went into the pit. After the miserable creatures had gone through their dance, the showman—a gentleman in black, with beautifully arranged hair—advanced to give a description of them. "The little man," he commenced in mellifluous accents, "is forty-two years old." He paused for an instant, and a ribald boy in the threepenny gallery called out, "And how old are you?" The showman started, struck an attitude, and, with outstretched hand, exclaimed, "Old enough to tell you, sir, that you are no gentleman!"

The Derby and Miss Farren.

THE Earl of Derby had to wait until 1787, says the Pall Mall Gazette, before he captured the race named after him, by the aid of Sir Peter Teazle, who is generally referred to as Sir Peter. The Earl had married, as his second wife, the accomplished actress, Miss Farren, who attained her most conspicuous success on the stage in the character of Lady Teazle." Miss Elizabeth Farren did not wed the Earl until May 1, 1797, ten years after the win referred to. Hazlitt writes of her "fine-lady airs and graces, with that elegant turn of her head and motion of her face and tripping of her tongue." She must have been a fascinating creature.

Ibsen in the Midlands.

"I FIND, even among educated people, that Ibsen is not so well-known as he ought to be," said Mr. Leigh Lovell to a Sheffield Daily Telegraph representative. "If people only understood what his name stands for I am sure many more would flock to see his plays. This will give you an idea of the ignorance one has to fight against. At one of the Midland towns where I was playing the manager of the theatre asked, 'Are you Mr. Ibsen?'"

Taken too Literally.

THE most exciting thing that ever befel Mr. Hamilton Stewart in the course of his stage career was an adventure he once had with a sailor at Plymouth. "I was playing in The Duchess of Coolgardie, and in the course of my part I had some rather angry passages with one of the persons in the play, a sailor. Suddenly I became conscious that something unusual was happening. A man was coming headlong over the backs of the seats, like a hurdle racer, and before anyone could realise precisely what was the matter he was chasing me round the stage with a knife in his hand. He was a seaman, and I soon saw that his sympathy was with the seaman in the play, and he dashed at me, shouting, 'You would sling a sailor up, would you? I'm going to sling you up!' The stage hands quickly surrounded him, and deprived him of his knife. It was fortunate for me they did, because I was so startled by the suddenness of the attack that I could not defend myself."

Immoral Statues.

MISS OCTAVIA KENMORE, the heroine of the Ibsen's plays, is enthusiastic about Ibsen. "The talk about any of Ibsen's characters being immoral," she says, "reminds me of what occurred at Alnwick Castle. There is some very beautiful statuary there. My father once sent a party of friends to go over the Castle. They got as far as the statuary, and then they fled. The only impression they brought back was that the statues were frightfully immoral!"

Irish Dramatists.

"THE greatest English dramatists for two hundred years," says Mr. W. B. Yeats, in an interview in the Daily News, "have nearly all been Irishmen, or have had Irish blood in their veins. I think, too, Havelock Ellis has made calculations showing what an immense proportion of the actresses on the English stage have had Irish blood. Then our people have, perhaps more than any other people, the gift of fantasy. Go and talk to the Galway peasant and you will find it in him as you will find it in Synge or Lady Gregory, or Oscar Wilde, or Bernard Shaw, or any of the Irish dramatists. It is in all classes of our people."

"THE SPECKLED BAND."

An Adventure of Sherlock Holmes, founded by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle on his Story of the same name, Produced at the Adelphi Theatre on Saturday, June 4.

Dr. Grimesby Rylott .....MR. LYNN HARDING
Enid Stonor .....MISS CHRISTINE SILVER
Mrs. Staunton .....MISS AGNES THOMAS
Rodgers .....MR. A. S. HOMEWOOD
Ali, an Indian .....MR. WILTON ROSS
Mr. Scott Wilson .....MR. ARTHUR BURNE
Mr. Armitage .....MR. SPENCER TREVOR
Mr. Longbrace .....MR. J. J. BARTLETT
Mr. Brewer .....MR. FRANK RIDLEY
Inspector Downing .....MR. GEOFFREY HILL
Coroner's Officer .....MR. GEORGE LAUNDY
Mr. Holt Loaming .....MR. A. G. CRAIG
Mrs. Soames .....MISS GWENDOLEN FLOYD
Mr. James B. Montague.MR. A. CORNEY GRAIN
Mr. Milverton .....MR. FRANK RIDLEY
Billy .....MASTER CECIL F. LOWRIE
Dr. Watson .....MR. CLAUDE KING
Peters .....MR. C. LATER
Mr. Sherlock Holmes ....MR. H. A. SAINTSBURY

One at least of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's Sherlock Holmes stories has been already dramatised with success. Mr. William Gillette, in his season at the Lyceum in the September of 1901, produced a drama with the detective's name as its title, he and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle having collaborated in adapting "The Strange Case of Miss Faulkner." In this, Holmes was by far the most prominent figure, and the struggle of intellects between him and the arch-criminal, Professor Moriarty, formed the theme of a most exciting play. In The Speckled Band, which was produced with complete success at the Adelphi Theatre last Saturday, the detective does not by any means occupy the whole of the stage, though he has an important influence on the action of the drama. The predominant personage is the villain, who is a great deal before the audience, and who is a bold, big, and emphatic individual.

Out of his short but thrilling story of cunning crime Sir Arthur Conan Doyle has evolved a highly-sensational and enthralling drama of crime and its detection, which, as soon as the interest of the audience has been engaged by a demonstration of affairs, holds them in a grip of iron, and leaves them at the close in a state of excited satisfaction. Sir Arthur winds into his subject gradually, with an inquest in the first act on the death of the sister of Enid Stonor, the heroine. The young lady has mysteriously and suddenly expired in her bedroom, and no cause can be assigned for her death, either by medical and other evidence. But at the end of the act we are left with a strong suspicion that Dr. Grimesby Rylott, a retired Anglo-Indian surgeon, the step-father of the girl, has had a hand in her murder in order that he may inherit a legacy left to her by her mother. As a similar legacy has been left to Enid, who, like her dead sister, lives with Rylott at his lonely country house, we feel anxious about her safety.

Two years elapse. Enid has become engaged, and refuses to sign a paper which would make over her money to Rylott. Fearing that she may share her sister's fate, she calls, in London, on Sherlock Holmes, to whom she has been recommended by her mother's friend, Dr. Watson. Holmes at once takes up her case, and promises to come to her rescue if she should be in imminent danger. In this act those in the audience who have not read the book get an inkling of the means by which Enid is to be done to death, for the curtain descends at the end of one of the scenes on the Doctor enticing a horrible puff adder out of his basket.

In the last act Rylott returns home from London, where he has engaged a new butler. The rapid and resourceful Holmes, who is on the spot, manages, at a critical moment, to assume the new menial's identity, to save Enid from Rylott's immediate brutality, and to shoot the savage dog which he keeps to guard the house. When night comes on Holmes and Watson overpower the Indian servant who watches outside Enid's window, enter her bedroom, and wait. Then through a ventilator in the wall and down a sham bell-rope comes the adder on his mission of death. The horrid thing, startled by a blow of Holmes's cane, glides back through the ventilator, and Dr. Rylott, who sent it on its deadly visit from the adjoining room, rushes in with the irritated reptile round his neck, and expires from its bite.

Undoubtedly the most remarkable performance of the evening was Mr. Lyn Harding's startlingly original embodiment of Dr. Grimesby Rylott. It was an extremely bold, but quite successful, experiment. Exteriorly, Mr. Harding's Dr. Rylott is a comically jerky and self-satisfied person, with a roll of hair on the top of his head, a fussily-polite manner, and a fidgety demeanour. But this is the mere mask or shell of a demoniac villain. When the mask is removed, when the remorseless homicide and heartless rascal appears, the effect is appalling. It may be imagined that Mr. Harding has been a good deal influenced in his presentation of the character by the hint given him by the author that there is a dash of insanity in the doctor's nature. The nervous irritability which Mr. Harding suggests so distinctly may be taken as pointing in that direction. The conception is much more interesting than the mere sketch of a character in the book, in which the Doctor was a mere brutal, muscular bully. We suggest, therefore, that the bit of "Sandow business" in the bending of the poker in Holmes's chambers should be omitted in the drama. It was used in the book to emphasize the physical power of the villain and the all-round ability of Sherlock Holmes, who does not, however, in the play straighten out the poker to show his own strength. Indeed, perhaps the incident even in print savoured of the heroes of Ouida and the author of "Guy Livingstone." Mr. Harding has, if anything, subordinated the burliness and bulk of his figure which have served him so well in other characters, and has given us, instead of a mere ferocious animal, a monster of moral and mental degeneration. The conception and its carrying out are equally admirable. Mr. H. A. Saintsbury had a definite task before him—to "realise" Sherlock Holmes as described in the story—and he did so very exactly and artistically. Every well-known detail of the character, intellectual and physical, was supplied, and the intensity of Holmes's thought and the rapidity of his action were shown in turn and with equal effectiveness. A very salient and striking piece of acting was Mr. A. S. Homewood's Rodgers. It was a terrible picture of crushed and cringing age, of the result of poverty on a weak and timorous nature. Another performance which stood out unmistakably was Mr. Spencer Trevor's Mr. Armitage. The aggressive, talkative, but earnest little man, with his boasting and self-assertion and his genuine goodness, was shown to the life. Each of the other characters had been carefully cast. Miss Christine Silver was well suited to present Enid Stonor, and her acting in the scenes in which Enid defies Dr. Rylott was full of fire and spirit. Miss Agnes Thomas was an ideal Mrs. Staunton—hard, grim, and unscrupulous; Mr. Wilton Ross made a fine appearance as Ali; Mr. J. J. Bartlett hit off cleverly the business-like concentration of Mr. Longbrace; and Mr. Frank Ridley contributed a neat performance as the Foreman of the Jury, small parts being neatly distinguished and capitally sketched by Mr. A. G. Craig, Miss Gwendoline Floyd, and Mr. A. Corney Grain. Mr. Claude King gave a smooth and polished reading of the rôle of Dr. Watson, and Mr. C. Later was good as Peters.

"GLASS HOUSES."

Comedy, in Three Acts, Adapted by Kenneth Barnes from Paul Hervieu's Connais-toi, Produced at the Globe Theatre on Monday, June 6.

General Sir Paul Carteret .....MR. BOURCHIER
John .....MR. HERBERT SLEATH
Captain Bernard O'Brien..MR. NORMAN TREVOR
Ralph Goring .....MR. GEORGE BEALBY
Giles .....MR. DALLAS CAIRNS
Mrs. Goring .....MISS MURIEL BEAUMONT
Lady Carteret .....MISS VIOLET VANBRUGH

It did not need the information on the programme that Glass Houses was adapted from M. Paul Hervieu's Connais-toi to tell us that the play was taken from the French. It is French in its subject, French in its treatment, and French in the excellent effectiveness of its construction. If the play has a moral, it certainly tends to a more indulgent view of female adultery than is fashionable in England. We hardly knew, indeed, whether to take the piece as a drama or as a comedy; it vibrated between the two. Certainly, to English ideas, matters were made decidedly serious by the implied adultery of one of the ladies in the first act. It is not distinctly stated that Mrs. Goring has "gone wrong"; she may possibly have been only imprudent; but the author of the play seems to consider that it is of small consequence whether she has actually "sinned" or not as long as she has "compromised" herself. On the supposition that she has only been imprudent, the desire of her husband to hear her explanation and make it up is creditable to him; but most Englishmen will take the old General's view that, if actual adultery has taken place, there is no alternative but divorce.

The action takes place at the house of Sir Paul Carteret, near Salisbury. Sir Paul is a big, overbearing martinet, who worships his wife in secret, but cannot abandon his habit of imperious command in addressing her. Exactly the opposite fault is that of a younger husband, Ralph Goring, a weakling whose wife is carrying on an intrigue with John, the son of the General. How far this intrigue has gone, whether Mrs. Goring has broken the seventh commandment or not is not distinctly stated; but an interesting young man called Captain Bernard O'Brien has lent the pair his bungalow for purposes of assignation. The result is that one morning, when the General is out riding with Goring, they see a woman running away from the bungalow, chase her, and finally discover that she is Mrs. Goring.

Goring, who is very much attached to his wife, is inclined to forgive her; but when he consults the General the latter takes high ground, and gives Goring to understand that, unless he puts his wife away friendship between him and the General—and Lady Carteret—must cease. Now the marriage of the latter pair was one of convenience on the lady's side; and as the General has certainly not worked to win his wife's affection since their union Lady Carteret's heart is, so to speak, unoccupied. Captain Bernard O'Brien, a protégé of the General's, who hates him for his benevolent tyranny, is madly in love with Lady Carteret. She is at first only harmlessly interested in him; and her principles are so far firm that she is very hard on Mrs. Goring for her liaison with John. But when Lady Carteret learns that O'Brien, who is suspected of being Mrs. Goring's lover, is going to hold his tongue in order to shield John, she begins to entertain a sentimental feeling for him.

And now the difficulty of the position increases. The General has called in O'Brien, and has made him write a letter asking to be transferred to Bermuda. On the top of this O'Brien makes a declaration of love to Lady Carteret, who repels him reproachfully. O'Brien mentions that one reason why he was accepting his exile was the consciousness that he had better leave England and put the seas between himself and Lady Carteret before mischief should come of his passion for her. And so she is on the horns of a dilemma. She now feels herself guilty of, at any rate, an affection for another man than her husband; and she cannot therefore take the same attitude towards Mrs. Goring's faux pas.

Then the real offender, young John Carteret, comes into the action. He is determined not to let O'Brien suffer for another's fault, and he is ready, when the usual divorce is obtained, to marry Mrs. Goring. When John makes confession to his father, the General is at first incredulous, and then furious. He has a serious quarrel with his son, and ends by turning him out of the house. But O'Brien does not want to leave England without something warmer passing between him and Lady Carteret than mere conversations. He has an aggressive love scene with her, grapples with her, and ends by forcibly kissing her. At this moment the General enters, turns O'Brien out, and reproaches his wife with having given the young man encouragement. She retorts by telling him that his bullying has made her hate him, and that it is now too late to try and win her affection. The General realises his folly, and collapses at the idea of losing his wife. Then Goring returns from town, having seen his solicitor, and arranged to sue for a divorce. Both the General and Lady Carteret are now on the other side of the argument; and Goring is justly irritated at the former's change of front. However, in the end he consents to condone his wife's offence, and Lady Carteret, when the General has shown himself sufficiently abased and repentant, gives him hope that he may yet win her love. O'Brien, however, is safely despatched to Bermuda.

Miss Violet Vanbrugh is a mistress of the art of impersonation, and manages in some magical way to make herself of any age or any degree of beauty or repulsiveness. There could hardly be a greater contrast than between the facial appearance of her courtesan in The Woman in the Case and that of her Lady Carteret—neurotic, sensitive, intelligent, and intensely feminine. The part is that of the well-meaning married woman of French comedy who gradually leaves the path of strict rectitude; and the sufficiently familiar transition is depicted by Miss Vanbrugh with marvellously artistic skill. She has no specially strong scene, but she charms by her sweetness and interests by her earnestness. Mr. Bourchier is personally well suited to the rôle of General Sir Paul Carteret, and he emphasises, in his usual forcible style, the brisk bluster of the military martinet. This is practically all he has to do; but the General's repentance at the conclusion needs careful and tactful treatment, and certainly receives it at Mr. Bourchier's experienced hands. Mr. Norman Trevor plays the rather unpleasant part of Captain O'Brien cleverly and conscientiously, and looks it admirably. Mr. Herbert Sleath gives a neat and spirited performance of the rôle of John, and is extremely well groomed and garbed; and Mr. George Bealby contributes an easy but effective bit of comedy acting as Ralph Goring. Mr. Dallas Cairns being good as Giles. Miss Muriel Beaumont in the rather unsympathetic character of Mrs. Goring does all that is possible, and looks very attractive.

Glass Houses was preceded by the play in one act by Arthur Eckersley and Arthur Curtis, called The Trap, the melodramatic situations in which gave opportunities for powerful emotional acting to Mr. James Lindsay and Miss Daisy Markham, who were well supported by Mr. William Burchill as "Needle" Barnes and Miss May Holland as the old woman with the fried potatoes. Mr. S. Arder Godfrey is Mr. Bourchier's acting-manager, and Mr. W. Lestocq, Mr. Charles Frohman's able general manager, also sheds the light of his popular presence on the front of the house.

SIR HERBERT TREE AT LIVERPOOL.

The Bohemians on Friday, June 3, gave a complimentary luncheon to Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, at the Bear's Paw, Lord-street, Liverpool. Over a hundred ladies and gentlemen assembled to do honour to their guest, the company including Mr. W. S. Tafner (in the chair) and Mrs. Tafner, His Worship the Mayor of Chester (Mr. D. L. Hewitt) and Mrs. Hewitt, Major R. Cecil Davies (ex-Mayor of Chester) and Mrs. Davies, Mr. A. E. Coveney and Miss Coveney, Mr. A. J. Thompson, Dr. C. S. Brewer, Mr. H. Mathison and Mrs. Mathison, Dr. H. Keays Bentley, Mr. J. Gaffney (manager of the Shakespeare Theatre), Mr. Henry Dana (manager for Sir H. B. Tree), Mr. Ernest Wighton (manager of the Olympia), Mr. W. Hassan (manager of the Hippodrome), Mr. Frank Weston (manager, Hippodrome, Birkenhead) and Mrs. Weston, Mr. Fred Barker (manager, New Century Picture Hall, Liverpool), Mr and Mrs. Wood (Queen's Hall, Birkenhead), Mr. C Hicks (Empire Theatre, Liverpool), Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wood (Bee Hotel, Liverpool), Mr. Will Jones and Miss Jones, Mr. F. Broadsmith, Mr. J Mole (manager of the Palais de Luxe), Mr. C. G R. Stephens, T.C., and Mrs. Stephens, Mr. J. Taylor-Davies, Mr. A. J. Fishlock, Mr. Arnold Bloom, T.C., and Mrs. Bloom, &c.

Sir Herbert was accompanied by Miss Evelyn D'Alroy, Miss Gladys Harvey, and Miss Edith Cole (Mrs. W. W. Kelly). Mr. Kelly was unable to be present owing to an engagement in London

After a capital luncheon, the health of the guest was proposed by Mr. A. J. Thompson, F.R.G.S In the course of his speech he said: "The gentleman whom the Bohemians are delighted to honour is not only well known and appreciated in Liverpool, but is known wherever Britishers have placed their feet. He is the doyen of the profession he so nobly adorns, the oldest profession in the world. King Charles II., who, we must allow, had some slight knowledge of ladies, did at least one wise thing when he gave leave for woman's parts to be played by women. And to the present time they have proved themselves worthy successors of their great prototype—I mean in the best possible sense, as witness the presence with us to-day of such charming actresses as Miss Evelyn D'Alroy, Miss Gladys Harvey, and Miss Edith Cole. It has been said that the actor is a man of many parts; this should be a man who plays many parts.

"Perhaps some of us have felt, after seeing Sir Herbert as Shylock, that member of a downtrodden race in whom the milk of human kindness had all dried up, or as the cringing, oily Svengali, what a wicked man Sir Herbert Tree must be. This, I think I can prove, is not the case. In order to play the villain the actor must possess the virtues in order to depict the vices for if our guest were a villain in reality, then on the stage he would not be acting at all. The talented villain would not care to expose his real self to an audience, more especially when no tangible result would attend his efforts. This to the villain would be waste of time. Sir Herbert Tree, being kind and benevolent, would simply do nasty things instead of his natural nice ones be mean where he himself would be generous result—a perfect villain." The speaker referred to the wonderful production, False Gods, and mentioned that he had himself seen the play whilst under the influence of a trip to Egypt. In the character of Colonel Newcome, Sir Herbert had something akin to his own real nature, and who could forget this fine old English gentleman, himself without guile, and suspecting none in others who faced adversity with fortitude and resignation. He (the speaker) hoped, when the time came for all to take leave of their earthly tenement they would be able to say "Adsum" in the same spirit of resignation so ably portrayed by Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree.

The toast was received with acclamation.

Sir Herbert Tree, in his reply, said he quite expected Mr. Thompson to say that he was the Tree of good and evil. He congratulated him on the logical reasoning that had proved to his satisfaction that black was white—that in order to be a perfect stage villain the actor must of necessity be a good man. When Mr. Thompson referred to the character of Colonel Newcome he anticipated that he would have been given all the vices to enable him to play a moral and good character but there the proposer showed his artfulness, for instead of saying that he must be a villain to be an actor of virtuous parts, he said this part was a natural one for him. He thanked all the ladies and gentlemen for their flattering reception False Gods and Colonel Newcome had been mentioned by the proposer, both of which plays were of a high standard, and of which he was proud but both had not been a commercial success. It was that very failure, and that indifference to failure in that direction, that perhaps entitled him to the regard which he was proud to think they had for him. Alluding to a statement that ladies did not appear on the stage before the seventeenth century, the eminent actor said that if men had to play feminine parts to-day he would certainly not be upon the stage. He hoped, in these days of female emancipation, that women would still now and then have time to remain by the domestic hearth to fulfil those duties in which they were perhaps most beautiful, but it was on the stage that women were the real Suffragettes. It was the one arena of life in which women were the equals, if not the superiors of men.

Miss Edith Cole responded with a charming little speech, ending with the remark, "We cannot do without you (the men), and you cannot do without us."

One of the menu-cards had been fully signed by all the guests and put up for auction, when it was purchased by Mr. J. Crossley Pratt for £3 10s., and presented by him to Sir Herbert Tree as a memento of the occasion. The money will be devoted to charity.

TRINITY COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

At the students' concert on Monday afternoon the first item in the programme was an organ solo of Mendelssohn's "Second Sonata," the Allegro maestoso e' Fuga being played by Mr. Ernest Connolly. Mr. Rodolphe Gaillard sang "Still wie die Nacht" intelligently; and Miss Edith Korner, pianist, deserved praise for her neat execution in Seeling's "Loreley." Miss Edith K. Bird was associated with Miss Alice Lees in an able performance of the Andante scherzoso più Allegretto—Allegro molto, from Beethoven's Sonata in A minor, for piano and violin; while Miss Eveline Matthews, although at first a little nervous, sang "When the Swallows Homeward Fly" (Maud V. White) and Tosti's "La Serenata" with purity of tone and artistic expression. Mr. Edward S. Mitchell gave an excellent performance of Preludes, Op. 11, Nos. 13 and 14, for piano, by Scriabine; and Master Samuel Kutcher, a little boy violinist, well deserved the hearty applause for his clever playing of Vieuxtemps' "Air Varie." Miss Edna Purdie, a talented young pianist, was recalled three times after playing Chopin's B minor Scherzo. "It was a Dream" (F. H. Cowen) was sung by Miss Alina Whittard, and the concert concluded with a movement from Beethoven's Trio in C minor, for piano, violin, and 'cello, the executants being Miss Eunice Mort, Miss Margaret Bradfield, and Miss Kathleen Thompson.

"CHILDREN ON THE STAGE." Managers, agents, entrepreneurs, and performers wishing to possess a copy of the complete Act (in a concise form) can do so by forwarding three stamps to the Publisher, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

THE O.U.D.S.

Mr. Alan Mackinnon's book on "The Oxford Amateurs," just published by Chapman and Hall, is admirably done, both as regards matter and illustrations, and it will be very interesting to the aristocratic society in which so many of the young men mentioned in its pages move at present. To the actor and the ordinary playgoer there is only occasional attraction in its pages. The story of the struggle to establish an amateur club at Oxfrod is well told. Three important members of the O.U.D.S. whose names are several times mentioned are Mr. F. R. Benson, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, and Mr. H. B. Irving. There is a particularly pleasant illustration in which Mr. Bourchier, in all the bloom of adolescence, is seen in the centre of a group, while close to him, also very youthful, is Mr. Lionel Monckton, the composer and critic. Mr. Bourchier and Mr. H. B. Irving are in other places depicted in various costumes and characters. Mr. Bourchier's Falstaff is spoken of as being "splendid," as no doubt it was; and in this connection the following anecdote occurs:—

"Lady Abingdon ('Sweet Anne Page') frequently entertained the members of the company at Whitham during the rehearsals. It was there Bourchier, as Falstaff, was the victim of a practical joke in the shape of one of the old family chairs at Whitham. This chair, when sat on promptly, enclosed the occupant as in a vice, the only escape being through the pressure of a secret spring.

"Some genius bethought him of substituting this Whitham chair for Falstaff's customary seat. The result, writes Nugent, was 'imprisonment of Falstaff, terrible language, and ringing down of the curtain in the middle of the scene to extricate him from his sorry plight. The next day Bourchier was the recipient of a number of letters sarcastically asking his authority for certain words used on the previous evening not to be found in any of the folios, quartos, or early editions of The Merry Wives of Windsor.'"

Mr. H. B. Irving as Strafford in Browning's impossible play must have been worth seeing; and so must have been his King John. In the latter production, "when the combined British and French forces, to the number of some sixty performers, were all on the stage, their only proper means of exit was by means of a drawbridge into the town. This drawbridge spanned the moat when lowered, and rested on a parapet, thus forming a step by which to pass over through the gate. It happened that, for purposes of rapid scenic change on the second occasion of its use, this parapet was to be removed by lines worked from the side. An over-zealous carpenter worked this during the first dark change, in consequence of which the whole army was imprisoned, and the drop curtain had to be let down prematurely, leaving the 'First Citizen' kneeling with the keys of the town in front of the act drop (from which he had to exit kneeling, as the stage critic in Sheridan says)."

A member of the O.U.D.S. who has since become celebrated as a composer is Mr. Paul Rubens, of whom, says Mr. Mackinnon, W. J. Thomas writes: "The mention of 'musical comedy' fittingly recalls that mercurial and mirth-moving genius Paul Rubens. He certainly never gave any indication of being appreciably moved in a Shakespearean direction, albeit he played the part which I have so often represented with Bourchier, of the Duke in The Merchant of Venice. But during the whole of his Oxford career of uninterrupted cheeriness (the only 'waits' therein being those of the 'Schools'), he may be said to have literally bubbled over with musical enthusiasm. He would sit down at any moment to improvise at the piano with extraordinary rapidity, so that he was, as a consequence, eagerly secured for every smoking concert in the 'Varsity. Indeed, I never gave one of my sketches at these genial functions without finding the music in the skilful hands of my irrepressible friend."

The Society had valuable support and encouragement from the late Sir Henry Irving, whose interest in Oxford amateurs was constantly shown, and who kindly offered to lend them dresses for a production of The Taming of the Shrew. "Accordingly," writes Mr. A. N. Taylor, "I duly presented myself at the stage-door of the Lyceum Theatre. I was ushered into the presence of the great man, who was then made up to resemble a Napoleon of Titanic proportions.

"'Oxford,' I murmured.

"'Eh, what?' he exclaimed, staring at me absently. 'What about Oxford?'

"For a moment I felt as if the whole honour and credit of the University, from the Chancellor downwards, rested on my humble shoulders, instead of an insignificant coterie of undergraduates with histrionic proclivities. But I pulled myself together and reminded Napoleon of his promise, and was duly authorised by him to take what I wanted from the Lyceum wardrobe. I got these finally packed into four baskets, and then the question arose, How was I to get them to Paddington? It was suggested that I should take them in a four-wheeler, but when they were piled up on the pavement my pride shrunk from sitting amongst what was obviously four baskets of dirty linen. Besides, when they were got into the cab, there was no room for me. A crowd—the inevitable crowd—collected and stung me with facetious remarks. The suggestion that I was paying my annual visit to my washerwoman was accepted, of course, as an explanation of my presence there in the heart of the London traffic with four ponderous baskets. It was proposed that the difficulty might be solved if I were to get inside one of the baskets. I indignantly repudiated the idea. 'Put the cabby in, then, and drive yourself!' fared no better. Another waggish individual, inspired by Dan Leno, suggested my engaging two cabs, putting two baskets in each, and 'running between.' The result was I did engage two cabs, seating myself in one, the baskets in the other, and at length took the train to Oxford with my precious cargo. But I was not going to run the gauntlet of Oxford in the daytime. As I deposited the baskets in the cloak-room and the attendant demanded sixpence apiece for them, I could not deny myself the pleasure of explaining their contents. I feared that he, too, might fancy they were dirty linen. I therefore mentioned, with a fine, careless dignity, that they held theatrical costumes. His face altered. 'Oh, theatrical?' he said. 'Why didn't you say so? That'll be fourpence the lot.' With that he handed me eight coppers, while I, with pride humbled and with a mien far from 'theatrical,' stole out of the station and got back to my college."

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

An interesting chamber concert was given by the students of the Royal College of Music on Thursday evening, June 2, the programme commencing with Dvorák's Quartet for Strings in E flat, Op. 51, played by Miss Winifred Douglas, Miss Florence Hanson, Miss Sybil Maturin, and Mr. John Snowden, all of whom acquitted themselves creditably in a difficult task. Miss Emmie Gregory, in Clementi's Sonata in G minor for piano, proved herself an accomplished executant with a refined fluent touch, and Miss Giulietta Motto and Mr. J. Alan Taffs, heard in César Franck's fine Sonata for Piano and Violin in A major, were equally successful and received a most hearty recall. Miss Kathleen Peck displayed no little vocal ability in Brahms' "Wiegenlied" and "Where the bee sucks" (Sullivan), while Mr. Richmond Roxburgh was heard to advantage in Tschaikowsky's artistic "Pilgrim's Song." The third vocalist on Thursday evening was Miss Ethel Lebish, who sang Grieg's "Abschied" and "Im Kahne." Mr. H. Arnold Smith was the accompanist, and the programme closed with an organ solo of Mozart's Fantasia in F minor, ably played by Mr. Joshua Beswick.

"THE CHOICE."

A Problem Play, in One Act, by Alan Monkhouse, Produced for the First Time at the Gaiety Theatre, Manchester, on Monday, June 6.

Anne .....Miss Louis Holbrook
Ella Christie .....Miss Darragh
Mrs. Lilley .....Miss Ada King
Major Greig .....Mr. Ian Maclaren

(from our own correspondent.)

Some time ago Mr. Alan Monkhouse contributed to the long list of successful Gaiety Theatre productions a short play called Reaping the Whirlwind, a condensed and powerful piece of drama, which had all the air and effect of the climax of a three-act play. The idea of writing for the stage only the issue of a drama which is enacted chiefly in his mind seems to be the natural thing for an author whose mentality is by no means subordinate to his emotions. The method makes for pithiness, to say the least, but it is also apt to strain the understanding of his audience as well as to involve so much of allusive dialogue that the action suffers, and the demands of drama are therefore not satisfied. The method of The Choice is the same as in the former play; but whereas Reaping the Whirlwind served to show what might be done successfully, The Choice exemplifies the risk that may be run of producing a readable, bookish, rather than a dramatic, episode. The characters talk; they do not act, for there is nothing to be done. They talk, of course, with the whole weight of the author's mind and feeling behind them; and this, it must be confessed, is considerably more powerful and sensitive than the average playgoer is able to enjoy, unless he has at once the whole facts of the situation clearly in view. It is therefore doubtful whether The Choice can make the same appeal as the former play.

The situation may be explained in a few words. Mrs. Lilley's son, at the heroic instigation of his fiancée, Ella Christie, went out to the South African war, and got killed there in circumstances that have not yet come to light. Ella now has another suitor, Major Greig, who also went out, but who cannot be drawn to talk of his experiences. The Major is a strong and likeable sort of man, and even Mrs. Lilley and the servant Anna do their best to dispose Ella toward accepting him. It transpires, however, when Ella at last persuades her lover to talk about himself and his experiences, that he is responsible for the death of Walter Lilley, whom he had shot for nervousness or cowardice at a critical moment. This is the heart of the business, beaten out to the utmost through every relative emotion and impulse. The argument of the man, the sentiment and idealism of the woman; her remorse for the one, her repudiation and horror of the other, the normity of accepting as a husband the "murderer" of their dual victim—all this is done with extraordinary truth and insight. By degrees, however, the women's hysteria subsides. She has, after all, to make a choice: either to resign herself to the sacrificial remembrance of a weak man, or take common-sense in both hands, along with the real impulse of her heart, and marry the strong man who has been honest enough to tell the truth, and who will wait patiently for her choice. The problem is, should she and will she do it? We are left to wonder.

Mr. Monkhouse must have been gratified by the interpretation of the two principal characters by Miss Darragh, who is a peculiarly virile emotional actress, keen and searching at the right moments, and Mr. Ian Maclaren, whose mere physique as the Major contributed to the effect of his manly and sensitive argument. Incidentally, there are painful moments, as when Mrs. Lilley comes perilously near to being told the truth about her son. The resigned but grieving mother was done to the life by Miss Ada King, and the servant found a sympathetic exponent in Miss Louise Holbrook. It seems a pity that the situation could not be more sharply and briskly outlined to make so powerful a piece of writing more dramatically worth while. The performance was, nevertheless, well appreciated by the audience.

Mr. Riccardo Martin, oddly enough, attributes his serviceable voice to a severe cold, which, depriving him of a voice of poor quality, left in its place one which gained him a three years' engagement at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York. Awaking one morning without a vestige of a voice, he consulted a throat specialist, and some months later, having focused a recently acquired new voice, he imparted his knowledge to the great Ternina, who obtained for him a number of pupils. He subsequently studied in Italy, eventually singing at the Metropolitan, the American operatic Mecca.

At the monthly meeting of the Urban Club at Anderton's Hotel on the 27th ult., Mr. Alban H. G. Doran occupied the chair, and Mr. Bernard F. Hartzhorne and Dr. F. J. Warwick were the vice chairmen. Sir William B. Richmond, K.C.B., R.A., Messrs. Henry Arthur Jones, Norman McKinnel, Percival Hodson, F.A.I., and W. L. Barrett were proposed by Sir Jas. Crichton Browne for membership, and Messrs. J. Fisher White, Charles Cruikshanks, Edward Jenner, and Chas. E. Fasch contributed to an agreeable entertainment of varied character.

"Rann's Pocket Date Book." Price 1s. The proceeds from the sale will be divided equally amongst the two great charities of the dramatic and musical professions, the Actors' Benevolent Fund and the Music Hall Home Fund. Address: The Publisher, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

ETIQUETTE AT THE THEATRE.

Many a one before now (writes "Playgoer" in the Scots Pictorial) has ventured to formulate rules of conduct for theatre-goers, it being generally recognised that there are some things which well-bred people, when sitting in a theatre, should do and some things they should avoid. For instance, it is considered, at this late day, the height of boorishness for a lady sitting in the front rows to allow a hat of towering dimensions to continue wobbling between the eyes of the audience and the stage throughout a performance. There was a time when this sort of thing was put down to mere silly vanity, but now those who do it are at once condemned by their fellow-spectators as ill-bred, and nothing else. Therefore, that is one of the things a lady must not do. And this calls to my mind some remarks a Scottish critic recently made upon one of the things a gentleman must not do. The critic to whom I refer finds the periodic visits of other men to the theatre-bar quite a thorn in the flesh. He says he wonders that we are not yet sufficiently civilised to see the extreme offensiveness of squeezing along between the seats every time the curtain falls, treading on old gentlemen's corns and on young ladies' trains, making it necessary for everybody to rise and make room, and distributing inconvenience and embarrassment generally. But not only that, he adds. Some (who seem to have brought such little peculiarities to a fine art) make a point of staying out in the bar until the next act has commenced, when they at once return with considerable haste, and consequently with still greater annoyance to the others. This is undoubtedly a nuisance, yet it must be admitted that it is well-nigh unavoidable. No doubt the gentlemen of whom the critic complains would be only too glad of subways from their individual seats to the bar, or elevated gangways by which they might pass over the heads of the audience, or falling these, some occult means by which they could, as the saying is, "get there without going"—anything, in fact, to avoid causing discomfort to others. But no such solution of the problem has yet come to hand. Then it must be considered that a large percentage of men find two or three hours a terrific time to go without a smoke, so that our critic's expression "to the bar" requires qualifying. Still, gentlemen should be prevailed upon to refrain from these meanderings as much as possible.

I think the most disgusting thing I ever saw in the way of deportment at the play was a man reading a newspaper while the performance proceeded. There he sat, a dull, bovine look on his face, and the paper held straight before his face, utterly dead to all the enthusiasm and enjoyment with which everybody else was following the play. I really don't know what that man was made of. I wish now I had stretched over and touched him, just to ascertain whether he—or it—was really alive. Next to reading a book at the table, I can conceive of nothing more calculated to produce the hump in an onlooker than this.

But there is a habit connected with theatre-going the surprising circumstances about which is that it has lived so long. I suppose since ever opera-glasses and lorgnettes were invented folks made use of these instruments while at the play to inspect each other in minute detail. Like staring at people in a public promenade, this seems to be one of those habits which were persevered in simply because they were originally indulged in by real society. One often hears a woman say to her child "Don't point"; not so often do we hear the equally important injunction "Don't stare." Well-bred people nowadays decry the opera-glass as a mere staring-glass, though one sees it used in this capacity now and then by people who know no better. We are improving slowly.

Actor, not Sceneshifter.

"A few years ago," writes Mr. Alfred Lester, in London Opinion, "I enacted the character of a scene-shifter in a duologue at the Palace Theatre, and, to the majority of the play-going public, anyway, I have been a scene-shifter ever since. I am spoken of as the scene-shifter from the Palace, as the man who used to oil the iron curtain, the fellow who swept up the paper snow—and was responsible for a record thaw—and I believe it was reported that it was mainly owing to my skill in working the thunder and lightning that I was eventually promoted to be an actor. During the time I was playing this character to which I have just referred, if one person said to another, 'Doesn't he look the part?'—not that many people have much idea of what a scene-shifter does look like when engaged in his arduous duties—the other would reply, 'Of course, it comes natural to him; it isn't acting; he's always been a scene-shifter; he's only doing in front of an audience what he's always been accustomed to do behind the scenes.'

"I have been an actor all my working life. I have played innumerable parts in my time, but the scene-shifter is the only one which has clung to me after the final performance. Unknown friends send me Christmas cards, with a picture of a portly lady falling through a trap, and a scene-shifter catching her underneath, with a flippant remark, such as 'Doing a bit better now, aren't you?' 'How do you like being an actor?' or, 'Some folks have all the luck!' I have even received a valentine, one of the long, coloured variety, which I imagined were extinct, representing a gentleman in his shirt-sleeves and wearing a paper cap, and possessing a nose of exaggerated rubicundity, engaged in the gentle art of scene-shifting, underneath which was written, 'Bit of a change, ain't it?'"

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

(from our own correspondents.)

NEW YORK, May 25.—A fortnight without a single new production means the end of the theatrical season. But the roof gardens are being swept and garnished, and as the playhouses close these aerial resorts will open. Three of them lie within a stone's throw of each other, and the others are out of commission, with the possible exception of the roof of the American music hall where the excellent variety company engaged by William Morris gave performances last summer. The New Theatre is to have a roof garden, or, rather, a roof theatre, but it is not likely to be used until next year. The Casino, that "set the fashion" in midsummer night amusements of this sort over twenty years ago, has dropped out of the running, and the roof of Madison-square Garden, the scene of the Thaw tragedy, is hardly likely to open.

At the Jardin de Paris, on the combined roofs of the Criterion and New York Theatres, radical changes are being made, for this place has not been lying idle all winter, but has been used as a moving picture theatre. Consequently, the change may be described as the conversion of a hothouse into a refrigerator, for the New Yorkers are extremists in the matter of temperature as in many other things. The entertainment to be given at the Jardin de Paris will be called The Follies of 1910.

Messrs. Klaw and Erlanger's New Amsterdam Theatre, considered by many to be the handsomest playhouse in New York, has a fully appointed theatre on the roof, together with an illuminated garden of shrubs and tropical plants outside, to which the audience may repair during the intermissions. From the Aerial Gardens, as the place is aptly named, one may obtain a fine view of the city by night. This year Mr. Frederick Thompson, who did wonders at the Hippodrome and Coney Island, is going to transform the green alleys and promenades of the roof garden into a miniature Luna Park, and the place is to be a "veritable fairyland." In the theatre he will produce a summer review called The Comic Supplement, with Miss Maud Raymond, Miss Violet MacMillan, Mr. Joseph Cawthorne, Miss Carrie Perkins, and the Three Constantine Sisters.

"Mary Magdalene," a domestic tragedy, in three acts, by Frederick Hebbel, was performed at the Hackett Theatre on Sunday evening under the auspices of the Progressive Stage Society. This is a play of German provincial life. It was written in 1842, and is said to have been frequently acted in the country of its origin but never translated into English until a Harvard student, Mr. Richard Offner, undertook the task. Miss Rose Laddon re-arranged and adapted the play for the American stage. The tragedy occurs in the household of Master Anton, a carpenter. He is a stern father, who holds rigidly to the old theories of parental rule, and eventually quarrels with his son, Carl, a happy-go-lucky youth, who believes in the greatest freedom of behaviour. Carl is accused of stealing some jewellery, and his disgrace causes his mother's death. Estranged from his son, old Anton's love is now centred in his daughter Clara, a girl of eighteen. But she is led astray by a designing tax collector and confesses her fault to Friedrich the town clerk, whom she loves, and who rushes from her side to challenge her betrayer to a duel. Overwhelmed with shame the girl eventually commits suicide, while her brother Carl, acquitted of theft, goes abroad, leaving old Anton crushed and alone. Miss Sara Biala, a young Polish actress, appeared as Clara, Mr. Raphael Newman as Carl, and Mr. John Elwyn as Master Anton.

The New Amsterdam Theatre, where Madame X. has had a four months' run, closed on the 21st inst. Maxine Elliott's Theatre, where Lulu's Husbands was the attraction, also closed on the same date, and the curtain was rung down for the last time this season at the new City Theatre. At the Empire Theatre, Caste has been revived, and Mr. G. P. Huntley as Eccles receives a round of applause after every scene in which he appears. The season will end on June 4. The Lyceum and Nazimova's Thirty-ninth-street Theatre will close at the end of this week. At the Broadway Theatre the long run of The Jolly Bachelors is nearing its end, but The Summer Widowers, another musical play to be produced by Mr. Lew Fields, will be put on very shortly. The Arcadians, after a long run at the Liberty Theatre, has been transferred to the Knickerbocker, and may stay there through the summer.

Clara Morris (Mrs. F. C. Harriott), the well-known American actress, who retired from the stage many years ago, is lying seriously ill at her home in Riverdale-avenue near New York City. Her sight is failing, and it is feared that she will become totally blind.

Amongst those present at the Covent Garden Theatre on Tuesday to witness Samson and Delila were the Duchess of Rutland, Lady Marjorie, Lady Violet, and Lady Diana Manners, the Marchioness of Tweeddale, the Countess of Londesborough, the Countess of Clarendon, the Earl and Countess of Chesterfield, the Countess of Lonsdale, and the Countess of Craven. Also present were the Earl of Portsmouth, Viscountess Helmsley, Lady Carew, Lady Willoughby de Eresby, Captain the Hon. and Mrs. Henry Denison, Lord and Lady Alwyne Compton, Lord Westbury, Sir Spencer and Lady Maryon-Wilson, and Mr. and Mrs. Leopold de Rothschild.

The receiver for the first debenture holders of the Crystal Palace Company has issued a summary statement of the affairs of the company. This shows gross liabilities of £545,499, of which, after the deduction of £4,968 owing to two fully-secured creditors, £4,024, the estimated value of securities held by six partly-secured creditors, £2,523 owing to preferential creditors, and £509,927, loans on debenture bonds in the hands of 721 holders, £24,056 is estimated by the officers of the company to rank for dividend. This leaves a surplus of £62,101, there being assets, including the Palace grounds and buildings, valued at £555,000, estimated to produce £598,608, of which £596,084 is available to meet the claims of the debenture holders. Deducting the estimated surplus on the creditors' account, there is a deficiency on share capital of £27,065, which is returned as the loss on working from Dec. 31, 1907, when there was a deficiency of £9,207, to Jan. 31, 1909. The failure of the company is attributed to the enormous cost of the original undertaking, which amounted to £1,500,000, instead of £150,000, and to the heavy charges for maintenance and repairs.

In view of the recent formation of a British Society of Composers, whose object will be to collect fees for the public performances of the works of its members, it is interesting to glance at some figures published as the result of a year's operations by the Society of German Composers. The gross receipts for 1909, it appears, were £13,440—an increase of some £3,000 over the previous year's earnings. Of this sum about £12,500 was received in fees for performing rights, and 80 per cent. of that amount went into the pockets of the composers, publishers, and librettists. The society was established in 1904 for the purpose of protecting composers' rights, and since its formation it has been instrumental in collecting close on £44,000. Some 373 composers and seventy-six publishers are represented by the organisation, in the list of the former being Richard Strauss, Engelbert Humperdinck, and Georg Schumann. A far older association formed for a similar purpose is the French Société des Auteurs, which has existed for over half a century. Last year it distributed among its members a sum of not less than £138,640.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

(from our own correspondents.)

SYDNEY, April 27.—Royal.—The J. C. Williamson Grand Opera Company, in the middle of great booking for Madame Butterfly, withdrew that music-drama and put on a revival of La Bohème. The cast included a new prima donna, Mme. Maria Pampari, who possesses a keen intelligence, which makes one wish to see her in brighter moments than Mimi's sad fate accords her. Pretty, dainty Elly Barnato was Musetta, and she made her frivolous and gay in fitting style. Mr. Frederick Blarney was an energetic Rudolph. Benoit, Schaunard, and Marcel fell to Messrs. Ferguson Allan, Arthur Crane, and Antonio Zenelli, and Mr. Orme Darvall was a demonstrative Colline. A change cast included John Zerga, Mabel Bachelor, and Bel Sorel as Rudolph, Musetta, and Mimi. This evening Miss Amy Castles will be Cho Cho San in a one night's revival of Madame Butterfly. Carmen is to follow La Bohème.

Mr. J. C. Williamson is now on his way with Mrs. Williamson to London, preferably to arrange for grand Italian opera with Mme. Melba, and in search of attractions for his many enterprises. His pantomime Aladdin at Her Majesty's is still experiencing capital booking, and no change is at present contemplated.

"Count Hannibal" at the Criterion, with Oscar Asche and Lily Brayton as the foes ultimately united, is attracting the thousands who love a menu of strong elements served up in first-class style.

"In London Town" at the Palace pleases Allan Hamilton and Max Maxwell's patrons so well that the production of Revenge is put off until the 30th.

At the Tivoli the great Houdini is accepting all sorts of challenges to free himself from every kind of bondage in all possible conditions, and in no one instance has he failed. Mr. Harry Rickards has a bill full of good names.

West's Pictures flit from the Glaciarum in a few days to the Palace. Wirth's Circus is booming. Spencer's Theatrescope knows no diminution in attendance. Mrs. Beresford Brodie gave a most attractive recital by orchestra and on the piano of her compositions—a complete success.

MELBOURNE, April 26.—Princess's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. Harry Musgrove.—When Knighthood Was in Flower was produced in the presence of a packed house for the first time on Saturday evening. As Mary Tudor Miss Nellie Stewart has one of those showy parts that suits her exactly. She goes through the rôle from first to last with that unflagging animation which indicates her appreciation of a medium for the display of her histrionic ability. Mr. Harcourt Beatty is well placed in the part of Charles Brandon, his acting throughout being natural and convincing. Henry VIII. found a worthy exponent in Mr. Eardley Turner. Mr. J. B. Atholwood was admirable as the Duke of Buckingham. Another excellent sketch carefully thought out is Mr. Gregan McMahon's Duke de Longueville, the actor being quite absorbed in the character. Miss Madelaine Meredith made a stately Queen Katherine, and Mistress Anne Boleyn and Mistress Jane Seymour were admirably portrayed by Miss Florence Gleeson and Miss Gwen Burroughs. The production throughout is mounted on a lavish scale, the view of Windsor Park being especially good. The reception of the piece was of the heartiest description.

Her Majesty's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. E. J. Tait.—The Dollar Princess is being numerously patronised. The opera is elaborately mounted and well played.

Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. Clyde Meynell and Rupert Clarke; Business-Manager, Mr. Arthur Levy.—Though now in its sixth week, Messrs. Meynell and Clarke's excellent production of The Arcadians continues to fill this theatre. Sombra is admirably undertaken by Miss Maie Sydney; while Mr. Cromwell as Smith provides with Mr. Walls (the blighted jockey) as much comedy as the piece will hold. Judging from present appearances, The Arcadians will hold the boards till the return of Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton who play a short farewell season here in June.

King's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. William Anderson; Business-Manager, Mr. Julius Grant.—From Shopgirl to Duchess is entirely to the taste of patrons here, the theatre being filled nightly. Miss Eugenie Duggan as the heroine is excellent, and is ably supported by a strong company. New scenery has been painted for the production.

Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Frederic Aydon.—Mr. Harry Rickards is providing a generous bill-of-fare for his numerous patrons just now, and as a consequence "standing room only" is available after eight o'clock nightly. The chief performers include Carter, conjurer and illusionist; the Howard Brothers, in a clever thought-reading act; Vasco, the "mad musician," in an amusing musical turn; and Alexandra and Bertie, who give an interesting trapeze act; and other pleasing turns are contributed by Graham and Dent, Leonard Nelson, Olga Grey, Billy Williams, Clarence Tisdale, the Banvards, Two Prices, Con Moreni, Johnnie Gilmore, and Alena Lyndon.

Gaiety Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. James Brennan; Business-Manager, Mr. Harry Brennan.—A complete change of programme was presented here on Saturday by the Anderson Trio, acrobats; the Tylers, trapeze act; Brightie Smith, comedienne; Maud Fanning, coon impersonator; Sandarte, lightning artist; Rose Sisters, song and dance artists; Ernest Pitcher, descriptive vocalist; Farrell and Gaffney, patter comedians; and many more. New pictures were shown by the Miorama.

West's Palace was filled on Saturday evening when an entirely new series of pictures were submitted, and the advances made in cinematographic art were demonstrated in several fine films. Excellent music is provided by West's Military Band.

Tait's Pictures attracted a record house on Saturday night at the Glaciarium. All the films met with great approval.

The new series of animated pictorial productions presented at Olympia on Saturday night by Spencer's Theatrescope drew an attendance that filled the huge auditorium to overflowing. The Chronomegaphone reproduced Harry Lauder and Billy Murray.

MELBOURNE, May 3.—Princess's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business Manager, Mr. Harry Musgrove.—When Knighthood was in Flower has been filling this theatre since its opening night. Miss Nellie Stewart is seen at her best in the character of Princess Mary, and is ably supported by a strong company. When Knighthood was in Flower can only be played for ten more nights, as on May 14 Mr. Hugh Ward, with his company of comedians will commence a season in a farcical comedy entitled The Girl from Rector's.

His Majesty's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. E. J. Tait.—The Dollar Princess is in the last two weeks of its run. After this play is withdrawn on May 13 Miss Nellie Stewart's company will become tenants of the theatre for a few days, after which the Royal Comic Opera Company will return in A Waltz Dream.

Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. Clyde Meynell and Rupert Clarke; Business-Manager, Mr. Arthur Levy.—The Arcadians commenced its sixth week on Saturday, and, judging from present appearances, seems destined to enjoy a record run.

King's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. William Anderson; Business-Manager, Mr. Julius Grant.—From Shopgirl to Duchess will be staged until next Saturday, when Mr. William Anderson announces a revival of the popular Village Blacksmith. On Tuesday, May 10, Mr. Anderson has lent the theatre for a matinée in aid of the benevolent fund of the Green room Club. Artists from all the theatres will appear, and the performance will be under the patronage of their Excellencies the Governor-General and the State Governor.

Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Frederic Aydon. — The reigning attraction here at present is Carter the magician, who succeeds in completely mystifying his audience. Allan Shaw, the "King of Coins," made his appearance on Saturday night. Other favourite artists on the bill include Olga Gray, Graham and Dent, Johnnie Gilmore, Clarence Tisdale, Vasco the Mad Musician, Alexander and Bertie, Billie Williams, Alma Lyndon, George Sorlie, Leonard Wilson, Two Prices, The Huxams, and Con Moreni.

Saturday night's programme at West's Palace was presented to a full house. Every item on the bill was photographically excellent, and the subjects were chosen from English, American, and Continental manufacturers.

A crowded audience greeted the change of programme at Tait's Pictures on Saturday night at the Glaciarium. The programme is of unusual variety.

A crowded house watched the new programme presented by Spencer's Theatrescope company at Olympia on Saturday. The usual high standard in the selection of subjects and projection of the pictures was maintained.

DRAMATIC COPYRIGHT.

to the editor of the era.

Sir,—If your correspondent "S. X. Court," whose letter appeared in your issue of May 21, will refer to The Era dated Jan. 22, he will find therein a letter from me, nearly two columns in length, on "Dramatic Copyright," and will see that I there dealt with the inconsistency to which he draws attention existing between the decision in Chatterton v. Cave and the Appeal Court judgment in my action against Amasis.

He appears to doubt the possibility of the Court of Appeal having decided that the plot of a play is unprotected by the Dramatic Copyright Acts, and I cannot, therefore, do better that quote briefly from the shorthand-writers' report of the judgment itself, delivered on May 18, 1909.

The Lord Chief Justice said: "Now, the Plaintiff's Particulars are divided into four heads. . . . The first group . . . was headed 'Similarities in the plots,' the next group is 'Similar principal characters,' the third group is 'Similarities in ideas and in words,' and the last group is 'Scenic similarities.' I shall have to point out presently that for the purposes of the main question, namely, whether there was infringement or not, the third group is the only group that has to be considered, namely, 'Similarities in ideas and in words.'"

His Lordship then proceeded to support this view by quoting from Farwell, J., in Tate v. Fulbrook, the subject matter in which case, it will be remembered, was an entertainment which contained no plot at all. In the course of his quotation his Lordship read the sentence: "It is the dramatic piece as a whole that is protected by the Act," apparently seeing nothing inconsistent with his contention that "ideas and words" were alone protected. (It should be noted that the "ideas" set forth did not refer to "plot," but to minor incidental similarities.) Subsequently, his Lordship in several places made it clear that in his view everything depended on verbal copying. Lord Justice Fletcher Moulton followed on the same lines, observing: "Before leaving the question of the plots, let us see how far the literary work has been appropriated, because unless the embodiment in words of these plots has been to a substantial extent appropriated, the case must break down"—a sentence which seems to support "S. X. Court's" suggestion that the Court confused dramatic with literary copyright.

Your correspondent complains that he cannot find a report of the case in the law books. It may well be that the involved nature of the judgments defied the making of an intelligible report, and the best that I can do is to refer him to the report in the Times of May 19, 1909, which records the principal point that interests him, namely, the ruling out of consideration of everything except similarities in words.

It is in June, I believe, that the International Copyright Convention is to be signed by Great Britain, but so long as the domestic copyright law remains in its present chaotic condition the signing of the Convention will be nothing but a ridiculous farce.—Yours faithfully,

W. GUNN GWENNET.

196, The Grove, Hammersmith, W., June 4.

Distraints have been levied upon Mme. Sarah Bernhardt's goods, both at her theatre and at her private house, on behalf of M. Henry Bataille, who recently gained an action with £800 damages for non-fulfilment of an undertaking by Mme. Bernhardt to bring out his version of Faust. Her lawyers intervened at once, and obtained from the Courts leave to pay the amount in fortnightly instalments of £80. M. Bataille intends to devote the £800 to bestowing a prize of £160 upon the author of the best book of verse, and to the production of the play selected by a jury as original and clever.

Under the guidance of Mr. James Richardson, the courteous acting-manager of the Theatre Royal, Bradford, the staff had an enjoyable annual outing on Sunday last. Leaving Bradford at 7.50 for Windermere, the merry party a couple of hours later reached Lake Side, where a steam launch was in waiting. By that means they proceeded to Ambleside, where lunch was partaken of at the Queen Hotel. Four-in-hands were employed in a lovely drive to Dungeon Ghyll, and on returning to the hotel at 5 p.m. dinner was served, the health of Mr. John Hart being heartily drunk. The party left Ambleside at 6.15, and arrived in Bradford, after a delightful trip, at 11.

A Flea Circus.

Mr. Oscar Hammerstein, who built the New York Theatre, or, as it was then called, Olympia, New York, and planned its roof garden, now runs the Victoria Theatre "across the way," which has a fine garden and miniature "farm" on its roof, stocked with a real cow and furnished with rustic bridges, waterfalls, windmills, and sundry appurtenances calculated to create a rus in urbe environment. Both the theatre downstairs and the roof garden are under the actual management of Mr. William Hammerstein, who has remained at the helm of the Victoria whilst his father and brother have devoted themselves to grand opera. Mr. Hammerstein has promised to produce a burlesque of Madame X., with fifteen characters in the trial scene, in the roof garden on Decoration Day, which falls on May 30. Mme. Polaire, the French dancer, has been engaged for the second week, and other novelties will follow. It is announced that Jack Johnson, the pugilist, will appear here for one week after the big fight in San Francisco at a salary of $2,500. Then we are promised an electrical milking machine for the long-suffering cow, as well as a flea circus and a new game called "ringing the ducks."

The flea circus comes from Germany, and it is said that the fleas understand only their native language. According to the announcements, they will do various gymnastic feats, such as walking a tight-rope, leaping hurdles, running races, and turning somersaults. What protection the audience will receive in case the performers become unruly and break bounds has not been stated. The new game, mentioned above, is to be played with light papier-maché rings and the ducks that live on the roof. During the intermissions visitors will have the privilege of trying to throw the rings over the heads of the ducks, and of taking the ducks home with them if they succeed.

IS YOUR TYRE EQUIPMENT UP TO DATE?

Reason Thus about tyres—

The car you are driving to-day is probably far more flexible, more reliable, and more economical than your car of a year or so ago. This is as it should be in a progressive age, but—

HAVE YOUR TYRES KEPT ABREAST OF THIS ADVANCE? REMEMBER, THE TYRE WORLD DOES MOVE.

To enjoy the full benefit of its progression, specify—

Goodrich Tyres

Manufactured by
THE B.F. GOODRICH CO., LTD., 7, SNOW HILL, LONDON, E.C.

ON THE ROAD, JUNE 13.

ALICE IN WONDERLAND.—Pier T., Eastbourne.
ALMOST HIS BRIDE.—T. R., Dewsbury.
ARRAH-NA-POGUE.—T. R., Edmonton.
AS YOUR HAIR GROWS WHITER. — Hippodrome, Birkenhead.
AT THE WORLD'S MERCY.—Alexandra T., New Washington.
BENSON, F. R. (N.).—T. R., Worthing.
CASTELLANO'S OPERA Co.—Grand T., Leeds.
CINGALEE, THE (A.).—Hippodrome, Bolton.
COUNTRY GIRL IN LONDON.—T. R., Ashton.
CRUISE OF THE CONSTANCE.—T. R., Chatham.
DESTROYER OF MEN.—Prince's T., Bradford.
DIANA OF DOBSON'S.—T. R., York.
DIVER'S LUCK.—T. R., South Shields.
EAST LYNNE (CROKE).—T. R., Woolwich.
EAST LYNNE (WATT).—New T., Cardiff.
EVE OF HER WEDDING.—Star T., Liverpool.
EYES OF THE WORLD.—Rotunda T., Liverpool.
FAST LIFE, A.—T. R., Middlesbro'.
FEMALE SWINDLER.—Ealing.
FLORODORA (CONSTANT).—O. H., Cork.
FOR OLD TIME'S SAKE.—O. H., Doncaster.
FOR WIFE AND KINGDOM.—T. R., Belfast.
GARROD, MR. W. V.—T. R., Ashton-under-Lyne.
GIRL OF MY HEART.—T. R., Portsmouth.
HER FATAL PAST.—P. O. W., Salford.
HER LIFE IN LONDON.—T. R., Sunderland.
HER SECRET LOVER.—T. R., Halifax.
IN THE SHADOW OF NIGHT.—Alexandra T., Hull.
LA COMEDIE ANGLAIS.—Listowel.
LODGE-PERCY, J. C., AND J. MARTIN'S REPERTOIRE.—O. H., St. Helens.
LOVE OF THE PRINCESS.—T. R., Bristol.
LUCKY DURHAM.—Palace T., Ramsgate.
LUCKY 'LIZA.—Palace T., Newcastle.
MIDNIGHT MAIL.—Hippodrome, Salford.
MRS. GORRINGE'S NECKLACE.—Herne Bay.
MUMMY AND THE HUMMING BIRD.—Aquarium, Yarmouth.
MY IRISH MOLLY.—P. O. W., Nuneaton.
MY LADY BELLAMY.—D. P. T., Eastbourne.
NEW BOY, THE.—Weston-super-Mare.
NIHILIST, THE.—Colosseum, Oldham.
NO MOTHER TO GUIDE HER.—Star T., Swansea.
PASSION OF LIFE.—T. R., Wolverhampton.
PRIVATE SECRETARY.—Prince's T., Bristol.
RAYNOR'S REPERTOIRE CO.—Crown T., Eccles.
ROYAL DIVORCE.—P. G. T., Folkestone.
SHADOW OF A CRIME.—Clarence T., Pontypridd.
SIN OF HER CHILDHOOD.—Kelly's T., Liverpool.
SINS OF A CITY.—Empire T., Oldham.
SORROWS OF SATAN.—Shakespeare T., Clapham.
THEODOR'S FLUTTER.—King's T., Glasgow.
TREE, HERBERT BEERBOHM.—Southampton and Bournemouth.
TWO LITTLE DRUMMER BOYS.—Junction T., M'chester.
UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.—T. R., Rochdale.
UNDER THE IRON HEEL.—T. R., Darlington.
WAS SHE TO BLAME?—T. R., Bolton.
WHEN IT WAS DARK.—T. R., Leicester.
WHY SMITH LEFT HOME.—Marina T., Lowestoft.
WITH EDGED TOOLS.—Dalston Theatre, N.E.
WOMAN'S PAST.—Empire T., Fleetwood.
WRECKER OF MEN.—Gaiety T., Burnley.
YOU NEVER CAN TELL.—Grand T., Hull.
1030 DOWN EXPRESS.—T. R., Smethwick.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

BY A. A. STRONG, LL.B. (LOND.), SOLICITOR.

Mr. Strong states the whole case very clearly.—Illustrated London News.

Should be found very useful.—Pelican.

Should prove perfectly invaluable.—Weekly Sun.

Furnishes useful information.—Daily News.

The work succeeds in making plain the thorny legal path that every manager and artist must tread, and by a timply consultation of its pages they may avoid much misapprehension and trouble.—Star.

GLASGOW Town Council minutes show that the request on behalf of Mr. Milton Rosmer, of the Glasgow Repertory Theatre Company, for permission to give a series of Shakespearean plays in the open air during June, July, and August, within the Botanic Gardens, has been refused.

"THE ENGLISH ROSE," by George R. Sims and Robert Buchanan, will be reproduced by Mr. Robert Arthur's company at Kennington Theatre for one week only, commencing on Monday. The Romany Rye, which was revived at Kennington Theatre a fortnight since, concludes its run to-night.

MRS. ALFRED LYTTELTON, writing on the proposed Shakespeare Memorial in a contemporary, says: "An opportunity now offers itself for erecting a great memorial to Shakespeare, whose tercentenary falls in 1916, in the shape of a properly equipped and adequately endowed National Theatre. A very influential committee has been formed, consisting of leading writers and actors of the day and distinguished representatives of almost all the functions of social life. Recognising that at present it is useless to expect any Government to take action, the members of the committee have decided to appeal to the public. They desire to make the theatre a real memorial to Shakespeare, and therefore to be the gift of large masses of people represented by small subscriptions. But help will be needed, and surely will be forthcoming, from the generous rich. Already one man has realised that to give a large sum towards the foundation of a great National Theatre in London is far the most attractive, interesting, and influential form which public benefaction can take at this moment. The enterprise has had a magnificent start. It is only a question of time before one or two other rich men will realise this also, and the thing will be done."

"THE ERA" NEWSPAPER.

Notice to Contributors.

All communications intended for publication should be sent to "THE EDITOR," and be accompanied by the Writer's Name and Address, not necessarily for insertion, but as a guarantee of good faith.

The Editor will not undertake to be responsible for any rejected MSS., nor to return any Contribution unaccompanied by a stamped and directed envelope.

Notice to Subscribers.

"The Era" is sold by all Newsagents in all the leading English, Irish, and Scotch towns, every Saturday Morning. Price Sixpence.

TERMS, POSTAGE FREE.

Home Subscriptions.			Foreign Subscriptions.
One Year	£1	6 0	One Year	£1	12 0
Six Months	0	13 0	Six Months	0	16 0
Three Months	0	6 6	Three Months	0	8 0

Cash must accompany order.

Notice to Advertisers.

Advertisements should reach the Office early in the week and not later than Thursday, 7 p.m. Remittances payable to "THE ERA," LTD., and crossed Lloyd's Bank.

Communications.

Business Communications should be addressed to The MANAGER,
"THE ERA" BUILDINGS,
5, TAVISTOCK-STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.
(two doors off Wellington-street).
Telegrams, "The Era, London." Telephones, 4747 and 1433, Central.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

[We do not answer inquiries by post. In all letters the names and addresses of inquirers must be given as a guarantee of good faith. Initials only or pseudonyms will be used in the answers if so desired.]

J. E. EDEN (Bermondsey).—We have no record of any fire at the hall you name after 1907. It was burnt down during the proprietorship of the late Mr. Will Riley on Jan. 28, 1896.

A. W. C.—We presume that Samuel French, Ltd., of Southampton-street, Strand, W.C., publish your plays. If so, put yourself into communication with Mr. Wentworth Hogg, the manager of the company. You might also write to Mr. Moverley Sharp, secretary of the Theatres Alliance.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, & DEATHS.

The charge for inserting in "The Era" an announcement of a Birth, a Marriage, or a Death, or an "In Memoriam" notice, not exceeding twenty-four words, is One Shilling and Sixpence.

As a guarantee of good faith, the name and address of the sender must accompany each notice.

BIRTHS.

CLIFTON.—On Sunday, June 5, at 224, High-road, Lee, the wife of Herbert Clifton, £1,000 voice, of a son. Both doing well.

LEVAINE.—June 9, at 112, Park-road, Wallsend, Annie, wife of Harry Levaine, of a daughter.

PAUL.—June 2, at Redcar, to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Paul, of Paul's Cadets, Redcar, a daughter.

DEATHS.

BURNOT.—June 6, at her residence, South Malton-road, Canning-town, Mrs. Walter Burnot (Polly Randall), aged 57.

MASON—Cornelius Benjamin Mason, the beloved husband of Emily Alice Mason, on May 30, at 253, Aston-road, Birmingham, aged 63. Deeply mourned. Professionally known as Cornelius Latelle, of the Three Latelles, high-wire cyclists. Foreign papers please copy.

IN MEMORIAM.

HARVEY.—In loving remembrance of my dear and only sister, Lizzie (Mrs. Frank Harvey), who passed away June 4, 1907. Never forgotten by ANNIE, Johannesburg, South Africa.

LE FRE.—In ever-loving memory of our dear son Albert, who died June 17, 1905. Never forgotten by his sorrowing father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. ALBERT LE FRE. "Oh, for a touch of a vanished hand, and the sound of a voice that is still."

STEPHENS.—On June 12, 1900, Louis Eugene Benjamin (L. E. B.) Stephens, writer and dramatist, aged 38. Inserted by his wife, IVY RIVERS, and his three only children, JOSEPHINE, EILY, and STEPHANIE.

THE Association of Parisian Theatre Directors has held a meeting, and has sent Mme. Sarah Bernhardt the following signed telegram:—"A French author, disregarding the great debt which dramatic art owes to you, has seen fit in your absence to distrain upon the receipts of your theatre and even upon your personal effects. We protest most indignantly against so outrageous a proceeding. Authorise us, your colleagues and friends, to act on your behalf. We all embrace you."

AT the matinée at the Town Hall, Maidenhead, on Thursday, in aid of the Animals' Hospital of Our Dumb Friends' League and the Mayor of Maidenhead's Poor Fund, an attractive entertainment was provided by Mr. Hugh Bagot Chester, Mr. Maurice Farkoa, Mr. George Giddens, Mr. Alfred de Grey, Miss Iris Hawkins, Miss Noona MacQuoid, Miss Agnes Miller, Miss Eva Moore, Miss Florence Phillips, Sir Simeon Stuart, Bt., Mr. Leslie Stiles, and Miss Margaret Lumley.

M. ROSTAND, it is said, considers that M. Guitry's performance of Chantecler is inadequate. The poet gave a copy of his play to M. Albert Lambert, of the Théâtre Français, who had recited the part on the concert platform, and wrote on the fly-leaf: "To Albert Lambert, who created 'Chantecler.'" M. Guitry was, naturally, annoyed. At a recent benefit performance in Paris M. Rostand recited a sonnet to the late Coquelin, in which he described what a "Chantecler" the famous actor would have made. M. Guitry was again angry, until it was explained that the sonnet was written a year ago.

"THE ERA" LETTER-BOX.

A Stamped Envelope, plainly addressed, must be enclosed with application for each Letter. Letters, after lying at this Office for One Month, are forwarded to the Postal Authorities, to be returned to the Senders.

No Circulars, Post Cards, or Parcels admitted to this list.

Armadale, Miss Sybil
Ashwynne, Miss M.
Athelda
Austin, Mrs.
Banfield, Miss Iris
Bannister, Mr. Walter
Barrie, Mr. K. Scott
Beechman, Mr. Thos.
Bellman, Miss Lottie
Bergeron, Mrs.
Beringer, Miss Esme
Blyth, Mr. J. S.
Bonaparte, Mr. Juan
Braide, Mr. Stewart
Brougham, Mr. and Mrs W. H.
Browns, The
Burley, Mr. W.
Cady, Mr. F. W.
Cancellor, Mr. Leyton
Cartwright, Mr. A.
Charcout, Mr. G.
Chippendale, Mr. A. A.
Clensey, Mr. Cyril
Clevere, Miss Amy
Cliffe, Mr. H. C.
Coleman, Miss F.
Cook, Mr. Albert
Corbin, Mr.
Costello, Mr. Tom
Court, Miss D. D.
Coyne, Mr. E. J.
Crawford and Johnson
Currie, Miss Lily
Dandy, George
Davis, Mr. W. E.
Day, Mr. Geo. R.
Denton, Miss Dolly
Desormes, Mr. J.
Digby, Mr. Chas.
Dobell, Mr. E. H.
Dockwray, Mr. Chas. W
Duncan, Mr. O.
Escourt, Mr.
Everard, Mr. Francis
Finucane, Miss M.
Fisher, Mr. Chas.
Forbes, Mr. Alec
Fordwych, Mr. Herbert
Fox, Mr. Will H.
Froude, Miss Kate
Gobbett, Mr. T. J.
Gray, Mr. Heaton
Groves, Mr. and Mrs J. H.
Hall and Earl
Harcourt, Miss Joan
Hare, Miss W.
Hast, Mr. Walter
Heale, Mr. Jack
Heath, Mr. Guyton
Hertz, Mr. Carl
Holding, Mr. Thomas
Hope, Mr. Jones
Houpla, Mr. Richard
Hunt, Mrs. J.
Imeson, Mr. E. E.
Jackson, Mr.
James, Mr. David
John, Mr. Arthur
Kearns, Mr. Sid
King, Miss Edith
Kingsley, Mr. Cecil
Kingston, Miss Gertrude
Kremo, Mr. Karl
La Dor, Mr. J.
Lancaster, Mr. J.
Landon, Mr. J.
Lang, Mr. J. P.
Lawton, Mr. E.
Leslie, Mr. A.
Lilly, Mr. E. C.
Lisbon and Lester
Lloyd, Mr. H. C.
Loftus, Miss Kitty
Lorimer, Mr. J.
Lukishamas, The
Luxmore, Miss Mabel
Lytton, Miss Ruth
Mackinnon, Mr. A. U.
Maclaren, Mr. Ian
Mars, Mr. Harry
Marsh, Mr. Alec
Martens, Capt.
Martin, Mr. Albert L.
Mayke, Mr. T.
McCamm, Prof.
Meynall, Mr. Clive
Mozart, Mr. George
Neale, Mr. V.
Neill, Mr. Sinclair
Nolan, Mr. Alf
Nord, Miss Serene
Pasha, Miss Marie
Pattison, Mr. Bert
Pawle, Mr. Lennox
Payne, Mr. W.
Pelham, Mr. Paul
Phillott, Mr. Gordon
Purcell and Newns
Raymond, Miss Alice
Re Vell, Miss Rosa
Robertson, Mr. Ian
Rogers, Mr. Harry
Rosse, Mr. Russell
Russell, Mr. Wensley
Ruttledge, Miss Francis
Schonberg, Mr. W. L.
Scott, Mr. Malcolm
Seymour, Mr. E. A. O.
Seymour, Mr. Ernest
Shaw, Miss Nancy.
Shine, Mr. W. E.
Smiles, Mr. F. F.
Squire, Mr. Reginald
Soldene, Miss Emily
St. Audris, Miss Estella
Stratton, Mr. E.
Stuart, Mr. Barney
Temple, Mr. Richard
Terris, Mr. T.
Thomson, Mr. Sam
Titus, Mr.
Tregonwell, Mr. A.
Trieve, Mr. Richard
Varley, Miss Pattie
Vasco, Mr. W.
Vine, Mr. Tom
Von Leer, Miss Sara B.
Walker, Mr. Booby
Ward, Mr. David
Ware, Miss N.
Webb, Miss Ada
Wells, Miss Pattie
Wentworth, Mr. C. P.
Weston, Miss Lucy
Wheeler, Miss Daphine
Whyte, Mr. C.
Willard, Mr. J.
Williams, Mr. E. H.
Wilson, Miss Nellie
Wilton, Miss F.
Wun Hi Ching Soo

BLACKMORE'S THEATRICAL AGENCY, 11, GARRICK-STREET, W.C.
Under the present management since 1869.
Office hours, 10 to 8. Interviews between 11 and 4.
'Phone 1785 Gerr. Wires, "Dramatique, London."
All descriptions of Theatrical Business negotiated.
Also First-class Music Hall Business.

The Great Raymond
BREAKING RECORDS FOR BIG BUSINESS EVERYWHERE.

BIRTHDAYS OF THE WEEK.

We wish Many Happy Returns of the Day to the following ladies and gentlemen:—

Violet Vanbrugh—Saturday, June 11.
Dolly Elsworthy—Saturday, June 11.
Ernest Leicester—Saturday, June 11.
Sandy McNab—Saturday, June 11.
Dr. Walford Bodie—Saturday, June 11.
May Davis—Sunday, June 12.
Julia Neilson—Sunday, June 12.
Bob Leonard—Sunday, June 12.
Frank Coyle—Sunday, June 12.
Ethel Haydon—Monday, June 13.
Louis Bradfield—Monday, June 13.
Joan Pereira—Monday, June 13.
Gay Silvani—Monday, June 13.
Kitty Loftus—Thursday, June 16.
Harry Lupino Lane—Thursday, June 16.
George Giddens—Friday, June 17.
Constance Elgin—Friday, June 17.
Claire Pauncefort—Friday, June 17.
Alfredo Borelli—Friday, June 17.
Wilton Reed—Friday, June 17.
Ted Volta—Friday, June 17.
Taff Volta—Friday, June 17.

DEATHS OF THE MONTH.

MAY 1. Charlotte Louisa Tate (Lottie Collins), aged 42.
,, 2. Fred De Vere.
,, 2. Norma Dumayne (Eliza Caroline Burgess).
,, 3. Charles H. Phelps.
,, 4. Mrs. Murray.
,, 4. Louie Freeland (Mulligan).
,, 8. Boris Wolfowsky.
,, 9. John Bradley, aged 46.
,, 10. Mary Philomena Heath-Saunders (Maud Hayden), aged 38.
,, 13. Thea Symnes (Mrs. Hansard Blair).
,, 15. Mathew Russell Rosse.
,, 15. J. C. Jimson, aged 47.
,, 17. Mrs. Poynton.
,, 20. Edyth Wynter.
,, 20. Isabella Robertson (Mrs. Charles Urquhart), aged 84.
,, 21. George John Parris, aged 79.
,, 21. John Matt, aged 66.
,, 22. Amy Blanchard, aged 66.
,, 22. Norman St. Clair, aged 44.
,, 25. Henry Taylor, aged 67.
,, 26. Edwin Charles Beckett, aged 4 months.
,, 26. Mrs. Wolstenholme, aged 51.
,, 30. Cornelius Benjamin Mason, aged 63.

A COPY of "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

"I'll swear upon that bottle."—TEMPEST, Act. ii., Scene ii.

WHITBREAD'S
BOTTLED BEERS

maintain their popularity because they are brought into condition by MATURING IN BOTTLE,
the Natural method,
without the aid of carbonating or other artificial process.

The Largest Beer Bottlers in the World.

APPLY TO CHIEF OFFICES,
BRITANNIA ST., KING'S CROSS, LONDON, W.C.
(Telephones: Nos. 2510 and 2511 North. Telegraphic Address, "Beerseller, London.")
FOR NAME OF NEAREST AGENT.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.
For Sustaining the Voice.
Invaluable for ACTORS and SINGERS.
Indispensable for PUBLIC SPEAKERS

GENTLEMEN,—For sudden affections of the Bronchial Organs I use and most cheerfully recommend "Brown's Troches." They are regarded as most eligible, convenient, and indispensable by numerous artists of my acquaintance, BOTH IN EUROPE AND AMERICA. They seem to act specially on the organs of the voice, and produce a clear enunciation.—Yours truly (Signed), MARIE ROZE MAPLESON.

SOLD EVERYWHERE AT 1/1½ PER BOX.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA.
The Best Remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion. The Safest and most effective Aperient for regular use.

Price 3s. 6d. Post free 3s. 10d.
THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER.
By ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).

Chapter I.
COPYRIGHT AS OPPOSED TO PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter II.
PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter III.
INFRINGEMENT AND REMEDIES.
CHAPTER IV.
MUSICAL COPYRIGHT.
Chapter V.
INTERNATIONAL AND COLONIAL COPYRIGHT.

Published at "The Era" Offices, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

BIRKBECK BANK
ESTABLISHED 1851.
SOUTHAMPTON-BUILDINGS, HIGH HOLBORN, W.C.
2½ PER CENT. INTEREST allowed on Deposits repayable on demand.
2 PER CENT. INTEREST on Drawing Accounts with Cheque Book.
All general Banking Business transacted.
ALMANACK, with full particulars, POST FREE.
C. F. RAVENSCROFT, Secretary.

MONEY
£5 TO £5000
DON'T BE WITHOUT READY MONEY. I will advance any sum you may require AT ONCE without fuss or formalities, and you can repay by easy instalments to suit your own convenience. Courteous personal attention. Call, write, or 'phone.
Mr. ROSSLYN STUART, Burton House, 253, Brixton Rd., Brixton, S.W. Telephone 1235 Brixton.

BUREAU DE CHANGE
SPECIALLY RECOMMENDED. HANDS and CO., 16, STRAND, CHARING CROSS RAILWAY STATION, LONDON, W.C.

A WORLD-WIDE CIRCULATION.
THE ERA
IN DIFFERENT PARTS OF THE WORLD.

"THE ERA" IN AMERICA.

— NOTICE —
TO ADVERTISERS AND SUBSCRIBERS.

ADVERTISEMENTS AND SUBCRIPTIONS are received through Messrs.
J. ROLAND KAY & CO.
TEUTONIC BUILDINGS,
172, WASHINGTON STREET,
CHICAGO, U.S.A.,
from whom terms and full particulars may be obtained.

American Artistes visiting England use "The Era" Offices as their Permanent London Address.

"THE ERA" IN PARIS.

ERCOLE THEATRICAL EXCHANGE
(Established 1885),
22, CHAUSSEE D'ANTIN, PARIS.

SINGLE COPIES ON SALE.
SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED.
ADVERTISEMENTS ACCEPTED.

Apply or Address,
C. M. ERCOLE.
Cable Address, "Ercole, Paris." Telephone 324-00.

櫻 花 探
PHONE, 7607 GERRARD. THE PHONE, 7607 GERRARD.
'CATHAY' RESTAURANT
Open 11 a.m. till 11.30 p.m. Open on Sundays.
A PIONEER FIRST-CLASS CHINESE RESTAURANT, RUN ON UP-TO-DATE EUROPEAN METHODS.
. . CHINESE DISHES in great variety, . . and pure CHINA TEA (specially imported).
AMERICAN AND OTHER ARTISTES who have been accustomed to occasional Chinese Meals will find the menu at the "Cathay Restaurant" almost identical with that of the best Chinese restaurants in New York and other American cities.
SPECIAL NOTICE. The management gives special attention to little Dinner and After-Theatre Parties which may be arranged over the telephone or by correspondence.
22, DENMAN STREET, PICCADILLY CIRCUS, W.

LONDON THEATRES.

GAIETY THEATRE.
Manager, Mr. George Edwardes.
EVERY EVENING at 8.
A Musical Play,
"OUR MISS GIBBS."
Box-Office open daily 10 till 10.

ST. JAMES'S.
MR. GEORGE ALEXANDER.
Every Evening at 9.
"THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST."
By Oscar Wilde.
MR. GEORGE ALEXANDER
and Mr. Allan Aynesworth in their original parts.
At 8.30, "A MAKER OF MEN," by Alfred Sutro.
MATINÉE (both Plays), EVERY WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY, at 2.30.

DALY'S THEATRE.
EVERY EVENING at 8.15.
Mr. GEORGE EDWARDES'
New Production,
"THE DOLLAR PRINCESS."
A Musical Play, in Three Acts.
Matinée Every Saturday at 2.15.
Box-office (Mr. H. W. Anderson) open 10 till 10.

COMEDY THEATRE.
Sole Lessee and Manager, Arthur Chudleigh.
Every Evening at 9.
CHARLES FROHMAN presents
"Alias JIMMY VALENTINE."
a New Play in Three Acts by Paul Armstrong.
The cast includes
GERALD DU MAURIER.
At 8.30, NINA GORDON at a Piano.
MATINÉE EVERY WED. and SAT. at 2.30.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE,
KINGSTON-ON-THAMES.
Summer Variety Season.
Twice nightly, at 7 and 9.
Mr. PETER DAVEY, Managing-Director.
Telephone, No. 58, Kingston-on-Thames.
Telegrams, "Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames."

MASKELYNE and DEVANT'S
MYSTERIES, St. George's Hall, W.
Daily, at 3 and 8.
New and Startling Mysteries. Pictures of the Royal Funeral, "The Scarab," a New Magical Farce, by Nevil Maskelyne and David Devant, introducing a series of Novel and Startling Illusions, &c., &c.
Seats, 1s. to 5s.
'Phone, 1545 Mayfair.

LONDON MUSIC HALLS.

ALHAMBRA.
Enormous Success of
"FEMINA."
New Grand Spectacular Ballet.
LEONORA, FAICO, BRITTA, RI-TCHAVES, &c.
Three Sisters Athletas, Franco Piper, Lalla Selbini, Baron's Burlesque Menagerie, Signorina Corona, Jury's Pictures.
Every Evening at 8 (doors 7.45).
Managing-Director, ALFRED MOUL.

EMPIRE (Leicester-square).
"HULLO! LONDON,"
MILLIE LEGARDE, J. F. McARDLE, &c.
LYDIA KYASHT and ADOLF BOLM,
in New Series of DANCE IDYLLS.
"EAST AND WEST."
The Derby on the Bioscope, Petit Roberto, Signor Barbalonga,
Mazuz and Mazetto, Valazzi, &c.
Evenings at 8.
Manager, Mr. H. J. HITCHINS.

PALACE.
Anna Pavlova, Michael Mordkin, Russia's Greatest Dancers, and Co., Clarice Vance, Arthur Prince, Barclay Gammon, Radford and Winchester, Funeral Procession in Actual Natural Colours of His Late Majesty King Edward VII. on Kinemacolor, &c.
Evenings at 8.
Matinée full programme, Saturdays at 2.
Special Matinée Wednesdays at 3.
Managing-Director, Mr. ALFRED BUTT.

OXFORD.
Always Merry and Bright.
Little Tich, Wilkie Bard, T. E. Dunville, Harry Tate "Flying," Ernest Rees, Alex. Dagmar, Dan Crawley, Bros. Horne, Darracq Whizzing the Wheel in a Motor-car, Tony Black, Daisy James, Hammon and Wyatt, Farr and Farland, Dorothy Gould, Minnie Mace, Bert Erroll, Pool and Maguire, Radie Furman, Geoffreys and Benson. Open 7.45; Saturday Matinées at 2.15. The Great Production of "Chantecler," Monday, June 20, a Feathered Fantasy in Three Fyttes. Hi! Cockalorum, Chuck, Chuck, Chuck!

TIVOLI.
WILKIE BARD, LIANE D'EVE,
Lilian Herlein, Lennox Pawle and Robert Whyte, jun., in "The Odd Man Out," Ella Shields, Herbert Clifton, Tom Jones, Gladys Huxley, Jack and Evelyn, Alec Chentrens, Cinquevalli, T. E. Dunville, Morny Cash, Madge Osmond, and others.
Open 7.40, Saturday Matinées, 2.15.

METROPOLITAN.
Twice Nightly,
at 6.40
and 9.10.
Overture, Lulu Lord, Mona Garrick, M. and S. Wood, Reg. Beauchamp, Rousbys, Katie Marsh, Dare Austin and Company, Ella Shields, Ian Colquhoun, Harry Tate and Company, Pictures.

EMPIRE, Camberwell.
Proprietor (Debenture Holder),
FRANK POSTLETHWAITE.
6.30 Twice Nightly. 9 o'clock.
Muir and Bartlett and Co., Randolph Slater, Ashley's Circus, The Almas, Elsie Athos, Conn Colyer, Bobbie Burns, Jeapes' Animated Graphic, Rose Hamilton, Joe Mae.

CHELSEA PALACE,
KING'S-ROAD, CHELSEA.
Twice Nightly, at 6.30 and 9.10.
Harry Tate in "Billiards," Daisy James, Wilson Hallett, The Donatos, J. P. Ling, Radie Furman, Henry A. Moore, Cora Corina, Ruffell's Bioscope, Haley's Juveniles.

QUEEN'S PALACE OF VARIETIES,
HIGH-STREET, POPLAR. Tel. 714 East.
Proprietors, F. and M. ABRAHAMS.
General-Manager, Mr. Morris Abrahams. Twice nightly, 6.30 and 9.10. Matinée Thursday, 2.30. Rehearsal 1 o'clock, Monday. Mr. Wentworth Croke presents "East Lynne," Chris Baker, Tom Hulme, Donnas Trio, Poole and Maguire, Elsie Kedwards, Allan and Austin, Bioscope, Jenny May, Tennyson and Wallis. Artists must forward bill matter to above, according to Clause 18.

THE NEW BEDFORD
PALACE OF VARIETIES, LTD.
Twice Nightly 6.10 and 9.
Monday, June 6,
Henry Herne and Co., Nan Farren, Jim Zanora and Co., Randolph Sutton, Lillian French, International Trio, Hubert Stewart's Company, Bros. Ford, Bioscope, Violet Lloyd and Horace Lane, &c., &c.
Artists are notified that they must send their full Bill Matter in two clear weeks before opening. Rehearsal, 1 o'clock Mondays. All must attend. Artists not complying with the above rules are subject to having their Contracts cancelled at option of Management.

ROYAL STANDARD MUSIC HALL
(facing Victoria Station).—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. T. S. DICKIE.—One House Nightly. Monday, June 13. Phil Ray, Geo. D'Albert, Park's Eton Boys and Girton Girls, Dave O'Toole, Milsted Bell Trio, Olga Doré, Little Zola, Ernest Montefiore and Co., Wallis and Kearns, Rita Rhylle, Bert Bowden, Lily Denville, Edisonograph. Rehearsal Monday 1 o'clock. Open 7.30. Saturday, 7 o'clock, with augmented programme. Tele., 503 Westminster. Assistant-Man., Mr. MAURICE VOLNY.

FUNDS, &c.

ROYAL GENERAL THEATRICAL FUND.
FOR MEMBERS BECOMING INCAPACITATED EITHER BY OLD AGE OR INFIRMITY.
Hon. Treasurer, Edward Terry, Esq., J.P.
Subscribers are requested to send notices of alteration of addresses.
Charles Cruikshanks, Secretary,
Savoy House, 115-116, Strand.

ROYAL GENERAL THEATRICAL FUND.
THE SIXTY-FIFTH ANNUAL DINNER will take place at the WHITEHALL ROOMS, HOTEL METROPOLE, TO-MORROW, SUNDAY,
at 7.30 p.m.,
MARTIN HARVEY, Esq.,
in the Chair.
Contributions, to be placed on the Chairman's List, will be gratefully acknowledged.
Musical arrangements under the direction of Wilhelm Ganz, Esq.
Tickets (inclusive of wine), £1 1s.
CHARLES CRUIKSHANKS,
Secretary.
Savoy House, 115-116, Strand, W.C.

ACTORS' BENEVOLENT FUND.
8, ADAM STREET, STRAND.
C. I. Colston, Secretary.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.
32 REGENT-STREET, PICCADILLY-CIRCUS, W.
Free Medical Advice.
Free Legal Advice.
Agency. Tours Booked.
Telegrams, "Actoris, London."
Telephone, 1753 Gerrard.

MUSIC HALL SICK FUND.
Founded in 1867.
Committee Meetings second Wednesday in the month at 4 p.m.
Sick Payments—£1 for 6d. per week, £1 10s. for 9d. per week. £10 paid to nearest relative on death of member. President, Mr. FRED KARNO. Hon. Auditors, Messrs. W. Brisco and T. Carney. Trustees, Messrs. H. Jennings, Jesse Sparrow, and Douglas White; Vice-President, Mr. W. J. Wainratta; Treasurer, Mr. Pat Carey; Secretary, Mr. R. T. Baines. Address all communications, the Crown Hotel, Charing Cross-road, W.C.

ACADEMIES AND SCHOOLS.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,
TENTERDEN-STREET, W.
Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
The Academy offers to Pupils of both sexes an opportunity of receiving a thorough education in Music in all its branches, the Drama, and Dramatic Elocution under the most eminent Professors.
For terms and all other information, apply to
F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC
(Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883).
Prince Consort-road, South Kensington, S.W
Director, Sir C. Hubert H. Parry, Bart., C.V.O., D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec., Charles Morley, Esq.
Syllabus and Official Entry Forms may be obtained from FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.
Established and Managed by the Corporation of London.
The only School in London for OPERATIC and THEATRICAL TRAINING which possesses a completely equipped Theatre. Public Performances periodically given. Stagecraft, Elocution, Fencing, Gesture, Stage Dancing, and Deportment Taught by Eminent Professors. Half-term commenced Mon., June 6. New Pupils can enter at any time.
FEES MODERATE. Prospectus on application to H. SAXE-WYNDHAM, Sec., Victoria-embankment, E.C. Tel. No. 1943 Holborn.

TRINITY COLLEGE OF MUSIC.
(Inst. 1872.)
Chairman of Board, Sir Frederick Bridge, M.V.O., Mus.D. Director of Studies, G. E. Bambridge, F.T.C.L., F.R.A.M. Director of Examinations, C. W. Pearce, Mus.D.
Students may join at any time, and are received for a single subject or the Course.
June 15, at 8 o'clock, Performance of "Les Cloches de Corneville" by the Operatic Class, at the Kingsway Theatre. Shelley Fisher, Secretary. Mandeville-place, Manchester-square, London, W.

THE SCHOOL OF MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC ART,
77, NEW OXFORD-STREET.
Principals: Cairns James, Ernest D'Auban.
President: George Edwardes, Esq.
Half Term begins Monday, June 6.
Pupils may join at any time for Private and Class Lessons in Elocution, Diction, Gesture, Stage Dancing, Deportment, Dramatic Art, Characterisation, Singing, Voice Production, Fencing, Sight Singing, and Rehearsals of Plays and Musical Comedy.
Amateurs Coached and Amateur Dramatic and Operatic Companies Stage-managed.
Lessons in Voice Culture and Public Speech given to Members of the Parliamentary, Clerical, Legal, and other Professions.
Apply, Secretary. Telephone, Central 4287.

COLONIAL THEATRES.

AUSTRALIA.
MELBOURNE, SYDNEY, BRISBANE, WELLINGTON, N.Z.
Mr. J. C. Williamson,
Manager of the Leading Australasian Theatres,
HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, MELBOURNE;
HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, SYDNEY;
THEATRE ROYAL, SYDNEY;
HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE, BRISBANE.
London Representative,
J. A. E. Malone, Adelphi Theatre

AUSTRALIA.
MR. HARRY RICKARDS,
Sole Proprietor and Manager,
GRAND OPERA HOUSE MELBOURNE;
PRINCE OF WALES' HOTEL, MELBOURNE;
TIVOLI THEATRE, SYDNEY;
TIVOLI HOTEL, SYDNEY;
TIVOLI THEATRE, ADELAIDE;
PALACE THEATRE AND GARDENS, PERTH.
Address all communications, Head Office, Tivoli Theatre, Sydney. Cable Address, "Tivolian, Sydney." General-Manager, John C. Leete.

AUSTRALIA and NEW ZEALAND.
GEORGE MARLOW'S ENTERPRISES.
London Agent,
EDWARD THANE.
15, Mount Pleasant-lane, Upper Clapton, N.E.

BOMBAY. — CALCUTTA.
BOMBAY.—CALCUTTA.
EMPIRE AND NOVELTY THEATRES, BOMBAY.
GRAND OPERA HOUSE, CALCUTTA.
Cables:
"Soundy, Bombay."
"Operahouse, Calcutta."
The Finest and Most Up-to-date Theatres in the East.
Apply,
Soundy and Co., Ltd.,
Bombay;
or,
Manager,
Grand Opera House,
Calcutta.

COLONIAL THEATRES.

INDIA AND THE FAR EAST.
BANDMANN'S EASTERN CIRCUIT.
MAURICE E. BANDMANN controls
the only Circuit of Theatres in the East, and can offer attractions a Twelve to Eighteen Months' Consecutive Tour.
Rent! Share! or Certainty!
ROYAL OPERA HOUSE, BOMBAY.
Joint Owners, Maurice E. Bandmann and J. F. Karaka. District Manager, F. Mitchell.
The Premier Theatre of Bombay!
This new and magnificent three-tier theatre, now under course of erection, built on the cantilever principle, will be opened in October next. Holding capacity at ordinary prices £300. Every modern improvement. Stage capable of any production.
EMPIRE THEATRE, CALCUTTA.
Joint Owners, Maurice E. Bandmann and A. Stephen. District Manager, J. Bury.
Acknowledged by Press and Public as the Premier Theatre of the East!
Now in its second year of unprecedented success. Holding capacity at ordinary prices £350. A magnificent four-tier playhouse, built on the cantilever principle, with modern mechanical stage capable of any production.
A play palace.—Vide Press.
At last Calcutta has a theatre where one can both see and hear in.—Vide Press.
A Manager writes:—I have taken more money at the Empire, Calcutta, in one night than in another theatre in Calcutta in one week.
THEATRE ROYAL, CALCUTTA.
Sole Owner, A. Stephen. Joint Lessees, Maurice E. Bandmann and A. Stephen.
Holding capacity at ordinary prices £250.
THE FAR EAST.
District Manager, Roy H. Smith.
Address all communications to District Managers or to London Representative, 44, Cranbourn-street, W.C. Cables, "Svengali," London. "Svengali," Calcutta. "Svengali," Bombay.

NEW ZEALAND.
FULLER'S AMUSEMENT ENTERPRISES.
Props., JOHN FULLER AND SONS.
AUCKLAND OPERA HOUSE, SKATING RINK (shortly building).
WELLINGTON THEATRE R. (shortly re-building) HIS MAJESTY'S OLYMPIA RINK
CHRISTCHURCH OPERA H., COLOSSEUM.
DUNEDIN, HIS MAJESTY'S, ALHAMBRA, and PRINCESS THEATRES.
INVERCARGILL, ZEALANDIA HALL.
Head Office, Wellington.

PROVINCIAL THEATRES.

ALDERSHOT.—THEATRE ROYAL.
VARIETY SEASON TWICE NIGHTLY.
NEW EMPIRE, KINGSTON (now building).
Address, Mr. Clarence Sounes, 18, Walpole-road, Surbiton, Surrey. Telephone, 1200 P.O., Kingston.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL. Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill. First-class companies required for Oct. 3, 31, Nov. 7, Dec. 12. Fast booking, 1911. Address, Charles Revill, T. R., Stockport.

BIRMINGHAM.
CURZON HALL.
Holding capacity about 3000.
To Let
for various dates
during 1910 and 1911.
Suitable for Circus, Diorama, &c.
For particulars apply to
Edmund W. Beech,
Chartered Accountant,
37, Temple-street,
Birmingham.

BLACKPOOL.
HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE,
WINTER GARDENS,
The PRINCIPAL THEATRE.
Holds MORE MONEY at ORDINARY PRICES and has better average business throughout the Year than any Theatre in the Town.
The Most Comfortable, Elegant, and Best-equipped Theatre, Large and Well Electric Lighted Stage, and First-class Orchestra.
All visitors to the Theatre have Free Admission to the Winter Gardens, Floral Hall, Empress Ballroom, and Pavilion Entertainments; thus Companies visiting Her Majesty's Opera House have this additional attraction, which no other Theatre can offer. Only best No. 1 Companies Booked. For Dates address, Jno. R. Huddlestone, Manager, Winter Gardens, Blackpool.

BLACKPOOL.
GRAND THEATRE, BLACKPOOL,
under the entirely new Proprietorship and Management of the Blackpool Tower Co., Ltd.
General-Manager, Geo. H. Harrop.
Acting-Manager, Percy Harrop.
The Finest, most Popular, and High Record Money-holding Theatre at ordinary prices in the town. Charmingly re-decorated and re-appointed throughout. A beautiful, luxurious, and perfectly appointed playhouse. Spacious and brilliantly-lighted stage. Superior dressing-rooms. Magnificent Orchestra.
Only Vacancy this year, July 4. and Oct. 24, No. 1 Companies only.
All communications, which should be made at once, to Geo. H. Harrop, General-Manager, as above; or, Mr. E. Lockwood, 5, Winterbrook-road, Herne Hill, London, S.E. Teles., "Tower, Blackpool."

BRIGHTON.
MARINE PALACE AND PIER.
Manager, F. W. Walkington. Tele. 341.
The Finest Pier in the Kingdom.
Brilliantly illuminated with 6,000 incandescent and 32 powerful arc lamps. First-class Military Bands during Season. Handsome and luxuriously furnished Theatre, stage seen from every seat, wind and rain covered way from Pier entrance. Chief tram terminus opposite.
Theatre Vacant after Sept. 30; tenant required.

CAMBRIDGE.—NEW THEATRE (Ltd.)
Man.-Directors, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.
A theatre among the most beautiful in England.—Sunday Times.
Now booking Autumn Dates for this year and Spring of 1911.
Silence a polite negative.

CORK. — OPERA HOUSE.
A few Autumn Dates still open.
Vacant Aug. 1 (Bank Holiday), 22, Sept. 12, Nov. 7.
Forward bookings and pencillings include:
Mr. Martin Harvey, "Our Miss Gibbs," "The Arcadians," "Dollar Princess," "Dairymaids," "Miss Hook of Holland," "Little Damozel," Mr. Edward Compton, "The Naked Truth," "A White Man," "Tantalising Tommy."
Apply to R. J. Bell, Manager.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE, LTD.
Established 1884.
Managing-Director, Joseph H. Curry.
Open all the Year Round.
Telegraphic add., "Curry, Grimsby." Tel. No. 240.

HANLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.
The Staffordshire Potteries
for all
Dramatic Purposes
must be considered as one large town.
Accommodation for 3,000 People.
Electric Trams and Trains after Performance to all ends of the District.
Vacant Spring Dates.
Sept. 5, 12, 19, and onwards.
First-class attractions only.
Chas. E. Elphinstone, Managing-Director.

HERNE BAY
URBAN DISTRICT COUNCIL.
All applications for Shares or Rental of the TOWN HALL THEATRE,
PIER PAVILION THEATRE, and various Al-fresco Sites, &c., to be made to the Entertainment-Manager, ARTHUR J. BARCLAY, Town Hall, Herne Bay.

PROVINCIAL THEATRES.

HULL. — GRAND THEATRE.
Under the Management of William Morton.
1909-10 ENGAGEMENTS:—
Martin Harvey, Miss De Silva and Company, George Edwardes's Companies in "The Dollar Princess," "The Merry Widow" (two visits), "A Waltz Dream," "Our Miss Gibbs," Percy Hutchison in "Brewster's Millions," James Welch in "When Knights Were Bold," Walter Passmore in Robert Courtneidge's "The Arcadians," Annie Hughes in "The Chorus Lady," Weedon Grossmith and Co. in "Mr. Preedy and the Countess," Miss Marie Studholme and Co., Zena Dare in "The Dashing Little Duke," Cav. F. Castellano's Italian Grand Opera, from Drury Lane; H. G. Pélissier and "The Follies" (one week), Frank Curzon's "King of Cadonia" and "Dear Little Denmark," Mr. George Graves in "The Belle of Brittany," D'Oyly Carte, &c.
Probably vacant, Grand Theatre, August Bank Holiday, Aug. 1, 8, Sept. 12, 19, 26, for Musical or other High-class Attractions.
Address, William Morton.

LEAMINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.
Lessees, Dottridge and Longden.
Vacant Sept. 5, 12, 26, Oct. 3 (3 nights), Oct. 31, Nov. 10, 11, 12 (3 nights).
Address, E. Dottridge, Empire, Oldham.

LONDON, S.E. — Correspondent Required to supply occasional reports of the Camberwell Palace and the Camberwell Empire.—Apply, Dramaticus, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden, W.C.

LONDON, S.E. — Correspondent Required to supply occasional reports of the Rotherhithe Hippodrome. Apply, Dramaticus, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

MERTHYR. — THEATRE ROYAL.
MERTHYR.—THEATRE ROYAL.
MERTHYR.—THEATRE ROYAL.
MERTHYR.—THEATRE ROYAL.
MERTHYR.—THEATRE ROYAL.
MERTHYR.—THEATRE ROYAL.
MERTHYR.—THEATRE ROYAL.
MERTHYR.—THEATRE ROYAL.
MERTHYR.—THEATRE ROYAL.
MERTHYR.—THEATRE ROYAL.
MERTHYR.—THEATRE ROYAL.
Lessees, The South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.
Visited by all high-class Companies, including "Arcadians," "Merry Widow," "Gay Gordons," "When Knights Were Bold," Moody-Manners, &c.
Managers are requested to apply now for dates, Oct. 3, 10, 17, Nov. 28, Dec. 5, onwards, to A. Jackson Withers, at above.

NORWICH. — THEATRE ROYAL.
Now booking Autumn.
Weekly Matinées for Country Visitors.
Silence a polite negative.
Fred Morgan, Manager.

OLDHAM. — GRAND THEATRE.
One of the finest Theatres in the Provinces.
Vacant for No. 1 Attractions only.
Sept. 5, 12, 26, Oct. 17, Nov. 14, onwards.
Can entertain a big Panto. Xmas Production.
Address, Ernest Dottridge.

OLDHAM. — EMPIRE THEATRE.
Twice Nightly Drama.
Vacant Aug. 1, 8, 15, 22, Jan. 9, on.
Address, Ernest Dottridge.

OXFORD. — NEW THEATRE.
Managers of First-class Companies are invited to apply for Dates to
Mr. C. C. Dorrill,
Managing-Director,
Silence a polite negative.

PLYMOUTH. — THEATRE ROYAL
Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.
Vacant dates, July 25, Oct. 17 (Musical Comedy).
Vacant next Spring, Feb. 27, March 6, 27, April 3, 10, and 24.

PORTSMOUTH. — NEW THEATRE ROYAL.
Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton.
Open throughout the year.
First-class Companies.
Weekly Matinées.

ROCHDALE.—Correspondent Required to supply Theatrical Reports Weekly. Address, Dramaticus, c/o "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

SOUTHPORT. — OPERA HOUSE.
Lessee and Manager, Percy Hutchison.
Vacant.
Sept. 12 (?), Oct. 17, 24, Nov. 14, 21.

SOUTH SHIELDS. — THEATRE ROYAL. Lessee and Manager, John Coulson. Vacant Aug. 15, Sept. 12, 26, Oct. 10, Nov. 14, for first-class attractions only.
Silence a polite negative.

STOCKPORT.—THEATRE ROYAL.
Sole Owner and Manager,
Mr. Charles Revill.
The Premier Theatre of Cheshire.
Vac. Nov. 7 and 14. Fast booking 1911.

SUNDERLAND.—KING'S THEATRE.
Lessee and Manager, S. F. Davidson.
Business Manager, Lloyd Townrow.
Visited by all the best companies, including Geo. Alexander, Lewis Waller, Oscar Asche, Martin Harvey, Geo Graves, Moody-Manners, D'Oyly Carte, "Arcadians," "Merry Widow," &c., &c.
A few vacant dates in the Autumn.

WORKSOP.—Correspondent Required to supply Theatrical Reports Weekly. Address, Dramaticus, c/o "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

A FEW VACANT DATES
for the following
First-class Theatre Circuit:—
OPERA HOUSE, TUNBRIDGE WELLS;
GRAND THEATRE, SOUTHAMPTON;
THEATRE ROYAL, BOURNEMOUTH;
OPERA HOUSE, CORK;
THE GRAND THEATRE, SWANSEA, can be booked in conjunction with the OPERA H., CORK. Journey via the popular Fishguard-Rosslare route.
GAIETY THEATRE, DUBLIN;
THEATRE ROYAL, DUBLIN;
OPERA HOUSE, BELFAST.
Apply, Frede. Mouillot,
1 and 2, King-street, Covent Garden.

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR PROVINCIAL THEATRES AND PROVINCIAL MUSIC HALLS.
Five Lines, TWO and SIXPENCE.
Thirteen Insertions (Including a Copy of "The Era" Weekly), THIRTY SHILLINGS.
For Each Additional Line, Sixpence.
Address, the Publisher,
5 Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.
"Wire," "The Era," London.
"Ring-up," 4747 or 1433 Central.

Price 5s., 8vo, Cloth. By Post, 5s. 4d.
THIRD EDITION.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW,
Being a digest of the Law relating to Theatres and Music Halls, and containing chapters on Theatrical Contracts, Theatrical, Music and Dancing, and Excise Licences, Dramatic and Musical Copyright, &c., with an Appendix containing the Acts of Parliament relating thereto, and the regulations of the London County Council and the Lord Chamberlain.
By ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (London), Solicitor.

INDEX.

	Page.
Accidents, Compensation for	53, 209
Act of Paris	119
Actor, Illness of	11
,, Incompetence of	16
Adaptations, Copyright in	110
Agents	129
,, Award as to	131
,, Commission	129
Apprentices	36
Arbitrator's Awards	219
Austria-Hungary, Copyright with	116
Author, Who is the	87
Awards, Arbitrator's	219
Ballets	66
Band Music	101
Barring Clause	41
Berlin Convention	119, 186
Berne Convention	116, 177
Bill Matter, Clause as to	34
"Book," Meaning of	83
Booth	65
Children on the Stage	60
Cinematograph, Rules of the L.C.C. as to	73, 238
Cinematographic Performances and Copyright	101
Compensation for Accidents	53, 209
Consideration for Contract	1
Contract	1
,, Damages for Breach of	43
,, Determination of	3
,, Made by Letters	2
,, Meaning of	1
,, Music Hall	34
,, Stamp on	3
,, Theatrical	4
,, Variation of Written	2
,, With Infant	36
Copyright	83
,, Assignment of	87
,, Colonial	124
,, Dramatic	83
,, Essentials for	85
,, in Adaptations	110
,, in "Gag"	100
,, in Situations	98
,, in United States	120, 194
,, International	116
,, Licence to Perform	88
,, Musical	84, 160
,, None in Titles	90
,, not Infringed by Cinematograph	101
,, Performance	92
,, under Berne Convention	116, 177
,, Registration of	86
,, Remedies for Infringement of	105
,, Term of	89
Copyright Act, Dramatic, 1833	147
,, ,, 1842	149
,, ,, International, 1844	167
,, ,, International, 1886	118, 170
,, ,, (Musical Compositions), 1882	108, 160
,, ,, (Musical Compositions), 1888	107, 162
,, ,, Musical, 1902	114, 163
,, ,, Musical, 1906	114, 165
County Council, Granting Licences	77
,, ,, Regulations of London	234
Criticism	46, 125
Crowds may be a nuisance	50
Custom of the Profession	21
Damages for Breach of Contract	43
Dance, Performing Right in	100
Dancing, Licence for	74
Dangerous Performances Acts, 1879 and 1897	144
Disorderly Conduct in Theatre	46
Distance, how determined	42
Dramatic Piece? What is a	93
Dramatisation of Novels	102
Drunkenness no Excuse	16
Duologue, When a Stage Play	68
Excise Licences	80
Exits	234
Fines	17
Fraud in Contracts	3
Garnisheeing Salary	35
Hire, defined	71
Hissing in Theatres	46
Illness of Actor	11
Incompetence of Actor	16
Infants	36
Infringement of Copyright, Remedies for	105
Injunctions	37
International Copyright	116
Letters, Contracts made by	2
Libel	127
Licence, Excise	80
,, for Children	60
,, for Cinematograph	73
,, Music and Dancing	74
,, Lord Chamberlain's	70
,, Provisional	70
,, Stage Play	70
,, Theatrical	64
Liquidated Damages	40
London County Council, Regulations of	234
Lord Chamberlain, Extent of Authority	68
,, ,, Regulations of	232
,, ,, Stage Play Licence	70
,, ,, Stage Play Licence, Fees of	71
Management and Audience	46
Mechanical Instruments, Infringement of Copyright by	112
Misrepresentation in Contract	3
Mistake in Contract	3
Music, Copyright in	107
,, Licence for	74
,, and Dancing Licence	74
Musical Compositions Act, 1882	108, 160
Musical Compositions Act, 1888	107, 162
Musical Copyright Act, 1902	114, 163
Musical Copyright Act, 1906	114, 165
"No Play, No Pay," Meaning of	29
Novels, Dramatization of	102
Nuisance caused by Crowds	50
Opera, Copyright in	111
Owner of Unlicenced Premises Liable	64
Payment and no room	48
Penalties	71
,, for unlicenced Music and Dancing	79
,, for unlicenced Plays	71
,, for sale of Intoxicating Liquors without Licence	82
,, on unstamped Agreement	3
Performing Right	84
,, ,, Term of	89
,, ,, Registration of	86
Piracy	111
Plans of Music Halls	77
Plans of Theatres	68
Plays, Similar	97
Posters, when a Libel	127
Preferential Payment to Artists	35
Public Entertainment Act, 1875	142
Public Health Act, 1890	74
Public House	77
Public Performance	65
Public Place	65, 96
Publication, Meaning of	90
Representation, Right of	84
Retaining a Seat	51
Riots in Theatres	46
Room, Performance in a	65
Salary, Garnisheeing	35
"Season," Meaning of	25
Seat, Retaining	51
Seat, Sold twice over	51
Sketches, Agreement as to	67
Society of Authors	104
Song, When a Dramatic Piece	93
Song, When a Musical Composition	94
Sunday, Performing on	19, 73
Stage Play, Meaning of	66
"Starring"	34
Stationers' Hall	86
Theatres Act, 1843	135
Theatres, Closing of	27
,, Patent	64
,, Unlicenced	4
Title, Rights in	90
Translations	119
Troupe, Performance by	31
United States, Copyright in	120, 194
Workmen's Compensation	53, 209

Published at "The Era" Buildings,
6, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

THEATRICAL SHOE AND HOSIERY MANUFACTURERS,
MAKERS TO THE PRINCIPAL LONDON THEATRES.

Louis Heel Dancing Shoes a Speciality.
Sixty Art Shades of Linen Back Satin, Specially Woven for the Manufacture of Dancing Shoes, kept in stock.
This Satin has a Fine Lustre, and is almost as Strong as Leather.

Large Stock of Pure and Spun Silk Tights, Worsted and Cotton Tights, Opera Hose, Stockings, &c.
A Special Study made of Symmetrical Paddings.
The Most Up-to-Date Stock of Stage Requisites and Sundries.
Everything of the Best and at Store Prices.
H. and M. RAYNE,
115, 117, and 119, WATERLOO-ROAD, LONDON, S.E.
(Opposite Electric Tram Terminus).
Tel. 7978 Central. Telegrams, Raynaloo, London.
And at 49, Charing Cross-road, W.C. (near Hippo).

TO OUR READERS.
A SINGLE COPY OF "THE ERA."
Post Free to any Address in the United Kingdom for SIX STAMPS.
Telegraphic Address, "The Era, London."
Address, THE PUBLISHER,
"The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-st., Strand, W.C.

SATURDAY, JUNE 11, 1910.

CHURCH AND STAGE.

The report of the meeting of the Actors' Church Union, which we published last week, is encouraging both to the Church and the Stage. The Actors' Church Union has many active and influential supporters, and the names of Sir CHARLES WYNDHAM, Sir HERBERT BEERBOHM TREE, Mr. ROBERT ARTHUR, Mr. EDWARD COMPTON, Mr. BEN GREET, Mr. MARTIN HARVEY, Mr. H. B. IRVING, Mr. CHARLES MANNERS, Mr. CYRIL MAUDE, and Mr. EDWARD TERRY as vice-presidents, and of Mr. CHAS. COBORN, Miss LILIAN BAYLIS, Miss LILIAN BRAITHWAITE, Miss PHYLLIS BROUGHTON, Mr. CHARLES J. CAMERON, Mrs. CARSON, Mrs. EDWARD COMPTON, Miss WINIFRED EMERY, Miss HARRIET GREET, Mr. FEWLASS LLEWELLYN, Miss EVA MOORE, and Mr. CHRIS. WALKER as members of the committee, show how many actors and actresses take an interest in the Union.

The main point of the Actors' Church Union is that it does not propose to treat the theatrical profession as specially in need of a mission to reform it. What it does do is to appreciate the condition in which persons are placed who, if they had remained in ordinary business, would probably have been in touch with the local church and attended its services regularly. When they go on tour they find themselves, or did find themselves before the establishment of the Union, quite cut off from the friendly ministrations of the local clergyman. They were strangers and sojourners in the country towns; and they were not visited either in their happiness or their affliction. The Actors' Church Union is altering all this. By a system of "chaplains" resident in the different towns, who endeavour to get into touch with the Church of England members of travelling companies, the Union is able to supply the same kindly interest, sympathy, and advice which a resident member of a church receives in a town or village. As the number of professional members is steadily increasing, the utility of the Union is manifest. Two things speak well of the tactful way in which the Union does its work: the cordial and friendly terms which exist between the chaplains and the local theatrical managers, and the help which is rendered the Union, in a quiet and unostentatious way, by many of the rank and file of its members.

With such an excellent understanding between the Church and the Stage in this direction, it is unfortunate that a Canon of the Church of England should have chosen a date so near that of the meeting of the Union for an attack upon the Stage. Canon SOUTHWELL, in a recent address at Newcastle, stated that in places of amusement most of the performances were in darkened houses, and that "impurity took place under cover of the darkness."

It is unnecessary for us to repudiate this accusation, as the matter has been already taken up by those chiefly concerned. At the annual general meeting of the Theatrical Managers' Association, held on the 2nd inst. at the Tavistock Hotel, Covent Garden, with Mr. J. MACREADY CHUTE in the chair, Mr. EDWARD COMPTON called attention to the Canon's statements; and it was unanimously agreed that Canon SOUTHWELL be asked to prove his words.

The following letter was also drafted and sent to the editors of the Newcastle papers:

It is reported in one of your contemporaries of last week that at a public meeting recently held in Newcastle Canon Southwell made the following sweeping and cruelly untrue assertions. Dealing with places of public amusement—music halls and theatres, music halls particularly—he said that by the modern arrangement of things most of the performances were in darkened houses. The whole light was thrown on the stage, and impurity took place under the cover of darkness. This was brought to the notice of the Theatrical Managers' Association at their annual meeting to-day, and it was unanimously agreed that Canon Southwell be asked to prove his terrible accusation, which every manager in the kingdom cannot but, and does, repudiate with indignation, horror, and loathing, and if the reverend and charitable and woefully mistaken gentleman cannot do so, he be called upon to withdraw his reckless remarks, and make the humble apology which justice and decency demand from him. If his remarks are not pointed at genuine theatres and music halls, then let him say boldly and openly what establishments he has in his eyes.

Signed for the Theatrical Managers' Association,
J. MACREADY CHUTE, Vice-Chairman.
HERBERT BLACKMORE, Secretary.

Nor have the local managers been slow to protest against the accusation, for the following letter, signed by the managers of the places of amusement in Newcastle, has been addressed to the editor of the Newcastle Journal:

Sir,—Re the long-expected letter from the Reverend Canon Southwell, it is exceedingly gratifying to receive his assurance that "the theatres were not in his thoughts at any portion of his address," together with his other laudatory expressions, but the reverend gentleman does not explain how or why the theatres came to be included in his speech.

Our letter to the Press, wherein we stated our intention of staying united action until such time as the Reverend Canon might reply to the correspondence, already published, bore the signatures of well-known managers of standard places of amusement, and, according to his reply, some of these do not come within the circle of his approbation. We, the theatre managers, are pleased, not on behalf of ourselves, but on behalf of the public, that we are beyond reproach in the management of our theatres, but we feel that other standard places of amusement are not yet free from the stigma cast upon them, nor are their patrons. It has often been computed that more than one-fourth of the population of Newcastle pay for admission to some place of entertainment weekly, and surely if is an injustice to these many thousands to insinuate an immoral tone on account of the inconsequent interruption of an individual who has, in his imagination, discovered something that was never intended nor meant, but is nevertheless regarded by the Reverend Canon as "a very fair token of the moral tone of a large number of those present." The managers of whom Canon Southwell bears witness that their establishments are above reproach do not incur a grave responsibility in still giving the shelter of their authority to the standard places of amusement when, at one time, all were included.

Will Canon Southwell state the exact position he intends to take with reference to proving the charges made? He states, "With regard to the demand that I should substantiate the charges which I made, it is impossible to do so in the public Press, because it would involve the recital of details unfit for general promiscuous reading, but I am quite willing to do so to those who have the right to ask it, such as the Chief Constable or the accredited representatives of the Watch Committee," and then on top of this he writes to one of the managers, saying, "If you and your brother managers assure me of a courteous reception I shall infinitely prefer to come to you rather than to the police or to the general public." Is it a case of not knowing whom to go to?

If amusement managers had originally taken Holy Orders they would, we presume, be held responsible for the moral education and well-being of their patrons, but things have not been so ordained. Their task is to see that the amusements of the people are properly managed, and an ever-watchful licensing committee takes every care that they do their duty. To the Church must be left the moral education of the people.

Canon Southwell himself states that the Watch Committee and the Chief Constable are the proper authorities to whom this matter should be referred, and with this we heartily agree. We must, as we have always done, leave ourselves in their hands, and can only regret that the Reverend Canon has so far mistaken his duty as to make a sensational statement in public instead of notifying the authorities, a course which, according to himself, is the proper one.—Yours truly,

FRED C. SUTCLIFFE, Tyne Theatre.
F. TEAL LINGHAM, Theatre Royal.
W. PARHAM WELLS, Empire Theatre.
W. H. BOARDMAN, late of Pavilion Theatre.
F. D. TODD, Pavilion Theatre.
F. W. BOLAM, Grand, Metropole, and Queen's Theatres.
R. G. ELDER, Grand Theatre.
E. B. CLARK, Palace Theatre.
LINDON TRAVERS, Olympia.
HAROLD ARNOLD, Tynemouth Palace.

The modern practice of turning down the lights during a theatrical performance, in order to increase the effect of the stage-picture, is, we believe, confined to theatres. Except during the exhibition of the cinematograph, the lights at music halls are kept up, the auditorium being always brightly illuminated. However, we need not add to the extremely able replies to this ill-considered and ill-informed attack. We trust that the "regrettable incident" will not, by embittering the excellent relations between Church and Stage, interfere in any way with the good work being done by the Actors' Church Union.

That the question raised by the Canon's statements is likely to be thrashed out is suggested by the resolution carried by a large majority at the recent meeting of the Watch Committee of the Newcastle Town Council, where it was moved "That this committee are of opinion that the statements made by Canon SOUTHWELL are sensational and unwarrantable, and intimates to him that if he has any evidence to prove such statements, the proper course is to lay it before the Chief Constable in order that it may be investigated by the Watch Committee." The onus of explanation now rests on Canon SOUTHWELL. Will he come forward with his "evidence" or his apology?

The Correct Phrase.

"I WILL explain," says Mr. Cecil Raleigh, "why practical knowledge of horses sometimes comes in so useful in playwriting. In the first place it teaches one not to fall into the error of using wrong expressions. Thus, among common mistakes made by those who have had no practical knowledge of racing are 'little slips' such as this: 'We must take the horses out to give them exercise,' is a sentence I've heard more than once on the stage. No racing man, however, would think of talking about 'giving horses exercise'—the one word 'exercise' would suffice for him. Which reminds me of a more or less amusing experience I once had during the rehearsal of a sporting drama. One of the characters in the play had to say, 'I don't know what's the matter, sir, but the horse, didn't eat up this morning.' Of course, the expression 'eat up,' which, in everyday language, means that a horse cleans his manger out in a healthy manner, is a common one enough, but the stage-manager, apparently, had not heard of it, for he stopped the rehearsal and said, 'That's wrong—eat up what? A horse must eat up something.' I explained that the expression was correct, and that it would be 'out of the picture' to say that a horse didn't eat up his corn, or whatever it was—and all was well."

A COPY OF "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

"THE GIRL IN THE TRAIN."

A Musical Play, in Two Acts, Adapted from the German (Die Geschiedene Frau) of Victor Leon, Lyrics by Adrian Ross, Music by Leo Fall, Produced on Saturday evening, June 4, at the Vaudeville Theatre.

Karel Van Raalte ..... MR. ROBERT EVETT
Lucas Van Tromp .... MR. RUTLAND BARRINGTON
Cornelius Scrop ..... MR. FRED EMNEY
Willen Kronwevliet ..... MR. PERCY DAVISON
Councillor Van Lieje ..... MR. ALEC FRASER
Councillor Van Dender ..... MR. PAUL PLUNKET
Herr Van Neck ..... MR. GEORGE ELLISTON
President Van Eyck .... MR. HUNTLEY WRIGHT
Jana Van Raalte ..... MISS CLARA EVELYN
Martje Kronwevliet ..... MISS KATE WELCH
Adeline ..... MISS MADELINE SEYMOUR
Gonda Van der Loo ..... MISS PHYLLIS DARE

The stage heroines discovered by Mr. George Edwardes have varying degrees of charm, and of them it may truly be said, "another and another still succeeds, and each is as welcome as the former." The latest "girl," indeed, is a most fascinating creature, and all London will be following in her "train," for she may be said to float on a current of sweet melody, stirred only by occasional zephyrs of sentiment and breezes of humour. M. Victor Leon, the original writer of Die Geschiedene Frau, deals with the inconsistency of the "eternal feminine" in a way that is invariably piquant and exhilarating; and the freshness of the score, its flood of tune, and the delicacy and refinement of the whole thing will captivate London and the provinces for a long time to come.

When Karel Van Raalte was about to start upon a journey to Amsterdam he little thought that Miss Gonda Van der Loo would enter his compartment and make herself very much at home. His behaviour was perfect in the circumstances, for he never kissed the alluring little syren, an actress, who regards the whole affair in the light of a pleasant adventure. Not so the wife, who is beset with all the pangs of raging jealousy, and will accept no explanation, especially when she hears that the young couple have been locked in by the blundering car conductor. She brings an action for divorce, and it is while this is proceeding that the play opens. The court scene bears some resemblance to Trial by Jury. We have a judge who will flirt with any pretty witness, while prejudicing the defendant with the most outrageous (comic opera) statements. Though he says that the husband, Van Raalte, "seems to have behaved like a perfect ass "in not kissing the pretty co-respondent, he gives the verdict against him, and grants the petitioner a divorce. This decision is a surprise to both husband and wife, whose separation is followed by that of their faithful servitors Willen and Martje Kronwevliet.

In the second act further misunderstandings widen the breach between the couple, neither of whom is happy; but there seems to be some prospect of reconciliation with the arrival of Lucas Van Tromp, the father of Frau Van Raalte. He has heard nothing whatever of the divorce proceedings, and insists on his daughter and son-in-law behaving like turtle-doves. He is a jolly old buck, and he, too, has had an adventure in the train. The inevitable reconciliation is brought about by Gonda, who arranges a "blind man's buff" waltz, in which the conditions are that the man who removes his handkerchief will have to marry his partner in the dance. Gonda settles that Karel Van Raalte shall choose his own wife for partner, and—their hearts attuned to a pretty waltz melody that is bound to capture London—the "separatists," happily reconciled, fall into each other's arms.

Mr. Huntley Wright returns once more to the theatres to play the divorce court judge, President Van Eyck, a part entirely after his own heart. Mr. Wright convulses the house by the wantonness of his remarks in the court scene, and the dialogue between the judge and the fair co-respondent is quite in the Gilbertian vein. In the second act Mr. Wright shares the success of the lively duet, "In the Park," with Miss Phyllis Dare, who plays the title-rôle not only with her customary girlish charm, but with a great deal more than her customary cleverness. She is especially happy in her singing of the melodious number, "Oh, sleeping car," which she renders with some culture. There is dramatic force, too, in Gonda's vigorous defence of her calling as an actress against the unfair aspersions of the inconsistent and unjustly suspicious wife Jana Van Raalte, played in exactly the right vein of seriousness by Miss Clara Evelyn, whose song to her own accompaniment in the second act is one of the hits of the piece. We have spoken of the blind man's buff waltz. This was beautifully sung both by Miss Evelyn and by Mr. Robert Evett, who played Karel Van Raalte, and, of course, sang with his usual charm of voice. One of the best numbers in the piece is "Married life," a duet most artistically sung by Mr. Percy Davison and Miss Kate Welch, in the parts of Willen and Martje Kronwevliet. Both of them are acquisitions to the comic opera stage. Mr. Fred Emney, as Cornelius Scrop, has a part that is already comic, and will become more so after a week or so. Mr. Emney rejoices in an unctuous method, and as a witness would make even a Celestial smile. Then we have Mr. Rutland Barrington to prove the usefulness of the Savoy methods in such a part as Lucas Van Tromp. The duet "Memories," a number that should have a great vogue, is sung by Mr. Barrington and Mr. Huntley Wright; and the concerted pas-de-cinq, in which the two gentlemen are joined by Mr. Alec Fraser, Mr. Paul Plunket, and Miss Phyllis Dare, is irresistible in its élan. Miss Madeline Seymour makes effective use of her slight opportunities as Adeline.

The scene of the dance, a beautifully-furnished apartment with exquisitely-dressed girls flitting about, shows the perfect taste that we have learnt from long experience to expect from Mr. George Edwardes, who, on the opening night smilingly received the congratulations of a crowded house on another great success. The piece is finely produced by Mr. Edward Royce; the stage is under the able direction of Mr. A. E. Dodson; and the orchestra enjoys the advantage of being under the baton of Mr. Ivan Caryll.

Lisping Innocence.

"ON one occasion I was reading a part to a well-known comedian—a great Gaiety favourite," writes Mr. George Edwardes in the Strand Magazine. "This comedian has a very notable lisp, which, though he, perhaps, does not realise it, has, nevertheless, earned for him many a laugh on the stage. Accordingly, the character for which he had been cast had been purposely endowed by the author with a pronounced lisp, and I paid careful attention to this in reading over the part.

"When I had finished I asked, 'How do you like it?'

"'Very much indeed, guv'nor,' he answered. 'I think it's a great part. But'—and he was very earnest about this point—'I think one thing about it is rather silly. Surely it isn't necessary to play the part with a lithp, is it?'"

An Elephantine Hero.

THE Daily Mirror, in its suggestions for dinner conversations, says: "Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's new serpent melodrama at the Adelphi. Inadequate use of animals on the stage. Why not use an elephant as hero? It would be a fine scene—heroine dying, about to be stabbed by villain. Enter elephant. Stands on villain. Squashes him. Villain quite dead. Elephant waves his trunk. Surely that would not fall flat?"

"THE ISLANDER'S" HALF CENTURY.

The musical comedy by Major Marshall, which has been happily named The Islander, reached on Wednesday its fiftieth performance, and a second sitting revealed considerable improvement in a piece that from the first was endowed with many grateful numbers from the pen of Mr. Philip Michael Faraday, the melodist of Amasis, and much fun. The head and front of the humour is Mr. Neil Kenyon, who, as Mirza Makh Ali Khan, has become a "pasha of many tales," mostly concerning canny Scots, ye ken. In full Highland dress the representative comedian of bonnie Scotland sings of kilt and philibeg in the quaint number, "Properly Built," which has increased in its topical significance since we last heard it. Mr. Kenyon's perfect serenity of manner, quiet assumption, and never-failing resource as a "gagger," make of him a persona grata; but he is never obtrusive, and the other clever members of the cast—and they number not a few—have every chance to distinguish themselves. The new Sir William Pickerton is the old favourite, Mr. Fred Kaye, whose musical comedy experiences are, we should say, not exceeded by anybody on the stage. Mr. Kaye's is just the fussy old official that one would expect, and his reading of the address to the pasha is made an amusing episode. Mr. Sam Walsh as Captain Alderson Jarrett has but little scope for his acknowledged comic ability, but as a commander of a warship he has the geniality and charm of manner that one expects in the King's Navee, and smartness and humour characterise his rendering. Mr. Fred Allandale scores early in the piece with "The Handy Man," quite a Kiplingesque ballad; but a greater success comes to him in "You're the girl for me," sung on the island, with a cohort of beautiful Persian maidens, who pair off with a similar number of tars—a delightful number admirably rendered. Mr. Laurence Legge's tenor voice does full justice to the ballad, "I live in a dreamland of love," and he meets with a generous measure of applause for his interpretation of Lieut. Reginald Hume.

Master Bobbie Andrews takes very adequately the measure of the part of Midshipman Jackson Mauleverer, who might have stepped out of the pages of Captain Marryat. Master Bobbie may be congratulated on the capital rendering of his first grown-up part. We find a comedian of undoubted ability in Mr. Harry Danby, who bears a name that has always been associated with the best traditions of comedy on the legitimate boards. Mr. Danby plays Seaman Jones, a sailor of somewhat melancholy tendencies, obsessed with the notion that everybody is thinking of his twenty-third birthday. He is decidedly quaint and refreshing, and is a distinct acquisition to the ranks of musical comedy. Miss Elsie Spain, always a charming singer, is no less attractive as an actress, and the love passages between Kitty and her lover are not the colourless episodes that sometimes are merely tolerated in musical pieces, but are lifted out of the rut of the commonplace by her natural acting. She has a haunting number in "I think I ought to know."

Miss Mabel Burnege as the languorous and beautiful Princess Haidee looks particularly handsome, and the tenderness and simplicity of her acting after a very artistic rendering of the song, "I wonder," are strikingly impressive. Miss Stephanie Bell is a sweet little dancer; Miss Ethel Morrison makes a stately chaperone of Lady Birkenhead; Mr. Reginald Lawrence is an effective Hakim Sirdar; and Messrs. Wilfred Seagram, Percy Claridge, Otto Alexander, Montague Syrett, Caryll Storrs, Murri Moncrieff, and William Guilbert have little to do, but do that little well, being conspicuous for their smartness in the ingenious and impressive business of clearing the wee boatie for action—one of the finest sensations ever accomplished on the stage. Miss Lesley Everell, Miss Edris Coombes, and Miss Mary Dibley play their small parts with genuine intelligence; and the inspiriting number, "A Mechanical Toy," brings out the grit of the chorus, well selected and admirably drilled. The play is capitally produced by Mr. Harry Grattan. Mr. J. Van Henvel directs a fine orchestra; and Mr. E. Taylor Platt is courtesy itself in front of the house.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Miss Edith Soole's piano solo "Jardins sous l'eau" (Debussy) was the first item in the students' concert on Wednesday evening. In Goring Thomas's song "A Memory" Miss Mildred Heaven displayed taste; and Miss Audrey Richardson received much applause for her violin solo "Morceau de Concert" (Saint-Saëns), with a clever Cadenza by her professor, Mr. Johannes Wolff. Very difficult, but not attractive music was "Islamay" (Balakieçeff), for piano, and it was admirably played by Miss Dadine Sutherland, who had two hearty recalls; while Miss Violet Carmen, a pupil of Mr. L. Cairns James, varied the programme with two clever musical monologues, with piano accompaniment by Miss Dorothy Holden. Miss Carmen first gave "The Death Potion" (Hawley), and then, in boy's costume, recited "Christmas Bells," by Harris, being a little newsagent's (of "All the winners" type) reflections on Christmas-time. Miss Carmen, who spoke her lines clearly and with good expression, was particularly successful in "Christmas Bells." "O du mein holder Abendstern," from Tannhäuser, was sung by Mr. Victor Schroeder, who had a good voice, and naturally sang ably in German, but "O Star of Eve" requires something more than careful singing to give due effect to Wagner's beautiful air. Miss Margaret Morse was heard in recit. and cavatina "Far greater in his lowly state," from Gounod's Irene; and the audience were greatly pleased with the bright, effective quartette "Eight Nursery Rhymes" (Walford Davies), capitally sung by the Misses Rainbow and Wright and Messrs. Beardon and Dacre, all pupils of Mr. Gustave Garcia. Quartettes are rare in students' concerts, and always welcome. The second recitation on Wednesday evening was "I and my Father-in-law," a lively work by Childe Pemberton, cleverly given by Miss Enid Cummings, a pupil of Miss Kate Rorke. Miss Jenny Hyman ably performed the duties of accompanist.

IT is reported from Dresden that Richard Strauss's next opera, Cavaliers of the Rose, will be produced for the first time there early in December. The libretto is by Hugo von Hofmannstal, the librettist of Electra, and the sub-title for the opera is a "comedy for music." The plot is similar to that in Longfellow's ballad of "Miles Standish," a young elegant, entrusted with a proposal of marriage on behalf of an elderly, rich suitor, falling in love with the lady, and having his love returned. The scene is laid in the middle of the eighteenth century, in Vienna, at the time of Maria Theresa.

Shirking the Sensation.

"OPERA-GOERS," says the Mirror, "are complaining very bitterly of the annoying habit that so many people have of rising from their seats and disturbing the audience five or ten minutes before the curtain falls. This was particularly noticeable on Saturday night, when La Tosca was given for the first time this year. It is suggested that they are unable to stand the sensational ending of the opera, but surely if this is so it would be far better to leave before the third act begins. The actual practice not only disturbs the singers, but annoys those members of the audience who not only have stronger nerves, but wish to see the completion of the opera in comfort. It can hardly be imagined that a stall audience hurries away to catch the last omnibus!"

"CIVIL WAR."

A Comedy, in Four Acts, by Ashley Dukes, Produced at the Aldwych Theatre on Sunday, June 5.

Caroline Latimer ..... MISS ANNIE HILL
Thomson ..... MR. E. CRESFAN
Michael Latimer ..... MR. FREDERIC SARGENT
Sir John Latimer ..... MR. JAMES HEARN
Rupert Blake ..... MR. PHILIP KNOX
George Latimer ..... MR. ATHOL STEWART
Mrs. Delling ..... MISS FRANCES WETHERALL
Margaret Shannon .... MISS PENELOPE WHEELER
James Shannon ..... MR. J. FISHER WHITE
Robert Mansfield ..... MR. LEWIS CASSON
Jeannie Dawes ..... MISS MABEL KNOWLES

Anarchist and aristocrat are brought to grips in Civil War, a play by a new author, which served as the last of the Stage Society's productions of the present season, and was produced at the Aldwych on Sunday and Monday last. The piece is a workmanlike effort of much promise, and stimulates interest throughout. There is more than a suggestion of melodrama in the play, its chief character going the way of all heroes of transpontine drama, but the situations are tense and dramatic, and the dialogue, if at times slightly involved, is written for the most part in just the way that appeals to an audience. Portions of it would do credit to any Socialist platform, and other parts the most rabid Conservative would be proud to deliver. A logical conclusion is not quite secured, but it is one which might be developed into practicable results.

The scales are held very justly between the two combatants, and in the end neither wins. The aristocracy is represented by Sir John Latimer, a true type of the old English gentleman, who is writing a book to prove that the leisured classes should sway the destinies of the poor. He intends that his son Michael shall enter Parliament and carry on the work on the lines he lays down. Michael, however, has fallen in love with a daughter of the people, the child of James Shannon, a revolutionary who has founded a Socialist colony on a piece of land purchased from Sir John, that gentleman being unaware of the purpose for which it was intended. The first shot is fired when Shannon finds his daughter Margaret in the embrace of the hated artistocrat, and Sir John, coming on the scene, is appalled at the prospect of his son wedding one of the proletariat. Threats are indulged in, but Michael calmly asks Margaret to be his wife and receives her answer in the affirmative.

Both parents are equally opposed to the match, and Sir John tries in vain to coerce his son into giving the girl up, but Michael is firm in his purpose, and accepts the alternative of leaving his father's house. Shannon's attitude is considerably modified when he learns that Michael has surrendered his inheritance for his girl's sake, and at length he gives a grudging consent to her going away with him to London, where Michael has obtained a Government post through the good offices of his friend and former travelling companion, Rupert Blake. It is to this gentleman that the conduct of the play reverts, for he brings to Sir John a copy of the certificate of his son's marriage, together with the tidings that the newly-wedded pair are on their way to Barton Priory with a view to a reconciliation—a proceeding to which Sir John very strongly objects. The arrival of the young people is preceded by that of Shannon, who has learnt of his daughter's intention and comes to demand that she shall return to him rather than occupy a position in the hated household. There is a furious argument between the two, with Blake making amusing commentaries, when the arrival of the young pair is announced, and Sir John, evidently worn out by his contest with his enemy, and Shannon, equally exhausted with his diatribes, go down together to meet them, both convinced of the futility of opposing the combined forces of youth and love.

The acting possibilities of the piece are many, and they were fully grasped by its exponents. Mr. James Hearn is among the best aristocratic old men who adorn the contemporary stage, and his portrayal of Sir John, ever courteous but ever obstinate, the embodiment of good breeding, but egotistical to a degree, was artistic in the fullest sense of the word. The scenes in which the old man realises the destruction of his fondest hopes was very touching, the quavering voice and faltering step indicating the agitation which he suffered. As a portrayal of the opposite type of individual Mr. J. Fisher White was no less effective. He drew a vivid picture of the fanatical Anarchist expounding his views at any and every opportunity with vigour and fine fervour, Mr. White's deep voice enabling him to thunder forth Shannon's denunciations of the social system impressively. His tenderness towards his daughter, his solicitude for his "people," and his earnestness in the "cause" were all convincing, and when the old man broke down at the prospect of his daughter leaving him his grief was made profoundly touching. Mr. Frederic Sargent gave a buoyant and cheery performance as the rebellious Michael, standing his ground with manly fortitude, and making love with youthful ardour, and his sweetheart was played with delicacy and deep emotion by Miss Penelope Wheeler. As the enigmatical Rupert Blake Mr. Philip Knox acted in an agreeable spirit of light comedy, and made the utmost out of by no means ample opportunities. Mr. Athol Stewart made a humorous hit as the sporting George Latimer, who is constantly borrowing money from Sir John. It is a well-conceived character, and lightened the play considerably, though the story of the sun-bath indulged in by members of the Socialist community is not in the best taste. Miss Frances Wetherall did her best with small chances as the disreputable Mrs. Delling, and Miss Mabel Knowles as Jeannie Dawes, an inebriate member of the Socialist community, gave a well-studied impersonation. Mr. Lewis Casson made a picturesque figure as a football player who snatches a moment from his duties in the field to pay court to Margaret, and spoke and acted with his customary grace and finish. Miss Annie Hill played the baronet's sister consistently, and Mr. E. Cresfan as a very precise butler completed the cast. The author was warmly called and congratulated.

MISS MARIA TRENCH'S excellent translation of the Passion Play at Ober-Ammergau, first published in 1890, has now been reprinted in a second edition, and should prove of much value and interest to those who see the remarkable performances in the mountain village. The translator's method of keeping the English lines parallel with the original lines of the choruses will be of great assitance to those whose knowledge of the German language is limited.

THE Repertory Theatre, Glasgow, according to a correspondent of the Glasgow Herald, opened on April 19, 1909, and in the three seasons, totalling up forty weeks, the deficit amounts to something under £3,000. There have been enterprises of a similar kind in London and elsewhere, says the correspondent. Can any one of them point the finger of scorn at our Glasgow venture? Emphatically, no! None of them has emerged from its first year's struggle for existence with a tithe of our success, and had they not had strong financial backing they must all have gone to the wall. Two of them, at least, are now making money. These other enterprises looked to some generously disposed plutocrat to finance them. We, in Glasgow, rely on our public-spirited citizens, who, by giving a helping hand now, will share the credit of having founded the first citizens' theatre in Great Britain.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

After a long and serious illness Miss Marie Loftus is now convalescent, and hopes to resume business shortly.

Report has been extremely busy again this week concerning forthcoming events in the variety world. Not the least interesting item was the report that Mr. Alfred Butt had bought the Royal Standard, Victoria. Inquiry at the Palace by an Era representative obtained neither confirmation nor denial from Mr. Alfred Butt. Similar information sought from Mr. Dickie simply brought forth the remark:—"Outside people always know our business better than we know it ourselves."

Notwithstanding the silence of the two principals concerned, we are in a position to state that the transfer of the fine old Pimlico variety theatre to the directorship of Messrs. Alfred Butt and Walter de Frece is but a matter of hours, if it is not by the time these lines appear in print an accomplished fact. We are further informed that plans for the reconstruction of the Standard are already passed and in the builder's hands. The future management of Mr. Dickie's famous house, it is further stated, will be by the Variety Theatres Controlling Co., of which Mr. Walter Gibbons is a leading spirit.

For some considerable time past negotiations had been taking place for the acquisition of house property adjacent to the Standard. This business, it is understood, is now completed, so that very little now remains to be done before, at the convenience of all parties concerned, a start can be made to rebuild a larger Standard than we have as yet known.

Mr. Alfred Butt has announced this week that during his recent stay in Berlin he met Mr. Martin Beck and Mr. Meyerfeld, with whom he made final arrangements for the erection of the Palace in the German capital. Building operations will be started in a month from the present time, and the idea is to give the German people something in entertainment quite different from what they are used to. The difficulties raised by the German police and other authorities have been many, but, it is understood, these have now been surmounted, and the English vaudeville invasion of the Kaiser's capital is now an accomplished fact. English turns will get a big place in Mr. Butt's Berlin bill, but there will also be a goodly sprinkling of Continental and American turns in it likewise.

Mr. Harry Woodford has progressed so far on the road to convalescence after his recent attack of pneumonia that he was strong enough to journey to Margate on Monday. He hopes to be quite fit and well in a few weeks. He will have a very warm welcome from a host of friends when he returns to the Alhambra.

Mr. Tom Pacey writes to correct the report that Mr. Harry Rickards has arrived in England. As a matter of fact, he is still on the water, and will not reach these shores for another fortnight. Artists and agents will be notified of his arrival by advertisement in The Era.

Mr. Bransby Williams has purchased the remainder of the lease of a fine old house at 102, Upper Tulse Hill, S.W., a property with spacious gardens and every convenience in a favourite residential neighbourhood. The new proprietor entered into possession on Thursday.

The entente cordiale between the variety and dramatic professions will be again happily emphasised at the Theatrical Garden Party to be held at the Botanic Gardens at Regent's Park on June 28, when the Water Rats have consented to assist in the variety tent.

Mr. Lawrence Grossmith and Miss Dagmar Wiehe will be associated with the production of Honourably Mentioned, a sketch due to the collaboration of Mr. Sydney Blow and Mr. Douglas Hoare, at the Kilburn and Holborn Empires. Mr. Grossmith's latest success at the theatres has been in the part of Horace Ventimore in The Brass Bottle at the Vaudeville.

"The Odd Man Out," a new comedy "triologue," will be produced on Monday next at the Tivoli. Mr. Robert Whyte, jun., and Mr. Lennox Pawle, recently associated as the "two merry monarchs" in the play of that title at the Savoy and Strand Theatres, will appear in parts in which they are excellently suited; and Miss Mona Harrison, who for the last three years has been playing at the Vaudeville Theatre, will be seen for the first time on the variety stage.

Mr. Fred Higham informs us that he has arranged for Mr. Alec Hurley to work his single turn on the Gibbons Circuit for tours commencing Aug. 1. It is good news to hear that the singer of "I ain't a-going to tell" and other coster ditties is once more about to rely unaided on his own conspicuous ability. As a singer of coster ballads Mr. Hurley is one of the few who can touch a tender chord.

Miss Ada Reeve, who is starring at the Cardiff Empire this week, in an interview on Monday stated that she made her variety debut at Cardiff. It was eighteen years ago, in her early teens, at the old Empire. In a sense she prefers the halls. "For one thing," she says, "you appeal to a wider public, and your work becomes necessarily more varied. If you are a student of psychology and study the mental aspect of your audience in the mass as distinguished from the individual you will realise what I may call the constraining force of organised intelligence

"The mental attitude, of course, varies in different parts of the house, and it may express itself in variety of tastes; but the intellectual sharpness of the mass inspires and puts on his or her mettle the artist who seeks, and succeeds, in disseminating personality beyond the footlights. The music-hall audience expects, and insists on the higher art."

Miss Annie Hughes is this week at the Empire, Liverpool, where she is starting the Moss and Stoll tour with her admirably-written and finely-acted sketch Napoleon's Washerwoman. Mme. Sans-Gêne is exactly Miss Hughes's part, and greater familiarity with it has strengthened her performance in such a way that we have nothing finer in the way of comedy on the variety stage at the present time than her delineation of the honest blanchisseuse. We are not surprised to hear that the sketch is booked up to 1912 at the Stoll and Syndicate halls.

It was Mr. C. M. Ercole, of the International Theatrical Exchange, London, Berlin, and New York, who discovered and secured for the Alhambra the Ri-Tchave troupe of Bohemian dancers, who have made such a hit in the new ballet, Femina. Their barbaric divertissement in the Stone Age scene of Mr. Moul's latest and most successful production is something to be seen. Its terrific energy does not rob it of its grace; and the engagement of the troupe is decidedly a fortunate one. Ercole knows a good turn when he sees it, and does his best to give it a European and even a trans-Continental reputation.

Mr. Colin Hazlewood, the acting-manager and treasurer of the King's Theatre, Hanley, returned on Tuesday from camp at Melton Mowbray looking the picture of health. He had completed fifteen days' training with the Staffordshire Yeomanry.

Miss Winnie Derson, the daughter of the veteran Harry Anderson, was married on Saturday last to Mr. Adam George Cuthbert.

Extensive alterations and improvements are to be carried out at the Palace Theatre, Aberdeen, during the recess, which extends from June 18 to July 18. The entire building is to be redecorated in a most tasteful scheme of colour. The stall seating is to be rearranged, and completely separated from the pit, two new private boxes are to be installed, and the circle and the pit are to be entirely reseated.

The alterations and reconstruction behind include a new stage to be laid considerably lower, so as to be more convenient for stall patrons; new scenery; and the lighting will be increased and greatly improved. Among the structural changes are a new entrance for stalls and orchestra stalls, which will supersede the present system, by which the stallholders have to pass through the pit.

Along the front of the building a handsome glass verandah is to be erected, which, in addition to being a further attraction to the architectural appearance of the building, will also prove of much service as a shelter to patrons waiting for the doors to open. At the opening on July 18 a complete transformation will be noted.

Encouraged by the extraordinary success of The Bad Gird of the Family at the Ealing Hippodrome, Mr. J. A. Molloy is endeavouring to arrange a return visit at an early date; in the meantime he promises us for next week a presentation of W. Melville's play The Female Swindler.

Mr. W. Pearson, who was for three and a half years with Messrs. Poole, and who has been acting-manager at the Ton-y-pandy Empire since its opening, has been promoted to the position of general-manager. His appointment is exceedingly popular with the many habitués of the house.

The contributors to the Citizens of Bath King Edward VII. Shilling Memorial Fund now include the name of Mr. Eugene Stratton, who has sent 21s., and Miss Florrie Forde, who is responsible for a like sum. The management of the Electric Theatre in the town is giving half the proceeds of one day's takings next week.

The general public of Hastings have learnt with considerable regret that Mr. J. D. Hunter, the respected entertainment-manager of the Pier Pavilion, is about to relinquish his position, held with exceptional ability for more than thirty-one years. Mr. Hunter's kindly disposition has made him a popular favourite on both sides of the footlights, and during his management he has successfully conducted thirty-one pantomimes. In low comedy his natural vein of humour always asserted itself, and all parties wish the genial comedian health and success.

Mr. P. D. Elbourne, the manager of the Birmingham Hippodrome, has resigned, to accept a similar post at the Leicester Palace, one of the best of the Moss-Stoll houses in the provinces. Mr. Elbourne is a native of Birmingham, having been educated at King Edward's Grammar School. Eight years ago he entered the office at the Birmingham Hippodrome, and rapidly worked his way up to the managerial post.

He held the reins, under the late Mr. Thos. Barrasford, with marked success, and he was transferred to Sheffield to control the new Hippodrome until it was successfully launched. Later he returned to Birmingham, where he has been prominent for careful and business-like management, and for his generous assistance to all movements in aid of charity. Mr. Elbourne's many friends in Birmingham wish him the best of luck.

Chappell's concerts, Great Yarmouth, which will open for the summer season on the 20th, will be run this year by Messrs. E. V. Barr, Ltd., who have taken over the remaining two years' lease from Mrs. S. Lawton. Mr. Harry Barker, for years a prominent member of the late Mr. James Chappell's companies, is again the general-manager, and will introduce further improvements and novel features during the forthcoming season.

At the recent meeting of the Birmingham Theatre Royal Company, Mr. Tom B. Davis, managing-director, said the company was beginning to feel the benefit of having secured contracts ahead with well-known artists. Alluding to the last pantomime, he said it was a source of additional income when they could arrange to reproduce pantomimes in other towns, and next season Jack and the Beanstalk, with Mr. George Robey in the cast, would be presented in Manchester on terms which would involve the company in no risk, but would ensure a profit.

Since the establishment of the Hippodrome at Exeter, Mr. Fred Sandy has been the resident-manager, and by his tact, courtesy, and ability has won the respect of all classes. The esteem in which he is held was testified in a gratifying manner on Monday, when he was initiated a member of the historic Masonic Lodge of Exeter, "Semper Fidelis," which includes amongst its brethren the leading citizens of Exeter. The large attendance at the initiation included brethren not only of the Semper Fidelis Lodge but of other lodges of the province of Devon.

The new Wimbledon Theatre is proceeding rapidly to completion. It is more than probable that this will be run upon what may be termed dual lines—that is to say, a season will be devoted to variety and the remainder of the year to drama, with a big pantomime at Christmas, a system which has proved so successful at the Theatre Royal, Dublin. Indeed, this was indicated by Mr. Mulholland in an interview which appeared in The Era two years ago. The theatre will be one of the largest in or around London, accommodating nearly 4,000 persons. It is outside the area of control of the L.C.C., but, nevertheless, embraces all the modern safety requirements. It will be ready for opening in September.

Mr. Fredk. Titcomb (professionally known as Fred Terry), late manager of the Hoyland Hippodrome, was married on Monday at Hoyland Parish Church to Mrs. Charlotte Dewhirst, of the Queen's Head Hotel, Hoyland. The "best man" was Mr. W. E. Soloman, F.V.C.M., and Mrs. W. E. Soloman (sister of the bride) was "best girl." The bride was tastefully and prettily dressed in a lace robe, with lace hat to match. After the ceremony in the church, which was witnessed by a large number of friends, the breakfast was held at the bride's home, the Queen's Head Hotel, and shortly afterwards the happy couple left for the honeymoon, which is being spent at Weston-super-Mare. The bride's travelling dress was in Wedgwood blue, trimmed with black braid, a large black hat with black tips to match completing a very charming ensemble. Mr. Terry, we understand, is leaving the profession, and is taking up his permanent address at Hoyland.

Owing to the strain on her voice through difficult imitations Miss Cecilia Loftus will "rest" next week, but will appear again on the 20th inst. The Russian Dancers and Fragson remain the chief attractions. Among the new turns next week is Harry Ford.

A committee meeting of the Music Hall Home will be held on Thursday next at the Stags Hotel, Kennington-road, at 12 noon. Will committee men kindly note change of address? Miss Kitty Colyer visited the inmates of the Home during the past week, presenting each inmate with tobacco and a piece of silver.

The last Vaudeville Club smoking concert of the season will be held at the Vaudeville Club on Sunday, when Mr. Joe Wilson of the Tivoli will preside. We wonder whether Joe will be persuaded to sing "Her portrait next my heart," from The French Maid, in which he made the acting success of his career as the man-o'-war's-man in that very successful production.

Notwithstanding the weather and the fact that it was Derby week, John Lawson packed the Camden Hippodrome with the magnetic attraction Humanity. This work is now produced on an absolutely colossal scale, and the new fire effects are the most realistic yet seen. Mr. Lawson is at his best in the part of the much-wronged Jew, and, as usual, carries the burden of the work on his shoulders. During his provincial season, which lasts until Oct. 3, Mr. Lawson will produce The Looms of Mayfair and The King of Palcstine.

Mr. Harry Weldon, known as "Stiffy, the goal-keeper," by a display of alacrity and presence of mind saved a child's life on Friday, June 3. He, with others of the Empire company, intended to visit Trent Bridge, but getting on the wrong car found themselves at Wilford Bridge. They walked along the Embankment, and when approaching the swimming baths heard a splash and a cry.

Miss Winifred Ward immediately called attention to a group of children playing on the water's edge. They were in a panic, for one of their number, a tiny mite of 2½ years, had fallen into the river and was being taken out by the current. Harry Weldon quickly grasped the situation, and, jumping into the water, seized the child as she was sinking for the second time and brought her ashore. Miss Ward took charge of the little one and gave her every attention.

It is a coincidence that Fred Curran, who was one of the company, was with Harry Weldon two years ago in Dublin when the latter saved a man from drowning. At the Empire, Nottingham, in the evening, the artists performing there showed their appreciation of Miss Winifred Ward's prompt attention by presenting her with a bouquet.

The owners of the Wheatsheaf Hotel, Leeds, have decided to relinquish the licence, so that on and after the 17th inst. the Leeds weekly meetings of the Variety Artists' Federation will be held at Mr. Arthur Gretton's hostelry, the Horse and Trumpet Hotel, right opposite the Wheatsheaf. The cordial thanks of the Federation are tendered to Mr. Harry Dent, of the Wheatsheaf, by the Executive Committee and members for his unfailing courtesy and hospitality during the past three years.

We are promised quite a new show at the Euston Palace on June 20. Josh Clifton, who is proprietor of the Five X-Rays has had a troupe—the Six Ceylons—in rehearsal for some months, and they have this week produced at the Regent, Salford, with enormous success, A Dream in an Opium Den. We are told this act differs entirely from all other shows previously introduced. New and novel scenery and effects are provided, and Will Oliver will have, as in the case of the X-Rays, the sole control of the business.

The arrangements for the Grand Fête and Gala at Rosherville Gardens, in aid of the Music Hall Benevolent Institution, on Wednesday, July 6, are progressing favourably, and, given sunny weather, everything points to a glorious success. The following distinguished patronage has already been secured, in addition to that of the professional associations: Sir Gilbert Parker, M.P. for Gravesend; Alderman H. C. Davis, of the Gaiety, Chatham, Mayor of Gravesend, a former London music-hall proprietor; Alderman W. E. R. Randall, Mayor of Chatham; Mr. T. Church, chairman of the Northfleet Council.

As a number of our best known and most popular "stars" have promised to appear, either in the afternoon or evening, the two variety performances should include the "pick of the basket." Many friends have already offered their services as helpers, but as over a hundred will be wanted, the managers of the Fête will be glad to hear from others willing to lend a hand. All their expenses on the day will be paid.

Admission to the Old Welcome Club in the Gardens will be granted to any performer wearing the badge of the M.H.A.R.A., V.A.F., Water Rats, Terriers, or I.A.L. They can thus make use of this cosy club and get "far from the madding crowd." The London, Tilbury, and Southend Railway have decided to run a number of their ferry boats from Tilbury direct to the Rosherville Pier, instead of the Gravesend, thus avoiding the train ride or walk to the Gardens.

Among the attractions will be a classical concert in the Italian Gardens at six o'clock; a representation of the Old Richardson show repeated at frequent intervals; a cinematograph theatre that will, no doubt, attract many; and the magic caves, which will be illuminated. There will be side shows of all descriptions, dancing all day and evening in the ball-room, all the "fun of the fair" in the fair-ground, and the illuminations in the grounds will be enhanced by thousands of fairy lamps. Military and other bands will perform at intervals throughout the day. Full particulars can be obtained on writing to the directors of the Fête and Gala, Messrs. H. Cory Woodrow and Douglas Stuart, 18, Charing Cross-road.

That popular event with the profession, the Music Hall Sports, in aid of that excellent charity the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund, will be held at the Stamford Bridge grounds on Thursday, July 21. At a meeting last Saturday the following officials were appointed; President, Mr. Harry Tate; Mr. Albert Le Fre, chairman and hon. treasurer of the sports committee; Messrs. Charles Coborn and Jack Straw, joint hon. secretaries; committee, Messrs. Arthur Gallimore, T. C. Callaghan, H. Cee-Mee, James Miller Northern, J. H. Milburn, and Lieutenant Albini, with power to add to their number.

The following programme of events has been arranged:—120yds. handicap; one mile walking (open to anybody connected with music halls or theatres); 100yds. children's, boys (performers' children only); 100yds. children's, girls (performers' children only); 100yds. agents' running handicap; 100yds. managers' running handicap; comic costume scramble; 120yds. hurdle handicap; 40yds. flip-flap; 250yds. steeplechase in basket horses (open); pie-making competition, ladies (artists); running high jump; 360yds. obstacle (open); two-mile bicycle handicap; ladies' driving competition, with gentlemen as horses; football competition; golf competition; consolation race; half-mile handicap, running (open).

The monthly meeting of the Music Hall Sick Fund Committee was held on Wednesday afternoon at the Crown Hotel, Charing Cross-road. The members present were Messrs. W. Bailey (in the chair), T. Carney, S. Whyte, F. Boyce, and Carl Hermon. The annual general meeting will be held on Wednesday, July 13, at 4 p.m.

Miss Edith Cruikshanks is fulfilling her seventh engagement with Mr. John Lawson, playing a specially written part in The Miracle this week at the Canterbury.

Mr. S. W. Wyndham is still going ahead, and is scoring a most gratifying success with his new songs, entitled "Mary's wooden leg" and "My old banjo." He has been repeatedly asked for pantomime permission, but has wisely decided to keep the songs absolutely exclusive.

Mr. Chris. Van Bern, who deals with the unexpected in his many-sided turn, was last week, with his song and patter and conjuring, at the Palace, Reading, where he became very popular. This week he has returned to the suburbs, meeting with good receptions nightly at the Putney Hippodrome.

Victor Nielo's wonderful talking birds, Cuckoo and Laura, are once again making a hit in London, after their most successful Continental tour. They have created quite a sensation at the South London and Palace, Tottenham. Laura proves quite a comedian in singing a song. They open on Monday next a return engagement at the Theatre Royal, Dublin.

Serene Nord, one of the most perfectly shaped nalads that ever graced the water, makes what was formerly known as a tank performance into a really pretty show. Under a rustic bridge across the back of the Coliseum stage is fixed a huge mirror. Below is the water, and the performance of this graceful, beautiful girl is reflected for the benefit of the occupants of the stalls. The staging is perfect, and the performance the prettiest that has been seen for many a year.

"Serene," we are given to understand, is a Californian girl, born on the coast, and took to the water from her childhood. She knots her luxurious fair hair before commencing her turn, and covers her head with a becoming bathing-cap. Dressed entirely in black, she dives in every conceivable way, and her backward somersault into the water and other even more difficult feats should be the talk of the town.

The Executive Committee of the M.H.A.R.A. has forwarded to Mrs. Hamer, late of the Golden Lion Hotel, Churchgate, Bolton, their certificate testifying to the excellent manner in which that lady has performed her duties during the past thirteen years. Members of the Association are informed that the Committee has appointed Mr. G. E. English, of the Rose of Allandale, Tynemouth, as agent in that town, as from Monday next.

The Committee held their 662nd meeting on Wednesday, with Mr. Fred Herbert in the chair. Mr. Chris. Van Bern took his seat for the first time since his election, and was welcomed by the Chairman on behalf of the Committee. It was decided to have a telephone installed in the Glasgow offices, and a new agency was appointed at the Globe Hotel, Wellingborough.

On the proposition of Lieut. Albini, seconded by Mr. Albert Voyce, it was unanimously decided to accept the proposed reduction of one penny per member on the insurance coupon, as against the suggested sliding scale rebate. The weekly statements showed an increase of 31 new members, and receipts £54 5s. On the request of the Music Hall Benevolent Institution, permission was given to use the name of the Association in connection with the forthcoming fête and gala.

Cissie Lawson, the clever wife of John, returns to town on Monday next, and will appear at Woolwich in four sketches nightly. Tried at Birmingham during the past week, this bill was found to answer admirably. Mrs. Lawson will be seen on June 20 at the Elephant and Castle Theatre, with a quadruple bill of sketches nightly. Miss Gertrude Kingston has promised to witness A Bride for a Living, with a view to including it in her season of one-act plays at the Little Theatre that is to be built on the site occupied for many years by Coutts's Bank.

Older music-hall performers will remember Miss Pollie Randall, a variety artist who reached her zenith as a burlesque actress and descriptive singer during the eighties, and was a contemporary with Jenny Hill, Nellie Farrell, Nelly Power, Bessie Bellwood, J. F. and Mrs. Brian, Bessie Bonehill, and other brilliant stars of the Victorian era. She was the daughter of the late Billy Randall, who used to sing "The Mole in the Shutter." As a pantomime artist the deceased lady played principal parts with the late Mrs. Sara Lane at the Britannia, a theatre at which both Marie Lloyd and Ada Reeve started to build up their reputations as comedy actresses.

Miss Randall, who in private life was Mrs. Walter Burnot, appeared in several sketches from that gentleman's pen, and was a great favourite at the Mogul, the Metropolitan, the Canterbury, and other London halls. In the days when flag songs were the vogue she had a most effective number in "The colour that won't wash out." One of her husband Mr. Walter Burnot's productions was a burlesque of The Silver King entitled The German Silvery King, produced at the Elephant and Castle. In this, however, she did not appear. She passed away on Monday at her residence, South Molton-road, Canning Town, at the age of fifty-seven.

Mr. C. Osborne Burgoyne presented at the Empress, Brixton, for the first time on Thursday evening, Les Idoldtres, a pantomimic ballet scena. The story, founded on an Indian legend, opens in an Indian temple, where the high priest and his attendants are at worship. The priest orders his attendants to bring in a young Hindoo, destined to be sacrificed on the altar of the idol. He is dragged in. A fierce struggle ensues for liberty, the high priest in turn being attacked by the Hindoo, who is, however, felled by the attendants and thrown on the altar. The priest prepares for the sacrifice, but on the approach of the White Princess retires with his attendants. The Princess and her followers bring floral offerings to the idol. On discovering the prostrate form of the unconscious Hindoo they revive him.

The scene grows gradually dark, and the priest is heard returning. The White Princess orders her followers to retire, and tells the Hindoo to resume his position on the altar. She hides. The priest with his attendants, bearing torches, stealthily enters, and seeing the body still on the altar, raises his knife to strike; but the White Princess intervenes, and forbids the sacrifice. She orders the priest to depart. The Hindoo expresses his gratitude to her for saving his life. Espinosa, who has brought out this very interesting ballet, shows by a number of finely executed soli that the best traditions of the art—of which his family have been distinguished exponents for generations—are safe in his keeping. There is infinite grace in his adagio, and the masterly execution of other pas stamp him as a performer of the highest grade. The troupe, under his direction, show great ability, and English girls, properly taught, have nothing to fear from their Continental rivals.

Mrs. Walter Gibsons and Miss Adney Payne, who were among the exhibitors at the Ladies' Kennel Association Show at the Botanic Gardens, Regent's Park, on Thursday, carried off a championship prize in the Greyhound (bitches) Class with Stray Park Senora.

Mr. Walter Keen and Mr. Alma Waller (Keen and Waller) were initiated into the mysteries of the Terriers' Order on Sunday last. The ceremony was performed by Terrier Ted Karno, P.W.T., assisted by Terrier Fred A. Hooper, V.T. Terrier Arthur Were officiated as organist. Mr. Harry Levaine has successfully passed the ballot for membership of the association.

A special general meeting of the Terriers' Association was held on Sunday last, and various alterations and improvements were made in the rules. Terriers Harry Bancroft, Fred Hughes, Percy Madden, and Rolando Martin were accorded a hearty welcome upon their reappearance in the kennel on Sunday. A record cash account was enthusiastically received. Tickets for the river outing are now ready, and may be obtained upon application to Arthur Were.

On behalf of the committee of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild, 61, New Oxford-street, W.C., Miss Melinda May, Secretary, begs most gratefully to thank the following:—Mrs. Eugene Stratton, very handsome Indian portière curtain, which has realised the sum of £13 10s. Nearly all this amount was collected by the late Miss Belle Elmore (Hon. Secretary). Mrs. Paul Courtney collected 2s. 6d.; Miss Maidie Scott, donation, 2s. 6d., per Mrs. George Smythson.

The committee ladies take this opportunity of thanking all concerned with their first Sunday concert, which took place on Sunday at the Metropolitan, by kind permission of Mr. Henri Gros, especially the artists who kindly came along and went on in place of those who promised but did not get as far as the Metropolitan. The programme was good, and so were the finances.

Bosanquet, who sailed home in the ss. Mauretania, arrived on Tuesday after a pleasing sojourn of fourteen months, happily distinguished all the time by conspicuous success. The great musical gifts of Bosanquet, it seems, immediately made good with the American public, and starting out with but a six weeks' engagement with William Morris, at the Orpheum, Boston, March 7, 1909, he was re-engaged again and again until his absence from home reached the period already stated. He now takes a well-earned rest. His bookings are in the hands of the De Frece Agency.

At the Royal Court Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames, on Monday will be produced a new spectacular fantasy entitled The Flowers that Bloom in the Spring, which, we are informed, is "a blend of pathos, comedy, brilliant fairy effects, charming music, and magnificent spectacle." Miss Daisie Wallace and Miss May Hart will appear in the principal parts, and will be supported by a full chorus and ballet. The music is composed and arranged by Kopski and Herbert Bernstein, and the beautiful dresses and properties have been fashioned by Mme. Countini et Cie.

In his new motor boat, specially built from the latest model by James Taylor of Chertsey, Neil Kenyon on Sunday created something like a record for the Thames. Accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Whit Cunliffe and Mr. Gordon Craig, he left "Pavilla," Penton Hook, at one o'clock, had late lunch at Windsor, tea at Maidenhead, got as far as Boulter's Lock, and reached home at ten o'clock. At Staines the party wasted quite forty minutes christening the craft "The Wee Boatie" (from The Islander) and five locks were taken each way. Neil must have let her rip, engineering the "Wee Boatie" himself except when relieved for a few minutes now and then by Mrs. Whit Cunliffe.

Quite a delightful surprise was provided by Mr. Walter Gibbons on Thursday afternoon last at the Holborn Empire in the inclusion of the Il Trovatore Trio in the current programme. Three Italian singers, each with a magnificent voice, took part in an excerpt—the Parapet Scene—from Il Trovatore. At first, it must be candidly stated, the audience did not take kindly to the singers. The costumes were decidedly suggestive of burlesque. But the tenor, as robust a one as has ever been heard on the variety stage, sang himself to success, and in his efforts to regain lost ground was nobly supported by the contralto and the baritone. The result was recall after recall.

We regret that we are unable to give the names of the clever and artistic people who respectively sustained the parts of Manrico, the troubadour, the sinister Conte Di Luna, and the vengeful Azucena. This trio has no need to garb in costume to make good. The vocal abilities of the lady and two gentlemen are sufficiently powerful to get them a hearing in any theatre wanting singing of the higher order. Simply presented as an evening dress turn the highly-trained voices of the Trio could not do otherwise than score on merit alone. Ashton's Royal Agency, we understand, is the sole business representative of the Il Trovatore Trio.

A daring attempt to relieve the Great Raymond of his collection of diamonds and other precious stones was made last week, when thieves by some means obtained access to the Royal Hippodrome, Salford, where Mr. Raymond was playing with his own company. On the Monday evening during the performance several of the dressing-rooms were robbed, and some of the artists lost their stock of valuables, including watches, rings, purses, and money.

From subsequent investigations it appears that a gang of thieves have lately made Manchester their headquarters, and incidentally the dressing-rooms of the principal theatres and music-halls in that town their field of operations. Raymond was determined to put a stop to these wholesale robberies, and the cleverest of Scotland Yrd detectives were quickly on the scene, the thieves being run to earth early in the week. One of them made a pertinent remark when arrested. He said: "I am sorry we got into the wrong room. Raymond was the man we were after. We just missed his diamonds. We should have got into his room easily if that Spanish valet of his had not been patrolling the hall the whole time." The Great Raymond has now secured the exclusive services of an expert man from Scotland Yard, whose duty it is to travel with the company, and keep Raymond in sight all the time.

At the Coliseum, Adolf Adam's ballet La Sylphide has been withdrawn, owing to the necessity of a brief visit to Paris by Mlle. Karsavina, who, it will be remembered, played the title-rôle. On Monday it was replaced by the "Warrior Dance" from Salambo, given with a great show of barbaric pomp and circumstance by M.M. Theodore Kosloff, Gotschitowsky, Tschoukoff, Tarasoff, Kotrowskai I., Gerber, Kotrowskaie II., whose art has generally been confined to the gentler and more emotional side. Now they rouse the house to enthusiasm by their exhibition of primitive energy and strenuousness to the clashing and weird strains of the composer Arens. An entrancing number is "La Nuit," which is full of poetic imagery; and the introduction of "Le Chat and La Chatte," from Tschaikowsky's "Casse Noisette" suite, enables the audience to enjoy a very sprightly number.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

MR. L. V. ARTHUR (husband of, and producer for, Miss Marie Cahill, the famous American musical comedy artist) has, in collaboration with M. Silveo Hein, the well-known composer, arranged to produce their forthcoming musical play in the States this autumn, and the publishing house of Messrs. T. B. Harms and Francis, Day, and Hunter, of New York, will publish the work. Messrs. Arthur and Hein, who are enjoying a trip through Europe, are at present located in London, and are arranging with foremost English authors connected with the great London house of Messrs. Francis and Day (who will handle the work on this side of the Atlantic) for suitable lyrics.

THE great attractions at the Palace, Cardiff, during the week has been Miss Florrie Forde, and her renowned songs, "Flanagan" and "'Tis a faded picture," have been found greatly to the liking of the habitués of the fine house. That the song "Flanagan" has taken the great place occupied by its predecessor "Has anybody here seen Kelly?" (which emanated from the same writers—Will Letters and C. W. Murphy) is proved by that indisputable barometer of public taste known as "trade orders." It has already "set fair" with a vengeance so far as Miss Florrie Forde's current songs are concerned. Messrs. Francis and Day are the publishers, and they are expediting through the press the popular lady's forthcoming number by H. F. Greenfield, "Has anyone found a girl?"

AFTER his well-deserved holiday in the South of France, Mr. G. H. Elliott, the chocolate-coloured coon, has returned to work like a giant refreshed, and at the Empire, Newcastle-on-Tyne, has been evoking that applause which is only vouchsafed to artists of the absolute first rank. His new item "Mister owl" is a veritable triumph of melody and artistry, and Messrs. Francis and Day have in the item a number worthy to rank with any of the previous great successes of this favourite of the classes and the masses.

THE good people of Ealing and Hammersmith have evidently all taken shares in Mr. Fred Elton's "rubber boom" song "Tahiti," judging by the way they have given vent to the rousing chorus of Barnes, Weston, and M. Scott, nightly at either house at each performance. For the next four weeks Mr. Elton—who was on Thursday walking by the Vaudeville Club lopsided with "confirmations," thanks to Will Oliver's "strenuosity"—will inoculate the provinces with the "Tahiti" virus, after which he is due at the Tivoli and other London halls.

THE first edition of Miss Ada Reeve's new humorous song, "And just then he fell out of bed," was rapidly depleted when it became known on Friday last that it had been issued to the trade by Messrs. Francis and Day. The gifted artist, who has been crowding houses during the week at the Empire, Cardiff, and who on Monday opens at Sheffield, is one of the keenest judges of humorous songs existing, and H. F. Greenfield is to be congratulated on his number being accepted by one who, as actress and singer, is a fixed star at the zenith.

MISS VESTA TILLEY'S new song, "It isn't the Isle of Man any longer," from the practised pens of Wolters David and C. W. Murphy, has been secured by Mr. David Day's firm for immediate publication. It fits Miss Tilley—like the wonderful triumphs of the tailor's art with which she ever makes mere man envious—to perfection.

MR. C. R. WHITTLE has had written him, by G. A. Stevens and Charles Ridgwell, a chorus number of rare excellence with the title of "I'll go where you all go." The singer, whose comic song "Come and have a drink with me," has once again been exciting the risibility of Mr. C. Blyth-Pratt's audiences at the Oxford, has placed the new ditty with the same firm that published the older one—Messrs. Francis and Day, to wit.

THE numerous lady artists who last season at coast resorts were so successful with Miss Eileen Douglas's admired numbers, "Rosie's young man" and "The musical comedy girl," will be pleased to hear that the author and composer (Fred W. Leigh and Henry E. Pether) have published with Messrs. Francis and Day yet another song of Miss Douglas's, which has been issued under the title of "Miss Lollipop."

MR. ARTHUR LENNARD, who at Walham Green has been going great guns with Messrs. Francis and Day's humorous song, "Pass along, please!" has arranged to publish with the same house his new song entitled "How would you like to be a baby?" E. W. Rogers, who is responsible for the number, bears a name that is synonymous always with the best goods only.

JOHN P. HARRINGTON and John Neat have again been found hand and glove, the one with a lyric of great excellence and the other with a melody that will be much in evidence by and by, and the joint production, under the title of "Give my love to Lou," will be published by Messrs. Francis and Day.

A NEW and striking "serenade," the theme of which is beautiful in the extreme, will shortly be published by Messrs. Francis and Day, and its advent will be awaited with impatience by connoisseurs of music. It has been composed by Edward Délont.

MR. HARRY CARLTON, who is away on a short tour, has just fitted S. W. Wyndham with two new numbers, entitled "Treacle tart" and "Bubbles"; also Jack Marks with two numbers, "What would you do without me?" and "It's a policeman." Pierrots should secure his song, written in conjunction with Jerry Sullivan, entitled "Let's have a day with the ladies." It is published by Francis and Day, and is an ideal song for summer concert parties, &c.

MISS ZONA VEVEY, on Thursday evening at Kilburn produced with enormous success a new song entitled "Ma Mary." It is written and composed by Harry Brown (of "Is everybody happy?" fame), and Max Erard, who accompanies the artist in her scena. The item, which will be featured by the lady throughout America, has been acquired by Messrs. Francis and Day for immediate publication.

THOSE well-known writers, Sax Rohmer and T. W. Thurban have been congratulated on the success of their new song for Little Tich, entitled "The gas inspector," and the comedian has in readiness two other numbers from the same pens, entitled respectively "The Steeplejack" and "Tally Ho! Tally Ho! I am the tally man!" Miss Mabel Berra also has acquired a Rohmer-Thurban item entitled "The White Hussar."

THAT vivacious lady, Miss Peggy Pryde, has been causing heartiest laughter at the New Cross Empire with her sprightly rendering of "Our Mary Ann," an account of a wedding in humble life, which is most humorous in idea and rendition. Charles Collins, who is responsible for the infectious melody of Miss Pryde's song, has, in conjunction with Harry Castling, written for his brother, Mr. George Collins, a big success in "Oh! cock-a-doodle-do!"

(Continued on page 22.)

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

HOLLOWAY EMPIRE.

Under Mr. Bertie Ralland's management this high-class variety theatre continues on its smooth and prosperous career, keeping a place in the esteem of local pleasure-seekers, and by the liberality of the weekly change of programme always providing its patrons with an enjoyable entertainment. Those by whom punctuality is regarded as a virtue have the pleasure of listening to the preliminary selection performed by the orchestra under Mr. Fred Camp's skilful guidance, and this week early comers are treated to the overture, The Bohemian Girl, played with excellent technique, and the accuracy of the accompaniments is also a highly appreciated feature of the evening's entertainment. The popular Glenroy Troupe of characteristic dancers cause wonderment at their faultless regularity, their unerring rhythm of step, and are applauded with a heartiness and enthusiasm that are well deserved. Music and mirth are pleasantly combined in the turn of the Two Anartos, and the two popular parleying patterers Will and Sam Poluski, with their resourceful wit and individuality, render themselves immense favourites. Another successful turn in the bill is Kitty Wager, who has two melodious songs in "When the church bells ring" and "I'll never meet another girl like you."

A unique and daring cycling exhibition is contributed by Staig's Steeplejack Cyclists, several tricks being performed in a perpendicular position inside a wooden cage. Bert Weston arouses laughter and applause with his amusing patter and song, "If I were M.P.," and Fred Poplar's song, "The Smoking Concert," is also well received. Hilda Jacobsen sings in her daintiest fashion, "Health, wealth, and the girl we love" and "Come, sing to me" meeting with enthusiastic approval. Chas. T. Aldrich is proving a great attraction. He is one of the most versatile artists on the boards. The first part of his entertainment is of the protean order, and his marvellous quick changing, introducing impressions of David Garrick, Colonel Cody, Fagin the Jew, Cinquevalli, &c., cause nothing but wonderment. Next as a tramp juggler, and finally as "Wun Lung Foo" (Chinese magician), he presents a screaming burlesque of modern magicians and conjurers. The programme is brought to a close with a series of up-to-date pictures, including the recently-run Derby.

BOW PALACE.

Sharing the top of the bill is Will H. Fox ("Paddiwhiski"), with his trick piano-playing—an exhibition that is as familiar as it is clever and interesting. It goes without saying that the whole of his performance is greatly appreciated and loudly applauded. Irene Meldon, a dainty little artist, becomingly gowned, has a good voice and a taking style. In both of her songs—the better of which is "Moon dear"—she shows much genuine ability, and dances really well. Irene certainly has a future.

Lottie Watts and company present the sketch Troubles with the Tram-car, the comedy in which is chiefly centred round Barney, a somewhat lively mule. Jessie Wilton has rather a good number in "Where's the lady?" the humour of which is nicely brought out. Dan Hendy is a nimble comedian with a clever, lackadaisical acrobatic dance.

Edith Lewis and company present the dramatic sketch Avenged, which, although closely following the usual stereotyped lines, nevertheless proves most exciting and interesting. Mr. Harry Seymour as Captain Von Richter gives all the necessary expression of villainy; Mr. Frederic Monti is the typical hero; whilst the pathetic rôle of Vera is capably enacted by Miss Edith Lewis. A bright, vivacious comedienne is Monie Mine, who shows much charm of manner in her song "Believe you? Why, of course."

The Brien McCullough company have a most humorous sketch in Two Runaway Girls, which is full of amusing situations. The sketch is well staged and acted, and proves a most popular item. Mr. Teddy Denham as John Quex is genuinely funny. Arthur Clifton, billed as the unique swell comedian, sings "Seven till nine" and "Be careful." The front of the house is in the capable hands of manager Gordon Harman, who so ably attends to visitors' comfort.

WALTHAMSTOW PALACE.

During this week Mr. Pierre Cohen's house certainly fully sustains the modern designation of a "variety theatre," the programme being made up of a capitally-blended assortment of interesting and amusing items. An excellent impression is at once made by the Simms, two young ladies who sing sweetly and dance with an unusual combination of grace and vigour. Hal Fonie sustains his reputation as a "light swell comedian" most admirably, his two songs, especially "My night out to-night," being greatly relished by audiences not slow to mark their approbation in the usual and most acceptable manner.

One of the hits of the week is made by Reg. Beauchamp, who makes his audiences simply roar with laughter over his original humour as a grotesque elderly female—one of the most screamingly funny turns seen at the Walthamstow Palace for a very long time. The Donatos are a couple of acrobats who, unfortunately in some ways, can only boast of a couple of legs between them, but this strange disqualification in no ways prevents them performing the most daring acts as if they had each been possessed of what Captain Absolute describes as "the usual number of limbs." The manner in which they bound over each other's heads and anon over long rows of chairs is a sight that must be seen to be believed. Harry Brown keeps up his reputation as a coloured comedian.

The laughter-compelling Warsaw Brothers appear successfully in a musical-comedy act. Their turn might be improved, to some tastes, if they were to follow the famous advice: cut some of the preliminary "cackle" and come to the—instruments. Their playing is excellent. An artist whom we fancy we have seen here before is Harry Grey, the Australian Nugget, whose quite up-to-date aeroplane entrance and subsequent song are much relished. But it is when he assumes (as far as the front goes) the habiliments of a buxom lady and burlesques her attempts at concert-singing in "Queen of the Earth" that the fun becomes fast and furious. The applause that follows the laughter is richly deserved. Miss Kitty Colyer looks pretty, sings agreeably, and dances very neatly indeed.

Man and the Devil, written and produced by Mr. W. J. Mackay, is played by Terence S. Macmanus's company. This strong sketch, divided into five tableaux, is somewhat suggestive of our old friend The Sorrows of Satan. The great Enemy of Mankind is again seen working to purchase the soul of his victim, who, having married the daughter of a rich man against her father's wishes, finds himself reduced to the point of starvation in a Bloomsbury garret, his work as an artist having failed to appeal to the purses of rich patrons. The Devil appears to the distracted painter, and offers him untold gold, some of which he throws down on the table, "on account." Of course, the unfortunate husband yields to the temptation, stabs his father-in-law to the heart, and, in a tableau representing his satanic majesty in true Mephistophelean scarlet, himself dies in terms of the compact. But an instantaneous change back to the Bloomsbury garret reveals the fact that the whole thing has been a hideous dream, begotten of worry and starvation; the stony-hearted father enters at the right moment, repentant and forgiving, bringing a roll of bank-notes to buy the picture his son-in-law has so long attempted to sell, and all ends happily. There is some comic relief supplied by a typical lodging-house "slavey," true to the core, who acts as the good fairy. This part is very well played by the actress engaged, but all the characters are admirably filled. Unfortunately, no cast is given on the programme, so we cannot do more than award general praise. Mr. W. J. Mackay himself plays the Devil in evening dress, and the hero, heroine, and the heavy father are all good. The sketch is admirably staged, and is received with breathless interest and prolonged cheers.

EALING HIPPODROME.

Mr. (abbreviating) Phil Ray tops the bill here this week, and, as usual, is furnished with witticisms which are all ben trovato, and a capital song of "When men would rule," but would retire in favour of the ladies when the cold bath comes in. The popular comedian's attempts to amuse are successful to the echo, and the whole house is soon in a roar. Synchronous dancing and song find excellent exponents in the Dick and Dorothy Trio. Their song, "Hearts are light," is a lightsome, lilting melody that carries one along, and is a good introduction to the clever footing that follows. The Dorothy of the trio is not the least expert of the three, and her presence lends an additional charm to a thoroughly good turn.

Lions at the Zoo find a truthful interpreter in Gilbert Girard, and this "phenomenal animal imitator" is equally at home with Master Doggie, whilst his spoof clarinet playing is a masterpiece of deception. Impersonations are all the vogue nowadays, and little Jenny Alexander, who comes along, hits off the characteristics of Misses Victoria Monks, Vesta Victoria, and the one and only Marie Lloyd with success. Comely Miss Queenie Essex sings of how "Man thinks he is lord of creation," but Miss Queenie soon shows that he is thoroughly mistaken, and amply proves it in the refrain, "Why, poor old man, what a silly old jay you are." The songstress was more ambitious in her second number, "Make glad the night," and overcame some difficult vocalisation.

Mr. Fred Elton has presented his "On Board an Ocean Liner" before at Ealing, and his breezy songs, which seem to carry the scent of the sea in every line, are always welcome, his finale at the piano, "The buzzy wuzzy huzzys" is a complete screamer, and fairly wins the house. The W. T. Thompson Trio exploit an idea that has many exponents—the henpecked husband. It loses nothing of its vim in Watch the Chalk. Wifely tyranny—and brandy—accentuated by the assistance of his father, convert Brutus Meek into a raging lion, and as the chalk lines accumulate on the black board he becomes absolutely ferocious, much to the amusement of the audience and the horror of his astonished better-half. Pretty Miss Hilda Lonsdale sings and dances with a charm which is all her own, and her song, "Mr. Lazy Man, good-bye," reaches the top note of excellence.

Toplitsky, or The End of the World, hardly reaches the rank of "the laughing hit of the day," as billed. Toplitsky was a philosopher of a hundred years ago, and Abraham Levy (Mr. Frank Bernard) is one of his followers. His son Sam (Mr. F. H. Dale) is in love with Esther (Miss Edith Mariyn). The old man opposes the alliance—the girl is poor, and Toplitsky has laid it down as an axiom that "only money counts." The philosopher has promised the end of the world for 1999, but by falsifying the date the father is led to believe that the event will immediately occur, and under the stress of the coming smash-up of everything gives his consent to the marriage. The part of Esther is but a small one. That of Abraham Levy has some fine points, and Sam, the son, has some excellent opportunities, but we had always supposed that Mephistopheles was endowed with a moustache.

PUTNEY HIPPODROME

At this time of the year one is accustomed to some slight shrinking in the attendance at indoor places of amusement, but apparently this popular house is proof against the vagaries of our much-abused climate, for on the occasion of a recent visit a numerous and enthusiastic audience was found to be assembled. While such discrimination and enterprise are exercised in the preparation of the bill of fare, the genial manager, Mr. Geo. H. White, need have no cause to fear either heat-waves or thunderbolts.

The leading feature of this week's interesting programme is what is described as a sensational romantic military episode, The Last Command, presented by Fred Maxwell and a most capable little body of players. Without exception all the six characters are admirably played, and the scenery and effects are beyond criticism. The story of the triumph of a soldier's sense of honour and stern adherence to duty over the love of an only son, even to the point of seeing him shot, is simply and dramatically told, and the climax is worked up to naturally. Included in the cast are Messrs. Fred Maxwell, F. G. Shreeve, Fred Bailey, Scott Kennedy, J. Darnton, and Miss Lois du Cane.

Ernie Mayne, "the simple one," is in great form. He gets all his points without an effort, and is worth seeing if only for the sake of his capacious smile. Miss Hanid Alexander, at the piano, is much appreciated. A turn that creates as much enthusiasm as any is that provided by Beattie and Babs, juvenile entertainers. They are extremely clever dancers, and the grotesque version of "Il Bacio" by the younger of the two showed her to be a very finished comedienne. The singing and dancing of the Six Lancashire Lasses goes with a swing from start to finish, their very evident enjoyment of their work being infectious. Goodfellow and Gregson, comedy artists, are in high favour. Their humour is largely of the quaint and unexpected order, and their sallies get home effectively. Other items in the programme are Roland Bottomley in a sporting song, Ambrose Thorne, comic, Chris. van Bern, a particularly versatile entertainer, whose amusing fund of patter makes him one of the most welcome turns in the bill, and Lily Black, comedienne. The Bioscope shows some realistic Derby Day films, including one of the winner.

THE GRANVILLE.

There is always a well diversified programme at this cosy little home of variety in Walham Green, which accounts for the staunch patronage so loyally given to the popular manager, Mr. Robert W. Duce. A most acceptable turn is proffered by that amusing Scottish pattering comedian Mr. Sammy Shields, who is responsible for much hearty laughter, and his simple little song, "The Old Tam o' Shanter," is a tuneful ditty. Mr. Chas. Lewis has a novel and original ventriloquial act, with a most lifelike figure. Most of his gags are smart and up to date, and the concluding cabinet act is decidedly neat. Mr. H. R. Friscary performs some marvellous and skilful feats in the way of top-hat manipulating, and his reception was most cordial, as was that of Miss Molly Devon, a pleasing Irish comedienne.

That fine descriptive singer and clever comedian Arthur Lennard is always sure of a hearty welcome for his taking songs, and he has two very good numbers, in "Let's wait and see the pictures," and a clever characteristic policeman study, "Pass Along." His refined turn has all the qualities that make for the uplifting of the variety stage. It is a pleasure indeed to listen to an entertainer whose performance is invariably on the highest level of artistry. Miss Marie Collins, full of vivacity, as usual, pleased all with her pretty songs, of which "Im afraid of you" was the favourite item. Dalvere and Wallace have a merry act of laughter and song, entitled By the Sideboard, which caught on immediately. The Brothers Werds are a pair of American eccentrics, with many smart tricks and falls, and altogether their act is a most clever one. The Great Northern troupe are billed as the premier international and speciality dancers of the world, and, judging by their nimble footing of several dances, the description is a very apt one. The evening's entertainment is brought to a close with some very clear films on the cinematograph, and the orchestra, under the bâton of Mr. Frank Thomas, perform their selections admirably.

ILFORD HIPPODROME.

Despite the advent of summer conditions the attendances here show no signs of diminishing. Mr. G. Wells, the popular manager, has another "strong" array of talent this week, the programme being cordially appreciated. On Monday evening a truly large audience evinced the utmost enthusiasm over an entirely new production of Mr. Fred Karno's—the pantomimical burlesque The Annual Sports at Duddington, a screamingly funny representation of village gaiety and sport. One of Mr. Karno's best companies is seen, and the fun and amusement created stamp all the members of the company as clever and thoroughly trained artists.

The Kennedy Girls, the smartest troupe of dancers and singers at present on the "halls," made a decided "hit," their excellent singing and dainty dancing being heartily applauded. A novel act was the ju-jitsu dance, which was loudly encored. The troupe, twelve in number, includes Miss Lily Russell, the lady champion ju-jitsu exponent. The Spanish Goldini Troupe of carpet-swinging acrobats and jugglers were a phenomenal success, and the juvenile members of the troupe displayed marked cleverness in somersaulting. An elaborate electrical apparatus gives splendid and novel scenic effects during the performance of this renowned troupe. Ted Gowan, comedian, pays a welcome return visit with new songs as funny and as droll as ever. "My mother said" and "Sing a song of sixpence" keep the audience in a merry mood, and naturally there are calls for more.

The song-scena by the Four Garricks is well received, their singing being especially sweet and tuneful, and considerable favour and appreciation were given by the audience. Sterling and Love, in their discord and harmony act, provide much humour, delightful singing, and clever music on several instruments. Essman, the juggling waiter, was a clever and skilful turn, and performed numerous feats of juggling which were quite astounding. The sweet harmonising of the Sisters Draycott came in for the heartiest applause, a special feature being their singing of "Dear heart," which the audience loudly applauded. Some clever balancing is accomplished by the Michel Brothers, who are very dexterous with both head and hand. J. W. Rickaby, burlesque character comedian, is well received, and Miss Grace Langley, a young and dainty comedienne, has an excellent song called "Spooning." On Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope a splendid reproduction of the Derby is given, together with other interesting films.

FRANCIS, DAY & HUNTER,

THE WORLD'S SONG PROVIDERS.

SONGS YOU WILL HEAR AT THE SEASIDE.

THE CHORUS SONG OF THE YEAR.

FLANAGAN.

SUNG WITH ENORMOUS SUCCESS BY MISS FLORRIE FORDE.

MISTER OWL.
G. H. ELLIOTT'S LATEST & GREATEST SUCCESS.

DOWN IN JUNGLETOWN.
The "CHANTECLER" HIT of "HULLO—LONDON!"

ON THE SILVERY SANDS.
Sung with Enormous Success by MISS MADGE TEMPLE

I'VE GOT RINGS ON MY FINGERS.
THE RAGE OF ENGLAND AND AMERICA.

THERE'S ANOTHER FELLOW LOOKS LIKE ME
GEORGE LASHWOOD'S LATEST HIT.

PUT ON YOUR TATA, LITTLE GIRLIE.
MISS CLARICE MAYNE.

IF I HAD THE WORLD TO GIVE YOU.

THE BALLAD HIT OF THE YEAR.

DAVE CARTER'S GREATEST SUCCESS.

HE'S A NAUGHTY, NAUGHTY BOY.
CHARLES WHITTLE'S LATEST HIT.

HI! HI! MISTER McKIE.
MISS ELLA RETFORD.

YOU WANT A SWEETHEART.
MISS HELEN TRIX.

WE DID ENJOY OURSELVES IN LONDON.
A Great Chorus Song sung by GUS GARRICK and the TWO ARNATOS.

'TIS A FADED PICTURE.
MISS FLORRIE FORDE.

MY SOUTHERN ROSE.
A Novelty Chorus Ballad sung by MISS MAUD COURTNEY and MISS ANNA CHANDLER.

SAM!

SUNG BY MISS HELEN TRIX.

THE Dame Song for the Coming Pantomimes.

FRANCIS, DAY & HUNTER, 142, Charing Cross Rd., London, W.C.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

(Continued from page 21.)

Feldman and Co.'s ballad, "Beautiful garden of roses," has a most delightful exponent in Miss Annie Schuberth, at the Hippodrome, Bishop Auckland, this week, and plaudits loud and long have rewarded the fair cantatrice for her exquisite rendering of this already popular Anglo-American "winner."

Miss Katie Marsh, at the Chelsea Palace this week, has been received with acclamation in her demure and arch rendering of Miss Clare Kummer's song, "I wonder if it's true," which is nightly applauded to the echo in every house.

Miss Joan Deering, at the Palace, Warrington, has been making a pronounced success with Messrs. Damerell, Lane, and Neat's song of sentiment, "In the mirror of your eyes," which Messrs. B. Feldman and Co. are publishing, and this promises to be one of the most successful ballads of the season.

Messrs. B. Feldman and Co. have just acquired for immediate publication a new Irish ballad entitled "Ireland, the land of the Shamrock," by Gilbert Wells and Fred Elton, which certainly promises to be a success.

Miss Gertie Gitana sang Mellor, Lawrance and Gifford's lovely ballad, "You were coming through the corn, Molly, dear," at the Empire, Sheffield, on Monday night, for her fourth number, and held her audience simply spellbound, being recalled no less than three times at the finish. This great winner in a Feldman publication.

Miss May Otto, who is working Feldman's Irish number, "The green, green ribbon," at the County Rink, Truro, with the greatest possible success, will shortly feature yet another Feldman number. "Betty, I'm pining."

Messrs. Grapho and Jackson, writing Feldman and Co., record the phenomenal success of all their pierrot troupes with the Arthur-street firm's songs, particularly "Beautiful garden of roses," which is a positive furore everywhere.

Miss Frances Leonard, of the Savoyards, records the great success of the troupe at Eel Pie Island in "Dear little sunbonnet lady," "Little girl from nowhere," and "Alpine Dress," all three of which are Feldman publications.

Miss Lottie Lennox, at the Hippodrome, Darlington, this week, is the recipient of unstinted applause from a host of admirers in every house what time she sweetly sings Feldman and Co.'s successful publication, "Put on your old plaid shawl."

Mr. Gordon Stretton, the new coon, is wise in his generation in securing numbers from the foremost writers of the day, as managements take great cognisance by whom artists are equipped with material. Among Mr. Stretton's latest acquisitions are "I wonder why I'm still a bachelor coon?" by Tom Meller and Harry Gifford, and "Carrie Brown," by Leonard Cooke and John Neat.

COLLINS'S, ISLINGTON, N.

A bill of all-round excellence has been presented at "the house on the Green" this week, in which some novelties are starred, and some old friends make a welcome reappearance. In the latter category must be included Bob Hutt, who is once more seen in his boisterously merry sketch Welcome Home. This musical comedy knockabout trifle is played very vigorously by Mr. Hutt and his hard-working company, and, although on very late in the programme, holds the audience to the last. Mr. Hutt, as of yore, takes the troubles of the unfortunate bridegroom on his own shoulders with the greatest enthusiasm, and, to the unbounded delight of the audience, finds himself covered with glory when the curtain falls on his untiring efforts.

Albert Morrow is a magician new to London. His "spirit-hand" trick is excellent, his style smart, his appearance good, and his illusions for the most part refreshingly original. Salt Bush Bill supplies an Australian stock-whip act after the manner of Fred Lindsay. Bill gives a show remarkable for the strength and skill displayed. A pair of extremely talented musicians are the juvenile Sisters Fantazzi, of whom we ought to see a great deal presently. Hall and Wilson, very clever trick cyclists, present their "Man and Motor" act.

Mr. Lester R. Stuart's sketch, The Awakening of Celestia, is a good little story of a sculptor falling in love with the life-size female figure he is working on. The statue comes to life and sings Tosti's "Good-bye" very well. The other incidents should be revised, and a pleasanter ending substituted.

We see Vowles and Bryan in an excellent song and patter act. Addie Adell gets plenty of applause for her ballad-singing; as also does Walter Wallace for his low-comedy numbers. We get chorus songs from Rose Gower, comedy from Walsh and Tanner, and Trevor and Ware; and Recalled, an Indian hunting episode, is well played by Micklin Williams.

A clever turn is that given by La Petite Rosa; and the same can be written of Chris. Harland's "Enchanted Grotto," an electrical transformation. The Daintons, Grace Hunt, and Winnie Melville are also to be seen and heard in this week's long bill at Collins's.

Miss Johanna Redmond, daughter of Mr. John Redmond, M.P., has written a comedy sketch which is to be produced at a London music hall.

Mr. Alec Knowles, who has been Press representative at the Alhambra for the last three years, has retired from that position, which he has held in all for five years.

Mr. Joseph Midgley and company have rented the Albert Theatre, Brighouse, for a few weeks to produce variety entertainments on the twice nightly plan.

Lords Justices Vaughan Williams, Fletcher Moulton, and Buckley concluded on Monday the hearing of an appeal brought by the defendants in the case of Edelsten v. H. B. Marinelli, Ltd. Both parties were theatrical agents. The alleged libel of which the plaintiff complained was contained in a letter written by the defendants to Mr. Frank Macnaghten, dated December, 1908.

When the action was tried before Mr. Justice Ridley and a special jury, the judge ruled that the letter containing the alleged libel was not written on a privileged occasion, and the jury awarded the plaintiff £100. After hearing counsel, Lord Justice Vaughan Williams said that in this case the court thought there must be a new trial. The defendants would have the costs of the appeal, the costs of the first action to abide the result of the new trial. Mr. Lush, K.C., and Mr. Storry Deans appeared for the appellant; Mr. Montagu Shearman, K.C., and Mr. Martin O'Connor were for the respondents. Solicitors: For the defendants, Messrs. Stanley, Woodhouse, and Hedderwick; for the plaintiff, Messrs. W. B. Blackwell and Co.

"Cinematograph Bill, 1909." Price 1d., by post 2d. Address, The Publisher, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

"THE FOREST OF HAPPY DREAMS."

An African Fantasy, in One Act, by Edgar Wallace, Produced at the Camden Hippodrome, on Monday, June 6.

The Man .....Mr. Lionel Atwill
The Commissioner .....Mr. Henry Bagge
The Jockey .....Mr. Hugh Wakefield
The Financier .....Mr. Olaf Hytten
The Headman .....Mr. Edward Sorley
The Girl .....Miss Doris Evelyn

This sketch, which Mr. Henry Bagge is producing at the Camden this week, is from the able pen of Mr. Edgar Wallace, the well-known journalist and explorer, so Mr. Wallace writes of what he knows, and it is safe to say that no more convincing and human sketch has been seen for some time past. The scene is laid in the Ituri Forest, where we find, amid beautiful surroundings, the Englishman stricken down with fever with only his faithful Headman to look after him. He has made a muddle of life in England, and has gone out to get away from any white man. The Headman, by the aid of those wonderful signs that makes news travel so quickly among the tribes, has called the Commissioner to his aid, and on his arrival he sees how ill the Englishman is and gives him medicine and leaves him for the night, promising to fetch him to more comfortable quarters the next day. But during the night the patient has a happy dream, in which everything goes aright, and if only it had occurred in reality he would not have been in his present position. Thus, with happiness in his mind, he passes away in the "Forest of Happy Dreams," and, as his Headman observes philosophically, has gone to that place where there is no trouble and where peace and rest are for all. It is difficult to give any idea of the beautiful manner in which the story is told and the telling effect it produces: suffice it to say it held the audience firmly, and created a wonderful impression.

Mr. Lionel Atwill gave a most finished performance of the Englishman, his depiction of the man with fever on him being indeed most vivid; while Mr. Henry Bagge as the kind-hearted Commissioner played with much force. Mr. Edward Sorley presented a fine picture of the Headman, and the other characters were capably filled. The scene of the forest is a most artistic piece of mounting, and the various lighting effects are excellent. Mr. Herman Finck is responsible for the incidental music, which is in every way appropriate. We are certain to see this little play in a West End Theatre before long, where it cannot fail to make a big success.

The latest quotations of music-hall shares are as follows:—Alhambra, 1½; Empire (15s. paid), 1⅞; Empire (10s. paid), 1½; London Pavilion (5), 3½; London Pavilion Pref. (5), 5½; Metropolitan, ⅞; Moss' Empires (5), 4½; Oxford (5), 7; Palace Theatre (9s. paid), 1; Tivoli, New (5), 6¼.

MUSIC HALL CELEBRITIES.

MISS DOROTHY GRAHAME.

The career of Miss Dorothy Grahame started in a pantomime at the West London Theatre at the early age of twelve, when she played a minor part and danced a sailor's hornpipe. She is able to say with reasonable pride that she has had no tuition whatever, in any shape or form. After that she joined a touring company, and played many and various small parts, till what she regarded as the event of her life happened—she was engaged to play principal boy in a touring company at the age of fifteen. She made a success, and got plenty of engagements to follow, to play Alice Fitzwarren and other principal parts in pantomimes and plays on tour.

[Photo by Martin.

MISS DOROTHY GRAHAME.

After another year or so Miss Grahame decided to give up touring, and made a firm decision to obtain an engagement in London. She wrote to Mr. Dion Boucicault, who gave her the desired chance, and she played in Peter Pan for two seasons and in several other plays at the Duke of York's. She also went with the company to Paris, and played at the Vaudeville there. While in the French capital she saw "La Danse des Apaches," and thought it would be a good idea for the music halls in London, so she taught herself the dance, came back, and engaged a partner, to whom she imparted the necessary instruction. She obtained an introduction to Mr. Frank Glenister, who gave her the one real chance of her life—offered her a starring engagement immediately at the London Pavilion. There she remained for one month, from Feb. 15, 1909, scoring a pronounced success. Thanks to Mr. Glenister's start on the halls she speedily got booked on the Gibbons circuit, where she danced "La Danse des Apaches" everywhere with great success. Recently Miss Grahame put on a new act, with Paul Armand, her partner in the "Apache," entitled Chauffeur and Maid, including a new French dance, called "La Danse Tabarin," arranged by Charles Raymond.

"I love the music halls," says Miss Grahame, "and intend to stay with them if they will have me. If I meet with as many charming friends and managers as I have hitherto, I shall be amply satisfied."

Hans and Lux, the argumentative college chums, after eighteen weeks' run, start on the Stoll tour for thirty weeks.

Mr. Harry Rickards, who arrived in Melbourne from Sydney on May 2, has left for England in search of fresh novelties for his various Australian theatres.

Mr. Arthur Roberts has accepted from Mr. C. Claxton-Turner a new farcical sketch for immediate production, of which the title will be announced later.

F. Mozzetto, the well-known juggler, who tops the bill this week at the King's Theatre, Edinburgh, returns to town on June 27, opening on the Gibbons' circuit.

Miss Della Ray, an artist with a charming figure, made good last week on her first visit to the Empire, Edmonton, where, in consequence of her success, she holds a contract from Mr. Harry Bawn to reappear in five months time.

Miss Vera Saunders, a newcomer to variety, is meeting with gratifying success this week at the Metropolitan. This clever little singer and dancer will be seen next week at Margate, afterwards returning to town to produce a new scena, entitled Brides.

An addition to the magnificent programme at the Empire next week will be made by the inclusion of Valazzi, who gained great popularity on his last visit to this theatre with his juggling and balancing act. The Revue and Mlle. Kyasht's "Dance Idylls" are in every way delightful and still drawing enormous audiences.

FELDMAN'S

PIERROT PLUMS.

SOMEWHERE.

I DO LIKE TO BE BESIDE THE SEASIDE.
THE PRETTY LITTLE GIRL FROM NOWHERE.
IT'S THE ALPINE DRESS YOU'RE WEARING.
MOLLY O'MORGAN.
BEAUTIFUL GARDEN OF ROSES.
OH! I MUST GO HOME TO-NIGHT.
COME BY THE DRUM IN THE BIG BRASS BAND.
IN THE ARMY.
COME OVER THE GARDEN WALL.
I'M LONGING FOR SOMEONE TO LOVE ME.
MOON, MOON, MOON.
PUT ON YOUR OLD PLAID SHAWL.
SHE'S A GIRL UP NORTH.
I CAN'T KEEP MY EYES OFF THE GIRLS.
I'M LONGING FOR ONE SIGHT OF YOU.
MY SWEET GARDEN QUEEN.
SWEET LITTLE SUN-BONNET LADY.
GEORGIE TOOK ME WALKING IN THE PARK.
IT'S THE GREEN, GREEN RIBBON.
MARIE LOUISE.
PLAYING THE GAME IN THE WEST.
I PUT ON MY COAT AND WENT HOME.

AND MANY OTHERS.

B. FELDMAN & CO.,

2 & 3, Arthur St., New Oxford St., W.C.

Tel. Address: "HUMFRIV, LONDON." Telephone: 4447 GERRARD.

"THE PRICE OF A SOUL."

A Sketch, in One Scene, by Miss Maud Hildyard and Mr. Russell Vaun, Produced at the Shoreditch Olympia on Monday, May 30.

Richard Lovelace .....Mr. Wallis Clark
Jack Arnot .....Mr. Warburton Gamble
Nitocris .....Miss Maud Hildyard

Miss Maud Hildyard has secured a sketch which proved a success at its initial performance, and should continue for a long while to come to hold its own. The weird and exciting story is quite different from that of the general run of sketches. Richard Lovelace, a rising surgeon, is unfortunately a victim of the absinthe habit, and at the time the story opens he is feeling the effects of his folly. His scientific studies have included Ancient Egypt, and having secured the body of an Egyptian dancer, Nitocris, he reads her history, and learns that while she lived she possessed a certain drug which gave the appearance of death and at the same time preserved the body in its natural state for almost all time. He also reads that a certain antidote will restore life, and with this end in view he experiments upon the body in his possession. Jack Arnot, who is staying with the doctor, does all within his power to discourage this action, but without avail, and when he sees that his efforts are useless, he retires for the night, leaving the doctor with his absinthe and his strange fancies.

As the clock chimes the midnight hour we see the figure of Nitocris gradually assume the appearance of life. She slowly moves her arms and slower still moves forward. The doctor's mad wish has been accomplished, and encouraged by his success and overcome by the beauty of his subject, he falls in love with her. It is then that Nitocris says that her love is not for him unless he will kill Jack Arnot so that she may become possessed of his soul. The doctor's weakened brain forces him to agree to her wishes, and in a fit of frenzy he stabs his friend, who, with the Egyptian dancer, disappears from view. Filled with remorse at the death of his friend, Lovelace flies again to his source of comfort, the absinthe. In the midst of his mad scene Jack Arnot enters the room, and when the doctor realises that he has been the victim of delusions brought on by the deadly drug habit, he casts it aside for ever.

Mr. Wallis Clark plays with considerable power as Richard Lovelace, and his acting reaches a high standard of excellence in his mad scene. Mr. C. Warburton Gamble enacts the rôle of Jack Arnot in a most capable manner; and much praise is due to Miss Maud Hildyard for her splendid impersonation of the Egyptian dancer, Nitocris. The sketch was received with energetic applause.

MUSIC HALL LADIES' GUILD CONCERT.

The ministering angels of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild—untiring in their efforts to increase the funds of a charity most deserving and admirably administered—gave an evening concert in aid of the distressed poor of the variety profession last Sunday, June 5, at the Metropolitan, the popular hall in the Edgware-road, by kind permission of Mr. Henri Gros and his co-directors. The fine hall was well filled, and doubtless many of the higher-priced unoccupied seats were paid for. Although one or two of the stars in the programme failed to appear, the entertainment provided proved very enjoyable, and the selections of the orchestra, augmented by members of the Amalgamated Musicians' Union, under the direction of Angelo Asher, were greatly appreciated.

Quite early in the programme Miss Irene Rose secured abundant applause for her excellent rendering of "The Gift," and she gave as an encore the ballad "Dear Heart"; and the fine voice of that accomplished and favourite musical comedy artist, Miss Madge Temple, was also loudly acclaimed. A reception reserved only for old favourites was that accorded the well-known comedian, Mr. Charles Coborn, who paid an eloquent tribute to the personality and popularity of Edward the Peacemaker in his well-rendered song, "That's why the British loved the King." Mr. Harcourt Mills, character mimic, won well-deserved plaudits for his faithful impersonations of Mr. Martin Harvey as Sydney Carton in The Only Way and the late Sir Henry Irving as Matthias in The Bells, the clever young actor also giving an admirable study of senility as the old grandfather in the scene of the death of Little Nell, from "The Old Curiosity Shop."

The Two Brilliants, decidedly expert lady xylophonists, were heard with evident pleasure in familiar selections; and Mr. Leonard, the accomplished violinist of the Norman and Leonard Trio, contributed a finely played solo. Mr. Charles R. Whittle, the popular comedian, was rapturously applauded for his quietly comic singing of two humorous numbers, "Can you make room for a little one?" and "She's a London lass is Lucy," the balcony boys insisting on joining in the choruses; and the clever juggling of Mr. Frank Hartley was keenly watched and acclaimed at its true worth. Mr. Walter Barrett, baritone, secured approbation for his excellent renderings of that particularly effective song "The Trumpeter" and a patriotic number "Long Live the King"; and Miss Mimi De Frece also vocalised acceptably. Interesting animated photography, supplied by Messrs. Griffiths and Ruffell's, included some splendid natural history pictures, the Scriptural subjects and The Blue Bird also affording much enjoyment.

MUSIC HALL HOME FUND.

Collected by Harry Wright, 15s.

Walter Lacey	10	Chas. Williams	1
Harry Wright	2	J. R. Cain	1
Nellie Gannon	1

Collected by Henry R. Brown, 16s

R. Cyril Keene	2	H. C. Young	1
Henry R. Brown	2	Early Worm	1
F. Barber	1	J. Neat	1
M. Thorgan	1	S. H. Catt	1
A. F. Peale	1	L. Peatt	1
J. W. Tye	1	Dora Chivington	1
D. Warwick	1	Down South	1

Miss Minnie Kaufmann hurt her ankle during the second house performance at the Rotherham Hippodrome on Monday, and was out of the bill for the rest of the week. Curiously enough, on the same evening during the first house another artist met with a slight accident.

Bersaglieri's Band, with their picturesque uniform eloquent of the beautiful Tyrol, is a fine combination of wood, wind, and brass instrumentalists, numbering twenty. They play novel selections and the glockenspiel, xylophonic, and chime bell effects enable them to give both national colour and great variety to their extensive répertoire. The address of the bandmaster is 74, Florence-road, Brighton.

The principal new-comer at the London Hippodrome next week is Chung Ling Soo, the famous magician, who has just returned from a successful tour of Australia. His series of illusions includes "The Living Target," an arrow being apparently shot through the body of his lady assistant, Suee Seen, into the target beyond; "The Magic Cauldron," into which, when "on the boil," various ingredients are thrown, birds and animals eventually emerging therefrom, and finally Miss Suee Seen; "The Crystal Lamp Enchantment," showing the materialisation of a human form from space; and a pretty illusion, "The Birth of a Pearl."

RINKING GOSSIP.

John Davidson Delights Large Crowds.

THERE was a large attendance at the Pontardawe Palace Skating Rink, when John Davidson gave what was undoubtedly the finest exhibition of roller skating ever witnessed in the district. Possessed of fine physique, says our correspondent, lithe and agile, and greatly assited by the excellence of the rink, which has the largest skating surface in South Wales, he manifestly delighted the audience with his exposition of trick and fancy skating, many of the feats being his own invention. The secret of much of the undoubted success of the Palace Rink lies in the never-failing courtesy and excellent management of Mr. L. W. Francis, the proprietor, and Mr. Phorn, the manager, The attendance is a tribute to both the popularity of the rink and the great reputation which Mr. Davideon has made for himself in South Wales.

Clarke and Lilian at Ammanford.

FULL houses testified to the appreciation of Clarke and Lillian's expert performance on skates at the Brynderwiyn Rink, Ammanford, last week. The clever couple gave a fine programme of figure, fancy, and trick skating.

McLallen and Carson at Dundee.

MCLELLAN AND CARSON, America's premier team of rink roller skaters, are appearing at the King's Theatre and Hippodrome this week, where they have done very well. Their scena entitled The Awakening of Toyland is a gorgeous and artistic piece of stage setting, while the graceful and easy fashion in which they go through their various evolutions further adds to the attractiveness of a unique and exceptionally clever act.

Dolly Mitchell at Reading.

THE Reading Central Skating Rink, despite the almost tropical heat, remains refreshingly cool. Mr. Wood-Winstanley has had a great attraction this week in Dolly Mitchell, the champion lady trick skater, who has daily delighted patrons with her wonderfully artistic and graceful evolutions. The Vastern-road Rink was closed down on Saturday last. Manager Frank Pearce has gone out to Brussels to join Mr. Frank Bostock.

Monohan again at Sutton.

THE Great Monohan paid his third visit to the Sutton Rink this season for the closing week. His performances attracted large crowds, for he is a great favourite in the pretty Surrey town, and on the closing night he surpassed himself. The applause he got was tremendous. The evening finished up with a grand confetti battle, in which the whole of the patrons took part. Mr. Chas. W. Thompson, the managing director, was warmly congratulated by all, and during the evening was presented with a tennis racket by the gentlemen and patrons, whilst Mrs. Chas. W. Thompson was the recipient of a bouquet.

"Damnable Skating Rinks."

THE annual meetings of the Pembrokeshire Baptist Association, representing some 12,000 church members, were held at Camrose this week. During the proceedings the Rev. Mr. Hughes (St. Dogmarls) relieved the monotony of the proceedings by stating that Glamorganshire and Monmouthshire "suffered from the craze of the damnable skating rink."

Can it be True?

AN attendant at a skating-rink told his Honour Judge Bray, at the Shoreditch County Court, that he worked on a commission of a penny for every pair of skates he fixed on, and earned 25s. a week. Ladies require three times more attention than men.

Really a Blessing.

COMPLAINTS have been heard at South Shields about the skating rink, figure 8 railway, and other buildings, recently erected, having shut out the view of the sea from Ocean Road and Pier Approach. It is quite true that this has been their effect, but there are, it seems, compensating advantages. The erections form a very useful protection against north-easterly winds to the South Marine Park. Not many public pleasure grounds of the kind are to be found in so exposed a situation, and the trees especially have suffered greatly in the winter and early spring from the cruel icy blasts that come across the North Sea. Perhaps with the protection they are now afforded they may flourish more luxuriantly.

Manager Mansel Chaired.

THE Central Skating Rink at Bath closed for the summer last Saturday, when several hundreds of rinkers bade farewell until September to the popular manager, Mr. Mansel, who was chaired round the rink and called upon for a speech.

Roller Skating at Cardiff.

THE Central Roller Rink, on the Hayes, which has had a most successful season, closed for the summer last Saturday. The Olympia Rink, Queen-street, which is under the efficient management of Mr. A. Tetlow, will continue to keep open. During the continuance of the hot weather the first consideration of devotees of roller-skating in choosing their rink will be the adequacy of the ventilation, and the management of the Olympia have taken time by the forelock in this respect, the excellent system of ventilation assuring a copious supply of cool, fresh air.

Employés Strike at Chippenham.

FOR some time past Messrs. Skinner and Co., contractors, of Chippenham, have been busily engaged in the erection of a skating rink in Station Hill. About twenty men have been employed; of these ten were labourers and the remainder were artisans. The labourers struck for more wages last week. The building is a brick structure, and the walls have reached a good height. The labourers consider the task they are engaged in is a hard one. For this work 4d. an hour has been paid. The master said he could get plenty more men to do the work. As a result of this the labourers ceased to work, and walked away from the building.

Clacton Rink.

DESPITE the summer-like weather, the popularity of this rink is maintained. Special exhibitions are being given this week to large audiences of trick and fancy skating by Mr. Bradshaw and Miss Effie Ives. At intervals in the skating session a powerful programme of pictures is portrayed by Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope.

Darlington Skating Rink.

THE New Olympia Skating Rink, Darlington, which is at present closed for renovation purposes, is to be reopened during the third week in July. Next season the proprietors purpose introducing new features.

Business Brisk in Dundee.

BUSINESS continues very brisk at the Olympia Skating Palace, Dundee, where this week the boy champion of Great Britain creates wonderment by his masterly exhibition on the rollers. He is only eleven years of age, and the graceful and easy motions characteristic of his skating are delightful to witness. The picture displays are a popular feature of this rink, which is a favourite haunt of professionals visiting Dundee.

Improvements at Hampstead.

THE first annual dinner of the Hampstead Palace Roller Skating Club (affiliated to the National Skating Association), of which the Mayor of Hampstead (Alderman Ernest Todd, J.P.) is president, and Mr. J. S. Fletcher, M.P., and Mr. Frank G. Howard vice-presidents, took place at the Stag Hotel, Fleet-road, last week. Mr. Gerald Leslie, the energetic and popular general manager of the rink in Cressy-road, the headquarters of the club, who presided, said that when the members visited the rink next September they would see great changes. The rink was to be lengthened and widened, and the management was also working out a scheme of special decoration on the lines of the White City. There is to be a new café and lounge, and the rink will be made even more attractive than before.

Olympia (Hanley) Skating Club.

THE following are the officials of the North Staffordshire Roller Skating Club, whose headquarters are at the Olympia, Hanley: President, Mr. C. J. Elphinstone; vice-presidents, Messrs. T. Godwin, J. Penningston, P. Collins, R. Stewart; joint captains, Messrs. J. P. Hewitt and G. Shutt; committee, Messrs. J. Crosby, J. Llewellyn, R. Stevenson, N. Stevenson, R. Lumsdale, R. Elmitt, A. Miller, A. P. Moult, and F. Hinley. The hon. secretary is Mr. W. Bonfield, 35, Cauldon-road, Shelton, who will be pleased to give information to intending members. This club is undoubtedly one of the best in the Potteries district, and all artists who delight in rinking should be on the roll.

Hockey in Liverpool.

SKATING-RINKS, which have become so popular throughout the North of England, have initiated a game—hockey on skates—which has undoubtedly "caught on" in the Liverpool district. Apart from the challenge cup for Liverpool and the neighbourhood, which has been won by a Widnes organisation, the first county match in which representatives of Lancashire and Cheshire have participated has recently been decided. If the cheese county has for so many years taken a back seat in respect to cricket and football, it can at least claim pre-eminence as to the latest inter-county competition. The skate hockey rinkers of Lancashire and Cheshire played a drawn game at the Pudsey-street Rink, but the replay at New Brighton resulted in an easy victory for Cheshire by four goals to nil. It is interesting to know that the captain of the Cheshire side, J. Fare—a perfect marvel on the skates—was largely instrumental in securing the victory of his side, for whom he scored a couple of goals. By the way, young Fare is a son of Mr. John Fare, the well-known director of the Liverpool Football Club.

Another Rink for Margate.

THE Margate Corporation has approved plans for the erection of a skating rink in Northdown Road and a cinematograph hall in Fort Road.

Scarborough's Grand Rink.

RINKING enthusiasts are still finding their way to the Grand Rink in goodly numbers. The comfortable lounge is freely used, while the many visitors using the rink remark upon the splendid view of the bay afforded from the many windows of the building.

Southampton Reopening Date.

THE rinking season at the Southampton Skating Rink closes to-night (Saturday). The rink reopens on Aug. 31.

Wandsworth's Rinking Garden.

THE latest development in the skating world is the establishment of an open-air "rinking garden" at East Hill, Wandsworth. The "garden" has been constructed on most original lines. Encircling the skating surface are picturesque clumps of flowers, rustic summerhouses, garden seats, and shady trees. Even the surrounding palisade is coloured a greenish hue, whilst in one corner a cool awning screens a number of daintily-set refreshment tables. At night additional charm is added to the scene by a number of coloured lights, which stretch like a fairy network far above the heads of the gliding skaters.

Skating Rink for Wellington.

A LOCAL company is being formed to provide a skating rink for Wellington and district. The site is in a meadow on the left of Tan Bank, within two minutes' walk from the railway station. The movement has so far advanced that plans for a new building have already been prepared.

Presentation at West Bromwich.

THERE was an interesting gathering at the West Bromwich Skating Rink on Saturday on the occasion of the close of the rinking club's season. To mark their appreciation of the courtesy and kindliness of Mr. J. A. Hewitt, the popular floor manager, the members presented him with a very handsome marble timepiece, bearing a suitable inscription. The presentation was made by Mrs. Dundas Manley, who spoke of the interest Mr. Hewitt took in the club members and the patrons of the rink generally. Mr. Hewitt suitably acknowledged the gift.

Weston-super-Mare Fairyland.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE possesses a trio of rinks—the Birnbeck on the Old Pier, the Victoria on the Boulevard, and the Atlantic on the front. The Birnbeck is now making a fair bid for success, as the proprietors have appointed Mr. Court, late of the Empress Hall, Earl's Court, to take charge, and under his capable management a new era of success can be assured. This rink is undoubtedly the largest of the three. Next in size is the excellent rink on the Boulevard, the Victoria, which can rightly be described as "a rink within a rink," for, in addition to the large hall, on which an excellent floor is laid, there is a fine covered way about 6ft. wide all round the hall, which is also laid with rock maple, and around which the couples go, skating part of the way through a conservatory with a large grape vine trailing its branches all along the roof, and then through a covered passage, which with a little expense could be made a veritable fairyland, back into another part of the same conservatory. This is a unique arrangement, and is very popular with the patrons. Mr. Race is the manager of this well-appointed rink. The last and smallest is the Atlantic, where a very capable floor manager in the person of Mr. Percy H. Holmshaw presides, and receives a large patronage from the residents. Conspicuous on the rink is tiny Noel Charlton, just turned four, and this mite exhibits many of the tricks indulged in by adult experts, such as skating on two wheels, spread eagle, jumping, &c.

THE Skating Rink, Stourbridge, is now converted into a Winter Gardens, and the Royal Entertainers are giving their Pierrot performance there, supported by that talented local artist Harry Pearson, twice daily at 3 and 8, to good audiences. The manager, Mr. Harry J. Wharton, deserves praise for the able manner in which he has altered the rink.

"GOING TO THE BALL."

A Comedy Sketch Duologue, by Mr. J. Willoughby Woodward, Produced at the New Theatre, Oxford, on Monday, June 6.

The duologue opens with a scene between a middle-class couple preparing to go to a ball. The husband, who arrives home late from town and has forgotten several necessary purchases, which causes endless trouble, gets the usual cold, badly-prepared meal, and sends it away untouched. Then the dressing of the husband taxes the temper of himself and wife. The studs are lost, the tie is mislaid (he has it on all the time), and numberless other worries cause considerable amusement, though the incident of hunting for a threepenny piece under the table falls rather flat. To crown all, when both are quite ready, and after considerable searching for the tickets, they find that the event has been postponed. The piece is diverting, and both the author and Miss Beatrice Whitney worked well to bring out the points of the piece.

THE PHILLIPS AIRSHIP.

MUSIC HALL ACT THAT MAY RULE THE WORLD.

Mr. Thomas E. Raymond Phillips, whose remarkable invention of a dirigible balloon controlled by wireless transmission of electric power has set London wondering and speculating, is now in the sixth week of his engagement at the London Hippodrome. In the ten years' history of the famous Cranbourn-street theatre there have been many wonderful, remarkable, and unique "shows" seen there, but it is quite safe to say no better booking was ever made by either Sir Edward Moss or Mr. Oswald Stoll than the engagement of Mr. Phillips to demonstrate the powers of his appalling invention. The word "appalling" is used by us in its most emphatic sense, for it has been left to the enterprise of our keenest variety theatre magnate to exploit as a variety "turn" what might well turn out to be the deadliest warship the ingenuity of man has ever devised.

The word "apathy" could be adopted as the watchword, concerning most things, of a section of the British public, but even if this is so we have a right to expect better from those whose duty it is to be for ever on the look-out for inventions that make for the supremacy of Britain among the nations. Yet such is the apathy and indifference of the British War Office on the subject of its own work that six weeks have slipped by and not a single official has approached Mr. Phillips with a view to securing his marvellous invention—an invention that could carry death and destruction into any land—for the exclusive use of this country.

[Photo by Campbell Gray, Ltd.

MR. T. E. RAYMOND PHILLIPS.
(The Inventor of the Controlled Dirigible Balloon.)

But—and it is a very big But, indeed—the representatives of other countries have not been asleep, and no less than four officials, agents of Germany, Russia, the United States, and even little Italy, have waited on Mr. Phillips at the Strand Palace Hotel, where he is staying, and inquired his terms for an exclusive sale.

Learning these facts, The Era representative called on Mr. Phillips to ascertain what he intended to do.

"Do," said the great inventor, just a little bitterly, "well, you see, I'm an Englishman, and it goes against the grain to sell an invention that can be used with such deadly effect against our own land to any power that might be seeking such a weapon to effect our overthrow. I might die by my own invention in that case, you know. Other inventors have met their end that way, but I don't want to follow suit. I absolutely can't do it. And I've told them so.

[Photo by Campbell Gray, Ltd.

MISS RAY.
(Wearing Dress Illuminated by Wireless Electric Waves.)

"Fortunately we have still some business men left in this country, and to my great surprise I have found your music hall managers the keenest in the commercial world. So it comes about that it pays me very well indeed to become a variety artist, until such times as the British War Office recognises the merits and deadly possibilities of a wireless controlled aerial warship that can be directed from afar in the devastation of the enemy's cities.

"Thanks to Mr. Stoll I can make a good deal of money whilst exploiting my invention and demonstrating its powers to thousands in all parts of the kingdom.

"During my engagement at the London Hippodrome the great building has been packed with interested spectators, and the keenness of all can be gauged from the fact that when 'Last Week' was billed ten days or so ago shoals of letters reached Cranbourn Mansions clamouring for a week's extension, and in the midst of a very big bill I was once more strongly featured. That alone I regard as a very great compliment."

Undoubtedly Mr. Phillips' invention is capable of being toured round the world as a first-class music-hall attraction. The inventor quite properly guards its secrets very jealously, so there is very little danger of them being stolen whilst the British Government is making up its mind to pay for the brains of a patriotic Englishman. In the meantime he is in the happy position—not common to inventors—of not suffering a pecuniary loss in consequence.

Mr. Phillips at a very early age started inventing. When a very small boy indeed he installed in his father's garden an elaborate set of signals by which he controlled the movements of his brothers as they wheeled their barrows through the garden paths. It is not recorded whether the brothers liked this bossing or not, but young Raymond was the predominant partner, and they recognised the fact with the best grace possible. At his first situation, in the office of a tramway company, young Phillips spent more time in the fitting shop than at his desk. Later he had charge of the river steamers that plied between Oxford and Henley. All the time he was never tired of acquiring a practical knowledge of mechanics, and was constantly testing new ideas. When but nineteen he became deputy manager to a large engineering firm, and two years later was promoted to be its manager.

The invention of an exceptionally clever system of railway signalling which has since been installed on London's underground railways was his next coup. Since then Mr. Phillips has devoted the whole of his time to the perfection of the contrivance by which to control dirigible balloons, with what success has been amply demonstrated at the London Hippodrome.

Mr. Phillips may be said to be absolutely bubbling over with ideas.

"Since I have been at the Hippodrome," he remarked, I have been so struck with the possibility of adapting engineering to music hall entertainments that I have not only invented several novelties which in due course will be presented to the public, but I shall give my earnest attention to the subject very much in future.

"For instance, I am giving the illumination of ballets by wireless my serious consideration. As you know, at the Hippodrome I am assisted by a young lady whose dress is lighted by a wireless system. This is the first time such a thing has been done on the stage. I have another system for a ballet, with weird and startling effects. It will prove a great novelty and gives practically endless variety and scope to the producer. It will effect a great saving in the dress bill, and will give results that can be obtained by no other means.

"Again, I have a wireless controlled orchestra—a system which can be applied to three ordinary pianos, from which all the results got from an ordinary theatre orchestra can be obtained. It is possible for me to go into an auditorium with a wireless transmitter, and, without any connection between the transmitter and the stage or any portion of the theatre, for me to completely control my orchestra, which may be placed in any portion of the building you please. Of course, the three pianos are connected with the main control or receiving cabinet by the wireless waves from the transmitter, and so operates the whole thing.

"My future plans are to go out to the United States, and from thence take a Continental tour, giving demonstrations just as I have done at the Hippodrome. But first of all I shall be seen at some of the best variety theatres in the provinces."

It is permissible to ask: Will Britain one day in her extremity be glad to avail herself of the most remarkable invention of our times, and which first sought and obtained recognition on the music-hall stage?

THE L.C.C. AND AMUSEMENTS.

The London County Council resumed its sittings after the Whitsun recess on Tuesday, Mr. Whitaker Thompson (chairman) presiding.

ADJOURNED RECOMMENDATIONS.

The agenda paper included several adjourned recommendations of the Theatres and Music Halls Committee as to a drawing submitted by Messrs. F. Matcham and Co., showing a permanent cinematograph chamber proposed to be constructed in the dress circle saloon at the Alexandra Theatre, Stoke Newington-road; also a drawing submitted by Mr. G. Duckworth, showing a cinematograph hall proposed to be erected in Lower Clapton-road. The agenda also contained the recommendation of the Theatres Committee with reference to music and dancing and stage-play licences, and an amendment to be proposed by Mr. George Alexander. The Council spent seven hours in discussing the Education estimates, and the recommendations were again adjourned.

DRAWINGS APPROVED.

The Theatres Committee reported that they had considered drawings with regard to the undermentioned premises. The arrangements shown on the drawings appeared to be satisfactory, and the applicants have been informed that, subject to certain conditions being observed, the Council has no objection thereto: Bijou Picture Theatre, Orpheus-street, Camberwell, construction of an additional entrance, staff lavatory, &c.; Holland Park Skating Rink, Holland Park-avenue, erection of two electrically illuminated outside signs; Kilburn Picture Palace, Belsize-road, alterations to the entrance vestibule and abolition of the orchestra; Wandsworth Central Skating Rink, East-hill, Wandsworth, formation of an open-air rink.

The Committee also reported that they had considered an application by Messrs. Andrews and Peascod for a certificate under section 12 of the Metropolis Management and Building Acts Amendment Act, 1878, in respect of a cinematograph hall proposed to be erected in St. Stephen's-road, Bow. The arrangements shown on the drawings submitted appeared to be satisfactory, subject to certain conditions being complied with, and Messrs. Andrews and Peascod have been informed that, provided the works shown on the drawings be commenced within six months from May 13, 1910, the Council will be prepared to grant a certificate for the building upon the premises being satisfactorily completed.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

A smart and attractive concert party known as "The Dandies" are occupying the boards of Percy Honri's new al fresco Pavilion Theatre in the Park grounds. Their songs, duets, and burlesque sketches, rendered with excellent care and judgment, win flattering marks of appreciation. Miss Josephine Gordon, a young lady soprano and comedienne, amongst whose numbers were "There you are, that's a girl" and "Love is meant to make us glad," at once made her mark. Miss Ruby Lingard, who possesses a good contralto voice, gave a taste of her quality in the rendition of her chosen numbers, which included "'Tis the morn." Mr. Stephen Fitzgerald is a good all-round comedian, and gives a mirthful rendering of "She reads the London papers" and others of an equally humorous character. Mr. Harold Perry, comedian, and Mr. Anthony Gordon, baritone, "The fighting man," both sustained their reputation. Mr. Charles Mathews, solo pianist and accompanist, in both capacities earns praise. The concerted numbers, "How to get on in the world," "What animal would you like to be?" and "Our audience," kept patrons in a constant state of delight.

"SCENE PAINTERS OF THE PAST." By George Tweddell. Price 6d. Address: The Publisher, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

"A GREAT CONSPIRACY."

Dramatic Sketch, by Chris Davis, Produced for the First Time at the Shoreditch Olympia on Monday, June 6.

Dick Steel ..... MR. FRED EUSTACE
John Oliver ..... MR. ROBERT AYRTON
Mozarin ..... MR. PASCOE BIOLETTI
Nazar ..... MR. HOGGAN ARMADALE
Mr. Williams ..... MR. CONRAD CLERKE
Lady Bellairs ..... MRS. MARY EUSTACE

This sketch, produced by Mr. Fred Eustace and his powerful company, should prove one of their greatest successes. It is exciting to a high degree, has plenty of action, and abounds in dramatic situations. As the story opens Nazar and Count Mozarin, two diplomatic representatives of what is termed the Asian Empire, are discovered in the lobby of the Hotel Cecil. They are much troubled at the loss of certain State papers which have been stolen from their Embassy. These papers concern a great conspiracy against the peace of the European countries and the world at large. They imagine at first that the news has not reached the public ear, but are awakened at last to the fact that their secret is no longer in the safe keeping of a chosen few.

When the dead body of a Lascar is recovered from the Thames with a dagger through his heart, Dick Steel, a care-for-nothing but important member of the Press, becomes suspicious, and Nazar and Mozarin, finding that he knows their secret, determine to become possessed of the priceless documents at all hazards. Lady Bellairs, the wife of the British Minister for foreign affairs, has the keeping of the papers, and Mozarin, who knows this, tries by force to make her give them up; but fortunately he is frustrated in his evil designs by Dick, who arrives upon the scene just in time and takes the papers himself. Not knowing their true value, he places them with John Oliver, the manager of the Daily Wire. Later on we see how Nazar, by means of lies and a forged note, endeavours to obtain the documents, but is again foiled by the timely entrance of Dick, who snatches the papers from his grasp. Finding that force is of no avail, Nazar tries bribery, but Dick is proof against such acts, and in spite of being afterwards attacked by desperate odds, he manages to get the Asian papers to press, leaving Nazar and Mozarin to play their last and most desperate card. This is to wreck the machine on which the papers are to be printed, but although the works are fired and partly blown down by explosives, the papers are eventually published, and so ends what is rightly termed A Great Conspiracy.

Mr. Fred Eustace is to be congratulated upon his very fine performance as Dick Steel. His acting is distinctly powerful and is impressive to a high degree. Mr. Robert Ayrton, too, is decidedly good as John Oliver, the manager of the Daily Wire. The Mozarin of Mr. Pasco Bioletti is a splendid piece of work. His make-up is admirable and his acting full of strength. Mr. Hoggan Armadale is exceedingly well placed as Nazar, whilst Mrs. Mary Eustace plays with pathetic interest and undoubted skill as Lady Bellairs. The scenes employed are wonderful specimens of their kind, and the staging of the piece is adequately attended to. The initial performance of the sketch was rewarded with loud and continued applause, showing clearly that a long and prosperous run may be expected.

OUR contemporary, The National Magazine, reproduced in its May issue and commented on in an article headed "Music-hall Songs," over the initials "A. B.," an advertisement purporting to come "from one of the many 'song factories' of London," and which runs as follows: "To music-hall artists.—Songs of every description (words and music) written while you wait. Sole rights, with complete set of band parts, 7s. 6d. Satisfaction guaranteed. We have made more stars than any other firm. Our staff includes all the best song-writers living. Messrs. —— and ——."

THE writer avers that these "'song mills' grind out a goodly portion of that assonance and doggerel innuendo which constitutes the chief stock-in-trade of quite a number of the alleged comic singers of the present day," and he continues by saying of the comic and patriotic songs of the present time: "Whilst the conspicuous features of many of the former are their vulgar innuendos, their ill-turned phrases, their pointless wit, and their doggerel rhythm, the latter are chiefly remarkable for their lack of 'ginger,' both as regards words and music and the almost total absence of that 'jingoism' and patriotic fire which dominated the efforts of such writers as Dibdin and the late Henry Russell."

THE article concludes by opining that "one can hardly expect even a modicum of intellect or refinement in concoctions which, although they are guaranteed to 'pulverise the public' and transform the obscure artist into a veritable 'star,' are procurable for the modest investment of seven shillings and sixpence," and the writer is of opinion that the L.C.C. should adopt similar measures to those of the Lord Chamberlain and make it a point of law that all music-hall songs "be submitted to an accredited and duly qualified representative for approval before exploitation," in which vent "they would not only remove the primary cause of the present outcry and elevate the general tone of vaudeville performances, but would render signal service to all authors and artists of standing."

A COPY of "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

WANTED.

Booking Management

—:: FOR ::—

Country Halls

by Manager at present booking London hall, with thorough knowledge of every branch of the business. Able to get first-class companies at lowest possible figures, present position being greatly conducive to obtaining the artists at proper prices.

Bills showing class of Companies for last 12 months can be seen.

Interview at any time by appointment.

Apply Box 7784, "The Era" Office.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD

Mitcham Fair.

At the Mitcham Parish Council, held at the Town Hall on Tuesday last, Mr. F. H. Pedgrift moved—"That this Council, desiring to bring about a peaceful settlement of the Mitcham Fair question, resolves to approach all parties concerned with a view to co-operative action for the removal of Mitcham Fair from the Fair Green to a more suitable site, provided the same can be accomplished without prejudice to the continuance of the Fair and the ancient rights pertaining thereto."

Mr. Pedgrift reviewed the interests involved. He said they consisted of the people of Mitcham who desired the continuance of the fair, the owners of the franchise who held the rights to collect tolls from the showmen attending the fair, the Conservators, who decide questions over the common lands and whose favour would have to be secured when the question of the removal of the fair had reached a further stage, and, lastly, the ancient rights and privileges of the showmen themselves. Mr. Pedgrift suggested that the question should be thrashed out thoroughly in committee and a report of the deliberations be submitted to the full Parish Council at an early date. Councillor Mizen said that the question could be more fully dealt with in committee, and proposed an amendment that the question be referred to the Commons Committee, which was carried. It is to be hoped that a solution of the vexed fair question will be decided at an early date with satisfaction to all parties concerned.

Fairs Ahead.

The fairs ahead for next week are:—Tetney, on the Great Northern; Thorne (Yorks), on the Great Central and North-Eastern; Lambert Castle and Kidderminster, on the Great Western; Taunton, on the Great Western and Midland; Astwith, on the Great Central; Dore and Totley, on the Midland; Falmouth, on the Great Western; Hardstaff, on the Great Central; Mexborough, on the Great Central, Great Northern, and Midland; Staveley, on the Midland; Abingdon, on the Great Western; Alyth, on the Caledonian; Largs, on the Glasgow and South-Western; Selkirk, on the North British; Ferndale, on the Taff Vale; Llangefeloch and Usk, on the Great Western Railways.

Showground Music on Hampstead Heath.

Relying upon a byelaw of the London County Council, a resident of the Heath, Hampstead, brought an action against Mr. Harry Cox, roundabout proprietor and amusement caterer, to abate an alleged annoyance from the playing of music at the Vale of Health, Hampstead Heath. Mr. Cox has held the tenancy of a small amusement-ground in the vale for twenty-four years.

This enterprise has met with universal acceptance, and has supplied an obvious public want in amusing the numerous school and other pleasure parties that frequent the heath in the summer months. The complaint was that the organ-music annoyed the residents in the houses and villa residences bordering the Vale of Health. It was proved in defence that the organ was the smallest of its kind used on roundabouts; that Mr. Cox had shown anxiety and readiness to meet the objections of his neighbours in every possible way—by taking out the drum and cymbals of the original instrument, and by deadening the sound with glass-lined shutters. Everything, save closing down the organ, had been done. Mr. Cox's readiness to do all in his power to mitigate the music to those who felt annoyed was so obvious that the Bench in the end only imposed a small fine of half-a-crown.

The presiding magistrate asked Mr. Cox to endeavour, if possible, to still further tone down the volume of sound, and to meet as far as possible the reasonable wishes of the residents.

Some Important Points of the Case.

It is an old byelaw, and one that would not have been sanctioned if proposed any time since the showmen, through their society, began to oppose the passing of unreasonable byelaws. It has, however, one great flaw in its construction—a flaw that practically makes it inoperative. It is a byelaw against steam or mechanically-driven organs. Mr. Harry Cox has only to put a man at the handle, and the byelaw cannot touch him. This was admitted in the discussion of the counsel and the Bench during the hearing of the case. Mr. Cox was prosecuted, not for annoying certain sensitive people with music, but for annoying them, according to the byelaw, with mechanically-driven music. Put a man at the handle, and the offence ceases. Mr. Cox, after twenty-four years' faithful service of amusement to his patrons on the heath, will, we feel sure, strive to ensure the continuance of public favour and to win his neighbours' goodwill by doing what the magistrate suggested—so moderate the sound of his organ that, whilst it will enliven his amusements for the people, it will not provoke the somewhat over-sensitive ears of his neighbours.

The People Must Have Amusement.

We also venture a word of advice or plea for tolerance to the residents. The alleged annoyance is during the summer season only—say, from June to September. The fortunate few who enjoy the delights of the people's heath (for Hampstead belongs to all London) all the year round must not begrudge its occasional use by the toilers from the slums, by the school children of the great north-east of London. Swings and roundabouts and no music would be deadly dull—in fact, some kind of music, whether automatic or manual, must be played. The musically-supersensitive who occupy houses on the fringe of the heath must try and bear, for sweet charity's sake, with the necessary music when the toilers come to the heath for relaxation and recreation. Indeed, this appeal is only necessary for a very few people. It is to that few only we speak. That this is so is borne out by the singular fact that Mr. Harry Cox has carried on his business for twenty-four years, and this is the first time anyone has tried to put into operation the singularly inept byelaw against steam-played music. Mr. Cox has won the esteem and respect of the whole community of Hampstead, and is, of course, a resident and large ratepayer.

Newport (Salop) Fair.

P. Collins, with his famous wonderland show, roundabouts, and other novelties, has been at Newport (Salop) for the annual pleasure fair.

In a humorous article in the Shropshire dialect that refers to the fair, and appeared in last Saturday's issue of the Newport Advertiser, we find the following:—"The shows wanner open when we got into High-street, but we enjoyt lucking at the picters on the outside on them. At the seem time, the motor-cars wan running full swing, and the hobby horses wan galloping as fast as 'lectricity could mek them. Ya seen Pat Collins had sent his Fun Fair to Newport, and—well, by gum, Georgie lad, that theear motor-car thing knockt the Christian Pallace at London, as I wunst seed a football match at, into a cockt hat. And all the chaps and the lasses as had charge on it and on the other shows, wan that clean, and civil, and respectable, that I hope as how I'll see them at a good many May fairs at Newport in the 'ears to come. The wust on it wan that the rain begun to come down early on in the afternoon, and we had to tek shelter wheear we could, for me and Cousin Phaybey hadner brung any umbrellas win us. But, bless yer heart, Newport folk dunner care for rain; they like it, the seem as the ducks done."

Job and Phœbe on the Brooklyn Cake Walk.

"'What bin that, Jobby lad?'

"I luckt up, and theear wan a wooden arch win some reading pentit on it; and I spelt it out—

"'C-a-k-e, Keek. B-r-o-o-k-l-y-n, Birdlime. W-a-l-k, Walk. Birdlime keek walk. I reckon as how if we walk in through that here arch, we'n get a birdlime keek, whatever kind of keek that may be. By gosh! not if I knows it! Luck, Phaybey lass!'

"Georgie lad, it meed my flesh creep into crinkles and my lega dodder under me, like as if they wan meed of coaf's foot jelly. Under that arch theear wan two bridges what had the deliberum trembles, for they joggled and shuck like a—like a—well, I dunner know what to say. And theear wan a darkey and another chap on wun of them, as keept dancing up and down like peas on a hot griddle. Phaybey says to me, says she,

"'Jobby lad, I wonder if them theaar keeaks bin nice.'

"'I canner tell ya' lass,' I replict.

"'Cross the bridge, and get me wun, Jobby,' she whipsert.

"Georgie lad, she said it as sweet as a angel, but that gimblet eye of hers let me know as if I didner do her bidding she's mek it hot for me, and so—and—so—yes, Georgie lad, I went. I peed my penny like a man; squared my shoulders, and set off to march as if I wan a bowld granny-dear. But—O, Georgie lad, it wan awful! I thought as how the world wan slipping away from me, and I gapst win fear. Then it jerkt me up, and I wundert if I'd land on the church steeple. Then it joggiet, and I began to guess whether it 'ud pitch me on to a feather bed in Mr. Cobb's shop, or chuck me among the eggs in the Creamery window. The funny thing on it wan, that I got along some way or another, but it wan a sort of pilgrim's progress, and, when I finisht win it, I feeled as if I'd bin in heaven. I wan soon brung down to earth aghen though, for Phaybey pouncet on to me, and demanded the birdlime keeak as I'd won.

Job and the Philosopher on the Down Grade.

"Having bravet the terrors of the keaak-walk, thought as how I'd pay visit to the helter-skelter, the neem of the lighthouse-lucking thing. I peyd my penny this time, and the chap as whan in charge ghen me a mat to teck up win me. Ya talk about the Tower of Blaben as they built when they kem out on the Ark! Why, the Tower of Blaben wan a fool to it! Whomsoever, when I got to the top I wan satisfiet, only theaar wan a chap afore me. He luckt like a philofficer or whatever ya cawn them theear gents as han a talking acquaintance win the stars and sometimes go to tea win the man in the moon. He wan lucking at the sky win a piece of smoakt glass, and when I axt him what he wan trying to find he said as how he wantet to see the comet. I tellt him as that wanner the way; but that he should sit on his mat, for that wan what the mat wan for. He did sit on the mat, and I wan lucking over his shouther to put his smoakt glass in forkess, when I accidentally ghen him a push. Upon my word, Georgie lad, it wan an accident, and nothing else. Whomsoever, it sen the philofficer down the corkscrew like a flash of greast lightning; but, when he was heaf-way down, he grabt hold on the sides, and—well, about a dozen chaps run off for the fire brigade. It wan a good job as they wanner wantit. The philofficer keem down all right; and I seed no more on him."

A Showman's Generosity Gift.

The Newport Advertiser has the following appreciation of Mr. Patrick Collins's generous and timely gift to the Hospital Sunday Fund and the Parish Church Tower Fund:—"We are sorry to say that the collection for the hospitals at the service in the covered market at Newport on Sunday afternoon realised only a few shillings more than £12. Fortunately, that sum has been augmented by the generosity of Mr. Pat Collins, the great showman. Mr. Collins, who had his 'Wonderland' at Newport for the May Fair, offered to give all the takings between 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. on Tuesday to the Hospital Sunday Fund and the Parish Church Tower Fund. Those takings totalled a little over £28. We feel certain that the town is grateful to Mr. Pat Collins for his spontaneous offer, the result of which is a free gift that is acceptable to all concerned."

The Outrage at the Circo Brown, Buenos Aires.

Mr. Frank Brown's numerous confrères and friends in the circus world will hear with indignation and sorrow of the tremendous loss he has suffered in the destruction by a mob of youths of this newly-erected circus in Buenos Aires. We sincerely hope that the Argentine authorities will fully and frankly acknowledge their liability for the lawless and amazing conduct of the mob of young incendiaries. In confirmation of what we have already said in our special report of the outrage, we quote the following from the Buenos Aires Standard of May 6:—

The Burning of the Circus.

"To quiet the esurient mob of Rome, the city fathers gave it the circus games it clamoured for, but in Buenos Aires the city fathers allowed a circus to be built and the crowd burned it. Is this to be considered as a sign of progress of the march of intellect? Perhaps to the young men who in the early hours of Thursday morning perpetrated the outrage on the circus in Calle Florida, and some few others, their action may appear in some such light; to the rest of the world the affair only looks like a stain on the capital's reputation. Granted that the municipality was wrong in giving a site for a circus, the fact remains that it had done so, and that Mr. Frank Brown had on the strength of the lease spent considerable sums of money and incurred heavy liabilities. For a crowd of well-to-do young men to take the law into their own hands in this fashion because of some alleged offence to their artistic susceptibilities was a scandal of the grossest kind. The circus was not the eyesore it was made out in some quarters to be, and was a big improvement on the dilapidated market it replaced. Furthermore, it was not intended to be more than a temporary erection, so, from every standpoint, the burning of it was inexcusable, and that the crowd of young men and youths thought fit to justify their action by patriotic shouts and cheers did not make matters any the better. But what a sight for the stranger within our gates this procession of 'aristocrats' parading the most aristocratic street in the capital, waving 'trophies' torn from the burning theatre and boasting of the outrage they had committed, as if it were some heroic act!"

Sedgwick's Menagerie in Wales.

Sedgwick's Menagerie paid a visit to Maesteg on Saturday and Monday. The performances on each day were well patronised. On Monday night Mr. Corbertt, a local hairdresser, entered the den of some South African lions, and shaved a member of the staff. On leaving the cage Mr. Corbertt was loudly applauded, and as a memento of the event he was presented by Mr. Sedgwick with a silver cup.

Guild Subscription, 1910.

Per Mr. Mitchell: Mr. John Hardman (hon. member), £1 1s.; Mr. James Westray, 5s.

Showmen's Letter-Box.

Letters await Messrs. J. W. Chipperfield, W. Biddall, H. Fossett, Anderton and Rowland, and A. Purchase at The Era Office.

DASTARDLY OUTRAGE AT BUENOS AIRES.

Frank Brown's Circus Fired by City Hooligans.

An outrage of a most dastardly character was recently committed in the Argentine capital. Frank Brown, the well-known circus impressario, had obtained a concession from the city authorities to build a circus in the Calle Florida, an important thoroughfare of the capital.

For no apparent reason, beyond a vague hint or two of objection on æsthetic grounds to a circus being located in so important a part of the city, a conspiracy was hatched by a group of the young bloods, the hooligans of the well-to-do classes, to destroy the circus by fire.

We give the details of the outrage as reported by the Buenos Aires Herald of May 7:—

"By 12.15 midnight, May 6, a mob of some three or four hundred had started pulling down the new wall in Calle Florida and Calle Cordoba, which was in course of erection by Mr. Frank Brown, under orders of the authorities.

"Having gained entrance the mob proceeded to riddle the canvas roof and walls of the circus ring with shots from the revolvers with which all were armed, in spite of the law of this country. Two policemen hastily appeared on the scene, only to be disarmed with suspicious promptitude without firing a shot. Then benzine, kerosene, naphtha, gasoline, and other inflammable materials were thrown upon the canvas and woodwork in different places and fired. Blazing torches were also flung upon the structure, no doubt to add effect to the scene. At 12.50 the firemen arrived, but the incendiaries had the audacity to hold them up and hinder their progress to the conflagration. A superior officer drove up in a phaeton, and was argued with and parleyed with.

"Unfortunately, the officer stopped to listen, and precious moments were lost. At 1.10 the mounted police came up, a cordon was formed, and the firemen soon had the fire under control. Between 1.30 or 2 a.m. a procession of 'conquering heroes' marched down Florida, bearing trophies of their gallant and spirited attack on the property of a defenceless man who was in bed and asleep. These spoils of war consisted mostly of bits of canvas, wood, and corrugated iron. To hear the hooligans shout 'Viva la Patria!' while parading palpable evidence of an act of vandalism, which would shame any country were it committed, gave one to hope—that 'La Patria' will act the good mother and bring a heavy hand to bear on those who have there insulted her.

MR. FRANK BROWN.

"It is hard to estimate the amount of the damage done. Mr. Frank Brown takes the matter in the calm, collected manner of an upright, honourable man, who judges others by himself. He stands to lose a very large sum of money, to say nothing of what he might have made; but he has implicit confidence in the good faith of the authorities, and feels sure that right will be done. Señor Güiraldes, the Municipal Intendente, visited the scene of the outrage on Thursday. He was visibly affected, and stigmatised the affair as 'una barbaridad,' adding, 'specially to a man who has entertained so many generations of our children.'

"Mr. Brown feels the insult that has been put upon him very keenly, but takes consolation in the fact that its perpetrators are not representatives of the nation, nor do they voice the ideas of a single civilised human being. So much is public opinion and sympathy with Mr. Brown, that he was compelled to stay indoors on Thursday afternoon. People he had, to his knowledge, never seen before came up and gripped him by the hand. Shopkeepers came out to express their sympathy on seeing him pass, and every respectable citizen of Buenos Aires seemed anxious to apologise for those who have lost all claim to citizenship, and to try to obliterate the smirch of their city's fair fame.

"An ugly corrugated iron wall now encloses the scene of Wednesday night's 'deeds of valour,' but, ugly as it is, the æsthetic, valiant souls who objected to a circus will not attempt to pull it down. The mounted police are on the spot and they are ugly customers to tackle—uglier by far than the thing they are guarding."

The same paper, in a leading article the day after the outrage comments as follows:—

"A man obtains a concession from a legalised City Council and proceeds to carry out his undertaking. Relying upon the protection of the law of the land, he proceeds to do what he is subject to heavy fine and loss for not doing. He sinks a great deal of capital, employs skilled labour, and attends to a thousand details requiring special knowledge. And when he has, as in duty bound, done all this, a midnight raid is organised against his undertaking, the edifice he has constructed is wrecked, his plans are spoiled, the skilled labour employed is suddenly thrown idle upon a strange city, and the mob is excused on the plea of 'popular justice.'"

Some of the Argentine papers appear to have condoned the outrage. The Herald, however, takes a most serious view of this outbreak of so-called mob law, and says:—

"To us the doctrine that whatever the mob does is well done is simply appalling. We cannot accept it, and it is our deliberate opinion that to acquiesce in such a dictum is suicidal. But we are face to face with this sinister fact. A well-dressed mob of future law-givers and law-makers have derided the law, rode rough shod over every precept of equity and justice, perpetrated a glaring midnight outrage, and the Argentine Press has contented itself with a tentative condemnation with 'applause' written clearly between the 'condemnatory' lines."

Indignation of the English Residents.

The English colony in Buenos Aires is deeply insulted by the outrage, and the greatest sympathy is being shown to Mr. Frank Brown, who for years past has brought out to South America the best talent in the circus world. He has ever been ready to support the charities of the city, and is in every way a popular character in South America. The case is particularly hard and unfortunate, in that Mr. Frank Brown has already brought out for the forthcoming season a first-class company of artists.

The burning down of the circus will inflict great loss on these unfortunate people. Suggestions are being made by the British colony to come to the assistance of the sufferers by the outrage by a popular subscription. We shall be glad to hear of the success of this effort.

Porth Fair in the Rhondda Valley.

Immediately following Treorchy Great Fair—this year held at Treherbert—we have Porth Pleasure Fair. Situated midway in the Rhondda, Porth is an ideal spot for a great popular fair. This it would undoubtedly be were the local conditions favourable. For the past two years it has become increasingly difficult to find a suitable fair-ground, the old one having been built over by the local tramway company as a central depôt.

Mr. John Studt made every possible effort to obtain a good position for the fair. Such, however, is the scarcity of suitable sites in the valley, this is becoming more and more difficult every year.

The ground this year—the best obtainable—was rather difficult to set out, some of the smaller shows and minor amusements having to stand on a portion of the land much lower than the piece on which the principal machines and the big show were located.

Under the splendid captaincy of John Studt, the lessee, order was evolved out of seeming chaos, and the fair was got ready for the people. Mr. John Studt provided his big picture palace and two superb machines—the motor-cars and the zoological roundabout. John Scarrott's school of boxers, S. Reader's animal jungle, and Davies's colliery model were amongst the sideshow novelties. Jervis, with helter-skelter tower; Birch, with miniature roundabout and houp-la circle; J. North and Sons, with shooters, swings, and throwing games; the Brothers Whayman, with gem motors and shooters; Fossett, with shooter and photo-salon; and a host of other caterers, with variety stalls and games, made the fair.

White City, Old Trafford.

"Billy," the English educated horse, is proving a great attraction and shows marvellous training. The Band of H.M. 1st Batt. of "The Buffs," from Aldershot (conductor, Mr. G. W. Elvin), gets much appreciation for their excellent programmes. The other amusements are all well patronised.

Stanley Lane Ends Feast.

This local feast in the neighbourhood of the cathedral town of Wakefield had for its entertainers: Harry Ashington, with marionettes and cinema pavilion; R. Johnson, with roundabout and swings; Messrs. Bassett, Mitchell, Blackburn, Goodall, Armitage, and Johnson, with houp-las, football penalties, throwing games, and varieties; John, with bazaar; and Bassett, with pannum stall.

Carmarthen Fair.

Carmarthen June Pleasure Fair was held in the Corporation Fair Ground, in beautiful weather, and large crowds came in from the surrounding country districts, good business being done, while in the evening the country visitors were augmented by the townspeople. The chief attractions were Messrs. Henry Studt and Sons' well-known electric Venetian gondolas, Crecraft's electric bioscope, Messrs. W. Haggar and Son's electric bioscope, and Messrs. Alf. North and Hill's steam riding horses. Other caterers were Messrs. Thomas Hill, E. Booth, D. Boswell, and David Evans, with coker-nut shies; Mr. Symond's pipe-shy; Messrs. Crecraft, David Evans, and D. Boswell's houp-las; and Mr. E. Booth's rifle-range. There were numerous other variety stalls; and altogether the public had a fine selection of amusements, which they patronised to the full.

Lawsuit over an Elephant's Insurance.

Mr. T. E. Read, an amusement caterer, and proprietor of the "World's Fair," held every winter in the Agricultural Hall, Islington, brought an action before Mr. Justice Darling and a special jury in the King's Bench Division on Friday last, June 10, to recover £250, the amount of an insurance policy effected by him on an elephant named "Kim," from Mr. Whitcombe and other members of Lloyd's.

The defence in effect was that the plaintiff, when taking out the policy, withheld from the defendant certain facts affecting the animal.

Plaintiff in his evidence stated that he bought the animal for £125, and after insuring him for £250 with Mr. Whitcombe, at a premium of £13 15s., sent him to Rosherville Gardens, where he was employed in carrying children about the gardens until the close of the season in September, when he returned to London. On his way to Stoke Newington, where he was to be stabled, the animal was "taken queer" in Aldwych. Witness got an ambulance and conveyed "Kim" to Stoke Newington. There he was examined by a veterinary surgeon, who agreed with the keeper that "Kim" had caught a chill. He was thereupon given ginger and ale, which was a recognised remedy in such cases. Subsequently he was examined by a veterinary on behalf of the defendants. A day or two afterwards he died. Witness valued the animal at £250, although he got it for £125, because no one else seemed to want it.

Mr. E. H. Bostock, of the Glasgow Zoo, who sold the animal to plaintiff, on examination by Mr. Lewis Thomas, K.C., for the plaintiff, said that when he sold off his animals at auction because he intended starting a skating rink, the whole sale was a farce. Things were given away.

Witness said he had paid £250 for "Kim" seven years ago, when he was seven years old, and elephants increased in value up to forty, and lived to fifty or sixty or more in captivity.

Several of Mr. Read's assistants and an inspector of the R.S.P.C.A. testified that "Kim" was in fair condition, and had no boils or suppuration from the foot.

Mr. Swift, manager of Rosherville Gardens, in giving evidence for the defence, said he saw boils on one foot of the animal.

Mr. Sewell, veterinary surgeon, said that when he saw "Kim" a short time before his death his skin was dry and cracked in places, and the post-mortem disclosed, by the condition of the lungs, that the animal had suffered from pneumonia and pleurisy, probably a year or more before, and there was an injury to the lumbar region, all of which would have depreciated his value. He thought the full value of the animal at the time Mr. Read bought him was £125. The animal, he said, died from exhaustion as the result of paralysis.

The jury gave a verdict for plaintiff for £150. Judgment was given accordingly.

The Gaol Ground, Salisbury, has been visited twice lately by Haines' Galloping Horses, and good patronage has been given. The other fair-ground attractions include swing boats, houp-la, shooting galleries, shies, and various stalls. Amusements on this ground are being well patronised and provide the only outdoor entertainment at present in the town.

FILM GOSSIP.

Supreme Recognition.

Modern Russia, its terrorised peasantry and brutal soldiery, its luxurious patrician homes and its loathsome prisons, forms the subject of an extremely interesting Eclair film, which displays many of their distinctive merits in staging. The story—of a child torn from the arms of its mother as she is carried away by the Cossacks, and brought up ignorant of her parents' history until ten years later—will make a strong appeal to all audiences, which the good acting will strengthen.

News by the Yard.

As we announced last week, the Animated Gazette is the last word in journals. Its "copy" is measured by the yard, and it has a circulation of ten million copies weekly in all parts of the world. It is the longest journal on record—more than a thousand feet in length. It is not on sale at bookstalls. There is only one way of seeing the news of the week as published in the Animated Gazette, and that is by watching it on the screen. It is published weekly by Messrs. Pathé, and is to be seen in all the cinematograph theatres. "We have cinematographers, instead of reporters," said the Editor, Mr. Valentia Steer, "and these we send out to take living pictures of the principal news. Each country has its editor, who has a corps of correspondents (cinematographic) at his command. Thus, instead of ordering, as the editor of a printed paper would, a column or a quarter of a column of an event, we order forty yards or a hundred yards, according to its merit. The different sections of the news are all joined up on one film, with explanatory slides for 'headings.' We shall not chronicle murders. We shall have an animated fashion page—or, rather, forty yards; several yards of 'children's corner,' and, in lighter vein, a quarter of a mile of animated short story."

Sunday Kinematographs.

Mr. G. Oswald J. Smith, Secretary, Working Men's Lord's Day Rest Association, writes concerning the widespread discussion upon the recent magisterial decision at Tower-bridge, and the tendency to construe that decision as legalising such Sundays shows. "The decision," Mr. Smith contends, "merely deals with the powers of the L.C.C. as to the safety of the public. The illegality of Sunday entertainments is specifically decided by the Act 21 George III, (which is still operative). Any proprietor giving Sunday shows, where persons are admitted for money payment or by tickets sold for money, is liable to prosecution under this Act and to heavy penalties on conviction. Heavy penalties are also imposed upon those managing or conducting the show, and upon doorkeepers, servants, or other persons receiving or collecting money or tickets. Proceedings may be taken by any person, and are not restricted to the police."

The Sugar Cane Industry.

Scenes full of busy animation in connection with the various stages of sugar-making in the Sunda Isles are revealed in one of the latest Pathé films. First we are shown scenes in the plantation when the canes are cut into short pieces. Then a wide view of the plantation, with women bending their backs as they work close to the ground, is followed by a picture descriptive of the period when the canes are ready to be torn up for use. The natives cut off the top of each cane as it is pulled up from the earth, and these tops are replanted as soon as possible.

Fine Bioscope Co.'s Drama.

Thou Shalt Not, a very fine film just turned out by the Biograph Company, has been shown at some of the leading picture theatres. It depicts a powerful drama, showing the self-sacrifice of a young lover who finds that he is suffering from consumption.

Value of Jeffries-Johnson Fight Pictures.

The promoters of the Jeffries-Johnson fight for the Heavy-weight Prizefighting Championship of the world, to take place at San Francisco on July 4, have a one-third interest in the moving pictures, which will, it is expected, be worth either £66,000 or £33,000, depending on whether the white or black man wins. The earnings of the promoters on this basis will be, therefore, either £126,000 or £93,000.

Canon Southwell's Charges.

At last Friday's meeting of the Newcastle Watch Committee, reference was made to Canon Southwell's published statements, which have created so much public interest in London and other theatrical centres, respecting immorality in the streets of Newcastle and the state of things that the Canon alleges prevails in semi-darkened places of amusement. After a long discussion it was moved:—"That this Committee is of opinion that the statements made by Canon Southwell are sensational and unwarranted, and intimates to him that if he has any evidence to prove such statements the proper course is to lay it before the Chief Constable in order that it may be investigated by the Watch Committee." The resolution was carried by a large majority. The managers of theatres, music halls, and picture halls have already held meetings on the subject denying Canon Southwell's allegations.

Antarctic Cinematography.

The arrangements made for dealing with the photographic work in connection with the British Antarctic Expedition are of the most elaborate character. This department will be in charge of Mr. Herbert G. Ponting, F.R.G.S., who has already travelled twice round the world, and has illustrated over twenty different countries. He has spent several years in the Far East, and has produced work which is generally admitted to be the finest of its class existing. His exhibition of carbon and coloured photographs is the largest individual exhibit at the Japan-British Exhibition. For use on the sledge journeys cameras of metal, and specially light and strong, have been made. Two cinematographs are being taken. One of these is the most wonderful moving picture

THE
LAW OF COPYRIGHT
IN KINEMATOGRAPH
PICTURES.

BY WILLIAM JAGO, F.I.C., F.O.S.
Barrister-at-Law.

Price SIXPENCE.

Published at "THE ERA" Offices,
5, Tavistock Street, Strand, W.C.

machine ever devised, and places in the hands of the operator a power hitherto unknown in this work. A complete equipment is being taken for developing all cinematograph films on the spot, and a fine dark-room is built for the purpose in the winter hut. A large stock of plates is being taken for securing the effects of the Antarctic in true natural colours.

Coloured Living Pictures.

MR. T. A. EDISON, the wizard of electricity, has succeeded in making a machine to photograph and reproduce moving pictures in their natural colours; but the great inventor, while admitting that he is experimenting in that line, and is hopeful of success, says that he is still battling with great difficulties, more especially the seeming impossibility of reproducing reds. With other colours he is tolerably successful. Mr. Edison says of the talking and moving-picture machine he has just completed: "We've got a machine now that produces a perfect illusion. A whole drama can be reproduced by it vocally. The voices are so perfect that they seem like ordinary stage voices. A band can also be reproduced. The music has no phonograph sound; it is the real thing. When we can produce colours perfectly, then you'll have a whole drama by machinery—speech, gesture, life, and colours."

They Acted Their Parts All Right.

A COUPLE just returned from Cuba had a strange experience in a Havana restaurant, where they went for five o'clock tea. "We had hardly taken our places at the table," so runs the story in the New York Tribune, "when two young men took possession of the one next to us and immediately began a loud and heated dialogue in Spanish, which we did not understand. After a few minutes one of the men arose, made a threatening gesture, after which the other drew a knife from his pocket, and we, fearing to be witnesses to a murder, made our escape to the street and hurried home. The next day we were at the same restaurant as the guests of an Havana citizen, and chanced to be seated at the same table where the murderous encounter took place the day before, and we spoke of it. The waiter explained that the fight had been pre-arranged for the benefit of a moving picture show, and that when we returned to New York we might see ourselves as others saw us that day—scared almost to death and running."

Matinée for Miners.

THROUGH the generosity of Mr. Arthur Sleep, manager of the Picture Palace, Spennymoor, a special matinée was given last Thursday afternoon to the aged miners and their wives from the Homes at Middlestone Moor, and also the children from the Tudhoe Orphanage. The entertainment was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. Sleep has made arrangements for a return of the late King Edward's Funeral film next week, with incidents of the King's life added. On Wednesday afternoon a performance will be given for the poor people of the district.

German Amusements Tax.

A FIERCE controversy is raging over the new Amusements Tax introduced this week into the Berlin Municipal Council. Such a tax already exists in many German towns. It is proposed that theatres, music-halls, concerts, and all other amusements shall pay a tax on tickets costing from 3d. upwards. On the expensive seats the tax works out at ten per cent., but upon cheap tickets it is rather more. The tax will fall heavily upon public dances, cinematograph shows, bazaars, and cabaret concerts, all of which will have to pay at fixed rates, irrespective of whether they are run at a profit or not. Theatre directors and other interested parties are holding meetings of protest. It appears that a cinematograph show taking £100 nightly will pay only 10s. tax, whereas a theatre which has much heavier expenses will pay £10 tax on the same takings. The tax is all the more opposed because a recent discussion showed that Berlin theatre prices were too high for the public pocket, and the adding of ten per cent. to prices will, it is claimed, lead to a financial crisis.

Two Electric Palaces for Ilford.

THE Ilford Urban Council have had plans before them for the erection of two electric theatres in the High-road.

Kensington Picture Palace.

AT the Kensington Picture Theatre the following subjects have been shown this week:—The Amateur Pugilist (Urban), A Father's Heart (Gaumont), The Last of the Dandies (Cricks and Martin), Scenes in and around Boubjerg, Denmark (Cosmopolitan), A Heaven-guided Heroine (Warwick), The Persuasive Powers of a Revolver (Pathé's), Mr. S. W. Lukushima's illustrated entertainment, The Rice Harvest in Japan (Pathé's), and The Shepherd's Dog (Pathé's).

Strand Theatre de Luxe.

THIS week's programme at the Theatre de Luxe, 65, Strand, W.C., is a very good one, and includes the following subjects:—His Last Burglary, President Roosevelt in France, Baffled Bandit, The Black Peril, Forgive and Forget, Honour Thy Father, A Funny Story, and The Derby.

Accrington Picturedrome.

ON Thursday week the Mayor and Mayoress of Accrington, Dr. and Mrs. T. E. Nuttall, attended the Picturedrome first house, and after the performance the Mayor complimented the manager, Mr. John Hargreaves, on the excellent programme submitted.

Sliding Roof for Picture Palace.

THE management of the Electric Theatre, Bath, has invited the inmates of Bath Workhouse to witness the films of the late King's Funeral; and another excellent arrangement they have in view is the provision of a sliding roof for the theatre during the hot weather.

New Picture Palace at Hastings.

THE patrons of picture shows in Hastings are being well provided for. The pioneer of this class of entertainment was Mr. Fred Griffiths at the Public Hall, which he ran as the People's Picture Palace Company. The idea was adopted last Easter by the management of the American Palace Pier. Last month the Pelham Hall Electric Theatre, leased by Messrs. Lane, Daly, and Lane, opened its doors to a continuous performance of eight and a half hours, under the management of Mr. T. C. Daly, and last Wednesday the Electric Palace Syndicate opened its new premises in the Wellington-place (one of the main business thoroughfares of the town). The proprietors are Messrs. Harmer, Keating, and Harmer, and Mr. A. Harmer manages the business.

Swansea Puzzled.

ONE of the strangest films ever seen in Swansea was witnessed at the Shaftesbury and Palace Bioscope halls in that town last week. It is entitled A Theatre of Phenomenons, and it represents extraordinary performances by automata. The most puzzling thing about the film is how it was possible to have been worked.

THE Midland Electric Theatres, Ltd., who have secured the sole rights to produce Kinemacolor Animated Pictures in the Midlands, opened at the Temperance Hall, Leicester, on Wednesday afternoon, for four weeks, pending the completion of their Electric Palace now in course of erection in Silver-street, which is not many yards from the Royal Opera House.

STAGE LANTERN SCENERY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—The success of the "Picture Theatres" at the present time is so overwhelming that they seem likely to become formidable rivals not only to the music halls, but to the homes of the regular drama. A popular playwright recently suggested a coalition of these opposing forces by utilising the cinematograph to represent the more crowded and bustling scenes in a spectacular drama, the principal characters alone being rendered by living actors, with ordinary scenic appliances. Meanwhile every effort is being made to perfect the system of combining the bioscope with the gramophone for dialogue, songs, &c., so that the whole play could be mechanically reproduced.

These surprising results remind me of an idea I have entertained, I may say, from my childhood—a period long before "moving pictures" were heard of, except in the primitive form of the "Zoetrope," or "Wheel of Life," a mere toy, like the miniature theatres formerly so popular as a juvenile pastime. My idea was that stage scenery, whether built up or painted on the flat, might in many cases be superseded by photographic views, large and coloured, thrown upon a semi-opaque screen. The lantern would have to be placed, not in the auditorium, but far back on the stage. The great difficulty would be to devise a method of lighting up the actors from the front while the scenes were thus illuminated.

Not being an inventor or an optician or a photographer, I was never in a position to test the feasibility of this plan, nor could I induce any qualified person to make the experiment. One expert pointed out, as a serious drawback, the amount of space required for the proper focusing of the pictures: the depth of the stage would have to be nearly equal to that of the auditorium itself. But optical science is now so potent that this obstacle to the realisation of my youthful dream might not prove insuperable. Several developments approaching the desired result have already been attained. At some vocal "turns" at the Halls the songs are illustrated by large lantern-slide pictures, while the singer stands at the side of the stage; but under present conditions, even were the screen lit up from the back, the human figures would still be eclipsed, and have to keep out of the picture.

A few years ago I read that Miss Loie Fuller had been giving her famous dances in Paris, with novel scenic effects, obtained by some arrangement of opaque glass screens; and only recently I have heard that a French firm has succeeded in giving cinematograph shows in full daylight, instead of having a darkened auditorium. This, although not exactly realising my old idea of using "lantern scenery" as a background to living actors, seems at least to show that such a method would be practicable. The advantages would undoubtedly be great. The present costly and cumbrous work of scene-shifting, and even the more scientific system of revolving stages, would be done away with. The scenes in a play could be changed by a turn of a hand, in the twinkling of an eye, it would not matter how numerous they might be, or how rapid in succession. Shakespeare's most elaborate dramas could thus be given, if desired, in their entirety, and without intervals. For such old-style works the method would be particularly suited. For fanciful or fairy plays, or operas of a like character, it would afford an ideal presentment. It would be most effective in landscape scenery, as well as in spacious interiors, such as a grand hall, a palace, or a cathedral. The charming naturalness of such views would be beyond the reach of scenic art as hitherto practised.

As there could be no central exits or entrances, the process would probably be less fitted for modern plays, with their closed indoor scenes, and their dependence on furniture, accessories, and immediate surroundings. The performances need not be mere costume recitals, but some modification of present modes of staging might be necessary.

For rehearsals or copyright performances travelling companies and amateur or private theatricals, the "lantern scenery" system would be very useful, saving much trouble and expense, and obviating those mishaps so frequently attendant upon the hiring, transporting, and fitting up of movable scenery.

In this age of stage illusion, when there is such a constant succession of new and startling inventions, one may reasonably hope that the plan I have suggested would prove to be "within the resources of science." Thus another novelty would be added to our spectacular entertainments, causing us once more to exclaim, in the words of the old poet:

"What wonders may be brought to pass
By the Optician's Magic Glass!"

WALTER PARKE.

London, June 4, 1910.

History in Animated Pictures.

AT the Polytechnic, Regent-street, W., a series of hourly exhibitions of animated pictures has been given this week, which to visitors to London, as well as to many residents in the metropolis, afforded an opportunity not easily obtainable of viewing State pageants and other historical events. The programme included the late Queen Victoria's Visit to Ireland, with its varied scenes. Then all the events following on the death and burial of Queen Victoria, from the moment of the funeral cortége leaving Osborne to the arrival of the royal remains at Windsor, were shown. So with the funeral of King Edward; the whole route was faithfully portrayed down to the final scene at St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Views were also shown of the late King's Coronation, while incidents in the life of King George completed a notable pictorial record.

AT the summer general meeting of the Managers' Association at the Tavistock Hotel on the 3rd inst., with Mr. J. Macready Chute, Vice-President, in the absence of the President, Sir Herbert Tree, in the chair, two members were appointed to go into the question of Sunday performances with the Touring Managers' Association, the Entertainments Protection Society, the Cinematograph Trade Protection Society, and the Cinematograph Defence League.

The Veteran Equestrian, James Newsome.

THE kind letter concerning dear old James Newsome we inserted in our last issue has met with a characteristically generous and thoughtful response from Mr. Frank Bostock, who sends £5 to the suggested fund through Mr. F. H. Pedgrift.

Bostock's Wombwell Show on Tour.

THIS national institution paid a most acceptable visit to Consett last Monday, the splendid collection of animals being admired by crowded houses.

Lord George Sanger and the Coming Sports.

THE doyen of the circus world hopes to attend, as usual, the theatrical sports. It is sincerely hoped that the veteran showman will surprise and delight his hosts and warm friends by essaying some athletic feat well within the competence of his age and yet vigorous powers.

CINEMATOGRAPH ACT, 1909, which came into force Jan. 1, 1910, also the Cinematograph Regulations made by the Secretary of State, which came into operation Jan. 1, 1910, with an appendix concerning Limelight and What the Cinematograph Showman must do. Explanations of the Act and the Regulations. The Act—the Regulations—the Explanations—sent post free, four stamps. Address: The Publisher, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(Continued from page 8.)

OLDHAM. — COLOSSEUM THEATRE. — General-Manager, Mr. Wm. Eastwood.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's company occupies the boards here in The Sins of Her Childhood. Miss Maud Warburton as Mary Haysel acts sympathetically; Mr. Guy Hastings as the Rev. Alan Gray is successful; Mr. John Liston is a fine exponent of Capt. John Thornton; Mr. Cecil Mannering is a sinister Stephen Haysel; Miss Clara Santley is effective as Maria Hayeel; and Miss Lissa Young as Hannah Spry acts and sings well. Miss Pollie Denville as Lizzie Muggins and Mr. Hugh Brady as Barney O'Reilly introduce smart comedy; and little Gladys Brittain as Eric acts charmingly.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—The Passion of Life is being played here by Mr. Hubert Helliwell and company. Miss Ada Hender is a forcible Belle O'Neal, the knife fight with the rascally Frenchman Ralph Flint (well played by Mr. Basil Mitchell) being most realistic. Mr. Helliwell acts well in the character of Jack Kenny; Mr. F. Owen Chambers as Captain Horace O'Neal is excellent; Mr. Owen Edwin is a pawky Fergus MacKenna; and Mr. Fred Danvers an amusing Dan Sprouts; Miss Emily Lewis making a lively Tilly Tripp. Miss Maud Garth is a dainty Nita O'Neil, and Mr. J. O. Stevenson does well as Abdullah.

ROYAL THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Kilrow.—The fine pictures here include Across the Plains, a thrilling story, and The Dawn of Freedom, illustrating scenes of war in Cuba. Mr. Roger Alwyn sings some good songs

HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. King.—The Flower of the Ranch is a fine dramatic picture of Western America, and The Girl and the Fugitive is another capital story of the Far West.

BROWN'S ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Brown.—Thou Shalt Not is a strong dramatic film, and an episode of the wilds of Corsica is ably depicted in Corsican Bandits.

OSBORNE HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Hughes.—A story of mining camp life, ably illustrated, forms the principal attraction here.

OXFORD.—NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. C. C. Dorrill; Assistant-Manager, Mr. G. T. Lucas.—Mr. G. Brydon-Phillips's company is here with Our Boys, preceded by a new comedy sketch duologue Going to the Ball. In Our Boys Mr. Frank M. Wood has a hearty reception for his inimitable presentment of Perkyn Middlewick, and causes endless fun. He is ably supported by Mr. Ernest A. Douglas, who is very natural as Sir Geoffry Champreys; Mr. Orlando Barnett is capital as the Dude Talbot Champneys; and Mr. Cecil A. Collins is effective as Charles Middlewick; Miss Leah Marlborough is dignified as Violet Melrose; Miss Beatrice Whitney is good as Mary Melrose; Miss Lizzie Chambers is a typical servant as Belinda; and Mr. J. W. Braithwaite is very humorous as Clarissa Champneys.

EAST OXFORD THEATRE.—Lessees, East Oxford Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Stuart.—An attractive show is provided here by Mr. Sydney Spenser's company with A Wonderful Woman and Peggy. In the former piece Mr. Sydney Spenser is seen to great advantage as Marquis de Frontignac, and Mr. Fred Russell is also very successful as Alphonse; Mr. Arthur L. Read gives a good portrayal of Viscount D'Esparre; Miss Gipsy Alexander presents a powerful rendering of Mme. Hortense Delauney; and Miss Lizzie Hall is charmingly attractive as Marcelle. Two pretty performances are those of Miss H. Eyre as Jules and Miss E. Heap as Cecile.

PERTH. — PERTH THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Aldridge.—Mr. Gilbert Payne is a great attraction here, both in his comic songs and later on in a farce, entitled The Obliging Waiter, in which he is ably supported by Miss Ethyl Errol; Mr. Sam Kelly has a quaint style, peculiarly his own, and Miss Phyllis Thornton is popular.

PETERBOROUGH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Manager, Mr. Percy Hart.—A good all-round bill this week is headed by the Drolls, in A Day on Pierrot Island; Lionel Howard, in a series of impersonations, gains much applause; Rudge Whitworth, comedian at the piano, gives a good turn; a funny farcical skit, entitled A Twenty-first Birthday Party, is very amusing; Hetty Ray, comedienne, is warmly greeted; and Stave, presenting mystery, mirth, and music, is quite successful. The pictures are good.

PLYMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Attwater.—Mr. Norman V. Norman's company is on a return visit with The Marriage of Kitty. The cast is in all respects identical with that appearing on a recent occasion. The Adventure of Lady Ursula and David Garrick have also been staged.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. J. Field.—The Achmed Ibrahim troupe of Bedouin Arabs give an interesting and finished exhibition of tumbling; Dutch Daly, as usual, proves a strong attraction; Mr. John Donald is heard to advantage in a vocal scena entitled A Scottish Exile's Dream; Otto and Olga score in a smart little number in which music, humour, and mock opera are well blended; Nelson Hardy, ventriloquist, is a skilful exponent, and Edie Gray and Boys are popular vocalists and dancers. The remaining contributors are Emily Delmere, comedienne and dancer, and Herbert La Martine, eccentric dancer.

PONTEFRACT.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Frank Elliston and company are here in an original romantic episode of 1651, entitled Long Live the King. The piece is beautifully staged. Halma, described as the Scottish society juggler, gives an up-to-date entertainment; Edwin Garth is popular; Charles Bothwell causes roars of laughter; Beattie Sullivan is a charming comedienne; Cavalli finds favour as a ventriloquist; Smith and Gibbs are excellent equilibrists; and the Lester Brothers, the demon dancers, receive applause. The Alexscope concludes a good bill.

PORTH.—PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Pooles, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. W. Bynorth.—With Edged Tools, presented by Mr. H. Armitage, is a great attraction. Mr. Chas. Hartopp as Jack Meredith gives a creditable account of himself, and Sir Joshua Meredith is a capital character study by Mr. Walter Russell; as the villainous half caste Victor Darnoto, Mr. Charles Barrett is effective; and Guy Oscard has an excellent exponent in Mr. Chas. Barrett. Miss Marguerite Cellier as Millicent Cheyne and Miss Alice Maud as Lady Cantourne are successful; Miss Edith Anton-Laing, in the dual rôle of Mary and Lady Herries, is admirable; Miss Marie Leonhard as Joselyn Gordon and Mr. J. Graham Pockett as Maurice Gordon are capitally portrayed. The play is exceedingly well mounted.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Abundant laughter is prevalent while Messrs. Leedham, Bantock, and Frederick Mouillot present their farcical comedy Those Terrible Twins. Mr. Bantock is quaintly droll as the butler, William; and the rigid Mrs. Pringle seems well suited to Miss M. Skelton. The perplexities of C. Pringle are amusingly portrayed by Mr. C. Esdale, who is well supported by Mr. E. H. Wynne as the Hon. H. Scott. The Misses Louie Backmann and E. Morgan are attractive as Violet Fairfield and Lillie Leyton; Mr. A. McCaig makes a lively lift-boy, Minks; and the Cook is well played by Miss M. Hargrave; Mr. Pringle, sen., having a natural counterpart in Mr. Harry Cane. Only a Clown precedes.

PRINCE'S.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. B. Agate.—A Beautiful Fiend is presented this week by a good company. The character of the handsome, though perfidious, Wanda Lubinoff is admirably portrayed by Miss Sidney Crowe; the villainous lover, Count Karateff, received a powerful impersonation from Mr. G. M. Montanini; and Mr. Bert Woodin is highly amusing as Christopher Crackles.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Capt. E. H. Warren-Wright; Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—A screamingly-funny sketch, entitled That Dreadful Detective, is the attraction here this week, Mr. E. D. Nicholls as Detective-Inspector Dripping causing roars of laughter; Farr and Farland are smart comedians; Ida Kersanley's fox terriers give an excellent canine display; Irene and Morton are appreciated in dance and patter; the Newmans are clever trick cyclists; Joe Humphreys scores as a descriptive vocalist; the Bio-Photoscope exhibits an attractive film; and other good turns include Archie Pitt, comedian; Idalia May, speciality danseuse; and Harry Luck, eccentric.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—Bransby Williams, the clever Dickensian character actor, in his new series from "Bookland to Stageland," has been winning merited applause; Jack and Evelyn's new comedy business "Introductions" gained cordial appreciation; Horace White, with his male and female figures, introduces his amusing ventriloquial entertainment; Alice Hollander is heard to advantage in "Miserere"; Frank Sylvo provides a laughable juggling act; and Ryder Slone, the Kraggs Trio, and Katie Butler meet with a good reception.

KING'S.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Claude Marner.—The star turn par excellence is Mr. C. Hayden Coffin, whose melodious voice and artistic rendering of "Melisande" and "The rose will blow" charm audiences here; the Courtiers, under Paul Mill, show themselves to be accomplished singers and dancers; Juno Salmo, "the devil dandy," executes some wonderful contortionist feats; An Extra Turn is the title of a pathetic dramatic episode, played by Messrs. Robert Macaig, Laurence Emery, Paul Mill, and Maggie Shaw; the Brothers Griffiths, with their burlesque duello and wrestling, contribute plenty of fun; Johnson Clark amuses with his ventriloquial act "The Park Pest"; the Columbia Comedy Trio's vocal and comedy turn merits favour; and Philip Levard, conjurer and illusionist, Baby Vi Davis, and Eva Ellis are pleasing.

SOUTH PARADE PIER.—Manager, Mr. A. Lalande.—Mr. Eugene C. Stafford is presenting here The Private Secretary. The Merry Boys and the Mascots provide the vocal entertainment.

PRESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Executors of the late W. Johnson; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Alban Newton.—The pictures by the Vernon Bioscope are proving attractive. If the present high standard is kept up, there is no doubt it will prove a draw through the summer.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank E. Burdett.—Herbert Darnley's Brigands of Tarragona tops the bill, and deservedly meet with a hearty reception. The Donaldson Brothers, in Sports in a Jungle, provide a novel turn; Larry Lewis is decidedly funny and as popular as ever; the Lashmars provide a good turn, as do the Komic Komedy Kouple; the Moncktons have a clever sketch, entitled A Woman's Curiosity; Baby Wolff is an accomplished child artist; Burt Ward, whistler and raconteur, is most amusing; Florence and Rose Showell meet with an ovation for the artistic way in which they render their duets; and Nora Emerald, comedienne, also meets with a good reception.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page; General-Manageress, Mrs. M. M. Clarkson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. E. Clarkson.—Dr. Walford Bodie and his Magnets are drawing immense audiences. Assisted by his medium, La Belle Electra, the doctor succeeds in giving a wonderful demonstration of electrical skill, and the mirth provided by his experiments on the various mediums is unlimited. The company also includes W. H. Williams, who gives good imitations of Scotch comedians; Dolly Robson, a clever vocalist; Tom Gold, comedian; Billy Walters, an amusing ventriloquist; G. W. Walker, a pleasing singer of Scotch ballads; and Jack Diamond, a capital clog dancer.

RAMSGATE.—ROYAL PALACE THEATRE.—Under the sole direction of Mr. Charles Evans; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Evans.—During the past week there has been excellent exhibitions of Jury's Imperial Pictures at the Palace. The engagement was made at the eleventh hour, after Mr. Bowman had experienced a disappointment in booking a company in Shakespearean répertoire. The pictures have been particularly varied and extremely interesting.

MARINA THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. J. Attack.—At the Marina the twice-nightly shows of animated pictures are maintaining their popularity, and there are large attendances of the public. The pictures are in all respects admirable, and the varieties similarly excellent. Miss Mollie Seymour, artistic comedienne and brilliant violinist, sings and plays in charming style; and the Great Vandinoff, lightning artist, draws pictures on a revolving disc with wonderful effect. He is assisted by Mlle. Louie.

READING.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. A. Evans.—John Warren, the famous conjurer, produces a sketch, entitled The Conjurer at Home, in which he performs a number of astonishing tricks of legerdemain. The Æolians introduce some clever dancing and singing in their sketch The Professor's Pupils; Mr. Sidney Brandon gives some admirable dramatic studies, including an impersonation of Matthias in The Bells and "The Tramp's Story"; Burley and Burley are quaint acrobatic comedians; Phil Bransby is a very clever coster comedian; Halter and Ray are well appreciated in their comedy duo turn; and Winnie Derson is a very pleasing comedienne. Two amusing films on the Bioscope complete the show.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Howard Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. H. Draco; Stage-Manager, Mr. A. Burridge.—Miss Beaumont Collins and company present an effective dramatic sketch, entitled The Leaves of Memory; the Czar's Royal Russian Troupe execute some wild national dances with great vigour; Les Five Joves perform some good feats on the horizontal bars; Tom Lee is a clever light comedian; the Emsons are very pleasing singers and dancers; Edna Latonne is a good male impersonator; Bennett and Martell, "the shipwrecked mariners," are very funny; Rex Fox is very smart in his ventriloquial and musical act on a slack wire; and some capital films are shown on the Bioscope.

CENTRAL SKATING RINK (West-street).—Dainty Dolly Mitchell gives a splendid exhibition of fancy skating at this popular rink each evening.

ROTHERHAM.—HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. George E. Smith; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur R. Hollands.—Another fine company is here this week. Minnie Kaufman is a brilliant trick cyclist; Mabel Mairs' presents an unique musical act; Lenton and Lane are most amusing in a vocal and comedy act, Unconsidered Trifles; Maria Racko and partner are highly successful with their acrobatic transformation novelties; Earle and Melville, patter comedians and dancers, are deservedly applauded; the Martineks delight the house in The Rag Doll; Chinko is a wonderful young juggler; and Cliff Dacre, a fine baritone, is a finished character vocalist. The Hipposcope pictures are excellent.

ROTHESAY, N.B.—ETTRICK BAY PAVILION.—The summer season was opened here by Mr. Stuart Debnam's Jesters, who devoted the entire proceeds of the first night to the local hospital. The troupe are strongly supported by the residents as well as visitors, the chief magistrate and the Provost having already attended the performances. The company consists of Mr. Debnam, a first-rate humorist; Mr. Franklyn Vernon, in songs and character sketches; Mr. Fred Lytton wins favour with baritone songs, and also acts as pianist; Miss Irene Greville, soprano and child impersonator, is a great favourite; Miss Kittie Douglas, soubrette, gives chorus songs with great success; and Mr. Stanley H. Bell combines conjuring, ventriloquism, and humorous songs, in addition to attending to the business management.

RYDE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, The Cinematograph Industrial Corporation, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Chas. Collins.—The films shown here include Traitor to King and Country, The Little Flower Girl's Christmas, Muggins, V.C., Catching Fish by Dynamite, The Modern Highwayman, &c. Miss Dorothy Miller provides the variety portion.

SALFORD.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—Lucky 'Liza, which is here, gives Miss Vesta Brownie, in the title-part, opportunities to show her singing and dancing abilities to advantage. Mr Dickie Clare as Silas Slim causes much merriment; the fun is kept going by Mr. T. W. Benson (Peter Pettitoe), Mr. Leonard Maitland (Paul Pettitoe), Mr. J. W. Forest (Biffins), and Mr. H. George (Bladderwick). Miss Helen Douglas is a charming Marie Pettitoe; as also is Miss Hettie Gale as Verginia Blotherwick. Several pleasing songs are given by Madame Constance Bellamy as Sadie Potts. The Jesmond Trio do some acceptable dancing

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—Managing Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. R. H. Lee.—The Five X-Rays, mad athletes, head the bill this week with their clever business; Ted Waite, spasmodic comedian, tickles his audience with his comic songs; Dorma Morgan, versatile comedienne, has a pleasing manner and a good voice, and wins much appreciation for her songs; Hotel de Quick is a very comical knockabout act by Ted Karno and company; the Four Regals, in The Armourers, are a quartette of strong-jawed men; Archie Royer, American comedian and acrobat, does some clever somersaults; the Howards (Ralph and Nellie), in their musical sketch, Military Mad, and Bessie Knight, comedienne, also do well.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; General-Manager, Mr. H. Winstanley; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. J. Boyle.—A Daughter of the Sea is given by Lewis Gilbert's company twice nightly here. Miss Florrie Green as Sunshine is a pleasing heroine; the aged villain, Mark Glensdale, is well presented by Mr. Lewis Gilbert; Miss Allyce Wyllyams as Mollie; and Mr. Jo. Monkhouse as Billy put in some smart comedy business; Mr. Roy Denman makes a fine hero; and Mr. Ashmore Vincent gives a good study of Dan Glensdale.

OPERA HOUSE AND ASSEMBLY ROOMS, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Shepherd.—The Comet, Mammy and Daddy, A Child's Courage, Laughing Machine, Guida Colonna, and Child's Message to Heaven, and Bernese Oberland are among this week's pictures; and Mr. Tom Sherlock's song is "The last milestone."

CENTRAL HALL, BLACKFRIARS-ROAD. — Proprietors, Messrs Matt Raymond Company; Manager, Mr. A. H. Gilbert.—The Raymond pictures, including Lesson by the Sea, From Gipsy Hands, Mother's Heart, Poisoned Tramp, Deal in Old China, Good Doggie, continue to draw good houses.

NEW CENTRAL HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. Thomas Whiteley.—Was Justice Served? Lost Umbrella, Bride of Fabavia, Boa Constrictor, The Poacher, &c., &c., are shown this week to full houses nightly.

SEACOMBE.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Kiernan.—Miss Violet Osmund's company is in occupation with The New Barmaid. The title-rôle is nicely played by Miss Madge Prior; and Mr. J. Burlington Rigg does admirably as Captain Loveday. Mr. E. W. Chewd as Colonel Claymore, Mr. Llewellyn C. Hughes as William White, and Miss Vera Grafton as Brenda Louth are all good in their respective parts; Miss Beatrice Erle gets in some vivacious and taking business as Dora Heather; and Miss De Terry supplies a dignified and aristocratic Lady Moulton. Mr. Alexander Loftus keeps the merriment bubbling with his comic rendering of Bertie White. On Thursday evening, the anniversary of the opening of the theatre, the above company was augmented by Miss Lilian Carter, soprano; Mr. G. Spencer, cornet soloist; Tournament of Boys of the Navy League; comedietta, His Better Half, by Messrs. S. Grafton and J. H. Maudesley; wrestling exhibition by Messrs. W. C. Crosby and C. Williams; Miss Ethel Thomas, the Welsh nightingale; Mr. Bert Hatton, piccolo soloist; Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale's pierrot stars and comets; and an operatic sketch by The New Barmaid company. The theatre closes to-day for the summer vacation, reopening for the season on August Bank Holiday.

SHEERNESS.—HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. B. Parezeer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Julian Graham.—Mr. Morton Powell's company is presenting here Driving a Girl to Destruction. As Ruby Wright Miss Maud M. Powell is successful; Ruth Wright is spiritedly played by Miss Edith Wallis; and Madame De Meral is capably accounted for by Miss Ana Corri; Mr. Walter Clark plays well as the villain; Mr. Henry Scratchard makes a crafty Octavius Screwe; Mr. Leslie Austin, a manly Robert Ray; and Miss Eva Norman a commendable Ned, the cripple.

SHEFFIELD. — LYCEUM THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—A successful spring season finishes this week with the welcome return visit of the Castellani Italian Opera Company. A fine performance was given on Monday of Cavalleria Rusticana, which was followed by I Pagliacci. On Tuesday the old favourite, Rigoletto, was given, to the delight of many local amateurs. Faust drew a good house on Wednesday, and Verdi's Il Trovatore on Thursday, Lucia di Lammermoor on Friday, and Carmen (Saturday) completed the attractive week's bill.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Henfrey-Aldred.—The emotional and picturesque drama A Life for a Life began a return visit to Sheffield on Monday, and again met with a hearty reception from a large audience. The chief dramatic interest centres round a little girl, a part acted with rare intelligence and naïve humour by Wee Winnie Warden, whose songs were enthusiastically applauded. Other characters were well played, and the play was effectively mounted.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—Mr. Percy Norman's company opened on Monday in the stirring domestic and military drama A Woman Worth Winning, the principal characters being represented by Messrs. Sydney Barton, Gilbert Standing, A. B. Mackay, E. Finlay, Jack Carlass, Wynn Davies, Graham Hamlyn, C. W. Blask, L. Newman, Harry Stuart, Geo. Dance, W. Burnett, Miss Trixie Leighton, Miss Ida Mackay, and Miss Lillie Lewis.

EMPIRE PALACE.—The Moss Empires' Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—In spite of atmospheric conditions the Empire, delightfully cool, was crowded on Monday, and the following artists were cordially applauded:—Miss Gertie Gitana, the graceful and vivacious characteristic danseuse; Mr. George French, comic singer; Miss Lillie Lassah, a pretty and pleasing comedienne; Conn and Conrad, comic concoctors; the Quaint Q.'s; Mr. Charles Fisher's Pocket Opera troupe; Mr. Alfred Agoust, novelty artist; Mr. Victor Widdicombe, the popular comedian, and his company in an amusing new sketch; Cumminger and Collona, the expert coon dancers; and Mr. George Leyton, in his inspiring vocal and spectacular episode The Roll Call, supported by a talented company. Topical pictures conclude the programme.

THE HIPPODROME.—The Barrasford Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Poole.—An excellent sketch is A Matrimonial Fee; the Karitson Sisters are graceful performers; and other talented artists engaged are Clarke and Hayden, comedy entertainers; the well-known Athos troupe; Miss Louie Tracey, comedienne; Miss Sadie Lundy, a pleasing artist; Mr. W. C. Wesley, comic vocalist; Messrs. Cedar and Elgar, burlesque actors, in their novel mediæval skit; Scott and Whaley, coloured comedians and dancers; and the Narow Brothers, in a novel act. Some new and artistic animated pictures conclude a good all-round entertainment.

SHREWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Director, Mr. W. Yates Gregory; General-Manager, Mr. Thos. Baugh.—There was a bumping house and a fine programme on the 2nd inst., the occasion being the second annual benefit to Mr. Thos. Baugh, the ever-courteous and business-like general-manager. The Kilmorey Amateur Dramatic Society played Our Regiment with considerable success, and the following artists were good enough to give their most acceptable services: Phœnix and Phœnix, serio duettists; Bert and Bert, humorous vocalists; Mr. Ted Richards, comedian; the Sardous, illusionists; Miss Lilian Chambers, soprano; Edmund Caselli, banjoist; and Miss Marie Rivers, comedienne. This week Mr. Tom Watt's thoroughly capable company is here in the Heath-Wilson Barrett version of East Lynne, admirably enacted. Mr. Frank Beresford takes the part of Archibald Carlisle with quiet dignity; Mr. Wilfred Percy Mansfield as Francis Levison enacts the part with conspicuous ability; Mr. Tom Watt makes a capital Lord Mountsevern; Mr. Elliot as Mr. Hallijohn merits praise; Mr. Jerrold Manville as Justice Hare acts creditably; Mr. Eric Liegg is capable as Richard Hare; Mr. Clifford Clifford as Lawyer Dill works hard and conscientiously to make the part tell; Mr. Joe Rowland as P.C. Bullock is droll and clever; Miss Laura Hansen plays with care and ability in the trying parts of Lady Isabel and Madame Vine; Miss Isabel Singleton gives a very satisfactory exposition of the character of Cornelia Carlyle; Miss Ida Heron is graceful and sympathetic as Barbara Hare; Miss Beryl Forbes is a smart Joyce; Miss Alice Nunn is exceedingly good as Wilson; Miss Laurie K. Pardy wins encomiums as Susanne; Miss Alice Moseley acts with skill and promise as Little Willie; and Miss Ethel Ray plays with ability the part of Little Isabel.

SMETHWICK. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—Miss Grace Warner's company has been presenting The Wages of Sin, The Scarlet Clue, and East Lynne here. Miss Grace Warner, in the rôle of Ruth Hope, gave a most successful portrayal; Mr. George Gordon displayed considerable skill and ability in his representation of George Bland; Mr. Frank Esmond showed ability and sound study as Stephen Marlet; Mr. Roy Rhind was a success as Harry Wentworth; Mr. Frank Hertie was well placed as Josiah Deane; Mr. Louis Nanton caused amusement as Ned Drummond, and his amusing parody on "Somewhere" was applauded. Mr. C. Williams was good as Judson, and was recalled for his singing; Miss Florence M. Daly (Jemima) and Miss Lizzie Palmer (Julianna) extracted much humour from their rôles; Miss Lallah Price made the most of the rôle of Barbara Dale; and Master Willie Taylor and Miss Rita Corri were clever as the youngsters.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA. — EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. L. Pareezer.—Shakespearean plays are proving immensely popular here, Miss Florence Glossop-Harris and a first-class company being accorded enthusiastic receptions for the admirable manner in which they depict each play. Monday's attraction was The Taming of the Shrew, in which Miss Glossop-Harris was seen to great advantage in a powerful impersonation of Katharine, and shared principal honours with Mr. Frank Cellier, who gave a masterly characterisation of Petruchio. Other praiseworthy embodiments were those of Miss Ine Cameron as Bianca, Miss Madge Spencer as Curtis, Mr. Murray Kinnell as Lucentio, Mr. Eugene Wellesley as Tranio, Mr. Arthur Seaton as Baptista, Mr. James Mason as Horleniso, Mr. Vernon O. Crabtree as Gremio, Mr. Gordon Philliott as Biondello, and Mr. H. P. Owen as Grumio. The Merchant of Venice, Twelfth Night, Romeo and Juliet, The Merry Wives of Windsor, The School for Scandal, and Hamlet are also in the week's bill.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietary, The Southend Hippodrome; Resident Manager, Mr. Lewis de Burgh.—Chas. Austin and company, in the screaming skit Parker, P.C., are very clever. Other good turns are contributed by the Lecardo Brothers, acrobats; Lily Palmer, comedienne; Russell Brandow, comedian; Signor and Mme. Borelli, entertainers; Gladys Mavius, Canadian girl; Victor Travers, comedian; Cash and Clair, comedians and dancers; and the Olympian troupe of comedy trick cyclists.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. E. Angless.—Miss M. Lowe-Dare's refined company give a successful portrayal of My Sweetheart, which is heartily received. Miss M. Lowe-Dare gives a vigorous and forceful impersonation of the adventuress, Mrs. Fleeter; and Mr. Ernest Dare as Joe Shotwell and Dudley Harcourt gives a powerful impersonation of both characters. Miss Mona Maughan in the title-rôle is both winsome and clever, and sings well with Mr. Frederic Morena, a good interpreter of Tony Faust; Miss Maggie de Halle is well suited as Mrs. Hatzell; Mr. Walter Hicks ably characterises Harold Bartlett; and Mr. Burton Yaldwin as Dr. Oliver is successful.

PIER HILL BANDSTAND.—Lessee, Mr. H. E. Angless.—Popularity is secured by the excellent programmes submitted by Mr. Finlay Dunn's Dandies, a clever company of artists who attract large audiences at each of the three daily performances.

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE WINTER GARDENS.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Percy Hutchison; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Clarkson.—The popular lessee of the Opera House inaugurated a répertoire season on Monday night, when a large and influential audience, including the Mayor (Councillor T. H. Gregson), thoroughly enjoyed a capital all-round interpretation of Cousin Kate, presented by Mr. Percy Hutchison and company. Mr. Hutchison submitted a strikingly natural and finished study of the artist, Heath Desmond, the character being excellently portrayed in all its phases: Miss Lilias Earle, who shared the honours with Mr. Hutchison, depicted the title-rôle with admirable effect and charm, both in the sympathetic and comedy scenes; Miss Cicely Stuckey enacted Amy Spencer in an artistic manner; Miss Pauline Strauss merits unstinted praise for her clever delineation of Jane; the matronly Mrs. Spencer had a highly commendable exponent in Miss Mary Griffiths; Mr. Frank Elliott presented a capital impersonation of the Rev. James Bartlett; and the characteristics of Bobby Spencer were humorously portrayed by Mr. Charles H. Chappell.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. John Coulson.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hinton and Travis Green present Her Fatal Marriage. The piece is full of incident, a noticeable feature being the powerful acting of Mr. Jerrold Heather as Zaco Maletto, who is ably supported by Miss Hilda Shirley as Myra Maletto, also a strong character.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Bridgen.—A Picnic Up the River is a refined musical treat, presented by Charburn's Young Stars; Robins and Collier Trio appear in a good extravaganza, Miss Bacon's Easter Egg; Naughton and Gold submit some good dancing and novel patter; Cul-Pitt is a marvellous and humorous conjurer. The remaining good items are W. A. Fenwick, in illustrated songs; Jennie Hartley, comedienne and dancer; and the Bioscope.

GRAND ELECTRIC THEATRE (Ocean-road).—Resident-Manager, Mr. Will Clark.—Herman and Evelyn, on the silver wire; Harry Boldon, banjoist and instrumentalist; and Cosselly, aided by a beautiful show of animated pictures, make this house a popular resort.

SPENNYMOOR.—CAMBRIDGE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. David Collins.—Mr. Frank Ayrton and company are here for their third week of the season, and produced The Unknown on Monday in a capable manner. Mr. Vincent W. Carlyle was well applauded as Harold Merrybright; Mr. Fred Watson made a capital Jack Salt, throwing much life into his embodiment; and as Arnold Tyson Mr. Norman A. Overton acted powerfully. Mr. Percy Coningsby gave a careful study of Dr. Brinkton; Mr. F. Ayrton was good as Jimmy; and Mr. John W. Harrell portrayed Albert Stormking with great satisfaction. Miss Ada Oakley made a capital Pessie Merrybright; and as Louise Miss Anna Beaumont played admirably. On Friday and Saturday, in addition to The Unknown, The Maid of Croxdale was announced to be staged for the first time.

PICTURE PALACE.—Manager, Mr. Arthur Sleep.—The A.B. Electric Picture Combination continues with some capital items. The variety turn is provided by the Sisters Coulson, who are well applauded for their singing and dancing.

ST. HELENS.—THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harry E. Johnson.—The Midnight Mail is presented here by Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's company. Mr. John F. Traynor plays Harry Steyne with marked success; and as Mary Steyne Miss Trissy Humphreys wins well-deserved approval. An exceptionally realistic representation of Billy Brewer is that given by Mr. Fred G. Evison; and Mr. Frank S. Strickland is responsible for a capital portrayal of Hassoa Padisha. Miss Mildred Carr makes the character of Nancy Brewer bright and interesting; as Leonard Royle Mr. Henry W. Hatchman presents a fine picture of the manly generous benefactor. The play is well staged.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs Barrasford, Sley, and Wilmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Leo Weisker.—The Brothers O'Brien top the bill with a novel and clever performance on the bars; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Leonard are again welcomed with much laughter in their sketch Coming Home; the Kebbles are dainty and charming duettists; Sibb and Sibb give an excellent display of trapeze work; and Ivey Aberdare is an exceptionally graceful dancer. Maude Beaumont displays the possession of a capital voice; Dacey and Lewis are very entertaining; and Mark Sheridan, jun., claims much applause. Ernest Clifford is a capital dancer. Pictures complete the programmes.

STOCKPORT. — THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—Diana of Dobson's is here this week. Miss E. Delaporte as Diana acts with charming grace; Captain the Hon. Victor is impersonated with skill and ability by Mr. Leslie Rea; Miss Hilda Francks is a thoroughly representative Mrs. Cantelupe; and Mr. Thomas Pauncefort acts effectively as Sir Jabez Grinlay.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—Mr. M. Montgomery's company is presenting In the Midst of Life here. Mr. Stanley S. Gordon acts with realistic ability as David Armstrong; Mr. S. E. Scanlan is a powerful Henry Germiston; Joe Drummond is pleasingly played by Mr. Harry Cooke; and Mr. H. Hesslegrove humorously portrays Captain Bargery. Miss Nina Vaughton claims sympathy as Margaret Grey; Miss Lillian Radbourn capably impersonates Lady Helen Rosmead; Molly Bargery has a bright and winsome representative in Miss Mabel Tremere; and Sybil is sweetly impersonated by Miss Evelyn Kington.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES. — GRAND THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—Mr. Geo. A. De Gray presents Was She His Wife? here. Mr. De Gray gives a powerful representation of the Tramp; and Mr. Alexander J. Haviland is capital as Jack Stanley. Miss Effie Bartlett is seen to great advantage as Nell Stanley; and Miss Etta Turner is a typical Waif. A capital film depicts the Derby.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Stainton.—Wee Georgie Wood proves an admirable top of the bill; he is a marvellous child comedian, and delights crowded audiences with his nursery scena. George Brooks is very popular in his latest successes; Briff, Braff, and Broff are clever comedy tumblers; Gladys Hooley, the violin girl, is excellent in "Fiddle and I"; Burns and Bentley are clever dancers; Monsieur Charles D'Aix gives a capital show with his trained dog "Ariane"; Cosgrove and Burns are diverting comedy duettists in "The Singing Academy"; and Kathleen Cogan is a dainty comedienne and dancer.

STOKE-ON-TRENT. — THE HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Arthur Burton.—Judith is presented twice nightly by the authoress, Miss Augusta Tullock, and company. Miss Tullock plays the part of Judith with much force.

ARCADIA, HARTSHILL.—Messrs. Fraser and Lloyd's Pierrotts have opened here for their summer. The company engaged is a strong one, including Messrs. Rand and O'Ryan, clever patter comedians and dancers; Miss Edith Ager, a dainty and pleasing comedienne; R. Freshwater, whose operatic numbers are well rendered; and F. D. Fraser, in old favourite numbers. Mr. R Burns ably presides at the piano.

STOURBRIDGE.—ALHAMBRA THEATRE, PICTURE HALL, AND PALACE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Douglas C. Phelps.—The novelty gymnasts, Craig, Rose, and Craig, head the bill here, and do a capital turn; Claire Hastings, with Joey, pays a welcome return visit, and sings with her accustomed feeling and vigour; Reg Northall shows great promise as a comedian and entertainer; Ray, Miles, and Ray are eccentric jugglers and grotesques, who cause much fun and amusement by their clever antics; Freddy from Eton is a boy with a man's bass voice, and is vociferously applauded. The pictures are specially good, and are varied nightly. The orchestra is under the able baton of Mr. John A. Powell.

SUNDERLAND.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Dunn.—Mr. Fred Granville's company is here in The Better Land. Miss Marguerite Trevosper wins favour for her delineation of Doris; Miss Madge Trevelyan is warmly applauded for her portrayal of Mercedes; Miss Bella Moody as Aunt Jemina does good work; and Misses Kitty Terris (Polly Perkins), Dorothy Love (Tessa), and Gertie Moody (Harry) also do well. Mr. Douglas Watson submits an interesting rendering of Philip Radcliffe; and the part of Hubert Radcliffe is strongly presented by Mr. Stanley Radcliffe.

AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—A good programme is drawing large audiences here this week. The Four Panamas are eminently successful in a clever comedy act; and the Brothers Walford, comedians and speciality artists, submit a comprehensive programme, which gains great popularity. The principal picture is entitled The Message of an Arrow.

EMPIRE THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—George Lashwood is starring here with clever songs; the Brothers Egbert (the Happy Dustmen) are also scoring heavily; the Channings submit a refined musical act; Nellie Wigley, burlesque artist, renders her songs in a telling manner; Tom Stuart displays considerable ability; Fatmah Diard, soprano, is having an enthusiastic reception; and Rauschle is equally popular with his realistic impersonations.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Hamilton's Picture and Variety Co.—Les Piccolinos, midget performers, are here this week, and their turn, a particularly exhaustive one, is well received; J. H. Greener, the singing pit lad, is scoring with his songs; and the Caritons provide a popular acrobatic entertainment. The pictures are up to the usual high standard.

SWINDON.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Wiltshire Entertainments Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Manners.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's play The Love of the Princess is being presented here. Prince Conrad is powerfully portrayed by Mr. Frank Harvey; Mr. Richard Vane is effective as Count Nicholas; Mr. John Burton gives a careful study of Josef, King of Ilarnia; Mr. Beckett Bould is a satisfactory Lieut. Orlando; Lieut. Zaroff is admirably sustained by Mr. John Worth; Mr. D. Laurance Doyle does well as Prince Regent; Mr. Francis Serle as Duke Scarfe and Mr. Edgar Morgan as Boris are amusing; Lady Irene is pleasingly rendered by Miss Maude Steeple; Miss Josephine Lee convincingly enacts Constantia; Princess Idalia finds a charming exponent in Miss May Beatrice.

TODMORDEN.—HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Richard Dewhirst.—This week Mr. Dewhirst is showing a good series of pictures. Among the répertoire is a fine drama entitled Saved from the Tide. A great attraction is the Anchor Troupe of Acrobats, a Todmorden squad of gymnasts, fourteen in number, who elicit tremendous applause.

OLYMPIA PICTURE PALACE.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. A. and H. Andrews; Manager, Mr. Chas. Tyers.—Packed houses still continue the rule at this popular place of amusement. Mr. Tyers is applauded for his singing.

TON-Y-PANDY. — ROYAL.—General-Manager, Mr. Sam Duckworth.—A striking attraction is afforded here in the return visit of When It Was Dark, presented by Mr. Oswald Cray's company. Mr. Cray is capable as the Rev. Basil Gortre; the Constantine Schwabe of Mr. C. W. Hulse is a capital assumption; Mr. E. Valentine is well placed as Sir R. Llewellyn; and the Rev. Byars of Mr. W. Manfree is praiseworthy. Miss Lillian Harries as Gertrude Hunt is all that can be desired; and Miss M. Grande is well suited as Grace Goldeye.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Will Stone; General-Manager, Mr. E. Harper.—Topping the bill here are the Four Mexican Lasso Wonders. Luis Hardt is well received; Todd Jones gains great applause; and Albert Macelvin and Clifton and Gibson also do well. Some excellent films are shown.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. W. Pearson.—Jim Esson, British heavy-weight wrestler, is a strong draw here; the Keppels are pleasing vocalists; the Four Sydney Girls are well received; Victoria Neil dances neatly; and Neil Francis scores heavily. Arden and Odell, Mark Hall, and Marie Lord all add to the general success.

TORQUAY.—PRINCESS PIER CONCERT HALL.—Proprietors, The Torquay Town Council; Manager, Mr. A. T. Tremlett.—The Royal Strolling Players continue to attract large audiences. Mr. Sydney James proves himself to be a capital entertainer; Miss Dorothy Belmore does well in monologues at the piano; Miss Madeline Rossiter is exceedingly popular; Mr. Frank Halpin (bass) and Mr. Jack Austin (tenor) render their selections excellently; and Mr. G. W. Desmond as a clog-dancer and entertainer displays much talent. Miss Seymour James's monologues are encored.

TYNEMOUTH.—PALACE AND WINTER GARDENS.—Proprietors, the Palace Co., Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Harold Arnold.—Webb and Edna Branston, operatic duettists, are paying a welcome visit here; Dent and Leonard, tumblers, &c., provide an acceptable turn; the Lyons Trio score in a comedy act; Lilian Farrar is seen to advantage in a song-scena, entitled Bubbles; Michael Welsh, comedian, has a budget of capital songs; and Gus Bawn, eccentric musician, the Westbrooks, in novel dancing act, and Stewart and Morris also contribute to the entertainment.

WAKEFIELD. — OPERA HOUSE. — Closed for summer vacation.

NEW EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.; Manager, Mr. S. H. Laycock.—The Gascoignes, who head the bill here, give a clever display of juggling; Miss Florence Smithers and company cause much merriment in an amusing sketch, Our Mary Jane; Mr. Arthur Woodville is a smart light comedian; Burnetti, quick-change artist, gives a bright and interesting musical act; the Twelve Georgians, vocalists and dancers, do well; Dorris and Francis are pleasing duettists and dancers; and Mr. Jack Lumley, comedian, is quaint.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—The Brothers Obo, comedians, who top the bill here, evoke hearty laughter with their funny patter; Bu Val, the happy Dutchman, gives an admirable vocal turn; Miss Connie Isca, chorus vocalist, delights; and Sylvene, assisted by Mlle. Florence, performs wonderful equilibristic feats. Excellent pictures on the Bioscope complete.

WALLSEND.—BOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Hugh Duffy.—The Five Atlas and Miss Vulcana, athletes, &c., head the bill; the Crisps score in a clever dancing scena; the Three Orros, in original act on silver chains. Bert Belton, comedian; Six Manchester Lads, vocalists, &c., Harrison Bros., in absurdity, G. M. Schilling, Dan Ashton, vocalist, and the Bioscope complete the programme.

WARRINGTON.—ROYAL COURT. — Proprietor, Mr. J. Beecham; General-Manager, Mr. A. M. Loader.—Messrs. J. C. Lodge-Percy and James Martin's company is here in a triple bill—Mr. Barnes of New York, Moths, and Camille. On Monday night in the first-named play Miss Henrietta Schrier scored brilliantly as Marina Paoli, and Mr. Lodge-Percy as Mr. Barnes acted naturally throughout.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Eric Longden.—Messrs. Haines and Borthwick are scoring a success here in the sketch 'Alf a Dollar. William Jackson's Eight Lancashire Lads sing and dance effectively; the Dancing Gilberts supply a good turn; George Lawrence's songs are enjoyed; Ward and Davis score in the sketch Wanted, a Typist; Zenora is a wonderful equilibrist; and Dorothy Vasey's songs are popular.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, The Central Theatres and Franco-British Animated Picture Company; Managing-Director, Mr. Wilberforce Turner; Manager, Mr. Jack Waters.—Gormon's Juveniles head the bill here this week, and in the scena The Waif score well. The Denaro Bros. are clever juvenile equilibrists; and Marie Blythe, a dainty comedienne, and the Pictures are good.

WELLINGBOROUGH. — KING'S PALACE.—The pictures shown here this week take well. Howe and Kessler are an entertaining pair; other turns being the Lymes, Josh Thornton, and Miss Lily St. Helen.

EMPIRE.—The chief attraction here is the wonderful dancing of the Brothers Weltman; Bertini also has a good reception; and George Norton gives a decidedly quaint performance. Queenie Morris is deservedly encored; and other items are Walter Lintone, Carrie Forde, and Scotch and Polly.

WEST BROMWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. R. Nightingale; Lessee, Mr. Montague Beaudyn.—Mr. Frank Lindo's well-known domestic drama Home Sweet Home is the attraction at this place of amusement. Mr. Montague Beaudyn himself takes the part of Stephen Armitage, and fills it with much ability; Miss Irene Munroe is a charming Joan; Miss Daisy Rochefort an admirable Dora; Mr. Val Gully as David Armitage is a striking figure; and Mr. A. Britton as the Duke of Ancaster does well.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. R. Colin; Resident-Manager, Mr. R. Colin, sen.; Assistant-manager, Mr. Ted Leamar.—In addition to the excellent lot of pictures shown at the Hippodrome there are some striking turns, headed by D. W. Watson, the celebrated post-horn player. The Two Daniels are clever negro comedians; Nora Doone has some capital songs; and McAskell provides clever conjuring.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. F. Thompson.—Wish Wynne is an original comedienne; the Bennans, in a refined and clever dancing act, gain great favour; Matthews and Mann, operatic vocalists, contribute a pleasing turn; John Tiller's choreagraphic spectacular ballet is pretty and effective; and other items on the programme which are appreciated are Baby's Park Parade, the Eight New Cocktails, The Mystic Hussars, The Friesland Serenaders, and The Twelve Forget-me-Nots.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE. — KNIGHTSTONE PAVILION AND OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. W. Payne.—Mr. Fred Jerman's farcical comedy, The Magnetic Girl, was presented here for the first time, and on Monday was received most heartily, being screamingly funny. Mr. Edward Carlton, a very clever comedian, whose humour was irresistible as 'Arry de Bompas; Mr. William Clark was really good as Mr. Henry Stockholder; Mr. A. T. Gullifer's interpretation of Timothy de Bompas was excellent, and so, too, was the Sir Victor de Bompas of Mr. Sam Lockridge; Mr. Gerald Merrielees made the most of Albert Greythorn; Mr. Eric Bass was praiseworthy as Emanuel Garcia, and the same can be said of Mr. George Parrington as George Minshall; Miss Olivia Eltone, a charming actress, made quite a hit as Estrella Gomez; Miss Rénée Reel's Bella Lightfoot was an artistic impersonation; and Miss Dulcie Vernie is entitled to eulogy as Mrs. Greythorn.

GRAND PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. John H. Stevenson.—The Brownies are here this week, and are exceptionally smart. Miss Beatrice Willey sang "My morn" with expression; Miss Maidie Field's rendering of "William, James, and 'Enery" was loudly encored; Miss Vivien Stafford sang "Those loving eyes" with effect; Miss Dorothy Webb at the piano was excellent; Mr. Charles Heslop's humorous song "There's a sun still shining in the sky" fairly brought down the house; "A hundred years ago" was artistically rendered by Mr. Alec S. Clunes; and Mr. Harvey Brinton was most successful with his song "Terrors Territorial." Some very fine pictures are shown by Lambert's Bioscope, and Herr Feriescu's Viennese Band is loudly applauded.

WHITLEY BAY.—PLEASURE GARDENS, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. A. Peuleve.—This place of amusement is now in full swing, the shops and restaurants on the front and in the interior having all been let, and are now occupied. In addition to the stock company engaged, the principal feature is the engagement of the Pichel Troupe of risley and acrobatic performers. Others prominent are May St. Hilda, in a lightning oil-painting scena; Wal Croft, Scotch comedian; Fame and Fortune, comedians; and Harry Levaine, comedian.

COLISEUM THEATRE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Steve Smith; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Patterson.—The animated pictures include dramatic incidents, thrilling romances, and pathetic domestic stories. This diversified display is enlivened by varieties, principally from Frank Stanert, musical laughing comedian, in "The Tubellophone."

BATHS PAVILION.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. R. L. Grice.—This popular hall continues to be packed at each of the two evening performances. A good number of the very latest and up-to-date films are exhibited. The variety list is headed by Nat Lewis, amusing comedian.

WIDNES.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Burton.—An excellent variety bill is presented here by J. Gar Kiddie, comedian; G. Spray, dancer and vocalist; Lennard and King, Hebrew comedians; and Margaret Oglivee, vocalist. Attractive pictures are shown by the Bioscope.

CO-OPERATIVE HALL.—Lessees and General-Managers, Messrs. Hamilton and Hughes.—Witty Watty Walton presents a very funny turn, and makes a great hit; Herr Karl Cynski fully justifies the title of a great Hungarian musician; Messrs. Chorley and Connor are bright and funny Scottish entertainers; Simosa San is a graceful Japanese entertainer; and the Bioscope works effectively.

WIGAN.—THE ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Company.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company is here in At Cripple Creek. Mr. W. Ryott gives a successful portrayal of Joe Mayfield; Mr. Charles E. Johnson scores as Martin Mason, and is ably assisted by Mr. Y. O. Cuthbertson as Manuel Alveraz; Mr. Will Hook is an entertaining Reggie Harwood; Mr. Harry Benson as Ben White provides some merry moments; Miss Isabel Lockie makes a charming Belle Gordon; Miss Daisy Carlton causes laughter as Maggie Mason; and Miss Norah Dillon is a vivacious Sarah Lively.

HIPPODROME.—Lessees, The U.S.A. Animated Picture Company; Manager, Mr. Fletcher Sansome.—The two star pictures here this week are A Struggle for Life, a tale of Paris; and Lieut. Rose, R.N., and The Foreign Spy, a stirring patriotic story. Other good pictures are An Outlaw's Sacrifice, Why the Mail Was Late, and A Child's Message to Heaven.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fred Ball.—Mr. George Kirby's company is presenting Fascinating Peggy. Possessed of a sweet voice and winsome manner, Miss Marie Duncan is all that could be wished for in the title-part. She is ably partnered by Mr. James Hawkes as Lord Hassendale, whose rich baritone voice is heard to great advantage in the various numbers allotted to him. Mr. Victor H. Crawford as Christopher Scrubs is the life and soul of the piece, and his appearances are greeted with roars of laughter. Mr. Walter B. Nugent makes a capital villain as Harry Ledville; Mr. Jack Tate is good as Jacques Berat; and Mr. Sidney West is satisfactory as Sipple Kipple. Miss Leslie Warner acquits herself admirably as Viola Berat; Miss May Laarhoven is efficient as Tarabintha; Miss Daisy Stone is successful in her songs as Betsy; and Miss Nellie Morris as Taps makes a smart and vivacious little jockey. The introduction of the Apache Dance in the second act causes rounds of applause.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Vivian Evans.—A strong bill is headed by the Six Brothers Luck in their comedy sketch H.M.S. Perhaps, which provides an ingeniously arranged stage picture and any amount of mirth. Maurice is a marvellous mystifier, his manipulation of cards being really wonderful; the Three Orleans present a unique singing and dancing act; Tommy Clifford is a prominent young ventriloquist; Ruby Rayo, comedienne and dancer, obtains numerous recalls; the Lyric Mummers again entertain with their vocal selections; and Jack Rae is a clever comedy juggling gymnast.

ELECTRIC THEATRE.—Proprietors, London and Provincial Electric Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Hickman.—The Derby Race is the star film here, and, despite the sultry weather, good houses are the rule.

WORCESTER. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Edward Evans.—Mr. Scott Alexander's company, which is here, includes Miss Kitty Aden, Messrs. C. Dashwood, S. J. Bird, and R. Alister. Other items are Whizzing the Whirl; Knoto, boneless man; the Musical Bohemians; the graceful Merries, in their charming dances; Sandy and Ramsey, in a comical turn; and Miss Ivy Cornwallis and Will Warren.

WORTHING. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. Adolf Seebold.—The head of the bill is occupied by Consul, the almost man, who goes through his performance in a wonderful manner. Harry Drew, the famous Welsh basso, is in particularly fine voice, and has scored heavily; Benn's Dutch Boys and Girls provide a unique entertainment; Fred Neiman is most acceptable with his ventriloquial minstrels; Amandus, the cosmopolitan facial mimic, is in favour; and Rosie Gaston, comedienne, in catchy songs, goes well. The remainder of the entertainment is provided by Mlle. Rosinan, instrumentalist, and the farcical interlude Cupid in a Lodging-house.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. Reginald Paine.—Excellent programmes are provided here daily by the Frolics, and the Royal Navy Ladies' Orchestra, under the conductorship of Mme. F. Sydney Jones.

ST. JAMES'S HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. Scott and Mansfield.—A vaudeville party styling themselves the Queries have returned here for the season.

WREXHAM.—EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. J. Scott.—An amusing character comedian, George Goldburn, heads the bill this week, and the programme is finished off by a pleasing vocal comedienne, Miss Connie Rubie. The great features of the pictures this week are The Black Hand and A Gipsy's Vengeance.

YORK.—ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—Mr. Allan Wilkie is completing a most successful three weeks' engagement, during which he and his company have been heartily received. On Monday The Two Orphans of Paris was given before a good house. Miss May Dallas was a picturesque Louise; and Miss F. Hunter Watts acted with much charm and skill as Henriette. Mr. Wilkie gave a rugged and forcible rendering of Jacques; and Mr. G. Edward Dunstan was in every way a success as Pierre. Mr. Herbert Mansfield as the Marquis du Pressles played an unthankful rôle with much skill; and Mr. John Paley was seen to advantage as the Doctor.

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brook.—A decided hit has been made by Miss Mabel Thorne, a comedienne with up-to-date methods, who sings three songs in first-rate style. Minola Hurct and her midgets present an original turn; the Unites, in their comedy act, score heavily; Al and Lal introduce a novel ventriloquial sketch; and Frank Weaver is a dancer of a high order of merit. Alice Hughes and company present a sketch brimful of humour; Marie Pera and Thomas Kennard are heartily applauded in a merry trifle entitled Two Doors and a Passage; Signor Torti, the possessor of an exceptionally fine tenor voice, speedily sings himself into favour; and Everhart, hoop manipulator, is heartily applauded.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Bowman; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. E. Bradley.—There is another grand display at this popular hall, where large audiences continue to attend. The most notable films are For His Child's Sake, The Ranchman's Wooing, and Betty in Hot Water. Excellent turns are given by Geo. Lambton and Eric Graham, comedians.

VICTORIA HALL.—Lessee, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Resident-Manager, Mr. Bert Rutter.—There is no lack of enterprise here, and films descriptive of local events are well received. Ned Gradon's musical mélange is well received.

POLICE CENSORSHIP.

"Mayor Gaynor deserves and receives the approbation of all good citizens for his efforts to enforce the excise laws and to prevent indecent plays," says Mr. Stephen Fiske in our much-respected contemporary the New York Sports of the Times. "But his methods radically differed. He ordered the police to obtain evidence against excise violators and turn them over to the District Attorney for prosecution; but when the police thought a play indecent they were instructed to suspend, revoke, or withhold the licence for the theatre. In the one case the offenders were to be punished; in the other the building or the proprietors or lessees of the building. Thus the licence for the New York Theatre, leased by Klaw and Erlanger, was withheld, because the Police Commissioner pronounced The Girl With the Whooping Cough, produced by A. H. Woods, an improper play. Second sober thoughts are best, and the New York re-opened with a revival of The Three Twins, which has already run the gauntlet of police and other criticism. When Henry B. Harris produced A Skylark at the New York, I said that the theatre, not the play, was on trial—meaning that if such a merry, dainty musical comedy, admirably sung and acted and beautifully staged, could not succeed there it was a proof that the clientele of that house required something more highly spiced. The withdrawal of A Skylark and the production of The Girl With the Whooping Cough justified my diagnosis. The Whooping Cough Girl suited the New York Theatre patrons, but was too spicy for the police. The theatre may be purified by Three Twins; but are the peculiar people who support it to be suddenly converted to purer dramatic tastes?

"The line between proper and improper, moral and immoral, plays is so fine that no censor—official, police, or journalistic—can draw it accurately. The most indecent thing I have seen on the stage is the sofa scene in Pinero's comedy, The Wife Without a Smile; but the British Censor licensed, the leading managers of London and New York, produced it; the police did not interfere, and the critics were silent. Camille raised a storm of protest; now it is a classic. Sapho called out the police; now nobody notices it. The Great Divide was horribly suggestive; but it had its run here and in England undisturbed. The Girl plays of which the Whooping Cougher is a type, are not immoral in the corrupting sense of the Ibsen school; but they are shockingly vulgar and indelicate. Yet not a single daily paper in New York ventures to tell the plain truth about them. The only danger from such plays is that people may go to see them in ignorance of their real character, and this is the fault of the daily Press. A play without a vulgar line, an indecent incident, a suggestive situation

REVISED SCALE OF CHARGES FOR

ARTISTS WANTING ENGAGEMENTS.
MANAGERS WANTING ARTISTS.

THREE LINES (ABOUT TWENTY WORDS), ONE SHILLING.
Each Additional Line (Six Words or less), Sixpence.

This Scale does not apply to "Trade" Advertisements in these Columns.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION (Post Free).

UNITED KINGDOM.	FOREIGN
One Quarter ..... 6s. 6d.	8s.
Half Year ..... 13s. 0d.	16s.
One Year ..... 26s. 0d.	32s.

The Offices of "The Era" are
"THE ERA" BUILDINGS,
5, TAVISTOCK-STREET, STRAND, W.C.
For the convenience of Advertisers, Replies to Advertisements are received. They can remain until called for, or be forwarded by Post if postage be arranged.

NO STAMPS.

Advertisers and subscribers are politely requested to forward Cheques or Postal Orders in payment of their Advertisements and Subscriptions, crossed "Lloyd's Bank, Ltd." Remittances should be made payable to "The Era," Limited, and addressed,

THE PUBLISHER,
The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-st., Strand, W.C.
"Wire," "The Era, London."
"Ring-up," 4747 or 1433 Central.

IN case of the non-delivery of "THE ERA" by the First Post, the Publisher will be greatly obliged if Advertisers will forward their Postal Wrappers with the time of delivery marked upon them.

COMPANIES WANTED.

TWENTY WORDS, ONE SHILLING.
Each Additional Six Words, Sixpence.

MILTON BODE and EDWARD COMPTON'S THEATRES.
WANTED, First-class Companies, for THEATRE ROYAL, BRIGHTON.
July 11, 18, Aug. 15, Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 3. 31, Dec. 12, Feb. 13, 20, 27, on.
DALSTON THEATRE, LONDON, N.E.
Sept. 12, 26, Oct. 10, Nov. 21, Jan. 23, Feb. 6, on.
COUNTY THEATRE, READING.
Aug. 15, 29, Sept. 12, 19, 26, Oct. 10, 24, 31, on.
OPERA HOUSE, LEICESTER.
Aug. 8, Sept. 5, Oct. 31, Nov. 21, 28, Dec. 12, on.
ROYALTY THEATRE, CHESTER.
Feb. 27, March 6, April 3, 10, on.
GRAND THEATRE, WOLVERHAMPTON
July 18, Aug. 1, Sept. 5, 12, 19, Oct. 10, 24, on.
THEATRE ROYAL, HUDDERSFIELD.
Aug. 1, Sept. 5, Oct. 3, 10, 17, Nov. 21, 28, on.
OPERA HOUSE, NORTHAMPTON.
Aug. 15, Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 17, Nov. 28, Dec. 12, on.
THEATRE ROYAL, LEICESTER.
June 27, July 4, Aug. 1.
Oct. 17, 24, 31, Nov. 14, Dec. 12, Jan. 2, 9, on.
Address, MILTON BODE, Theatre, Reading.

PIER THEATRE, EASTBOURNE.
This Theatre will in future be booked by Mr. MILTON BODE, and all communications re dates should be addressed to him at COUNTY THEATRE, READING. All other communications to G. Hayes, Pier, Eastbourne.
A full week may be booked in conjunction with Pier Theatre, Hastings (three nights each).
WANTED, Companies for July 18, 28 (three nights), Aug. 15 (two nights), Aug. 29, Sept. 5, 12, 22, 26, on.
Apply MILTON BODE, Theatre, Reading.

PIER PAVILION, HASTINGS.
WANTED, Wanted, Companies.
Mr. Walter Maxwell is now booking First-class Attractions from July 4 for the Season.
Three Nights for preference.
The week may be completed at the Pier, Eastbourne.

Address all communications,
WALTER MAXWELL, 52, Bedford Court-mansions, London, W.C. 'Phone 4,270 Gerrard.

WANTED, First-class Attractions, for COUNTY THEATRE, BEDFORD,
Aug. 1, 8, onwards, with exceptions.
GRAND THEATRE, LUTON,
Aug. 1, 8, onwards, with exceptions.
THEATRE ROYAL, CANTERBURY.
Aug. 15, 22, onwards, with exceptions.
Address, E. G. FALCON, County Theatre, Bedford.

WANTED, First-class Attractions for
MARINA THEATRE, LOWESTOFT,
Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 6 (3), and Easter.
NEW ROYAL THEATRE, KING'S LYNN.
Aug. 4, 11, 15, 22, 29, Sept. 5 and 26.
EMPIRE THEATRE, SOUTHEND.
Dec. 12, 19, Jan. 2, Feb. 6, on, and Easter.
HIPPODROME THEATRE, SHEERNESS.
Aug. 4, 15, Sept. 19, Nov. 28, Dec. 12, 19.
Address, B. PARKYER, Proprietor and Manager, Marina Theatre, Lowestoft.

KELLY'S THEATRE,
KELLY'S THEATRE,
Paradise-street, just off Church-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, First-class Attractions for July 11 and Aug. 8.

Wire or write to
W. W. KELLY,
New Theatre Royal, Birkenhead.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE, MIDDLESBROUGH.
GRAND OPERA HOUSE, MIDDLESBROUGH.

One of the handsomest Theatres in the county. Holding capacity 3,500. Visited by all the biggest Stars and Companies.

WANTED, Aug. 1, Bank Holiday, onwards, with exceptions, including Aug. 15 (Race Week).
Could arrange Stock Season for June and July.

CASTLE THEATRE, STOCKTON.
This handsome Theatre will reopen Aug. Holding capacity 3,000.
WANTED, Aug. 1, onwards, with exceptions, including Aug. 15 (Race Week).

All communications to
J. CHAS. IMESON,
Theatre Royal, Middlesbrough.

THE NEW THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, BLACKBURN.
The most Magnificent Theatre in East Lancashire.
WANTED, High-class Attraction, Aug. 15, 22, 29, and Sept. 5.
A few Spring Dates possibly vacant.
Address all communications re dates to HARRY YORKE, Managing-Director.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, CARLISLE.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, Autumn, 1910.

THOS. COURTICE, Manager.

THEATRE ROYAL, PRESTON.

WANTED, First-class Attractions, Aug. 15 and 22, and several good Autumn Dates.

Apply, J. ALBAN NEWTON.

LYRIC THEATRE, LIVERPOOL.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, Share or certainty.
All must play twice nightly.
HENRY C. ARNOLD, Managing-Director.

ROYAL ARTILLERY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, WOOLWICH.
Lessee and Manager, JULES RICHEUX.
WANTED, First-class Attractions for only vacant dates Aug. 8, 22 (?), 29, Sept. 12, 19, Oct. 3, 10, 24, Nov. 21, Panto. Xmas (four weeks), on. Bookings: D'Oyly Carte, Moody-Manners, and Turner's Operas, "Merry Widow," "Arcadians," "Our Miss Gibbs," "Dairymaids," "Gay Gordons," "Miss Hook," "Cingalee," "Country Girl," "Flag Lieutenant," "Knights Were Bold," "Rames," &c. Re dates direct to JAY and MANN, 10-11, Jermyn-street, S.W.

COMPANIES WANTED.

WANTED, First-class Companies. Wanted, First-class Companies.

THEATRE ROYAL, WORCESTER.
THEATRE ROYAL, WORCESTER.
Vacant Aug. 22, Sept. 5, Nov. 7, Dec. 5. onward, with exceptions.

EMPIRE, WORCESTER.
EMPIRE, WORCESTER.
Pictures and Bijou Vaudeville.
All arrangements complete at present.

THEATRE ROYAL, TON-Y-PANDY.
THEATRE ROYAL, TON-Y-PANDY.
Vacant July 11, 18, 25, Aug. 8, 15, Sept. 12. onward, with exceptions.

NEW THEATRE, BARRY.
NEW THEATRE, BARRY.
This magnificent Theatre now nearing completion. Undoubtedly one of the finest theatres in Wales, up-to-date in every detail. Holding capacity over 2,000. Stage 62 by 37. Equipped with every modern stage contrivance. Superb plant of electric light, 500 ampères available. This Theatre caters for a very large population, standing right in the centre of the populous towns of Cadoxton, Barry Dock, Barry, and Barry Island, the latter being full of visitors during the summer season.

Vacant Aug. 1, Sept. 5, 19, Nov. 28, Dec. 12.

Bookings already include "Silver King," "Fatal Wedding," "Florodora," "Miss Hook of Holland," "Merry Widow," "When Knights Were Bold," "Gay Gordons," &c., &c.
BARRY ELECTRIC THEATRE DE LUXE.
Pictures and Bijou Vaudeville.
All arrangements complete at present.

Wanted, Dates, "ALADDIN," "BABES IN THE WOOD," "PUSS IN BOOTS."

All communications,
ARTHUR CARLTON,
Theatre Royal, Worcester.

Telegrams, "Carlton, Worcester."

WANTED, First-class Attractions, GRAND THEATRE, SOUTHAMPTON, July 25.
GAIETY THEATRE, DUBLIN, Aug. 1.
OPERA HOUSE, CORK, Aug. 1, 8 (?), 22.
Apply, F. MOUILLOT, 1, King-st., Covent Garden, W.C.

QUEEN'S THEATRE, FARNWORTH.
WANTED, Powerful Attractions, July 4 (?), 11 (?), 18 (?), 25, Aug. 1, 8, 22.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

SCOTLAND'S PROVINCIAL THEATRES.
WANTED, First-class Dramatic, Musical, or Variety Attractions, for:
AYR, COATBRIDGE, FALKIRK, MOTHERWELL, LEITH, and KIRKCALDY, for August and Autumn, 1910.

Wire or write, R. C. BUCHANAN,
6, John-street, Adelphi, London, W.C.

ROYALTY THEATRE, MORECAMBE.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, June 27 (Bolton Holiday), July 11, 18, 25, Aug. 15, and on.
Address, CHAS. M. JULIAN, General-Manager.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, BLYTH-BY-SEA.
See Page 15 of "The Era," dated May 7, 1910.
New Theatrical Watering-place.
WANTED, Powerful Attractions, for Aug. 1 (B.H.), 8, and Sept. 5, 12, Oct. 24.
Special Notice.
Proprietors and Managers of Sound Attractions, Musical, Dramatic, or Farcical, with vacant dates, from and including Aug. 1, 1910, are invited to send in particulars of Plays, &c., cast, printing, &c., for consideration, to ARTHUR C. MOODY, Blyth-by-Sea.

WEYMOUTH NEW THEATRE.
One of the most charming Theatres in the Provinces. Holds £120 at ordinary prices. Lit throughout by electric light. No other Theatre within radius of thirty miles. Drawing capacity 60,000.
WANTED, First-class Companies, July 11 (?), 18 (3), Oct. 10 (?), 24, 31, Nov. 14, 28, on.
All coms. re dates to London Representatives, JAY and MANN, 10-11, Jermyn-street, S.W.
All other coms. direct to W. R. WALLIS.

WORTHING THEATRE ROYAL.
One of the Prettiest Theatres on the South Coast. Rebuilt and enlarged. Holding £100.
WANTED, First-class Companies, Three Nights, One Matinée, June 30, July 18, Aug. 4, Sept. 8, onwards. Apply, C. ADOLF SEEBOLD.

THEATRE ROYAL, STOCKPORT.
WANTED, First-class Dramatic Companies for Aug. 1 and 22.
Address, CHARLES REVILL.

WANTED, for the Prince of Wales Theatre, Salford, First-class Companies for July 18, 25, Aug. 1, 8, and on. Address, E. B. GOULDEN.

WANTED, Musical Comedy, Aug. Bank Holiday week, and First-class Attractions for Aug. and Sept. SHERWOOD and Co., O. H., Wakefield.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, WIDNES.
WANTED, High-class Companies, for Aug. 8, 15, Sept. 19, and onwards with exceptions.
Address, THOS. SWINTON.

OPERA HOUSE, KIDDERMINSTER.
WANTED, Applications from Companies for August Bank Holiday and various Autumn Dates. Bookings: "Merry Widow," "Gay Gordons," "Mrs. Wiggs," F. R. Benson, &c. Address all coms., MANAGER, O. H., Kidderminster.

OPERA HOUSE, DUNFERMLINE.
WANTED, High-class Companies, Musical preferred, Aug. 15, 22, Sept. 1, 5, 19, on, with exceptions. W. E. POTTS.

PALACE THEATRE, TYNEMOUTH.
WANTED, for Summer Season, 1911, First-class Musical Comedy Productions.
ROSEN and BLISS, 12, Henrietta-street, London, W.C.

WANTED, good Companies, for Sept. 1, 12, 19, 26, onwards (three nights).
PHILLIPS, Coliseum, Aberystwyth.

CHORLEY HOLIDAY WEEK.
RE-OPENING GRAND THEATRE.
WANTED, Powerful Répertoire Co., Musical or Melodramatic (not Shakespeare), to commence Saturday, July 16, for 7 nights, or Monday, July 18, 6 nights. A sure huge week for good show.
Address, SANTE, Theatre, Chorley.

GRAND THEATRES, CHORLEY & RADCLIFFE.
WANTED, Something Good in Répertoire, 7 nights, July 16 (holiday week), also July 25, Aug. 1, Grand, Chorley, also Aug. 8, 15, on, Grand, Radcliffe. Address, SANTE, Radcliffe.

WANTED, First-class Attraction. Re-opening Date, Aug. 1, and Dec. 12.
Address, MANAGER, Theatre Royal, Castleford.

NEW PRINCE'S THEATRES, BLACKBURN AND PRESTON.
WANTED, First-class Drama or Variety Combination, Preston, June 27, July 4, 11; Blackburn, July 25, Aug. 1, 15. E. H. PAGE, Blackburn.

KING'S THEATRE, GREENOCK.
WANTED, for Re-opening of Season, First-class Musical and Dramatic Attractions, Aug. 1, 8, 15, 22, 29, Sept. 5, 12 (Holiday date), Oct. 24, Nov., Dec., onwards, with exceptions.
Address, A. B. and J. J. WRIGHT.

ROYAL THEATRE & OPERA HOUSE, TORQUAY.
Unexpectedly Vacant Aug. 1.
WANTED, Strong Attraction for this date.

Apply, A. PEARSE.

ABERYSTWYTH ROYAL PIER PAVILION.
WANTED, First-class Attractions.
Apply, J. H. ROWE,
C/o A. J. Hughes, Town Clerk, Aberystwyth.

COMPANIES WANTED.

Booked by
MOSS' EMPIRES, LIMITED,
BORDESLEY PALACE THEATRE,
GRAND THEATRE, NOTTINGHAM,
BROADWAY THEATRE, NEW CROSS,
and
GRAND THEATRE GLASGOW.

WANTED, Musical Comedy or very Special Attractions.

BROADWAY THEATRE, NEW CROSS.
Vacant Sept. 26, Feb. 13, 20, March 6, 13 (?), 20, 27, April 10, May 1, 8, 15, 22, 29.
Several Autumn (1911) Dates.

BORDESLEY PALACE THEATRE.
Vacant Sept. 5, Nov. 14 (?), 28, Dec. 12 (?), Jan. 9, 23, Feb. 13, 20, March 20, 27, April 10. May 1, 8, 15, 22, 29, June 5, and several Autumn (1911) dates. Good Pantomime for two weeks at Christmas.

GRAND THEATRE, NOTTINGHAM.
Vacant Aug. 1 (?), Oct. 31 (?), Nov. 14, 28, Feb. 20 (Pantomime), 27 (?), April 3, 10, 17, 24, May 1, 8 (?), 15, 22, 29, June 5. Several Autumn (1911) dates.

GRAND, GLASGOW.
Vacant Aug. 1, 8, 15, 22, 29, Sept. 5, 12, 19, Oct. 3, 10, 17, 24, Nov. 7, 14.

Good Stock Companies Wanted for all Theatres.
Address, with full particulars, terms, &c., where can be seen, to
MOSS' EMPIRES, LIMITED,
Cranbourn-mansions, Cranbourn-street, W.C.
Envelopes marked "Theatres."

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, BARROW-IN-FURNESS.
Lessee and Manager, Mr. HUGH ROBERTSON.
The Premier Theatre in the Town, with a holding capacity greatly in excess of any other Theatre in the Town.
Booked by Mr. George Edwardes, Mrs. D'Oyly Carte, George Dance, Mr. Arthur Hart, Mr. Frank Curzon, Mr. Fred Mouillot, Messrs. Sidney Cooper and Lyn Harding, Messrs. Paumier and Howard, Mr. R. Courtneidge, Mr. J. W. Turner, &c., &c.
WANTED, First-class London Successes, for June 27 and July 4, 11, 18, 25, Aug. 1, on, with exceptions. All applications for dates to HUGH ROBERTSON, Theatre Royal, Jarrow.

THEATRE ROYAL, SUNDERLAND.
WANTED, Powerful Dramatic Attraction, for July 18.
Apply, HARRY ESDEN, Empire, Sunderland.
Please mark envelope "Royal."

WANTED, T. R., Margate, July 11 (week), 25 (3), Aug. 29 (3), Sept. 12 (3), on. Not Drama. Musical preferred. WEATHERSBY'S Agency, 3, Bedford-street, W.C.

GRAND THEATRE, LLANDUDNO.
WANTED, First-class Attractions only, Aug. 4 (three nights).
Address, The MANAGER.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SWINDON.
WANTED, Musical and Dramatic Attractions, July 11, 18, 25, Aug. 1, 29, Sept. 5, 12, 26, Oct. 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, on, with exceptions. Also Variety Combinations, Musical and Dramatic Attractions, first three nights, Garrison T., Tidworth, June 20, July 4, 25, Aug on. ALFRED MANNERS.

MINERS' THEATRE, ASHINGTON, NORTHUMBERLAND, near NEWBIGGIN-BY-THE-SEA.
Lessee and Manager, ARTHUR C. MOODY.
WANTED, Wanted, Wanted, Powerful Attraction for Opening Date, Aug. 2, and various onwards.

The above Theatre is now being thoroughly renovated, and when completed will be one of the most comfortable and up-to-date Theatres in the North. Managers may with confidence book Blyth and Ashington. Both Theatres are under the personal supervision of
Yours faithfully,
ARTHUR C. MOODY.
All letters to be endorsed "Moody, Blyth." Managers holding contracts please communicate.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE, LIVERPOOL.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, Aug. 1 (Bank Holiday) and 8.
The only Principal Theatre open at this time in Liverpool.
WENTWORTH CROKE,
Piccadilly-mansions, 17, Shaftesbury-avenue, W.

PALACE THEATRE, NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.
WANTED, Strong Dramatic Attractions, Aug. 29, Sept. 5, Oct. 24, Nov. 7.
Apply, T. W. ROWE.

WANTED, good Company, Musical Comedy, Dramatic or Variety, July 18, probable Flying Week. J. W. CHAPMAN, Grand T., Doncaster.

VICTORIA THEATRE, BURNLEY.
WANTED, First-class Musical or big Dramatic Attractions, for Aug. 1 to 22, Nov. 14, 21, 28, Dec. 12, 19. Wire, HORNER, Burnley.

WINTER GARDENS, NEW BRIGHTON.
The Premier Place of Amusement.
WANTED, Big Attractions. First Vacant Date. Oct. 17, and onwards. with exceptions. Musical or Farcical Comedy preferred. Must be First-class. Address, MANAGERS.

THEATRE ROYAL, TON-Y-PANDY.
WANTED, good Dramatic Company, Aug. 1. Lowest certainty, ARTHUR CARLTON, Theatre, Worcester.

EDEN THEATRE, BISHOP AUCKLAND.
WANTED, Managers of Twice-nightly Attractions, Dramatic or Musical, with Open Dates in August, to communicate with J. HUNTLEY.

KURSAAL, BEXHILL-ON-SEA.
WANTED, July 11, six nights, height of season, good Musical or Special Attraction, not Drama. Other Bookings include Follies, "Arcadians," Arthur Roberts, &c.
Address, JAMES M. GLOVER.

WANTED, for Theatre Royal, Crook, Companies, Aug. 1, 15, Sept. 5, on. WALLACE DAVIDSON, Shakespeare Hotel, Nottingham.

THE QUEEN'S THEATRE, DUBLIN.
Rebuilt at a cost of £15,000.
WANTED, First-class Companies, June 27 (wire), July 4 and 18. and various onwards.
Address,
F. W. MARRIOTT WATSON, as above.

CATLIN'S NEW ARCADIA, SCARBOROUGH.
The most magnificent Theatre and Concert Pavilion in England. Seating for over 2,000, and with standing will accommodate 3,000; magnificent Scenery, electric light, competent staff. This Theatre is situated right on the sea front, and is built so that in a few minutes can be entirely Al Fresco. Full Dramatic Licence.
WANTED, Known, a few vacant dates for Flying Matinées, also Orchestras, Concert Parties for Sundays in July and August; no vacancies for evenings. Apply Mr. DUDLEY HARCOURT, Manager for Mr. W. Catlin, "Arcadia," Scarborough.

WANTED, Strong Attractions, for Aug. 1, 8, 15, 22, Sept. 15 (3), 19, 26, Oct. 3 (3), 17 (3), on. Fast booking Autumn and Spring; worked on Theatre lines, full band, staff. DAVID WILLIAMS, New Theatre, Ferndale.

TOWN HALL THEATRE, CROMER.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, two or three nights, for Splendid Season's dates, July 25, 28, Aug. 22, 25, 29, Sept. 5 and 15. Hunstanton to precede or follow. BARING BROS., Cheltenham.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE, BARROW-IN-FURNESS.
WANTED, First-class Costume Concert Parties (à la "The Follies"), July 18, 25, Aug. 1, 8, and 15. Seasons of one, two, three weeks, or more can be arranged Apply, CALVERT ROUTLEDGE.

COLWYN BAY.
WANTED, Offers for Privilege of Holding Open-air Entertainments in Combermere Gardens, Rhos. The site is on the Promenade, and an ideal spot for above purpose. Applications address to SECRETARY, T.A.A., Colwyn Boy, from whom particulars may be obtained.

COMPANIES WANTED.

IMPORTANT SOUTH COAST CIRCUIT.
WANTED, High-class Companies, DEVONSHIRE PARK T., EASTBOURNE,
The Premier Theatre, open all the year.
Sept. 12 (?), Oct. 17 (?), Nov. 7, 14, 24 (3 nights with Folkestone).
GAIETY THEATRE, HASTINGS.
Companies booked at, or wishing to visit, this old-established and successful Theatre are reminded that they must not book elsewhere, or permit their plays to be performed in Hastings, St. Leonards, or Bexhill.
All the Leading Attractions Secured.
Vacant July 18, Sept. 29 (3), Oct. 3, 10 (?), 24, 31.
PLEASURE GARDENS T., FOLKESTONE.
Aug. 22-24, Oct 3 (?), 10, 24, 31.
Apply for all above,
H. W. ROWLAND, Theatre, Folkestone.

WANTED, First-class Attractions, for GRAND THEATRE, WEST HARTLEPOOL, Aug. 8, 15, 22, and few later dates.
THEATRE ROYAL, NORTH SHIELDS, Sept. 5.
GRAND THEATRE, LANCASTER, Aug. 22, Sept. 15 (three nights).
OPERA HOUSE, WORKINGTON, Aug. 8, 15, 29 (three nights).
THEATRE ROYAL, WHITEHAVEN, Aug. 22 (three nights).
STANLEY ROGERS, T. R., North Shields.

EMPIRE THEATRE, WEST HARTLEPOOL.
Managing-Director, RICHARD THORNTON.
The most gorgeous and up-to-date Theatre out of London.
Bookings include George Edwardes' own Company, in "The Dollar Princess," Moody-Manners Opera Co., Seymour Hicks and Co., Great Pantomime Production, "Aladdin"; other important engagements pending.
WANTED, No. 1 Musical or West End Attractions, for one or two vacant dates.
London Stars playing North could arrange Flying Matinées. All communications to HARRY ESDEN, Empire, Sunderland.

WANTED, for "Pretoria," Okehampton (main line Exeter-Plymouth), Companies, two nights. Hall holds 300; scenery. E. WILKINSON, Whimple-street, Plymouth.

THEATRES WANTED.

TOM H. TAYLOR'S COMPANIES.
"CAN A WOMAN BE GOOD?"
WANTED, Important Theatres, Aug. 1, Nov. 14, 21, and Xmas.
Grand Autumn Production,
"THE CRIMINAL'S BRIDE,"
Written by Edward Marris.
Wanted, Important Theatres, Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 3, 10.
TOM H. TAYLOR, Bordesley Palace, Birmingham.

"THE GIRL WHO LOST HER CHARACTER."
WANTED, Aug. 8, Dec. 26, and Jan. dates.
DOUGLAS BRUCE, Norwood,
20, Wentworth-road, Harborne, Birmingham.

"THE FEMALE SWINDLER."
WANTED, June 27 and July 11.
DOUGLAS BRUCE, Norwood,
20, Wentworth-road, Harborne, Birmingham.

ANDIE CAINE'S PANTOMIMES.
"CINDERELLA," "LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD," "BABES IN THE WOOD."
Splendidly dressed and mounted. Perfectly produced. Once or Twice Nightly. Theatres or Music Halls.
WANTED, for few Remaining Vacancies (Lancs. or Yorks.) Address, J. L. BARRY, 49, Sidney-street, North Shields.

"A ROYAL DIVORCE."
WANTED, for this Phenomenal Success, Weeks of Sept. 5 and Oct. 3.

Wire or write to
W. W. KELLY,
New Theatre Royal, Birkenhead.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

WANTED, Theatres, Aug. 8 (?), 22, on, big Company, Chorus, Negro Specialities. New Plant of beautiful Scenery and Printing.

CHARLES HARRINGTON,
Theatre Royal, Rochdale.

"DARE-DEVIL DOROTHY."
"DARE-DEVIL DOROTHY."

ONCE OR TWICE NIGHTLY.

WANTED, July 28 (three nights), South, Aug. 4 (three nights), South), Sept. 12.

All communications, J. W. CORDINER, Managers' Club, Savoy Mansions, W.C.

"THE PRIVATE SECRETARY."
EUGENE C. STAFFORD'S No. 1 CO.
WANTED, for this Wonderful Moneymaker, Sept. 26, Oct. 3, 17, Nov. 7, 14, 21, and Dec. 26. BISHOPSDALE Biddenden, Kent.

"SILVER KING" CO.

WANTED, Dates, Oct. 17, 24, 31, Nov. 7, 21, also Spring, 1911.
Address, G. M. POLINI, 93, Penge-rd., London, S.E.

WANTED, First-class Theatres, "A Message from Mars," No. 1 Company, Oct. 17, 24 (North or Midland), also Xmas week at big Theatre.
Apply,
F. MOUILLOT, 1, King-st., Covent Garden, W.C.

MR. BRANDON THOMAS'S COMPANY.
"CHARLEY'S AUNT."
WANTED, Theatres, for above (3 nights, North), Aug. 22, Sept. 19 (North), Oct. 17 (Midlands or North), Nov. 7 (South), Nov. 21 (3 nights, South).
Address, CECIL BARTH,
The Managers' Club, Savoy-mans., London, W.C.

"THE SORROWS OF SATAN," and "NANA, THE RAGE OF PARIS."
WANTED, June 20 and 27.
Wire, LOIE ESMOND,
To-day and next week, Shakespeare T., Clapham.

"THE SHADOW OF A CRIME."

WANTED, July 18 (Midlands), Aug. 22 (North), and various onwards, also Xmas.
WALTER J. HORNE,
To-day, King's, Sutton-in-Ashfield; next week, Clarence Theatre, Pontypridd.

"LES CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE."
WANTED, Aug. 11, 12, and 13, for the above to follow Llandudno.
Apply, MILTON BODE, Theatre, Reading.

CHARLES GIBBON'S TOURS.
WANTED, for the Magnificent Production, "ALONE IN LONDON."
"ALONE IN LONDON."
Carefully-selected Company, including MISS NELLIE CLYDE as Nan, the Flower Girl.
Sept. 5, 12, 19, Oct. 3, 17, and Nov. 14, only Dates Vacant.
Wanted, for the Funniest Farcical Comedy of the day,
"THE LITTLE STRANGER."
"THE LITTLE STRANGER."
By Michael Morton.
From the Criterion Theatre.
Only Date this year, three nights, July 28 (precede T. R., Newcastle). Address,
CHAS. GIBBON, Managers' Club, Savoy-mans., W.C.

"LITTLE PHIL'S MOTHER."
WANTED, Theatres for Nov. 21 and 28, Jan 2 and 30.
Address, FRANK M. THORNE,
275, Monks-road, Lincoln.

MURRAY KING AND CO. in "OUR FLAT."
WANTED, June 23 (3 nights), July 4 (week).
KING, Devonshire Park T., Eastbourne.

WANTED, July 4, 18, 25, Aug. 1, for London Star, in Répertoire.
HALDANE CRICHTON, 18, Walsingham-road, Hove.

THEATRES WANTED.

MORTON POWELL ENTERPRISES.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates,
"DRIVING A GIRL TO DESTRUCTION."
By Mrs. Morton Powell.

Oct. 17, 31, Nov. 7, 14.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

"BROUGHT TO RUIN."
by Mrs. Morton Powell.

WANTED, Wanted, Dates.
"BROUGHT TO RUIN."
Sept. 26, Dec. 26, Jan. 9.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

"A GIRL'S TEMPTATION."
By Mrs. Morton Powell.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates.

"A GIRL'S TEMPTATION."
July 4, 25, Nov. 14, 28.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

"FROM MILL GIRL TO MILLIONAIRESS."
By Mrs. Morton Powell.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates.
"FROM MILL GIRL TO MILLIONAIRESS."
Oct. 3, 10, 17, Jan. 9.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

MISS HILDA BEVERLEY,
in
"A WOMAN OF TWO LIVES,"
by Charles Darrell.
Production, Junction, Manchester, 18th July, 1910.
WANTED, Wanted, Nov. 14, Dec. 26.
Only two Vacant Dates this year.
Miss HILDA BEVERLEY, Prince's T., Bradford.

MR. BULMER'S ENTERPRISES.
"THE GIRL WHO WENT ASTRAY."
"THE GIRL WHO WENT ASTRAY."
"THE GIRL WHO WENT ASTRAY."
The Drama that is averaging £200 a week.
Three weeks' receipts exceed £1,000.
Vacant Oct. 10, Dec. 5, Xmas.
Vacant Oct. 10, Dec. 5, Xmas.
"THE TYRANT."
"THE TYRANT."
"THE TYRANT."
(By arrangement with Miss Marie Dagmar.)
WANTED, Aug. 1, on, with exceptions.
FRED BULMER,
Managers' Club, Savoy-mansions, London, W.C.

MR. OSWALD CRAY'S Magnificent Production of S. Buchanan Rogerson and Guy Thorne's Wonderful play, "WHEN IT WAS DARK" (by arrangement with T. M. Powell). The most sensational play of modern times. Refer Sam Duckworth, Esq., or any Manager visited.
WANTED, big Theatre, Aug. Bank Holiday, follow Theatre Royal, Birkenhead, precede Metropole Theatre, Birmingham; Sept. 5 and 26, follow Barnsley; Oct. 17, 24, and 31, Nov. 14, and Christmas, Jan. 16, follow Nuneaton. Managers invited. OSWALD CRAY, T. R., Leicester.

KIMBERLEY'S, GREEN AND HINTON'S
"WAS SHE TO BLAME?"
"WAS SHE TO BLAME?"
"WAS SHE TO BLAME?"
By Mrs. F. G. Kimberley.
WANTED, July 11, 18, 25, through prolonging tour.
Refer Wm. Morton, Esq., re this week.
This play acknowledged one of the finest ever toured.
Wire, KIMBERLEY, Alex. T., Hull; next, T. R., Bolton.

"TWO LITTLE DRUMMER BOYS."
WANTED, June 27, July 4, Aug. 1.
"TWO LITTLE DRUMMER BOYS."

Wire, F. G. KIMBERLEY, Alexandra T., Hull; next, T. R., Bolton.

"THE EDUCATION OF ELIZABETH."
"JOHN GLAYDE'S HONOUR."
WANTED, June 27, near London; Aug. 1, South.

ERNEST E. NORRIS, Managers' Club.

WANTED, June 15 and 27, to precede and follow Cardiff.
"CASTE." G. W. Anson as Eccles.
It is not Anson—it is Eccles.—The Times.
CORA ANSON, 28, Werter-road, Putney, S.W.

"ARE YOU A MASON?"
WANTED, July 18, Dec. 26, Xmas, on, to 1911, for this rejuvenated and money-making Farce; new scenery, &c. Refer John Hart, Esq., John Huddlestone, Esq., W. Peacock, Esq., W. W. Kelly, Esq. Address, Theatre Royal, Bradford.

WANTED, for "The Cingalee," July 4, 11, Aug. 29, Sept. 5, Oct. 10, 24, Nov. 7, 14, Xmas, Jan. 2. HALDANE CRICHTON, 18, Walsingham-road, Hove.

"THE 10.30 DOWN EXPRESS; OR, GUILTY GOLD."
WANTED, June 20, between Birmingham and London.
HORACE STANLEY, T. R., Aston.
Next, T. R., Smethwick.

WANTED, Dates, Autumn, for Mr. Juan Bonaparte in "The Man of Fate," a Napoleonic Play. Address, H. CHISWELL BILLING, 17, Crewdson-road, S.W.

WANTED, Managers with Theatres, capable of holding good money, and with vacant dates, for First-class Pantomime Production, to communicate with J. F. ELLISTON, Theatre Royal, Bolton.

Mr. H. HAMILTON STEWART'S
"SHERLOCK HOLMES."
WANTED, for this Sterling Attraction, Oct. 24, Nov. 7, 14.
LANGTON LANE, Aquarium Theatre, Yarmouth.

MR. NORMAN V. NORMAN'S COMPANY.
WANTED, following Dates: July 4 (between North and South), Sept. 12 and 19, Oct. 18, July 18 and 26 (Pastoral Plays).
See Companies Column.
Address, Managers' Club, Savoy-mansions, W.C.

WENTWORTH CROKE, MILTON BODE, AND EDWARD COMPTON'S COMPANIES.
"THE BISHOP'S SON,"
by Hall Caine.
WANTED, First-class Theatres, Oct. 24.

"THE DAWN OF A TO-MORROW."
From the Garrick Theatre, London.
Wanted, Aug. 8 and 22.
WENTWORTH CROKE,
Piccadilly-mansions, 17, Shaftesbury avenue, W.

The New Musical Comedy,
"MISS PLASTER—OF PARIS."
Another proof of her success. After Stage advertisement was dispatched, E. H. Page, Esq., witnessed entire performance on Tuesday night; result, terms given for Preston, June 13, Aug. Bank Holiday offered at Blackburn. Thanks to Wm. Peacock, Esq., for Contracts, Scarboro' and Harrogate.
WANTED, good Theatres, June 27, July 4, Aug. 1, 8, 15.
HENRY L. OSMOND, Barrow; next, Prince's, Preston.

MR. J. LINDSAY ELLIS presents
"LIGHTS OUT."
WANTED, Dates, July 28, onwards. Special London Co. Entire New Production.
Address, Newland House, Polmont Station, Stirlingshire, N.B.

JOHN LEOPOLD'S COMPANY and THE ORIGINAL LEOPOLDS.
"THE NEW FRIVOLITY."
Preceded by
"THE HOUSEBOAT."
Right up to date. A greater attraction than ever. Bright sparkling show, with plenty of musical numbers.
WANTED, Known, could arrange July 11, 25, Aug. 1, and onwards, with exceptions. Big expenses, so must have equitable terms (share or certainty). All communications to GENERAL-MANAGER, 198, Brixton-road, London, S.W.

WANTED, Aug. 29, for Laurence Irving, Mabel Hackney, and Company, in "Margaret Catchpole" and "The Unwritten Law."
BERTRAM, 8, Rupert-court, London, W.

THEATRES WANTED.

FRED GRANVILLE'S PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
"THE BETTER LAND."

WANTED, for this phenomenally Successful Domestic Drama,
Sept. 5, 19, 26, Oct. 3, and later.

"ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE."
Wanted for this Great Attraction,
July 11, 18, 25, Aug. 1, 15, and later.

"A HOT NIGHT,"
Musical Comedy. Screamingly Funny.
Gorgeously Mounted and Dressed.
25 Performers 25.
Wanted, Good Theatres,
Aug. 1, onwards.
Look out for Grand New Production,
"SHE DID IT FOR LOVE."

Re Dates,
A. R. Feather, Manager, The Depository,
Cazneau-street, Liverpool.
Wires, c/o "Pagoda, Liverpool."

Pantomime, 1910-11.
"BABES IN THE WOOD," "ALADDIN,"
"BEAUTY AND THE BEAST."

WANTED, Managers with Vacant Dates for First-class Pantomime Productions.
Communicate with A. R. Feather,
The Depository, Cazneau-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, June 27, July 18,
THE WILSON BARRETT ORIGINAL VERSION of the Famous Play,
"EAST LYNNE"
(BULLOCK VERSION),
by Arrangement with J. Pitt Hardacre.
TOM WATT'S SPECIALLY-SELECTED CO.
Broke all records at the Theatre Royal, Belfast, week commencing April 11. Gross receipts £306. 10,040 persons paying for admission during the week. Hundreds turned away on the Saturday evening. Return date immediately booked.
The following week played to £322 at the Queen's Theatre, Dublin. Refer to Messrs. Fred Warden and F. Marriott Watson.
Note.—No one but Mr. Tom Watt has any interest whatsoever in this production, and the sole theatrical rights of this version are vested in him.

Managers requiring a sound Attraction and sure Money-maker, wire or write,
Tom Watt, 6, Adelphi-chambers, John-street, W.C.
Vacant June 27, July 18, 25, Aug. 8, 22, and on, with exceptions.
June 13, New Theatre, Cardiff.

MISS NORA CARTON'S TOUR,
with Russell Vaun's Latest Dramatic Success,
"TEMPTATION."
One of the Strongest Dramatic Casts on the Road.

Autumn Tour commences Theatre Royal, Ashton-under-Lyne, August Bank Holiday.
WANTED, good Dramatic Theatres, Aug. 22, follow T. R., Barnsley, Sept. 5 and 26, Nov. 7 (precede Ramsgate). Dec. 5 (precede St. Helens), Dec. 26 (between Warrington and Star, Swansea).
All coms.,
Martin Comstock,
Cambridge Theatre, Spennymoor.

VAN BIENE, the Actor-Musician, in "THE BROKEN MELODY," as played by him over 5000 times.
WANTED, Known, Tour starts Dec. 12 till Easter, 1911. For vacant dates apply to Edward Van Biene, New Theatre Royal, Edmonton, London, N.

WANTED, for the money-maker, "His Real Wife," good Theatres, Nov. 14 and Xmas. Address, T. E. Ward, P. O. W. Theatre, Salford.

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR HINTON AND TRAVIS GREEN
present their No. 1 Co. in
"HER FATAL MARRIAGE."
WANTED, August Bank Holiday, Nov. 14 (?), Dec. 12, Xmas, various Spring and Autumn, 1911.
JERROLD HEATHER as Zaco.
HILDA SHIRLEY as Myra.
Wire, Arthur Hinton, T. R., Woolwich.
Monday, T. R., Aston.

MISS FLORENCE BAINES' COMPANIES,
in the Musical Farce,
MISS LANCASHIRE, LIMITED."

WANTED, Good Theatres,
Aug. 8, 15 (South or Midlands), Nov. 14 (precede Portsmouth), Nov. 28 (precede Burnley), and various Spring.
A new Musical Farce in active preparation, by the Author of "Miss Lancashire, Limited."

Address,
Miss Florence Baines, Aquarium, Yarmouth.

"LUCKY 'LIZA."
WANTED, July 11 and 18,
Aug. 1, Sept. 5.
Dickie Clare, Palace, Newcastle (third visit).

"LITTLE MRS. CUMMIN."
The Playhouse Success.
Acknowledged everywhere where visited as an exceptionally fine cast and a charming play.

WANTED, June 23 (3 nights), between Bexhill and Herne Bay, June 30 (3), and July 4.
All coms., E. S. Petley, O. H., Scarboro'.
Next week, T. R., Bournemouth (3);
Grand, Southampton (3).

WANTED, for O. Silverstone and H. Wright's Co., "The Nihilist, or, A Prince's Secret Wedding," twice nightly at Dewsbury, June 27, Sept. 26, Oct. 10, 17, 24, Nov. 7, 14, 21, Xmas, on. Silverstone, T. R., Dewsbury; Col., Oldham, June 13.

"MAN TO MAN."
Edward Lloyd and Clifford Bown's Co.
WANTED, Aug. 29, Oct. 24, Midlands.
Edward Lloyd, Queen Square Hotel, Bath.

WANTED, Good Paying Theatres, on Shares, for June 20, and on,
for Greatest Combination ever Toured England.
Also a Manager,
and Agent in Advance,
and Top of Bill Acts,
Comedy preferred.

Write week of June 13, Palace, Blackburn.
T. Elder-Hearn.

THE GREAT RAYMOND,
THE GREAT RAYMOND,
THE GREAT RAYMOND,
The Globe-trotting Fun-maker and Illusionist.

Enormous success of First British Tour.
Records Broken Everywhere.

The Biggest, Brightest, Most Elaborate, and Costly Magical Performance ever Toured. Five completely different two-hour Programmes. Gorgeous Stage Settings of Gold, Silver, Silk, and Plush. Special Scenery. The finest variety of five-colour Lithographic Posters in the World, all sizes. Twenty People. Twenty Tons of Equipment. Creating a positive Furore everywhere.

Weekly Press Verdicts:—
The finest performance ever seen in the town.
He is the most natural performer in the world.
Such an entertainment has never been seen before.

WANTED, Known, Raymond will be pleased to hear from Managers of Theatres, Halls, and First-class Piers having open time.
A few Summer Dates Vacant.
ALL COMMUNICATIONS,
MAURICE F. RAYMOND,
Proprietor and Manager.
En route, or care of "The Era."
Let it be distinctly understood that the name RAYMOND means big business, and nothing is spared to keep up the BREAKING OF RECORDS.
Enormous success of First British Tour.
THE GREAT RAYMOND,
THE GREAT RAYMOND,
THE GREAT RAYMOND,
Owing to mistake in Bookings, July 4 and 11 open, following Manchester.
Wire, Queen's Park Hippodrome, Manchester.
June 13, Queen's Theatre, Leeds.

THEATRES WANTED.

WANTED, First-class Theatres, Music Halls, or Seaside Piers for Big Combination, for "George the First" and full company, for July 4, Aug. 1, 8, Sept. 5, 12, and 19. Brothers O'Brien and Joe Almasio, and full Vaudeville Company, for July 11, 18, and 25. John Warren and company, for June 20, 27, and July 11. Will Lund, Variety Agent, 24, Seymour-street, Liverpool. Telegraphic, "Comedy, Liverpool." 'Phone, 682 Royal.

WANTED, Theatres or Music Halls, for the Bancroft and Ames Colossal Variety Company, the following dates: Aug. 15, Nov. 21, or Dec. 26, 1910; refer A. Seebold, Esq., Sheerness, and Clarence Sounes, Esq., Aldershot, re Company and Business. H. Bancroft, Hippo., Hastings.

ARTISTS WANTED.

"HER LOVE AGAINST THE WORLD."
WANTED, for Autumn Tour of the above powerful heavy Leading Actor for Prince Ulric. Also good Responsible Actor. Age, height, references, photos, lowest terms.
Hallatt and Howard,
8, Homefield-road, Chiswick, London, W.
N.B.—No interviews unless by appointment.

FRANCES DELAVAL'S SKETCH,
"IRON BARS."
WANTED, immediately, First-class Heavy Gentleman and Robust Juvenile Man.
Frances Delaval, 47, College-place, N.W.

MRS. JOHN M. DAWSON'S ENTERPRISE.
"THE GAMESTER OF METZ."
WANTED, Artists, in all Lines.
Full particulars, photos., and references,
Chas. W. Dockwray,
26 Sedgley-terrace, Wednesbury.

WANTED, for Farcical Comedy, "The Little Stranger," Tour till Aug. 6, rehearse Tuesday in town, very tall Juvenile Actor, pretty Ingénue Actress, and Tall Lady for small part. Photos., lowest summer terms, and full particulars, refs., &c., Charles Gibbon, Managers' Club, Savoy-mansions, W.C.

WANTED, Dramatic Artists, in all Lines, including First-class Heavy Man, Short Comedian. State terms and full particulars. Tom H. Taylor, Bordesley Palace, Birmingham.

FRED GRANVILLE'S PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
WANTED, First-class Leading Man, also Heavy Lady. Rehearse Tuesday next, Liverpool. Address, A. R. Feather, Manager, The Depository, Cazneau-street, Liverpool

WANTED, Gentleman for Tall, Aristocratic Military part, and Young, Pretty, Tall Juvenile Lady, and Petite, Slim Lady (young), declamatory part. Address, Harry Barford, 2, Lanark-villas, Maida Vale, W.

WANTED, for "Sherlock Holmes," Gentleman for Moriarty, Larrabee, Madge Larrabee, Autumn Tour. Langton Lane, Aquarium Theatre, Yarmouth.

WANTED, a Lady and Gentleman, to play small parts, &c., in leading Répertoire Company. Full particulars, J. Smith-Neill, Theatre Royal, Portsmouth.

WANTED, for "The Cingalee," Peggy and (possibly) Cham.
Haldane Crichton, 18, Walsingham-road, Hove.

WANTED, Petite Juvenile Lady, to look 17, must be pretty, experienced, capable of Comedy, Pathos, and Dramatic Power. Photos. (indispensable), actual height, and age, terms, and references, to Manager, 19, Rumford-street, Chorlton-on-Medlock, Manchester. Interviews by appointment only.

WANTED, a Child for Eva, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," 14, to look younger, small, slight figure. Particulars, Charles Harrington, Rochdale.

WANTED, Child Actress (Boy's part), to look about ten, who can play Violin well. Apply, letters only.
Paul Newbald, 21, South End-road, Hampstead.

WANTED, Aug. 1, long Tour, "Private Secretary," short man Spalding, stout man Squire and Management, Baggage Man, tall, to act. Terms, recent photo., &c. Stafford, Biddenden, Kent.

WANTED, Juvenile or Heavy Gent, also Child Actress (must be 14). Photos. A. B. Mackay, "A Woman Worth Winning" Co., Lyric T., Liverpool.

WANTED, week of June 27, for London Production of Sketch (Society Episode, evening dress), young Heavy Lady (tall and attractive appearance), capable of light comedy scene, and Smart Gentleman for straight comedy part. Lowest terms. Box 7,835 "The Era."

WANTED, Robust, Versatile Character-Actor, for Gregory Goldfinch and other parts in high-class Répertoire. Age, height, build, and terms to Box 7,849, "The Era."

WANTED, good Low Comedian for Nigger in Sketch; Lady, for small part; joint not objected to. Curzon, 95, Alderbrook-road, Balham.

WANTED, for Afternoon Fairy Play, in London (1.30 to 6 p.m.), from July 2 to 9, twenty Young Ladies, slender, aged 14 to 17 years, slight knowledge of dancing.
Salary 20s. per week.
Write, stating height, by letter only, to Dramaticus, c/o J. W. Vickers and Co.,
5, Nicholas-lane, E.C.

WANTED, Artists, High-class Alfresco,
Fresh Town
near Manchester;
also Lady or Gentleman willing to invest.
Electric Entertainers,
608 Stretford-road, Manchester.

WANTED, for High-class Hotel Pavilion, Baritone, good voice, appearance essential, able to play violoncello. Stewart Phipps, Pavilion, Port Soderick, Isle of Man.

WANTED, Dramatic Artists who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Sons' Bookstalls to kindly communicate with the Publisher, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

PANTOMIME ARTISTS WANTED.

FRED GRANVILLE'S PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
PANTOMIMES. 1910-11.
"BABES IN THE WOOD,"
"ALADDIN,"
"BEAUTY AND THE BEAST."
WANTED, Artists in all Lines. Full particulars, terms, references, and where can be seen working next six weeks, to A. R. Feather, Manager, The Depository, Cazneau-street, Liverpool. Mark Envelopes "Panto."

WANTED, for best Panto. Houses, 1910-11, Star Performers in every Line.
Previous experience, age, height, terms, &c., in first letter most essential.
Smythson's Agency,
33, Craster-road, Brixton Hill, London, S.W.

WANTED, Principals, Male and Female Chorus, &c., for next season's Pantomime.
Address, E. Dottridge, Empire, Oldham.

SCENIC ARTISTS WANTED.

WANTED, Resident Scenic Artist, to combine Stage Management; Electrician to combine Properties and Billing. Also First-class Acting-Manager, Actor preferred, knowledge of booking and good correspondent. State lowest terms and references in all cases, which will be applied for. Arthur C. Moody, Theatre Royal, Blyth, Northumberland. All letters to be endorsed "Moody, Blyth."

WANTED, Scenic Artist, to Act; also Property Man, must be sober. Responsible people write. James, Theatre, Ledbury.

SCENIC ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Scenery, Contracts, Productions, Our Paint Frames, 40 by 34 Theatres completely fitted with Scenery, Ropes, Blocks, Cleats, &c. Estimates and Designs submitted free. Scenery bought and exchanged. Fred Wilkins and Bro., Ltd., 27-35, Duke-street, Liverpool. Telegrams, "Theatrical."

WANTED, Known, Scenery, Properties, Profile Boards.
Bernasconi's, Ltd., Scenic Artists,
41, Gore-street, Liverpool. Tel. 732 Royal.

SCENERY.
WANTED, Contracts for Scenery, Pantomimes, Dramas, Sketches, &c.
Reasonable terms. Estimates free.
Townsend and Co., Rotunda Theatre, Liverpool.

SCENERY OR PROPERTIES.
WANTED, Contracts, New or Secondhand, Hire or Purchase. Largest stock in London. Estimates free. Sharp, 272, St. James-road, Old Kent-road. Tel., 497 Hop.

WANTED, Contracts for Painting Scenery, First-class Work guaranteed. Cecil E. Hicks, Painting Room, Princess's Theatre, Oxford-street, London, W.

WANTED, Known, Theatrical Advertising Curtains, designed, painted, and written. Distance no object. Real good showy work. Will Molesworth, Shirley, Warwickshire.

WANTED, Known, Sidney Beltram, completed engs. with "Her Fatal Marriage" Co. and Hippo., Sheerness. Now at Grand, Brighton. Engagements wanted. Refer.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WANTED, Acting-Manager, for important Variety Theatre, must have had good practical experience, and be a man of strong personal character, of good appearance, energetic, tactful, and resourceful. Apply by letter only, giving age, full details of past experience, references, and enclosing photo., to D., c/o Moss' Empires, Ltd., Cranbourn-mansions, Cranbourn-street, London, W.C.

WANTED, Smart Man as Resident Acting-Manager, for Variety Theatre (Midlands); must have had experience, be gentlemanly in appearance and manners, a man of strong character, tactful and resourceful; only those able to refer to a good past record need apply by letter, which will be treated in confidence, stating age, full details of experience, salary required, references, &c. Address,
Manager, Box 7,850, "The Era."

WANTED, Resident Manager, for Provincial Theatre in Scotland. Apply, with copy testimonials, and stating experience and salary expected, and when free to commence duties, to Box 7,838,
"The Era."

WANTED, Manager for Picture Show, &c. Must be smart, active, and a worker, and thoroughly experienced in every detail of the Picture business, as well as understand Amusement catering. Age, experience, and salary, and give references. Box 7,823, "The Era."

WANTED, for Immediate and Future, Good Managers, must be used to Picture Business. State age, photo, references, terms, first letter, and all particulars re experience. Leon Vint, Globe Villa, Exmouth, South Devon.

WANTED, Wideawake, thoroughly Up-to-date, Energetic, Hustling Business-Manager, not afraid to handle paper or do any work connected with the Billing or Advertising; for first-class Company; must be thoroughly capable of writing and placing Press stuff; abstainer, of smart appearance, and well acquainted with the United Kingdom. Only experienced, steady, reliable men, with very best of references, and not afraid of strenuous work, need apply. Box 7,822, "The Era" Office.

WANTED, Agent in Advance, for High-class Entertainment starting first week in July, knowledge of the smalls of Scotland an advantage, accustomed to working one night towns, must be a gentleman able to interview, and strictly sober. Reply to Box 7,847, "The Era."

WANTED, for Alexandra's Circus, good reliable Advance Agent; must have had experience in Circus Advance Work, or useless. Address, Sat., Garstang; Mon., Carnforth.

WANTED, a First-class Electrician and Operator. Apply, stating last two engagements, with references, to Manager, Granville, Walham Green, S.W.

WANTED, Known, opportunity for Young Actors, for Summer Engagement as Outdoor Lecturer at the Japan-British Exhibition.

Apply to Staff Manager, by letter.

WANTED, Re-engagement as Manager, or Acting-Manager, Theatre, Music Hall, Pier, Concert Party, &c. Experienced, energetic, good references. Address Box 7,836, "The Era."

WANTED, Situation as Manager's Assistant, young and energetic, experienced; Highest references. Combine violin in orchestra if required. Replies to Box 7,824, "The Era."

WANTED, by Smart Working Manager a change, 17 years' experience, Dramatic, Variety, and Picture Houses. Expert Advertiser, control Bars, Staff, &c.
Manager, 66, Ohney-road, Rusholm, Manchester.

WANTED, by Young Gentleman, 26, position as Assistant or Acting Manager; experienced, Touring or Resident; first-class references. Write, C., 13, Gloucester-crescent, N.W.

WANTED, by Young Gentleman, position as Assistant Manager. Fully experienced. Excellent refs. Disengaged Monday. Box 7,830, "The Era" Office.

WANTED, by Gentleman (35), smart appearance, 15 years stage experience, post in London theatre or hall in any capacity. Small salary. Deposit, or invest a few pounds. Dis. August. Box 7,825, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, S. K. Herman, at Liberty, Advance or Bill Inspector, concluding season Chas. W. Poole's Myriorama. Address, Palace, Porth.

WANTED, Permanent Engagement, by Chas. Withers, Carpenter, practical Bench Hand, own tools; good ref.; London or suburbs. 64, Dongola-road, Philip-lane, N.

WANTED, by Foreman Billposter, Position take charge Branch, London and Provincial experience; excellent refs. Box 7,754, "The Era."

WANTED, by a Young Lady, to be a Companion to a Lady, travelling not objected to; had 8 years' reference; age 27. L. C., 145, Lavender-hill, Clapham Junction, S.W.

MUSICIANS WANTED.

PALACE THEATRE, ABERDEEN.
WANTED, First-class and Up-to-date Musical Director, for the above; must have good répertoire of music. Application to be made in writing, with age, references, and terms, to The Secretary, United County Theatres, Ltd., Broadmead House, Panton-street, Haymarket, London.

ANDREWS' PICTORIAL ENTERPRISES.
WANTED, Pianist-Conductor, to commence June 20 next. Only First-class men, who can supply entire change of music weekly, need apply. Manager, Industrial Hall, Dewsbury. Frank Lester, Manchester, write in.

WANTED, Violinists, for a Crack Line Regiment, bonus of £10 for good man of merit; must be between the age of 20 and 25.
Other payments in addition to regiment pay.

Apply at once with testimonials to No. 135,
C/o Hawkes and Son,
Denman-street, Piccadilly-circus, London, W.

WANTED, for Summer Tour, First Violin, Cornet or Piccolo. State terms first letter.
Medren, Show, Dalbeattie, Scotland.

MUSICIANS WANTED.

WANTED, Second Violin, for Exmouth Professional Town Band. Terms shares. Address, F. Robbins, Secretary, 69, Rosebery-road, Exmouth, Devon.

WANTED, for Rink Band, a Cornet Player, commencing Monday, June 20.
State lowest salary,
and apply to the Manager,
Palace, Tynemouth.

WANTED, at once, First-class, Solo Cornet, for String Band (Seaside).
State particulars to Box 7,842, "The Era."

WANTED, for Andrews' Pictorial Enterprises, First-class Double Bass Player, must be steady, proficient, and used to Pictures; permanency to reliable man. State salary and last reference to Victoria Hall, Southsea.

WANTED, Trombone and Drums, for Variety. Winter and Summer Season. Open June 27. Tidswell, 20, Jubilee-place, Regent-road, Great Yarmouth.

WANTED, July 18, for Season, First-class Pianist, for Continuous Picture Show. Must work effects. State lowest salary with references.

Baring Bros., Cheltenham.

WANTED, good Pianist for London Tea Rooms, five days a week.
Write, G. M., 10, Dover House, Myatt's Park, S.E.

WANTED, Pianist, Trombone, for Hippo., Douglas, July 4. Age, refs., terms for one show daily. Douglas Willcox, 17, Arden-street, Edinburgh.

WANTED, Pianist and Singer, Gentleman, for Cinematograph Hall, permanency. Apply, The Palace, Chesterfield.

WANTED, Musicians, for the R.M.S. Otway, Sailing for Australia on June 23, Piano, Violin, Clarionet, Cornet; light duties only. Character, references indispensable.
Apply, F. C. Cane,
care of Post Office, High-street, East Ham, Essex.

WANTED, July 11, for Season, good First Violin, Clarionet, Flute, Drums, and Trombone, for Variety Orchestra, Britannia Pavilion, Great Yarmouth. W. R. Hunn, 14, Regent-road, Great Yarmouth.

WANTED, Clarionet, Cornet, Trombone, Drums, and Bass, for Nine Weeks, from July 4, S. Wales. W. Butcher, 26, Beechwood-road, Hillsbro., Sheffield.

WANTED, Brass Band, Eight Weeks' Engagement at Portrush. Send particulars, composition, and terms to Secretary, Town Hall, Portrush.

WANTED, every instrument for Hamburg (String Band), June to Sept., Principal Soloists. Send lowest, Director, 92, West End-lane, London.

WANTED, Orchestral Players, for West End Theatre, Season shortly. Terms, refs., Knight Pearce, County Theatre, Reading.

WANTED, small Ladies' Orchestra, for Summer months, used to Varieties and Pictures. Send full particulars, Manager, Hippo., Blackpool.

WANTED, for Nine Weeks, from July 16, Pianist, Two First Violinists, and Oboe (Seaside). Box 7,843, "The Era."

WANTED, Musicians who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Son's Bookstalls, or from any Newsagent in the United Kingdom, to kindly communicate with the Publisher, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

MUSICIANS' WANTS.

WANTED, by Conductor (à la Continental) or Leader, Seaside Engagement. Photo, refs. C., 8, Grafton-square, Clapham, London.

WANTED, Known, Ernest Wake, Musical-Director and Solo Violin, Royal Albion Hotel, Brighton, at Liberty shortly; first-class offers invited.

WANTED, Engagement, as Conductor, Leader, First Violin, or Viola, any business, Variety preferred, three years Conductor for Mr. E. H. Bostock. Millar, Conductor, Hippodrome, Hamilton, Glasgow.

WANTED, Engagement, by Pianist-Conductor, read sight and arrange, any business. Wire or write, Andy Twisse, Palaceum, Ferndale.

WANTED, Known, Smart Conductor, Leader or First Violin, disengaged, extensive library. Highest references. Wilfred Ball, 50, Tunnel-road, Wavertree, Liverpool.

WANTED, Engagement, Sydney Davies, Conductor (violin), terminating 4½ years Hippo., Ipswich. Splendid references from E. H. Bostock, Esq., Douglas Bostock, Manager, T. Stead, late Manager. Providence-street, Ipswich.

WANTED, Engagement, by well-known experienced Musical-Director, in First-class Music Hall, London or suburbs; highest references. Box 7,831, "The Era."

WANTED, Re-engagement by Leader, also First Cornet. Tenting or otherwise. Good répertoire. Reliable. H. James, Saturday, Portumna, Co. Galway; Monday, Dublin Post Office.

WANTED, Engagement, as Leader or First Violin, thoroughly experienced and reliable, Summer or permanent. Jas. Heap, 55, Cog-street, Burnley.

WANTED, through disappointment, Engagement, Leader or First Violin, to open Monday; first-class refs. L. Rogers, Leader, Coliseum, Southampton.

WANTED, Engagement as Leader or First Violin, any business; good references.
Cheney, Royal County Theatre, Bedford.

WANTED, Engagement, through closing, as Leader or First Violin, experienced in all Lines of business; could open at once or later. Dexter, Leader, New Theatre, Oxford.

WANTED, Engagement as Violin, any business. Can open at once.
Thomas Pass, 5, Baker-street, Reading.

WANTED, Engagement, by experienced Violinist; through closing.
J. H. Dixon, Palace, Porth, S. Wales.

WANTED, Engagement. First or Second First Violinist, Re-engagement. Abstainer, good refs., open Monday anywhere. Phipps, c/o Clements, 176, Gt. George-street, Glasgow.

WANTED, Engagement as Violin or Viola. Wire or write,
Kirkman, 120, Albert-road, Blackpool.

WANTED, Known, at Liberty, First Violin, any business.
Add., Violinist, 32, Prince's-rd., Richmond, Surrey.

WANTED, Engagement, as Violin or Viola, Variety. Apply
Violinist, 31, Mayfair-street, West Hartlepool.

WANTED, known, Disengaged, First Violin or Leader, Lady, experienced, good ref. Particulars, 113, High-street, Margate.

WANTED, Known, Violinist, Young, Good Leader or Repetiteur, requires season engagement. Best refs. Address Box 7,840, "The Era."

WANTED, Engagement, by Solo Cornet, combine Trumpet, Disengaged; thoroughly experienced Military Band, Orchestra, Concert, Variety, Seaside, or Town, smart, gentlemanly; can commence at once. Wire or write, Cornet, 19, Silverdale, Sydenham, S.E.

WANTED, Engagement, by Good, Reliable Cornet (second), any business, London or country. Cornet, 41, Byrne-road, Balham, S.W.

WANTED, Engagement, First or Second Cornet, any business. Permanency if possible. Address, Cornet, c/o Lawrence, 94, York-street, Edgware-road, London.

WANTED, by Solo Cornet, Engagement through closing, experienced, reliable Transposer, Military, String, or any business. Address, Brewer, Hippodrome, Greenock, Scotland.

MUSICIANS' WANTS.

WANTED, by Good Solo Cornet, Summer Engagement, experienced military or string band, good refs. Address, W. Kaye, 51, Liscard-road, Wavertree, Liverpool.

WANTED, re-engagement by Cornet, First or Second. Any Business.
G. Turnidge, 31, Portland-st., Stepney, London, E.

WANTED, good Summer Engagement (Repiano or Second), Yeomanry, &c., mounted or foot. Cornet, 52, Fortune Gate-road, Harlesden, London, N.W.

WANTED, Engagement by Experienced Cornet, as First or Second, in any capacity. Young, good refs., abstainer. Skinner, Buckscross, Chelsfield, Kent.

WANTED, Engagement, Solo Cornet, bonâ-fide player, Variety, Drama, and Military; temperate; good character. J. Devereaux, 18, Borrett-road, Newington, London, S.E.

WANTED, Engagement, as Cornet, any business, steady and reliable; excellent refs. Write or wire, Cornet, 65, Clough-road, Sheffield.

WANTED, Engagement, by good Cornet, lately finished three years' engagement at Hippodrome, Eastbourne; any business. Morland, 7, Noel-street, Islington.

WANTED, Engagement, by Cornet, reliable and sober, experienced all lines. Hirst, 20, Thomas-street, Lightcliffe-road, Brighouse.

WANTED, Engagement, or Deputising, through closing, by good Clarionet, sober and reliable, any business; good refs. J. Mayo, 48, Claret-street, Accrington, Lancashire.

WANTED, by Clarionet, Engagement, Seaside or otherwise. Reliable.
Hill, 56, Broadway, London Fields.

WANTED, by Reliable Clarionet, Three or Four Weeks' Engagement, seaside preferred. Moderate terms. Address, C., 30, Ollerton-road, Retford.

WANTED, Engagement for Clarionet. Six Seasons East Coast.
Address, W. E. Harrison, 14, Rockingham-st., Leeds.

WANTED, Engagement, any business, Clarionetist, good refs., young, steady and reliable. George White, 9, Culford-grove, Kingsland, N.

WANTED, by First-class Clarionettist or Violin, experienced in all lines; would deputise. Address, Clarionet, 85, Highgrove-street, Whitley, Reading.

WANTED, Engagement, Solo Clarionet, any business, experienced, steady, and reliable, through closing; excellent ref. Frank Bristow, 163, Great Knollys-street, Reading.

WANTED, by Clarionet, Solo or otherwise, season's engagement, experienced; would conduct; excellent reference. Harvey, St. Wilfred's, Ventnor, Wight.

WANTED, Known, First-class Clarionet, at Liberty; experienced and competent.
Address, Joe Heath, 5, Sandhurst-place, Bedford.

WANTED, Known, Miss Grace Nicholls, Double Bass, is open to accept offers, any business. 74, Cowley-road, Ilford.

WANTED, by an experienced Contra Bass, Summer Engagement. Apply, 142, Wakefield-road, Moldgreen, Huddersfield.

WANTED, Engagement by String Bass, Theatre or Variety. Any district. Refs. J. Reeves, 7, Swingate-lane, Plumstead, Kent.

WANTED, by Double Bass, Engagement, steady, reliable; good refs.; can open at once. H. Hare, 43, Great Western-street, Moss Side, Manchester.

WANTED, by Bassoon, to join First-class Territorial Band, Sunday work also, London only. G. M. Wright, 15, Bloom-grove, West Norwood, S.E.

WANTED, through Coliseum closing, Engagement by good Trombonist; steady, reliable. Ref. Mr. M. Stone, Conductor. Cooper, 7, Manchester-street, Southampton.

WANTED, Known, Trombone, at Liberty, any business; good refs.
Climer, 30, New-street, Luton.

WANTED, by competent and experienced Trombonist, Summer Engagement, steady and reliable; excellent refs. Address, Trombone, 28, York-street, Lower Broughton, Manchester.

WANTED, Engagement, First-class Trombone, any business, abstainer, strictly attentive to business and reliable. Banwell, 76, Miskin-road, Pon-y-Pandy.

WANTED, Engagement, by good experienced Trombonist, through closing, Orchestra or Military. Wire or write, Jack Greendale, 92, Chapel Field-road, Norwich.

WANTED, Engagement, as Trombone, Theatre closing; experienced in any business; can join at once. J. Thomas, 11, Hope-street, Cambridge.

WANTED, by Band Sergeant, leaving the Service, position with Territorial or Civilian Band, Euphonium or Conductor; competent man. Box 7,817, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, Solo Euphonium can accept an Engagement immediately; wants Sunday work also. Munson, 151, Wickersley-rd., Battersea.

WANTED, by good Euphonium, combine Violin, berth; can open at once; abstainer; good refs. Backhouse, 54, Providence-st., Ashford, Kent.

WANTED, by ex-Army Bandsman, Engagement as E Flat Bombardon, could take Second Violin; efficient and reliable. A. Bruce, Maltravers-street, Arundel, Sussex.

WANTED, an Engagement as 'Cello, Theatre or Variety Business. Good refs., thoroughly experienced. Would deputise. Near London preferred. Box 7,829, "The Era" Office.

WANTED, by 'Cellist, good, abstainer, good refs., engagement through closing, or would deputise locally. Address, 'Cellist, 4, Claremont-road, Handsworth, Birmingham.

WANTED, by First-class Oboeist, Disengaged through Theatre closing, Engagement; experienced in all lines. J. Wright, 18, Windsor-st., Hanley.

WANTED, Known, well-known Solo Flute and Piccolo, high-class Orchestral or Military, French pitch instruments, genuine performer, reliable; reasons for advertising. Box 7799, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, Flute and Piccolo, Disengaged, any business. Good refs., steady, reliable, experienced. Would deputise. Romeril, 33, Mimosa-street, Fulham.

WANTED, Engagement as Flute and Piccolo, also String Bass, reliable, excellent references. Needham (Flautist), Willett (Bass), County Theatre, Bedford.

WANTED, Engagement, by Flautist, at Liberty through closing; any business. H. J. Joel, 5, Laurence-street, Attercliffe, Sheffield.

WANTED, Engagement, Flute and Piccolo, thoroughly experienced, Theatre or Variety Business. Highest refs. Flautist, 41, Argyle-square, King's Cross, W.C.

WANTED, by Young Lady, refined, good appearance, temporary Musical Engagement, June to Sept., in London; experienced Accompanist, Soloist, Musical references. Address, Dulcimer, 66A, Great Portland-street, W.

WANTED, Engagement by Lady (young), First-class Soprano, extensive Répertoire, good Pianist and Accompanist. Only good class work wanted. L., 73, Oglander-road, East Dulwich, S.E.

WANTED, Known, Miss Fanny Grossman, Pianist, thanks for offers, engaged Japan-British Exhibition. All coms., perm. address, 355, High-road, Chiswick.

WANTED, Engagement, in London, by smart Young Lady Pianist, Accompanist to Professional, Orchestra, or any other capacity. Miss F., 1, South Park-road, Wimbledon.

MUSICIANS' WANTS.

WANTED, re-engagement Lady Pianist, experienced orchestral, dramatic, pictures, variety, expert accompanist. PIANIST, 28, Glenfield-road, Balham, London, S.W.

WANTED, for Aug., Engagement as Pianist, with Orchestra, Trio, or Single; good Organist, Reader, Accompanist. W. BARKER, A.R.C.M., Alexandra-terrace, Greengates, Bradford.

WANTED, Summer Engagement, by Experienced Pianist, Solo, Orchestral and Accompanist, seaside preferred. FRED HOOTON, 14, Clarendon-st., Nottingham.

WANTED, Engagement, by Double Drummer, Tympani, Glockenspiel, or Xylophone Soloist. The best references. Box 7,785, "The Era."

WANTED, Engagement, Reliable Double Bass, long experience, Variety to Italian Opera, any business. BASSO, 216, Lancaster-road, Notting Hill, W.

WANTED, Situation, by competent Double Drummer and Tympanist, any business, Disengaged through closing; good refs. DOLTON, 12, Maple-grove, Plymouth.

WANTED, Engagement, Double Drums, Effects, thoroughly experienced, any business; sober and reliable; distance no object. DRUMS, 162, Great Knollys-street, Reading.

WANTED, Engagements, Celebrated Ladies' Poppy Orchestras and Singers, from Brighton, Southport, Ramsgate Piers, Olympia, &c. Scarlet costume. 19, Bedford-place, Brighton.

THE RED ROSE ORCHESTRA.
MANTON-MYATT FAMILY.
WANTED, Known, just concluded highly successful Engagements at Royal Pier Pavilion, Aberystwyth, Pontypridd, &c., now at Exeter and Exmouth, and fully Booked till Autumn.
One of the very best small orchestras before the public.—Vide Press.
All enquiries,
Madame MANTON-MYATT,
28, Rosendale-road, West Dulwich, S.E.

WANTED, Known, Celebrated Ladies' Cremona Orchestra, including Vocalists, &c.; smart uniform; any business. DOROTHEA A. VINCENT, 8, Grafton-sq., Clapham, S.W. 'Phone 990 Battersea.

WANTED, Known, Imperial Ladies' Orchestras, Vocalists, Bells, &c.; established 1890. Directress, Madame NELLIE BAKER, 114, Woodlands-road, Ilford. 'Phone 877 Ilford.

WANTED, Good Agents for the English tour of the Italian Royal Piedmont Hussars, Military Band and Orchestra. MUSICAL DIRECTOR, R. P. H. Banda-Orchestra, Valenza (Torino), Italy.

WANTED, for Royal London Military Band and London Bohemian Bands (Orchestral), London experienced Musicians, Theatre, Exhibitions, Rinks. WILHELM RUSSELL, 46, Seymour-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, Engagements by the London Euphonic Band. String or Military.
Any Number.
Just concluded Municipal, Health, and Printers and Allied Trades Exhibitions.
Now disengaged.
C/o MASKELYNE and DEVANT,
St. George's Hall, W.

WANTED, Seaside Engagement, for Miss Kathleen Wolseley's Quartette, Les Dames Blanches, two Violins, 'Cello, Piano, Leader Medalist, R.A.M., R.C.M.; extensive répertoire. 88, Chichele-road, Cricklewood.

WANTED, Known, owing to the closing of the Oswestry Rink, Mr. G. H. Jones's Band of eight Brass Instrumentalists or more, are at Liberty for any business; acknowledged the finest Band in the Provinces. Address, BANDMASTER, Oswestry.

WANTED, commence at once, Engagement for Band of six or more, expert musicians, splendid Répertoire. Apply, S. TYAS, M.-D., Primrose Hill, Huddersfield.

WANTED, Engagement, for few weeks, good String Band, from six to ten Instrumentalists; good Répertoire. J. BOYCE, 6, Queen's-retreat, Cheltenham.

WANTED, Engagement, Orchestra, seven Musicians, including piano, smart uniform, Aug. week; moderate terms. BLUE WYVERN ORCHESTRA, 115, Humberstone-road, Leicester.

WANTED, Engagement, Seaside, August, three Violins and 'Cello.
TOOMEY, Violinist, Castle Villas, Bolsover.

CIRCUS ARTISTS WANTED.

WANTED, Artists, in all Lines, for touring Ireland. Turn and lowest in first.
ROBERTS, Post Office, Dundalk, Ireland.

WANTED, for Tenting Ireland, good Aerial, also Ground Acts, working two turns preferred. No fancy salaries; money sure. Address, CIRCUS MANAGER, c/o Post Office, Dublin.

WANTED, Circus Artists who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Sons' Bookstalls to kindly communicate with the PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

CIRCUS ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Known, for Circuses, Hippodromes, &c., the Three Royal Ohmys, specially engaged for the opening of the Grand Exhibition, Bergen, Norway, and have caused the greatest excitement known in Bergen for years; sixth week in Norway; the Press and Public declare that the Exhibition and the Royal Ohmys are the biggest events ever heard of in this country. Thanks to Director Norbeck for offer of engagement for 12 months, but must be in England next year. The Royal Ohmys open at the Grand New Circus, Copenhagen, Aug. 3; will be at Liberty end of Nov. Address, THE ROYAL OHMYS, Glittering Stars of the Midnight Sun, Circus, Norbeck, Bergen, Norway; or their London Agent, JULES GUISE, Brixton, London.

WANTED, Engagements, Parachute Descents, hot air, reduced terms, Share or Certainty; Amateurs trained, small premium. FLEET and Co., Aeronauts, Harrow.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS WANTED.

WORCESTER PALACE OF VARIETIES.
WANTED, Variety Artists, also Empire, Worcester. No wires. ARTHUR CARLTON, Palace, Worcester.

BRITANNIA, GLASGOW.
WANTED, Variety Artists in all Lines, now and onwards, with exceptions.
Address,
MANAGER, as above.

WANTED, Variety Artists coming North to send Terms and Vacant Dates to JAMES ANDERSON and SONS' Agency, 6, Great Clyde-street, Glasgow.

WELLESLEY PICTURE PALACE,
DENBEATH, METHIL, FIFE, N.B.
WANTED, Variety Artists in all Lines, June 13, and onward. Send lowest terms to FARMER and CAMPBELL, Proprietors.

WANTED, Monday, June 27, and onwards. Variety Artists, all Lines, Stars and good Specialities. Particulars, KITCHINGMAN, Aquarium, Scarborough.

WHITLEY PLEASURE GARDENS,
SPANISH CITY, WHITLEY BAY.
WANTED, High-class Variety Artists, all Lines. Good Speciality Acts, for immediate dates and onwards. Lowest terms and full particulars to AUGUSTE A. PEULEVE, General-Manager.

WANTED, Artists in all Lines, to send full list of Bookings. Suitable turns can have tour arranged in Scotland, also North of England. Wire "Contracts, Greenock"; 'Phone 800. SKIVINGTON'S Agency, 41, Ardgowan-street, Greenock.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS WANTED.

BODIE'S ROYAL MAGNETS.
BODIE'S ROYAL MAGNETS.
WANTED, Artists all Lines, Specialities, Double Turns, June 27, onwards, for Bodie's Royal Magnets, No. 1 and 2 Companies; to suitable people long and comfortable Engagements. Great and glorious success this week at Prince's Theatre, Preston. Packed houses nightly, and such excitement. Cheered to the echo again and again. Students and electricians absolutely staggered, bewildered, and amazed.
PRINCE'S THEATRE.
Dr. Walford Bodie is paying another visit to Preston this week, appearing with his vaudeville company at the Prince's Theatre. There were excellent "houses" at both entertainments last night, and those who visited the theatre must have been impressed by the thrilling nature of some of the electrical experiments. La Belle Electra figures in the electrocution chair, a contrivance similar to that used in carrying out a death sentence in America. She is first placed in the chair, then hypnotised, and then the electric current is applied with truly sensational effects. Her endurance is remarkable, and there was quite a feeling of relief amongst the audience when, after the current had been disconnected, she was brought back to her normal state. There is another and a lighter side to Dr. Bodie's entertainment which must be seen to be appreciated.—Preston Daily Post, June 7.
Only four vacant dates this year, July 4, 11, 18, 25.
Vacant for Theatres, Hippodromes, &c.
Many thanks to H. G. Dudley Bennett, Esq., B. Pareezer, Esq., J. Kiernan, Esq., Fred Anderson, Esq., Signor Pepi, Mark Lorne, and others for Contracts; absolutely the greatest draw in the universe. The talk of every town. Managers wire or write, also Artists. All letters address to Sole Director and Proprietor, ALBERT EDWARD BODIE, King's Theatre, Sutton-in-Ashfield.

WANTED, Artists of every description,
immediate dates onwards.
immediate dates onwards.
immediate dates onwards.
Bookings include every Hall of Note in England.
Forward full list of Bookings and absolute lowest first instance to
HARRY BURNS,
Established 1895,
Head Office (where always communicate),
Welburn House, Hartlepool.
Telephones, 231 and 231A, Hartlepool.
Telegrams. "Chosen, Hartlepool."

WANTED, Star Artists, all Lines, for Immediate and Future Dates.
WILLIAM MOULD, Central Palace, North Shields.

WANTED, Star Artists all Lines, from now onwards; Hall small, terms same. Good break for Artists going North, South, or Ireland. J. J. SCOTT, Empire, Wrexham.

FRED DURHAM'S AGENCY.
WANTED, Artists, in all Lines, June 20, on. 1A, Loughboro'-rd., Brixton. 'Phone 15 Brixton.

WANTED, Music Hall Artists, all Lines, June 20, onwards. Terms, bookings, &c. Fête and Gala Artists send lithos, terms, &c. EDGAR STEBBINGS, 28, Egerton-street, Manchester. 'Phone, 9,261 Central. Tels., "Stebbing."

BIRMINGHAM AND DISTRICT
VARIETY AGENCY.
WANTED, Artists in all lines, June 20, onwards, Jugglers, good Sisters, Doubles doing Singles. Letters, R. FORDHAM, Star Hotel, Brierley Hill, Staffs.

VERNO'S AGENCY,
16, Elizabeth-street, Liverpool.
WANTED, Artists, in all Lines, June 20, onwards.
Telegrams, "Merriment." Telephone, 2,076 Royal.

WANTED, Artists in all Lines, Aug. 1 and 8, for Fêtes and Galas; those doing double acts preferred. Sample lithos. and lowest terms to WILDERS, Agents, Great Francis-st., Birmingham.

HIPPO. AND PICTURE PAL., TON-Y-PANDY.
WANTED, Artists in all Lines, for above, Monday, June 20, and onwards. Apply, W. THOMAS, Pandy Hotel, Ton-y-Pandy.

WANTED, Refined Artists, all Lines, for Chappell's Concerts, June till September. HARRY BARKER, General-Manager, 6, Harley-road, Great Yarmouth.

WANTED, Artists in all Lines, from June 20, onwards.
Terms must be low.
Also Al-Fresco Artists for Season.
Turns known to me write in at once.
T. W. WRIGHT, Manager, Luna Park, Southend.

Syndicate Halls.
Syndicate Halls.
WANTED, Original Turns who have not appeared at above. Send bookings, lowest terms, particulars, &c. (no callers),
WARREN AGENCY,
21, Victoria-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, for Picture Palaces, Halls, Small Turns, Talent and Refinement essential. List of Bookings, Vacancies. DAGMAR, Chelsea Palace (letters only).

WANTED, Very Best of Talent, in all Lines, for Widnes, Runcorn, and Northwich.
Refinement Essential.
HAMILTON & HUGHES, Co-Op. Hall, Widnes.

STAR PALACE, BRIDGETON, GLASGOW.
STAR PALACE, PARTICK, GLASGOW.
WANTED, the Greatest Acts in Variety, for Immediate and Future Dates. Two weeks, Glasgow, for the Right Numbers. Money no object for First-class Acts in all Lines. Agents send lists. Nothing too big, nothing too small Send Lithos, &c., to GUSS LAZENBERG, Star Palace, Bridgeton.

WANTED, Big Acts for Continent, Sole Agency only entertained.
SMYTHSON'S Agency,
38, Craster-road, Brixton Hill, London.
Also Star Acts for Britain.
Always an opening for Real Novelties.

WANTED, immediately, clever, up-to-date Comedy Musical Act, Sensational Novelties, Dancers, and other Front Cloth Acts; only recognised performers of reliability need apply; long pleasant season's Combinations if entirely satisfactory. State everything first letter, lowest summer salary, programmes, photos., full particulars; no time for useless correspondence. MAURICE F. RAYMOND, Manager Great Raymond Company, this week, Queen's Park Hippodrome, Manchester; next week, Queen's Theatre, Leeds. Interviews by appointment only.

WANTED, Big and Small Acts, all descriptions, for First-class Halls. Terms, &c., write only, MOORE and BENTZ, 12, Adam-street, Strand, London.

WANTED, Speciality Acts, Musical Acts, Sisters doing Doubles and Singles. Lowest terms, full list of bookings,
GROSVENOR AGENCY,
125, Grosvenor-street, All Saints', Manchester.
Tel. 989 Central.

WANTED, June 20, on, for Dublin, Belfast, Glasgow, Rochdale, Bristol, S. Wales, Variety Acts. Aug. 1, Gala Acts and Specialities.
GANNON, 3, West-grove, Bristol.

CLIQUOT'S THEATRICAL VARIETY AGENCY.
9, Monton-st., Denmark-rd., Manchester.
WANTED, Big Star Attractions, on Salary or Share.
for all dates June and July,
for North and Midlands.
Notice.
Amongst my Bookings of this week is included
The Famous Aug. Van Biene,
Lucy Lynd, Three Romas, Carpatti Bros.
Adie Adell please wire.
All communications address as above.

WANTED, Tops and Bottoms, write at once, I can Book them a town in Scotland. HARRY TAFT, Palace, Devonport.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS WANTED.

EMPIRE MUSIC HALL, WAKEFIELD.
EMPIRE MUSIC HALL, WAKEFIELD.
EMPIRE MUSIC HALL, WAKEFIELD.
EMPIRE MUSIC HALL, WAKEFIELD.
WANTED, Wanted, Known,
Always an opening
Always an opening
Always an opening
Always an opening
for Drawing Attractions.
for Drawing Attractions.
for Drawing Attractions.
for Drawing Attractions.
Apply immediately for Summer Vacancies,
Apply immediately for Summer Vacancies,
as this Hall never closes.
HARRY BURNS' Agency,
Welburn House, Hartlepool.

WANTED, Wanted, Wanted,
Big Star Specialities,
Big Animal Acts,
in fact, anything that is
New, Novel, and Sensational,
for July, Aug., and Sept.,
Blackpool, Morecambe, &c.
Send dates, lithos., &c., to
WILL SLEY, 180, Oxford-road, Manchester.

PALACE, SUNDERLAND.
WANTED, Sensational Specialities, Eccentric Acrobatic Troupes, Novel Musical Acts, Spectacular Productions, &c., for June 20, 27, onward. Address, with lowest terms, samples of printing, &c., to MANAGER, Palace, Sunderland.

AVENUE THEATRE, SUNDERLAND.
Sole Proprietor, RICHARD THORNTON.
WANTED, for immediate and future dates, big Specialities of every description, nothing too big. Artists working North who have weeks out through Halls closing are invited to send full particulars of their Acts, with absolute lowest, filling in terms, to HARRY ESDEN, Empire, Sunderland. Please mark envelopes "Avenue."

MARINE GARDENS, PORTOBELLO, EDINBURGH.
WANTED, Variety Combinations, for Grand Concert Hall, for weeks commencing Aug. 1. Apply with full particulars at once to JACK DE FRECE, 178, Charing Cross-road, W.C.

HIPPODROME, STOCKTON-ON-TEES.
HIPPODROME, STOCKTON-ON-TEES.
HIPPODROME, STOCKTON-ON-TEES.
Lessee and General-Manager, HARRY BURNS.
WANTED, Wanted, Wanted,
Tops with big Drawing Powers,
Tops with big Drawing Powers,
Tops with big Drawing Powers,
Tops with big Drawing Powers,
immediate dates.
immediate dates.
immediate dates.
Open all the year round.
Communicate at once,
HARRY BURNS' Agency,
Welburn House, Hartlepool.

PALACE THEATRE, READING.
WANTED, Tops and Bottoms of Bills, several dates this and next year. Letters only, STANHOPE and Co., LTD., 12, Buckingham-st., W.C.

TOPS OF BILLS.
WANTED, Big Acts, Shares or Certainty, Empire, Dudley, immediate and future dates. Particulars, BOWMAKER, Pal., Northampton.

WANTED, Tops and Bottoms, for Middlesbrough, Stockton, Scarborough. Terms, lithos., full bookings, WILLIAM AINSWORTH, Amusement Bureau, 135, Abingdon-road, Middlesbrough.

WANTED, good Sketch Company, for two weeks Midlands, July 18 and 25, two sketches nightly, Dramatic and Comedy. Apply, JACK DE FRECE, The Vaudeville Agency, 178, Charing Cross-road.

WANTED, smart refined and attractive Lady Vocalist, for two special weeks. Enclose photo and particulars, BOWMAKER, Palace, Northampton.

ELECTRIC THEATRE, WINTER GARDENS,
CHELTENHAM. Opens Monday, June 20.
WANTED, good Vocalists, to Sing Illustrated Songs, Fire Dancer. Photo essential, which will be returned. Wanted, First-class Billman, must be able to use brush, and be absolutely sober. GILLSMITHS, LIMITED.

WANTED, Young Lady Gymnast, also Apprentice, height 5ft. 5in. First-class situation. Apply, 95, Vassall-road, Brixton, London.

WANTED, a man, good wooden shoe dancer, good singer and knockabout, that can take straight part to Comedian, tall, age between 23 and 28. Apply to Box 7,827, "The Era."

WANTED, good Bioscope, with all requisites, for five weeks, good sharing terms, first-class Hall. Address, TRILLO, 14, Canada-road, Walmer, Deal.

WANTED, Gaumont Operator, practical Electrician, must understand high voltages and motor generators. Electric Empire, Church-street, King's-road, Chelsea.

WANTED, Expert Bioscope Operator, Permanent. Must be First-class man or useless. Send references and lowest terms. Address, A. HAMILTON, Palace, Sunderland.

WANTED, Good Smart Operators, must be used to D.C. and A.C. currents. State age, experience, references, terms, first letter, date at liberty. LEON VINT, Globe Villa, Exmouth, South Devon.

WANTED, Music Hall Artists who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Son's Bookstalls to kindly communicate with the PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Known, Madame Adah Payne, the Australian Prima Donna, late of Moody-Manners Principal Opera Co. Vacant July 4 and 11. To-day, Hippo., Paisley; next, Hippo., Wakefield (third visit).

WANTED, July, and on, by Miss Cissie Arris, Vocalist and Dancer, Champion of the World and Gold Medallist, Top Boots. This, Panopticon; next, Wilton Halls, Glasgow.

WANTED, June 20, 27, onwards, Babs Lloyd, Dainty Comedienne and Expert Dancer, good Songs. June 13, Olympia Theatre, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

WANTED, Known, the Sisters Terry, an Entertainment in themselves, at Liberty June 27 and July 11. This week, Empire, Southport; June 13, Palace, Durham.

WANTED, by Sisters Geretti, June 20, July 11, 25, Oct. 3 10.
Address Casino, Rotterdam, Holland.

WANTED, Monday, also July 4, by The Spadonis (Madge and Sylvia), Duettists and Dancers. Per., 50, Lloyd-street, Greenheys, Manchester.

WANTED, by Eileen and May Sisters, June 20, 27, Bright Musical Act, Expert Dancers. Next, Hippo., Widnes.

WANTED, Monday, also 20th, by Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, the famous Singing Boxmakers, three sisters. Wire Palace, Normanton, Yorks.

WANTED, E. Lucknow, English and Continental Comedy Musical and Patter Comedian, Liberty June 20, 27. Address, Central Hall, Oldham.

WANTED, Known, Percy Curry, Comedian, Liberty Monday, new songs and business. Wire, Albion Hotel, Stockton-road, Sunderland.

WANTED, Bert Danson, in his latest and greatest Comedy Hits, June 20 and 27. This, Olympia, Jersey; next, E., Portsmouth.

WANTED, Known, Will Owen, Dame and Comedy Dutch Comedian, vacant June 13, 20, and 27; also First-class Al Fresco entertained. This week, 70, Park-street, Greenheys, Manchester.

WANTED, 13th, 27th, onwards, exceptions, Dan Ashton, Collier's Songs, Stories, Colliery Pictures. Pavilion, Ashington; 20th, Empire, S. Shields. Coms., Clayton-st., Jarrow-on-Tyne.

WANTED, Monday, also 20th, 27th, by Dave Abbott, the Eccentric Scotch Comedian and Grotesque Dancer. Pavilion, Coatbridge. Coms., 76, Caledonia-road, Glasgow.

WANTED, Wanted, by CESTRIA,
CESTRIA,
CESTRIA,
CESTRIA,
CESTRIA,
Comedy Juggler
and Acrobatic Waiter.
June 20, 27, July 4, 11, 18.
Notice.
Managers and Agents,
if you want a real good thing,
wire or write,
This week, Palace, Glasgow; next, King's, Dundee.

WANTED, by De Meglio, Speciality Entertainer, Ventriloquist, Conjurer, Smoke Painting, Chapeaugraphy; own lithos; Piers, Pavilions. Perm. address, Chadwick-road, Eccles.

WANTED, June 20 and 27, by Sergeant Bert Powell, the famous military entertainer and illusionist, concludes to-night, King's Theatre, Gateshead; next week, Opera House, Northampton.

WANTED, by Tom Garland, Bert Anderson, Royal Conjurers, Aug. 15. This, big success, Palace, Battersea; next, Empire, Portsmouth.

WANTED, Known, Stylo, Hoop Juggling, from the London Hippo., Alh., Moss-Stoll Tour; vacant June 13, 20, 27. 83, Upper Conran-street, Manchester.

WANTED, Monday, by Carvell and Dora, "The Ventriloquist and the Lady," Novel Act; single if required. Wire, Gaiety Theatre, Worksop.

WANTED, by Harry Keeble, the Incomparable Ventriloquist, and Gladys Wells, Contralto, Aug. 1, Sept. 5, also Panto. Mon., Palace, Halifax.

WANTED, June 27, July 4, 11, Davies and Udall, in enormously successful Lancashire Comedy Duologue, "The Grumbler." Winter Gar., New Brighton.

WANTED, Known, Ward and Davis (Howard and Louie), in "Wanted, a Typist," wants Monday next. Hip., Warrington. Sunday, 40, Sydney-street, Masboro', Rotherham.

WANTED, June 27, July 11, various on, The Monckton (Fred, Lillie), Comedy Duologuists, presenting their popular screaming farcical episodes. This week, "A Woman's Curiosity," Hippodrome, Preston (fourth return); Monday, 13th, Winter Gardens, Morecambe.

WANTED, June 20, 27, Belasco, refined Musical Act; also Isa Davis, Petite Mimic.
Monday, Palace, Watford.

WANTED, by The Two Castles (lady and gent), June 20, 27, Vocalists, Speciality Dancers, Statuesque Stars. Also Etty Osborne, Chorus Comedienne, played seven Stoll tours, barred nowhere. June 13, Palace, Oldbury.

WANTED, by the Bros. Webb, July 11, Aug. 1, 8.
Palace Theatre, Oldham.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, June 20, 27, onward, the Great Rohde and Roche, in their Novelty Act, "The Chameleon, Artist, and It." Original. Enormous success London. June 13, Hippodrome, Hastings, wire.

WANTED, Monday on, Chant and Chant, the Irresistible Vocal Comedy Duo. Wire for the sure fire hit, Picture Palace, Porth.

WANTED, by Probyn and Bates, June 13, 20, 27, Singing, Eccentric Contortion, and Dancing Act. Big hit, this week, Standard, Pimlico, 9 o'clock turn. Coms., 43, Iffley-road, Hammersmith.

WANTED, by Fields and Lewis, Great Comedy Act, vacant Monday next, also June 20. Wire, Palace, Durham; after Saturday, 1, Cross-street, Morecambe.

WANTED, Monday next, June 13, 20, Sardous, Illusionists, Mystifiers; Marie Riviers, Song Illustrator, Chorus Songs. Superb Pictures. Wire, Theatre, Shrewsbury.

WANTED, Known, The McGregors, Comedy Entertainers. We have not had a week out since we produced our New Show last Easter, thanks to our Agent, JAMES FIONI, 21, Norton-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, by the 3 DRABBLES 3, Refined Musical Act, June 13, 20, &c. Lady Post Horn and Cornet Expert.
Wire, LISBON, Agent, 7, Oddfellow-st., Blackpool.

WANTED, by Will Douglas's Five Jolly Bakers, Monday next, through mistaking date. Wire, DOUGLAS, Hippodrome, Bishop Auckland; after, 12, Hazelwood-road, Northampton. The Best, that's all.

WANTED, by Mlle. Sylvesto, Continental Contortionist, and Assistant, June 13, onwards. Halls or Circuses. Wire, 35, Hercules-road, London, S.E.

WANTED, by Bennetti and Bob Kellino Trio, Eccentric Acrobats and Risleyists, immediate and future dates, also Galas; just concluded long American Tour. 23, Hercules-road, Lambeth.

WANTED, June 20, onwards, Manek-Shah Troupe, Indian Illusionists, direct from Bombay; a real Novelty. Monday, Hippo., Tunbridge Wells.

WANTED, June 20 and 27, The Carisens, Comedy Trampoline Speciality, and Champion Somersault Dog, Jack. Own scenery. Splendid lithos. Sure success. Theatre Royal, Workington.

WANTED, Known, Le Blond and Miss Ol. Dare, Liberty June 18, and onwards, with their new and sensational revolving Breakaway Ladder. Wood Castle, Bordesley Green, Birmingham.

WANTED, by the Three Original Hodginis, Breakaway Ladder Act, June 27, on; splendid scenery, lithos., posters. June 13, Empire, Barnsley.

WANTED, Monday next, by La Dor Troupe, male and female Novelty Acrobats, three Acts. Hippodrome, Bursiem, Staff. Wanted, smart Youth, Acrobat.

WANTED, June 13, on, with exceptions, The Four Flying Orenius (two ladies, two gentlemen), an Aerial Act for Vaudeville or anywhere. This, topping, T. R., Ilkeston. P.A., 67, Walcot-square, Lambeth, S.E. Wire for Monday.

WANTED, June 20, onwards, by Geo. Gulliver, Ventriloquist.
Tip-top Comedy Number, with drawing power.
Would accept good Al-fresco.
Big rep., &c.
Write or wire, Hippo., Peckham, S.E.

WANTED, July 4, 11, 18, by Hulbert, Ventriloquist, and De Lil, Illusionist; two smart Acts. Offers invited. Empire, Wellingboro'.

MISS ELLA'S
FAMOUS LION SHOW.
WANTED, June 27, South preferred, all July and August.
All coms. to 18, Gloucester-street, Jersey, C.I.

WANTED, Known, Miss Edith Tudora's Ponies, four Human-like Animals. Liberty June 27, and on, Ireland preferred. All coms., Pier Pavilion, Hastings.

WANTED, Known, Miss Shanara's Great Troupe Deer, Goats, Great Novelty, the only Known Act of this kind; refined, up-to-date; something out of the usual, Stage Set and Costumes A1. Big Turn for Parks, Fêtes; the one Original. Marvellous performance, including the High-springing Bok. Address, 24, Worcester-street, Gloucester

WANTED, Known, Devereux's Wonderful Dog Actors, the Greatest Draw of its Kind before the Public; at Liberty Monday through altering date; share or certainty. Farmers' Arms Hotel, Roscommon-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, Known, Clown Inanda presents Bute, the marvellous educated canine wonder, refined speciality, humorous, clever, the only dog performing the Barrel Act; big for Pictures, Fêtes. Address, 24, Worcester-street, Gloucester.

WANTED, by The Cyclinis, Somersaulting Cyclists, "Football on Wheels," 13th, 20th, 27th. 7, Ebberstone-street, Moss Side, Manchester.

WANTED, Known, Hinton and Wooton. Vacant July 11 and 25.
through Paragon and Croydon closing.
Only Vacancies.
This, Palace, Tottenham.
June 13, Palace, East Ham, London.

FOR CONTINUATION OF "WANTED" ADVTS. SEE PAGE 32.

BERSAGLIERI'S BAND.

WANTED ENGAGEMENTS BY THIS FAMOUS NOVELTY BAND.
APPLY, BANDMASTER, 75, FLORENCE ROAD, BRIGHTON.

MOSS' EMPIRES, LTD. & STOLL COMPANIES SUBSEQUENT

(Moss, Stoll, Thornton & Allen Theatres, Amalgamated) — Chairman: Sir Edward Moss

WORKING IN CONJUNCTION

Capital £2,086,000.

Managing Director: OSWALD STOLL

(Including Coliseum Syndicate, Ltd.) — Chairman Oswald Stoll.

Assisting Director and Chief of Staff: FRANK ALLEN.

Department Superintendent and Chief Accountant: W. S. GORDON MICHIE.

Co-Operative Offices: CRANBOURN MANSIONS, CRANBOURN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

INTERVIEWS BY APPOINTMENT ONLY.

CALLS FOR MONDAY, JUNE 13, 1910.

Telephone: 1050 and 1051 Gerrard.
Wires: Moss' Empires and Associated Properties, "Twigsome, London."

THE LONDON HIPPODROME

Rehearsal at 10 a.m. for :—

Russian Dancers, Yvette Guilbert, Miller Bros., Seven Perezoffs, Henri Leoni, Campbell and Barber, Avolos, Hardini Trio, Animated Pictures, Happy Fanny Fields, Chung Ling Soo.

EMPIRE PALACE, EDINBURGH.

Rehearsal at 1.30 p.m for :—

Marie Lloyd, Lindon Lang, Jennie Hartley, Woodhouse and Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. H. Lucas, Carrie Laurie's "Belles of the Kitchen," Alcide Capitaine, Maxey and Pete, Pictures, Binns and Binns.

EMPIRE THEATRE, GLASGOW.

Rehearsal at 12 noon for :—

Master Edward Garratt and Co., Geo. Lestocq and Co., Five Vernons, Yamamoto and Koyoshi, Evelyn Stoll, Lyric Quartette, Bioscope, H. O. Wills, Beatrice and Bert, Indian Wrestlers.

COLISEUM, GLASGOW.

Rehearsal at 12 noon for :—

Lew Lake and Co., Cull Pitt, Fielding and Hull, Elton and Edwin, Florence Yaymen, Four Royal Scots, Gordon Brown, Bioscope, Fred Earle.

GRAND THEATRE, GLASGOW.

Closed for Summer Vacation.

ARDWICK THEATRE, MANCHESTER.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for :—

Welsh v. McFarland Fight on the Bioscope, Phil Parsons, Jock Mills, Eight Lancashire Lads, Northcotes, Mona Vivian, Sylvia Du Barry, Gothams, "Little Stowaway."

HIPPODROME, MANCHESTER.

Rehearsal at 12 noon for :—

Darnley's Co., including Fred Kitchen, in "Private Potts," Frank H. Fox, Leo Tell, Marco Belli, Quaint Q's, Tom Stuart, Frasettis, Bioscope, Nellie Wallace.

EMPIRE PALACE, BIRMINGHAM.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for :—

Chas. T. Aldrich, A. G. Spry, J. H. Milburn, Johnson and Bert, Harry Jolson, Phil Rees's Stable Lads, Edie King, Wullie Walker, Bioscope, Olga, Elgar, and Eli Hudson.

BORDESLEY PALACE, BIRMINGHAM.

Edward Marris' Stock Company.

GRAND, BIRMINGHAM.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for :—

Hetty King, Bioscope, Two St. Johns, Dolly Bell, Five Whiteleys, Alf Agoust, Harry Grey, J. A. Wilson, Olive Armidale, Dan Lipton's "Songland."

PALACE, LEICESTER.

Rehearsal at 2.30 p.m. for :—

Mike Whallen, Bert Williams, Abdullah Arabs, My Fancy, Chris Van Bern, Iva Voyce, Sisters Kilner, Harry Marte, Welsh v. McFarland Fight on the Bioscope, A. C. Lilly and Co. in "Drummed Out."

EMPIRE, NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for :—

Mark Sheridan, Sybil St. Elmo, Bioscope, Arthur Slater, Mezzetis, Kirbys, Carl Howard, Amy Marsden, Ella Retford, Twelve Fezzans.

EMPIRE PALACE, LIVERPOOL.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for :—

George Lashwood, Frank and Free, Walter Munroe, Daisy Irvine and Co., De Wynne Bros., Rich Taylor, Brull and Hemsley, Sisters Tower, Bioscope, Kellinos.

OLYMPIA, LIVERPOOL.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for :—

Raymond Phillips's Airship, Grant and Stewart, Fatmah Diard, Bob Pender, Hall and Earle, Chas. Mildare, Aida Martine, Bioscope, Alicia Ramsey and Rudolph de Cordova's Co. in "The Organ Grinder," Clarice Mayne.

EMPIRE, HACKNEY.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for :—

Courtice Pounds and Co., Daisy Dormer, Little Keeno, Roze and Calvert, May Mars, Ernie Mayne, Smite and Smote, Brennans, Bioscope, Peter Davey's Co.

EMPIRE, HOLLOWAY.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for :—

Horace Goldin, Frank Couch, Bioscope, Ethel Beech, Ted and May Hopkins, Bert Harrow, Duncan's Collies, McGregors, Lillian, Winifred Ward.

EMPIRE, NEW CROSS.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for :—

"Futurity Winner," Bert Weston, Bioscope, Fred Poplar, Hilda Jacobsen, Staig's Steeplejacks, Kitty Wager, Glenroy Troupe, Two Anartos, Poluskis.

BROADWAY THEATRE, NEW CROSS.

Stock Company: "Shaughraun" and "Colleen Bawn."

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, STOKE NEWINGTON.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for :—

Stock Company, Illustrated Song and Pictures.

EMPIRE, STRATFORD.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for :—

The Great Lafayette, Gwennie Hasto, Bioscope, Will Poluski, jun., Three Merrils, Bros. Bright, Ada Colley, Peggy Pryde.

THE LONDON COLISEUM

Rehearsal at 10 a.m. for :—

Russian Dancers, Fragson, Courtiers, Harry Ford, Edward Davies, Serene Nord, Piccad Troupe, Girard and Gardner, Frank Maura, Orpheus, Bioscope, Maidie Scott.

EMPIRE THEATRE, BRADFORD.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for :—

Arthur Roberts and Co. in "The Importance of Being Another Man's Wife," Cumminger and Colonna, Conn and Conrad, Chas. Fisher's Vocalesques, Siems, Russel Carr, Lillie Lassah, Bioscope, George French.

EMPIRE, SWANSEA.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for :—

Will Evans, Bioscope, Luis Alvarez, Lily Flexmore, Heeley and Meeley, Arthur Leslie, La Freya, Royal Delomes, Jack Pleasants.

EMPIRE, CARDIFF.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for :—

Frank and Jen Latona, Marie Kendall, Mary Ambrose, Harry Leybourne, Manchester Mites, Ed. E. Ford, Bessie Butt, Steve McCarthy, Bioscope, Albert and Edmunds Troupe.

PHILHARMONIC HALL, CARDIFF.

Rehearsal at 3 p.m. for :—

Company as booked.

EMPIRE, NEWPORT.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for :—

Ernest Shand, Wood, Wells, and Wilkins, Tom Davies Trio, Herbert Shelley, Smythsons, Takio, Kathleen Gray, Bioscope, Humpsti Bumsti.

EMPIRE, NOTTINGHAM.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for :—

Craggs, Welsh v. McFarland Fight on the Bioscope, Pat Rafferty, Tom and Marie Motramo, Eight Empire Girls, Beaty and Blanche, Flo Curran, Chas. Norton, Kratons, John Humphries.

EMPIRE PALACE, SHEFFIELD.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for :—

Ada Reeve, Jewel St. Leger, Haytors, O'Gust, Margaret Parker and Co., Ike and Will Scott, Johnny Fuller, Alice Kingsley, Bioscope, Harvey's Boys and Girls.

PALACE THEATRE, HULL.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for :—

Harry Roxbury and Co., Alice Maydue, Chas. J Johnson, Holden's Mannikins, Harry Herbert, Conan and Doyle, Nellie Farrell, Bioscope, Carmos, Oswald Williams.

EMPIRE PALACE, LEEDS.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for :—

Van Biene and Co., Anna Chandler, Billy Hobbs, Hans and Lux, Griff, Amelie de L'Enclos, Alf Gibson, Cissie Thompson, Delevines, Welsh v. McFarland Fight on the Bioscope.

EMPIRE, SHEPHERD'S BUSH.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for :—

Bransby Williams, Winifred Hare, Andos Japs, Gardner and Stoddard, Nelson Jackson, New Macs, Miles Stayordale Quintette, Stella Stahl, Bioscope, Jack Lorimer.

The following are Booked in conjunction with the above:

EMPIRE, SUNDERLAND.

Rehearsal at 12 noon for :—

Gertie Gitana, Bertha Winder, Harry May Hemsley, Lux's Dogs, Findens, Bros. Redmond, Maudie Francis, Bioscope, Livesey and Rosebery in "Would-be Actors."

EMPIRE PALACE, SOUTH SHIELDS.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for :—

G. H. Elliott, Bros. Durant, Mitchell and Cain, Wyndham and Kitty, Marconis, Phyllis Stean, Chandos and Constable, Welsh v. McFarland Fight on the Bioscope.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, WALSALL.

Rehearsal at 12 noon for :—

Karno's "Jimmy the Fearless," Arthur Woodville, Bioscope, Florrie Gallimore, Lena Verdi, Dan Fraser, Barrett and Knowles.

EMPIRE, WEST HARTLEPOOL.

Rehearsal at 12 noon for :—

Seymour Hicks and Co. in "Scrooge," Lulu Russell, Georgians, Briff, Braff, and Broff, Burnetti, Bioscope, Harry Tate's Co. in "Motoring."

EMPIRE THEATRE, DUBLIN.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for :—

Alice Raymond and Co., Tom Moore, May Brilliant, Johnny Walker, Jackley Trio, Emma Don and Co., Pictures, Spry and Monti, &c.

EMPIRE THEATRE, BELFAST.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for :—

W. F. Frame, Alec Lawson, May Henderson, Neville Delmar, Pictures, Roma and Romani, &c.

IMPERIAL HALL, WALSALL.

Company as Booked.

CROYDON HIPPODROME.

Closed for alterations.

SPECIAL NOTE.—NO DEPUTIES WILL BE ACCEPTED AT REHEARSALS.

IMPORTANT NOTICES.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS.—All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office. Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns. Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier. Artists employing agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents. New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our Districts Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow :—

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, and DISTRICT.—MR. S. GETHING, Empire Theatre, Glasgow.
LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, and DISTRICT.—MR. PERCIVAL CRAIG, Empire Theatre, Bradford.
BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HATTON WHARTON, Empire Theatre, Nottingham.
LIVERPOOL, MANCHESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HORACE COLE, The Empire, Liverpool.
SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.—MR. ALBERT MITCHELL, Empire Theatre, Cardiff.
LONDON DISTRICT.—MR. J. CHRISTIE, Empire Theatre, Shepherd's Bush, W.
TOURS COMMITTEE.—LLEWELLYN JOHNS and DISTRICT MANAGERS.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SOUTH SHIELDS.—Artists and Agents wishing to submit TRIALS for their Acts in the North, should apply to the Manager, as Matinées are held every Wednesday for that purpose.

N.B.—MR. OSWALD STOLL or MR. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously. Artists and Agents are requested to note that the Standard Theatre, Shoreditch, and the Terriss Theatre, Rotherhithe, come within the areas absolutely barred by us. Artists and Agents are also requested to note that the Hippodrome, Aston, Birmingham, comes within the area absolutely barred by the Grand Theatre and Empire Palace, Birmingham.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ARTISTS.—Artists must have at least Fourteen Band Parts for English Orchestrations, and Seventeen Band Parts for Foreign Orchestrations. Matter of Bill, Blocks, and Specimens of Pictorials FOR THE ABOVE THEATRES must be sent to Co-operative Offices, at above address, THREE WEEKS before Opening, failing which Artists will run the risk of having their Engagements cancelled. It is important that separate bill matter, blocks, pictorials, &c., for Dublin, Belfast, and South Shields, be sent direct to Mr. Frank Allen at the Co-operative Offices. IMPORTANT.—Artists must forward Copies of Songs to the STAGE DEPARTMENT, ABOVE ADDRESS, TWO WEEKS previous to opening, with Assignments for same, which will be returned. Artists are requested to note carefully that the clause in their contracts relating to rehearsals will in future be strictly enforced. Artists' Scenery, Properties, &c., MUST be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Licensing Authorities. ARTISTS WILL CLEARLY UNDERSTAND THAT THEIR BUSINESS MUST BE FREE FROM ALL VULGARITY.

No order or contract for goods or services must be accepted for any of the foregoing theatres except upon receipt of an Official Form, issued from the Co-operative Offices, London, and signed by either Mr. Oswald Stoll, Mr. Frank Allen, or the Chief Accountant, otherwise the Company concerned will not be responsible for same, and will refuse payment. In special cases, where goods are required at once, suppliers must look to the individual placing the order, who will be personally liable, unless an official confirmatory order, signed as above, is received within forty-eight hours. Invoices must be sent to the Theatre, but monthly statements should be sent to the Co-operative Offices. The individual Company on whose behalf orders are signed is solely responsible for payment. The Management will not hold themselves responsible in the event of loss of or damage to any MSS., Songs, &c., submitted for consideration.

The Greatest Aggregation of Variety Theatres in the World

LONDON OFFICES:
— OAKLEY HOUSE, —
Bloomsbury St., W.C.,
where please address all communications in regard to the Professional and Publicity Departments of the PROVINCIAL CIRCUIT to Mr. SYDNEY ARTHUR.
—— Telegraphic Address ——
"CIRVAUMAC LONDON."
Telephone—No. 9167 GERRARD.

THE MACNAGHTEN VAUDEVILLE CIRCUIT

SHEFFIELD OFFICES:
KING'S CHAMBERS,
Angel St., Sheffield,
where please address all communications in regard to FINANCIAL, COMMERCIAL, and GENERAL BUSINESS MATTERS.
—— Telegraphic Address ——
"MACNAGHTEN, SHEFFIELD."
Telephone—No. 3449.

Director-General:
Mr. FRANK MACNAGHTEN.

Secretary: Miss AMY ROBINSON.

General Business Manager for the Circuit:
Mr. E. P. LAWTON.

Provincial District and Booking Manager:
Mr. SYDNEY ARTHUR.

CALLS FOR WEEK COMMENCING MONDAY, JUNE 13.

PROVINCIAL HOUSES.

PALACE, HALIFAX.
Roxbury's "Cowboy Millionaire," Ethel Entwistle, The Two Unites, Dene and Dixon, Harry Keeble, Broughton and Creedon, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE THEATRE, CARLISLE.
Rauschle, Fred Ward, Roberta Svendsen, Pit-Brow Lasses, Lilybelle, Arthur Stacey, Three Phydoras, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PAVILION, LEICESTER.
The Marvellous Days, Myrtle Grove, Josh Dixon, Two Lees, Walter Read, Colley and Scott, Miss Elsie and Bob, Pavilion Perfection Pictures.

PALACE, SOUTHAMPTON.
"The Kidnapped King," Maude May Murray, Allie Moore, Ford Williams, Warsaw Bros., Harry Martell, Palace Perfection Pictures, The Floradoras.

SADLER'S WELLS.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
Pictures, Susie and Frotti, Florrie Thurston, Leo, Jessie Star, Eric and Nora, "Only an Israelite," Four Sydney Girls, Walton and Williams, Harry Moore, Little Dando, "33 to 1 Chance."

FORESTERS'.
Matinées Monday and Thursday, at 2.30.
Alskarno Trio, Pictures, Dan Hendy, The Hulls, Will Challoner, Runaway Girls, Fred Moule, "Avenged," Tina Frank, W. H. Fox, Monie Mine.

PALACE, BRADFORD.
Matinée Thursday.
William's Jubilee Singers, Lily Edwardes, Bert Crosbie, Richard Finberg, Barrie and Wood, Reid and Power, Dolly Ross, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, WARRINGTON.
The Banzai Family, Flo Burnett, Judge's Cockatoos, Four Rosebuds, Charles Vincent, Adolf Beck Pictures, Joan Deering.

PALACE THEATRE, BATH.
Carlton, Canard, "The Circus," Oliver Martyn, "Mysterious Cross," Eight College Girls, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, CARDIFF.
"The Pawnbroker," Norah Desmond, Madison and Webb, Bartholomew Girls, George Acre, Five X Rays, Palace Perfection Pictures.

LONDON HOUSES.

PALACE, BOW.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
Pictures, Geo. Campbell, Henrietta and Selina, Chris Baker, Misted Bell Trio, Man of Forty Faces, Leonard and Vereker, Leon and Tee, Kitty Corelli, Lomas Duo.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, BURNLEY.
Vonetta, Alfred J. Long, Kitty Clinton, Gwen Francis, Bros. Hannaway, Harold Heath, Syd Walker, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PIER PAVILION, SOUTHPORT.
Maude Mortimer, Barrington, The Seddons, Marie Dreams, Will Rennie, Alice Craven, Musical Keiths, Guest and Newlyn, Pavilion Perfection Pictures.

PALACE THEATRE, LINCOLN.
Valenche's Dogs, Beattie Foster, Kate Traill, The Sages, Wallace Whitney, Le Hurst, Comedy Meisters, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE THEATRE, HUDDERSFIELD.
Wilmar's Spirit Paintings, Sydney Brandon, Joe Belmont, Vela, The Cedrics, Blanche Marion, The Belmonts, Ted Waite, Palace Perfection Pictures.

SURREY THEATRE.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
Pictures, Geo. Brooks, Lizzie Daniels, Rousby and Rene, "Drink," Jos. Crook, Tom and Neil, Six Lancashire Lasses, Gyp Hodgson, Hargreaves Trio.

HIPPODROME, STALYBRIDGE.
(Closed.)

THEATRE ROYAL, ROTHERHAM.
Picture Entertainment.

THEATRE ROYAL, CHESTERFIELD.
Picture Entertainment.

THEATRE ROYAL, ATTERCLIFFE.
Picture Entertainment.

KING'S, NOTTINGHAM.
Picture Entertainment.

HIPPODROME, STOKE-ON-TRENT.
"A Sister's Sin."

PALACE, BLACKBURN.
T. Elder Hearn, Cassie Walmer, Jackson Family, Milner and Storey, Charles Woodward, John Macauley, Gaston Chevallier and Co., Palace Perfection Pictures, Leolin, Three Van Dammes.

PALACE, BATTERSEA.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
Pictures, Harry Hunter, Mabel Florence, "For Honour," "The Deadbeat," Bessie Neilson, Gladys Wyse, Wee Georgie Harris, Jessie Wilton.

London District and Booking Manager: Mr. FREDERIC BAUGH.

SPECIAL AND IMPORTANT NOTICE.—Artists engaged will please note that Rehearsals at ALL Halls take place at 12 o'clock noon each Monday. No excuses whatever for non-attendance will be entertained. All billing matter and notification of appearance accompanied by samples of pictorial printing must be IN THE CASE OF THE PROVINCIAL HALLS SENT TO OAKLEY HOUSE, BLOOMSBURY STREET, W.C.; AND IN THE CASE OF THE LONDON HALLS TO THE FORESTERS' THEATRE, CAMBRIDGE ROAD, E., fourteen clear days prior to opening, or Contract may be cancelled at the option of the Management. Artists wishing to negotiate Engagements for the London Houses of the Circuit will please apply to Mr. FREDERIC BAUGH, Booking Manager for London, at the FORESTERS' THEATRE, CAMBRIDGE ROAD, E. Telegraphic address, "Stageyness, London." Telephone 5954 Avenue.

Artists wishing to negotiate provincial engagements, Agents and Managers of Touring Companies, can be seen at Oakley House by appointment only.

All applications for dates at the Theatre Royal, Rotherham, and Theatre Royal, Chesterfield, to be addressed to Oakley House, Bloomsbury-street, London.

THE SURREY VAUDEVILLE THEATRE, Ltd.
Managing Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.

In accordance with the Arbitrator's Award, Eight Weeks' Notice is hereby given that the above Theatre

Will be Closed on Saturday, July 30, 1910,

for the purpose of Rebuilding A definite date for re-opening will shortly be announced. All Artistes booked will be given other dates.

FREDERIC BAUGH,
For the Surrey Vaudeville Theatre, Ltd.

All Coms, The Foresters' Vaudeville Theatre, Cambridge Road, London, E.
Telegrams: "Stageyness, London." Telephone: 5954 Avenue.

PALACE THEATRE, KILMARNOCK.

NOTICE is Hereby Given that the above theatre will cease to be in the possession and occupancy of Mr. John Cummings, as and from the first day of August, 1910, and all contracts with variety artists entered into with the said John Cummings are thereby cancelled, as and from the date herein mentioned.—Signed,
June 1, 1910. JOHN CUMMINGS.

WALMSLEY'S SCENIC STUDIO,
RIVERS STREET, PORTSMOUTH.
Scenery of Every Description.
MODELS. ESTIMATES.
"The scenery was designed and painted by Mr. Fred Walmsley, and gained great admiration." ("La Forza del Dest no," Carl Rosa Opera Co.)—Press.

HANDSOME ILLUMINATED METAL TABLETS
of "THE ERA."
PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street Strand, W.C.

GAMAGES

The World's CHEAPEST HOUSE for Amateur and Professional Make-Ups and Properties.

THE SECRETS OF MAKING-UP.
By J. AINSLEY BROUGH.
The most useful book on the subject published.
Highly Recommended.
Price 1/-
Post Free.

PIERROT COSTUMES
INCLUDING
HAT.
LATEST PATTERN.
Price 14/6
Postage ... ... 6d.

A. W. GAMAGE Ltd. HOLBORN. & BENETFINK & Co Ltd CHEAPSIDE.

SPARROW & SON

EST. 1765. NOTTINGHAM. TELE. 187.

THEATRICAL DECORATIONS.
FIBROUS PLASTER. ART PAINTINGS.

PROPRIETORS & MANAGERS ARE INVITED TO SEND FOR SKETCHES & ESTIMATES, WHICH ARE PREPARED FREE OF ALL CHARGE.

PRESS COMMENTS on some of the THEATRES, &c., DECORATED by SPARROW & SON.
"One of the most charming theatres in the provinces." "Carried out in admirable taste." "One of the most beautiful concert halls in the world."
"Messrs. Sparrow and Son, of Nottingham, well known for their Theatrical Decorative work carried out the interior Decorations in exquisite style."

PROFESSIONAL APARTMENTS.

Three Lines, ONE SHILLING.
Thirteen Insertions, TWELVE SHILLINGS.

BRIGHTON.—Seven Stars, Ship-street, opposite G.P.O. The professional house, Sunday Reunions. Always a hearty welcome. Luncheons, &c., at popular prices. DE COSTA, Proprietor.

EDINBURGH.—Cathedral Hotel, near Lyceum, Royal, Empire, and King's. Recommended. Personal Supervision. CHARLES GRANT.

GLASGOW.—Buchanan-street Station Hotel. Recommended. Terms, moderate. Near Royal, Royalty, Grand Theatre; Empire, Pavilion.

LIVERPOOL.—Royal Court Hotel, Queen-square; fully licensed; inclusive terms, 35s. Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. De Silva (Cossie Noel). Tel 3938 Royal.

LONDON, S.E.—Kennington Park-rd. (161), quiet, well-conducted apartments, piano, gas, no extras, very central, good cooking; moderate. Miss Lowe.

LONDON, S.E.—One drawing-room and one or two bed-sitting rooms, for Sunday, June 12. M. Gatehouse, 123, Kennington-road.

LONDON, S.E. — Camberwell Gate. Large combined rooms vacant; bath (h. and c.), piano; very moderate. Board-residence, 15s. 23, Grosvenor-terrace.

LONDON, S.W.—Superior apartments. Bath (h. c.), new piano, good cooking and attendance; large garden. 145, Brixton-road.

LONDON, W.C.—1, Guildford-place. Good home for travelling artists; bed-sitting room vacant, also single room; meals optional.

MANCHESTER.—Mrs. Gray, 36, Booth-street, East Oxford-road. Two Bedrooms, cosy Front Sitting, large Front Combined; bath, w.c. Vac. 19th.

PORTSMOUTH.—Judd's Hotel. In same family over 30 years. Accommodation for Professional gentlemen; inclusive from 30s.

PORTSMOUTH.—North's Temperance Hotel and Restaurant, delightfully situated between both stations; good cooking; moderate.

RHYL.—Mrs. Canton, 4, Bridge-st. Professional Apartments. Moderate Terms.

WAKEFIELD. — Harewood Arms Hotel. Professional house of call. Close to Empire. All papers taken. WALTER HEWITT.

THE COVENTRY HOTEL
FOR BACHELORS.
7 and 8, Rupert-street, Coventry-street, W.
Bed, Breakfast, Bath, and Attendance, 4s. 6d.

BRAID HILLS HOTEL,
MORNINGSIDE, EDINBURGH.
Charmingly situated hotel, completely appointed, every modern luxury, uninterrupted views of the city and surrounding district, 450ft. above sea level, pure mountain air, splendid public golf course adjoining hotel, also ladies' course; cable cars to and from city every three minutes up to 11.30 p.m. Terms moderate.
For descriptive brochure apply to MANAGER.

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS AND LITTLE BOYS. Mrs. Rudge, Crowland, 163, Trinity-road, Upper Tooting, London, S.W. Good house, healthy situation; near Wandsworth Common Station and Balham trams.

FLAT, well furnished, to let for six months, owner touring provinces; piano, linen, plate, &c.; bath (h. and c.); telephone; 1 minute from Bakerloo Tube. Apply, Estate Office, Shroton-st., Marylebone. Telephone 4365 Mayfair.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

Being a digest of the Law relating to Theatres and Music Halls, and containing chapters on Theatrical Contracts, Theatrical, Music and Dancing, and Excise Licences, Dramatic and Musical Copyright, &c., with an Appendix containing the Acts of Parliament relating thereto, and the regulations of the London County Council and the Lord Chamberlain, by

ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (London), Solicitor.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS—

THE ENCORE, May 26, 1910.
We have just received the third edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's book on Theatrical and Musical Law, which is published at The Era Office, 5, Tavistock Street, Strand. Since the second edition of this work was published—nine years—many changes have taken place in the laws relating to entertainments, and these have necessitated a considerable enlargement of the volume. Full texts of the recent Berlin Convention and the United States Copyright Law are included in this edition, in which is also published the awards governing the relations between artists, agents, and managers. A number of new cases are also cited illustrating the effects of the barring clause. The Musical Copyright Act, children on the stage, the sketch question, and the Workmen's Compensation Act are all fully dealt with and in a readable and easy style, as free as possible from legal phraseology and technicalities. It is a legal axiom that ignorance of the law is no excuse for breaking it, and, therefore, it behoves everyone connected with the entertainment world to make himself acquainted with the law as it stands in relation to the profession or business in which he may be engaged. To everyone connected with the Drama or Variety Mr. Strong's book is a necessity, and this last edition is so comprehensive that anyone who consults it can have no possible excuse for infringing the law on the ground of ignorance. The work will, no doubt, have a ready and rapid sale, for all artists, managers, and agents should have it at hand.

THE MUSIC HALL, May 12, 1910.
Mr. Albert A. Strong's valuable treatise on "Dramatic and Musical Law," published at the offices of "The Era," has reached a third edition. This includes the text of the recent Berlin Convention and the new Copyright Act of the United States, also all the important decisions of the Courts, since the last edition, on which the compiler has been able to lay hands. As Mr. Strong remarks, "There is probably no more fruitful source of litigation than the ordinary theatrical contract." If the work under notice achieved no other object than to impress this fact on the parties concerned, it would still be worth its weight in gold.

REFEREE, May 15, 1910.
Mr. Albert A. Strong's valuable work "Dramatic and Musical Law," published at "The Era" Office, Tavistock-street, has reached its third edition. The author has made every effort to bring the book right up to date.

THE PERFORMER, May 12, 1910.
THE ARTIST'S LEGAL HANDBOOK.
We welcome a third edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" Offices), as it is nine years since the second appeared, and much has happened since then, not least the foundation of the V.A.F. and the resultant Award of 1907. This will be found incorporated in the now greatly-improved and extended Appendix of Statutes, ranging from the Disorderly Houses Act of 1751, to last year's L.C.C. Cinematograph regulations. As far as is possible with further developments in daily progress, this invaluable work of legal reference for all interested in the entertainment profession has been brought up-to-date. Sixty pages have been added, and the whole revised and rendered easier of reference by the re-arrangements that have been made, and the numerous marginal headings that have been introduced. Strong, on "Dramatic and Musical Law," may be regarded as the layman's complete authority on the subject, whether he be PROPRIETOR, MANAGER, or ARTIST, and with a lucid explanation of the law so readily available, the artist will be wise to consult its pages before venturing on new contracts and agreements, whether as employed or—in these days of "combinations," sketches, troupes, and what not—as employer.

SUNDAY TIMES, May 29, 1910.
A third edition of Mr. Albert Strong's "Dramatic and Musical Law" is just published. The work has already established its value, as a comprehensive and accurate book of reference, and the new edition has been brought up to date by the inclusion of all recent decisions of the courts, and the texts of the Berlin Convention and the new Copyright Law of the United States.

THE FINANCIER, June 8, 1910.
"Dramatic and Musical Law," by Mr. A. A. Strong, LL.B., has reached a third edition, and gives in simple language such parts of the law as relate to subjects with which the profession is concerned.

SPORTING LIFE, May 16, 1910.
Dramatic authors, composers, and all of those interested in dramatic enterprise will find much that is useful and instructive in "Dramatic and Musical Law," by Albert Strong.

SPORTSMAN, May 14, 1910.
"Dramatic and Musical Law," by Albert A. Strong, LL.B. ("Era" Office, W.C.), has gone into a third edition, which would seem to prove its usefulness.

Third Edition. Price 5/- Post free 5/4.

THEATRICAL ACCOUNTS FOR BUSINESS MANAGERS.

How the Affairs of a Theatre can be Most Efficiently Controlled by the Adoption of Systems of Internal Check.

BY CUTHBERT E. SMEDLEY, A.C.A.
Price 3/6. Post free, 3/9.

Published at "THE ERA" OFFICES, 5, Tavistock St., Strand, W.C.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 29.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Known, Lambert and Hands, the clever couple, this, Hippo., Dewsbury, second visit; vacant June 20. 65, Summer Hill-street, Birmingham.

WANTED, Swift Duo, Comedy Cyclists, vacant 13th and 20th. Wire, Empire, Edmonton; after Sat., 43, Oscar-street, St. John's, S.E.

WANTED, Known, Pauletti, Acrobatic Cyclist, next week, York Gala and Keighley Gala; good Acts for Galas. 106, Bigland-street, Salford.

WANTED, Shop, by a young Trick Cyclist, straight or comedy, can play polo, England or Continent; offers. Box 7,819, "The Era."

WANTED, by Legmania Artist and Contortionist; would join Sketch or Troupe, Comedy or Straight. Apply, G., Box 7,818, "The Era."

PIERROT WANTEDS.

WANTED, Amateurs of Education, Refinement, and Ability, for First-class Concert Party.
LYNN and HARDING,
Savoy House, Strand, W.C.

WANTED, for Bognor Pier, for July 4, and onwards, High-class Concert Artists. Humorists, Vocalists, and Specialities, also complete Costume Concert Parties, on Shares or Salary. Letters only, stating number and names of party, terms, or salary, to M. W. SHANLY, 33, King Henry's-road, South Hampstead.

GREAT YARMOUTH.
WANTED, July 18 (week), Full Concert Party.
Send particulars,
A. A. CASH, General-Manager, Wellington Pier.

CENTRAL PIER, MORECAMBE.
WANTED, good Troupe of Pierrots, six in number, including Pianist. Terms, Collections, Seat Money, and small Certainty. Add., MANAGER.

WANTED, High-class Concert Artists, Humorist at Piano, &c. (indoors). Terms, &c., GEO. FAY, The Black Cat, Castle Rink, Bedford.

WANTED, June 20, and during June and July, Vaudeville Artists, Ballad Vocalists, Comedians, &c., complete Pierrot Teams, and Concert Parties. Terms, &c. (letters only), H. BURTON, 10, Priory-street, Warrington.

WANTED, immediately, for High-class Concert Party, Baritone, also Light Comedian; both must be young and of good appearance. Write (enclosing photo), or call to-day (Saturday) between 3 and 4, BURCHELL, Queen's Arms Hotel, Warwick-street, Victoria, S.W. Good Amateur would be considered.

WANTED, to Let,
Pierrot Theatre,
Handsome, well-appointed Building, capable of seating 700 to 1,000.
Cheshire suburb of Manchester.
25,000 population.
Unrivalled opening for Permanent Troupe.
Replies,
WHEELER,
45, Deansgate-arcade, Manchester.

SHOWMEN'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE CAKE-WALK AND SEE-SAW SLIP MACHINES.
By Royal Letters Patent in all the Leading Countries of the World.
Providing for the Public a Sensational Ride and Thrilling Slip. Always on the Move. Quick Money-takers. Apply for full particulars to TAYLOR, PLINSTON BROS., and Co., Ltd.

WANTED, Known, we are Sole Makers of W. Taylor's Patents for above Novelties, 94 Parncombe-street, and 98, Bermondsey-wall, London, S.E. Registered Trade Mark "Cake Walk."

WANTED, Known, Cartridges, all Brands, Winchester Repeaters, Glass Globes, Water Balls, Targets, and every size cartridge, for the Stage, in stock. GREENE, 74, Falmouth-road, S.E.

WANTED, Showmen to save money by sending for Leete's Catalogue of Specially-prepared Paints, Colours, Varnishes, Brushes, &c., and every requisite for decorating Caravans, Roundabouts, Swings, &c. Cheapest house in the trade. A. LEETE and Co., 129, London-road, Southwark, S.E.

TO SHOWMEN.
WANTED, Showmen, with Beach Sites, to take up the most Novel Attraction of the Season.
Necessary plant supplied free under simple conditions.
Apply by letter,
WALTER TYLER, LTD., 48 and 50, Waterloo-road, S.E.

WANTED, Known, Specialities, Rifle Range Supplies, Swing Ropes, Flare Lamps, &c. List free. BRITISH Co., 457, High-road, Tottenham, N.

WANTED, for Hancock's World's Fair, Plymouth, to open on June 24, for one, two, or three weeks, a good Aerial Show or a Sensational Act that can be worked on a 25ft. platform, for open-air performances. Will Lorenzo, the Aerial Show, write in? All parties requiring ground for the above apply until Saturday, W. C. and S. HANCOCK, Fair Field, Okehampton.

WANTED, First-class Freaks and Other Good Attractions, for Crouch's Old-established Wonderland and Variety Theatre, Argyle-street, Glasgow.

WANTED, Freaks, Novelties, and Attractions, now and onwards. Full particulars, sample lithos., and post cards in first letter,
A. E. PICKARD, American Museum, Glasgow.

WANTED, Statue or any other Good Shows. Rent or Shares.
MERRYLAND, 72, Upper-street, Islington.

WANTED, for Bank Holiday, First-class Divers, for Open Water Exhibition. Terms and all particulars to E. WHITE, 25, Alexandra-road, Chesterfield.

WANTED, Lady Palmist, for Seaside. State wages, experience.
Box 7,834, "The Era."

WANTED, Young Lady, to work Flying Lady Show. All particulars, salary, &c., first instance, Box 7,845, "The Era."

WANTED, Reliable Girl, to attend Photoscope, in Blackpool, must have previous experience with new pattern machine. Fare paid. PERRY, 3, West View-avenue, Lytham-road, Blackpool.

WANTED, Smart Experienced Mono. and "dump" worker for season. Liberal terms. RUBBER STAMP WORKS, 19, Royal Arcade, Weston-super-Mare.

WANTED, Engagement, Season Seaside, by Palmist, Phrenologist. Shares or Salary. DEANE, 26, Worcester-st., Gloucester. Or would rent Studio, Pier preferred.

WANTED, Known, Britain's Bearded Lady, Miss Maud Temple, success, Stewart's, Edinburgh. Vacant Sept. Good Flash Paintings, Lithos, &c. Shares or salary. Coms., NORMAN, G. P. O., Edinburgh.

ABERYSTWYTH.
Pleasure Grounds, with Concert Room, Refreshment Rooms, and other buildings completely furnished.
WANTED, to Let, immediately, for Summer Season. Apply,
H. E. MOORE, Esq., 41, Bedford-row, London, W.C.

THE AMERICAN BOWLING ALLEY CO., LTD.
WANTED, to Let, various spaces suitable for Novelty Side Shows. Large hall, 44ft. by 44ft., and balconies, best position in Brighton. Also alleys to let out on sharing terms; absolutely money-making. Apply, CHESHIRE, 47, Havelock-road, Hastings.

WANTED, Known, Cambuslang, near Glasgow, population over 24,000, Ground to Let for Circuses, Menageries, &c. Apply, LITHGOW, Show Printer, Cambuslang, N.B.

SHOWMEN'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

WANTED, immediately, for Fun City, in large Skating Rink and land adjoining same, at Northampton, over 100,000 population, one up-to-date Riding Machine or Cake Walk; have also Space for Haunted Castle, Bioscope Show, or Helter Skelter, on Rental, Sharing terms or otherwise; have also few more Spaces to Let on reasonable rental, for Novelty Side Shows, Games of all kinds, Stall, &c.; good business for good clean concerns.
Apply, TOM NORMAN,
Auction Dept.,
"The Era" Office,
London,
for the Promoters.

WANTED, Known, Kidwelly, S. Wales, Fairfield, splendid central site to Let; low terms; good business certain for Circuses, Picture Shows, or Menageries. Apply, MORRIS, Cowparks, Kidwelly.

PLEASURE BEACH, BLACKPOOL.
WANTED, Known, Good Sites for Automatic Machines, both in Building and Outside. Only good machines wanted. Apply, SECRETARY, Blackpool Pleasure Beach, Ltd., Blackpool.

PLEASURE BEACH, BLACKPOOL.
WANTED, Known, Applications invited from Photographers, sole right available. Apply, SEC., Blackpool Pleasure Beach, Ltd., Blackpool.

AMERICAN PALACE PIER,
ST. LEONARD'S-ON-SEA.
WANTED, to Let, Two Kiosks, for Novelties.
Apply, M. LEOPOLD, Manager.

WANTED, to Let, Handsome Shops, Electric lighted; also Spaces. Real Novelties only. F. W. WALKINGTON, Manager, Palace Pier, Brighton.

WANTED, to Let, Shop on Penarth Pier, suitable for Palmistry, Fancy Goods, &c. LARCHER, 22, Royal-arcades, Weston-super-Mare.

WANTED, Known, to Wire-workers, Scent Perfumers, and others, 6ft. Stall to Let for the Season, light and all complete, Exhibition Summer Garden, New Brighton. Free gate.

WANTED, to Sell, Cakewalk, complete Arc Lamps, Organ, &c., in good working order and repair. Can be seen working at any time. Apply Box 7,820, "The Era."

WANTED, to Sell, Love Letters, Palmistry, Fair, Dark, Comic Cards, Eyes, Marriage Liars' Licences. Illustrated Catalogue. MEURICE, 39, Argyle-square.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatic Machines, New and Secondhand, Card Delivery, Mother Shiptons, marvellous money-takers. New Catalogue. MEURICE, Argyle-square.

WANTED, to Sell, Gold-framed Photos, Husbands, Wives, Babies, X-rays, latest sensation, for Automatic Machines. Catalogue illustrated. MEURICE, Argyle-square.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatic Machines all kinds, lists free, Husband, Wife, Eye, Hair Fortune, Astrologer cards, 5s. 1,000; Love Letters, 9s. LESLIE, 5, Denning-road, Hampstead Heath.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatic Machines of every description, (including the marvellous Guess Your Weight Weighing Machine). WORMALD, 123, Blythe-road, West Kensington, London.

WANTED, to Sell, Hindu Spirit Writer, splendid order, 50s.; Gipsy Queen, with moving eyes, 4gs. LESTER Co., 77, Taff-street, Pontypridd.

WANTED, to Sell, Hindoo Spirit Writer, cost £8, sacrifice 50s.; sure living for worker, genuine sacrifice. EGGAR, 77, Stonebridge-road, Tottenham.

WANTED, to Sell, Greatest Money Making Illusion Side Show ever invented. Full particulars, MAXIM, 34, Grosvenor-road, New Brighton, Cheshire.

WANTED, to Sell, six Distorting Mirrors, in good condition. Letters only, CROFTS, 56, Bentley-street, Cleethorpes.

WANTED, to Let, Large Distorting Mirrors, on Hire.
Address, MILTON, 77, Virginia-street, Southport.

WANTED, to Sell, cheap, Stage Fountains, complete, suit exhibition. Write, B., 17, Cuthill-road, Camberwell.

WANTED, to Purchase, good high-class Novelties, or arrange Tour of same, suitable for Side Shows, out of England. M. C., Box 7,833, "The Era."

WANTED, every Showman who uses the railway to send to "The Era" for a copy of the article on the new Railway Rates. This will be sent on application, free of charge, to any Showman in the United Kingdom.

WANTED, Known, the Seventy Thousand Showmen who use the Columns of "The Era" and are moving about should know that they can make "The Era" Offices their Permanent London Address. Letters received will be held till called for, or immediately re-addressed according to instructions. Address all communications respecting the Letter Department to the PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand.

WANTED, Showmen who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any Railway Bookstall to kindly communicate with the PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

SKATING WANTEDS.

WANTED, Change, by Floor Manager and Lady Instructress, at present working one of the largest Rinks in Provinces, own Waltzes, own Two-Steps; something new, good Exhibition Skaters. For photos and references apply
TAYLOR, 118, Pellon-lane, Halifax.

WANTED, by Skating Young Man, Re-engagement as Floor Manager or Instructor, or travel with a troupe on the stage, excellent references. Apply, K., 23, Lollard-street, Kennington.

WANTED, Known, Mr. R. Beeston, late Manager of Smethwick Rink, is now open for Engagement as Rink or Floor Manager of High-class Rink. Address, C/o "The Era."

WANTED, by Instructor, Re-engagement, good plain and fancy Skater, 18 months last situation; good refs. A. HALL, 118, Lancaster-road, Preston.

WANTED, Known, Lady and Gentleman, Superb Exhibition Skaters, unique turns. Long list of original exhibition stuff. At Liberty July 3. Photo and particulars. Box 7,844, "The Era."

WANTED, Skating Rinks, commencing Nov.; must be in large towns. Apply, with particulars, to Box 7,789, "The Era."

WANTED, to Let, Olympia Rink, Park Place, Merthyr, by Tender for the Summer Months. Dimensions of Building, 200ft. by 60ft. Every convenience for Bioscope. Box, Curtain, &c. Seating over 2,000. Music and Cinematograph Licence granted. Tenders to MANAGER on or before June 14.

WANTED TO SELL.

THEATRE ROYAL, CARDIFF.
Just Vacant.
WANTED, to Sell or Let on Lease.
Apply, SEEL, Secretary,
Theatre Royal Chambers, Cardiff.

WANTED, to Sell, as a going concern, Modern Freehold Music Hall in Midlands, good reasons for sale. Principals and solicitors only write first instance, HALL, Box 7,832, "The Era."

WANTED, to Sell or Let, CINEMATOGRAPH FILM FACTORY, ideal, quiet locality for picture making; big studios, electricity, telephone, water, all ready.
Apply, MARTIN, Alton, Hants.

WANTED TO SELL.

WANTED, to Sell, Marquee, 75ft. by 30ft., poles, cords, and walling. Price £30.
Apply, GUDE, Pavilion, Maidenhead.

WANTED, to Sell, Portable Electric Light Plant. Suit Bioscope Hall.
ARTHUR CARLTON, Theatre, Worcester.

WANTED, to Sell or Let, Strong Drama, can now be seen on Tour; big success, small Cast, showy Printing, pretty Scenery. Rare chance for good Actor or Actress. Address first instance, Box 7,846, "The Era."

WANTED, to Sell, Several Fine Panto. Productions; or would Let on a Percentage of the Receipts. ARTHUR CARLTON, Theatre, Worcester.

WANTED, to Sell, a Large Quantity of Theatrical Scenery and Properties.
Apply, ORMESHER'S, Duke-street, Stockport.

WANTED, to Sell, Films, cheap, and Films for Hire, up-to-date.
THE BENDON TRADING Co., 75, Jamaica-st., Glasgow

WANTED, to Sell, King's Funeral (Gaumont), the whole route, over 1,000ft., price £5; Derby (Gaumont), 250ft., 30s.; both perfect; or near offer. Cinema Royal, Redhill.

WANTED, to Sell, best offer accepted, King Edward's Funeral picture, 650ft. (L. C. Co.), also 1910 Derby (L. C. Co.), both splendid condition, cash with order. Can be despatched Saturday night. MANAGER, 9, Major-street, Nottingham.

WANTED, to Sell, Film of the Derby, run on Wednesday, June 1, 1910. Magnificent photographic quality; length 200ft.; price 25s. Can be despatched on Saturday night.
Address, A. HAMILTON, Palace, Sunderland.

WANTED, to Sell, Gaumont's 1910 Derby, 250ft., dispatch Saturday, 15s.
DAVIS, Tredegar Hall, Newport, Mon.

WANTED, to Sell, Portable Electric Light Plant, suitable Bioscope Hall.
ARTHUR CARLTON, Theatre, Worcester.

WANTED, to Sell outright, or half share, in splendid up-to-date Novelty Act, two young performing Monkeys and real miniature Aeroplane Flight, with all electric appliances; a real and novel sensation. J. P. MOORE, King's Hall, Birmingham.

WANTED, to Sell, Double Trapeze and Frame, 16ft. by 8ft., and Silver Chains, in strong case, and good condition, £10, a bargain. F. KENNEDY, British Fleet Hotel, Oldfield-rd., Salford.

WANTED, to Sell, Xylophone, Rattles, Organ Chimes, Tubular Bells, Sleigh Bells, Resonaphones, Macaronis, Tubular Lyres. LISLE, 209, Camberwell New-road.

WANTED, to Sell, Tubular Chimes, complete, plated set, 5ft. high, splendid powerful tone. Bargain, £4. CONDUCTOR, 9, Elizabeth-street, Blackpool.

WANTED, to Sell, three tame young Wolves, or exchange for other suitable animals.
PURCHASE'S Menagerie, Okehampton, Devon.

WANTED, to Sell, Performing Boarhounds, Troupe of Dogs. Cash price £30.
26, Devonshire-street, C.-on-M., Manchester.

WANTED, to Sell, Handsome Corridor, do for Hotel, Prison, Theatre, &c, working doors, two backing cloths, also divided Office, good stuff (Bull). Mrs. MARK KINGHORNE, 26, Dagmar-road, Camberwell.

WANTED, to Sell, No. 7 Blick Typewriter, well worth 8 guineas; accept 5 guineas; aid to Bookings. BURGH, 49, Hawarden-crescent, Sunderland.

WANTED, to Sell, Sketches and One-act Plays of every description. Apply to H. C. FISHER, Addington, Thyra-grove, North Finchley, London.

WANTED TO BUY.

WANTED, to Buy, Theatre, fully licensed Hall, in Provinces, on Long Lease, or will purchase Freehold; must bear strict investigation. Principals and solicitors only need write, giving full particulars in first instance, to Box 7,804, "The Era."

WANTED, Motor Car, must be reliable make, late model, large, comfortable, well appointed, in good running order. Give full particulars, colour, style, where purchased, time used, and where and when can be seen. THE GREAT RAYMOND, Queen's Park Hippodrome, Manchester.

WANTED, to Buy, Palace scene, Log Hut, Snow Wings and Cut Wood. Must be in good condition and cheap. Write Box 7,828, "The Era" Office.

WANTED, two pieces Stage Scenery, about 24ft. high by 10ft., for sides of Cinematograph Screen. KIDD, Rink, Limerick.

WANTED, two pairs of Gong Drums (second-hand), must be in good condition. State lowest price. Box 7,839, "The Era."

WANTED, to Buy, King's Funeral, Hepworth's, complete length 1,375ft. Approval.
Reply, SCOTT'S Circus, Truro, Saturday; New Quay, Monday; St. Columb, Tuesday (Cornwall).

WANTED, Orange Grove Cloth, with Apron Wings, good condition. Will gentleman from Bridlington write again? Address, DELOME, Empire, Swansea.

WANTED, to Buy, Young Dog, cheap. State if can do any tricks. Full particulars, THEO MAURITUS, 29, Albert-street, South Blackpool.

WANTED, Cheap, Tip-up Seating, in good condition.
Full particulars
to
BARING BROS., Cheltenham.

WANTED, to Purchase, Tableaux Curtains, complete. State price and full particulars, MANAGER, Olympia, Scarborough.

WANTED, Military Band Music, up-to-date Selections, Valses, &c. Send list and lowest price to BANDMASTER, 174, Wardour-street, W.

WANTED, to purchase for cash, a Shell Iron Ball, from 7lb. to 10lb. weight. Address, PETERS, 37, Reedworth-street, Kennington, London.

WANTED TO LET OR HIRE.

WANTED, to Let, Grand Theatre, Stalybridge.
Apply,
ALFRED WILD, Sec., 42, Grosvenor-sq., Stalybridge.

WANTED, Known, the Palace, Lowestoft, to be Let for One Week in June, fit-up Companies or Concert parties, &c.
Apply as above.

WANTED, to Let or Sell Outright, Hippodrome, in Midlands, Theatrical Licence, Land freehold or leasehold, holds 3,000, enormous district population, now showing profitable investment. Box 7,841, "The Era."

WANTED, to Let, Dates in June and onwards, Byculiah Athenæum, Enfield, any kind entertainment, Scenery, Electric Lighting. MANAGER.

WANTED, to Let, Cardiff, Park Hall, seating 2,000. Vacant dates and special terms for Summer months. SECRETARY, 3, Park-place, Cardiff.

ELECTRIC THEATRES.
WANTED, to Let, Commanding Corner Site on Main Thoroughfare, 83ft. by 58ft. frontage, central, to let on lease. Up-to-date Picture Palace erected by private arrangement.—COOLEY, Constitutional Club, Nottingham.

WANTED, to Let, for Rehearsals, &c., Large Room, 45ft. by 30ft., smoothpine floor; good piano, accommodation, and ventilation, 1s. 6d. per hour with electric light, 1s. without; two entrances. Bay Malton Hotel, 160, Great Portland-street, W. 'Phone 2948 Mayfair.

WANTED, Known, Films for Hire, from 15s. per 1,000ft. per week. Send for new lists. Bargain Films, Accessories. Cut Prices. CROSS'S Imperial Pictures, 12, Macclesfield-st., W. Ger. 9244.

WANTED TO LET OR HIRE.

WANTED, to Let,
or Attractions,
or Attractions,
or Attractions,
or Attractions,
or Attractions,
the Largest Skating Rink out of London
during the Summer Season,
situate in the City of Birmingham, in a
Densely-populated District, embracing
a quarter of a million people, without any other Attraction or Place of Amusement whatever.
Circus Proprietors,
Circus Proprietors,
Circus Proprietors,
Circus Proprietors,
Exhibitors,
Exhibitors,
Exhibitors,
Exhibitors,
and
Caterers of Amusement
Caterers of Amusement
Caterers of Amusement
Caterers of Amusement
please write for particulars
to
THE EMPIRE SKATING PALACE, LTD.,
THE EMPIRE SKATING PALACE, LTD.,
THE EMPIRE SKATING PALACE, LTD.,
Birmingham.

WANTED, to Let, Charming Monologue Scena, for Vivacious, Refined Comedienne, suit best halls. CROZIER, Manchester House, 295, Kennington-road, S.E.

WANTED, to Lease,
a Provincial Theatre.
Apply,
Box 7,826, "The Era."

To Proprietors.
WANTED, to Lease, good Theatre, also Halls for Cinematograph. Full particulars, FRED GOULD, Ashington, Northumberland (late Miners' Theatre).

WANTED, in Town or Country, Halls or Sites, suitable for Cinematograph Shows or Roller Skating. Letters only. M. W. SHANLY, 33, King Henry's-road, South Hampstead, N.W.

"CINDERELLA" PANTOMIME, 1910-11.
WANTED, to Hire or Buy, Pantomime Production of "Cinderella," for Christmas next; Scenery and Dresses complete; must be in thoroughly good condition. Send actual lowest terms and all particulars to JOHN DARLISON, Gaiety Theatre, Leith.

WANTED, Portable or Marquee, suitable for Pictures, hire or purchase. Full particulars to J. DICKSON, 1, W. Bell-street, Dundee.

PARTNERS WANTED.

WANTED, by Successful Business Manager, with Autumn Tours fully booked, a Clever Star Actor as partner, with £150, with view to building first-class répertoire of good class plays. Address, First instance, Box 7,837, c/o "The Era."

WANTED, Lady or Gentleman Partner, with Capital, capable of playing part in Strong Dramatic Attraction. Sound Investment.
FRED ROY, 138, Great Moor-street, Bolton.

WANTED, Gentleman, to take Share in Novel Production, play Part, and Manage; business taught. Write, COSMOPOLITAN BUREAU, 119, Euston-road.

WANTED, Partner, Musical Comedy Sketch, well-known Comedian; strictest investigation. Box 7,821, "The Era."

WANTED, Partner, either sex, for First-class Concert Tour. Amateur not objected to. Write, JONES, 81, Dean-street, W.

WANTED, Portable Harmonium Player, to join Violinist, who has first-class portable he could lend for the business. Shares. Good prospects Clifton neighbourhood. VIOLINIST, 63, St. Werburgh's Park, Bristol.

WANTED, Partner, to work up Acrobatic Comedy Show at once. Letters, L. SYLVESTER, 11, Edenhurst-avenue, Hurlingham, S.W.

WANTED, Partner, good Funny Comedian, must be well known.
Letters, DAN MAXFORD, 58, Guelph-street, Liverpool.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TWENTY WORDS, ONE SHILLING.
Each Additional Six Words, Sixpence.

WANTED, Known, Fred Karno's Theatrical Factory and Cartage Stores, 28, Vaughan-road, Camberwell, S.E. All kinds of Scenery, Properties, Costumes, and Electrical Effects made and supplied; Sketches and Models free. The Scenic Factory is equipped with full-sized Paint-Frames, capable of carrying any size Cloth. The Scenic Stores are large, lofty, and dry.
Estimates for Storage given on application.
Every Description of Theatrical Cartage (day or night) on most reasonable terms. Omnibuses, Broughams, Lorries, and Motors on Hire. Contracts wanted for above. Telephone 3550 and 3551 Hop. Telegrams, "Karno, Camberwell, London."

WANTED, Known, F. G. Wright, Gymnastic Apparatus Maker, Electrical Engineer, and Theatrical Blacksmith. 66 and 68, Kennington-road, S.E.

WANTED, Known, C. Kinch, Gymnastic Apparatus Maker, Theatrical and General Blacksmith, 17, St. Mary-sq., Kennington-rd., S.E. Large Hall for Practice.

WANTED, Known, for Ventriloquial and Marionette Figures and Specialities, LE MARE and SON, 79, Burlington-st., Oxford-road, Manchester.

WANTED, Known, Pictorial Postcards reproduced from your own Photograph, 250 for 8s., 1000 for 16s. SENIOR & Co., Cotham-hill, Bristol.

WANTED, Artists to write for Free Samples. Memos. from 1s. 100, two colours; Cards, Envelopes, &c. Mention paper.
ARTISTIC PRINTING Co., Forest Hill, London, S.E.

WANTED, every Member of the Profession to go to
LYNN and HARDING,
If you wish to place Songs, Plays, Sketches, &c., or to Purchase Songs, Plays, Sketches, &c.

This quarter's Clients for whom we have done business include:—
Messrs. Herbert Fordwych, Mark Melford, John S. Egan, Max Cardiff, H. E. Garden, R. Findlay, B. Beir, W. Hart, Bert Cramer, A. Harding, A. Lewis, T. Dalrymple, Robert Ayrton, A. Jennings, A. Wyndham, A. Mitchell, The Misses D'Alroy, Milner Rowna, Noel, Kersey, Carroll, Mignonne, &c., &c.

WANTED, Known, Melodies Composed and Arranged. Band-books supplied. Sample 9 stamps. FOX and SON, 134, Queen's Park-road, Brighton.

WANTED, Information of the present Addresses of Robert Brunton, Scenic Artist, last heard of at Winnipeg, Manitoba;
and
Frederick Brunton, sometime employed as a ship's steward between London and Cape Town.
R. S. GORDON, Solicitor,
462, Paisley-road, Glasgow.

WANTED, to hear immediately, from Henry Denman.
Important.
Wire,
JOSEPH HINDLE, Queen's Theatre, Leeds.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WANTED, Known, to Builders, Engineers, others, owner of corner site, 83ft. by 56ft., entertains erecting Picture Theatre, Entertainment Hall, with gallery, wishes to see tracing of Halls now built that lay on site, with cost, time for erection. COOLEY, Constitutional Club, Nottingham.

Notice.
THE KURSAAL, SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.
WANTED, Known, all Goods and Properties not claimed or cleared before June 18 will be Sold.
By order, T. W. HILTON, Managing-Director.

WANTED, Address of Mr. John Holman, jun., Musical-Director, view to business.
Address, Box 7,848, "The Era" Office.

WHAT DO YOU WANT?

If it is Artistes or Engagements, Scenery or Properties, Baggage Collected or Delivered, To Buy, Sell, or Hire Wardrobe, Scripts, Parts or Letters Typed, a Permanent Address for Redespatching Letters—in fact, if you are in any Doubt or Difficulty, and want to save yourself Time and Trouble, Ring up
Gerrard 3714,
THE UNIVERSAL THEATRICAL BUREAU,
49, Bedford Street, Strand, W.C.
Telegrams—"UTRIBURO, LONDON."

WE WILL FIND IT!!!

SPENCER BROTHERS, LTD.,
45b, Aberdeen Park, Highbury, N.
Aeronauts to the Crystal Palace, &c.
Balloon Ascents, Parachute Descents.
Captive Balloons, Airship Flights.
Terms upon application.
C. G. SPENCER & SONS,
56a, Highbury Grove, London, N.
Manufacturers of Airships, Aeroplanes, Balloons and Parachutes, Captive Advertising Balloons, and Small Toy Balloons.
Price Lists or Quotations, 1 Stamp.
Telegrams, "Aeronaut, London," 'Phone, 1893 Dalston.

"THE ERA" IN AMERICA.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS & SUBSCRIBERS

NEW YORK.

"THE ERA" IS ON SALE
OUTSIDE THE
KNICKERBOCKER THEATRE BUILDING, AND AT
SHULTZ'S NEWS STAND
CORNER OF THIRTY-SEVENTH-ST AND BROADWAY.
ALSO AT BRENTANO'S,
FIFTH AVENUE,
CORNER TWENTY-SEVENTH-ST.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.
1 Year, 32/-; 6 Months, 16/-; 3 Months, 8/-

INQUIRIES & COMMUNICATIONS MAY BE SENT TO
"THE ERA," P.O. BOX 492, NEW YORK CITY.

American Artistes visiting the Metropolis use The Era Offices as their Permanent London Address.

"THE ERA" IN AUSTRALIA.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS AND SUBSCRIBERS.

MESSRS
GORDON AND GOTCH.

SINGLE COPIES ON SALE.
SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED.
ADVERTISEMENTS ACCEPTED.

Australian Artistes visiting the Metropolis use The Era Offices, as their Permanent London Address.

Apply or Address,
MELBOURNE—
Messrs. GORDON and GOTCH, QUEEN-STREET.
SYDNEY—
Messrs. GORDON and GOTCH, PITT-STREET.
BRISBANE—
Messrs. GORDON and GOTCH, QUEEN-STREET.
PERTH—
Messrs. GORDON and GOTCH.

"THE ERA" IN SOUTH AFRICA.

. THE .
CENTRAL NEWS AGENCY, LTD.

Apply or Address,
The CENTRAL NEWS AGENCY, Ltd.,
Cape Town, Johannesburg, Pretoria, Durban, Bloemfontein, &c., &c.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Percy H. Ballagher.—This is the last week of the Palace previous to a short summer vacation. Messrs. Leslie Brothers, "the monarchs of music and mirth," demonstrate how happily melody and merriment can be welded together; Mr. Gus Garrick gives skilful impersonations of various types of comedians; Ridiculous Rocco presents a series of amazing acrobatic feats; Julian Mack is irresistibly droll in a skit entitled The Topical Talking Dame; Newman and Knight give a first-class and humorous display of juggling; the Three Cunards dance gracefully; Miss Florence Esdaile sings tastefully; and the Palascope maintains its well-established reputation.

ABERTILLERY.—THEATRE METROPOLE.—Mr. Andrew Melville's company, under the direction of Mr. Francis Everard, is here with The Octoroon. Mr. Wm. Ludwig well sustains the part of George Peyton; Mr. Edwin Turner makes a realistic villain as Jacob M'Closky; Mr. T. Arthur Ellis is a good Salem Scudder; and Mr. Francis Everard as Wah-no-tee is excellent. Zoe, the octoroon, is admirably undertaken by Miss Kate Randolph; and Miss Edith Leslie and Miss Zara Leigh are efficient as Paul and Mrs. Peyton.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—A Stolen Birthright was played here on Monday by Mr. Charles Draycott's talented répertoire company. Mr. Charles Draycott as Count Marco Taddeo is a pronounced success, and emphasises the villainy of the part in an unobtrusive but forcible manner; as Prince Andrea Mr. George Steel displays considerable power, and Mr. Robert Sawin deserves commendation for a telling and powerful portrayal of Stefano; Mr. St. John Stuart is seen to advantage as Prince Michael; Mr. Theo Balfour plays with great earnestness as Cardinal Caperillari, and Mr. Eldon Selby is successful as Prince Antonio; Mr. Joseph Magrath fills the humorous rôle of Pedro cleverly, and is ably assisted by Miss Nana Flemsburg, who acts with much vivacity as Nita; Mrs. Charles Draycott commands attention from first to last, and gives a careful study of Princess Miranda; Miss Issa Steel supplies a good representation of Fidelia, and plays with quiet dignity. During the week East Lynne, Shadows of a Great City, and The Shaughraun have been given.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Accrington Hippodrome Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—Sandy McNab and company, in that funny and mirth-provoking sketch, The Egyptian Mummy, head the bill here, and create roars of laughter; Henry and Tyler prove themselves expert comedy cyclists; Dacey and Lewis provide a humorous turn; and Ernesto introduces a novel equilibristic and juggling act, which evokes much enthusiasm. Ena Compton is a most charming mimic and versatile comedienne; Elsie Malpass gains favour as a impersonator and dancer; E. J. Sheldon, comedian, is very popular; and Poisoned Berries depicted on the Bioscope is interesting.

ALDERSHOT.—ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jack Gladwin.—Signor Arvi, in his scientific and artistic mystery "Les Metables" tops a capital bill, and submits a performance in which human beings representing notable studies in tableaux appear and disappear in amazing manner. Will and Rose are as entertaining as ever in their magic and contortionist show; the Four Lomberts as comedy acrobats are decidedly good; the dancing especially of the Brothers Matthews is clever; and the Arnolds, in their cabinet mystery, do well. Mildred Parr finds favour as an entertainer at the piano; the Sisters Gaye give several capital dances; and Katie Corri, comedienne and dancer, and Gene Brant, comedian, are also successful.

WIDE WORLD PICTURES.—Proprietors, Messrs. J. Golder and B. Sloman.—Here a fine selection of pictures is shown, up-to-date subjects being a feature of the series.

GROSVENOR PICTURE PALACE.—The management at this well-appointed hall are showing pictures that are well above the ordinary.

ALEXANDRA PICTURE PALACE.—A capital series of dramatic pictures is shown here.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill, jun.—Mr. W. V. Garrod's company is here with A Country Girl in London. Mr. Garrod sustains with dramatic power the part of Frank Gordon, a farm bailiff. For other principal players he has secured Miss Bertha Kingston, whose interpretation of the girl from the country, Marjorie Hamilton, wins sympathy and approval; Miss Alice Clarke as Adelaide, wife of Wilberforce, arrests attention by the force of her impersonation; Miss Ethel Crawford as Gwendoline Gordon secures favour; Mr. Chas. Halling as Hamilton does well; as the adventurer Clinton Mr. Wm. Bradford is impressive; and with Mr. Owen Renwade as Smithers, a ne'er-do-well, makes his character prominent.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Jesse Burslem.—Miss Ethel Van Praagh and J. Edward Whitty's company is here in the domestic drama I Want to be Loved. Miss Nellie Garside sustains the rôle of Melia Burgess; Mr. J. Edward Whitty as Caleb Valentine, a prosecuting counsel, wins favour; Mr. Chas. O'Connor as Capt. the Hon. Reg. Parkhurst enacts the part of the scoundrel very forcibly; Mr. R. Wilton Bedford does well as a family solicitor; a couple of unprincipled scoundrels, Jim Moulor and Jas. Sudbury are capitally represented by Messrs. Alexander Wilson and Harold Forde; and Mr. Barry Newman as Vagner, a peripatetic minstrel, supplies much humour.

THE NEW PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech; Assistant-Manager, Mr. E. A. Sims.—Pictures of an exciting and stirring order are very prominently put forward this week in the double programme at the Pavilion. Sports and Games in Sumatra includes some boxing and wrestling bouts interesting to students of physical culture, Hunting in France is another exciting film, The Planter's Wife, an exciting A.B. drama, and Julia Colonna, a realistic battle scene of historic import.

THE ODDFELLOWS' HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros.; Managers, Mr. and Mrs. J. Marks.—The fine show of pictures here embraces notable events in history and adventure. Some fine films, in which touching appeals are made to the sympathies, are also shown. Mr. Alf. Penny is the special artist.

THE PICTUREDROME.—Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros.; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Leckie.—Some good pictures are here shown, including Notable Events in the Reign of Edward VII., and pictures of adventure and humorous films. The artists are the Le Vans, in illustrated song and good picture illustration, and George Russell sings a song which takes well.

ATTERCLIFFE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manageress, Miss Ethel J. Hope.—This week's picture programme includes The Engineer's Romance, On the Downward Path, His Last Burglary, The Frontiersman's Bride, All On Account of the Milk, and the Peacemaking Doll. Vaudeville turns are given by Miss Edith Broad (vocalist), who is retained for a second week, and Mr. Geo. Bennett, described as the "original Lancashire singing platelayer."

PICTURE PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. Matt Raymond Resident-Manager, Mr. Bert Dent.—The leading pictures this week are Western Justice, one of the popular cowboy series, and Hindu's Treachery, a tale of the Indian frontier. Other films are Ranchman's Wooing, Beautiful Snow, Tenderfoot's Triumph, and Persuasive Revolver. Harold and Hardy, comedians, are accorded a hearty reception in their speciality act. Added pleasure is given by the admirable and well-rendered selections by the Scarlet Band under the direction of Mr. Guest. There is an entire change of pictures every Saturday.

BACUP.—COURT THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. John Walters.—Among the best pictures shown here is one entitled The Actress. Harry Buttiste, comedian, is well received; Miss Lilly Miller is a dainty little comedienne; Tom Lewis, with patriotic songs, concludes his third week's consecutive engagement; and Mr. Dan Belmore is still a favourite. The Millers (Harry and Lily) have a popular duet.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Mr. Fred. Granville's The Better Land company is here. Mr. Sydney Arnold gives a fine rendering of Philip Radcliffe; Mr. Stanley Radcliffe is a satisfactory Hubert Radcliffe; Mr. Leonard Marshall a good George Grant; and Miss Beryl Fernandez a capital Mercedes. Doris is powerfully drawn by Miss Madge Trevelyan; and Miss Kitty Terriss as Polly Perkins and Miss Bella Moody as Aunt Jemima sustain their parts successfully.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—"The Will o' the Wisps" are re-engaged here because of their great popularity.

TIVOLI.—Lessee, Signor R. Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Wood.—The premier turn here is provided by the Spanish Juanitos troupe, with marvellous acrobatic performance. Mr. "C" convulses the audience with his patter; a capital boxing turn is given by the Brothers Curran; Bonnetti and Corrie are good in an eccentric juggling act; Percy Dalton's songs and dances are well received; Sylvene, assisted by Mlle. Florence, is clever in equilibristic items; Maude Courtenay is a pleasing comedienne; and Vernon's Bioscope depicts some interesting pictures.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Lessees, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Fred Newman's British Empire picture and variety company are still having crowded houses. The programme this week is quite up to the usual standard.

BATH. — PALACE THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—Carlton, the well-known magician and humorist, is paying a welcome return visit here, and is seen upon the stage three times during each show, in his admirable and clever legerdemain turn, also presenting his clever allusion, "The Mysterious Cross," which he afterwards exposes, and a screaming burlesque sketch, The Circus. The others in the bill are the Eight College Girls, an octet of charming vocalists and dancers; Oliver Martin, in his laughter-provoking monologue, "The Boxing Contest"; Canard, a most amusing contortionist, in his interlude, "The Man on Time," together with some capital pictures.

ELECTRIC THEATRE.—The films for the beginning of this week include An Irish Boy, Baffles Bandit, Iris, Pineapple Industry, and Votes for Women. Monday's half takings towards the King Edward's Memorial Fund amounted to nearly £8.

SYDNEY GARDENS.—A first visit of "The Tatlers" concert party is proving much to the liking of patrons of alfresco entertainers, who thoroughly appreciate their originality and refinement.

BELFAST. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Salmond.—The success of the revival season continues, and Mr. Mathew H. Glenville and Mr. Fred Osmond have every reason to be satisfied with the patronage bestowed. In this, the fifth week A Soldier of France is the attraction. Miss Hettie Zillwood enhances her reputation by the skilful manner in which she portrays the difficult rôle of Pauline Lorraine; the part of Corporal is cleverly sustained by Mr. Chas. H. Gallier; a powerful impersonation of Judas Delara is submitted by Mr. Albert Gwyn; Mr. Fred Osmond, good in every rôle he sustains, is most satisfactory as Pollyputt Jollyboy; Miss Evelyn White, a child of tender years, made her début on Monday, and in the rôle of Master Louis Lorraine gained a gratifying success; Miss Margaret R. Frame is all that could be desired as Rita; the dual rôle of Captain Louis Lorraine and Lieutenant Louis is done full justice to by Mr. Reginald T. Fox; Mr. R. H. MacCandless is very effective as Sergeant Flange; and Mr. Frank Sutherland is quite equal to the part of Duke D. Laval. Miss Alice Buckland is a vivacious Margot.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred Willmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The return of the versatile comedian, Mr. George Mozart, drew a good house here on Monday, and his capital character studies were decidedly successful; Edward Platt's Child Trio gain a good reception, and deservedly so; the Rhobins and Krusoe Trio appear to great advantage in their musical comedy interlude, Pastures of 100 Years Ago; the dancing of the Sisters Caselli is the acme of perfection; Osborn and Brooks are a musical comedy duo of unusual excellence; and also here are Fayre and Manning, comedians; Bros. O'Brien, in their daring horizontal bar act; Marie Braymen, comedienne; and the Hipposcope.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. C. Laidler.—The renowned Scotch comedian, Mr. W. F. Frame is the star here, and is renewing all his triumphs with his inimitable rendering of Scotch character songs; Roma and Romani delight all with their selections on the flute, piano, &c.; and Mr. Neville Delmar is a clever light comedian. Miss May Henderson, the dusky comedy queen, sings and dances in great style. Also here are Mr. Alec Lawson, dancing acrobat; Miss Barry Eldon, an exceedingly charming vocalist; Mr. Andie Burn, comedian and dancer; and the Bioscope.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Will White.—Some capital pictures are exhibited here. The vaudeville element is sustained by Messrs. Davis and Deane, excellent comedians and shadow dancers; and Mr. Barney Stuart, whose finished character studies gain him an immense reception.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL.—General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Rogers.—Beautiful films are being shown here. Miss Dorothy Thompson, a charming singer of chorus songs and capital dancer, appears with much success.

BILSTON.—ROYAL AND HIPPODROME. — Lessee, Mr. Edwin C. Jazon; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Tunstall.—The chief attraction here is provided by Lockhart's elephants presented by Captain Taylor. Beaumont's ponies and dogs, Talberto and Douglas, comedy duo; Mlle. Bartenelli, Tom Packer, and Lila Wheelwright complete a capital company.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Herbert M. King.—Mr. Charles H. Lester's capable company, in A Life for a Life, present an attractive entertainment. Mr. Lester cleverly fills the dual rôle of Leon Fernandel and Josh Harker; Mr. Hugh Travers is well suited as Pedro Li Calci; Wee Minnie Warden displays really remarkable precocity as Venetto, the baby detective; and Eualie is admirably played by Miss Lailah Davis.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Keating.—Mr. Harry Lauder, the favourite Scotch comedian, is fulfilling one of many return engagements here with all his customary success. Mr. Edward Lewis, a resourceful comedian, assisted by his efficient company, appear with distinction in the farcical interlude The Five Wishes; and Les Piccolinos, versatile midget entertainers, are popular. Miss Edna Latonne, a smart male impersonator; Mr. Dion Wade, comedian and mimic; Miss Edie Anderson, a charming comedienne; Bromley and Fontein, variety artists; Ross and Lewis, American humorists; Little Pam, vocalist and dancer; and Brown's Royal Bioscope are also prominent in an excellent programme.

HIPPODROME.—Director of Entertainments, Mr. Will Sley; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Weston.—A telling performance of the interesting play, As Your Hair Grows Whiter, by Mr. Herbert Fuller's company, is much appreciated. Timothy Slough is capitally played by Mr. Fuller; and Mr. Amery is well placed as the Rev. John Alberry; and Miss Agnes Collier gives an effective performance of Alice Walters. The piece is liberally staged.

WINTER GARDENS, ROCK FERRY.—General-Managers, Messrs. B. Alandale and L. Blattner; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry A. Dooley.—A fine entertainment is supported by Signor Torti (an Italian tenor), Miss Emilie Tait (soprano), Jack Barker (comedian), Norman Osborne (ventriloquist), Kit Keene (vocalist), and Fred Walmsley (comedian).

BIRMINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; General-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—Local amateurs appear in a new musical play, The Heiress, this week, the proceeds being devoted to the Children's Hospital. A criticism appears in another page.

PRINCE OF WALES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnstone.—Closed for summer vacation. The promoters of a missionary exhibition in the Bingley Hall adjoining are utilising the theatre.

ALEXANDRA.—Proprietor, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. T. Guest.—Musical comedy, a welcome change, is being presented by Mr. Sydney Spenser and company. The programme arranged for the week was: Monday, Tuesday, and Saturday, My Sweetheart; Wednesday, matinée and evening, A Wonderful Woman; and Thursday and Friday, Peg Woffington, the Actress. Prominent performers are Mr. Spenser, Miss Lizzie Hall, Mr. Edward Rawlinson, and Mr. Arthur L. Read.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward.—The Octoroon is being presented here twice nightly to well-filled houses; Mr. Edward Marris's stock company is responsible for a bright production, the part of Zoe, the Octoroon, being filled very capably by Miss Blanche St. Albans. Mr. Joseph Millane displays ability as Salem Scudder; and Mr. G. Gasford provides a realistic Jacob McClosky.

METROPOLE.—Proprietor, Mr. Andrew Melville; Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—Mrs. E. H. Knight is presenting here a thrilling spectacular drama The Lighthouse Robbery. Mr. Percy Beresford takes the part of Tom Manley; Miss Hilda Baynton is an excellent Rose Prescott; Mr. S. Fortesque and Mr. J. Summerville ably sustain the principal heavy characters; Mr. Rupert Talbot and Miss Clarice Jenner portray humorous characters; and Baby Freda is a big favourite.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr. Chas. Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis M. Chapman.—Large audiences take a deep interest here in Messrs. Travis Green and Arthur Hinton's production of The Sorrows of Satan. Miss Leila Zillwood proves herself an accomplished actress as Sybil Elton; Miss Shirley Dalton gives a realistic portrayal as Diana Chesney; Mr. Arthur Hinton as Prince Lucio gains high honours; and as Geoffrey Tempest Mr. Travis Green is equal to all demands. Miss Maude Evans and Miss Mabel Coleman perform creditably the characters of Annette and Mavis Clare respectively. Mr. Arthur Beaufort and Mr. A. Lowry are also prominent in the cast.

CARLTON THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—An Abandoned Woman is being presented here by the Carlton Dramatic Company. Mr. Haldane Dalton is well chosen as Captain Hubert Seaton; and Miss Nellie Thorn Hallam, who is entrusted with a heavy rôle as Ninon Malvoisin, displays great capability; Mr. Victor Gardom portrays a strong character as Phillippe Malvoisin; Mr. Norman Tracy is successful as Robert Saunders; Mr. Newton Pearce proves himself a clever humorist as Paddy Boyle; and others who merit praise are Miss Yoxa Summers, Mr. Willis Collins, and Miss Margaret Thorne.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Williams.—An excellent bill is headed by Mr. Chas. T. Aldrich, "the man of many parts"; Olga, Elgar, and Eli Hudson, in their refined and artistic musical act, are big favourites, and are warmly applauded; Harry Jolson, an American black-faced operatic comedian, has some attractive numbers, and his work is greatly appreciated; Johnson and Bert appear in a bright comedy act; J. H. Milburn is as popular as ever; A. G. Spry, a versatile comedian and dancer with a novel style, comes up to expectations; Edie King is a pleasing comedienne; Phil Rees' Stable Lads provide a breezy entertainment; and Willie Walker has some bright Scotch songs.

GRAND.—Proprietors, Messrs. Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Foster; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Lucas.—Hetty King, a prime pantomime favourite here, heads a strong bill, and her performance is more attractive than ever. She sings new songs, and in "My Birthday" displays considerable dramatic power. Mr. Dan Lipton's vocal combination provide a delightful entertainment, the solo numbers of Miss Eva Kelland being admirably rendered; the Five Whiteleys are deservedly applauded for their clever and artistic acrobatic feats; J. A. Wilson and his dog "Towser" are, as usual, warmly welcomed; the Two St. Johns are up-to-date musical comedians; Harry Grey keeps his audience in merry mood; and M. and Mme. Agoust present an entertaining juggling sketch.

GAIETY.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—Fred Barnes, a Birmingham artist with a big future, is an excellent draw. He displays both originality and versatility in the rendering of his bright, catchy chorus songs. The five original Cliftons are responsible for an acrobatic exhibition involving wonderful feats of strength and daring; King Luis and party also present an acrobatic and equilibristic novelty; the Sisters Condor are refined artists, in a musical sketch; Herbert La Martine is repeatedly encored for his graceful and intricate step-dancing; Marie Reeve is a charming comedienne; Stewart and Morgan have pleasing vocal numbers; Victor Kelly, assisted by Miss Agnas, provides a novel entertainment.

HIPPODROME.—Managers, Messrs. Barrasford; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. D. Elbourne.—Mr. Joe Pateman's company in Chanteclair, a burlesque on the famous Parisian play, are proving a big attraction. It is a beautiful, animated production, with strong vocal and comedy elements; Pichel and Scale appear in a laughable acrobatic act; Mlle. Yetta is particularly good on the wire; a neat and smart dancing and tumbling act is presented by Les Marbas; Moon and Morris are expert comedy dancers; the Forde Trio appear in a pleasing vocal and instrumental act; Daisy Taylor is a dainty dancer and a sweet singer; Albert Mackelvin is a bright and breezy Scotch comedian; and Harry Taylor keeps his audience laughing.

ASTON HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Aston Hippodrome, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. T. H. Middleton.—The chief attraction this week is Mr. Walter Bird's company in the comedy sketch Her Husband. The popular comedian, Ernest Luck, has excellent opportunities in the way of laughter-making, and he scores well in a favourite character; the Three Comedy Chanters take a high place in the estimation of audiences for harmonious interludes; Corman's juveniles are well received in an attractive vocal scena; Nelly Wigley sings popular songs in good style; the Recar Trio are clever lady acrobats; the Kebbles please in songs and dances; Olive Dene is a bright comedienne; Ernest Clifford enjoys a hearty reception; and Cash and Clair, eccentric dancers, and the Rizarelis, trapeze artists, also contribute acceptably.

CURZON HALL.—Lessee, Mr. Walter Jeffs.—The excellent pictures of the Funeral of the late King Edward, shown at this hall, have aroused much comment in the city, and they still meet with hearty appreciation. The programme for the week also contains several new features, including a splendid coloured representation of the ruins of Delhi, and Casette and The Prisoner of Golden Isle, two effective dramatic subjects. The humorous films are well received.

KING'S HALL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. J. P. Moore and B. Kennedy.—The pictures at this up-to-date hall are well up to the usual high standard this week. A Jump to Death is the title of a sensational subject, and other pictures of note are The Betraying Mirror, The Duke's Plan, Strength of Duty, A Mistake, and Foolshead on Skates. The Sisters Rochefort and Johnny Wood provide excellent vaudeville items.

QUEEN'S HALL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. B. Kennedy and J. P. Moore.—Films of an attractive nature, including new dramatic and comic subjects, provide excellent entertainment, which is enhanced by special vaudeville, provided by Mr. Phil Terriss.

BISHOP AUCKLAND. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, The Hippodrome (Bishop Auckland), Ltd.; Managing-Director, Signor Pepi.—Miss Lottie Lennox is the leading attraction, and is popular. Dunning is a capital ventriloquist; and Kahn and Kahn are good in their second-sight act. Zellina provokes roars of laughter in his juggling scena; and Duncan and Godfrey are very pleasing in their coster turn, Me and 'Er. Chas. Rowen and Dan Conroy, comedians, are included in the bill; and the Hipposcope shows interesting films.

BLACKPOOL.—HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—The Marriage of Kitty is being cleverly performed here by Mr. C. W. Standing's company. Miss Myra Swan gives a charming delineation of Kitty; and Miss Pamela Hope does well as Rosalie, Mme. de Semiano being interpreted with skill by Miss Winifred Pearson, an actress of unquestionable ability. Mr. Standing fills with admirable gusto the part of Sir Reginald Belsize; and Mr. Sydney Burt is well placed as John Travers. The Man in the Street serves as a capital curtain-raiser.

GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. George H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Harrop.—Mr. Charles Graham and company are here with Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner, in which Mr. Graham scores an unqualified success as Captain Harry Peyton, and Miss Winifred Scott finds opportunities for her histrionic talent in the part of Miss Elizabeth Phillipse. Miss Lenora Braham is also very good as Mistress Sarah Williams; and other parts are in efficient hands.

PALACE.—General Manager, Mr. George H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—Daley Cooper and Mabel Lait top the bill here, and appear with great success in a laughable sketch, entitled A Man of Spirit. Mildred Bryan both looks well and sings well; Fanny and Harry Dent are successful in a sketch; Ernie Myers is a very funny comedian; Azella Wilson is a graceful and clever gymnast; the Three Diamonds are expert skaters and dancers; Lily Lonsdale sings nicely; the Kremka Brothers perform wonderful acrobatic feats; and the Delafiores excel as musical entertainers.

BLYTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—The management has provided a varied vaudeville entertainment. Topping the bill is a wonderfully well-trained ape, George the 1st, introduced by Dandy George. The animal does some clever feats and a special cycling act The Phillipi Bros. are clever comic acrobats; Scatter, Tyneside comedian, had a hearty reception; Dewson, light comedian at the piano, submits a good turn; and Mint and Mart, paper experts and patter comedians; Marion Scott, male impersonator; Henry Hilton, in a conjuring act; Edie Hendon, with charming songs; and Ike Bradley, comic cyclist, are also successful.

BOLTON. — THEATRE ROYAL, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Moncur.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company is here with Was She to Blame? Miss Cissie St. Elmo is warmly appreciated for her rendering of the part of Kate Roselle; Miss Nancy Roberts's rendering of Lilian Norman is admirable, as also is Miss Ellen Beverley's performance of Nancy Norman; Mr. George Keene is a manly Captain George Courtney; Mr. Henry Rutland a good Rev. John Norman; Mr. Clavering Craig as Frank Roselle is a capable exponent of villainy; and the humour is in the hands of Miss Nita Owen (Sarah Swales), Mr. Kenneth Black, jun. (Timothy Swales), and Mr. F. G. Kimberley (William Clark).

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—Many excellent turns are appearing here, the programme being supplied by Miss Minnie Kaufmann, daring lady trick cyclist; Miss Gwennie Llewellyn, a little lady with a wonderful voice; Ada Gatley, in her charming and unique pot-pourri; Ken Jones, quaint comedian; Randolph King, quick-change artist, with his "one-man show"; the Hendersons, original speciality artists; Charles Torby, comedy silhouettist; Willie Allan, eccentric Scotch comedian and dancer; Chinko, boy juggler; and the Imperial Bioscope pictures.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Hippodrome (Bolton), Ltd.; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Will Sley; Manager, Mr. A. R. Harrison.—Mr. Haldane Crichton's company with The Cingalee has had an enthusiastic reception here. Miss Isa Bowman sings and acts delightfully as Nanoya; Miss Florrie Greensmith makes a sweet and attractive Peggy Sabine; Miss Winifred Stone wins favour with her dancing in Scene 1; and Miss Pauline Hague lends distinction to the rôle of Lady Patricia Vane. Mr. Frank Barclay scores a well-deserved success as the Hon. Harry Vereker, singing admirably; much laughter is caused by Mr. Jack Crichton as Chambhuddy Ram; the Boobhamba of Mr. Frank Lennard is good; and the same may be said of Mr. Grafton Williams's impersonation of Sir Peter. The chorus and orchestra, under the direction of Mr. W. D. J. Damant, deserve praise.

BOOTLE.—WINTER GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale; Joint-Managers, Mr. Ludwig Blattner and Mr. Bobbie Allandale; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Wellings.—A change of programme is given every three nights. The Wolkowsky troupe of Russian troubadours and dancers, including the Balalaika orchestra of musicians, proved a strong attraction; Milly and Arthur, in an artistic song and dance scena, made a decided hit; Durascoe and Azella are exceptionally clever equilibrists; Mlle. Daisy Graham was successful with her performing birds; Miss Maimie Fenton caused a diversion with her Scotch songs; Miss Maud Hughes is an artistic soprano vocalist; and Mr. Jesse Hackett, tenor, was applauded.

MUNCASTER THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Renningtons; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Young.—Mr. Charles Majilton and his company are entertaining crowded houses with the ever-popular farce Round the Clock. It is five years since the popular comedian last appeared in Bootle, and his sketch was quite as attractive as ever. The company includes Mr. Jim Bond as Bertie Buske, Mr. Geo. Hunter as Gew Gaw; Mr. Tom Carroll as Denby, Mr. W. Jecks as the Cabby, Mr. H. Grenville as the Policeman, Miss Nellie Clifford as Salprinal, Miss Lizzie Boyle as Georgina, Miss Annie Patterson as Mary, Miss Lena Valli as Mrs. Gadforth, Miss Maddie Majilton as Bertie Kelvin, and Mr. Charles Majilton as Gadforth.

BOSCOMBE.—HIPPODROME, LTD.—Joint Managing-Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. H. Burdett.—Edward Lauri, May Beatty, and company present a new musical comedy play, in one act, entitled The Lady Bandits, by Edward Lauri and Herbert C. Sargent. The scenery is pretty, the piece most enjoyable, and the company is well rewarded. Tom Lee as a light comedian receives much applause; Kitty Colyer, expert dancer, also has a hearty welcome; the Lecardo Bros., in their comedy acrobatic act The Tired Bakers, are extremely funny; Wilman, the popular instrumentalist, is successful; Hunter and Maris, in a comedy speciality act, and Daisy Stratton, comedienne and dancer, together with the usual up-to-date Hippo. pictures, conclude.

BRADFORD.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Councillor F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. M. Hamilton.—A Destroyer of Men, the ingeniously constructed and stirring Servian drama, is being presented by Miss Hilda Beverley's company, and in the part of the vile scheming Olga Mishla Miss Beverley scores a great success, and has fine support from Mr. Stephen Langton as Count Starevitch; Mr. Herbert Pearson, in the dual rôle of Husband and Detective, Miss Mary Brammer as Vida Ravel, Mr. J. Jarrett as her lover, Mr. E. Keith as Coco, and Miss Dorothy Hildebrende as Nina. The play is very effectively staged.

THE EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. J. Kelly.—Arthur Roberts, the comedian, is on a welcome return visit here, and supported by a smart company, is eliciting roars of laughter as Fitzawful Smith in Harry Pleon's sketch Another Man's Wife; in a humorous football song Mr. Geo. French's quaintness is very enjoyable; Siemo, the Danish card and coin manipulator, gains hearty applause for his clever performance; and Russell Carr submits a novel entertainment as a ventriloquist. Chas. Fisher's Vocalesques are a combination of excellent harmony and humour; Lillie Lassah is a smart comedienne and dancer; Conn and Conrad, as "the aviating comedians," introduce a humorous and clever novelty; some very remarkable sand-dancing by Cumminger and Colonna, which wins hearty applause; and the films shown are interesting.

THE PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. E. Harrison.—There is a good company

On their garments not a blemish,
But fresher than before.—The Tempest.

CLEAN UP FOR YOUR

AUTUMN TOURS.

By special arrangement

TOURING MANAGERS CAN HAVE THEIR WARDROBES CLEANED BETWEEN SHOWS WHEN IN OR NEAR LONDON

by the

CHEMICAL CLEANING & DYEING CO.,

T. HARRIS, Manager.

ORIGINAL THEATRICAL CLEANERS & DYERS.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS.

"27, Moore Street, Lennox Gardens, S.W., May 22nd, 1910.

Mr. HARRIS,—I am very much obliged to you for the prompt way in which you attended to my request, and also for the very satisfactory way in which the things were dyed.—Yours faithfully (Signed) ENID SPENCER-BRUNTON."

"45, Green Road, Southsea, Hants, May 18th, 1910.

Dear Mr. HARRIS,—Thanks so much for taking the trouble to do a little order like this so quickly for me.—Faithfully yours, STUART ALEXANDER."

"Royal Aquarium Theatre, Great Yarmouth, May 26th, 1910.

Dear Mr. HARRIS,—Goods just received; am delighted with them. Very many thanks. Kind regards.—Yours faithfully, J. W. CORDINER."

For further particulars apply to

6, ARGYLL STREET, REGENT STREET, W.

Telephone: Gerrard 1911 (2 lines). Telegrams: "CLEANING, LONDON."

located here, consisting of the Williams Jubilee Singers, an octet of coloured vocalists whose harmony is excellent; Dolly Ross, comedienne and dancer; Bert Crosbie, comedian; Richard Finberg, in a series of artistic character-studies; Lily Edwardes, comedienne; Barrie and Wood, comedy duo; Clara Reid and John Power, exceedingly clever comedy entertainers; and the Palace Perfection pictures.

BRIDGEND.—Messrs. Wadbrookes had a successful time here, showing some of the latest pictures. The Funeral of King Edward was one of the best on tour, and was in continual request. Some very amusing subjects was shown to large and appreciative audiences. Mr. Jeffries successfully introduced his many recitations. Mr. Glover as a guide is clear and concise. Most amusing are Williams and Parker, Welsh comedians, who are repeatedly encored.

BRIDLINGTON.—Royal Prince's Parade.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—Mr. Harold Montague and his company of "Vagabonds" continue to attract large audiences to the Grand Pavilion, and their entertainments are heartily enjoyed.

New Spa and Gardens and Opera House.—Manager, Mr. R. C. Luxton.—"The Gaieties" had a crowded audience at their farewell performance on Saturday evening. Mr. Wilson James and his company having been very popular during their three weeks' engagement. On Monday "The Georgians," a smart up-to-date company of entertainers, opened for a short season, under the direction of Mr. Robert Carr, and their programme was capitally rendered. Miss Ina Freeman is a charming comedienne and dancer; Miss Roma Castille is a sweet soprano; Mr. Carr's baritone songs are finely rendered; Mr. Bertram Banks is a capital humorist, and his living marionettes are cleverly done; Mr. Sydney Locklynne scores with his realistic imitations of animals; and Mr. John Doran sings light humorous songs. On Monday night they gave a most amusing burlesque, Claude Duval, in which Mr. Robert Carr and Miss Ida Freeman danced a charming minuet.

Summer Gardens.—Lessees, Messrs. Beanland, Bath, and Danton; Manager, Mr. Charles Beanland.—"The Waterloos" are giving some capital entertainments at this popular place of amusement, the sketches and farces being most amusing. Fun at the Baths gives the members of the company plenty of opportunities of showing their talent as laughter-makers. This week they are introducing a new sketch, Topsy-turvy Law.

BRIGHTON.—Grand Theatre.—Lessee and Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Gates; General-Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—The stock company here is performing The Lancashire Lad. Mr. Frank Petley submits a sterling impersonation of David Elmore; Miss Maisie Hanbury merits high praise for her charming enactment of Jessie Wincote; Miss Nellie Lauraine shows admirable acting as the scheming Lorna Wincote; Miss Madeline Lang's Kitty de Vere is well played; Mr. Austin Milroy achieves great success as Max Carton; Miss Naomi Wallace as Flossie Mayfair and Miss Violet Haye as Trixie Golightly are very effective; Mr. Jack G. Maine gives a sound representation of Jem Wincote; and the humorous element is excellent in the hands of Mr. Tom E. Sinclair as John Willie Wardle, Mr. Fred Aston as Tum-o'-the-Swilltub, and Mr. Claude Adams as Professor Napoleon Boulanger.

Alhambra.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Alfred Smith; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Smith.—Vera de Astra, assisted by Mlle. Wanda Baranoff, is charmingly effective in the artistic creation A Dream of the Year; the Three Comerfords are clever comedy acrobats; Les Wambas are well received in an instrumental and trapeze act; Tom Clifford is a capital ventriloquist; Rayburn and Dix are admirable in Skits on the 'Phone; Rosie Lee is a pleasing comedienne; Carrie Wood, comedienne, merits praise; Archie Pitt is a good comedian; Revene and Elton's acrobatic speciality is much appreciated; and the Alhambra Picturegraph is interesting and amusing.

Barrasford's Hippodrome.—Resident Manager, Mr. Bertram J. Brown.—Miss Margaret Cooper is as popular as ever with her charming songs at the piano; Herbert Sleath's company submit the dramatic sketch The Deputy Sheriff, with great success; the Brothers Egbert are entertaining in their Happy Dustmen act; Willie Atom and company are diverting in Wiggles; Tiny and Mite are effective dancers and duettists; Johnson and Devere are smart trick cyclists; J. W. Rickaby is a very droll comedian; Philip Levard is applauded for his conjuring entertainment; Juno Salmo, "the Devil Dandy," is a clever contortionist; and Flo Cecil is a dainty comedienne.

West Pier.—Secretary, Mr. A. W. Scholey.—A Sense of Humour is performed here this week with distinct success by Mr. James Hartopp's company. Mr. Frank Wolsey gives an excellent portrayal of Sir William Hutton, Bart.; Miss Gabrielle Paul is charming as Mrs. Hay; Mr. James Hartopp acquits himself admirably as Captain Archibald Hay; Miss Helen Holmes merits cordial praise for her impersonation of Lady Hutton; and able support is rendered by Mr. Henry le Grand and Miss Violet Oakley.

Palace Theatre.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Jay and Man; Resident Manager, Mr. Wilfred H. Kent.—Prominent among the picture plays exhibited here is The Planter's Wife, which conveys a thrilling dramatic story. The series comprises pictures of an interesting and humorous character, and there s a complete change of programme every Monday and Thursday.

Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. Maud Barrasford; Manager, Mr. F. J. Thompson.—The animated pictures exhibited here are of a varied character. Shakespeare's Twelfth Night is splendidly represented; The Thread of Destiny and A Child's Courage are dramatic; A Present for His Wife is interesting; The Sculptor's Dream is a trick film; and those of a comic character include Rebellious Betty and Task of Hercules; while In the Basque Country is highly picturesque.

Theatre de Luxe.—Proprietors, Electric Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. H. Cousens.—A very attractive series of animated pictures is exhibited here. President Roosevelt in France is a strikingly effective film; dramatic scenes are conveyed by His Last Burglary; Forget, Forgive; Honour thy Father; and Baffles' Bandit; while the comic pictures include A Funny Story and Black Peril.

BRISTOL.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mrs. Emma Carpenter; Manager, Mr. Henry C. Alty.—The Love of the Princess is the attraction here, the staging being effective. Mr. Frank Harvey and Miss May Beatrice both act admirably their respective parts of Prince Conrad and Princess Idalia. Mr. Cyprian Matthews does well as Count Nicholas Danillo; Mr. John Burton presents a good character-study of King Josef; Miss Maud Steeple is a pleasing Lady Irene; Miss Josephine Lee makes an interesting part of Constantia; Mr. Oscar Power is bluff and soldier-like as the Prince Regent; Mr. Edgar Morgan acts effectively as Borio; and Mr. John Worth and Mr. Beckett Bould do well as Lieut. Zaroff and Lieut. Orlans.

Prince's Theatre. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute. — Mr. Eugene C. Stafford's company is here with The Private Secretary. Mr. Geoffrey Guise acted capitally on Monday evening as the Rev. Robert Spalding; Mr. W. Hargreaves was as amusing as ever in his old part of Mr. Cattermole; and Mr. Frederick Tyrrell was no less entertaining as Mr. Gibson. The Wild Man From Borneo preceded.

Palace.—Local Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Assistant-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Frank Danby and J. C. Piddock successfully present their musical-comedy playlet, Cupid's Arms; Hanvarr and Lee amuse with their speciality The Golfer and the Maid; Les Andres score with their singing and dancing act; Tom Lloyd, comedian, is appreciated; Kitty Arnold is a smart dancer; Scholey and Scholey do well in Winning a Wager; Nelson Hardy, ventriloquist, is entertaining; Cambo, the musical monkey, is decidedly clever; and animated pictures conclude.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—R. G. Knowles is here, his really amusing stories and his singing and quaint dancing obtaining enthusiastic applause; Alexandre and Hughes entertain with comedy, patter, and music; Russell and Held present a smart medley of song and dance; Stephen Adeson and Florence Wilton do well with their duologue The Housebreaker; Rosalie Jacobi sings in pleasing style; Marion Armitage, low comedy vocalist, is really amusing; Alf Brooks, comedian, obtains applause; Belle Belmont is an acceptable vocalist; and Cadwell and Verne score with their vaudeville act, Early Closing Day. The performance concludes with animated pictures. Mr. Knowles is also giving a series of matinée "travelaugh" lectures, which are well attended.

BURNLEY.—Victoria Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Excellent business continues here with the popular living pictures. A capital programme is thoroughly appreciated by good audiences.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Miss Zona Vevey is on a return visit with catchy songs, enhanced with scenic and musical effects; Marcel and Boris are brilliant with hand-balancing acrobatics; and a novel performance is given by the Countess Bekoffska in pretty picture painting. Miss Dot Stephens delights all with artistic singing; and Ellis Barrieton captures the suffrages of the house with chorus songs. The Empire Theatrescope shows The Trip by the Oberland.

Palace Theatre and Hippodrome. — Managing Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident Manager, Mr. J. R. Bedcoe.—Vonetta here presents a bewildering series of remarkable quick changes; Syd Walker, comedian, is responsible for a turn brimful of humour; and the popular fancy is caught by Alice Craven with "A bit of Lancashire." Gwen Francis also pleases with song; and Harold Heath, coon singer and dancer, is clever in both departments. Kitty Clindon wins favour with "I must ask my mother"; and Alf. J. Long is a good alto vocalist. The Brothers Hannaway contribute song and patter; and the programme concludes with the Palace pictures.

BURTON-ON-TRENT. — Opera House. — Proprietors, Messrs. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. de Hague Body.—Wizard and Irene Stone top the bill in a thrilling bicycle performance in what is called the "Globe of Life." A comedy duologue entitled Knocked Out is skilfully presented by Mr. and Mrs. J. Manning; Smart Bros., comedy acrobats, are clever and amusing; a versatile and pleasing turn is given by Tina Franks. An Interview, in which Bob and Jenny Leonard appear, meets with applause; and Harry Farren (vocalist) and Sam Fay, comedian, are good in their respective turns. The Operascope is showing first-rate pictures.

BURY (Lancs.).—Royal, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. McPherson.—The appearance of the wonderfully-trained and almost human chimpanzee Consul is creating great interest; Amandus gives life-like portrayals of past and present celebrities; excellent cross-talking and dancing is submitted by Bernard and Weston; Austen Temple is a talented illusionist, and is assisted by Miss Irene Chalmers; Rosie Gaston is a sparkling comedienne; a ventriloquial sketch is introduced by Mr. Fred Neiman; Rosina is a musical expert; Victor Raymond, Harwood Cooper, and Amy Manfree appear in a sketch entitled Cupid in a Lodging-house; Benn's Dutch boys and girls, including Little Ruby, a clever toe dancer, introduce dancing and harmony.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas Baker.—A brilliant top-liner is provided in Ada Pagini, whose violin playing meets with a tremendous reception; Phyllis Hayward possesses a good voice, and her songs are artistically rendered; Sammy Foster, comedian and dancer, is well received; Henry Feveril recites "Black-eyed Susan" in taking style; Victoria Dagmar is clever on the horizontal bar and gymnastic ropes; a laughable sketch Jack's Mother is capitally played by Syd Garti and Miss Lucky Law; Gertie Rex, character comedienne, provides an enjoyable item; Menotti (deputising for Phillipi Brothers) contributes skating and cycling on a tight wire.

Circus of Varieties. — Proprietor, Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—A new series of pictures is proving a big draw, and variety turns are submitted by Bessie Callon, vocalist, and Harry Letter, comedian and dancer.

CANTERBURY.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham Falcon.—Mr. James Stephens and his répertoire company are paying a return visit, the bill of fare comprising A Fatal Fortune, The Last Adventure of Sherlock Holmes, and The Ticket-of-Leave Man. All three plays are admirably sustained, Mr. Stephens being particularly happy in the rôles impersonated by him. The company also includes Mr. James Hart, Mr. A. Roote, Mr. J. G. Miller, Mr. R. L. Ellis, Mr. C. Brecon, Mr. S. Lester, Mr. Charles Drew, Mr. Tom Bentine, Mr. Charles Conyers, Mr. J. Kendrew, and Misses V. Peek, V. Douglas, Kate Thornton, and Lucie Victor.

CARDIFF.—New Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—East Lynne is being presented here by Mr. Tom Watt's company. Mr. Frank Beresford is a most satisfactory Archibald Carlyle; Mr. W. P. Mansfield's Francis Levison is particularly fine; and Lord Mounisevern has a stern exponent in Mr. Tom Watts. Mr. Joe Rowland as P.C. Bullock is a host in himself; Miss Laura Hansen makes a powerful Lady Isabel; Miss Ida Heron a capital Barbara; and Miss Isabel Singleton as Cornelia Carlyle and Miss Beryl Forbes as Joyce deserve mention.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Taylor.—Frank and Jen Latona are always a welcome duo with their versatile musical performance; Marie Kendall presents several of her latest successes in the popular style and taking manner always associated with this leading comedienne; Bessie Butt achieves success as a very captivating impersonator of male characters; Edward E. Ford, the Australian sundowner, proves particularly amusing; the Albert and Edmunds pantomimical comedians in The Tower of London cause much merriment; a charming display of dancing and singing is given by the Manchester Mites; Harry Leybourne has an amusing impersonation in the nervous lady singer; Mary Ambrose is responsible for refined vocal and violin playing act; and Steve McCarthy is an eccentric dancer.

Palace and Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will A. Jackson.—Heading the programme this week is The Pawnbroker, presented by Joe Peterman and George Rickett's company. A turn full of fun is that of the Five X-Rays, called the mad athletes, whose antics, though ludicrous, are clever in the extreme. Picture songs always "take" at the Palace, and Norah Desmond, with American films, is no exception to the rule. As a character comedian George Acre is popular; the Bartholomew Girls, comediennes, are dainty and captivating; Harry Brown, coloured comedian, is certainly good; and the Bioscope is as delightful as ever.

CARLISLE. — H.M. Theatre. — Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. S. M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—Mr. Tearle commenced his fifth week here with Hamlet to a well-filled and most appreciative house. Mr. Tearle's rendering of Hamlet was distinctly robust and thoroughly convincing, and met with warm approval. Mr. Ernest Lodge is a fine elocutionist, and as the Ghost again made a hit. He also appeared as Polonius. Mr. Stuart Black gave a well-conceived rendering of Laertes; Mr. Horace Price made a capital Horatio, and the First Gravedigger was amusingly portrayed by Mr. P. P. Miller. Ophelia was in the hands of Miss Constantia Brooke, who contributed a clever and careful study. Mr. Denis Hogan, Miss Mary Campbell, and Miss Nancy Blackwood were also conspicuous. Othello, It's Never too Late to Mend, Virginius, Julius Cæsar, and Jeanie Deans are also in the répertoire.

The Palace.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. D. Askew.—Rauschle, in his impersonations of famous men, contributes a turn as clever as it is original. Many of his popular characters are quite life-like. The Lancashire Singing Pit Brow Lasses have a song-scena with realistic scenery and effects; the Three Phydoras are again here in their clever eccentric musical act; Fred Ward and Arthur Stacey are amusing comedians, and Lilybelle contributes a barefoot dance and sings. Roberta Svendsen, a delightful vocalist, and that wonderful picture the Funeral of King Edward VII. complete.

Skating Rink.—Mr. J. Arnold's Pierrots are attracting considerable audiences, and the smart and versatile performances given by the members of his troupe meet with well-deserved recognition. Miss Gertie Gordon, a lively soubrette, has some capital songs, which she sings with any amount of go and capital style; Miss Vi Eplett is particularly versatile, and is always sure of a good reception; Signor Mottramo has a fine tenor voice and is encored nightly. Messrs. B. Freeman, W. T. Hybert, and G. Franklin are valuable members of the company. The concerted pieces are quite a feature of the performance.

CASTLEFORD.—Queen's Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Charles H. Beanland and Will H. Emerson.—A capital programme of interesting and instructive pictures is presented here by the Loyal Dominion Company to crowded audiences. Miss Ida Dorrie, with catchy songs and a beautiful voice, wins favour, and Arthur J. Hill has a quaint lilliputian act.

CHELTENHAM.—Montpellier Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. Alfred W. Newton.—The enterprising management have brought together a company of stars yclept The Criterion Entertainers. Mr. Fred Milner's humorous sketches are uproariously received, his Impressions of London Life and Home of Rest being greatly enjoyed; Mr. Fred Wildon delighted everybody with his "Phonofiddleodities and other turns; Mr. Arthur Melrose, the whistling humorist, was encored again and again; Mr. Douglas Wakefield's powerful and cultured singing was much enjoyed; Miss Clarice May, the talented pianist of the party, sang some bright and vivacious ditties and performed some of her own compositions on the pianoforte.

Poole's Picture Palace.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. B. Shenton.—Some fine specimens of colour photography are being shown this week.

CHESTER. — Royalty Theatre. — Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—Miss Stella Gastelle, assisted by Mr. Leon Simkin in the rôle of Hilarius, presents a scena from La Poupée here. Miss Gastelle's clever interpretation of the Doll is as delightful as when first she created the part; Daleno is a good comedian and dancer; Barry Snowball and Kitty Mac present Hunting, a smart sketch; Walter Grahame is novel as "the human marionette"; the Lauri Bros. shine as society acrobats; and Hilda De Grey is a clever and versatile vocalist. An old favourite is F. V. St. Clair, who sings with the same raciness as of yore, and Vernon's Bioscope concludes.

CHORLTON-CUM-HARDY. — Theatre and Winter Gardens, Ltd.—Proprietors, The Charlton Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Walter Stott. Mr. Frederick Lane's concert party opened here before an appreciative audience on Monday for six nights. Mr. Robert Tattersall displayed considerable skill as a ventriloquist and conjurer; Mr. Herbert Clark sang "Alisa Mine" with fine feeling; the duet, "The Ballad Singers," was excellently rendered by Messrs. Clark and Brazier; Mr. Charles E. Browne's facial mimicry caused great amusement; Miss Violet Locke gave Tosti's "Good Bye,"; Miss Gertie Vincent effectively sang "Jammy face"; and the artists named combined in a laughable Japanese operetta, entitled Kimona San.

COLCHESTER.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Graham Macdona.—Mr. Harry Tilbury and company, in the drama His Dishonoured Wife, are here. Mr. Harry Tilbury himself proved a really good Irish comedian as Micky Doolan; Mr. Fred Owen made a capable Niel Locksley; Mr. Alex Alexander did remarkably well as Lord Devant; and as his accomplice in crime, Tom Redman, Mr. Frank Orchard was efficient. Mr. A. George Fry was a capable Frank Lindon; Miss Belle Tilbury a forcible Florence Lindon; and Little Violet a good Mabel.

Hippodrome.—Joint Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—La Milo is topping this week's bill, and is, of course, creating much interest; the Videos, roller skaters, provide excellent entertainment; Carl Lynn, animal mimic, again proves a wonderful draw; Vera Rochdale sings in pleasing style; the Bros. Gerrard give good value as musical comedians; Jack McKenzie works successfully as a comedian; Elaine Desborough has a good stage appearance; and the films are of a light nature, and please all sections.

CORK. — Opera House.—Manager, Mr. R. J. Bell.—Mr. Charles Constant's company on Monday opened a week's engagement here in Florodora. Mr. Johnnie Schofield as Anthony Tweedlepunch filled a fat part with much success; Mr. Martin P. Fitts as Frank Abercoed was in capital voice; Miss Daisy Lake as Dolores also sang well; Miss Kate Leicester as Lady Holyrood and Miss Florence Hersee as Angela Gilfain both filled their parts capably; Mr. Stanley White made an amusing Cyrus C. Gilfain, and Mr. Johnnie Junir was successful as Captain Arthur Donegal.

COVENTRY.—The Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—For the first time in Coventry the farcical comedy When the Missus Was Out, by Messrs. Cayley Calvert and J. Willoughby Woodward, has been produced by Miss Nannie Goldman and London company. Miss Goldman is responsible for the character of Parker, the general, and is the cause of much amusement; Mr. William Holle is very creditable in the character of Barnaby Bunstone; Mr. Leonard K. Mansford ably portrays the character of Augustus Whistler.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. S. T. Newsome; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. E. Wright.—Spissells Bros. and Mac give a laughable turn in dumb show, entitled Fun in a Café; Frank L. Gregory Troupe of hoop-rollers and jugglers do some marvellous tricks; Arthur Wellesley and his company give an amusing sketch, entitled Uncle's Courtship; the Bros. Obo, laughing comedians, score a success; Lyster and Cooke, novelty musical entertainers, are equally good; and other artists are Arthur Aiston, comedian; Harriet Rose, vocal comedienne; and Ivey Aberdare, comedienne and dancer.

CROYDON.—Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Alexander Watson; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest Archer.—Mr. Watson's vaudeville company is giving an entertaining show here this week. The comedietta By Mutual Consent affords scope for clever acting on the part of Mr. Herbert Garthorne as Vivian Temple and Miss Ivy Williams as Norah Murchison. A Romany Romance is also smartly rendered by Miss Gladys Carlton (Nemah), Mr. Reginald Adair (Valero), and Mr. Jack Gray (Dagon). An excellent concert is contributed to by Messrs. Percy Cahill, a quaint comedian, Leonard Stanton, Clement Locknane, and Miss Gloria Egmont.

Empire Palace of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace Jay.—Maud Hildyard and company are causing a sensation here in the vivid sketch The Price of a Soul; Phil Ray, comedian, is very good; Fred Evans is irresistible in novelty, Dreaming; Kitts and Windrum bring down the house with their lively sketch, The Cuckoo; the Westwoods submit a fine cycling act; Walter Stanley is a sterling comedian with a fine voice; Esme Gordon, comedienne, is a capable dancer; Goggin and Davis are untiring burlesque tumblers; Tom Costello is a resourceful comedian; Doris Warsaw is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; and the Bioscope pictures deserve mention.

Electric Theatre.—The animated pictures here are up to the usual high-water mark, and the attendance is good. Mr. W. H. Richards is proving a smart manager. Visitors are catered for with the very best fare.

DARLINGTON.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Bell.—Two shows a night sketches and pictures are still to the fore here. Mr. William Heilbronn and stock company play a pretty sketch, entitled His Friend's Wife. Mr. William Heilbronn admirably represents Ted Chester; Mr. Arthur Dudley meets with a good reception as Bertie Cannon; Miss Nellie Hook plays with her usual skill in the part of Madge Cannon; and Miss Cissie Podmore is a capital Billy. Another sketch to be played by the company during the week is a comedy entitled My Aunt. The pictures are a big success.

Hippodrome Theatres, Ltd. — Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert E. Nicholls.—Mr. Will Netta's Singing Jockeys head the bill, their reception being very hearty. The Zanfrellas give a fine display as equilibrists on a pedestal; Miss Ethel Edwards, vocalist, is good; Dorris and Frances are smart comediennes and dancers; the Calcotts are amusing in an episode Rags and Tatters; and among other turns are Stevens and Brett, burlesque comedians; Elms and Rego, comedy knockabouts; and the Hipposcope pictures.

DARWEN.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. F. R. Griffiths; General-Manager, Mr. D. P. Cooper; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Sutcliffe.—Captain Roberts, Army staff trumpeter, supplies a good turn of athletic feats and conjuring; the Maddison Brothers are mirth-provoking comedians, who conduct a "blindfold boxing contest" for boys; George Barnes, tenor vocalist, is well received; and excellent films include In the Shadow of Mount Shasta.

Albert Hall.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Holden.—Day and Dean, patter comedians and dancers, top the bill with a good turn; Little Claud, juvenile comedian, shows much promise; and Queenie Mayor, character vocalist, evokes applause. The Girl Conscript and The Girl and the Judge are among the films shown.

DERBY.—Grand Theatre.—Sole Owner and Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley.—Topping the bill this week are the Gaudsmidts, assisted by Mlle. Jeanette, who provide one of the neatest acrobatic acts seen locally for some time. Included in the troupe are also a couple of highly-trained poodles; Cullen, Carthy, and Little Cluley are a comedy trio of all-round excellence; the Three Warringtons, as equilibrists, appear to distinct advantage; Hayes and Merritt, speciality trampolinists, gain deserved applause for their cleverly executed tricks; the Keppels, operatic vocalists, submit a thoroughly enjoyable interlude; Dolly and Madge McCalla, vivacious comediennes, make themselves eminently popular; Jack Sheridan, with droll songs and patter, is a worthy son of a worthy sire; Dan Daly adds to the general merriment with clever song parodies. The Bioscope gives a clear depiction of Lemberg's Derby.

DEVONPORT.—Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. G. Pranco.—A very attractive programme at the Hippodrome this week has been drawing crowded houses. L'Incognita is responsible for the principal turn, and her admirable voice is heard to advantage in Tosti's "Good-bye" and "Killarney," while her Italian songs receive loud applause; Rex Fox gives a novel ventriloquial and musical act on the wire; Harry Taft submits a most enjoyable and refined turn; Bob and Sid Ross have some good patter; Mme. E. Eldee poses gracefully in a golden frame; and Will E. Stopit keeps the house in roars of laughter.

The Metropole.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—Mr. Leonard Aardale as Conn in the revival of The Shaughraun has been a great success, the different moods of the volatile character being well portrayed; as Robert Ffolliott Mr. C. E. Stratford is distinctly good; and as Father Dolan Mr. John Sargent is dignified. Miss Masie Devoy is pretty as Nancy Malone; Miss Maggie Lindsey is stately as Mrs. O'Kelly; Miss Lulu Bowes makes a dainty Macligan, and Miss Jessie Vatman a fascinating Moya.

DEWSBURY. — Theatre Royal. — Proprietors, Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Herbert Asquith.—Mr. Stephen Pritt's répertoire company is here this week, playing twice nightly to good houses. On Tuesday they presented A Woman's Passion. The rôle of Sir Randall Derrick was in the very capable hands of Mr. David McFarlane, his acting leaving nothing to be desired; Mr. Geo. R. J. Austin gave an excellent portrayal of Lord Hubert Vale; Miss Lily Prescott as Claire Trevenen was seen to great advantage, her acting throughout being worthy of praise; Mr. R. F. Stracey as the Drabengro displayed much ability; the character of Winifred Hamlyn was capably sustained by Miss Yeda Moores; and Mr. Stephen Pritt supplied an excellent rendering of Vicary.

Empire Palace.—Proprietors, Messrs. G. W. and G. E. Smith; Manager, Mr. Claude Shayler.—Among some pleasing items of the programme here is Frank Hartley, whose clever juggling performance fully deserves the applause which is accorded him. The Zaid Trio of Spanish Moors perform some original and clever gymnastic feats, and had a well-merited reception; Dora Lyric, chorus vocalist, is loudly and deservedly applauded; the singing of Webb and Branston, operatic duettists, is worthy of much commendation; Fred Land, eccentric comedian, creates much laughter; Wee Winnie is an exceptionally clever child comedienne and dancer; Cissy Madcap is an expert acrobatic dancer, and is well received; Verto submits a novel musical act, and is ably assisted by Venita, who is a good vocalist and instrumentalist; and Lenton and Lane, in their sketch Unconsidered Trifles, evoke much laughter. Some excellent films are also shown on the Palascope.

Hippodrome.—General-Manager, Mr. George Weldon; Stage-Manager, Mr. P. Hogg.—A very interesting performance is supplied here this week, animated pictures being the leading feature, some excellent pictures being shown, a fine dramatic film A Sister's Secret being greatly appreciated. Ambitious Adolphus and Foolscap are exceptionally comical subjects and cause much laughter, Imatra Rapids is a capital travel picture. The variety items are supplied by the Cheers, with their troupe of performing cats, which go through a very clever performance; Howe and Kessler appear successfully in a novel musical act; Howard and Day are very good comedians and dancers; and Bessie Hardman uses her good voice to advantage.

Industrial Hall.—Lessees, Messrs. A. and H. Andrews; Resident-Manager, Mr. B. J. Christian.—Excellent business is again the rule here this week, and some fine films are being shown.

DINNINGTON (Yorks). — Lyric Theatre. — General-Manager, Mr. Jas. England.—The New Barmaid is making her bow to the playgoers of this new colliery town. The company (Miss Violet Esmond's) is a very capable one, and the piece is being produced and toured under the direction of Mr. Alexander Loftus, who himself fills the principal comedy part, that of Bertie White, and with patter, song, and whimsicalities is the life of the show. William White is ably portrayed by Mr. L. C. Hughes; as Mabel Miss Muriel Mascot is very charming, if unconventional, and is well supported by Miss Vera Crofton as the Old Barmaid. The New Barmaid finds a perfect exponent in Miss Madge Prior; and Mary, the maid, is prettily portrayed by Miss Marian Vyner. As Braddy Miss M. Stead plays cleverly; Miss Flo de Feny makes an excellent aristocrat; and Mr. E. Chewd is good as the Indian Colonel. The piece is well staged and dressed, and the chorus is skilfully balanced. Full houses have been the rule.

DONCASTER. — New Grand Theatre and Opera House, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—For Old Times Sake has had a flattering reception here. Playful and sportive in his rôle of Rupert Sydney, Mr. Fred J. Webb scores heartily; Paul Sydney is in the capable hands of Mr. J. C. Carlyle; Jean Brooke, an outcast, is effectively represented by Mr. Harold B. Lewis; Mr. W. Palliser Acock is exceptionally interesting as Wallace Rivington; Sareta Berkley is admirably sustained by Miss Marie Danvers Smith.

DOUGLAS.—The Palace.—Proprietors, The Palace and Derby Castle, Ltd.; Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brittain.—On Monday evening last the regular summer season obtained at the Palace, the attractions being dancing, under the musical direction of Mr. Harry Wood, with Mr. W. J. Fell as floor-manager. Roller skating, in the new rink, three sessions daily, and expert exhibitions by Professor Bentley. In the Opera House, the variety performance has secured large attendances, and evoked much applause. The Raglan Ladies Quartette sing with much sweetness and taste, and are encored; Mr. Bert Byrne is a quaint comedian, with a good voice; the Three Brothers Huxter, in an acrobatic sketch, score; Yetmah, a conjurer from the land of the chrysanthemum, has little to learn of his art in Europe; and Vernon's Imperial Bioscope completes a popular programme.

Other amusements in Douglas are Mr. Fred Buxton's Picturedrome, with films including the Race for the Blue Riband of the Turf, the Derby of 1910; the proprietor and manager himself in the latest ballads; and Mr. Ernie Famont, comedian and raconteur. Roller skating twice daily. Billiard hall, with twelve tables. The pierrot concert season commences Monday, June 20. The Empire Theatre.—Animated pictures, sketches, and varieties by Mr. Fred Esdaile, has drawn large audiences twice nightly. Mr. Charles Dare's White Minstrels on the Head, with twenty artists, induce large numbers to cross the bay when the sun is shining.

DUBLIN.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frederick Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Terry.—Here this week is Reano with his famous band of picked instrumentalists, who create a furore. Victor Niblo, with his wonderful talking birds is awarded a hearty reception; Friend and Downing, crosstalk comedians, cause any amount of laughter; in a refined and clever musical scena the Romps are deservedly applauded; Walter Graham, the human marionette, does a capital turn; the Three Romas, gladiatorial marvels, are a decided success; and Tom York, an acceptable comedian, and the Royal Bioscope complete a good programme.

Queen's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Marriott-Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Wright.—Messrs. O'Brien and Ireland's répertoire company is here this week with Recalled to Life. The principal characters are ably presented by Mr. Harry Ireland as Capt. Nolan, Mr. James O'Brien as Larry O'Toole, Mrs. Glenville as Mrs. O'Rourke, Miss Madeline Hurst as Grace Nolan, and Miss Minnie Walsh as Sybil Nolan. The remaining parts are adequately filled.

Empire Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Sec., Mr. Geo. H. Marsh.—Miss Alice Raymond and company, who supply the chief item here, are delighting large audiences in their novel musical production A Night in Egypt. Emma Don and company present a pleasing sketch, On the Thames Embankment, which is well received; the Jackley Trio in their comedy acrobatic act merit applause; some clever and daring feats are performed on the trapeze bar by Sibb and Sibb; Rowan and Moore in their farcical sketch score a success; Spry and Monti in their comedy act, The Song-writer and the Soubrette, are laughter provoking; and Tom Moore, character vocalist and dancer, May B. Brilliant, an engaging comedienne and smart dancer, and Johnny Walker, comedian, also contribute successfully. The pictures are, as usual, entertaining.

Tivoli.—General-Manager, Mr. Chas. M. Jones; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—A capital variety programme is headed here by Ferguson and Mack, a pair of amusing comedians. Barney Armstrong and Kelly create much laughter in their comedy act, and Gracie Laun sings and dances herself into favour. The Brothers Lawrence are good comedians and smart dancers; Johnson and Hart are highly diverting as comedy jugglers and hoop-rollers; the Du Gros Trio are responsible for plenty of merriment in their comedy gymnastic act; and other successful turns are those of Eddie and Ethel, comedy artists; Ida Barr, actress vocalist; and Jack Pardoe, speciality performer. The Bioscope is also entertaining.

World's Fair.—Proprietor, Mr. Charles A. James.—The following artists are appearing here this week:—Charlie Coll, comedian; Flo Meeson, soubrette; Arthur Rosene, comedian; Will Emerson, comedian; and Layne & Valroy, comedy duettists.

DUDLEY.—Opera House.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—The success of this house as a picture palace continues, and another entire change of programme is being much appreciated.

Empire.—Proprietors, Midland Entertainment

DANGEROUS OLD FASHIONS

NOT TO BE FOLLOWED.

Old habits are often better than new ones, but not always. For instance, the old-fashioned method of cleaning the teeth and mouth with tooth-powders and tooth-pastes is a complete mistake.

Brushing the teeth with tooth-powders and tooth-pastes can never safeguard them from tooth-destroying microbes; for the simple reason that the parts which are most liable to attack, the backs of the molars and the fissures and interstices of the teeth—the very parts where the microbes live and thrive—are not purified because they cannot be reached by tooth-powders and tooth-pastes. Only a liquid dentifrice can penetrate everywhere, and when it is antiseptic it destroys all the enemies which attack the teeth. Odol is such a dentifrice, and has such a practical antiseptic effect, that it effectively arrests all bacterial inroads and fermentation processes.

The complete disinfection of the month and teeth resulting from the use of Odol is especially due to a remarkable property which this preparation possesses and which causes it to be absorbed by the surface of the mucous membrane and in the hollows of the teeth, so that it here deposits a store of antiseptic matter whose action continues for some hours. By regular cleansing with Odol healthy teeth are kept absolutely intact, and teeth already impaired are preserved from further destruction. For this reason Odol must certainly be regarded as the best of all known preparations for cleansing the mouth and teeth.

Corporation, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Robert Watt.—The celebrated classical artist, Nerigue, occupies premier position with a well-staged performance. Sybil Cann and Mr. Dick Francis, in new and original ideas, prove excellent songsters; Harvey and Jesson are well described as champion dancers; Robb Gilmore caused amusement with his eccentric songs; La Belle Greta is a pleasing and popular comedienne; Mr. X., a magical entertainer, gives a clever turn; and other enjoyable turns are Clare and Hamilton, in Uncle's Little Bet, and Sharon, street musician.

DUNDEE.—KING'S THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Manager, Mr. S. McIntosh.—Heading an entertaining bill are Will Lytton and company, in Harry Roxbury's latest production, Sergeant Longfellow, which is capitally staged, and proves exhilarating fare. Tom E. Finglass scores a great success; Edie Veno is a comedienne with a rare sense of humour; Vi Laurie, whether as a singer or dancer, is delightful; Leo Fields keeps the audience in hearty laughter; Cestria is to be congratulated on his diverting comedy juggling and his extraordinary tumbling; the Darntons present a refined vocal act; the harmonising and dancing of the Phœnix Trio are much appreciated; and the Kingscope pictures are excellent.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. J. K. Stewart.—For the last week of the picture season a fine selection of films is shown, the best of the series being Laddie, Mexican's Revenge, Plucky Russian Maid, The Jockey, and a particularly amusing film, Mulligan's Waterloo. The vaudeville element is sustained by J. H. Maddock, whose musical speciality, "The One-Man Bugle Band," finds great favour.

PALACE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. Tom Lunn.—Good houses are always the rule here. Some very fine coloured films are submitted, one of the most effective being that entitled Sandy, the Substitute, which depicts several thrilling incidents in the prosecution of Western law.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. W. Austin.—The picture programme here is an excellent one, and met with a cordial reception from two good houses on Monday.

DURHAM.—THE PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. T. C. Rawes.—An exceptionally good bill is presented this week, headed by Fasola, whose mysterious performance is much enjoyed; Dan Whitley, comedian, received a warm welcome; and the return visit of the Lannons is well appreciated; Clown Panlo and his pony Tiger prove favourites; Les Zelovas are loudly applauded for a clever acrobatic act; and Francisco, novelty juggler, receives much praise; the Sisters Terry and Arthur Albert complete the programme.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Murray King and Clark.—Mr. Alex. Maclean and company are appearing here in My Lady Bellamy. Mr. Maclean is responsible for a large amount of effective work as Sir Gervase Bellamy; Mr. Herbert Maule as Robert Tarfax has much to do, and he accomplishes it with point and emphasis; Mr. E. H. Brooke looks and acts well as King William; Mr. Arthur Layland is a distinct and individual Lord Crawford; Mr. George Lyttleton-Holyoake does duty as Sudwell; and smaller parts are in good hands. Miss Laura Leigh gives commendable help as Henrietta, Miss Mary Palmer is a sympathetic Queen Mary, Miss Margharita Gordon an appealing Mrs. Mackie, and Miss Maude Harcourt an efficient Mrs. Hemming.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Under the direction of Mr. H. Cecil Beryl a capital company is appearing here in Alice in Wonderland. Chief honours fall to Miss Ivy Sawyer, who sings pleasantly, acts prettily, and dances brightly; Miss Ada Danks, with a very sweet voice, is a most effective Fairy and Lily; Miss Girlie Le Claire is a very interesting Cheshire Cat; and Miss Iris Damon and Miss Amy Fanchette share much praise due to them as the White and Red Queens; Mr. Frank Collins is an amusing Mad Hatter; Mr. Dan Leno is a nimble and expert dancer, and a laughter-making caterpillar and Red King; two very clever and versatile comedians are Mr. Roland Henry and Mr. Tom Graves, who as Tweedledum and Tweedledee are big factors in the general merriment. The chorus is deserving of a special word of praise. Mr. A. H. Benwell is the musical director.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; Acting-Manager, Mr. B. F. Woodward.—Heading a capital bill here are Mr. Percy Honri and his fine company in Concordia. The beautiful and elaborate staging, with the particularly clever work of Mr. Honri as actor, singer, and musician, make this fanciful act amongst the finest of its kind; the Hyde-Cody Trio combine clever fun with some smart and agile tumbling; Miss Kessanley's fox terriers are excellently trained and willing workers; Andrews and Thompson sing very artistically; the musical Bentleys are clever musicians; Mr. Harry Tomps is an amusing comedian; and the Five May Girls dance and sing in capital style.

ECCLES.—CROWN THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert Rogers.—Mr. Raynor's repertoire company is paying its eleventh visit to this theatre. Three plays are presented, viz.: His Excellency the Governor, The Tree of Knowledge, and A Cigarette Maker's Romance. In the first named, Mr. Raynor plays Sir Montague Martin with amusing sangfroid, and is as successful as of yore; Mr. Charles Brandon is a capital Henry Carlton, M.P.; as Captain Charles Carew Mr. Milton C. Curtis is excellent; another favourite, Mr. Joseph B. Montague, is delightful in the character of Mr. John Baverstock; Miss Cecilia Dare as Stella de Gex proves herself as charming and fascinating as ever; Miss Frances Waring as Ethel Carlton acts naturally; and Miss Hilda Blanche as Mrs. Wentworth Bollingbroke lends capable assistance.

EDINBURGH.—ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie. — Mr. William Mollison and company entered upon the closing week of their engagement in Rob Roy last Monday evening. The presentation of the popular play has been marked by many excellent features, notably the fine performance of Bailie Nicol Jarvie by Mr. Mollison. The character is depicted with a wealth of humour and convincing naturalness, and in his impersonation the actor sustains his high reputation for artistic work. Mr. Seth Hughes as Francis and Miss Eda Bennie as Diana have introduced new ballads which owe much to the singer's admirable rendering. The regrettable indisposition of Mr. John Clyde has afforded the opportunity to a sound actor, Mr. W. J. Robb, to give a careful performance of the title-part; and capital work is done by the remaining members of the large cast.

KING'S THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Amand Mascard.—The week's bill has been agreeably diversified in a manner very suitable for a summer evening's entertainment. Emerson and Baldwin, expert American juggling comedians, give a clever exhibition of their skill; and the Sauteron Wonders appear in an excellent turn of comedy specialities; while Tom Ardel and Frank Odell keep the house in a continuous roar of laughter with a sketch entitled Quarter to Nine; and Clara Coverdale's Nine Dainty Dots are quite fascinating in their pretty vocal scena, The Gipsies' Revels. Buval is exceedingly happy and skilful as a concertina player; Zethus excels as a cornet soloist and mimic; Miss Maud Beaumont is popular as a burlesque actress and chorus vocalist; Jack Hayton figures successfully as a comedian; J. H. McCann displays marvellous agility as an acrobatic roller-skate dancer; and attractive pictures are shown by the King's Bioscope.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—Horace Hunter and company take the lead here this week, carrying off first honours for an admirable performance of the sensational tabloid drama Under Suspicion. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lucas are also prominent amongst the good things in the bill, with their able renderings of scenes from Dickens; Woodhouse and Wells introduce some clever dancing into their smart patter turn; and Binns and Binns are clever and entertaining in comedy and music. Mr. Harry Lamore, deputising for Maxey and Pete, unable to appear through indisposition, is droll in a versatile turn, which includes comic conjuring, juggling, and wire-walking; Lindon Lang pleases with his illustrated songs; Alcide Capitaine is graceful in a daring gymnastic act; Carrie Laurie's Miniature Comedians make merry as the "Belles of the Kitchen"; and the American Bioscope exhibits very interesting pictures.

OPERETTA HOUSE.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. J. H. Sanders.—In Old California, a remarkable film representing past days of American military life, and a masterly piece of photographic work entitled The Mountain Inn, are two of the prominent pictures in this week's programme. Information is pleasantly conveyed by an interesting series, Romance of Insect Life; and humorous pictures with laughable episodes are shown.

PRINGLE'S PICTURE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Edmunds.—A series of clever and vigorous pictures, In the Frozen North, brings before the spectators in a vivid manner regions which are closed to all but the most daring explorer; and views of life in a widely different sphere are shown in a realistic Spanish scene, The Toreador. Other pictures full of "go," incident, and humour are displayed; and Miss Cissie Norton, a smart male impersonator, gives various sketches.

MARINE GARDENS.—Manager, Mr. G. B. Smith.—Strong extra attractions are provided here this week by the watchful enterprise of the management. Captive balloon ascents by Captain Spencer, accompanied by passengers, and parachute descents by Captain John Macdermott, are among the latest open-air sensations; and Mr. John Ridding's opera company give excellent performances both afternoon and evening in the concert hall, where Maritana, The Daughter of the Regiment, Fra Diavolo, and other popular operas have been artistically produced. The band of H.M. 1st Life Guards have occupied the Band Court, their rendering of well-varied selections being increasingly popular; and on Wednesday special massed band performances in commemoration of Waterloo were given by a number of military bands, all under the direction of Mr. George Miller, L.R.A.M. The great billiard match between Inman and Aiken commences next week.

EXETER.—NEW HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fredk. Sandy.—Jay Laurier's reception here must be very gratifying to the artist; the Norman and Leonard Trio, in their musical sketch, The Itinerant, are exceedingly popular; Sibbon's Cats surprise the houses by their wonderful training and feats; Chas. Wilson, the champion all-round jumper of the world, is enthusiastically applauded; Ruby Royd does well in song and dance; and a bit of sparkling fun is provided by the farcical episode Ten Minutes, by Alf Wood and company.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Mr. W. W. Kelly's full and efficient company worthily presented the historical play A Royal Divorce here on Monday. Napoleon is taken by Mr. Frederick Moyes, an actor of power and popularity, and Miss Violet Ellicott as Josephine is most impressive. Miss Winnie Tempest supplies a careful interpretation of Marie Louise; Miss Dorothy Garth is a fascinating Stephanie; Mr. Ernest Plumpton is seen to advantage as Augereau; Mr. George Hudson is an admirable Grimaud; Mr. J. H. Roberts a distinctly good Talleyrand; and Mr. Charles Stirling as the Marquis de Beaumont is all that can be desired. The little King of Rome is ably depicted by Miss Dorothy Hudson, and Messrs H. Arnold Allen and W. Robins do well as Marshal Murat and Doctor Corvisart.

LEAS PAVILION.—Mr. D'Arcy Clayton.—A treat that is being well appreciated is the engagement of the Chefs for this week. Miss Dollie Eales expressively sings her songs, and Miss Christine Garden, Mr. J. Wallingford Tate, Mr. Harry Jackson, and Mr. J. M. Browing are quite good.

GATESHEAD. — KING'S THEATRE. — Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Local Manager and Licensee, Mr. Sydney B. Stringer.—Twelve most wonderful illusions are being presented here this week by Mephisto, who is a successful "star." Joe Almasio is both clever and amusing as a jumping juggler; Cavalli's humour makes him a most entertaining ventriloquist; the Hudsons in a comedy act score heavily; a dainty little dancer is Kathleen Cogan; Bruce Green gives admirable point to some new jokes; Harris Coonie is a particularly smart dancer; and the Bioscope is responsible for two interesting items.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Dixon.—Tommy Atkins is the play presented by Mr. Bolam's stock company here this week. Mr. Stanley Bedwell ably fills the rôle of Capt. Maitland; Harold Wilson is well looked after by Mr. J. B. Shinton; Mr. Bert Atherton as Paddy Malloy raises much laughter; a charming Ruth is depicted by Miss Ada M. Ryde; Miss Earle faithfully portrays Elsie Wilson; and Miss Brunnette is quite at home as May Maitland.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joe Bardsley.—The prominent films shown here are The Treasure Hunters, Louisa Strozzi, A Victim of Bridge, and The Love of Lady Irma. The variety items are supplied by the Three Rochesters, singers and dancers, and Adela Varcoe, sweet singer of illustrated songs.

RAVENSWORTH PICTURE HALL.—The leading pictures at this hall are Lieut. Rose and A Woman's Strategy; and, in addition to the films, is Jack Brack, coon delineator and dancer, who is successful.

BLACK'S PICTURE PALACE.—Thou Shalt Not and Western Justice are the "star" lines here, and the turns of Hector and Lauraine, grotesques, and La Clair, ballad vocalist, make up a fine entertainment.

LLOYD'S ELECTRIC THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. Morgan.—The Final Settlement, A Combat between Buffaloes, and other excellent films are being shown at this hall. Olivette, illustrated songstress, gives an enjoyable turn.

GLASGOW.—KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. W. Wyndham and G. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, pro tem., Mr. Percy O. Humphrys.—Theodor's Flutter; or, The Parents' Dilemma, a new comedy, with music, adapted from the French, is this week visiting Glasgow for the first time, and, with its amusing situations and delightful numbers, is making a very favourable impression. The cast includes three leading members of the Carl Rosa company, and even the lesser parts are all filled by singers of outstanding ability. Miss Doris Woodall sings and acts charmingly as the youthful wife of M. Moreau; Mr. E. C. Hedmondt suffuses the rôle of Plumeau with fine romantic feeling; the acting ability of Mr. Charles Victor serves him well in playing the successful merchant Durand, whose partner, Moreau, is amusingly represented by Mr. Bob Owen. Mr. S. Boulderstone is capitally suited in the part of Theodor; as the three dashing Hussars Messrs. William O'Connor, Schofield, and R. F. Matthews prove themselves accomplished vocalists; Durand's daughters are attractively portrayed by Misses Marion Broom, Annie Van Dyck, and Hilda Morris; and Miss Jessie Dolter makes a smart maid.

METROPOLE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—The Irish Dramatic Season inaugurated at the Metropole continues its popularity with the production of Irish drama. That of The Ulster Hero is praiseworthy, Mr. Fred Lloyd as the hero, Mr. Dan Clarke as Captain Fox, and the well-known Irish comedian, Mr. Tyrone Power, as James Hope, all doing well. Miss Annie Hylton as Norah Bodel drew the sympathy of the audience from the outset; and Miss Jessie Glenn as Rose Mullen, Miss Amy Wood as Mary M'Cracken, and Miss E. Graham in the ungrateful character of Mary Tomb, gave capable renderings. Special mention might be made of Mr. Henry C. Ward as James Hughes, Mr. M. Morley Carroll as Danny Niblock, and Mr. Kendrew Milson as Captain Ellis. On Thursday and Friday Green Bushes will be substituted.

ROYALTY.—Sub-Lessees, The Scottish Playgoers, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Waring.—On Monday the repertory company began the second week of the amusing Scotch comedy Oh! Christina. In impersonating Christina Miss Margaret Nybloe gives an example of natural acting that is very refreshing; Miss Elspeth Dudgeon as Miss Purvis plays delightfully; and Mr. Campbell Gullan must also be commended for his interpretation of James Baldwin. Mr. George Tawde is capital in the part of Jimsie McPhee; and mention should also be made of Miss Lola Duncan's able impersonation of Miss McIndoe and the characteristic study of Mrs. M'Leerie by Miss Agnes Bartholomew. The comedy is preceded by The American Widow, which is also admirably played.

EMPIRE.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. Manners.—Gama, the champion wrestler of India, supported by three lesser champions, proves an exciting item on the programme, conclusions being tried with the local exponents of catch-as-catch-can; good fun is provided by Bellew and Stock's company in Mortimer Magnus, M.P., which character is amusingly hit off by the diminutive comedian, Master Edward Garratt; another funny sketch is played by George Lestocq and company, entitled Very, Very Much Engaged; Yamamoto and Miss Koyoshi accomplish wonderful feats of balancing; a brilliant xylophone turn is given by the Five Vernons; H. O. Wills, the quaint comedian, goes well; Evelyn Stolt sings a humorous and a sentimental song in good style; a smart burlesque conjuring act is contributed by Cull Pitt; and the part-singing of the Lyric Quartette is very pleasing.

PAVILION, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Evan Good.—That entertaining eccentric juggler W. C. Fields causes considerable laughter; Albert Whelan, always a strong favourite, makes new friends; Henri Cazman's novel pot-pourri act goes well; Barnard's Mannikins; Captain Kettle, card manipulator; Natalia and Diana, gymnasts; Pasquali Brothers, equilibrists; L. W. Harris, comedian; and Beatrice Allen, comedienne, are other items in a good programme.

PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Rich. Waldon; General-Manager, Mr. Harry M'Kelvie.—Miss Victoria Monks fills the top position here; Carlisle and Wellmore are an entertaining pair; Burns and Bently are a smart pair of comedians and dancers; and Gus Barra is well described as an eccentric musician. An excellent programme also includes Peggy Monks, comedienne; the Prince Milner Trio; W. B. Raby, an original comedian; and Lambeth and Robertson, Scotch comedy artists.

COLISEUM.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—Lew Lake and company present a new sketch here, entitled King Nobler, which gives the artists plenty of scope. The piece is capitally staged and excellently acted. Fred Earle gets through three songs, and is well received; Cull Pitt is a favourite, and his attempts to amuse are successful; a flattering reception is accorded the Four Royal Scots, a quartette of Scotch lassies whose novel musical act is much appreciated; an all-round favourite, is Florence Yaymen, the coon caricaturist; Elton and Edwin are responsible for a classical banjo turn; and Miss Fanny Elton is a banjoist near the top of her profession. Gordon Brown, a youthful tenor, sings exceptionally well; Annie Fielding and Bert Hull again present Mixed Bathing, and their vocal efforts are a feature of the turn. The bioscope concludes.

GAIETY.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Dickinson.—The Bioscope programme here is attracting large audiences. The vaudeville programme is ably supported by Miss Ina Black, soprano vocalist, and Jack Linney, Scotch comedian.

PANOPTICON.—Proprietor, Mr. A. E. Pickard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Sinclair.—The attendances are this week quite up to the usual. The attraction is the exhibition of Dr. Walford Bodie's work, depicted by the bioscope. The programme also includes several variety turns, which are well received. Quite an attraction is Tom Thumb, who is appearing at the Panopticon Waxwork.

GLOUCESTER. — PALACE THEATRE. — Messrs. Pooles' Theatres, Ltd.—A capital picture show is given here twice nightly. Varieties are provided by Miss Kitty Woodford and the Vocaphone.

THEATRE DE LUXE.—Manager, Mr. G. Boulkwood.—The entertainment here is up to the usual high standard, and, despite the summer weather, good houses rule.

GOOLE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. Hainsworth.—A capital all-round programme is headed by Hal Croneste, comedian and actor vocalist; The Tymes are successful in the song scena, The Enchanted Clock; Nora Heaton is a charming descriptive vocalist; Mr. Cecil Terry, chorus vocalist, proves highly entertaining; Warren and Granville are amusing in a comedy act, His Brother's Fiancée; and Miss Vera Snowden, vocalist and dancer, is equally successful. Pictures complete the programme.

GRAVESEND.—GRAND THEATRE OF VARIETIES, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. G. Leslie.—A good company here includes Rapoli; Maudie Laurel, comedienne and acrobatic dancer, finds much favour; Geoffrey Crystal and Saville, in their musical duo, Jack's Jacket, are very happy; Will Conn, comedian, dances and sings well; Jennie Moore, in a musical act, is admirable; and the Three Langfords, in their smart speciality dancing, are much appreciated. The Edisonograph has some good films.

NEW PUBLIC HALL.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. R. Feaver Clarke, J.P.—Here we have the popular Picture Palace presenting some good attractions. Miss Madge Bryce, contralto, contributes some good songs.

GREAT YARMOUTH. — ROYAL AQUARIUM. — Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. H. Nightingale. —The Mummy and the Mumming Bird is meeting with conspicuous success. Mr. H. Hamliton Stewart gives a clever and finished performance of Lord Lumley; Miss A. Bruce Joy scores as Lady Lumley; Mr. Lewin Mannering ably depicts Signor d'Orelli; Mr. Charles Groves plays well as Guiseppe; and Miss Constance Barton is a charming Ruth Thornton.

GREENOCK.—HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—The chief attraction here this week is provided by John G. Brandon and company, who produce two well-acted sketches, entitled The Dragon's Claw and Sea-Dogs; Graeme Atholl fairly mystifies the audience with his cleverly-executed conjuring tricks; the Argyll Troupe of dancers received well-deserved applause; Violet Gardiner sings with pleasing effect; and Sam Thomson, comedian, is as popular as ever.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr. J. J. Bennell; General-Manager, Mr. J. B. Lawton; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. L. Clayton.—A capital assortment of new pictures is shown this week, the one of Life in the Golden West is particularly interesting, as also are An Eye for an Eye and As it is in Life. The others include subjects both attractive and amusing.

GRIMSBY. — PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—The romantic and mystic play, A Wrecker of Men, is paying a first visit. Miss Ruth Zillwood acts with striking force as the adventuress, Risca Mallinson; Mr. Arthur S. Pitt gives a vigorous characterisation of Jim Murley, the slogger; Mr. Arthur Robinson plays Guise Strange with success; Miss Gwendoline Talbot displays a charming manner as Doris Melville; Mr. Victor Rae is good as the mysterious Pharosaphus; Mr. Richard Bosco acts well as Railton; Mr. Edward A. Brooke as Ezekiel Isaacs and Karnaphus is equal to the requirements of the parts; and Mr. William A. Armour as Reggie Verincourt, Mr. Thompson Carruthers as Eric Melville, and Miss Lydia Hart as Vavasole Slopper also accomplish good work.

THE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. F. Verner Walford.—The miniature drama, The Girl I Love, is an excellent specimen of its kind, and the principal character is played with good effect by Mr. Fred Maxwell; Marstro and Mlle. Oretta give an attractive display of jugglery and equilibristic business, the lady being responsible for a remarkable feat of endurance; Fred Elton has some entertaining business at the piano, and his singing is highly popular; the Denaro Brothers are a couple of smart juvenile acrobats; Frank Harwood repeats his success as a light comedian, and has some good songs; George S. Melvin presents Scottish humour, and is a clever dancer; and Lillian Barnes is a contralto of considerable ability.

GUERNSEY. — THEATRE ST. JULIANS.—Joint Lessees, Messrs. Ed. Marris and Albany Ward; Resident-Manager, Mr. George A. Deighton.—Imperial Electric Pictures and Varieties continue here. Interesting and amusing pictures include a coloured biblical story, Esther, The Man, The 1910 Derby, and Californian Industries. La Belle Duchesse and her boxing stallions and leaping hounds give a wonderful performance; the Sutcliffe Family are high in favour with their clever acrobatic novelties; Knoks and Lee deserve praise for their Humpti Bumpeti act.

HALIFAX.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company is here with Her Secret Lover. Mr. St. John plays the part of Gilbert Seymour very well; Mr. W. H. Wilson is good as Captain Rose; Mr. V. Vernon and Miss L. Darlington are successful in the comedy rôles of Billy Burley and Jane Maria Wilkes; Miss F. Leslie is good as Alcia Royale; and Miss L. Walker is excellent as Ivy Seymour.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—Pictures are the main attraction, A Pseudo Lady's Maid, The Honour of the Family, and Up San Juan Hill being excellent samples of a good display. Tom Child, the prize tenor, is in excellent voice, and brings the house down. The Musical Howards are also a good turn.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—Tubby Edlin and Harry Roxbury's company are appearing with success in a laughable extravaganza, The Cowboy Millionaire; Broughton and Creedon give a refined vocal and instrumental scena; Ethel Entwistle is a charming young vocalist with a sweet and sympathetic voice; Dene and Dixon are successful in their entertainment, The New Page Boy; the Unites, comedy acrobatic act, Harry Keeble, ventriloquist, and pictures.

HANLEY. — GRAND. — Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Arthur Rand.—The fine programme submitted here by the popular manager, includes Musical Silvo; Harry Rogerson, comedian; Rosie Archer, mimic; Dale and O'Malley, smart and original comedians; Mlle. de Rose and Hilda Claremont, talented vocalists; Beatie and Babs, who return to scenes of former triumphs; J. H. Hawtrey; and Le Roy, Talma, and Bosco, the star turn, who cause quite a sensation with their clever illusion.

KING'S.—Lessee, Mr. J. P. Moore; Manager, Capt. F. Shaw; Acting-Manager, Mr. Colin Hazlewood.—The chief pictures are Lieutenant Rose and the Spy, The Aviator's Romance, Invigorating Electricity, The One-handed Wager, The Mustard Plaster, and Little Blue Cap. Berton Hawkino and his clever monkeys, including an aeroplane flight, are causing a great stir.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Eric Fielding-Smith.—Minola Hurst and company, with their miniature marvels, is a joint top with Everhart, the hoop expert, and both go well; Happy Attwood makes hits in his funny parodies; Al and Lal are a good ventriloquial turn; Signor Persichine is an expert mandolinist; Miss Alice Hughes does well in her sketch, Star of the Bazaar; Miss Amy Bellwood is a good song and dance artist.

THE KURSAAL.—Manager, Mr. J. B. Wilshire; Musical Director, Mr. Julian Clifford.—A strong programme is headed by Miss Gertrude Bibby in her protean sketch, Bonnie Prince Charlie; Mr. Bridge Peters, baritone, appeared for three days; and Mr. Charles Fry, the well-known Shakespearian actor, gives recitals with music; Miss Celia Claud appears in classical dances; Miss Ivy Argove was engaged for the symphony concert on Wednesday.

HARTLEPOOL.—EMPRESS THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Maxtead.—V. Wakeman, humorist and mimic, scores greatly; Elton and Elma are clever on the horizontal bars, and also very funny; Paget and Clifford present a charming song-scena entitled The Chimney Corner. There are three fine bio-speech films, entitled His Chums, The Last Day, and The Twisted Trail. A Visit to an Ostrich Farm is a picture at once interesting and instructive.

HASTINGS. — PIER PAVILION.—General-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—Mr. Walter George makes a welcome reappearance with his talented troupe of vocalists; the "Smart Set" entertainers, who are accompanied by Mr. Edward Hutland. They include Messrs. Walter George, Edward Elliot, Charles Ross, Peter Delahanty, and the Misses Georgie Martin, Mabel Silvester, Kitty Farrell, and Lena Hutchings.

HEATON-ON-TYNE. — BRINKBURN PICTURE THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Thos. MacHarg; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. T. Edminson.—Linda of Chamounix is the title of the principal film here. Chas. Tempest, comedian, obtains a flattering reception.

HEREFORD. — GARRICK THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. T. Sidoli.—Excellent pictures are exhibited, the most popular being The Race for the Derby.

HOUGHTON-LE-SPRING. — GAIETY. — Proprietors, Messrs. Hall and Ainsley.—An excellent variety company is here this week. Carl Bennie, ventriloquist, gives an enjoyable turn; Miss Carrie Ladas, vocalist, meets with a good reception; the Rowntrees (re-engaged) appear with success in a new comedy act; and the Pictures are proving a feature.

PICTURE PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood.—The Paragon Pictures continue to meet with much approval, the chief items this week being A Millionaire's Adventure, The Ranch Girl's Legacy, The Little Blind Girl, and a realistic representation of The Sailor Lad. Good houses are the rule.

HUDDERSFIELD. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—A crowded and enthusiastic house gathered to give a welcome to Miss Elaine

VINOLIA
SHAVING STICK

VINOLIA lathers readily—abundantly. That is a consideration when you have to shave in a hurry—it saves both YOUR time and the razor's edge.

Vo 69

Terriss on Monday, when she made her appearance in the light musical piece The Pink of Perfection. The irresistible charm and freshness of Miss Terriss were admirably effective, and adequate support was given by Mr. Stanley Brett and the rest of the cast. Other turns are provided by Cromo and Hamilton, two very amusing burlesque artists; Louis J. Seymour, light comedian; O'Malley and Brown, comedians; Miss Dulcie King-Lloyd, a sweet comedienne; and King's College Boys, a troupe of good singers.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Herbert Garside.—The chief attraction is the presentation of Dr. Wilmar's spirit paintings, a puzzling and interesting illusion. Also here are Miss Blanche Marion, comedienne and dancer; Ted Waite, comedian; Vela, a comedian on the tight-wire; the Cedrics, comedy artists; the Belmonts, dancers; Sydney Brandon, presenting dramatic character studies; and Joe Belmont, an expert and sweet whistler. The pictures are interesting.

HULL.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Mortons, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Hull has again its opportunity of seeing Bernard Shaw's entertaining plays, You Never Can Tell, and likewise, during the week, Arms and the Man. In the former piece Miss Sylvia Dawson gave a very pleasing reading of the part of Mrs. Clandon; Miss Winifred Beach was a delightful representative of Gloria; the Dolly of Miss Ida Southern was distinguished by many bright touches; Mrs. Ed. Pearce played the part of the father with conspicuous success; the dentist Valentine was pleasingly represented by Mr. Graham Colmer; the Waiter was realised skilfully by Mr. Claude Haviland; the remainder of the characters caught the spirit of the Irish dramatic humourist to the full.

ALEXANDRA.—Morton's, Limited; Manager, Mr. James Morton.—The production of a drama entitled Paying the Price is noticed in another column.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. John S. Barnett.—Harry Roxbury, the well-known comedian, presents a musical absurdity, entitled On the Track, which is brimful of comical incidents; Oswald Williams, assisted by Miss Winifrid la Barte, continues to mystify and amuse with his wonderful illusions; Holden's mannikins are very smartly worked, their manipulation being perfect; Harry Herbert, comedian, with his quaint makeup, scores a big success; both novel and herculean are the feats performed by the Carmos, and the plaudits accorded were well deserved; Charles J. Johnson, the coloured comedian, and Conan and Doyle, smart dancers, were very much to the fore. Other pleasing items were Nellie Farrell, singer of Irish songs; Alice Maydue, comedienne; and humorous pictures on the Bioscope.

EMPIRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hy. Slingsby.—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Leonard present their popular comedy act with much success; a capital act is that given by that funny trio August, September, and May; Jack Rae has many admirers. Other popular items are presented by Chas Grantley, Clifton and Gibson, Will Harmony, Masie Kay, and Raynor and Esto complete.

HYDE.—EMPIRE AND THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wilberforce Turner; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percy Silver.—The Franco-British Picture Company is introducing a very fine series of films, which, with the interpellated songs by Mr. W. H. Deacon, receive warm applause.

ILKESTON. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albert Leigh.—A very interesting dramatic sketch is being played by J. G. Grahame, jun., and Zerlina Harrington, entitled A Daughter of Pleasure. Both artists possess ability of a high order, and are accorded a warm reception. The vocalism of Josie and Francis Gerard give great pleasure; the strong show of Paul Cavalli arouses enthusiasm; Andrie Romanoff is a clever violinist; and Irene Meldon, comedienne and dancer, Roy and Fenton, comedy artists, and Charles Dillion, comedian, also appear.

KEIGHLEY.—HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. Barrasford.—The Faust Operatic Trio heads the bill here, and their performance is much enjoyed. The Musical Marvels please greatly in their clever act; Johnny Dwyer, comedian, is a favourite, and has a cordial greeting nightly; Herne and Palmer do a clever comedy acrobatic act; Pueblo and Cropp are well received; and the Bros. Le Hais are skilful club jugglers. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shelley appear in the comedy sketch, Black and White; and Mr. Harry Elliston's company in a laughable sketch, Aunt Matilda.

JARROW.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Lionel Locke.—Messrs. Hinton and Green's company is here with Her Fatal Marriage. Mr. Jerrold Heather is a powerful Zaco Malleto, alias Captain Vigo; Mr. Colin Heather makes a manly Wilfred Grey; Mr. Gerald Byrne is quite at home in the part of Paul; and Mr. Percy Morton Wright is a smart detective; Miss Hilda Shirley is a capable Myra Malleto, and Miss Winifred Rutland a charming Lily. Mr. Tod Squires causes much amusement as Peter Pimple, and is ably assisted by Miss Laura Wright as Dolly Dimple.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr Edward Marris; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley Hope.—Mr. Albany Ward's electric picture programme includes the beautiful classical art drama The Roman and the coloured art drama Isis. The Will Elton Team are clever horizontal bar comedians, and Mlle. Sara's living statuary is an artistic triumph.

OLYMPIA WINTER GARDENS.—Manager, Mr. C. A. Barnett.—The afternoon and evening orchestral concerts are a great attraction.

LEEDS.—THE GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—The Italian Grand Opera Company is giving a series of performances to good houses. They opened with Cavalleria Rusticana and I Pagliacci. As Turiddu Signor Folco was much applauded; and the Santuzza of Signora Protti was a great success. Signor Vail and Signora Morlacchi and Signora Rocco were efficient in important rôles.

THE ROYAL THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—Mr. H. Armitage's company is appearing here in The Greater Love. Mr. Campbell Goldsmid gives a powerful impersonation of Paul Penfold; Mr. William Clayton achieves success as Jack May; Miss Marion Fawcett undertakes the rôle of Mrs. May; and Miss Violet Thorold that of the daughter with conspicuous ability. Other characters are ably taken by Messrs. Algernon J. Hicks, Henry Nunn, Harry Wren, Charles Conway, and Ethel Russell.

THE EMPIRE.—District-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—Mr. Van Biene makes a welcome reappearance in a new sketch, in which his 'cello solos are appreciated as much as ever. Anna Chandler created a favourable impression as a new arrival from America; the unique voice of Amelie de L'Enclos gained her much applause; Griff is as highly amusing as ever; the Delevines are here in their clever legmania act; Billy Hobbs and Alf Gibson gain a share of popularity; and Hans and Lux and Cissie Thompson also appear.

THE HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Dunford.—May Moore Duprez is a popular top turn here; S. W. Wyndham is a big favourite, as also is his protégé little Jack Marks; the Society Quartette and the Okadians furnish some good musical numbers; Les Ados, Joe Conway, Hughes and Elliott, and W. G. Wealse also are big favourites.

THE VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sam Jones.—A capital sketch and well acted by the Forestiers, entitled A Society Sinner, is the top of the bill; Pyck, Tholl, and Taylor make a good impression in their dancing act; Madge May has some nice songs; Win Wadham is a popular vocalist; and other favourites include Stewart and Morris, Leonard Bedford, and Little Ganty.

THE QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Bush.—The Great Raymond is topping in his mystical surprises. Supporting him are Les Grossi, Little Sunbeam, Ryde and Beeman, Fred Dunstone, Luella Cross, and Morris and Moore.

LEEK.—GRAND THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Leek Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. James Bibby.—The variety bill includes the Melias, vocal duo and dance artists; Martin Melia, comedian and dancer, is much appreciated; Nancy Lill, contralto vocalist and dancer, submits two well-rendered songs. The pictorial portion of the entertainment is good.

LEICESTER. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Allerton Turner.—An attraction of more than average merit is When it Was Dark, presented by Mr. Oswald Cray's company. Miss Lillian Harries is conspicuously successful as Gertrude Hunt, and Mr. Oswald Cray makes an excellent impression as the Rev. Basil Gortre. Miss Rosalie Notrelle is very good as Helena Byars. Others who also do well are Mr. C. Worldley Hulse as Constantine Schwabe, Mr. Edward Valentine as Sir Robert Llewellyn, Mr. Walter Manfree as the Rev. Mr. Byars, and Miss Madaline Grande as Gracie Goldeye. The play is well staged.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. S. Buccleuch.—A fine programme is headed by Mike Whatten, whose songs and stories are given in an entertaining manner. At the other end is A. C. Lilly and company, in the military episode Drummed Out, in which Mr. Lilly is again a conspicuous success as Troop Sergeant-Major Usher. He is well supported by Mr. Fred Erskine, Miss Gladys Rose-Jones, Leo Lilly, Miss Alice Hamilton, Miss Kitty Kirwan, and Master Fred Thompson. A rousing reception is bestowed on My Fancy for her remarkably fine display of dancing in her beautiful scena, The Seasons; Bert Williams gives a clever and novel show as a ventriloquist; the Abdullah Arabs give a remarkable performance as pyramid builders and tumblers; Chris. Van Bern is an artist brimful of versatility and cleverness, whose comedy act is most enjoyable; Harry Marte scores a well-deserved success with his smart dancing; Ivy Voyce is an excellent contralto vocalist; the Sisters Kilner are entertaining acrobatic dancers; Freddie Welsh and Packy McFarland's fight for the light-weight championship is shown on the Bio.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joseph Lawrence.—The excellent bill here is topped by the Marvellous Days (Florence and Frederic), whose clever performance of the art of transference bewilders the audience; Josh Dixon, a really funny comedian, keeps the audience in a continued roar of merriment; Fred Colley and Minnie Scott are first-class comedy entertainers; Miss Elsie and her Cousin Bob are very good in their comedy acrobatic act, Amsty Bamsty; the Two Lees score in a new and novel instrumental drawing-room scena; Myrtle Grove is a particularly smart youngster, whose singing of "The Pierrot" and dancing evoke unstinted approbation; and Walter Read is an expert banjoist. A popular feature at this hall is the Bioscope.

EMPIRE.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Company; Managing-Director, Mr. F. R. Griffiths; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. R. Craig.—There is the usual excellent assortment of pictures, the two leading films being The Kind-hearted Employer and the Race for the Derby. Will Goodall, descriptive vocalist, is on another visit.

EMPRESS PICTURE PALACES, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. H. V. Horton.—The principal pictures in a goodly array are Ostrich Farm in Nice, His Last Burglary, the Welsh-Daniel's Fight, Romance of the Western Hills, and The Angler's Dream.

TEMPERANCE HALL. — The Midland Electric Theatres, Ltd., are exhibiting a number of beautiful nature pictures, which are real gems in the art of coloured photography. Other pictures include The Tree of Happiness (coloured), By the Danube, and In Love with Charcoal Jim.

LEIGH.—GRAND THEATRE AND HIPPODROME, LTD.—Secretary and Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Woolstencroft.—An excellent all-round programme is headed by Miss Marie Santoi and her Merry Japs, in a vocal scena, which is proving a huge success; Little Doris Druce is a clever juvenile impersonator; Burley and Burley supply a clever and amusing comedy act; Colquitt, champion jumper, gives a skilful exhibition; Beatty Bros., patter comedians, are very smart; Zenora, in a hand-balancing act, finds much favour; Tom and Edie George sketch artists, are very successful; Maud Rayne is a dainty comedienne; and the Hipposcope pictures are good.

ASSEMBLY ROOMS AND PICTURE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Barclay.—The Perfection Picture Company are presenting an excellent programme to crowded houses. Mlle. Zelda presents a neat and clever musical turn; and Mr. Wal Owen, eccentric comedian, is greatly appreciated.

LEITH.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Licensee and Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—Mr. James Garrow's Shilleagh and Shamrock and Boucicault's ever-green Shaughraun have had their turns in the bill here. In the first-named play Mr. A. W. B. Kingston easily enacted Barney Mulrooney, being strongly supported by the Bridget and Noreen of Miss Pauline Gear and Miss Kitty Thomas; Mr. Richard Ferris and Miss Doris Brookes as Shamus O'Donnell and Stella Austin played with their wonted fervour, and enlisted the warm sympathy of the audience; and Mr. Ernest Regent aroused due resentment against Godfrey Villiers. Mr. Jas. T. Dale gave a happy impersonation of Billy Bragg; Mr. Addison did well as Thurlan O'Cassidy; Mr. Percy Dysart made a careful study of Mr. Carrington; and Mr. J. W. Austin pleased the house as Sergeant Doolan. The cast of The Shaughraun included Messrs. Ferris and Austin, as Captain Molyneux and Robert Ffolliott, with Mr. Kingston as Conn, and Mr. Dale as Harvey Duff, Mr. John Darlison appearing as Father Dolan, and Mr. Regent as Corry Kinchela. The leading feminine rôles were filled by Miss Eleanor McHardy as Arte O'Neal; Miss Brookes as Clare Ffolliott; Miss Gear as Mrs. O'Kelly; and Miss Thomas as Moya. Minor parts were well looked after, and the popular play was excellently acted, and very favourably received.

LIVERPOOL. — ROTUNDA THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—Here this week we are having Mr. Junius Booth and company in Way Out West, which is being patronised by large audiences. Mr. Booth handles the rôle of Jack Hamlin in capital style and finds general favour; Mr. Millar Anderson plays Jim Hawkins in powerful manner; Miss Lilian Deane makes a charming Paquita; as Helen Masterman Miss Alice West pleases immensely; and other supporters are Messrs. Cecil Delavanti (Colonel Starbottle), Harry Bannister (Bat Masterman), J. Sanger (Abner Byers), and Charles H. Brooke (Ah Foo).

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—The company sent here this week by Mr. Wilson Benge to present The Eve of Her Wedding is, in several respects, above the average. Foremost is Mr. Louis Lingard, who interprets George Tremain with much effect, earning general approval; Miss Pauline Nanton does herself credit as the unfortunate Marvis Leverton; Miss Florence Zillwood skilfully presents the villainous René de Telle; Mr. K. Arthur submits an excellent character part with his Bill Groggins; Mr. Herbert Hastings deserves warm commendation for his picture of the cripple Jack Herne; Mr. Frederick F. Loyd's impersonation of Dean Clifton is good; and others who are prominent include Miss Sybil Hare (Kinkie) and Mr. Chas. Digby (Rudolph Earle).

KELLY'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's combination are here this week with The Sin of Her Childhood, which is doing good business. Miss Maud Warburton plays Mary Haysel in a truly sympathetic manner, and soon wins the favour of her audience; Mr. Guy Hastings as the Rev. Alan Grey shows high talents, his acting calling forth loud applause; Mr. Cecil Mannering is a powerful Stephen Haysel, and earns honours; Mr. Frank Liston makes a manly Captain Thornton; Miss Clara Santley is an effective Maria Haysel; a lively Hannah Spry comes from Miss Lissa Young; some excellent comedy is provided by Mr. Hugh Brady (Barney O'Reilly) and Miss Pollie Denville (Lizzie Muggins); and little Gladys Brittain pleases as Eric Dugdale. The drama is staged in acceptable style.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Manners.—In big type here this week is George Lashwood, with his budget of latest songs, which afford great delight; the popular Irish comedian Walter Munroe is received with much favour by his numerous admirers; A Sister's Love is a brightly presented sketch given by Miss Daisy Irvine and company; an exceedingly clever Risley act, On the Road, comes from the accomplished Kellinos; as athletes the De Wynne Bros. go through a remarkable turn; Rich Taylor delights everybody with his smart ventriloquial show; Elsa Brull and Arthur Hemsley cause great laughter with their sketch Fun in a Music Shop; the Sisters Tower sing and dance in good style; and Frank and Free have an amusing comedy act.

LYRIC.—Lessees, Liverpool Lyric Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—The recently inaugurated system of drama twice nightly has caught on here. This week Mr. Percy Norman's company are presenting the stirring drama A Woman Worth Winning. As Amos Pauloff Mr. Gilbert Standing plays with dramatic effect; Miss Lillie Lewis earns much commendation for her able Roma Pauloff; the rôle of Fergus Lovinski is in the good keeping of Mr. A. B. Mackay; Mr. C. W. Black proves a humorous Bertie Scribbles; and other worthy supporters are Messrs. E. Finlay (Borinski), Jack Corlass (Mashomoff), and Miss Ida Mackay (Katherine).

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—Principal here is Saige's animated sculpture (including Miss Marguerite), the really beautiful poses that are presented earning rounds of applause; Athas and Collins please immensely with their comedy act; the Four Ascots gain loud applause for their exceptionally smart wooden-shoe dancing; Harry First and company please greatly with the excellent comedy-drama The Matrimonial Fee; Smit and Smit cause much amusement on the bars; Rosie Elliott sings several numbers with taste; that merry couple Cedar and Elgar are as delightful as ever with their "In Dayes of Olde"; as juvenile Scotch duettists and dancers the two McKays find great favour; and the Athos Troupe of novelty acrobats and ball manipulators are given a hearty reception.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—For notice of the new play On the Shores of the Shannon see another column.

OLYMPIA. — District-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wighton.—The big attraction here this week is the airship controlled by wireless telegraphy, the show being under the direction of the inventor, Mr. Raymond Phillips, who is a Liverpool man. The invention has brought crowds to witness its marvels. Miss Clarice Mayne delights everybody with her taking songs, which include her latest, "George took me walking in the park"; Hall and Earle, acrobatic comedians, convulse their audience with laughter; The Organ Grinder, presented by Alicia Ramsey and Rudolph de Cordova and company, is an excellent four-scenes act, and affords every satisfaction; Grant and Stewart with their comedy of illusions "Phantoms of the Wood" prove an acceptable turn; Fatmah Diard, a soprano possessing a rich voice, affords much delight by rendering several numbers in true artistic style; Charles Mildare, comedian and whistler, brings his latest successes; Bob Pender and his troupe of comedy giants and dwarfs present a lively turn; and Aida Martine sings and dances in capital manner.

PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. George F. Slatter.—Heading the bill here this week are the popular Elliott Savonas, whose musical entertainment affords general pleasure; Callaghan and St. George have a neat little sketch, The Old Neighbourhood, into which comedy, music, and pathos are introduced; the Verona Troupe of champion trick cyclists go through a unique exhibition; Bertha Evelyn renders songs in acceptable manner; as equilibrists Zera and Zema are excellent; A. de Bessell shows high talent as a modeller in clay; the Three Aza boys have a refined singing and dancing act; and the little Vestos are dainty juvenile vocalists and dancers.

LLANDUDNO.—PIER HEAD PAVILION.—Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale's vaudeville entertainers are playing to crowded houses twice daily. At the top of the bill is the ever-welcome Charley Harvey, who keeps the audiences in roars throughout; he is ably assisted by Dave Laird. Jack Hughes contributes excellent bass solos; and Mlle. Benita is a soprano above the average. A. R. Sutcliffe is his usual self; and J. A. Tunbridge at the piano completes a talented troupe.

LONDONDERRY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Payne Seddon; Manager, Mr. R. E. Warton.—The cinematograph reigns in this popular house of entertainment this week, some of the famous films recently produced having been secured. The magnificent film depicting the impressive funeral of King Edward VII. occupies premier place, and was probably in large measure responsible for the crowded audiences that assembled twice nightly. There were a number of other first-class films, including a gorgeous naval representation with a dramatic setting and several "stories in pictures" both humorous and pathetic.

LOUGHBOROUGH.—VINT'S ELECTRIC HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brogden; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lindsey Edwards.—The Betraying Mirror, Soul of Venice, Across the Plain, and The Man who Could not Laugh are some of the best pictures here. The Canworths give an excellent instrumental and vocal turn, and are specially good with the banjo; Mr. T. W. Lenner, comedian, creates considerable merriment; and Miss Florrie Wright, comedienne, also appears.

TEMPERANCE HALL. — Lessees, Messrs. Welsker Bros.; Manager, Mr. A. Evanson.—The World in Motion pictures exhibited here include The Twisted Trail, A Deal in Broken China, Five Minutes to Twelve, and other highly-diverting films. The variety turns are Bob King, comedian, and Will and Nell, vocalists and dancers.

LOWESTOFT.—MARINA.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer.—Why Smith Left Home is drawing large and delighted houses this week. Mr. Vernon Sansbury as Smith does excellent work, and Mr. Eric H. Albury as the Count is delightfully funny; Miss Ena Eden gives a creditable performance as Mrs. Smith, and other parts are equally well treated. The mounting and dressing are good.

MAESTEG.—PICTURE PALACE.—Lessees, Poole's Theatres Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. G. F. Knowles.—Good houses still patronise the animated pictures exhibited here. A fine series of films include The Child of the Forest, False Oath, Pulp Mills, Quebec, Kidnapped King, and Curing a Jealous Husband. The variety bill includes Craig, Roze, and Craig, gymnastic experts; Hayman and Houghton, comedians and dancers; and Ray, Miles, and Ray, in a funny juggling act.

MAIDSTONE.—PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Ewart C. Potter.—Crowded audiences have been attracted by Mr. Neville Claude's company with The Girl from Kay's, the production of which reflects credit upon Mr. Archie Ainsleigh, general-manager, and Mr. Charles Leverton, the able stage-manager, who also plays the part of Mr. Chalmers. Miss Florrie Millington, in the title-rôle, is vivacious and charming, and her songs are excellent; Mr. J. W. Hooper as Hoggenheimer keeps the house in roars of laughter; Miss Rosie Burnett does well as Nora Chalmers; and Mr. Harold Perry as Harry Gordon puts in some effective acting. Miss Dorothy King deserves special mention for her clever dancing and acting as Ellen; Master Walter Pink as Pepper, the page, creates much laughter; and Mr. Baron Herring is a capable hall porter.

MANCHESTER. — PRINCE'S THEATRE. — Proprietors, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Lee.—By arrangement with Mr. Charles Frohman, Are You a Mason? is staged here this week. It is well acted by a very good company, who are headed by Mr. William Lockhart, a capital comedian, as Amos Bloodgood, whose work is well matched by that of Miss Agnes Maude as his wife, Caroline; Mr. Howard L. Tracey as Frank Perry and Mr. Archie Selwyn as George Fisher contribute greatly to the fun; and Mr. Stanley Arthur adds an excellent impersonation of Hamilton Travers. Mrs. Bloodgood's daughters, Eva, Lulu, and Annie, are smartly depicted by Miss Grace Denbigh Russell, Miss Rennie de l'Estrade, and Miss Claire Townsend; while Miss Peggie B. Yeoman plays Lottie with distinction. All the remaining parts are well handled; and the piece is preceded by a charming comedietta, My Lady Help, which is also nicely played.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason.—Mr. Montague Beaudyn presents here the realistic drama For Honour and Revenge, which is appreciated by good houses. Mr. G. M. Montanini gives a powerful rendering of the important rôle of James Galston; and Miss Sidney Crowe's delineation of Maud Desmond is on a similar plane of excellence. Mr. Charles Russell as Harry Travers and Miss Netta Mitchell as Mary Galston worthily uphold the heroic interest; and strong on the side of villainy are Mr. Herbert Skardon as Sir Gilbert Redville and Mr. Howard Hardy as Arthur Redville. Mr. Herbert Woodin as Joe Reckitts provides much humour, assisted by Miss Madge Palmer as Nancy O'Brien.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—Alec Hurley is at the head of the bill here, giving his picturesque scena, Cockneys in Japan; sharing the principal honours is the popular comedienne Jennie Johns, in a taking répertoire; Robb Rossi, the Manx tenor, is an enjoyable turn; and entertaining items are contributed by Captain Ellis and Son, expert musicians; Burt Ward, comedy whistler and raconteur; the Cromwells, in their unique juggling act; the Three Favourites, in vocal burlesque; and the Harringtons, comic jugglers and speciality artists.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hearn.—Lewis Gilbert and company are playing here twice nightly in A Daughter of the Sea. Miss Florrie Green as Sunshine acquits herself well, and is a very attractive young actress; Mr. Gilbert acts powerfully as the rascally Mark Glensdale; and valuable support is rendered by Mr. R. H. West as Captain Ben Morrison and Mr. Roy Denman as Ken Moreland; while Miss Allyce Wyllyams, Mr. Jo Monkhouse as Billy, and Mr. Cyril Craven as Jack Strong brighten the play with their clever humour.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Brearley.—The well-known military drama Two Little Drummer Boys, played by Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company, is drawing good houses here. Mr. Edward Bikker is seen in his original part of General Kingsley, a good impersonation; Mr. J. L. Leigh makes a capital hero as Captain Carsdale, admirably supplemented by Miss Violet Langley as Alma Kingsley; Mr. Polson Turner is excellently placed as the villainous Captain Darrell, assisted by Mr. Carl Kerzo as Lieutenant Kingsley; and a fine piece of acting is added by Miss Ada Champion as the drunken Margaret Rivers. Miss Maggie English and Miss Maudie B. Douglas cleverly impersonate the Drummer Boys of the title; and Messrs. Will Percy and A. Selwood as Quiney and Timothy, reinforced by Miss Patricia Connaughton as Molly, supply a considerable amount of enjoyable humour.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. R. Flanagan; Business-Manager, Mr. Albert Jones.—Miss Augusta Tullock and company are playing here in Judith. Miss Tullock plays the title-part with conspicuous success, and is well supported by an efficient cast. The staging is good.

KING'S THEATRE, LONGSIGHT.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. R. Trippett.—Herbert Darnley's company, including Chas. H. Bell, is top of the bill here this week in that musical absurdity The Brigands of Tarragona, and score a big success; Theo C. Le Gar's company, with Señor Angel Blanco, are excellent in dramatic playlet, Music, the Conqueror; and J. Wright Aitken, ably assisted, is excellent in The Battle of Life, a touching episode. Other smart turns are those of Harry Conlin, comedian, with good patter; Harrigan and Holt, as the inspector and the policeman; Harry Russon, actor-comedian; Fallows and Beaumont, in vocal comedy act; and the Gascoigne Trio, comedy jugglers. Pictures complete.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—The chief item on the programme here is the great fight between Freddy Welsh and Packy McFarland, shown on the Bioscope; the Gothams, harmonising vocalists, occupy the next prominent position, and are hugely enjoyed; while also high in popular favour is the nautical drama, The Little Stowaway. Clever turns are added by the Eight Lancashire Lads, singers and wooden shoe dancers; Phil Parsons, light comedian; Jock Mills, Scotch character comedian; the Northcotes, accomplished duettists; Mona Vivian, a smart juvenile comedienne and dancer; and Sylvia Du Barry, a refined vocalist, in an elaborate "Toreador" scena.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—Private Potts is here this week, well presented by Herbert Darnley's company, including that clever comedian Fred Kitchen as Potts, Mrs. Darnley as the Colonel's daughter, Miss Jessie Crammond as Potts' wicked wife, Mr. W. Wilbey as the Colonel; Mr. Jack Williams as Captain, and Mr. Harry Laffs as the Bugler. Nellie Wallace, as usual, is very funny, and is well received; Les Marco Belli are excellent as comedy conjurers, a novel turn; Tom Stuart makes a big hit in his clever impersonations, especially as the tenor and baritone vocalists; Les Frasettis, as violin, harp, and xylphone soloists, are delightful; Leo Tell, in new get-up, is good, as usual, in imitations; the Quaint Q's are harmonious comedians; and Frank H. Fox is a good vocal comedian. Bioscope pictures complete.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. J. Carter.—Highly popular here is Bert Coote, in A Lamb on Wall Street, one of the most comic of comic episodes; The Prince of the Dandies, a tabloid musical comedy, played by Flo Stanley's company, including Arthur Watson as Sprouts, is a big and attractive feature; the Lukushima Troupe of Japanese entertainers keep up their reputation for artistic and sensational doings; the Zigeuner Quartette provide a musical treat of a high order; and other good turns are the Lyric Mummers, in vocal selections; Metz and Metz, comedians and dancers; Rose and Challoner, comedy artists; Lily Palmer, comedian and dancer; Selby and Myers, comedians and dancers; and the Juggling McBanns, in a unique and clever exhibition.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Marguerite Dove (Mme. Renard), ably assisted by Edward Leith, sings exceedingly well in an operatic trifle, The New Prima Donna, and is well received; the Three Gelins, Continental comedy acrobats, are first-rate artists; Ford and Maxwell score with their smart dancing; Madge Beresford is a charming comedienne, with plenty of go; Evelyn Wickens, in pleasing protean vocal act, sings well; Annie Lang is a very dainty comedienne and dancer; Daisy Hicks, comedienne, sings nicely; and the Sisters Noel present a refined musical act. Up-to-date pictures complete.

HULME HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Dry.—Lawrence Brorgh, the well-known comedian, and company, including Percy Marshall and Olga Esme, are exceedingly good in farcical sketch, No. 9; G. W. Hunter scores a big success, as of yore; Jack McNeil, Scotch comedian, makes a hit with his clever dancing; the Three Delaries go through a smart performance; Baby Wolff is an accomplished child artist; and enjoyable items are offered by Purvis and Partner, in vocal duologue, The Postman's Knock; and the Lashmans, neat dancers. Scroggins Puts Up for Blankshire is an amusing film. Marguerite Broadfoote, comedian, did not appear on the occasion of our visit.

RUSHOLME PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Leslie; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Phillips.—The Gay River is the attraction here this week, excellently presented by Harrie Fawn, Edith Fawn, Marie Wilson, Marie Leigh, Felicia Ferman, Carrie Parrie, Reg. Manning, Ollie King (acting as deputy for Frank Dunlop, indisposed), Ford Roberts, Fred Merrie, and Ted Roberts. Musical-director, Arthur Parry.

BIJOU ELECTRIC THEATRE (Erskine-street, Hulme).—Proprietor, Mr. Thomas Morrison.—Much satisfaction is expressed as to the quality of the films exhibited here to large houses.

MARGATE. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. Edward Michael; General-Manager, Mr. F. Weathersby.—The stock company is presenting The Sleigh Bells, with Mr. Edwin Bennett in the rôle of Mathias, and Miss Kitty Bennett as Catherine, both characters being admirably portrayed. Other members of the company who merit recognition include Mr. Cyril Fairlie, as Christian; Mr. Sydney Feversham, as Father Walter; Mr. Philip Durham, as Hans; Mr. J. H. Smith, as Dr. Frantz; Mr. Fred Walton, as the Notary; Messrs. Reg. Cooper and Martin Morton, who take characters in the Dream scene; Mr. Henry Vigor, a Polish Jew; Miss Violet Ellesmere, as Sorel; and Miss Olive Duncan, as Annette. The drama is preceded by sketches of famous characters, very cleverly presented by Mr. Edwin Bennett.

HIPPODROME, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Mayall.—John Lawson and his company have been making a decidedly successful appearance in Humanity. The fight for life on the burning balcony and staircase between the husband—a part effectively played by Mr. John Lawson—and his wife's betrayer is a most realistic one, and the playlet arouses great enthusiasm. The Three Balsamos, in their comedy horizontal bar act, give a decidedly clever and amusing turn; and the Berg Brothers provoke great merriment in their really funny and smart act, in which they introduct their bumping bicycle; Stacey and Williams, cross-talking comedians and dancers, elicit great laughter; Vero Saunders, comedienne and dancer, gives a delightful Dutch song and dance; and Harry Harris, mimic and entertainer at the piano, takes off some music-hall celebrities with marked success. The pictures are entertaining.

MERTHYR TYDFIL. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee, The South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Albert Jackson Withers. — Ten Nights in a Bar Room, presented by Mr. Carthage Caldcleugh's company, is the attraction here. Principal characters are capably undertaken by Mr. Alfred Goddard as Joe Morgan, Mr. Carthage Caldcleugh as Simon Slade, and Miss Dorothy Haigh as Mrs. Morgan.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Manager, Mr. Israel Price.—The recent fight between Freddie Welsh and Packy McFarland shown on the Biograph is producing record business at both houses. Varieties are introduced by Bonair and Tess in a Japanese drawing-room protean scena; Kentz Brothers, comedy gymnasts; Dolly Vince, comedienne; Incemere's Marionettes; and Eric Valmore, comedian.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES THEATRE.—Mr. J. B. Barnes' company is this week presenting The Drama of Life. Mr. Graham Woods gives a finely-conceived portraiture of Harry Beech; a powerful interpretation of his bête noir is given by Mr. Archie Helsby; Mr. Sydney Cranston gives a humorous impersonation of Sir Dobson Wilde; a thoroughly interesting character study of Jack Lawton is given by Mr. Marshall Meade; Mr. Vernon Dalby makes the most of his opportunities as Dave Crane. Miss Pattie Hastings invests the part of Sylvia Beech with grace and sympathy; Miss Alice Oliver scores as Lady Wilde; Miss Bessie Chetwyn is a winning Master Beech.

PICTURE HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. W. H. Melton.—The leading pictures this week are:—Scenes in the Life of King Edward VII., The Memento, Life History of a Butterfly, Little Chickweed Seller, &c.

MIDDLESBROUGH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Imeson.—Mr. Walter Steele's company present with success A Fast Life, in which Mr. Steeles capably sustains the character of John Dixon, the bank manager. The other characters have been judiciously placed, and the drama is well staged. A number of songs and dances are introduced, and are much appreciated.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles G. Rembges.—Mr. John Tiller's vocal and spectacular ballet In Japan is a pronounced success; the Mystic Hussars give an entertaining turn; a clever and neat statue-juggling show is presented by the Schmettons; the Eight New Cocktails are good vocalists and dancers; Matthews and Mann, operatic vocalists; Friesland Serenaders, in an enjoyable act; Ned Graydon, comedian

Twelve Forget-Me-Nots, song and dance artists; Mozzetto, juggler; and the Empire pictures complete a capital programme.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. S. T. Smurthwaite.—Pictures continue to draw well at the Hippodrome.

NEATH.—PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Brogden; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Noice; Musical-Director, Mr. Chas. Thorne.—A good all-round programme is placed before Palace patrons this week. Toreador is a picture of a stirring nature, dealing with life in Spain. A very instructive subject is Industries in California. A pretty domestic story is told in How Life Changes.

NELSON.—PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Benson.—A bright and pleasing programme is headed by Henry Kemble and company, in a new and original musical sketch, entitled The Gay Countess. The company includes twenty-six performers, with Miss Josie Farrington in the title-rôle and Mr. Walter Dale as Mr. Marmaduke. A capital farce, A Dotted Crotchet, is presented by Bob Selvidge and Poppy Holland; and the performance of Francesca, vocal chameleon, was greatly appreciated. The bill also includes Atilla Bros., in their Olympian fights, wrestling, and physical poses; Rhoda Lytton and Nora Silva, operatic vocalists; and Winona and King, in a sensational shooting act; and Seymour and Mead, comedy duo.

NEW BRIGHTON.—WINTER GARDENS.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Jones and Douglas.—Crowded houses are receiving the excellent programme with every sign of approval. Mr. Harry Pleon gives some very clever impersonations; and Miss Fanny Wentworth has scored a great success with her songs and sketches at the piano. Mr. Coleman Davies and Miss Eunice Udall have a bright and funny little sketch entitled The Grumbler. Mr. C. Clifford charms everybody with his harp solo; and Mr. W. Penn, a good comedian; Mr. W. Nosam, excellent coon vocalist; the Al Quartette, sweet singers; and Miss Rosa Tilley, complete the bill. The pictures are first-class.

TOWER.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. R. H. Davy.—The grounds here are now looking their best. In the theatre variety and animated pictures still hold sway. Mr. W. H. Atkinson is an excellent baritone; Mr. Arthur Lloyd proves himself a good illusionist; and Miss Kitty Kearns is an expert dancer and vocalist. The films are of excellent quality.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale.—Commencing this week, the management propose to give two distinct programmes weekly, changing on the Thursday evening. On Monday the following artists appeared: Mr. Martin Adeson and Miss C. Bernard, in a humorous sketch, Dr. Maud's Patient; Messrs. Morton and Bowman, in burlesque drama; Miss Ena Corelli, Mr. S. Raymond, Mr. B. Davies, Messrs. Hardwick and Gerratt, Miss A. Waldorf, and the Kohn Sisters.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. E. B. Clark.—A crowded house on Monday gave a good reception to Mr. Dickie Claré and company in Lucky 'Liza. Mr. Dickie Claré is the mainstay of the capital musical comedy, his eccentricities in his various rôles causing the audience to rock with laughter. The delightful singing and dancing of Miss Vesta Brownie in the title-rôle earns for that artist a flattering reception.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Manager, Mr. W. P. Wells; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. W. Kilgour.—Mr. Mark Sheridan, who tops an excellent programme here, is always assured of a hearty welcome in Newcastle, his songs and more especially his inimitable style of pattering giving unqualified delight to crowded houses. The Twelve Fezzans, Arabian acrobats of most bewildering and eccentric character, give a whirlwind performance of tumbling. A whimsical sketch by the Kirbys is greatly appreciated, and the Mezzettis, in a clever horizontal bar performance, are both clever and humorous; Miss Sybil St. Elmo sings in delightful fashion, and another turn of more than usual merit is Arthur Slater, the man in white. Other noteworthy turns are Amy Marsden and Carl Howard.

NEWPORT.—EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Albert Mitchell; Acting-Manager, Major Gallagher; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Percy Wilde; Musical-Director, Mr. C. Bye.—At the top of the programme is Ernest Shand, a great favourite here, and whose visit is very welcome; the quaint and amusing somersaults and tumbling entitled "Humpsti-Bumpsti," presented by Pipifax and Paulo, cause hearty laughter; Herbert Shelley appears in his well-known Irish protean play Dan the Outlaw, in which he displays a wonderful resource and versatility; Tom Davis's Trio present the sensational act Motoring in Mid-Air, and evoke considerable astonishment; Wood, Wells, and Wilkins keep the house in a roar with their farcical nonsense; and others contributing entertaining items are the Smythsons, Takio, and Kathleen Gray. The Bioscope picture His Spanish Wife concludes.

NORTHAMPTON.—TEMPERANCE HALL.—Secretary, Mr G. Skempton; Resident-Manager for Andrews' Pictures, Mr. Frank Lyndon.—The leading pictures this week comprise A Ticket-of-Leave Man, The Mexican's Faith, A Victim of Bridge, and The Message of an Arrow, with some good comics. Illustrated songs are furnished by Miss Margaret Payne, and are well received.

THE COUNTY ELECTRIC PAVILION.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Lyle Edwards.—Thou Shalt Not——, The Merry Widow, The Tree of Happiness, and some excellent Views of Stockholm are the principal films here.

THE PICTURE PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. J. F. Bentley; General-Manager, Mr. J. W. Borrowman.—The Price of Fame, Servants and Guardians, A Case of Identity, and Not Guilty are favourably received.

NORTH SHIELDS. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—The stock company is producing The King of Crime before large audiences. As Rónfarre Mr. Albert Sember is a decided success; Mr. C. Alan Hineson as Gandela takes full advantage of the opportunities afforded him; Mr. Edward E. Louis gives an able delineation of Simon; Mr. Ernest R. Allen proves effective as Louis Mascarot; Mr. Lonnen Meadows is very clever as Mick Maloney; Mr. W. E. Passmore makes the most of his opportunities as Taberet; and Mr. William Turnbull scores as Toto Chaupin. As Henriette Miss Kate Froude gives an excellent rendering of the character; Miss Fay Garnet Vayne as Mathilde is worthy of high praise; Miss Violet Cranford is good as Mère Crochard; and the part of Clarisse is capably sustained by Miss Effie Macintosh.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. William Mould.—The chief item on an enjoyable programme is Charles Chard, comedian, who, as usual, finds much favour; Annie Casey is an entertaining comedienne; Little Violet, terpsichorean artist, is a juvenile of promising talent; Raglus is a smart comedy juggler; and lovers of pictures are again well catered for.

NORWICH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—The cinematograph entertainment proves a great success this week, and the Lovelaces sing some pleasing illustrated songs.

YE OLD SPRING GARDENS.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt.—The renowned Jesters Troupe of Pierrots are doing well here. They consist of Miss Edith Brockley, Miss Marion Spindler, and Miss Winifred Channing; Mr. Fred Beck, Mr. J. Milton Hayes, Mr. Herbert Connorton, and Mr. James Saker.

THE NEST, ROSARY ROAD.—Messrs. Goodman's Pierrots are causing attraction here.

THORPE GARDENS.—Mr. Frank Lynne's Madcaps are doing well. The artists are Miss Margery Cecil, Miss Vi Huntley, Mr. Sandy Lawson (Scotch comedian), Mr. Digby Worsley (comedian), Mr. Harry Bostock (baritone), Mr. Francis G. Hurdle (solo pianist), and Mr. Bert Gordon (comedian).

NOTTINGHAM. — GRAND THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. Harry J. Crane.—The Ticket-of-Leave Man is drawing good audiences this week. Mr. Otto Minster plays Bob Brierly with intense earnestness; the sympathetic portrayal of May Edwards by Miss Bessie Rignold is keenly appreciated; as the knavish James Dalton, Mr. Herbert Morgan is excellent; and Mr. Leslie Nolan makes a smart detective of Hawkshaw. Minor rôles are in the capable hands of Misses Daisy Meynard, Lillian Duncker, Violet Agnew, and Messrs. G. H. Asquin, Arthur Schipper, Gerald Venning, and Herbert Kenny.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—A return of the Craggs, with new business, is much welcomed here. John Humphreys and company have an excellent sketch in Ancient Britons; Tom and Marie Motramo fire off their patter to the accompaniment of laughter; Florence Curran, a young Nottingham artist, is accorded a warm greeting in song and dance; the Kratons give a dexterous performance in hoop manipulation; the Eight Empire Girls dance spiritedly, as also do Beaty and Blanche; and Pat Rafferty also entertains.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Miller.—Happy Holland, a bright little musical sketch, is capitally presented by Jake Friedman and company. Ferdie's Ma-in-Law makes an amusing piece as played by Arnold Richardson and company; the Zampas vocalise and dance acceptably; and Lucia Collins wins favour in her numbers. The Victor Bros. supply neat equilibristic feats; J. H. Greener's songs are well received; the Wedburns contribute an entertaining musical item; and clever dancing by Ciss and Will, comic songs by Charlie Gardener, and the bioscope, complete an interesting programme.

KING'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macpaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edgar O. Waller.—This week commences the fifth year of animated pictures, and some excellent examples are shown, including The Three Brothers, a humorous subject; The Rocky Road, a sensational piece; and an interesting set of coloured pictures. Mr. Frank Hearnshaw sings a couple of songs in robust style.

VICTORIA ELECTRIC PALACE.—A specially prepared film of scenes in Northern Italy takes the place of honour this week, the exquisite colouring of trees, lakes, houses, and snow-capped mountains calling for unstinted praise.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietors, Theatre and Entertainments Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Brown.—My Irish Molly is presented by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stuart's company. Mr. C. St. John Medley gives an excellent portrayal of Dennis; Mr. Gordon Robey's presentation of the villainous Captain Vere is a creditable piece of work. Mr. Edwin Firth as Tim Dolan ably assists the Captain; Mr. Harry Liston does excellent service as Father McGuire; Mr. Karl Edwards as Billy is a great success, his songs "The Cabman's Dream" and "My Little Coster Kid" meeting with well-merited approval; Miss Elma C. Turner is an admirable Lady Blanche; Miss Katie Norris as Sally creates plenty of fun; Miss Winifred Stuart, in the title-rôle, captivates the audience with her charming manner.

OLDHAM. — COLOSSEUM THEATRE. — General-Manager, Mr. Wm. Eastwood.—Messrs. O. Silverstone and H. Wright's company is here with The Nihilist. Miss Florry Kelsey as Princess Olga gave a well-balanced delineation; Miss Edna Clare as Alexina portrayed the part in a forcible manner; little Minnie Halstan as Little Alexina filled the part with credit; Mr. O. Silverstone as Lieut. Prince Alexander made a capable villain; Mr. Geo. Mitchell as Ivan Nowasky acted in a decisive manner; Miss Jessica Ford as Katrina Lindoff and Mr. H. Wright as Bobbie Smart caused much hearty laughter; Mr. Cowell Clarke as Karl Orloff was successful; and Mr. C. Newton Buckland as Pierrtree Petoff did good work.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—The Stowaway, played by Miss Winifred Maude and company, is the attraction here. Mr. Victor du Cane as Dicky Dials, the stowaway, acts cleverly; Miss Maude as Althea Dale acts in a charming manner; Miss Minnie Millwarde plays the part of Chuckey in a lively manner; Mrs. Wingold Lawrence is capital as Florence Etherington; and Chas. Etherington is well played by Mr. Morris Maud. Job Hickey finds an able exponent in Mr. Harold Heath; Mr. Wm. Vane makes a manly Tom Inglis; and Mr. Walter Ernest an excellent Paul Inglis.

ROYAL THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Kilrow.—The top-liner is a fine picture entitled Julia Colonna; The Tree of Happiness is another good one; Mr. Roger Alwyn contributes a finely-illustrated song.

HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. King.—On the Border Line is a capital dramatic film; and a second portion of the late King's Funeral is shown. Mr. King contributes "Red Wing" with success.

BROWN'S ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Brown.—The Shepherd Dog is a fine film, and is cleverly acted; The Sweets of Forgiveness is a picture of a pathetic nature; and the programme also includes other pictures of much interest.

OSBORNE HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Hughes.—A Father's Mart and The Rivals are a couple of well-acted dramas, and the tragic side of poverty is depicted with force in How to Live Poor Dine in Paris.

OXFORD.—NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. C. C. Dorrill; Assistant-Manager, Mr. G. T. Lucas.—Miss Horniman's company is here this week with Candida, which has met with a very cordial reception. Mr. Henry Austin plays the part of the Rev. James Morell with distinct success; Mr. E. Gandor is admirably suited as the contractor; Mr. Iden B. Payne gives a clever representation of Eugene Marchbanks; Miss Darragh captivates all by her sweet and lovable Candida; and Miss Ada King repeats her successful representation of the Typewriter. Candida was preceded by Makeshifts, a clever curtain-raiser, admirably played by Messrs. Leonard Mudie, Charles Bibby, and the Misses Muriel Pratt and Louise Holbrook. During the week Widowers' Houses, Cupid and Commonsense, and The Silver Box are billed for performance.

EAST OXFORD THEATRE.—Lessees, East Oxford Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Stuart.—After a long interval Miss Ada Wallis and company are here with The Major. Mr. T. C. McQuin portrays Major Barney O'Neale with just the same brightness and vigour as of yore, whilst the responsible part of Jeremiah Stoney is allotted to Mr. J. W. Groves, who does it full justice. Mr. Evelyn Davis plays George Goodman with effect, and Mr. Fred Draper does well as Ezekiah Stoney. Miss Ethel Tooney works earnestly as Mrs. Gampney; Miss Mercia Davis is a success as Grace Gampney; and Miss Ada Wallis plays with her customary animation as Angelina Touch-'em-Up."

PEMBROKE DOCK.—Crecraft's Electric Bioscope Theatre is paying a fortnight's return visit here, with good results. Dizart, the handcuff king, is a great attraction, and there is an excellent range of films. Special performances have been given to the old-age pensioners of the town, and on Tuesday evening a benefit was given for the King Edward VII. Memorial Operating Theatre of the Victoria Nurses' Home, Pembroke Dock.

PENTRE.—TIVOLI.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Will Stone; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Gunn.—The world-famous Kiltie's Band is drawing crowded houses here with an attractive programme. Under the conductorship of Mr. Albert Cook the band contributes excellent selections, which are heartily applauded. The Male Choir, headed by J. C. Lockhart—a pleasing tenor—renders suitable glees; the Clan Johnstone Troupe of pipers and dancers; Bert Daniels, cornet virtuoso; and Angus McAlpine, a talented baritone, contribute successfully.

WORKMEN'S HALL.—Manager, Mr. H. Salway.—The Open Gate, The Little Page, and In the Shadow are the most popular of a strong picture programme. Ada Tilley, Harold Wagner and company present a farcical skit with much success.

PERTH. — PERTH THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Aldridge.—In addition to a series of pictures, there is a good variety company this week. Mr. R. C. Note is irresistible in his songs; Miss Bee Smart, taking her name as her motto, captivates; and Miss Daisy Davenport dances herself into favour.

PETERBOROUGH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Manager, Mr. Percy Hart.—Yangar, the West African wonder, in a series of problems completely mystifies his audience; Irene Velma is a good comedienne; Len Hale provides an acceptable turn; a clever comedienne and dancer is Violet Rosslyn; Phil Kaufmann scores as a dancer; Cliff and Kean are successful in song and dance; and "Gems of Academies," presented by Alice Hoodless, brings forth loud applause. The Karnoscope completes.

PLYMOUTH.—PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. J. Field.—Fred Karno's company in R.M.S. Wontedatania is starred. The comic business is effective, and special scenery is a remarkable example of mechanism. The Columbia Comedy Trio are capital comedians, and their harmonious contributions are really well done; Ryan and Hall create roars of laughter with some excellent comic wrestling; Edie Reynolds provides a tasteful musical interlude with her accomplished violin-playing; Collette and Derry score with their amusing sketch Pyjamas; Harry Bedford is a comedian much above the average, and Jennie Moore contributes some pleasing songs.

PONTEFRACT.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—The Carpertii Brothers present a marvellous performance on the triple bars, the double somersaults being above the average; J. W. Darley and company appear in a domestic drama, entitled My Dear Little Lancashire Home; Bert Woodward gives a versatile turn as a cycling coon with a musical act; Lucy Lind is a charming Lancashire dialect comedienne; Maclaine and Mac are responsible for the comic duologue, entitled Sandy; Mather and Bairn are droll comedians; Irene and Morton are a clever duo in song and dance; Ted Gill delights with his powerful tenor; the Alexscope depicts Cabby's Sweetheart.

PORTH.—PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Pooles, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. W. Bynorth.—Messrs. Poole's Myriorama is attracting crowded houses. Realistic pictures are presented, one very thrilling one being An Airship Fight. Amasis, the Wizard of the Nile, puzzles everybody, and the Bros. Rees are skilful military gymnasts.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL. — Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur A. Horner.—The Marriage of Kitty is this week being presented by Mr. Norman V. Norman's company. Kitty is naturally rendered by Miss Beatrice Wilson, and Sir Reginald Belsize is in the experienced hands of Mr. Norman; Mme. de Semiano has an effective exponent in Miss Vera George; Mr. F. Lock Whittaker does well as John Travers; the maid, Rosalie, has Miss Betty Stannard as her impersonator, and Mr. Norman Leslie is successful as Norbury. David Garrick was billed for Friday evening.

PRINCE'S.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Agate.—Mr. Wentworth Croke's company is here with The Girl of My Heart. The hero, Will Stewart, A.B., is forcibly impersonated by Mr. Ernest Owttrim, his foil being Mr. Henry Hare as Major Fulton. The name-part is sympathetically played by Miss Gladys Purnell.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Capt. E. H. Warren-Wright; Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—Miss Florrie Forde proves a great success in her latest chorus songs "Rip Van Winkle" and "Flanagan." Bert Danson is a comedian of excellent style and humour, whose song "Archie" is a hit. The Schichtl Bros. present a truly marvellous marionette exhibition; Roots, Rash Chemist, a screaming farce, is well received; Tom Garland is a clever ventriloquist; and other good turns include Leo and Roland, equilibrists; Bert Anderson, prestidigitateur; Nellie Lunelle, danseuse; and the Photoscope.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—Miss Queenie Leighton, an old favourite here, presents her entertaining songs in her usual finished style; abundant fun and laughter are provided by the Casey Army; Achmed Ibrahim's Arab acrobats fully sustain their reputation; Miss Ray Wallace's mimicry at the piano is appreciated; and the harmony of the Four Vagabonds is greatly enjoyed. Will E. Haines, Baby Boden, and Fred Lincoln are also in the bill.

KING'S.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Claude Marner.—The star turn here is Mme. Ella Russell, accompanied by Mr. Harold Scott; her beautiful voice and finished rendering of "Il Bacio," Tosti's "Good-bye," &c., win for her rounds of applause; magic has wonderful exponents in the Teuka Troupe; Coram provides a capital ventriloquial entertainment; Albert Le Fre has a lot of clever patter; the Heriot Trio appear In Father's Footsteps; and Harry Nelson, comedian, Rastus and Banks, R. A. Speedwell, and the Lily Goodlow Trio contribute acceptable turns.

PRESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Executors of the late W. Johnson; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Alban Newton.—The Vernon Bioscope films are still proving a big attraction.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank E. Burdett.—Harry Weldon tops the bill, and is as popular as ever; Lillie Souter is an exceptionally good character comedienne; the Vaudeville Trio, vocalists and expert acrobatic step-dancers, give a capital turn; Mitchell and Stoll, comedy gymnasts, in The Clever Tramps prove themselves decidedly clever artists; Smith and Gibbs, quaint and quiet athletes, perform some marvellous feats in a manner that fully justifies their description; Jan Rudenyi, in a dramatic little play, A Storm, displays wonderful powers as a violinist. His company includes Miss Hilda Stewart, Mr. Drew Mackintosh, and Mr. Mitchell, who are all clever. Louis Taylor's company appear in the realistic episode The Adder's Tooth, which is another exceedingly touching playlet. Mr. Fred Bromwich as Teddy Maddox is exceptionally good, and Mr. Hodgson Taylor as James Bannister, Miss Katherine Carew as Kate Bannister, and Miss Ailsa Lorne as Mary Maddox are all excellent. The Power of the Press is a capital film.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page; General-Manageress, Mrs. M. M. Clarkson; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. E. Clarkson.—Two shows a night is the order this week, and Miss Winifred Chalmers' company in the musical absurdity Miss Plaster of Paris is the particular attraction. Mr. Chas. Tolcher, a versatile comedian with a capital voice, is seen to advantage in the part of Numbskull Nobbs, J.P.; Mr. Harry Ed. Ray causes roars of merriment as Alexander, the waiter; Mr. Leslie Hawkins is good as Tom Flubbs, as is also Mr. Sid Dean as Mrs. Nobbs; Miss Celestine Brandon is a vivacious Eliza Plaster, and sings and dances with much spirit; and Miss Winifred Chalmers is a very chic Medea Hamilton. There is a pretty and sprightly chorus, and specialities are introduced by the Berlin Belles, the Sisters Holman, and Miss Celestine Brandon.

RAMSGATE.—ROYAL PALACE THEATRE.—Under the sole direction of Mr. Charles Evans; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry Bowman.—Mr. Arthur Leigh's company have successfully put on the last play of the late Wilson Barrett, Lucky Durham. The show is a thoroughly good one, and is played in admirable style by all. The part of John Durham, the millionaire, is a very attractive one, and it loses nothing by the way in which it is filled by Mr. Edmund Kennedy. Mr. Arthur Legh appears as the Hon. Reggie Steighton, and is soon a great favourite with the audience; Mr. William Calvert renders able service in the rôle of Lord Mountfallon; and Mr. Vallerton finds a really able representative in Mr. Charles Weymss. The other male members of the cast are all capable actors. In her impersonation of Helen Vallerton, Miss Florence Tresillian shows great charm of manner, and scores heavily; Miss Frances Wolviston is quite a success as the hard, matter-of-fact Society dame, Lady Mountfallon; and Miss Dorothy Turner made the best of the few opportunities provided by the part of Margaret Steighton. Miss Nellie Bonser showed to great advantage in her original part, as she played it in Wilson Barrett's company, Mrs. Durham, mother of the millionaire. Scenery and dresses are on a par with the excellence of the acting.

THE MARINA THEATRE.—A remarkably fine film of the funeral procession of the late King is being shown to crowded houses at the Marina. Other splendid films are exhibited, of humorous, dramatic, and topical interest. The Forsyths give a very entertaining act, the part of a mechanical doll being cleverly impersonated.

READING.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. A. Evans.—The variety season here is being well patronised. For the Ascot Race Week Verno and Voyce appear very successfully in their original vocal scenas, "Sporting Luck" and "Butcher and Baker"; the Soho Trio introduce an excellent vocal and dancing act; Abel and Welch are a pair of very droll eccentric comedians; Fanny Humber performs cleverly on the bells, and also gives a clever skipping-rope exhibition; Gillin is a very amusing ventriloquial humorist; Victor Travers gives a clever travesty of the Boy Scout; Maizie Hibbs is a pleasing vocalist and dancer; and some good films are shown on the Bioscope.

THE PALACE THEATRE is now closed for the summer.

CENTRAL SKATING RINK.—Owing to her great success, Dainty Daisy Mitchell is re-engaged for her artistic skating performance.

THE THREE LIVING PICTURE EXHIBITIONS are all giving good shows.

RHYL.—NEW PAVILION.—Lessees, Messrs. Baring Brothers.—Good houses are attracted by The Dandies' costume concert party. The company consists of Josephine Gordon, soprano and comedienne; Leslie Orme, light comedian; Ruby Lingard, contralto; Anthony Gordon, baritone; Chas. Matthews; and Stephen Fitzgerald, solo pianist and accompanist.

OLYMPIAN GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allendale.—A strong attraction is provided here by Ernest Ch. Gittin's company in "excerpts and condensations" of grand opera. On Monday The Daughter of the Regiment was presented, with Messrs. T. H. Wood, E. Ch. Gittins, J. Wheelan, Misses Adele Prescott, and Nellie Moore in the cast.

ROTHERHAM.—HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. George E. Smith; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur R. Hollands.—A very fine company is here this week. El Tampicos, Mexican troubadours, present a novel and highly finished instrumental, song, and dance act; Dave Samuel, Hebrew comedian, is amusing; Gertie Martini is a pleasing vocalist; the Four Scoreys have a warm reception in a musical mélange, introducing Palmyra, the elastic lady; Tom Gott is deservedly recalled; the Fitzroys (Fred and Lilly) are well received in a clever gymnastic act; Jules Kiaro is seen in a sensational novelty equilibristic act; and Howard and Collinson are most amusing in The Porter and the Parcel. The Hipposcope pictures are very fine.

RUNCORN. — PUBLIC HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. Hamilton and Hughes.—Another good programme is submitted this week, with attendant good business. Great attention is paid to the turn of Kirk and Saraski, who go through an exhilarating aquatic performance. Kingsley, handbell specialist, provides quite a musical treat; Wilson Blackledge furnishes an enjoyable entertainment; and Jack Ellis creates much merriment. The pictures are again most interesting.

SALFORD.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—M. T. Edward Ward's company presented to a good house on Monday Her Fatal Past. Miss Ward got much appreciation for her acting as Honor Symes; Gilbert Fernside was an excellent villain in the hands of Mr. Charles Yorke; Mr. B. Elliott made an ideal hero of Mark Desmond; very clever comedy work was done by Mr. T. Edward Ward as Jonathan Buckstone Nobbs, Mr. H. Macauley as Dicky Bird, and Miss Clarrie Yardell as Kitty Sprigwell. Miss T. Hallam did well as Belle de Lara; and Little Leonard was prettily portrayed by little Miss E. Entwistle.

REGENT THEATRE AND ASSEMBLY ROOMS, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. R. H. Lee.—George Gilbey, with his "Old Soar's Almanac" and "Constable Duffy," keeps the house in roars. Annie Schuberth, operatic artist, gives much pleasure with her fine singing; smart dancing is done by the Gilberts; the Empire Comedy Four do some very comical business; Daisy Morrell, comedienne, has a couple of pleasing character songs; and other acceptable turns are contributed by Charles Penrose, comedian, Nobby, a comical little comedian, and Molly Watson, comedienne.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; General-Manager, Mr. H. Winstanley; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. J. Boyle.—The Midnight Mail drew a good house on Monday, when Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's company commenced a week's engagement here. Mr. John F. Traynor powerfully sustained the character of Harry Steyne; the heroine, Mary Steyne, was cleverly portrayed by Miss J. Humphreys; Mr. Fred G. Evison played well as the drunken stoker, Billy Brewer; and Mr. Frank S. Strickland represented well the adventurer, Hassan Padisha. Miss Jeanie Weston as Lady Phyllis Eustace, Miss M. Longden as Miss Mildmay, and Miss Mildred Carr as Nancy Brewer, all did good work. The staging was very effective.

OPERA HOUSE AND ASSEMBLY ROOMS, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Shepherd.—Some pretty scenes in the Basque Country are shown, and the films also include The Lute Player, Old Stevedore, and No Smoking. Mr. Tom Sherlock's illustrated song is "Garden of Roses."

CENTRAL HALL, BLACKFRIARS-ROAD. — Proprietors, Messrs. Matt, Raymond Co.; Manager, Mr. A. H. Gilbert.—Romance in the Western Hills, Knot in the Handkerchief, Rubber Boom, and Marie Antoinette are among this week's pictures. Mr A. H. Gilbert also sings some acceptable songs.

NEW CENTRAL HALL, PENDLETON.—Proprietor, Mr. Thos. Whiteley.—Several good films here include the Late King's Funeral in every detail, Day of a Gentleman, Meta Dolorosa, and Broken Window.

SALISBURY.—COUNTY HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. Arthur Whitehead; Business-Manager, Mr. T Brinsmead.—Mr. George Brydon-Phillips' Company gave two excellent performances here of Our Boys. Mr. Ernest A. Douglas as Sir Geoffry Champneys and Mr. Frank M. Wood as Perkyn Middlewick were capitally portrayed; Mr. Orlando Barnett was a highly diverting Talbot; Charles Middlewick had a capital exponent in Mr. Cecil A. Collins; Miss Leah Marlborough handled the part of Violet Melrose in a highly successful way; Miss Beatrice Whitney as Mary was very sweet; Mrs. J. W. Braithwaite was admirable as Clarissa; Miss Lizzie Chambers as Belinda proved highly amusing without overdoing the part.

SCARBOROUGH. — AQUARIUM. — Secretary and Manager, Mr. W. Kitchingman; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Bench.—The Adras are exceptionally smart acrobats and head-balancers; Beatrice Bonnie and her dulcimer dancers are very clever; Learto provides an amusing musical act; and Clifford Morgan, baritone vocalist, is well received. Other acceptable numbers are Frank Stanert, comedian; the Maltons, comedy artists; and Leo Trainor, dame comedian. In addition to the variety programme Mr. Ernest Lord's Excelsior opera singers provide capital entertainments twice daily in the Indian Theatre. The party includes Misses Ona Ashton, Alice Singleton, Norah O'Malley, and Messrs. Ernest Lord, Harker Holt, M. Quinn, and Frank Crawford.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. L. Garside; Manager, Mr. F. P. Morgan.—The Outcast of the Family is being well played here by Mrs. F. Wybert Clive's company, with Mr. Herbert Bentone as Stephen Barry, Mr. Wybert Clive as Sir Henry Thorne, Mr. S. Leigh Courtney as Harry Thorne, Mr. Bert Oates as Richard Martin, and Miss Elsie Shelton as Ruth.

THE NEW HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock.—A good programme includes John Warren, illusionist and ventriloquist; Rozel, king of the air; and Elvio, Ross, and Elvio, in an absurdity, Jim, the Lady's Maid Burglar.

THE SPA.—Proprietors, Cliff Bridge Co.; Manager, Mr. H. T. Chambers.—In addition to an excellent show of pictures "The Gaieties," under the direction of Mr. Wilson James, are appearing here.

SHEERNESS.—HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. B. Parezeer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Julian Graham.—Mr. Leslie Stanley's company is proving attractive in the musical absurdity The King of Mystonia. The company responsible for its interpretation is good, and the staging and dressing highly commendable.

SHEFFIELD.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Closed.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. B. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—On Monday the domestic drama The Great Awakening was played here to a good house by arrangement with Miss Maud Hildyard. Miss Olga Audre made a handsome and dramatic representative of Lola Selby; Mr. Herbert Barrs distinguished himself as James Selby; amusing comic relief was supplied by Mr. Kendrick as Billy Brass, Mr. Harry Spenser as the waiter, and Miss Hetty Farrell as Selina Worts. Good work was also done by Mr. Andrew Esmond as Sir Henry Merton, Mr. Arthur Winpenny as Jack Merton, Mr. T. Arkinstall as Guy Logan, Mr. Chas. H. Mortimer as Captain Lambert, of the 1st Dragoon Guards, Mr. Arthur Francis as Richard Wilson, Mr. Harry Spencer as Dr. Lang, Mr. R. J. Turner as Gibbs, Mr. N. Gordams as a sergeant, and Miss Evie Conway as Molly. The play was effectively staged.

EMPIRE PALACE.—The Moss Empires' Co., Ltd.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—The bill here is headed by the celebrated musical comedy star Miss Ada Reeve, in her latest songs and society skits; and other performers this week are Harvey's clever boys and girls, in songs and dances; Margaret Parker and company in a sketch, Lucky Jim; Mr. Johnny Fuller in a smart act, "The Cycling Cat"; Miss Alice Kingsley, vocalist; Miss Jewil St. Leger, comedienne; Ike and Will Scott, variety entertainers; the Haytors, burlesque artists and pantomimists, in a laughable interlude; and O'Gust, imitator of birds and other familiar animals. Artistic films conclude the entertainment.

THE HIPPODROME.—The Barrasford Co., Ltd; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Poole.—Here are engaged the great Mirza-Colem troupe, in a novel and unique spectacular production, The Slave Dealers; Miss Gracie Whiteford and Mr. Fred Sinclair, in a laughable comic sketch; Mr. George Lambton, vocal comedian; Miss Lily Hayes, serio-comic vocalist; Mr. Shirley Liggins and company, in A Moonlight Serenade; Mr. Frank Seeley, comic vocalist; the Melbournes, entertainers, &c. The up-to-date pictures are loudly applauded.

CENTRAL HALL.—The Jasper Redfern Co., Ltd.—Mr. Fred Herbert, mimic and ventriloquist, is here, and the pictures, comic and dramatic, are first-rate.

SMETHWICK. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—Mr. Horace Stanley's company this week is on a

FASHIONABLE

WEST-END THEATRE

AVAILABLE FROM JUNE 26th,

- During Summer Vacation, for -

FIRST-CLASS TOURING COMPANY,

SHARING TERMS.

Apply Box 7873, "THE ERA" Office.

return visit with The 10.30 Down Express, now in the thirteenth year of its tour. Mr. T. Arthur Plummer is a praiseworthy Jack O'Malley; Mr. George Arthur ably sustains the rôle of James Inderwick; Mr. Edwin Clarke is most effective as Huntley Mason; Mr. T. B. Brabazon ably sustains the part of Cuthbert Leigh; Mr. Evan Roland does full justice to the character of Seth Coombes; Mr. Horace Stanley, a creditable Sam Wagstaffe, and Miss Kate Kilpack as Peggy Potts keep the humorous parts well to the front; Mr. Fred J. Seymour is effective as Bletherby Baggs; Miss Cora Linda makes the heroine, Bessie, stand out by the emotional quality of her acting; Miss Ida Fane is a funny Letitia Leigh; and Miss Stewart realises her opportunities as Olive Coombes.

SOUTHAMPTON.—Grand Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Weston.—Sir Herbert Tree and His Majesty's Theatre company appeared in Trilby and The Man Who Was on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. This was Sir Herbert's first appearance on the local stage, and he received a right royal welcome from large and fashionable audiences. Sir Herbert's impersonation of Svengali is admittedly one of his finest character-studies, and he was splendidly supported by Miss Gladys Harvey as Trilby; Mr. Edward Sass, a very popular Taffy; Mr. Shiel Barry, an admirable Little Billee; and by Mr. Henry Morrell, Mr. Nigel Playfair, Mr. Henry C. Hewitt, Mr. Walter R. Creighton, Miss Hilda Moore, Miss Grace Croft, and Miss Elinor Foster in other parts. The scenery and effects were superb.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and W. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Yardley.—George Robey, aptly styled the prime minister of mirth, tops the bill here. The Ten Genis, a superb troupe of acrobats, win golden opinions; Will Van Allen, the tramp musician, is as popular as ever; Rosie Lloyd, dainty and chic, quite captivates the house; and Victor Courtney, "boots at the piano," Ryder Slone, comedian, and the Sisters Allen complete a capital bill of fare.

Pier Pavilion.—Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Sait.—"Les Vivandières," a capital comedy concert party, under the able direction of Mr. Carl Fredricks, provide the entertainment here. Special mention must be made of the delightful dancing of Mlle. Cordelia, her kaleidoscopic dances being illustrated by powerful electric light effects.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—Empire Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. L. Pareezer.—Mr. Morton Powell commenced a week's engagement on Monday with Driving a Girl to Destruction, and is capitally supported by a powerful company. Miss Edith Wallis creditably portrays Ruth Wright, and shared principal honours with Maud M. Powell as a powerful exponent of Ruby Wright, who ably sustains the title-rôle. Miss Ana Corri was well suited as Madame de Meral; and Miss Eva Norman won applause in her impersonation of the cripple, Ned Chipples. Mr. Leslie Austin as Robert Ray and Mr. Walter Clarke as Lucas List gave capital characterisations; Mr. Henry Scratchard also proved an able interpreter of Octavius Screwe; while Miss Lilla Nordon, Messrs. Edward Swinton, Macintosh Clyde, and William Clements were amusing characters.

The Hippodrome. — Proprietors, The Southend Hippodrome; Resident Manager, Mr. Lewis de Burgh.—La Pia, the famous dancer, is the premier turn here. The programme also includes Tom Franks, ventriloquist; Onda and Artell, gymnasts; Leonie Dixon, comedienne and dancer; the Brooklyn Comedy Quartette; R. H. Douglass, monologue artist; J. Louis Bradfield, in comedy sketch; Three Orleans, humorous vocalists; and Herbert Rule, comedian.

Pier Pavilion.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. E. Angless.—A refined and pleasing interpretation of East Lynne is given by Miss M. Lowe-Dare's talented company. Miss M. Lowe-Dare impersonates the character of Lady Isobel with both skill and naturalness, and is repeatedly recalled. Mr. Burton Yaldwin makes a manly and powerful exponent of Archibald Carlyle; Miss Mona Maughan gives a delightful and dignified portrayal of Barbara; Miss Maggie de Halle gives a lively delineation of Corney Carlyle; Mr. Ernest Dare gives a capital exposition of Frank Levison; and Messrs. Frederick Morena and Walter Hicks as Dick Hare and Lawyer Dill respectively act successfully.

SOUTHPORT.—Opera House Winter Gardens.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Percy Hutchison; Acting Manager, Mr. George Clarkson.—On Monday evening Mr. Percy Hutchison and his excellent company opened the second week of their répertoire season at the Opera House with a capital performance of the society comedy A Country Mouse. Miss Cicely Stuckey essayed the rôle of Angele Muir with admirable and realistic effect, which won her unstinted applause; Miss Lilias Earle presents a clever and effective portraiture of Violet Ainsley; Miss Pauline Strauss enacted the part of Lady Sylvia in a highly effective and finished manner; as the Hon. Archibald Wyse Mr. Percy Hutchison played with a fine appreciation of the necessities of the part, his interpretation leaving nothing to be desired; Mr. F. G. Thurstans gives a good account of himself, and was very amusing as the Duke of St. Kitts; Lord Robert Wyckham was cleverly impersonated by Mr. Frank Elliott; Miss Mary Griffiths was good in the part of Mrs. Cropper; John Bowlby, M.P., had an admirable representative in Mr. Ernest Rushton; and Mr. Frank Hill did well as Jephcot.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. John Coulson.—Good houses are witnessing The Diver's Luck as presented by Mr. Andrew Emm's strong company. Mr. William Macready makes an excellent Martin Faber, being well supported by Miss Chrissie Bickerstaff as Helen Wyngate; Mr. Herbert Vere is good as Tom Hall; the comedy of the piece is strongly represented by Mr. Edmund O'Grady as Barney Bawn and Miss Edna Godfrey Turner as Peggy.

Empire Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Bridgen.—G. H. Elliott, the chocolate-coloured coon, had a brilliant reception here on Monday; marvellous electrical wonders are submitted by the Marconis; a mirthful and original aeroplane incident is introduced by the Brothers Durant, acrobats; Ivy Chandos and Fred Constable are seen to advantage in Fluffie; much merriment is caused by Mitchell and Cain as the Frenchman and the other fellow; and other good items are Wyndham and Kitty, in their sensational wire act; Phyllis Stean, comedienne and dancer; and the Bioscope.

Grand Electric Theatre.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Will Clark.—Two excellent turns are seen in Maud Lorette, impersonator, and the Glenisters, harmonising vocalists, assisted by Roy Lennard (the boy from the circle). The rest of the performance is devoted to animated photography.

SPENNYMOOR.—Cambridge Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. David Collins.—The fourth successive week of Mr. Frank Ayrton's season is proving successful, for a large assembly was present on Monday, when East Lynne was played. Mr. Vincent W. Carlyle portrayed Archibald Carlyle in a convincing manner; and Mr. Norman A. Overton gave a fine rendition of Francis Levison; as Justice Hare Mr. George Wallace was a great success; and the same remark applies to Mr. Frank Ayrton as Mr. Dill; Mr. Jack Harrell was well received as Ralph Wilson; and as Lord Mountsevern Mr. Fred Watson came out ably; Lady Isabel was impressively portrayed by Miss Ada Oakley, who won general appreciation; Miss Nellie B. was very good as Barbara Hare; Miss Anna Beaumont played well as Cornelia Carlyle; Prudence Ayrton as Little Willie was well applauded.

Picture Palace.—Manager, Mr. Arthur Sleep.—For the second week the picture of the late King's Funeral is the chief attraction here, and is drawing big houses. A free matinée was given on Wednesday for the aged people. The variety turns are provided by George Hope's singing colliers, and U. R. Owen, musical entertainer.

ST. HELENS.—Theatre and Opera House, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harry E. Johnson.—Messrs. J. C. Lodge-Percy and James Martin's company is here. The plays listed are Mr. Barnes of New York, Moths, and Camille. On Monday, Mr. Barnes of New York was presented. Mr. Lodge-Percy, in the title-rôle, gave an admirable representation of the cool American, which was greatly enjoyed; as Count Musso Damilla Mr. Douglas Howard had a thorough grasp of the character; and Mr. Andrew Money portrayed finely the manly sailor, Captain Gerald Anstruther. Miss Marie Ramoz made a pleasing Enid Anstruther; and Miss Veronica Clinton was bright and amusing as Maud Chatris. Miss Henrietta Schrier revelled in the part of Marnid Paoli, to which she is excellently suited, and won unstinted praise.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs Barrasford, Sley, and Wilmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Leo Weisker.—Leonard Charburn's Young Stars possess remarkably fine voices, and the scena in which they appear is exceedingly bright and interesting; Bains and company, including Miss Wiarda, are clever and amusing acrobats; the Brothers Dean dance as one man, and are greatly applauded; Laurie Leyton is a clever young ventriloquist; and Doch Pylades gives some life-like impersonations. Vincent executes some big backward falls successfully. Pictures on the Hipposcope conclude.

STOCKPORT.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—An Unwedded Wife is here, capably played by Mr. Will Casey's company. Mr. E. St. Clair Forbes is a thoroughly capable Philip Blackstone; John Hawthorne is excellently impersonated by Mr. L. Ernest; Mr. Will Casey is amusing as Napoleon B. Boomer; and Mr. Arthur Cheeves acts with vigour as Frank Armstrong. Christopher Lennox is humorously portrayed by Mr. Ern Turner; distinctly funny is Mr. Frank Masters as P.C. O'Runyin; Miss Chrissie Dunbar acts efficiently as Marion; Carraway Crumpet is pleasingly filled by Miss Annie Mitchell; and Elsie Langham has a charming representative in Miss Ethel Spense.

Empire.—Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—Jane Shore, excellently performed by Mr. Montgomery's company, is here this week. Mr. S. E. Scanlan's impersonation of Richard Duke of Gloucester is of exceptional merit; genuinely impressive is Mr. Dunlop Stewart as Matthew Shore; Mr. Stanley S. Gordon makes a capable Anthony Yeaste; Miss Nina Vaughton fills the title-rôle with her accustomed grace and charm; and Miss Lillian Rodbourn acts the part of Queen Elizabeth with dignity and stateliness.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—Hippodrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Stainton.—J. W. Hall, an old favourite, is here this week, with amusing songs and patter; the Cumberlands give a wonderful acrobatic cycling act; the Gilberts are clever on the tight wire; the Hessey Family have a brilliant musical speciality; Maude Vera is a dainty comedienne and dancer; Guy Rider, a clever whistler and comedian; Jack Lane very entertaining with his Yorkshire dialect; and Norman Telma gives a unique performance on a billiard table.

Grand Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—The drama A Fight for a Throne produced here is full of exciting episodes. Mr. Geo. A. De Gray makes a natural Prince Otto; Mr. Alexander J. Haviland gives a fine portrayal of Captain Jack Fortescue; Miss Effie Bartlett is a charming Princess Esmée; and Miss Etta Turner appears with distinction as Valeska Lorenski.

STOKE-ON-TRENT.—The Hippodrome.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Arthur Burton.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company is presenting A Sister's Sin. The caste is a well-selected one and the piece is favourably received.

Arcadia, Hartshill.—Messrs. Fraser and Lloyd's Pierrots are now getting into full swing, and their efforts are highly appreciated. Mr. Cecil Lloyd has joined the company and is a great favourite.

STOURBRIDGE.—Alhambra Theatre, Picture Hall and Palace of Varieties.—General-Manager, Mr. Douglas C. Phelps.—Ernie Garner, a favourite comedian, heads the bill here; Dewey and Ascot do a smart turn with their ballooning novelty; Hall and Wilson foot the bill with their sensational turn "Man versus Motor." The pictures, changed nightly, are very good.

SUNDERLAND.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Dunn.—Mr. Sydney Carlton and company are here this week in Her Life in London. Miss Rubie Maude is frequently applauded for her rendering of Astrea Bell; Miss Constance Medwyn gives a fine portrayal of Madge Rendell; Misses Evelyn M. Walton (Sarah Shafto) and Jenny Bostock (Mrs. Glendale) are responsible for well-studied readings; capital work also comes from Misses Alice Thorne, Julia Martin, Annie Montague, Emily Marsh, and Annie Megson. Mr. Sydney Carlton played throughout in praiseworthy style as the Rev. Allen Gordon; and Mr. Claude Aymond is an admirable Gratton Gale.

Avenue Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Leo. Carle, protean comedian, dancer, and trick violinist, is making a hit here this week, especially with his quick-change drama; Herman and Evelyn are also scoring in an up-to-date wire act. The pictures are up to the usual high standard.

Empire Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Gertie Gitana, who is starring here, is adding considerably to her already great reputation by her vivacious manner and pretty songs; Livesey and Rosebery in The Would-be Actors are making a hit; the Findens are eminently successful in a humorous sketch; the Bros. Redmond cause great amusement with a humorous acrobatic act; Bertha Winder submits a skilful dancing act; Lux and his dogs give a unique performance; Jean Seul submits a mystifying conjuring turn; Harry May Helmsley scores heavily with his caricatures and child impersonations; and Maudie Francis is a clever juvenile comedienne.

Palace Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Hamilton's Picture and Varieties Company.—Leroux's Monkeys are making an enormous hit here this week with their antics and a screamingly funny cycling act. The musical act of the Tripellos Trio is also popular; and the Paolias give a clever athletic turn with considerable success. The pictures are also good.

SWINDON.—Empire Theatre.—Proprietors, The Wiltshire Entertainments Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Manners.—At the head of the bill is a play in one act, The Last Straw, presented by Mr. Cecil Gray and company. Mr. Gray powerfully sustains the part of Paul Swabey, and he is ably supported by Miss Dora Eastlake as Iris Winter; Mr. Robert Benans gives an acceptable rendering of Captain Richard Swabey; and Mr. John Manners is well placed as Rev. Jack Mayne; Miss Maggie Rimmer is a popular comedienne; Raymond, coon vocalist, assisted by Little Ivy, a clever dancer, merit applause; The Wagners are excellent xylophone players and skate dancers; Peps provide an exceptionally smart horizontal bar act, introducing some wonderful bouncing; Charles C. Ranston, comedian, makes a hit; Grace Gerald is a dainty comedienne; the Gallimore Trio prove themselves comedy artists of ability.

County Electric Pavilion.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur E. Melborne.—Life in a Submarine, Hunting Wolves in Russia, The Hindoo's Treachery, Western Justice, and Ranchman's Wooing are a few of the many excellent films.

TODMORDEN.—Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Richard Dewhirst.—An attractive film series includes Snatched from a Terrible Death, The Life of a Chick, and an elaborate picture of Shakespeare's Richard III. Variety is given to the performance by Charles Dixon and Kate Lynd; and the Digbys score in their cross-talking, singing, and dancing.

Olympia Picture Palace.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. A. and H. Andrews; Manager, Mr. Chas. Tyers.—Good audiences are drawn nightly to see the excellent series of pictures, which include some very fine dramas. Mr. Tyers' singing, is, as usual, appreciated.

TORQUAY. — Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Alderman W. H. Mortimer; Secretary, Mr. Arthur Pearse. — Mr. Frank Weathersby's company is this week appearing in John Glayde's Honour. Mr. F. Pennington Gush as John Glayde does exceedingly well; in the rôle of Muriel, Miss Lilian Hallows is seen to advantage; Mr. Hal Charlton as Trevor Lerode is distinctly good; Miss Viola March as Lady Lerode is well placed, and the minor parts are capably sustained.

Princess Pier Concert Hall.—Proprietors, The Torquay Town Council; Manager, Mr. A. T. Tremlett; Mr. Stuart Alexander presents the "So and Sos" here. Miss Madge White as an impersonator is very successful, and Miss Maude Davis is a soprano of considerable ability; Mr. H. Quining borough is as popular as ever in his capital monologues; Mr. Harry Leslie proving himself a clever light comedian. Mr. Stuart Alexander displays much talent as a tenor in several operatic selections.

TYNEMOUTH. — Palace. — Proprietors, The Palace Co., Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Harold Arnold.—The Tally-Ho Trio are paying a welcome return visit. La Belle Alva proves herself to be a dancer of exceptional ability; the Four Mayos, burlesque artists, are amusing and clever; the Three Prestons score in a novel act; J. P. Carroll is a skilful tambourinist; Tom Drum and Katie Major are seen to advantage in sketch, entitled The Broker's Man; Holt's Juveniles, vocalists and dancers, are well received. There is also a fine show of animated pictures.

WAKEFIELD. — New Empire. — Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.; Manager, Mr. S. H. Laycock.—Tom Foy and his company have caused roars of laughter in the absurdity A Yorkshire Lad in London; Monsieur Charles D'Aix introduces a wonderful acrobatic dog; Mr. Arthur Croxon, humorist and mimic, gives a clever turn; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilde, shadowgraph artists, submit a novel and interesting act; Miss Gladys Hooley is a talented violin player; Miss Edie Haley, Scotch comedienne; and Miss Mabel Moss, comedienne, present enjoyable turns.

Hippodrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—Frank Elliston and company appear in an original and romantic masque, Long Live the King, the various characters being admirably filled. The production is well staged. Mme. Adah Payne is a delightful ballad vocalist; Frank E. Ford, comedian, is a capital dancer; and Phillips and Bristow, comedy artists, prove popular in song and patter.

WALLSEND-ON-TYNE.—Borough Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Hugh Duffy.—Robert Monteigle and his company are paying a welcome visit in The Courier of Lyons. Mr. Monteigle fills the rôles of Joseph Lesurques and Dubosc in excellent style; Mr. Harold Morrison is seen to advantage as Courriol; and Mr. Ernest Walbourne makes the most of his opportunities as Choppard. Julie Lesurques has an apt exponent in Miss Violet McIntyre; whilst Miss Jennie Riley gives a refined and pathetic impersonation of Jeanne. The piece is preceded by a one-act drama, entitled Corporal Haversac.

Premier Picture Hall.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. T. F. McDonald.—Excellent business is being done here. Among the chief films are The President's Special, Across the Plains, and Song of the Shirt. Pattie Burton proves herself to be a vocalist of exceptional ability.

WALSALL.—Her Majesty's Theatre.—Proprietors, The Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; Joint Management, Moss' Empires, Ltd., and The Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; Secretary and Manager, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—Here this week we have Fred Karno's latest—The Thrilling Adventures of Jimmy the Fearless, The Boy 'Ero. The sketch is one of the usual laughter-producing pieces of which the very name of the producer is usually the hall-mark of excellence. In Florrie Gallimore the audience found a comedienne to their liking, and they did not fail to show their appreciation of the fact. She worked her songs with the accustomed dash and style so characteristic of this smart little lady. Barrett and Knowles, the green lizard and his friend who can never agree, provide the audience with a glut of laughter; a turn deserving of the highest praise is that of Arthur Woodville, comedian and dancer; Lena Verdi is a good mimic of Vesta Tilly and Harry Lauder; Dan Fraser is a Scotch comedian of considerable merit; and pictures go to make up an interesting programme.

The Imperial Hall.—Proprietors, The Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; Secretary and Manager, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—This week's attractions include a striking film, entitled The Way of the Cross. Vocal items are provided by C. France, a vocalist of considerable ability, and Ernest Hallam is a smart local comedian.

The Electric Palace.—Proprietors, The Electric Picture Palaces (Midland), Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. H. Stanley Marks; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. W. Robinson.—The pictures here are of a very high order, one entitled Sweets of Forgiveness being an exceptionally fine study; the same remarks also apply to that fine Pathé film A Heaven-guided Heroine. The Bedouin Love Song picture, with the song accompaniment on the Cinephone, is also worthy of special mention, while the humorous part of the programme is keenly enjoyed by an appreciative audience, the pictures A Knight in Armour and A Quiet Pipe keeping the audience in a continuous roar. This place is one of the new Electric ventures, and is without doubt one of the most up to date.

WARRINGTON.—Palace and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Eric Longden.—The Banzai Troupe of Japanese artists are remarkable equilibrists; Joan Deering is a clever violinist and charming vocalist; Charles Vincent is a favourite; and Judge's performing cockatoos, parrots, and macaws are well received. The Four Rosebuds are expert dancers. The pictures showing the martyrdom of Adolf Beck are remarkable.

Royal Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, The Central Theatres and Franco-British Animated Picture Company; Managing-Director, Mr. Wilberforce Turner; Manager, Mr. J. Waters.—Archie Royer is an exceptionally smart comedian and tumbler; the Claymore Trio are skilful jugglers; Nellie Norrie scores in an instrumental act; and W. Hilton does well as a Scotch ventriloquist. The pictures are good.

WELLINGBOROUGH. — King's Palace.—There are several excellent attractions this week and some varied pictures. Della and Pley are highly diverting, and Massona is full of quaint tricks; George Battle has a good reception. A pleasant change comes in the form of a dramatic episode entitled Found; well played by George and Emmie Dainton.

Empire.—Good audiences are patronising this new home of varieties, and good performances are again presented. Kendrick and Laura, Kitty Leon, M. de Lil, the Bros. Hamilton, Saxo (in a musical turn), Hulbert (ventriloquist), and Katie Weston form the company.

WEST BROMWICH.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. R. Nightingale; Lessee, Mr. Montague Brandyn.—By special request Mr. Brandyn is this week presenting A Traitor Prince. Mr. Brandyn fills the part of Prince Bao Dalmerez, a Hindoo prince and a mesmerist, with great ability; Miss Muriel Inglis as Vashti, an Indian snake-charmer, submits a striking study; Miss Irene Munroe is a charming Lola Vane; and Mr. Chas. D. Pitt as Lieut. Derrick and Mr. C. G. Tomlin as Billie Bright are also good.

New Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. R. Colin; Resident-Manager, Mr. R. Colin, sen.; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ted Leamar.—Jimmy Shields, a one-legged comedian, provides a clever turn; the Ondras, in a triple comedy bar act, arouse much enthusiasm; Giovani Daruso is an artistic violinist; and Leoni Clarke, with his cats, rabbits, rats, canaries, monkeys, &c., shows what marvellous results can be obtained by patience even with animals that are not usually supposed to be very amenable to training. The pictures again are thoroughly up to date.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—Empire Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. F. Thompson.—Mr. Seymour Hicks and company are starring here in Scrooge. In the title-rôle Mr. Hicks is making a great impression, and few artists have been honoured in this district with such receptions as those accorded the popular comedian each night. Mr. J. C. Buckstone as Bob Cratchet distinguishes himself, and Mr. John J. Hooker is very effective as Marley's ghost. Harry Tate's company in Motoring keep the audiences in perpetual mirth; the Georgians present an attractive vocal instrumental and dancing scena; Burnetti is the master of many musical instruments, and his impersonations of well-known artists are good, his changes being remarkably quick; Briff, Braff, and Broff are smart comedy tumblers; Lulu Russell sings well and dresses daintily, and admirable bioscope pictures are shown.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE. — Knightstone Pavilion and Opera House.—Manager, Mr. W. Payne.—Mr. John E. Watson's company is here in A Country Mouse and The New Boy. The former comedy was presented on Monday. Miss Evelyn Ormonde, a charming actress, was thoroughly artistic as Angela Muir; Miss Madge Elsewick made the most of Violet Aynsley; Miss Madeline Du Val gave a good interpretation of Lady Sylvia Bowlby; Miss Phyllis Manners did well as Mrs. Cropper; Mr. Townsend Whitling showed exceptional talent as John Bowlby; Mr. W. Besley Beltram gave a highly-finished impersonation of the Duke of Kitts; Mr. J. Poole Kirkwood's Lord Robert Wyckham was praiseworthy, as was the Hon. Archibald Vyse of Mr. Frank Bradley; and Mr. J. E. Watson as Jephcot was good.

Grand Pier Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. John H. Stevenson.—The Sabots are paying one of their numerous visits here, and are well received, as hitherto; Miss C. Stroud-Wilson's fine voice is heard to advantage in "When shadows gather"; Miss Winnie Browning is loudly applauded for her song and dance, "The uge-googe-googelum"; Mr. Sydney Warwick renders "She is far from the land" with expression; Mr. Walter Walters' humorous songs are well received, as are the sketches of Mr. Harry Ruming; Mr. Lambert shows some very beautiful pictures, as usual, on the Bioscope; and Herr Fericescu's Viennese band is cordially received.

WEST STANLEY.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Stanley Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Mark H. Lindon.—Mr. F. B. Woulfe and his répertoire company entered upon the second week of their stock season with The Two Orphans. Mr. F. B. Woulfe as Armond met with a most cordial reception; Mr. Henry Parr and Mr. Clifford Rean were excellent as Jacques and Pierre respectively; Mr. Cyril Jarvis did full justice to the part of Martin and as La Frochard; Miss Irene Wright proved very clever; Miss Florrie Lyndon was pleasing as Marienne; and Miss Edith Loraine as Henriette and Miss Josephine Richards as Louise won well-deserved applause. Jane Shore was billed for Thursday, and Shadows of a Great City for Friday and to-day.

Victoria Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. T. C. Rawes; Lessees, Messrs. Cottrell and Campbell.—An excellent bill includes the Musical Rustics (ten in number); Horace Monte, in his pot-pourri act; and Mlle. Le Breton, lady gymnast. Some excellent pictures are shown.

Co-operative Hall.—Lessee, Mr. J. Ritson.—Some good films are being exhibited, Across the Plains and The Livingstone Case being especially good.

WHITEHAVEN.—New Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Falconer Jackes.—The pictures are of the usual excellent quality; the Bohemians, in their musical act, create quite a sensation; and Mr. Askell is most entertaining in his conjuring performance. This is the last week of the present season, the theatre closing for decorating and cleaning, and reopening on August Bank Holiday.

WHITLEY BAY.—The Whitley Bay Pleasure Gardens, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Auguste A. Penlove.—The season at this popular marine resort is now in full swing, the large influx of visitors contributing a fair quota of patrons to the old "Spanish city." The programme is a strong one, comprising as it does the Six Manchester Lads, in Dancing in the Old Oak Tree; Myra Eton, juvenile comedienne and dancer; the Two Le Bruns, youthful jugglers and equilibrists; Frederica's terriers and pony; Dolly Hook, comedienne, a prime favourite; Reuben Hill, actor-vocalist; Victoria Carmen, ballad vocalist; and H. A. Griffiths, comedian.

Coliseum Theatre.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Steve Smith; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Patterson.—Some excellent pictures are being shown here. Dan Pedley, an amusing comedian, is a welcome diversion.

Baths Pavilion.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. R. L. Grice.—Up-to-date films are being exhibited here, Vicklin Williams, comedian, and Tiny Ashton, boy vocalist, contributing the principal varieties.

Catlin's Pierrots, Band Pavilion Links.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. William Catlin.—This popular combination opened their season on Monday in their old quarters on the Links, and no doubt the gloriously fine weather during the past week has been an important factor in the attendances. An excellent combination has been got together, and will no doubt prove a most welcome attraction to the frequenters of one of the finest stretches of grassy seaside promenades on the coast.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fred Ball.—The Passion of Life elicited loud applause here on Monday. The company responsible for its production is under the direction of Mr. Hubert Hellwell, who enacts the hero, Jack Kenny, in a thoroughly convincing manner; Mr. F. Owen Chambers does exceedingly well as Captain Horace O'Neale; Mr. Owen Edwin is good as Fergus MacKenna; Mr. Basil Mitchell succeeds in rousing the ire of the audience as Ralph Flint; and Mr. Fred Luard is a source of endless merriment as Dan Sprouts. Miss Ada Hender does full justice to the part of Belle O'Neale; Miss Maud Garth is quiet but effective as Nita O'Neale; whilst Miss Emily Lewis makes a sprightly Tilly Tripp. Mr. Charles F. Johnson is the courteous business-manager.

Empire Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Vivian Evans.—Fred Lindsay heads the bill here, and gives a remarkable exhibition of what can be done with a stock-whip; Arthur Reece, comedian, scores heavily in his three songs; Horace White, at the piano, gives a decidedly original ventriloquial turn; a pleasing entertainment is provided by the Dalvaines, in their skilfully-manipulated marionettes; Charles Banks, in conjunction with his dog, presents a unique act; Amy Sullivan is a pleasing comedienne; and Harry Luck, comedian, keeps the audience in good humour.

WORCESTER. — Theatre Royal. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Edward Evans.—The Dayton Family of acrobats figure prominently in an attractive variety programme here this week, and their clever feats are as popular as ever; Professor Thornbury gives a clever exhibition of lightning sketching; and the daring tight-rope display of the Spanish Armadas elicits unstinted applause. The antics of the Adams on a cycle in a drawing-room are very laughable; Dott and Williams are juvenile vocalists of ability, and dance very cleverly; the character songs of E. W. Selman and the vocal numbers of Dora Campbell and Ivy Gallard are popular items in the programme.

WORTHING. — Theatre Royal. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. Adolf Seebold.—The Benson Shakespearean Company (North) is paying an annual visit here. On Monday The Tempest was presented and appreciated; Coriolanus was played for the first time locally on Tuesday; the popular As You Like It was chosen for the Wednesday matinée, Macbeth being staged in the evening. The company revived Richard II. on Thursday; and last night King Lear was chosen. At this afternoon's matinée Twelfth Night will be played, Hamlet being given at night. The company is an excellent one, and, with Miss Gladys Vanderzee and Mr. Henry Herbert at the head, includes Mr. Charles Sparrow, Mr. F. J. Richardson, Mr. Robert Atkins, Mr. John Hood, Mr. Cyril Sworder, Mr. H. S. Cohen, Mr. Eric Snowdon, Mr. Shaw, Mr. Andrew Leigh, Mr. John Cairns, Mr. L. Hockin, Mr. Joseph O'Dowd, Miss Dorothy Radford, Miss Kate Turner, and Miss Lila Barclay.

WREXHAM.—Empire Music Hall.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. J. Scott.—Chummie La Mara has made a big hit here with her speciality songs; and Will Sergeant, vocal comedian, has scored a success with "The old red, white, and blue" and other favourites. The pictures are popular.

YORK.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—That delightful play Diana of Dobson's has drawn large audiences this week. In the title-rôle Miss Eleanor Delaporte has done excellently; Miss Eva Leonard Boyne is pretty and charming as Kitty Brant; and Miss Cicely Oates makes Miss Jay a most amusing personage. Too much praise cannot be given to Miss Hilda Francks for her clever impersonation of Mrs. Cantelupe; Miss Mary Crewe, handsomely gowned, is a fascinating Mrs. White-Fraser; Mr. Thomas Pauncefort a clever Sir Jabez; and special praise is due to Mr. Leslie Rea for his Captain Bretherton. The old woman is finely played by Miss Marie Ault.

Opera House and Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brook.—Good business is being done here. Ruby and Laws sing appropriate songs; the Derrington Family are smart cyclists; and Tom Taylor and company present an amusing sketch, The Plumber. The company also includes Eileen Douglas, comedienne; Walter Wade, comedian; Tony Iveson, at the piano; Harley and Melton, patterers; and Ada Leach, vocalist.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Bowman; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. E. Bradley.—The film showing various incidents in the life of the late King Edward VII. is very popular, and The Mystery of Temple Court is a dramatic picture of great merit. In addition to the pictures, Carlotto Wood, vocalist, and the Zellos entertain.

Victoria Hall.—Lessee, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Resident-Manager, Mr. Bert Rutter.—There is nothing lacking in the catering at this popular hall. Lieut. Rose and the Gun-runners has proved a very popular picture; The Love of Lady Linda is also well received; and Courting the Merry Widow is full of fun; and Mr. Maynard is an excellent singer of popular songs.

My first chance as an acting-manager in London, says Mr. George Edwardes in an article in the Strand Magazine, came when, through an introduction given by my cousin, Mr. D'Oyly Carte engaged me in that capacity at the Savoy, where, I hasten to say, I spent some of the happiest years of my life, learning the business under the most able and kindly employers, and receiving training which I have since found of incalculable value. Yes, without any doubt at all, I gladly acknowledge that it was through the ever-encouraging instrumentality of Mr. and Mrs. D'Oyly Carte that I owe the foundations of whatever success I may have attained on my own account.

To Mrs. Carte in particular I feel that I am very greatly indebted, for she taught me how to work. Never before or since have I encountered anyone who has worked more conscientiously than did Mrs. D'Oyly Carte in those good old days at the Savoy. Work? Gad, she did indeed work! I can see her now, arriving at eight in the morning and working away, merrily and cheerily, until twelve o'clock at night—setting an example of cheerfulness, tact, and all-round ability to everyone who was privileged to meet her in the course of the day's work.

New SHOES for old.
New BAGS for old.
New BELTS for old.

To be fashionable this season's Shoes, Belts, and Satchels should harmonise in colour with the costume. This can be done effectually and economically by using

MIDAS BRONZINE
POLISHES

These polishes can be obtained in a special Dark Grey, peculiarly suitable for mourning; also in Gold, Silver, and all fashionable colours. Easily applied to all kinds of Leather, Satin, or any article with smooth surface, irrespective of original colour. Do not rub off on the hands or dress.

Excellent for Theatrical Properties.

Of all Stores, Bootshops, Grocers, and Ironmongers, 1/- per box, which will do several pairs of shoes.

If unable to obtain, write to Sole Manufacturers—

MIDAS, LTD.,
75, Leadenhall Street, London, E.C.

SAVAGE CLUB PORTRAITS.

At the Kodak gallery, 40, Strand, W.C., an exhibition entitled "Brother Savages," consisting of a hundred portraits of prominent members of the Savage Club, painted by Mr. Trevor Haddon, R.B.A., is on view until the end of this month. The Kodak Co. often hold interesting free exhibitions—photographic or pictures—in their pretty little gallery, and the present excellent one should not be missed. The army, church, law, drama, music, medicine, and art are represented at this famous club by men of world-wide fame, and to be merely a member of the Savage is esteemed an honour. Mr. Trevor Haddon has been very successful, and the portraits are admirably painted and full of character. Some interesting particulars were given by the courteous manager of the Kodak Co. Mr. Haddon, the artist, has painted the whole of the hundred portraits in a year; that works out at about two a week, while, to add to his arduous task, many of his sitters are of high social rank with little time to spare for sittings; then some would be out of town and others abroad. Yet, in spite of this, there is nothing sketchy about the exhibition, or any sign of hasty work, for all the heads are most carefully painted. Mr. Haddon paints well in oil, and uses pastel with masterly skill. In the latter material lovely flesh tints and half-tones can be obtained, very true to Nature and without the shiny effect of oils. Pastels in the hands of a master are also a rapid means of working, as there is no waiting for the picture to dry, and time was all important to Mr. Haddon. They have, however, one great disadvantage: until fixed, the slightest touch may prove fatal, and a fine effect of some hours' work lost in a second, and perhaps never regained. The artist has been very successful in the introduction of accessories. A brush in the hand of an artist or some musical instrument in a musician's portrait give interest and help to break up the sombre modern dress. Mr. Haddon also takes full advantage of handsome military costumes and stately official robes which make rich masses of colour in the exhibition. The portraits are of moderate size, and several, we understand, have been sold. A very distinguished member of the club—Lord Roberts—stands at the head of the army representatives in the Savage, and on the opposite wall of the gallery is the portrait of a young soldier, Mr. E. C. Stretton, in a perfect blaze of scarlet and gold uniform. How the artist had time to paint such an elaborate military dress, with its gold lace and many other details, and yet secure an excellent likeness of the handsome young officer is a mystery. In strong contrast to this is the portrait of Mr. Joseph Harker, the artist, painted with his coat off and holding a well-worn and very workmanlike hog hair brush. Near this is a very characteristic picture of Mr. Charles Collette, the famous comedian, in a capital attitude. It may justly be called a speaking likeness, for Mr. Collette looks as if he was telling an amusing story at the club. It was a happy thought of Mr. Haddon to paint the actor in such a pose. The portrait of Mr. Courtice Pounds, the esteemed actor-vocalist, recalls pleasant memories of the Savoy Theatre, and one of his early successes, when Mr. Pounds was associated with Mr. W. S. Penley in The Nautch Girl, and poor J. Toole's funny saying "They are naughty but they are nice." Quite a subject picture are the portraits of Mr. Sam Walsh and Mr. Farren Soutar, taken in a dramatic sketch, and special interest is attached to the likeness of Colonel Louis Jackson, C.M.G., who had a voyage with the famous Arctic explorer Nansen. Captain Adrian Jones is another excellent study, and also the portrait of Mr. David Devant, the gifted partner of Mr. Maskelyne at their wonderful home of mystery. Belonging also to the same establishment at St. George's Hall is Mr. Barclay Gammon, who presides so amusingly at the piano. Mr. Haddon has been very successful in painting the Bishop of London, the most important church member of the club, while he has achieved quite an artistic triumph in his admirable likeness of Mr. Thomas Catling, former editor of Lloyd's newspaper. In both faces the kindly expression has been well caught, and the fine head and long iron-grey beard of Mr. Catling would naturally appeal to an artist. To call such men Savages seems strange, but many of our great clubs have queer titles and nicknames which are dear to their members. The Rag, Beefsteak, Kernoozers, and many others must puzzle a foreigner. Fancy being asked to dine at the "Dustbin," yet, if not mistaken, that is the nickname of a most palatial club. In the portrait of Mr. Yeend King, the introduction of a palette was hardly necessary, for Mr. King's name and charming rustic pictures are not only well known at the R.A., but all over England. Another popular artist member of the club was the late Tom Browne, so well known for his clever comic pictures. Mr. Browne is dressed in military khaki costume. In the portrait of Mr. J. Henniker Heaton, M.P., Mr. Haddon could not well introduce a postage stamp, so his distinguished sitter holds a hat, which certainly looks many sizes too small. Another M.P. is Sir Fortescue Flannery in an excellent attitude. Sir W. P. Treloar, Bart., the late Lord Mayor, who takes such interest in poor little cripples, is an important member of the club, while the law is represented by Lord Alverstone, Lord Chief Justice, and Lord Justice Fletcher Moulton, whose robes of office aid the colour scheme of the exhibition, which is also assisted by the scarlet hunting dress of Mr. T. R. Ablett. Famous professional men are Mr. Arthur R. Ropes, whose nom de plume is Adrian Ross. Mr. W. L. Barrett, holding a capitally-painted flute, Mr. Franklin Clive, the vocalist, Mr. B. W. Findon, musical critic, and Mr. Mark Hambourg who has been painted by the artist from memory. In this case photography scores, for there are many fine photographs of Mr. Hambourg at our concert halls, which Mr. Haddon might have used with advantage. Portrait painters seem to scorn the camera, and it said "All the pictures in this exhibition have been done without its aid. Among other portraits are Mr. A. J. Walter, K.C., of the Times, Mr. E. Peacock, manager of the Morning Post, Mr. Fletcher Fullard, Mr. Achille Bazire, a very popular man in the club, Mr. Mostyn Pigott, another favourite, Sir Thomas Holland, F.R.S., in his robes, Mr. J. P. O'Donnell, wearing a soft felt hat, and Mr. Robert Ganthony; while in a corner Mr. Trevor Haddon's portrait, painted by himself, is a very successful outcome of a difficult task.

TRALEE THEATRE.

The new Tralee theatre, named the Theatre Royal, was opened recently by the chairman of the Urban Council, Mr. Jeremiah O'Keeffe. There was a large attendance, and the singers who took part in the concert organised in connection with the opening had a very cordial welcome. The theatre was built by the ratepayers of the county, and supplies a long-felt want. Local people were without a suitable place of amusement for a long number of years, and any touring companies who visit Tralee now will find very satisfactory accommodation in the new hall, which has been neatly fitted up and furnished. The stage is a very large one. Seating is provided for about 1,000 people. The building is of the newest design and the interior arrangements of the most up-to-date kind.

THE article from which we quoted in our recent review of Mr. Alan Mackinnon's book on the O.U.D.S., and which was entitled "Stray Memories of the O.U.D.S.," was written by Mr. W. J. Morris, the popular "Recorder" of the society.

A FAMOUS CONDUCTOR.

MR. JULIAN CLIFFORD.

Mr. Julian Clifford, the popular conductor of the Harrogate Symphony Orchestra, and Musical-Director to the Corporation, was born in London on Sept. 28, 1877. He was the son of the late Mr. Thomas Clifford, of Dry Hill Park, Tonbridge, and grandson of Sir Joseph Brooke. He was educated first at Ardingly College, and afterwards at Tonbridge School. He showed signs of great musical promise at an early age, and began to study the violin when seven years old. At the age of ten he played in public, and also wrote a quartette. Three years later he conducted a performance of Gaul's Holy City, with chorus and orchestra of eighty performers. Proceeding to Leipzig, he studied at the University, and at the Royal Conservatorium of Music under Carl Reinecke, Hans Sitt, and Paul Hohmeyer, with organ as principal subject, and gained his diploma after two years' study only. While here he had the honour of playing before his late Majesty King Albert of Saxony.

Subsequently he studied for a short time at the Royal College of Music under Sir Walter Parratt, and Mr. Frederic Cliffe for piano. Afterwards turning his attention entirely to the latter instrument, he studied under Josef Slivinski. He was organist for two years at the English Church at Leipzig, and for a like period at that of King Charles the Martyr, Tunbridge Wells. His appearances as solo pianist include the Queen's Hall Promenade Concerts, under Mr. Henry J. Wood, the Queen's Hall Chappell Ballad Concerts, the Scottish Orchestra, the Norwich Philharmonic, the Bournemouth and Bath Symphony Concerts, the Llandudno and Buxton Orchestral Concerts, the Liege Orchestral Concerts, and many others.

Mr. Clifford became a conductor in the first place through directing his own works with various orchestras, and his great success induced him to take up that department in earnest. Among the orchestras he has conducted are the London Symphony, the British Symphony, the Leeds Symphony, Municipal, and Sunday Symphony, the Duke of Devonshire's Eastbourne Orchestra, the Bournemouth and Bath Symphony and Llandudno Orchestras, the Westminster Orchestral Society, the Liege and Spa Orchestra of 100 performers, and, for four years, his own orchestra for the National Sunday League, as well as the choir bearing his name. He is now conductor of the Harrogate Symphony Orchestra, numbering fifty performers. The symphony concerts on Wednesday afternoons are increasingly popular, and the Kursaal is the chief musical centre of Yorkshire during the summer months.

Mr. Clifford is a composer of no mean order. His works include an Orchestral Ballade, Suite de Concert, and Piano Concerto (all given a first hearing at Bournemouth under Mr. Dan Godfrey); Ode to the New Year for Solo Quartette, Chorus, and Orchestra, produced at the People's Palace; Meditation "In a Cathedral" for 'cello and orchestra; a Song-Cycle, "The Dream of Flowers"; and several piano solos and songs.

[Photo by Sarony.

MR. JULIAN CLIFFORD.

He married in 1902 the eldest daughter of the late Lord Henniker, Governor of the Isle of Man, and sister of the present peer. The lady is a soprano vocalist, having appeared with success at most of the London and provincial concerts. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford have one son, who, at the age of six, has already conducted several times the Bournemouth Orchestra, the Harrogate Orchestra, and the Bath Orchestra, and holds a presentation bâton given him when four and a half years old, and a gold medal. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford made a speciality of pianoforte and vocal recitals, and have had the honour of appearing before their Royal Highnesses Prince and Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein. The Harrogate Orchestra also had the distinction of appearing before his late Majesty King Edward VII. and Queen Alexandra on the occasion of their visit to Harewood in 1908.

MISS MARIE STUART'S VOCAL RECITAL.

At Steinway Hall on Saturday afternoon, June 11, Miss Marie Stuart gave a vocal recital, assisted by Miss Beatrice Eveline and Mr. Hamilton Harty. Before the concert commenced an apology was made for Miss Stuart on the score of indisposition; indeed, when Miss Marie Stuart sang she seemed so obviously unwell that any criticism must be deferred for a future occasion. As far as one could judge, the vocalist has a fine contralto voice of ample range and pure in quality. In three songs of Cornelius, "Ein Ton," "Der Traum," and "Komm, wir wandeln Zusammen in Mondschien," Miss Stuart was first heard, and she sang the "Sapphische Ode" (Brahms) and "Der Doppelgänger" of Schubert artistically, but in Schumann's fine song "Die beiden Grenadiere" power was out of the question for Miss Stuart on Saturday, and much of the effect lost. "Chanson d'Amour," Hollmann, with 'cello obligato, was pleasing, and two Chinese Poems, "Tears" and "The Waning Moon" from "A Lute of Jade," rendered by Cranmer-Byng, and set to charming music by Frances Allitsen, were gracefully sung by Miss Stuart, and proved very attractive. In a group of English songs by Willeby, Julius Harrison, Elgar, and Bantock, the concert-giver was heard to advantage; indeed, in this recital Miss Stuart sang best in English. Miss Beatrice Eveline, in her violoncello solos, produced a good tone, and played with fluent execution. She was much applauded in Boellmann's beautiful "Variations Symphoniques," Squire's "Meditation," and the lively and effective "Tarantelle" of Popper; while Mr. Hamilton Harty at the piano displayed his great ability as accompanist.

A COPY of "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MR. WALTER ELLIS.

Not many members of the profession can say that they have built and painted their own scenery, written a four-act play, and taken the leading part therein; but such has been achieved by Mr. Walter Ellis, who may well lay claim to versatility if nothing else. His first taste for the drama took the form, at a very early age, of writing plays, some of historical interest, and one, of a more ambitious kind, in verse. Then feeling that a more intimate acquaintance with the technique of the stage was required, the aspirant to literary honours determined to essay the actor's art.

Like so many others, he found the necessary opening a difficult one, but possessing an excellent baritone voice, he used it as the "open sesame," and entered the ranks of musical comedy. A few years of this light form of entertainment were enough for one with higher dramatic ideals, and again he took up the pen, playing from time to time leading parts in modern plays. He dramatised Charles Dickens' story "The Battle of Life," and produced it at the Royalty Theatre, where it was very favourably received. Immediately afterwards he collaborated with Mr. Percy Greenwood, B.A., who was for some time a member of Mr. Benson's company, and a three-act farce, entitled The Pasha, saw the light, and ran for two short tours, with Mr. Ellis playing in the piece himself. A version of The Sorrows of Satan was then secured, and the author-actor went forth in the rather thankless part of Geoffrey Tempest. More writing was rewarded by a production in America.

[Photo by Kent and Lacy.

MR. WALTER W. ELLIS.

But the struggle from obscurity on this side remained a difficult one, and Mr. Ellis, after doing some useful work in stage-managing, reverted to variety. Many short plays of a dramatic type from his pen achieved some considerable success. Then followed a comedy playlet, entitled The Sleepwalker, which has secured considerable success in the halls, and should rank with the foremost mirth-producing sketches. It is practically the author's first appearance in the rôle of comedian, but his success has been undeniable. Music is Mr. Ellis's hobby, and he is no mean disciple of the art, being a good executant on some six or seven different instruments. He has, moreover, an exceptionally well-trained voice.

MR. WALLACE STRANACK.

Originally a schoolmaster, Mr. Wallace Stranack, after a period of training at the Royal College of Music, went on the stage. His first engagement—one of ill-omen, and the forerunner of years of uphill fighting—was as a chorister in a new production at a West End London theatre, which, after five weeks' rehearsal and five nights' performance, closed down. The "ghost" was conspicuous by its absence, the manager having bolted. However, another engagement, this time "on the road," was procured in Dorothy, from which time Mr. Stranack steadily, but very slowly, rose in the theatrical world, playing a variety of parts in every kind of play with Messrs. J. Pitt Hardacre, A. E. Drinkwater, H. A. Saintsbury, &c., including a seven months' tour abroad with Mr. Maurice E. Bandmann, during which he played forty different parts.

MR. WALLACE STRANACK.

Returning to England, tours followed in which Mr. Stranack played Jack Brown in The French Maid, Bob Watkyn in Sowing the Wind, Dudley Roper in The Prodigal Daughter, Mr. Todman in Liberty Hall; Cassius in Great Cæsar, and many other parts. About this time Mr. Stranack decided that the branches of the profession he preferred were business- and stage-management, and accordingly devoted his special attention to them. Accepting an offer for the latter from Mr. Bert Coote, of the Princess's Theatre, for his first tour of The Fatal Wedding, he remained under that gentleman's management for nearly four years, at different times being stage or business-manager, and running Mr. Coote's North company entirely during his absence in America. Incidentally, Mr. Stranack during that period played every male part in the piece except one for weeks together.

Then followed an engagement as business-manager with Messrs. Buchanan and Stevens's Jack the Giant Killer pantomime, and the subsequent season for their Fair One with the Golden Locks pantomime. For the two following seasons Mr. Stranack was engaged by the same management as stage-manager for the pantomime. With the exception of the pantomime season, Mr. Stranack, after leaving Mr. Bert Coote, was engaged by Mr. Chas. Macdona as business-manager for his Three Little Maids company, from which after eleven weeks he was transferred to manage Mr. Macdona's Mr. Popple company, with Mr. G. P. Huntley in the cast. This led, after two more tours under Mr. Macdona's management, to his engagement by Mr. G. P. Huntley for his autumn season of 1903 at the Hicks Theatre. His most recent engagement was as business-manager for The Proud Prince company on tour.

MR. BREMBER WILLS.

A training of the old-fashioned sort has been experienced during the past nine years by Mr. Brember Wills, who thus counts himself fortunate. A pupil of Mr. Maxwell Ryder at the West London Theatre, he has since then had the unusual opportunity of playing a century of parts, which, at an average of ten per annum, is a remarkable record for these days of long runs and spare provision for theatrical training. Commencing among small managements in the provinces, he toured with the Robertson répertoire, and the old farces of the Uncles and Aunts kind, after which an experience of heavier work under Mr. Morton Powell gave him an insight into the methods by which the melodramatic "gods" are fed with their thunder. Mr. Wills next accomplished three tours with Mr. Oscar Wilde's plays, usually undertaking the rôles of Mr. Vane-Tempest, and from this followed an engagement with Mr. W. T. Elworthy in The Unforeseen, in which he played Sir Archibald Fielding, and subsequently Harker in A Bunch of Violets and Mr. Pedrick in Liberty Hall. In the following autumn the same management offered him the part of Benjamin Goldfinch, which he sustained for six months.

During the spring and summer following, and in subsequent years, pastorals under various provincial societies claimed most attention. A unique performance of Anthony Hope's play The Adventure of Lady Ursula under this head at Cheltenham struck something of a new note in this class of work; and in this Mr. Wills undertook Mr. Fulton's part of Mr. Dent, a rôle he has filled for three tours since in the theatres. Robin Hood was also a new open-air venture, and gave variety to the usual Shakespearean répertoire, in which Old Adam, King Duncan, Don John, and Ægeon are a few of his "legitimate" rôles.

MR. BREMBER WILLS.

In the following year he toured as Mr. Hagson in Billy's Little Love Affair, and subsequently as Mr. Willoughby in Mrs. Willoughby's Kiss. Then came a provincial tour of Under the Red Robe, in which Mr. Maude's part was allotted to him, and from that came an engagement from Mr. Eugene C. Stafford, and a tour later as Wilfred Ashmole in Lucky Miss Dean. About this time the original Canterbury Stock Company was being formed under the directorship of Mr. Edward Michael and Mr. Frederick Stanley, and Mr. Wills was nominated as a member, and after concluding a special engagement as Charles IX. in Count Hannibal, he reverted to the modern rôles at Canterbury, playing Schram in Leah Kleschna, the Bishop in Dr. Wake's Patient, and the title-rôle in The New Boy.

From Canterbury he joined Mr. Langhorne Burton to play Mr. Jernigan in Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace, followed by six months of Ibsen plays with Mr. Leigh Lovel. After this he fell in a good deal with Mr. Welch's parts, playing Septimus Pontifex in The Brixton Burglary and the title-rôle of The Man in the Street for two tours. Then came an engagement as Canon Bonsey in Mrs. Dane's Defence, and the creation of the clerical part in Mr. H. F. Maltby's new play of Fraud. At the conclusion, Mr. Brooks, of Swansea, engaged him for his tour of The New Housemaid, and last autumn he played Babs in Charley's Aunt. Recently he has appeared as Captain Larolle in Mr. Norman V. Norman's tour of Under the Red Robe. Golf and hockey form Mr. Wills's two favourite outdoor pastimes, and a little amateur writing goes to fill in the rest of the spare time.

"THE CHRISTIAN."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—In the "Theatrical Gossip" of your issue of even date appears a statement that Mr. Wentworth Croke wishes it to be thoroughly understood that he has sublet some of the No. 2 and all the No. 3 and fit-up rights of the old version of The Christian to me for one year. As this is liable to lead to misunderstanding, I beg leave to state that by arrangement with Mr. Wentworth Croke I hold absolutely the No. 2 and fit-up rights of the old version of The Christian for a period of twelve months from June 1, 1910, with the option of a further twelve months from June 1, 1911.—Yours faithfully, MARCUS D. DRAPER.

4, Iffley-road, Hammersmith, London, W., June 11.

MR. ARCHIE SELWYN will play Crosbie, Mr. Weedon Grossmith's part, in the production of The Night of the Party, at New Brighton on Monday next, and has been re-engaged by General Productions, Ltd., to play George Fisher during the autumn tour of Are You a Mason?

"THE HEIRESS."

A New Comedy Opera, in Two Acts, Performed for the First Time at the Theatre Royal, Birmingham, on Monday, June 13.

Robert Beverige ..... MR. LEONARD BROWN
George Dilke ..... MR. LEONARD COX
Major Barbicombe ..... MR. G. B. WORRALL
Erasmus Ranter ..... MR. H. W. GAMMIDGE
John Willy ..... MR. T. G. HOLDER
Parkins ..... MR. HAROLD ROUCH
Francois ..... MR. J. M. HOLT
Sergeant Clews ..... MR. WALTER NEWMAN
Bioscope ..... MR. F. H. TIMINGS
Orchestra of the Bijou Hotel ..... MR. BARRY DAVENPORT
Leader of Same ..... MR. R. PINNEY
Cora ..... MISS VIOLET LEWIS
Maidie ..... MISS HILDA ATKINS
Madge ..... MISS MABEL BOTWOOD
Mildred ..... MISS E. COOK
Susan ..... MISS BONNIE PHILLIPS
Blanche ..... MISS ADA PRICE
Violet Voter ..... MISS PHILLIS BILLING
Caroline Barr ..... MISS BLANCHE FREEMAN
Mrs. Slashem ..... MISS KATE BERKELEY
Doreen Barbicombe ..... MISS LILLIE ASTON

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

It was a happy idea to devote the proceeds of the performance of this opera by Birmingham amateurs during the week to the funds of the Birmingham Children's Hospital. A piece of this style is something of a novelty, and a better attraction could hardly have been chosen for charitable purposes. The librettists, Messrs. Harold Weston and Follett Thorpe, have been the recipients of much praise for the construction of a bright, up-to-date and tuneful opera. The lyrics are by Mr. Follett Thorpe and the music by Mr. Guy Jones, and the production embodies all the attributes that go to ensure a successful career. There is an effective plot, in which the authors have fully recognised their obligation to leave room for the introduction of incidental turns. In a nutshell, the story is as follows: Doreen Barbicombe is an heiress. She is in love with Robert Beverige, who unfortunately is disliked by Doreen's guardian, Major Barbicombe, who is afflicted with the gout. Doreen leaves home and becomes a waitress. In the first act she is seen following her new profession, her lover often by her side, her distracted guardian and a couple of comic detectives searching eagerly for her, and being "hot on the scent" all the time. A number of her fellow-waitresses win temporary triumphs by palming themselves off as the missing heiress. These happenings take place at the Botanical Gardens during the space of an afternoon, and in the evening the scene is transferred to the ballroom of the Bijou Hotel. Here "turns" are given by various members of the company, after which Doreen and her guardian are satisfactorily united, the ban on Robert is removed, and the Major is transformed into a most benign person.

Miss Lillie Aston scores a great triumph as Doreen. Her acting is marked by a finished style, and she uses a well-trained voice to much advantage. Mr. Leonard Brown as Robert Beverige also proves himself a good singer, and by his manner shows that he is quite at home in the character. Mr. Walter Newman at once "catches on" as the humorous detective, and he introduces a lot of smart gags. Miss Blanche Freeman greatly pleases as Caroline Barr "on the 'alls," Mr. G. B. Worrall provides a good character study as Major Barbicombe, and Miss Ada Price sings daintily. Miss White and Miss Gaul elicit applause for a neat pas de deux arranged by the Misses Aclam and Caffyn, and Mrs. Guy Jones and Miss Lily Forsythe executes with grace the original pas seul from San Toy.

The music, arranged by Mr. Guy Jones, is a bright feature, the various songs, duets, choruses, and dances being presented in a sparkling setting. Matinées were given on Thursday and Saturday, and the performance on Thursday evening was under the patronage of commanding officers of the local Territorial forces. On Thursday a special performance was given as a benefit to Mr. Guy Jones, who is the musical director at the Royal, and the performance was augmented by the appearance of Miss Sybil Arundale and Miss Daisy Dormer.

DRESSES AT THE PLAY.

The fashions of the hour are reflected in The Girl in the Train, which is running so smoothly at the Vaudeville. Miss Phyllis Dare gives her evidence in the divorce court in a pale pink coral zephyr crêpe dress posed on flesh-coloured lace, which in its turn is mounted on pale pink satin. The skirt tapers towards the feet, this effect being enhanced by diamond-shaped panels of lace at the front and back outlined with broad bands of satin. With this dress is worn a black Michu turban of draped straw with red roses nestling just above the left ear.

Miss Clara Evelyn, who in the Trial scene wears a beige-coloured charmeuse gown in alliance with a ninon tunic, the latter trimmed at the hem with ball fringe, the same idea being repeated on the sleeves. The salient feature of the frock is the shadowing of the narrow green and white brocade ribbons which are arranged to bring into prominence the graceful lines of the figure. A cornet d'italie chapeau of dark blue straw with a dull pink doublure trimmed with shaded plcureuse ostrich plumes completes the toilette.

Picturesque and quaint are the Dutch costumes in which Miss Kate Welch as Martje Kronevliet makes her appearance. In the first act her jupe is of striped mauve and white cotton, partially concealed by a pink silk apron, which is surmounted by a cape of taffetas showing a wonderful Paisley design. Her head-dress is of white lace arranged to simulate a curtain, the hem of which rests lightly on her shoulders.

AT the first performance this season of Verdi's Otello at the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, on Tuesday there were present Lady Susan Fitz-Clarence, Lady Alington, the Countess of Lytton, Lord Cecil Manners, the Earl of Londesborough, the Earl and Countess of Kinnoull, Lady Pearson, and Lady Montgomery.

Clarke's Blood Mixture

For cleansing the blood of all impurities from whatever cause arising, there is no other medicine just as good as CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE—that's why in so many cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Boils, Sores of all kinds, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Blood Poison, Rheumatism, Gout, &c., it has effected truly remarkable cures where all other treatments have failed. It will do the same for you.

CURES ALL
SKIN & BLOOD DISEASES
Of all Chemists and Stores, 2/9 per bottle.

ROYAL GENERAL THEATRICAL FUND.

SIXTY-FIFTH PUBLIC DINNER.

MR. MARTIN HARVEY'S APPEAL—£750 FOR THE FUND.

A very fine assemblage of members of the theatrical, musical, and journalistic professions took place at the Whitehall Rooms, Hotel Metropole, on Sunday last, the occasion being the Sixty-fifth Public Dinner of the Royal General Theatrical Fund.

Mr. Martin Harvey was chairman, and among those who accepted invitations were the Right Hon. R. Farquharson, Sir John Hare, Mr. Edward Terry, J.P., the Right Hon. Sir Ernest Cassel, Mr. H. B. Irving, Sir George Frampton, R.A., Mr. A. F. M. Spalding, Sir Edgar Speyer, Bart., Sir Chas. Matthews, Mr. Bram Stoker, Mr. W. B. Yeats, Col. Sir Lewis McIver, Bart., Mr. A. B. Walkley, Sir Anderson Crichett, Bart., C.V.O., Sir Wm. H. Allchin, M.D., Sir Thos. Barclay, Mr. James Carew, Mr. H. Hughes, Mr. Gordon Cleather, Mr. Gregory Hast, Mr. Adolph Mann, Mr. W. Ganz, Mr. C. Bogler, Mr. H. Hughes, jun., Mr. Austin Brereton, Mr. Otto Beit, Mr. W. Lestocq, Mr. W. Clarkson, Mr. Isaac Seaman, Mr. G. Spencer Edwards, Mr. Chas. I. Coltson, Mr. Charles Cruikshanks, Mr. Alfred East, Mr. George Clausen, R.A., Mr. A. G. Warren, A.C.A., Mr. Walter J. Ebbetts, F.R.I.B.A., Mr. C. N. Foreman, Mr. W. A. Collins, Mr. L. Carson, Mr. A. J. Austin, Mr. Ralph C. Leach, Mr. H. B. Gross, Mr. F. B. O'Neill, Mr. Geo. Minshull, Mr. John Kurkamp, Mr. Philipp Horvath, Mr. W. R. Patterson, Mr. C. T. Helmsley, Mr. J. Wilson Taylor, Mr. Percy Marsden, Mr. T. G. Lafayette, Mr. Edward Rosenberg, Mr. A. Dunkels, Mr. W. L. Courtney, Mr. Theodore Lumley, Mr. H. T. Greenwood, J.P., L.C.C., Mr. R. Percy Middlemist, M.R.C.S., &c., Mr. A. B. Tapping, Mr. Cooper Cliffe, Mr. Douglas Gordon, Mr. Arthur Curtis, Mr. Edmund Gwenn, Mr. F. Percival Stevens, Mr. Henry Evill, Mr. J. M. Chute, Mr. Lionel Rignold, Mr. Bassett Roe, Mr. Lewis Casson, Mr. Herbert B. Hays, Mr. Chas. Rock, Mr. Hubert Willis, Mr. M. R. Morand, Mr. Julius Reiss, Mr. P. Noble, Mr Ernest de Witt, Mr. Walter Lumley, Mr. John Corlett, Mr. Louis Roche, Mr. Jules Ayer, Mr. H. Lowenfeld, Mr. Herbert Trench, and Mr. F. H. Pedgrift.

A SPLENDID SPEECH.

The loyal toasts having been duly honoured,

Mr. Martin Harvey, in proposing the toast of "The Royal General Theatrical Fund," said:

Gentlemen,—Your chairman of to-night cannot imagine any duty more depressing and, at the same time, more inspiring than the duty he has now to perform. When he looked up the records of this Royal old fund, starred with the names of so many prominent and distinguished chairmen—Charles Dickens, Sir Henry Irving, Thackeray, Lytton, Phelps, Macready—to mention only a few of those who have occupied this historic chair, and who have left "footprints in the sands of Time," you will readily believe that his sensations are pretty much those of Macbeth, who was reported to have felt

"His title
Hang loose about him, like a giant's robe,
Upon a dwarfish thief."

However, though the spectacle of a "dwarfish thief" in "a giant's robe" is to no one so grievous as to the wearer, it may, I hope, give to that wearer some sense of modesty from the disproportionate majesty of his garb, and he may certainly draw inspiration from the thought of the mighty shoulders which in previous years it has fallen upon, and the sacred cause with which it has been donned—the cause of charity. Many are the eloquent addresses which that sacred cause has inspired; none more eloquent, I am sure, than those which have sprung from reflections upon the kindly beneficence of this venerable old Theatrical Fund, and of these few more eloquent than that of my immediate predecessor in this famous chair—I mean that of the Hon. Harry Lawson last year. Since then our institution, among other countless institutions, has sustained a great and grievous loss—the loss of our Royal Patron. His late Majesty King Edward VII. had been our Patron ever since his accession to the Throne. His interest had been shown in our welfare during all that time by regular and handsome subscriptions to our fund. It is not, I hope, presumptuous in me to lay a humble leaf upon the monument of his memory. The time has gone by, not for ever perhaps, when actors walked in the State processions and attended Court functions in something of an official capacity, receiving out of the Privy Purse a certain allowance of scarlet cloth that they might be bravely and becomingly attired; but I would venture to say that if we professional people are servants of the public, we are, and always shall be, in a very special sense, His Majesty's servants. And in speaking, with all reverence, on this subject, and in the midst of those who are gathered together in the interests of our profession, I would further venture the statement that the quality which endeared our late Royal Patron to us actor folk was his rare humanity. We actors, we students of humanity, for long will draw our breath in pain to tell the story of how he was laid low in the very hour of his Coronation—that perilous hour of triumph when the philosopher Aurelius counsels us to sacrifice "our dearest to the gods"; of how, when the danger past, and he had been anointed before the acclamations of his loyal people, he stood clasping the hand of his son in such a bond of emotion as can only flow between father and son; of how when Minoru won the Derby only last year he went down alone amongst the surging, frantic crowd at Epsom, like the simple English country gentleman that he was to lead his victorious colt to the scales; and of how, his back against the wall, at grip with the ancient enemy of mankind (or shall we say the ancient friend?); dying inch by inch, his harness on his back, he fought to the end, that his duty to his people might not lack one iota of absolute fulfilment. "Endue him plenteously with heavenly gifts" is the prayer which goes up each Sunday from every corner of our Empire, and surely we must feel that, if the sense of duty be a heavenly gift, the prayers of his people for "Edward the Peacemaker" have been heard. Gentlemen, I must say one word upon the subject of our patron, for at this moment the R.G.T.F. is without a patron. But from the correspondence which has passed between your secretary and those in high quarters, I have reason to believe that our present King may perhaps be induced to fill that post which his late father filled. At all events, all I can say at the moment is that we live in hopes.

THE LOSS OF HARRY LOVEDAY.

And the loss of our kingly patron, gentlemen, is not our only loss. A gentle, kindly face which has till to-night seldom been absent from your hospitable board—a face full of the milk of human kindness, of quiet humour and courtly tact—has gone from us. I mean that of our old friend Harry Loveday. He was one of the directors of the Royal General Theatrical Fund, and how many there are here to-night who will always cherish his memory, no one with greater affection than your chairman. My own uncertain steps in the early days when I was a youngster carrying a modest banner in that faithful army commanded in the days of the old Lyceum by Sir Henry Irving, of immortal memory—I say my own steps were guided by our dear old friend and often kept from straying into by-paths which have led many a young actor into the thickets of failure and disaster. Looking back upon those days, I hesitate to say whether my own debt of gratitude is the greater to my beloved master, Sir Henry, or to his faithful lieutenant, Harry Loveday. And I welcome the opportunity of paying my small tribute to his memory without apology to you gentlemen, so many of whom have known him. Of his fidelity to Sir Henry Irving there is no need for me to speak. Indeed that fidelity was so absolute as to have been in danger of having something of that impeccable and angelic quality which keeps it remote from our common ken, had it not possessed that human touch which makes all the world kin, for I have heard upon unimpeachable authority that in moments of great expansiveness our old friend could give an astonishingly faithful and humorous imitation of his great chief. Gentlemen, it has been truly said that "no man confidently believes in his religion who cannot afford to laugh about it." I shall always feel that Harry Loveday paid me an undeserved compliment when he exercised as absolute a fidelity in his association with me to my small interests as ever he did to the great affairs of Sir Henry Irving. His unerring and compliant tact exposed him sometimes to many an affectionate laugh—those who knew him will know what I mean. His natural kindliness of disposition and dread of hurting one's feelings made it an agony for him at times to speak the brutal truth. He could be, upon occasion, however, unexpectedly outspoken, and one of the sweetest remembrances I have of him is that when we were discussing a certain drama we were producing, and I was imploring his candid opinion as to the wisdom of the author in keeping his hero—whom I was representing—off the stage during an entire act, and so, as I thought, imperilling the success of the play, he replied in a burst of quite unexpected candour that "it didn't matter a damn." Gentlemen, I ask you to drink in a glass of the mellow leisurely port he loved to linger over

"....in after-dinner talk,
Across the walnuts and the wine," and which, alas, can never again bring a warm flush about his delicate temples, to the memory and the repose of his kindly soul.

FOR THOSE WHO HELP THEMSELVES.

And now, gentlemen, to my duty—the toast of "The Royal General Theatrical Fund. And let me say at once that this is not an Old Age Pension Fund, as too many of us understand it and groan under it—a fund inadequately discussed and precipitously formulated for the benefit of those who have contributed nothing. First and foremost this fund is based upon contributory principles. Gentleman, the comparison between our fund and a certain other fund which rises in my throat, and which I see is rising in the throats of a good many of you, must be gulped down because anything of a party nature at this board would be out of place. This fund exists for the help of those who help themselves. It aims at providing annuities for those who, having reached the age of sixty, have contributed certain prescribed quarterly payments towards the fund, and even if these contributors are prevented by accident or infirmity from paying their contributions after the first seven years they can still claim their annuity, and they get it for the rest of their natural life. Gentlemen, this is the only fault I find in the Fund. It is a dangerous form of temptation. I have sometimes felt after the failure of a play that it would be worth while to part with a limb and become a quiet annuitant in a small country cottage for the rest of my life. Now these quarterly payments are on a moderate scale compared with the terms given by the insurance companies, and it would not be possible to pay these annuitants their full yearly allowances when they become due were it not for your generous help.

MR. HARVEY'S FINE APPEAL.

Remember, gentlemen, I am asking you to help those who have helped themselves. I am asking you to stand in the place of that beneficent providence which "reaches them good gifts with their own hands." I am asking you to add a little butter now to the bread of those who have denied themselves butter all their lives for the sake of the bread of old age; for those members of my calling whose talents have not been brilliant enough to bring them wealth or even competence: good steady workers, faithful servants of their managers, and of their public; those who have done the yeoman service of our "feverish profession"; those who by their sterling qualities have been and always will be the backbone of our calling, as the yeomen have been and still will be the backbone of our country. Such men do not earn large salaries at the best of times, and at the worst their small hoards are, of course, depleted during the long periods of enforced idleness. You all remember the advertisement of a disengaged actor who described himself as "Resting—and d——d sick of it." This "resting" cannot be helped—it is one of the dark sides of our delightful calling. Plays fail, engagements cease, an actor or actress in some mysterious way falls out of the running, and the little sum set by for a rainy day gradually vanishes. "For the rain it raineth every day," and then you generous people step in with your guineas and make it just possible for the contributor to keep his chin above the flood. So please do not leave those little white cards which will be handed round soon—do not leave them disregarded among the debris of the feast, inscribed only with the impress of an over-full wineglass. Gentlemen, of the many myths which have grown up about our profession, I think none is wider of the truth than that the actor is improvident. Indeed, I doubt whether it has ever been true. From the days of the Elizabethan actors, who, like Shakespeare, owned their country estates; who, like Alleyn, built and endowed colleges; who, like Hemminge and Condell, were respected sidesmen of their parish, to the present day when our own treasurer is a Justice of the Peace for his county, I believe the provident as against the improvident in our calling have been as ten to one. The great body of our profession denies itself continually. The first thought of the average man who is considering an engagement is "what can I save out of my salary, or what can I repay of that abominable accumulation of arrears." His chief aim is to cut down his expenses to the lowest possible point, because his mind is continually fixed on that awful and unnecessary "rest" cure which he must expect as an inevitable condition of the calling itself, and the thought of it leads him to continual self-denial in the matter of personal expenditure and restraint. He must be content with the homely pipe, though the more seductive cigar tempts him; the penny motor 'bus instead of the expeditious taxi. He must submit to the modest lodgings when the amount of his salary, considered weekly, would permit the more comfortable hotel; and he must carry his bag to that lodging, when a cab after a long journey would be so much more acceptable. Self-denial with the hope of ultimate independence must be, and is, exercised in every form. I remember an old friend of mine on one of Sir Henry Irving's American tours, who had calculated the amount of dollars he could put by for the old rainy day as a reward of the discomfort of foreign travel, and who was known for his sturdy pitched battles with the extortionate hotel clerk, indignantly repudiating the charge for a bath, which he loudly declared he had not had for a week! And lest the character of that honourable company should be tarnished by this anecdote, I may tell you that some coloured servants at an hotel where we stayed in Chicago were heard to agree that the British troupe seemed to need a deal of cleaning, for most of them had a bath every morning. Well, gentlemen, I must not keep you longer; but I think your hearts would be touched if you saw some of the old people who have, by their own self-denial and the generous help of those who have supported this grand old fund, reached that haven of rest which is no longer agitated with the dread of to-morrow's want.

"THE STURDY QUALITY OF THRIFT."

Let me recall a typical case, that of one of our annuitants. All his working life he has lived in a modest little cottage in a remote suburb, though to be sure he has earned a handsome salary at times which he would have had some excuse for thinking warranted a larger establishment, but he has resisted the temptation to cut a dash, and has, night by night, after his work is finished, reached his cottage by 'bus and his own sturdy foot; only once or twice has he fallen into arrears with the quarterly payments as a subscribing member of the fund. Engagements of late years have been less frequent, but from time to time his astounding gifts of humour have been remembered by some manager, and he has emerged from his cottage to convulse the playgoing world with his irresistibly comic personality—a personality which is the more irresistible when compared with the solemn gravity of his deportment in every-day life. The constant denial of many years has at last brought him to his goal of rest. He is now well past eighty, and has drawn his annuity regularly for over twenty years. His step upon the stairs when he comes to receive his quarterly payments at our secretary's hands is a little feebler year by year, and he has greater and greater difficulty in finding his way out of the office and down the stairs, when, with his well-earned allowance in his pocket, he returns to his cottage and his roses. Gentlemen, for such a man I ask your support. I ask your support for the fund which makes such a spectacle of charming and contented old age possible. I ask you to support it because it is British in its character and because it makes for self-reliance and for the sturdy qualities of thrift and independence which has made our Empire what it is. (Prolonged applause.)

THE CHANGE IN THE THEATRE.

Mr. W. B. Yeats, in proposing the toast of "The Drama," said England was the country of humour, the country of anecdote—especially of Irish anecdote. He was Irish, but he was going to be serious. He looked round for the most serious person in the room to whom he might address himself. When he was a young man one individual had struck him as the very embodiment of ferocious youth, and that man was Mr. Walkley. He would deliver his speech to that gentleman. Mr. Walkley had delivered a speech some years ago which had helped him to understand some of his own difficulties. He was a writer of plays, and had given a good many years of his life to the theatre. He was always trying to find in the theatre a pleasure he had enjoyed in very rare moments. All their work, all their free labours, was really an attempt to repeat again and again some pleasure which Nature only meant to give them very seldom. One of Mr. Walkley's speeches had defined farce as the struggle of the will against a ridiculous object; comedy as the struggle of the will against a movable object; tragedy as the struggle of the will against an immovable object. Tragedy was the noblest of the three forms. When he was a boy and read Shakespeare first certain lines haunted him. One line was when Coriolanus came to the house of Aufidius and was asked by the servant where he lived, and he had answered: "Under the canopy." He had waited for years to hear those words spoken by Henry Irving. As the new school arose he saw in the theatre something he did not seek. He had countless times in the writings of competent critics read an attack on the French tragic drama because it did not contain character. Character now was finished: there was nothing more than sheer passion left. There had come in recent times a change from the tragic mood to the mood of comedy. No man living in the world was without character, but when they put such a man upon the stage they filled up the place of character with something else. Wherever they got the art of passion they got a beautiful art, a realistic art. He had addressed himself entirely to Mr. Walkley, and his words were an extension of the definition which had interested him so much when Mr. Walkley had made it some years ago. Perhaps Mr. Walkley would add to his knowledge by commenting on something he had said. The stage was changing, and the actual mechanism of the theatre was changing, and an attempt was being made to create a stage full of ideal forms and decorations, which could only be the preparation for a new drama of beauty in the highest sense of the word, like the old drama of five hundred years ago. (Applause.)

MR. WALKLEY ON "THE DRAMA."

Mr. A. B. Walkley, in replying for "The Drama," said: The fact that I, who am neither playwright nor player, but a representative, however unworthy, of the Press, have been called upon to speak to-night to this toast of "The Drama," is, I venture to think, a significant fact. It attests the good understanding and confidence which now happily exist between the dramatic world and the Press. That good understanding has in the past had its temporary eclipses, and there was even a time within my own recollection when I fear the Press was looked at a little askance by the theatrical world. I can illustrate that by telling you of a little incident which happened some years ago within my own personal, not to say domestic, experience. I had invited that remarkable dramatist Mr. Bernard Shaw to dinner, and when he came there was some delay in admitting him because the knocker was one of those suburban knockers that can be heard all down the street but not inside the house. We asked him why he had not rung the bell, and he answered, "I would have if it hadn't been for the word 'Press' on it." This distrust of the Press is happily a thing of the past. Actors and dramatists and the critics who write about them in the Press have, I hope and believe, a better understanding of one another's difficulties. We critics have to understand that if actors are peculiarly sensitive to criticism, the explanation lies in the peculiar nature of their art. The actor, unlike other artists, is his own material, his own ink and paper, his own paint and canvas, so that, in criticising his art, you cannot help criticising the man himself, his very person, gait, and voice. We are all of us touchy about our personal peculiarities—the nose on our face, things we were born with and cannot alter; yet these personal peculiarities of the actor, being part, and an essential, important part, of his stock-in-trade, are necessarily matter for criticism. The actor may rest assured that this unavoidable part of the critic's business is as embarrassing to the critic as it is disconcerting to him. The critic does not like having to record the fact that the hand of time has turned the leading lady's hair from its original hue to a Titian red, and yet the disagreeable thing has to be done. And, if the critic is sometimes a little slap-dash and summary in his judgments, the actor must remember that, under present conditions, he seldom has time to be anything else.

THE NATIONAL THEATRE.

There has been a revolution in the machinery of newspaper distribution, which has by no means lightened the task of the dramatic critic. Most newspapers now go to press almost as soon as the average theatre is out, and many a newspaper train is starting for the country just about the time Mr. Granville Barker's audiences are waking up to wonder when his people will have done talking. Thus daily newspaper criticism can seldom be anything better than a hasty improvisation. You remember, I daresay, that youthful candidates for examination, floored by a paper, sometimes scrawl upon it "No time," thereby no doubt hoping to persuade the examiner that, but for the clock, they would have displayed a profound knowledge of the subject. Gentlemen, I often find that just as I am about to distribute my most flowery adjectives among the cast of a play the clock inexorably points to the hour of going to press, and I am always tempted to finish notices with the words "No time!" Critics and criticised are nowadays prepared to make allowances for one another; there is a mutual understanding between Drama and Press; and so here am I who belong to the Press invited to speak on behalf of the Drama.

Well, gentlemen, the drama is being eagerly discussed just now all over the place, as we say, and the views that are expressed about it on all hands are strangely discordant. The great majority of playgoers probably hold no views, but just go to the play to digest their dinner with an evening's fun. They turn more and more to the lighter forms of entertainment, and they have a perfect right to enjoy themselves in their own way. But there is a minority of playgoers who cannot share in that digestive enjoyment. They are enthusiasts, idealists, zealots, for whom the drama has the all-importance, the sacredness, of a cause, like female suffrage or anti-vaccination. This minority is dissatisfied with the theatre as it is, and wants to see it intellectualised, spiritualised, ennobled. They pin their faith to the repertory system, and clamour for a National Theatre. The movement is not peculiar to this country. I was present a month or two ago at the opening of the New Theatre in New York—a magnificent building, endowed by certain public-spirited millionaires as a home for the higher drama in America, as soon as the higher drama in America is forthcoming. All this enthusiasm and proselytising energy, all this "booming" of the higher drama, must have our respectful sympathy. And yet I am sometimes disposed to wonder whether all the expected results will flow from these repertory and National Theatre schemes. I am in my leisure moments an amateur gardener, and if my experience in the garden teaches me anything it is to be sceptical about forced growths. Healthy art, like a healthy plant, grows naturally under conditions appropriate to it. These big cut-and-dried schemes, engineered by central and local committees, suggest some doubts. I should have more confidence in a modest plan, unobtrusively begun; and I should not expect too much of that. I do not think you could have a better example of the real value of a modest enterprise than that afforded by the Irish National Theatre, which Ireland and England owe to our friend Mr. Yeats and his comrades.

THE NATIONAL THEATRE SCHEME.

But suppose we do get our big National Theatre, with what stuff are we going to fill it? That is the really important point. What the drama of the future is going to be, neither you nor I can say; bp I think I can safely prophesy what it won't be. It won't be a rambling conversation on the model of those recent plays of Mr. Shaw and Mr. Barker, which had so brief a career at the Duke of York's Theatre. I submit it is a model of what to avoid. If the drama is to develop, it will have to develop along dramatic lines. It must obey the law of economy in art; not run to waste by aiming at effect which could just as easily be produced without the apparatus of a theatre and the aid of a company of actors. And a play must always, in the future as in the past, be something organic and whole, or it will not hold the spectator's attention. And there is another thing that I will venture to prophesy the new drama will not be. It will not be that thing of gloom that some of our dramatists, old as well as new, seem sometimes anxious to make it. Who says art, says pleasure. Depend upon it, "with such a being as man in such a world as the present one" people will not go to the theatre in order to spend an unhappy evening. By all means let our higher dramatists write plays to improve our minds and to awaken our consciences; but they will succeed in doing neither unless at the same time they can contrive to give us pleasure. A play that is not something for the public pleasure is nothing but a public nuisance.

In his reply on behalf of the Fund, Mr. Edward Terry thanked them for favours received, with a lively sense of favours to come. He had responded for the Association for something over twenty years, and it had always been a very great pleasure to him. He had taken the very greatest possible pleasure and pride in the success of the Fund, and could assure them that it had been managed in the most admirable way. When their old people passed away, if they had no one else to leave their money to, they invariably bequeathed it to the Fund. He instanced one lady, whom, until he became a director of the Fund, he had not the remotest idea was still living. He had tinselled her picture as Claude Duval when a little boy, one of the penny plain and twopence coloured variety. He believed he had that picture at home now. Last year that lady had passed away, and, after being for many years a subscriber to the Fund, and appreciating its benefits, had left all her money, to the amount of £750, to the Fund. His old friend Mrs. Stevenson, widow of Chas. Stevenson, told him she wished to leave what she might die possessed of to the Fund. All they wanted now, in the Fund, was young blood. They had plenty of money to carry out their contract with people. They gave greater benefits than any other association, he believed, in the world. They took great pride in it, and had still amongst them the House of Rothschild, who had been very kind to them for many years. From the Duke of Bedford they had an annual subscription of £50, from Sir Ernest Cassel they had also an annual subscription of £50, and the Chairman had kindly placed to their credit the very handsome sum of £60. The result of his advocacy and presence in the chair had brought them in the very handsome sum of £750. On behalf of the Directors of the Fund and the Trustees, he thanked the Chairman, Mr. Martin Harvey, for his presence, and congratulated him on his great success at the Lyceum Theatre.

An additional speech, and an unexpected one, was made by Sir John Hare, who said he wished to refer to Mr. Walkley's remarks concerning the National Theatre. He (Sir John) had great admiration for Mr. Walkley's abilities as a critic. But it distressed him to hear Mr. Walkley cast reflections and even ridicule on the Shakespeare Memorial scheme. There might be many weak places in its armour, but its object was to make for the best in dramatic art. It distressed him to find it had the cold shoulder from the Press. England should honour Shakespeare fittingly. All other countries honoured their poets. All the recognition their greatest poet had got was a statue in Leicester Square.

The artists who contributed to a very fine musical programme were Miss Ellinora Hoggarth, Mme. Sobrino, Mr. Gregory Hast, Mr. E. Gordon Cleather, Miss Mary Wynne Hulm, Mr. Wilhelm Ganz, and Mr. Adolph Mann.

TRINITY COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The performance of Les Cloches de Corneville at the Kingsway Theatre on Wednesday night by students of the college was quite a triumph for the Trinity College of Music and Mr. Cairns James, who conducted. It was pleasant to renew acquaintance with the Marquis, Germaine, and Serpolette, the pompous Bailie, with his absurd puns, and the lively Gobo. The performance on Wednesday evening was excellent, and the students acted and sang with great spirit. Miss Eveline Matthews made a very effective Serpolette, and spoke her lines admirably. As Germaine Miss Edith Davies sang and acted with great intelligence. The "Ding-dong Bell" solo and chorus were, of course, encored, and her pleasing solo in the second act, "When rescued from a watery grave," proved very attractive. The famous "Just look at this and look at that" solo and chorus were also successful, and had to be repeated. Mr. Herbert Whitmee made a gallant Marquis of Corneville, singing with clear enunciation and acting gracefully. One of the prettiest airs in the opera is "One charming maiden," for the rendering of which Mr. Whitmee was encored, and he made a good impression in the solo and chorus, "Your good sword," in the second act. The most striking part in Les Cloches de Corneville is that of the miser Gaspard, and in this Mr. Mendel J. Trachtenberg displayed considerable dramatic talent. The Bailie was cleverly and humorously acted by Mr. John Priestley; and Mr. H. J. Turquand's capital Gobo showed downright comic genius. Mr. Turquand's slight figure was admirably adapted for the part, and his make-up and funny acting were excellent. As Grenicheux Mr. Eric Cooper sang remarkably well. The chorus were animated, and the fresh, young voices in the tuneful music were very pleasant to hear. The smaller parts of Manette, Jeanne, Gertrude, and Suzanne were well played by the Misses Brockman, Trachtenberg, Barge, and Lawler. The scenery of Messrs. E. V. and A. Williams was good, and the pretty costumes by Messrs. B. J. Simmons and company were very attractive. A small string orchestra, ably conducted by Mr. Leonard M. Day, gave a good account of Planquette's melodious score; and Miss Maud Agnes Winter, L.T.C.L., and Mr. Harry Gray rendered useful aid at the piano and organ. There was a large audience, and the whole performance reflected credit on the students and their talented director, Mr. Cairns James.

Mr. Leolyn Hart, the noted scenic artist, has provided a magnificent scenic production, entitled "The Last Days of Pompeii," at the Crystal Palace. The final tableau, "The Destruction," is one of the grandest and most realistic effects imaginable. Whole buildings, temples, and columns over 50ft. in height crash to the ground and then crumble to pieces before the eyes of the audience. Over 800 performers take part in the production, and the whole is on such a large and magnificent scale that it is sure to prove a big success. Mr. Hart is now busy preparing models and drawings for the Pageant of London, to be held at the Crystal Palace next year.

THE DYSPEPTIC'S SHEET-ANCHOR

Do you wake tired? Eat half a breakfast? Feel out of sorts, dull, heavy, irritable, unfit for work? If so, you have dyspepsia. You are drifting into a miserable state of ill-health, because your stomach is out of order! Mother Seigel's Syrup, the herbal tonic, will tone up and strengthen your stomach and gently stimulate your liver. Then sleep will refresh you; you will eat with relish, digest your food, and thus regain the strength, vitality and cheerfulness of sound health!

MOTHER SEIGEL'S SYRUP

"I had indigestion—or dyspepsia, with a sinking sensation below my chest; was very depressed and had no 'go' in me. Then I took Mother Seigel's Syrup. Now I can eat anything and am always fit for work, for Mother Seigel's Syrup cured me! I have needed no medicine of any kind since!"—A. G. Walker, 36, Middleton Street, Bethnal Green, London.

MADE FROM THE CURATIVE EXTRACTS OF ROOTS, BARKS & LEAVES.

LONDON AND SUBURBAN THEATRES.

THE CORONET.

On Wednesday, the Comedy, by T. W. Robertson, entitled "SCHOOL."

A capital representation of School, which was revived last year at the popular Notting Hill Gate theatre, was given on Wednesday, the 15th inst. This bright, sunny, and idyllic comedy is as refreshing and exhilarating as ever, and "age cannot wither" it, "nor custom stale" its infinite charm. Miss Rosie Begarnie is now the Naomi Tighe, and as the frank, big-hearted West Indian heiress she acts with brightness, tenderness, and charm, and scores her points with arch precision; Miss Estelle Winwood is a delightful Bella, all gentleness and grace and goodness, and wins all hearts in the rôle; Mr. Athol Stewart—who, by the way, we inadvertently deprived last week of the honours of his excellent impersonation of Chudleigh Dunscombe in M.P.—is entirely excellent as Lord Arthur Beaufoy, and acts with becoming manliness and sincerity; Mr. James Carew is very well cast for the part of the imperturbable Jack Poyntz, in which he comes out strong; Mr. O. B. Clarence contributes one of his delightful old-man portraits as Beau Farintosh; Mr. Charles Harley is dignified and impressive as Dr. Theodore Sutcliffe; and Mrs. A. B. Tapping repeats her excellent exposition of character as Mrs. Sutcliffe. Mr. William Rokeby as the Uriah Heep-like Mr. Krun earns the general detestation of the audience by his life-like portraiture of this snake-like man; Miss Nell Compton and others do good work as schoolgirls; and the whole piece goes with vim and vitality.

THE ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.

On Monday, June 13, the Drama entitled

"A GIRL'S TEMPTATION."

As presented by Mr. Morton Powell's capital company, this play met with a fine welcome at this go-ahead South London playhouse. The many unpleasant truths which are so forcibly declaimed certainly bear out the statement on the programme that it is a "play with a purpose." Miss Gertrude Gilbert ably enacts the prodigal workgirl Kate Stirling, who, through force of circumstances, loses her character and home, but after much trial and tribulation eventually finds a husband. Mr. Frank V. Fenn worthily upholds the part of the millionaire's son, Guy Warren; Mr. Clifton Earle does remarkably well as the scheming scoundrel, Mark Klaw; Mr. Charles Herbert as Basil Warren plays to the life the stern but relenting father; Mr. Tom Handley is a typical dude as the Hon. Charles Clade; Mr. Gerald Molan is a pathetic Geoffrey Stirling; Mr. Freddie Bentley as Sammy Sniggins and Miss Amy Corallie as Jemima Jossap provide some very necessary comic relief; Mr. Wm. H. Grande is a very repulsive German sweater, Moss Isaacstein; Miss Winnie Donovan plays realistically as the adventuress, Lady Constance Heathfield. Miss Louie Walton plays well as Mrs. Stirling.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, June 13, the Play, in Three Acts and Prologue, entitled

"THE SORROWS OF SATAN."

At the Shakespeare on Monday a cordial greeting was extended to Miss Louie Esmond's company, who presented The Sorrows of Satan, adapted from Marie Corelli's famous novel. A large and enthusiastic audience followed the play with keen interest, and the weird nature of the piece, together with the mystic effects introduced, made the production thoroughly novel and entertaining. The acting all round was completely satisfactory, and the scenery in every respect was excellent. Mr. Edward Neville's embodiment of Prince Lucio Rimanez was complete in every detail, and his cool cynicism and convincing acting made the character weirdly effective. Mr. Jack McGaig, in the rôle of Geoffrey Tempest, played with much earnestness, and fully met the requirements of the part. The aged aristocrat the Earl of Elton was ably portrayed by Mr. J. E. Le Fleming, and Mr. B. Anderson was satisfactory as Charles Grimes. Mr. Percy Foreman submitted a quiet but humorous performance as the servant Morris; Mr. Hemnic Sisto did all that was possible in the part of Amiel; and Mr. Frank Wheatley contributed useful support as Lord Lynton. Miss Rosie Neville scored a success as the ill-fated Lady Sybil Elton, and is to be congratulated on an excellent portrayal of a rather trying part. Miss Louie Esmond as Diana Chesney was completely American in manners and speech; Miss Dorothy Dewhurst was a pleasing Mavis Clare; and Miss Cecil Bryne as Mrs. Grimes presented a clever character study of a lodging-house keeper. The play was preceded by an amusing farcical sketch, entitled Two Soft, the parts of which were capably sustained by Miss Dorothy Dewhurst and Mr. F. Wheatley.

THE PAVILION THEATRE.

On Monday, June 13, the Drama entitled

"WOMAN AND WINE."

The Pavilion stock company gave its farewell performance this week, when Woman and Wine was successfully presented. The patrons of the Pavilion regret to lose such a fine company; they will certainly miss Mr. Ashley Page and Miss Marion Denvil, who have won much admiration. Miss Marie McAuley played Marcel Rigadout, the woman who didn't care, in a realistic manner; Mr. Oswald Lingard was seen at his best in the part of Hugh Seymour, his performance being very impressive; Mr. Ashley Page played Dick Seymour in a capable manner; and as Mary Andrews Miss Marion Denvil scored a great success. Mr. Alexander Bradley as Alphonse Baudet and Mr. Charles Wright as Carlo were good. La Colombe was acted by Miss Phyllis Orme with much ability; Mr. Fred Rivers won applause by his impersonation of the ugly Pierre Crucru; Mr. Allen Carruthers played with his usual skill; Mr. Fred George's impersonation of Mark Parkin was a convincing study. The humour of the evening was provided in irresistible manner by Miss Nellie James and Mr. Will Harman. Variety was introduced in the second and third act by Fifi Gordon and troupe, who won much appreciation.

BROADWAY THEATRE.

On Monday, June 13, the Drama entitled

"THE SHAUGHRAUN."

Irish drama is meeting with a cordial reception, and is capitally interpreted by the excellent stock company. Mr. E. C. Matthews gives a bright and breezy rendering of the irrepressible Conn; Miss Sadie Neville submits a charming performance of Moya; Miss Alice Defoe is an attractive and clever actress, and her Claire Ffolliott is exceptionally good; Miss Claire Millvain is an excellent Arte O'Neal; Miss Amy Venimore is an amusing Mrs. O'Kelly, and Miss Sinclair plays her part well. Mr. E. Vassall-Vaughan is a capital Captain Molyneux, and is a warm favourite with the audience; the unfortunate Robert Ffolliott is well acted by Mr. E. McLean; Mr. Ellis J. Preston is a lovable Father Dolan; Mr. Fred Terriss is a powerful Corry Kinchelsea; Mr. W. L. Clements is a characteristic Harvey Duff, and other parts are well acted by Mr. R. A. Robinson (Sergeant Jones), Mr. F. Hunter (Sullivan), Mr. C. Hersee (Reilly), Mr. Martyn (Mangan), Mr. F. Allworth (Doyle), and Mr. E. Emery (Donovan).

On Thursday and Friday evening The Colleen Bawn was presented, with Mr. E. C. Matthews as Myles, Mr. E. Vassall-Vaughan as Hardress, Mr. Terriss as Danny, Mr. Ellis J. Preston Father Tom, and Mr. R. A. Robinson Kyrle Daly; Miss Sadie Neville Eily O'Connor, Miss Amy Venimore Mrs. Cregan, and Miss Alice Defoe Anne Chute. Arrah-na-Pogue is billed for next week.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Wednesday, the Comedy, by T. W. Robertson, "THE ENGLISH ROSE."

The summer stock season at Kennington Theatre is now in full swing, and on Monday Mr. Robert Arthur produced that thrilling and interesting drama, from the joint pens of Mr. G. R. Sims and Mr. Robert Buchanan, entitled The English Rose. The play is splendidly staged and dressed, and nothing was wanting on the opening night to ensure it making an immediate and successful appeal to the sympathies of a large house. The story has a romantic Irish setting, and abounds with exciting situations, varied with humorous incidents, so that lovers of melodrama have their requirements amply met. That they appreciated the production was evident by the frequent curtain calls on Monday. In the title-rôle Miss Jessie Winter was as winsome and charming as ever, making an ideal English girl (Ethel Kingston), who had captivated the affections of a chivalrous gentleman. Mr. Walter Gay was a frank and manly Harry O'Mailley, enacting the part with much histrionic skill; Mr. G. P. Polson was a warm-hearted and picturesque figure as the ruined Knight of Ballyveeny; and Mr. Frank Robertson was a dignified Father Michael, the priest, who was prevented by the seal of confession from denouncing the perpetrator of the murder for which his brother was sentenced to death. Mr. Fred Morgan as the villainous Captain MacDonell was excellent, putting in some of his best work; Mr. Herbert Lloyd won high praise for his admirable study of the drunken and misguided Randal O'Mara, the tool of MacDonell; Mr. Wilson Blake was well placed as Sir Philip Kingston, the unpopular landlord, who fell a victim to his agent's treachery; Mr. Maitland Marler was full of fun as Dickinson, the reprobate car-driver, and kept the house in a roar whenever he was about; Mr. Frank Crimp also revealed the possession of rare gifts of comedy, and made a big hit as Sergeant O'Reilly; while Miss Nellie Burdette was bright and lively as a lady's maid. Miss Elsie Videan was a general favourite as Patsey, the changeling boy; Miss Winifred Whyte gave a vivid sketch of Bridget O'Mara. Other rôles were well filled. An excellent series of cinematograph pictures was shown before and after the play.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, June 13, the Play entitled,

"WITH EDGED TOOLS."

Mr. H. Armitage introduces at the Dalston Theatre this week a dramatic version of Henry Seaton Merriman's work, With Edged Tools. The piece is presented with wonderfully good effect, not a point being lost throughout, the scenery being capital. Jack Meredith, the hero of the story, has in Mr. Charles Hartopp a thoroughly manly representative; the Guy Oscard of Mr. J. D. Geddes is another specimen of vigorous work; and Mr. Charles Barrett's representation of the weird character of Victor Durnovo is more than ordinarily interesting. The quietly effective manner of Miss Marie Leonhard as Jocelyn Gordon constitutes her a great favourite; Miss Marguerite Cellier plays Millicent Cheyne with care; Miss Alice Maude is a dignified Lady Cantourne; and Miss Edith Anton-Laing appears successfully in the dual rôle of Marie and Lady Herries. Mr. Walter Russell is Sir John Meredith; Mr. J. Graham Pockett is an adequate Maurice Gordon; and Mr. Frank Leyton does well as a servant. The stage-management is under the able direction of Mr. Charles Barrett. After this week the theatre will remain closed until the August Bank Holiday, during which interval the house will be redecorated.

THE BRIXTON.

On Monday, June 13, the Drama entitled

"IT'S NEVER TOO LATE TO MEND."

The late Charles Reade's popular drama is the attraction here this week, and a capable and interesting performance is being given by the stock company. In the arduous rôle of Tom Robinson, Mr. H. Bonhote Wilson scores heavily, and displays genuine feeling, especially in the later scenes of the play. He is very ably assisted by Miss Mary Pemberton, who is an ideal representative of the sweetness of Susan Merton; and Mr. Newman Maurice, admirable as the rascally lawyer Crawley; Mr. A. E. Johnstone as the kindly chaplain, Rev. Francis Eden, does remarkably well; Mr. Charles Lambert is good as Mr. Hawes; and Mr. Marius St. John depicts well George Fielding; Jacky is in clever Mr. Will Smith's hands; Mr. W. H. Porter is well cast as Mr. Meadows; and Mr. Herbert Godard an admirable exponent of Mr. Merton. The trials of Joseph, the poor waif, are vividly depicted by Miss May Day; Miss Nora Layton is a pleasing Mary; Mr. Harry Weston does justice as William Fielding; and Isaac Levy is well played by Mr. Walter Graham. It's Never Too Late to Mend is picturesquely mounted, and the production generally deserves praise.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, June 13, the Dramatic Playlet, in Five Scenes, entitled

"HURRAH, BOYS, HURRAH!"

The combination of drama and pictures, twice nightly, has now settled down into an assured success, and the West Londoners fully appreciate the excellence of the programmes weekly provided for their amusement by Mr. F. R. Griffiths, under the skilful guidance of Mr. W. H. Nugent, who is clearly the right man in the right place. Mr. Harry Calden and his selected company are seen to much advantage in Hurrah, Boys, Hurrah! and as John Willie Wiggles, a stable hand, Mr. Calden keeps things well on the move, and scores one of his usual Marylebone hits. Mr. Villiers Stanley proffers a meritorious portrayal of the racehorse trainer, Mark Cranston; Mr. Tom Calden figures successfully as Carol Albany; Mr. W. Ashton typically sustains the character of an old squire; Miss L. Winter wins much sympathy for her womanly interpretation of Madge Marley; and Miss Nellie Calden is quite at home as Polly Smith. Several fine films are clearly screened, amongst the most notable being Coleno's Fire Extinguisher, The Hunchback Fiddler, Incorrigible Mary, The Bank Smash, and The Equine Hero. During the evening suitable selections are played by the band, under Mr. Ward Bailey's experienced direction.

THE JAY-CURZON ENGAGEMENT.

MISS ISABEL JAY.

[Photo by Ellis and Walery.

MR. FRANK CURZON.

The engagement is announced of Mr. Frank Curzon, the lessee of the Prince of Wales' and Wyndham's Theatres, and Miss Isabel Jay. Miss Jay, who was born in London, is the daughter of Mr. J. W. Jay, a descendant of Dr. Jay, the celebrated eighteenth century musician. She first appeared on the London stage as Elsie Maynard in the 1897 revival of The Yeomen of the Guard at the Savoy. In the same year she won the first gold medal for operatic singing at the Royal Academy, of music, and was created A.R.A.M. During the next five years she appeared as the heroine in a series of Gilbert and Sullivan revivals at the same theatre. Phyllis, in Iolanthe, she names as her favourite part. Her last appearance at the Savoy was as Rose-in-bloom in Hood and German's beautiful opera The Rose of Persia.

Leaving the Savoy, Miss Jay played leading parts at Daly's and the Prince of Wales' in (among other successful productions) The White Chrysanthemum, The Cingalee, The Girl Behind the Counter, The Vicar of Wakefield, Miss Hook of Holland, and The King of Cadonia. She is at present playing the leading part in A Balkan Princess. She married Mr. Henry Sheppard Hart Cavendish, the explorer, in 1902, and has one child, a daughter.

Mr. Curzon is a Liverpool man, his father being senior partner in the Dee Oil Company, of Chester. As a boy he was employed by the company, but ultimately became famous in connection with the old Strand Theatre—where he produced A Chinese Honeymoon—the Prince of Wales', and several other West-end houses.

THE IRISH NATIONAL THEATRE.

Mr. W. B. Yeats and Mr. A. Gregory write:—"In some of the many discussions of late upon the possibility and uses of repertory theatres, kind words have been spoken about our Irish one. Mr. Walkley, in his speech at the dinner of the Royal Theatrical Fund last Sunday, said that the promoters of the Shakespeare National Theatre and all who might think of starting a repertory theatre, 'could not have a better example of the real value of a modest enterprise than that afforded by the Irish National Theatre, which they owed to Mr. Yeats and his comrades.' For eleven years past we have worked very hard in the attempt to found and to put on a permanent footing this enterprise. Six years ago we were enabled by a generous subsidiary to play on a regular stage. A school of Irish writers and actors has been founded, which has given a distinguished and powerful representation of Irish country life. The works of our fellow-director, the late Mr. Synge, are recognised everywhere now by students of dramatic literature as among the most important that have been given to the theatre in our time. We play also and find an audience for translations of foreign masterpieces, especially those of Molière, akin to the folk drama, and of Goldoni. All the laborious building up, the slow amassing of a large repertory of Irish plays, the training of actors, the making of a reputation with the general public, has been accomplished or all but accomplished. Our takings in our last financial year are almost three times what they have been in any previous year, and we believe that within a few years we shall be independent of outside aid. We need not be ashamed of having to wait these few years, for after ten years the celebrated Moscow Art Theatre is still carried on at a loss.

"Our subsidy, including the free use of the Abbey Theatre, comes to an end, as well as our patent, this year. We have saved enough money (about £1,900) to take over the Abbey Theatre and to pay for a new patent—a somewhat heavy expense. Our business advisers tell us that the sum of £5,000, which would hardly suffice a London theatre for a season, would keep our theatre vigorous, intellectual, and courageous for another half-dozen years. Towards this endowment we have already been given £2,000, among the donors being Mr. J. M. Barrie, Mr. A. Birrell, Colonel Hutchison Poe, Lord Pirrie, Lord Iveagh, Mr. Wilfrid Blunt, Lady Bell, Lord Dunsany, Mr. F. Huth Jackson, the Duke of Leinster, and the Duchess of Sutherland. Lady Tennant, 34, Queen Anne's-gate, herself a large subscriber, is kind enough to act as our treasurer. Should we receive no more than this £2,000, we shall still go on for as long as we can, but we shall be crippled and not able to carry out plans for the strengthening and widening of our work; and we shall have, as in the years past, to give up to the actual business of the theatre so great a part of our own time as to interfere with our personal and creative work. We feel we have almost pushed the ball up the hill. We shall be grateful to any friends of our enterprise who will help us to keep it from rolling down again."

"THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER." By Albert A. Strong, LL.B. (Lond.). Price 3s. 6d., post free 3s. 10d. Address, THE PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-st., Strand, W.C.

IRISH NATIONAL THEATRE.

On Friday, June 10, at the Court Theatre, for the First Time in London, the Play, in Three Acts, by Padraic Colum, entitled

"THOMAS MUSKERRY."

Christy Clarke .....MR. U. WRIGHT
Felix Tournour .....MR. SYDNEY J. MORGAN
Myles Gorman .....MR. FRED O'DONOVAN
Thomas Muskerry .....MR. ARTHUR SINCLAIR
Albert Crilly .....MR. ERIC GORMAN
Crofton Crilly .....MR. J. M. KERRIGAN
Mrs. Crilly .....MISS MAIRE O'NEILL
Anna Crilly .....MISS EILEEN O'DOHERTY
James Scollard .....MR. J. A. O'ROURKE
Mickie Cripes .....MR. R. JAMESON
An Old Man .....MR. J. M. KERRIGAN

The most unsophisticated of the many ingenuous plays which the Irish season at the Court has revealed is surely the latest, Thomas Muskerry, which was introduced to London on the 10th inst., having been produced at the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, on May 5 last. The piece makes little pretence to dramatic effect, and, indeed, the author seems deliberately to have steered clear of any attempt to quicken the action, the interest lying almost exclusively in the drawing of character, while the dialogue is quite devoid of literary polish. It is a play of mean and petty individuals, among whom the chief personage is singular. He is the honest, upright master of Garrisowen Workhouse, with thirty years of faithful service to his credit and a fairly liberal pension in prospect. His relations think he ought to retire, no one more so than his daughter, Mrs. Crilly, whose prospective son-in-law covets the position. Muskerry's resignation is hastened by the discovery, ruthlessly laid bare by his grandson, that 100 tons of coal have been charged to the Board when only half that amount was delivered by the unscrupulous coalman, the fraud being unsuspected by Muskerry, whose only hope of securing his pension is to retire before the defalcation is found out. Muskerry has had his eye on a little place in the outskirts of the town, but in the circumstances he is compelled to live with his daughter, who keeps a provision store, which her father has partly financed. Here he does not get the respect to which he is entitled, and determines to go back to the Guardians and ask them to provide for him. He is anxious to take the price of the missing coal, and asks his daughter for the loan of £50, but she refuses. Not without good reason, for her husband had backed a bill for £300 for a friend, who has decamped, and the bank had taken the sum from Crilly's deposit, which amounted to no more than £400, £80 of which belongs to Anna Crilly, Mrs. Crilly's daughter, having been left by her grandmother as a dowry. Anna is about to be married to James Scollard, who has succeeded to the position of workhouse master, and insists upon having her portion whole and entire.

In desperation Muskerry goes off to the Guardians to offer his first year's pension to liquidate his debt, but is seized with illness and laid up for a month. On his recovery he finds the authorities have effected a compromise with regard to his pension, and Muskerry is about to leave the House, where a special room was placed at his disposal during his illness. His daughter comes to request him to go and dwell with her again, as the townspeople will otherwise "boycott" the establishment, but Muskerry refuses. He has gone through the formality of obtaining his discharge, but Mrs. Crilly, in order to force him to take up his residence with her, calls attention to the fact that her father has not been passed by the doctor as fit to leave the building, and as the medical man will not go on his rounds till the following Monday, Muskerry is obliged to stay two more nights in the house. He has a horror of the "pauper's bed," but he has incurred the enmity of the ward-master, who brutally evicts Muskerry from the private room he had occupied, and leaves him to the shame of which he stands so much in dread. The degradation is too much for him, and begging a prayer from a blind piper, whom he has befriended in happier times, he passes away.

There was a disappointment in the cast on the night of production, Miss Sara Allgood, who was to have played Mrs. Crilly, being absent on account of indisposition. Her part was played by Miss Maire O'Neill, who, in the circumstances, did remarkably well, giving a natural rendering of the much-harassed Mrs. Crilly, who is driven to such discreditable expedients to make ends meet. Miss O'Neill's part was taken up by Miss Eileen O'Doherty, who made the mercenary Anna Crilly the selfish little minx the author intended her to be. Neither part, however, has much to commend it. The play indeed centres wholly round the title-rôle, enacted with unerring judgment by Mr. Arthur Sinclair. Muskerry's outburst of indignation at the insults of his former porter was especially impressive, and the pathos of the closing scene was made deeply touching, an effect to which Mr. F. O'Donovan, who gave a clever study of a blind piper, contributed in no small degree. Mr. Sydney J. Morgan, too, gave a capital rendering of the brutal and unscrupulous porter; and Mr. J. A. O'Rourke invested the ill-drawn character of James Scollard with as much consistency as could be, his distinct utterance being a commendable feature of his performance. Touches of comedy were given to the piece by Mr. J. M. Kerrigan, who drew a capital picture of the thriftless Crofton Crilly, who leaves all his business anxieties to his wife, and of a whimsical old workhouse man, who caused much laughter. Another pauper was typically represented by Mr. R. Jameson; Mr. Eric Gorman was an effective exponent of Muskerry's caddish grandson; and Mr. U. Wright acted naturally as the civil and obliging Christy Clarke, a boy reared in the workhouse. A large audience took great interest in the production, and warmly called the author, when it was explained that he was in Dublin, but that the news of the success of his piece would be communicated to him.

Another alteration was rendered necessary by Miss Allgood's absence, The Rising of the Moon having to be substituted for The Jackdaw, originally announced. Lady Gregory's clever and amusing comedietta was given by the same cast as that which did duty a few days previously, Mr. Arthur Sinclair enacting the self-important Sergeant with irresistible comicality, and Mr. J. M. Kerrigan again revealing his talents, both as a comedian and vocalist, as the pretended ballad singer.

The third week of the season was begun with two plays from the pen of the late J. M. Synge, the first being the mournful little piece Riders to the Sea, which was originally given in London at the Royalty in 1904 and repeated at the Great Queen-street three years later. The indisposition of Miss Sara Allgood was fortunately only temporary, and she was enabled this week to take up the part of the Maurya, which she played on the previous occasion. The delicate modulations of her voice made the lamentations of the bereaved mother less depressing than they might have been, and the clever actress held the close attention of the audience by the power of her impersonation. Miss Maire O'Neill was again seen as the young girl Cathleen, and acted with a complete appreciation of the pathos of the situation, good work being also done in a similar part by Miss Eileen O'Doherty. The Playboy of the Western World did duty for the remainder of the evening. We noticed the revival on its presentation last week, and it is only necessary now to record that an audience of agreeably large proportions thoroughly enjoyed the amusing incidents and the racy dialogue of the piece. Mr. Fred O'Donovan again distinguished himself as the lad who "killed his da," arousing peals of laughter, and proving again his remarkable versatility and resource. Miss Maire O'Neill was once more the perfect realisation of a roguish and spirited colleen with "a glance of the eye" that might well cause one to "shun danger and fly." Mr. Arthur Sinclair repeated his droll impersonation of the innkeeper, and Mr. Sydney J. Morgan was equally effective as the resurrected Mahon. Miss Sara Allgood made all the humorous points possible in the part of the designing widow, and the remainder of the cast was identical with that of the former production. A change of bill was made last (Friday) evening, for which revivals of Kathleen ni Houlihan, The Rising of the Moon, In the Shadow of the Glen, and The King's Threshold were announced, the last-mentioned being presented by the "Pilgrim Players."

THE LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, June 13, the Drama, by Fred Maxwell, entitled

"THE HEATHEN AND THE CHRISTIAN."

This piece has been well received, and good houses testify their appreciation in no unhesitating manner. Mr. Frank Adair fills the leading rôle with great success; and Miss Louie Adair as Mira Sampson sustains a heavy part in approved style. The character of Chang Lu is well interpreted by Mr. Herbert Sydney; Miss Eva Reid as Becky Fibbins, a love-sick slavey, cleverly contributes songs and dances; the comic part of Bar Lamb Gentle being happily performed by Mr. Charles Luck. The part of Lung Hi, Viceroy of Shantung, gives hard work to Mr. Fred Withers, who is quite equal to his task. Miss Stanley Burt arouses the sympathy and enthusiasm of the house as May Berresford; Mr. Gerald Shirley is a good second juvenile lead as Lord Allendale; Yam Yam, a Chinese dandy, has a good interpreter in Mr. James Severn; Mr. Joshua Sampson, a wealthy merchant, is well depicted by Mr. Fred Waring; and Mr. Reginald Payne is adequate as George Berresford.

MESSRS. GLENVILLE AND ELLISTON'S company's performance of The Wicked City at the Theatre Royal, Stratford, last week was very successful. It was their third visit with the play to Stratford, with new scenery, &c. Miss Treherne, Miss Farquharson, and Miss Walton did justice to their parts of Doris Grant, Clementina Spikes, and Cora Despard, and praise must be given to Mr. H. Eglinton as Charlie Chance and Mr. H. Botton as the landlord of the Henley Arms. Mr. Grahame handled Paul Desmond with firm and striking effect, especially in the dissecting-room scene and the desperate struggle in the last act. Credit is due to Miss E. Rosslyn and Miss W. Rousby. In August Messrs. Glenville and Elliston are touring Her Past Redeemed, by H. H. Hewson.

IN our notice of the performance of M.P. at the Coronet Theatre last week our critic described the part of Chudleigh Dunscombe as being played by Mr. Arthur Wontner instead of by its real representative, Mr. Athol Stewart.

TORQUAY THEATRE STAFF OUTING.

(Taken on Dartmoor by Mr. H. Crocker, the Director of the Orchestra.)

The annual outing of the staff of the Theatre Royal, Torquay, was held on Saturday last in glorious weather. The party, which numbered upwards of thirty, including Alderman W. H. Mortimer (managing-director) and Mr. Arthur Pearse (secretary) left Torquay by motor char-a-banc in the early morning. The trip to Bovey Tracey and thence across the heart of Dartmoor to Princetown, was most enjoyable. It was at the latter place that our photograph was taken by Mr. Harry Crocker, the leader of the orchestra. The party then proceeded to Plymouth, where an excellent dinner was served. The health of the managing-director (Alderman Mortimer) was drunk with enthusiasm, and the latter, in replying, thanked the staff for their continued co-operation in connection with the work of the theatre, and eulogised the valuable assistance rendered to him by the secretary (Mr. Arthur Pearse), who efforts were always in the direction of making the theatre more comfortable and inviting to patrons. After dinner the party returned to Torquay, arriving about midnight, having spent one of the most successful outings on record.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

SIR HERBERT TREE has invited Mr. Louis N. Parker to join in the work of "producing" Henry VIII. at His Majesty's Theatre. The revival will take place early in September. Mr. Percy Macquoid will design the costumes. With Sir Herbert Tree as Cardinal Wolsey, Mr. Arthur Bourchier and Miss Violet Vanbrugh as Henry VIII. and Queen Katherine, Mr. Henry Ainley as the Duke of Buckingham, and Mr. A. E. George and Mr. William Haviland also in the cast, the production should be a fine one. It is worthy of note that in Sir Henry Irving's revival of Henry VIII. at the Lyceum in 1892 Miss Violet Vanbrugh enacted Anne Boleyn.

MR. MARTIN HARVEY will conclude his season at the Lyceum with some performances of The Breed of the Treshams, which will replace Richard III. on Saturday week, June 25. The success of Richard III. has been so marked that Mr. Harvey hopes to revive it in London at no very distant date. Meanwhile, playgoers will welcome The Breed of the Treshams, which has not been revived for a very long space of time, and which will no doubt fill the large Lyceum auditorium for the rest of Mr. Harvey's season, which must end in the middle of July, in order that the popular actor may have a short holiday before his autumn tour.

MR. WEEDON GROSSMITH, for his forthcoming production of Billy's Bargain at the Garrick, has engaged Miss Olga Morra, an actress of European experience, to sustain the part of Vera Vanderhousen, a part originally played at the King's, Hammersmith, by Miss Madge Titheradge, when the piece was produced there under the title of Billy Rotterford's Descent.

MR. MULHOLLAND has been appointed a member of the Metropolitan Water Board by the unanimous vote of the Hammersmith Borough Council, of which body he is an alderman. It will be remembered that, on behalf of the Theatres Alliance, and in conjunction with the Theatrical Managers' Association and the Society of West-End managers, Mr. Mulholland recently fought a test case against the Water Board in connection with the unfair and arbitrary charges made by the Board in respect of hydrants in theatres, and although the case was technically lost, the result has been that the L.C.C. are now prepared to consider half the number of hydrants they previously demanded, so that the Water Board's charges will be reduced accordingly.

MR. CHARLES FROHMAN'S statements respecting his Repertory Theatre have, it seems, been misunderstood. He wishes it to be known that he has made propositions to Mr. Bernard Shaw, Mr. Granville Barker, Mr. John Galsworthy, and Miss Elizabeth Baker, authoress of Chains, for plays. They have failed up to the present to return favourable replies. In his next season Mr. Frohman does not propose to change his programme so often as during last season, but each play will after its production be repeated for the same number of performances, the revivals (if any) depending on the success of the pieces.

MR. CHARLES RANN KENNEDY is writing a preface for the next edition of his play, The Servant in the House, which, it will be remembered, was published by Harpers over two years ago. The preface will take the form of an open letter to a distinguished English actor-manager, and will be entitled "On a Question of Dates." It will include facsimiles of an interesting correspondence in June, 1907.

LADY BANCROFT, our readers will rejoice to learn, is now making rapid recovery from her long and severe illness, but will not be at her London house this season.

MR. CYRIL MAUDE, if he requires a change of bill during the summer, will put on a new play to carry him through until the late autumn, but if Tantalising Tommy continues to attract the public he will make no change until the end of September, when he will produce a new four-act comedy by Mr. Hubert Henry Davies, in which Miss Hilda Trevelyan and Miss Nancy Price will appear. At Christmas Mr. Maude will produce a musical version of Cinderella, written by Mr. Leo Trevor, with music by Mr. Herman Lohr, cousin of Miss Marie Lohr. Miss Margery Maude will be in the cast.

IN the House of Commons, on Tuesday, Mr. R. Harcourt asked the Home Secretary whether he had considered the report of the Joint Committee on Stage Plays (Censorship), recommending, inter alia, that a single licence should be granted to both theatres and music halls, and that the existing obligation to obtain the sanction of the Lord Chamberlain to the performance of stage plays should be abolished; and whether he proposed to introduce legislation accordingly. Mr. Churchill said: "I can only reply that the report is under my consideration."

MR. W. CLARKSON has, for the seventeenth time, supplied the uniforms, costumes, wigs, arms, accoutrements, &c., for this year's Royal Naval and Military Tournament. A special feature in the tournament, which opens on Monday, is the pageant called "Britannia's Muster," for which, in addition to the dresses, wigs, &c., Mr. Clarkson is providing five cars representing the Colonies, Cape Colony, New Zealand, Australia, Canada, and one car for Britannia to be seated on a throne with trident, shield, with a real stuffed lion at her side, and a real stuffed kangaroo on the Australian car. Mr. Clarkson has just shipped to Toronto a thousand costumes, uniforms, wigs, &c., for the Canadian celebration there called the Queen's Own Rifles Semi-Centennial Reunion, which is being produced by Mr. John Henderson. Mr. Clarkson had less than two months in which to provide them and ship them to Canada.

SIR HERBERT TREE, speaking after the fall of the curtain on The O'Flynn on Saturday night, at the New Theatre, Cardiff, after having thanked the audiences for the warmth of their reception, hoped they would continue to encourage the theatre, for the future of the theatre in Wales lay largely with the public in Cardiff. He hoped that one of these days they might have something in Cardiff similar to the institution he hoped he had established in London with great success—a Shakespeare festival. Anything that could be done to create a love for Shakespeare must be for the good of the people.

CABLES from South Africa announce the wedding on Wednesday last of Miss Alma Griffiths to Mr. Douglas Christopherson, one of the best-known of the English section of South African mining magnates. The wedding was celebrated at Cape Town Cathedral, and the bride was given away by Dr. Jameson.

MISS GRIFFITHS, who was Miss Lily Elsie's understudy in The Merry Widow, appeared as the Princess in The Waltz Dream, after which she joined the Wheeler-Edwardes Gaiety company to tour South Africa, and for twelve months was the leading lady. It was during her success as Alice in The Dollar Princess at Johannesburg that she was wooed and won by Mr. Christopherson. That gentleman is a member of the well-known Kentish athletic family. Sixteen years ago he chose South Africa as his home, and has a palatial residence at Parktown, Johannesburg. He took part in the Jameson raid, and fought through the Boer War.

THE following memorial was sent to Mr. Asquith with reference to the Woman Suffrage Bill:—"Sir,—We, the undersigned members of the theatrical profession, desire to record our belief that women ought without delay to be admitted to the Parliamentary franchise. A disqualification for the franchise founded merely upon sex we consider to be not only an injustice, but, in these days of political, social, industrial, and artistic activity amongst women, an anomaly, and an unworthy relic of less enlightened times. We believe that women both need and fully deserve the Parliamentary vote, in order that they may employ it for the protection of their professional and industrial interests and for the promotion of the national welfare. We, therefore, respectfully urge that the Government, of which you are the head shall accord facilities to the Woman Suffrage Bill to be introduced in the House of Commons on June 14. This measure, which will confer the vote upon women householders and occupiers, has our earnest support, and we trust that you, as Prime Minister, will make such provision as will enable the Bill to become law during the present session of Parliament.—We are, your obedient servants, Sir John Hare, Mr. Forbes Robertson, Sir Charles Wyndham, Miss Violet Vanbrugh, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, Miss Eva Moore, Miss Fanny Brough, Mr. Basil Gill, Miss Fay Davis, Mr. Henry Ainley, Mr. Ben Webster, Mr. Cyril Keightley, Miss Charlotte Granville, Miss Edith Craig, Miss Ellen Terry, Miss Gertrude Elliott (Mrs. Forbes-Robertson), Miss Mary Moore, Miss Adeline Bourne, Miss Irene Vanbrugh, Mr. Gerald Du Maurier, Miss Katherine Compton (Mr. R. C. Carton), Miss Muriel Beaumont, Miss Hilda Trevelyan, Mr. Herbert Waring, Mr. Edmund Gwenn, Mrs. Saba Raleigh, Miss Decima Moore, Miss May Whitty.

IN the suffrage procession this evening Miss Cicely Hamilton, Miss Elizabeth Robins, Miss Evelyn Sharpe, Miss Eva Moore, Miss Fanny Brough, Miss Janette Steer, Miss Agnes Thomas, Miss Decima Moore, Miss Winifred Mayo, Mrs. Madeleine Lucette Ryley, Mme Liza Lehmann, Miss Beatrice Harraden, and Miss Esther Palliser will take part.

MR. EDMUND PAYNE reappeared at the Gaiety Theatre on Saturday, after a six months' absence owing to illness, in Our Miss Gibbs, which was provided with a new second act, with fresh scenery, dances, and songs. In the new second act Mr. Payne appears as an extravagantly attired jinrickshaman and jiu-jitsu wrestler, and as a rooster in a burlesque of Chantecler, Mr. George Grossmith, jun., being seen as an attenuated hen pheasant. Mr. Grossmith's "Yip-i-addy" is replaced by an "Angelina" song, with a chorus of country cousins; and other novelties are Miss Olive May's song on a swing of flowers, and a Scotch song, "In the Hielans," for Miss Jean Aylwin.

MR. CHARLES GIBBONS'S tour of the screamingly funny farce, by Michael Morton, The Little Stranger, opens at Bexhill on Thursday next, with Eastbourne, Douglas, Scarborough, Newcastle, Lowestoft, &c., to follow. The cast includes the marvellous little baby actress little Hetty Hornsby, Messrs. Charles Fancourt, Edward Jephson, Bruce Lindley, J. W. Wilkinson, W. S. Stevenson, Miss Jean Harcourt, Miss Evelyn Robson, Miss Carrie Young, and the talented young actress Miss Nellie Clyde, Mr. Gibbon himself appearing as Paul Vronsky. The piece is being produced by Mr. Charles Steuart.

MR. PAUL RUBENS has now joined Miss Jessie Bateman in the Waxworks at the Theatrical Garden Party. Mr. Thomas Beecham has kindly expressed a wish that all his artists will appear in the Palais de Luxe. Miss Lena Ashwell and Miss Eva Moore have recruited fifty-two leading actors and actresses to assist them at the Lake Tea Chalet, and Miss Compton and the indefatigable Mrs. Gay have collected a fine array of theatrical photos.

MR. FRANK ROTHSAY, who has been acting-manager of the Stratford Borough Theatre since its opening in 1896, has severed his connection with the Messrs. Fredericks, and has accepted an appointment under the régime of Messrs. Wentworth Croke, Milton Bode, and Edward Compton. Mr. Rothsay made himself immensely popular in Stratford, and his annual complimentary benefits were conspicuous for the well-known artists who have assisted thereat and for the splendid attendances. He will take with him in his new sphere very many good wishes from playgoing Stratford.

"PROBATION," a play in three acts, by Frances M. Lightner, was produced for copyright purposes at the Court Theatre on June 10.

MR. GEORGE MARLOW has secured through his agent, Mr. Edward Thane, the Australian and New Zealand rights of Mr. Frederick Melville's most successful drama, The Bad Girl of the Family. Mr. Marlow is giving the play a trial run at Adelaide before producing at his new theatre in Sydney.

MR. GEORGE ARLISS, who has been touring the United States with Septimus, a dramatisation of W. J. Locke's novel of the same name, has returned to England for the summer.

THE first London suburban production of My Lady Bellamy, which is being toured by Mr. Alex. Maclean, and is meeting with a great success, will take place at the Theatre Royal, Woolwich, Monday, June 20, for six nights; special matinée, Thursday, June 23, at 2.30 p.m. Mr. Alfred Martin is acting as business-manager for Mr. Maclean.

MR. HARRY YOUNG, the popular manager of the Muncaster Theatre, Bootle, who has held that important position for some seven years, will take his second annual benefit on Thursday evening next. The Bootle Borough Band will be present, and some thirty turns, by variety artists engaged in Liverpool, will be provided.

MISS LILA FIELD will give her fifth dramatic and musical matinée on Friday next at the Queen's Theatre, Shaftesbury-avenue, when a new one-act comedy, by Frederick Fenn and Richard Price, entitled Out of Sight, will be played. The Lily Queen, produced by Miss Field at her last matinée, will be repeated in improved form, only children taking part in it. The celebrated Russian dancers Mme. Anna Pavlova and Michael Mordkin are to be imitated by Victoria Pacy and Edna Maude.

AFTER the performance of David Garrick by Mr. Norman V. Norman's company at the Theatre Royal, Plymouth, last Saturday the curtain was re-raised, and disclosed Mr. James Langdon Lee standing in the midst of a pretty green upholstered sitting-room suite. This furniture, Mr. Lee announced, was to be presented to the holder of the winning number drawn from a box containing all the tickets that had been sold that evening. Representatives from the audience were desired to step upon the stage and witness the strict fairness of the proceedings. After the box containing the tickets had been shaken by several people from different parts of the house, it was passed to Miss Beatrice Wilson, who with Mr. Norman remained upon the stage to witness the proceedings. Miss Wilson put her hand in, drew out a number, and read it off in clear tones. The suite was won by a Mr. S. F. Heal.

MR. LEWIS WALLER is busy with rehearsals of Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner, which will shortly replace Don César de Bazan at the Lyric Theatre. The piece originally ran at the Imperial for something like three months, and drew more money to the exchequer of that theatre during the time specified than any of the long series presented there by Mr. Waller. The part of the heroine will be sustained by Miss Madge Titheradge; Mr. Herbert Jarman will enact the rôle originally in the hands of Mr. Lyall S. Swete, and Mr. Waller will undertake the character in which he appeared when the piece was produced at the Imperial Theatre on April 16, 1904.

TWICE-NIGHTLY drama is proving a trump card at the Theatre Royal, Birkenhead, where Mr. W. W. Kelly is running a special summer season on the lines indicated. For weeks past Mr. Kelly has had eighteen performances a week, the afternoons being devoted to cinematograph matinées, and it has been no uncommon thing for the "house full" boards to be out thrice daily. On Monday Mr. Kelly will present Mr. James Lodge-Percy and Mr. James Martin's company in a répertoire of plays, and on Friday a benefit is to be accorded Miss Henrietta Schrier.

THE forthcoming attraction at Mr. W. W. Kelly's Liverpool theatre is Mr. James Willard's new production Paying the Price. The company includes Mr. Willard and Mr. Charles Carte. On Monday week Miss Edith Cole (Mrs. W. W. Kelly) will make her first appearance at her husband's theatre, appearing as the Duchess in support of Mr. Auguste Van Biene in The Broken Melody.

THE committee of the Shakespeare Memorial National Theatre will give a pageant representative of Elizabethan days, called "The Masque of Shakespeare," on June 30 and July 1, at four o'clock, in the gardens of St. Dunstan's, Regent's Park, the residence of Lord Londesborough. Besides these two performances there will be a third, on July 2, at 3.30, at Knole, Sevenoaks, Lord Sackville's house.

THE Masque will introduce many of the principal characters in the dramatist's plays, some allegorical personages, and some of the actors and actresses of the last two centuries. There will be a Frolic of Titania and her Fairies, a pavane in which some of the characters take part, and an Allegorical Dance (a Masque within a Masque) called into being by Prospero.

THE music for the dances has been specially written by Mr. Morton Stephenson, while the book has been put together by Mrs. Edith Lyttleton. The Masque will be produced by Mr. Philip Carr. Among the performers will be Miss Elizabeth Asquith and Mrs. Winston Churchill. Miss Lillah McCarthy and Miss Lilian Braithwaite are to appear as Tragedy and Comedy.

MISS HORNIMAN, owing to the fact that a dramatic performance was given at the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, on May 7, the day on which King Edward's death became known, has decided to withdraw the subsidy which she has hitherto granted to the Abbey Theatre. The subsidy which the Abbey Theatre has enjoyed was granted for four years.

MR. BLAKE ADAMS has received many congratulations on his son Ronald having obtained a three years' scholarship for the University College School, Frognal.

MR. EDWARD AVINAL, whose career we described last week, has just returned to town after successfully playing the principal heavy rôles in Mr. Robert Arthur's and S. Forbes Knowles's stock season at His Majesty's Theatre, Aberdeen. He has not yet arranged for the autumn.

IN the suit brought by Mr. W. Clarkson, the famous London theatrical costumier, against the lessees of the Porte-Saint-Martin Theatre for breach of contract in reference to the supply of costumes for Chantecler, the Court on Monday ordered the plaintiff to lodge £80 as security for the costs of the action.

MR. W. E. POTTS is in London, booking for his forthcoming season at the Opera House, Dunfermline. The last season was the best he has had, He has made many excellent bookings, and everything promises well for the autumn and winter.

THE leading juvenile part in the new farce by Helene Gingold, entitled Looking for Trouble, which will be produced in Brighton on July 4, will be created by Mr. Blake Adams, instead of Mr. Walter Pearce as stated.

THE many professional friends of Mr. Fred S. Jennings, the genial and popular manager of the Lyric, Hammersmith, will be glad to hear that he has almost entirely recovered from his recent indisposition, and that his continued discharge of his duties is no longer attended with any discomfort.

MISS EVELYN MILLARD has arranged with Sir Charles Wyndham for a short season at the New Theatre, and will start operations there on or about Sept. 1, her season lasting till the middle of October, when Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton will appear at the New Theatre in Count Hannibal.

THE third of the Robertson comedies that Mr. Robert Arthur will stage at the Coronet is Caste, which will be produced next Saturday, June 25. Mr. O. B. Clarence will be Eccles; Miss Adeline Bourne the Esther; and Miss Rosie Begarnie the Polly. Mrs. A. B. Tapping will appear as the Marquise; her son, Mr. Athol Stewart, as the Hon. George D'Alroy; and Mr. James Carew as Captain Hawtree.

THE annual benefit of Mr. John Gaffney, the esteemed manager and secretary of the Liverpool Shakespeare Theatre, which took place last week, was most successful. Mr. Gaffney has been connected with this theatre since it was built in 1888, and his yearly "red letter night" is always looked forward to with interest. At his last gathering all the principal variety artists engaged in the city and district came forward to offer their services, and a number of local amateurs and others gave a most humorous rendering of Bardell v. Pickwick.

THE cast of Messrs. Leo Trevor and John Harwood's sporting melodrama The Pick of Oakham; or, The Girl with the Bad Habit, which will be an important attraction at the theatrical garden-party at the Botanic Gardens on the 28th inst, will include Mr. E. M. Robson, Mr. Kenneth Douglas, Mr. Cyril Maude, Mr. John Beauchamp, Mr. Lennox Pawle, Mr. Edward Terry, Mr. Fred Lewis, Mr. Lionel Rignold, Miss Hilda Trevelyan, Miss Constance Hyem, and Miss Sydney Fairbrother.

IT is now fifteen months since Mr. Louis Hillier introduced Cavaliere Castellano's Italian Grand Opera company to the London public, when it gave very successful seasons at the Coronet and Drury Lane Theatres and operatic concerts at the Albert Hall, Queen's Hall, and Alhambra. Meanwhile the company has been travelling all over England, Scotland, and Ireland, and on Sunday next it will again be heard in London, appearing at the Albert Hall in airs, duets, and ensembles from Italian opera, sung by Signori Folco, Barbato, Vail, Catini, and Modesti, and Mesdames Protti, Rocco, and Defral. The orchestra will be conducted by Signor Papi and Mr. Louis Hillier.

WE regret to announce the death of Miss Nellie Thearle (Mrs. Stanley Hope), who passed away after a very short illness on Wednesday last. Miss Thearle and her husband, who is the manager of the Opera House, Jersey, were on a short holiday in London prior to the commencement of the summer season. On the 2nd inst. Mrs. Hope suffered a serious attack of cerebral hæmorrhage, from which she never recovered.

MISS NELLIE THEARLE was a graceful and accomplished actress, and appeared several times in the earlier days of her stage career with the then famous Lytton Amateur Dramatic Club in Liverpool. She has held engagements with many first-class companies, always playing principal rôles, and was at one time a member of Mr. F. R. Benson's company, undertaking an important round of parts in the very extensive Shakespearean répertoire. After meeting her husband in 1896 she then toured with his companies, playing Rosamond in Sowing the Wind, Faith Desborough in The Defender of the Faith, and in various other pieces and productions. Since residing in Jersey Miss Thearle's appearances on the stage have been very few. The funeral is to take place to-day at the Kirkdale Cemetery, Liverpool, at 2 p.m.

MR. ARMSTRONG BELL, whose funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon, has been succeeded at the Royal, Portsmouth, by Mr. Arthur A. Homer, who has during the long illness of the deceased been his efficient locum tenens.

MR. TOM WATT has still further strengthened his excellent company playing the Heath-Wilson Barrett Bullock version of East Lynne by engaging Mr. Frank Beresford to enact Archibald Carlyle and stage-manage. Mr. Beresford will be remembered for his sterling work as John Storm in The Christian, in the title-part in Convict 99, and as George Thornton in Two Little Vagabonds. Under his able direction the old play is going more strongly than ever, and is now in the twenty-second consecutive week of its tour.

MR. J. W. LINDSAY has engaged Miss Pauline Emeric, who made such a success as Sunday, for Klara in Lights Out, also Arthur T. Barugh, Herbert Lugg, Alfred Clude Clarke, Francis J. Bitbell, and Miss Jessie Jay.

MISS DORA HAMMERSLEY begins her dramatic stock season, under the management of Mr. Charles Kean, at the Gaiety Theatre, Dundee, on Monday. The opening attraction will be the celebrated drama The Shaughraun.

AT their meeting on Tuesday the Margate Town Council granted a licence for the performance of stage plays at the Margate Hippodrome. Similar application had been made on several occasions to the Town Council as the licensing authority, but had hitherto always been successfully opposed by Mr. Edward Michael, managing-director of the Theatre Royal. On this occasion notice of opposition had been given, but was withdrawn.

AN artistically printed booklet is issued in connection with Mr. Robert Arthur's season of Robertson comedies at the Coronet. The front page is adorned with a photograph in colours of Miss Rosie Begarnie, who plays the Marie Wilton parts, and full length portraits of the other pricipals of the company, including Mr. James Carew, Mr O. B. Clarence, Mr. James R. La Fane, Mr. Lionel Rignold, Mr. Edward Sass, Mr. Athol Stewart, Mr. Arthur Wontner, Miss Adeline Bourne, and Miss Nell Compton are given, together with short summaries of their careers.

THE religious ceremony in connection with the marriage of Miss Dorothy Chard, the well-known musical comedy actress, and Mr. Guy St. B. Watkins was performed at St. Peter's Church, Piccadilly, on Wednesday. The pair were secretly married at the registrar's office, Portsmouth, when Miss Chard was playing principal "boy" at the Theatre Royal last season.

THE Managers' Club, Savoy-mansions, will be closed from Monday next (except from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., when members can get their letters) and will be reopened at the new premises, 5, Wardour-street, W., at 11 a.m. on Saturday.

MISS LUCY BEAUMONT has been engaged to play the title-rôle in Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch in Mr. Gaston Mayer's No. 1 company in the autumn. Miss Beaumont has just returned from a two years' tour in the Far East and India, where she played the genial owner of the cabbage patch with such conspicuous success that she was secured for the part by the astute Mr. Mayer within three weeks of her return to this country.

PRIOR to starting their tour at Clacton-on-Sea on July 23, Mr. Charles Hartley and Miss Ethel Gordon Paull will give some matinées of their entertainment at various places on the South Coast next month, commencing at the Grand Pier Pavilion, Weston-super-Mare. Exmouth, Brighton, Ramsgate, and Sandown will also be visited in the order named.

MR. ARTHUR WONTNER, who is on tour with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, will appear at the Coronet Theatre in Society on July 5, with Mr. Edward Sass, Mr. W. G. Fay, and others.

MR. CHARLES FROHMAN has secured The Eldest Son, the latest play written by Mr. John Galsworthy, for production at the Duke of York's Theatre next season.

A BENEFIT matinée, organised by the Actress' Franchise League, will be given at the Kingsway Theatre on Tuesday. The first item is How the Vote was Won, by Miss Cicely Hamilton and Christopher St. John. This will be followed by Mr. George Bernard Shaw's Press Cuttings, and a recitation by Miss Maxine Elliott. Amongst those who will appear are Mmes. Edyth Olive, Auriol Lee, Agnes Thomas, Alice Crawford, Pollie Emery, Marianne Caldwell, Nella Powys, Di Forbes, and Beatrice Terry, and Messrs. Ben Webster, Frederick Lloyd, E. Rigby, and Leslie Faber. Misses Zena Dare, Lillah McCarthy, Lilian Braithwaite, and Adeline Bourne will sell programmes.

MR. WOLFE S. LYON, who is paying an extended visit to America and Canada, writes appreciatively of the doings in theatrical circles in Montreal. "At the Prince's Theatre," he says, "the Scala Opera Company, which was lately at the Lyric in London is doing big business with the usual répertoire, but the sensation of the week is Alice Lloyd and the MacNaughtons. There are about twenty picture palaces in the city, where they show about four films and have the same number of variety turns. Admission is 2½d., 5d., and 10d. The attraction at each this week is the funeral of the late King."

"MR. HERMANN VEZIN," writes the late John Hollingshead, "once did a great service for Samuel Phelps. Hollingshead had asked Phelps to play Falstaff, and the uncomfortable 'stuffing' supposed to be necessary for the part made it particularly arduous to an actor of three-score and ten. Hermann Vezin came to the rescue by introducing an 'anatomical tailor,' who devised a false body and stomach inflated after the manner of a balloon. For the first time in his life Phelps played Falstaff without any sense of physical exhaustion. Incidentally the device was good from the spectators' point of view. The false body followed the movements of the actor's figure, and 'did not give the appearance of a feather bed strapped round the body.'"

FOR Mr. Percy Hutchison's autumn tour of Smith, Mr. T. J. Phillips has been retained for business manager, thus fulfilling his twelfth engagement with Mr. Hutchison. Mr. Phillips was acting-manager for many years at the Theatre Royal, Brighton, with the late Mrs. H. Nye Chart, and claims to be the first to arrange for an entire London company to give a special matinée in the provinces, playing the same evening in London.

TWO interesting theatrical marriages will shortly take place in Paris. Mlle. Lina Cavalieri is to marry Mr. Chanler, a rich American, and the Cuckoo in Chantecler is to marry the White Hen, or, in other words, M. Chomin and Mlle. Flore Bergeys are to wed. M. Rostand has promised to give the bride away. This is the second Chantecler marriage. The previous one was that of M. Jean Coquelin, the Dog.

THE concluding day of the Morecambe Musical Festival, which had to be postponed on account of the death of the late King, will take place to-day in the Winter Gardens. About 2,500 competitors are taking part. Professor Granville Bantock, Frederick Corder, and Mr. Tertius Noble are the adjudicators. Nine choirs—those of Accrington, Barnoldswick, Barrow, Blackpool, Bywell (Durham), Lancaster, Morecambe Madrigal, Preston, and Southport—will compete for the hundred-guinea challenge shield.

"THE PRINCE OF KNAVES," a comic opera, in three acts, the book by W. H. Clinton Baddeley, and the music by Claude Fenn-Leyland, was given a copyright performance on June 10 at the Elephant and Castle Theatre.

PARIS is to have a puppet theatre, which will be opened at Montmartre at the top of the well-known hill. The dolls will be designed by artists, and the repertory will include Molière's Marriage Force, Medecin Malgré Lui, and Amphitryon, besides ancient and modern farces.

OWING to the sudden indisposition of the lady who has been playing Lady Isobel in Mr. Tom Watt's Bullock version of East Lynne on Saturday last, Miss Ida Heron was called upon to take up the part at an hour's notice, and gave a clever impersonation.

MR. R. C. CARTON, the distinguished dramatist, has given the Daily Express his ideas on repertory theatres. "Those who look on," says Mr. Carton, "generally see most of the game, and I speak to you merely as a fairly experienced spectator. Now, in the first place, a Repertory Theatre needs time. It is a growth. You cannot make one 'overnight.' And my best example of a genuine Repertory Theatre would be that at the Lyceum during Sir Henry Irving's tenure of the house.

"SIR HENRY, by dint of time, work, experience, and an infinite patience, got a genuine repertory of plays about him—a collection of perfectly equipped revivals which he could mount on the shortest possible notice. There you had the flower in full bloom—the plant in its perfection.

"WHERE I join issue with our friend, Mr. Frohman's, arrangement is in his rapidity and prodigality of presentation. It seems to me perfectly ludicrous to produce plays by Mr. Shaw, Mr. Barker, and Mr. Galsworthy and hand over these valuable goods within a month. Mr. Frohman literally dazzled us with his embarrassment of riches. He threw a necklace of Koh-i-Noors round the public neck and expected the public to appreciate the glittering circle at its proper value.

"I CAN assure our gallant and adventurous Mr. Frohman that the public needs more time, more elbow room. The busy playgoer can't keep his eye glued to the advertisements in the papers. He needs guidance in the ordinary columns of the journals, and the cicerones of the Press were positively unable to keep up with the American Marathonist.

"AND that brings me to my point. Instead of the repertory system—as we understand it to-day—I would revert to the Vedrenne-Barker system at the Court Theatre and give each play a short run—interspersed, if you like, by the revival of plays which have already hit the bull's-eye."

WITH The Whip (says the Daily Chronicle) Mr. Arthur Collins has beaten all records along the road that reaches back to the starting place (Sept. 16, 1897) of his management. And he can go further back than that, and stand the winner by a long way in the runs of drama organised by the late Sir Augustus Harris on the same course. It was considered a wonderful thing—as indeed it deserved so to be considered—when The World (by Paul Meritt, Henry Pettitt, and Augustus Harris) scored in its first run 120 performances, in its second 36, and in its third 72. The total score for the first production and the two revivals was 228.

LAST Tuesday evening The Whip reached its 200th performance—and as yet it is only in the middle of its first revival! If it continues in the way it is going—which is clearly the way it should go, in view of its many attractive qualities—Messrs. Raleigh and Hamilton's stirring drama of the picturesque possibilities of "real life" is likely to reach the figure of 250 representations—and this without the advantage of a second revival, as in the case of The World.

BUT in its first run The World stands registered as the victor over The Whip, for it ran straight away without stopping for 120 performances, while the latter drama's score, when it had to be removed to accommodate the pantomime of 1909-10, was 112. And greater even than The World's record for a first run was that put up by the Klaw and Erlanger production of General Lew Wallace's Ben Hur in 1902. This had an unbroken run of 122 performances—the highest of unbroken runs in the history of Drury Lane drama; though it could easily have been beaten, even to doubling, by The Whip if it had not been necessary to withdraw this play on Dec. 8 to make way for the pantomime of Aladdin.

THE shortest run made by a regular Drury Lane drama was that of A Sailor and His Lass (forty-eight performances); the next shortest being that of The Royal Oak, both produced in Augustus Harris's time. Its score was sixty-two performances.

IN the Jehanghier Hall of the Imperial Institute a most interesting dramatic reading was given last week by the British Empire Shakespeare Society before a highly appreciative audience. The Winter's Tale was the play chosen for the occasion, and had the advantage of being given by a particularly well-selected cast. The Leontes was Mr. William Devereux, who was excellently suited. Mr. Acton Bond, under whose direction the reading was given, was highly amusing in the part of Autolycus, as was also Mr. J. Henry Twyford, as the Clown, and Mr. J. Edwyn Holloway, as the Shepherd. Mr. Franklyn Dyall was excellent as Polixenes; while Camillo, Antigonus, and Florizel were in the very able hands of Messrs. Arthur Burne, Fewlass Llewellyn, and Maurice Elvey. Miss Frances Dillon "doubled" the parts of Hermione and Perdita with great distinction; and Miss Gertrude Scott was no less effective in the part of Paulina. The singing was in the capable hands of Miss Rita Tomkins (Mopsa) and Miss Marjorie Hopcraft (Dorcas). Miss Eve Tame, Miss Gwladys Morris, and Miss Dorothy Lemarchand were well suited as Time, Emilia, and Mamillius. Mr. J. M. Clive and Mr. Walter Armstrong completed the cast.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Too High.

MR. G. P. HUNTLEY relates in M.A.P. an amusing experience he once had when playing in a provincial pantomime. The stage hands organised a draw for a turkey, and all the members of the company bought tickets. The turkey was won by a limelight man; but as his wife did not know how to cook it, she asked him to put it up again. This was done, and the next time it was won by a sceneshifter who did not like turkeys. So he followed the limelight man's example, and organised another raffle. These draws went on for several weeks, and they were always being won by the stage hands, and financially supported by the actors and actresses. At last, on the concluding night of the pantomime, Mr. Huntley won the bird—by that time it had cost him over a couple of pounds. I took that unfortunate turkey out of the theatre," he says, "but I did not carry it home. I thought it advisable to leave it on the doorstep of a local sanitary inspector!"

Sir Herbert Tree's Opinions.

SIR HERBERT TREE, asked by a Cardiff interviewer what it was like to be always dressing and undressing, remarked, "We don't do so more than an Emperor. The actor's life is very hard work, and few who go any way in our profession find it anything but a kind of slavery. However, the chains are of roses when we succeed in pleasing the public."

SIR HERBERT mentioned that he had had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Lloyd George on several occasions, and also at His Majesty's Theatre. Being a great admirer of Mr. Lloyd George, he went to hear the Chancellor speak at one of his meetings. Mr. Lloyd George had to disappear to address an overflow meeting. Sir Herbert was recognised and pressed to speak. For the only time in his life the great actor fled. Sir Herbert thinks the oratory of Mr. Lloyd George is very much like that of Mark Antony.

"LIKE all thinking men, I have no politics," said Sir Herbert, adding, "When talking to men of weight, I find they only label themselves Conservative or Liberal in order to get votes. Everything in politics must be black or white. Black must be white to one, and white black to the other, while things are mostly grey." Sir Herbert, continuing, said, "Our whole civilisation is a battle with the brute forces of nature and with the natural selfishness of the animal-man. Would not many of the measures introduced by the Conservative party have been called violently Socialistic a few years ago? I have never been able to understand what are called the glorious traditions of the Conservative and Liberal parties. What is the Conservative of to-day but the Liberal of yesterday? As W. S. Gilbert used to say, 'The dust of an earthy to-day is the earth of a dusty to-morrow.'"

Mr. Shaw and Mr. Frohman.

MR. BERNARD SHAW has been interviewed by a representative of the Observer with the usual diverting results. He says the fact that his name and that of Mr. Granville Barker are conspicuously absent from the programme of the Repertory Theatre for 1911 means that Mr. Frohman, having tried a programme of plays by himself, Mr. Granville Barker, Mr. Galsworthy, and so forth, is going to try again with a programme of plays by other authors.

That Stupid Public.

"THE public," says Mr. Shaw, "does not know enough about economics to understand what paying means. The higher drama—since you are kind enough to apply that term to my plays and those of Mr. Barker and Mr. Galsworthy—paid at the Court Theatre in the sense that everybody concerned got a living out of it. But if anybody supposes that the higher drama will pay at the rate of from 50 per cent. to 100 per cent. per night, they little know the condition of public taste in this country. Yet as long as such profits are possible in the theatre, plays which require some nursing through a period of public indifference and violent Press hostility before they begin to return a steady humdrum 10 to 20 per cent. will be regarded as failures."

"Scrap Your Failures."

"Now, the first rule of modern commercial management—a rule which is an absolute necessity of the game—is to cut your failures—meaning the pieces which do not fill the house to the doors—and cut them promptly, no matter how much you have spent on them, scrapping failure after failure until you hit on a success. You must never argue with the public or with the Press. You take your defeats like a man, and you forget all about them when the successes come. But on this method you can have no higher drama at all, for both the Press and the public regard the higher drama as so much nasty medicine."

Those Unfair Critics.

"AT the Repertory Theatre there were critics who laughed so much over Misalliance and The Madras House that there were some question of asking them to leave the theatre if they could not control themselves, as they were delaying the performance; yet these very critics informed the public next morning that they had suffered the weariest agonies of boredom, simply because that is the customary thing to write about such plays.

"They write it just as they wear two-inch collars. For the same reason they describe me on all other occasions as one of our leading dramatists and an amazingly brilliant and witty writer, because that, too, is the fashion. As to noticing their own sensations or forming an independent opinion, they are too shy, too sheepish to do anything of the sort. Unfortunately, the prejudice they create, the impression of ignominious failure they set up at each new production, has to be lived down; and the process is much more difficult in a repertory theatre than in a short-run theatre like the Court."

The Last Resource.

"I shall never be able to persuade English men of business to endow the National Theatre unless I am in a position to say that I have exhausted all the resources of private enterprise. People would not believe that where Messrs. Vedrenne and Barker, at the little Court Theatre, in Sloane-square, had made a modest success, a great commercial manager like Mr. Frohman could not have made a triumphant one. Well, Mr. Frohman did his best, and was knocked out in a week."

At Us Again.

"MR. BARKER and I will presently break out in a new place, and show our friend Frohman how to perform commercial impossibilities. London and its Press may kick against the pricks as hard as it likes; but it has got to come along. It has pulled against us all through, and it is pulling still, and will keep on pulling; but it is already out of sight of the ground it was struggling to hold against us in 1904. The struggle has made frightful drafts on our energies; but, after all, what are our energies for? We shall be at you again before you have finished chuckling over this defeat of ours."

We shall be obliged if our readers will send us any amusing anecdotes they may hear, or accounts of any quaint incidents they may witness while acting or rehearsing.

DEATH OF HERMANN VEZIN.

We deeply regret to announce the death of Mr. Hermann Vezin, which took place at 3.20 on Sunday afternoon at his chambers in Lancaster-place, Strand, in his eighty-second year. Mr. Vezin had been seriously ill for eleven months. His son, Mr. Arthur Vezin, who had been with him only a few days ago, and was in the country at the time the summons reached him that his father was dying, hurried back to town, but was too late to see his father before his passing.

Mr. Hermann Vezin was born in Philadelphia, March 2, 1829, and graduated at the University of Pennsylvania in 1847, being admitted to the degree of M.A. three years later. He had French and German blood in his veins. His great-great-grandfather, Pierre de Vezin, born in 1654, suffered for having saved the lives of Huguenots, and had to fly to Hanover. There he settled down, and one of his great-grandchildren became the mother of the composer of "La Marseillaise," the celebrated Rouget de l'Isle. In 1850, partly through the influence of the late Charles Kean, Mr. Vezin entered the dramatic profession in England by accepting an engagement at the Theatre Royal, York, under the management of John Langford Pritchard. He played there various subordinate parts, including the character of Balthasar in Much Ado About Nothing, during Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kean's representation of that play at the York theatre. Afterwards he accepted an engagement at Southampton, during which he had the opportunity of acting with the celebrated Mrs. Nisbet; and subsequently at the Theatre Royal, Edinburgh. In 1851 Mr. Vezin joined Mrs. Barnett's company on the "Ryde, Guildford, and Reading circuit," playing leading characters—Richelieu, Claude Melnotte, Young Norval, &c.

He made his first appearance in London on Easter Monday, 1852, at the Princess's Theatre, in the part of Pembroke in King John, when Mr. Charles Kean had the management of that establishment. During the season 1852-3 Mr. Vezin played Chatillon in King John, Rosse in Macbeth, and Montgiron in The Corsican Brothers. In 1857 he visited America. On his return to England in 1859 he took the Surrey Theatre, playing Hamlet, Othello, Shylock, King John, Louis XI., &c.

Another most important engagement undertaken by Mr. Vezin was in 1860, at Sadler's Wells. On Sept. 8, 1860, the opening night of Samuel Phelps's sole management of Sadler's Wells, in a revival of As You Like It, the deceased actor appeared as Orlando to the Rosalind of Mrs. Charles Young, whom he afterwards married. In writing of Mr. Vezin, Mr. E. L. Blanchard, who contributed to these columns for nearly forty years, said:—"There was evidence of intelligence which gives us great hopes of his future career on these boards. His voice and figure are greatly in his favour, and his action exceptionally easy and graceful." On Feb. 28, 1861, he was the Mark Antony at the same theatre to the Brutus of Phelps and the Cassius of Henry Marston. He played afterwards, with marked success, the character of Laertes, to Mr. Fechter's Hamlet, for seventy-three nights at the Princess's Theatre, in 1861. Subsequently he opened at the Lyceum with Mr. Falconer as Mr Arden in his comedy of Woman; or, Love Against the World, and afterwards acted the part of Harry Kavanagh in the same author's drama, Peep o' Day. In 1863 he married, as stated, Mrs. Charles Young, an actress of considerable reputation, who died on April 17, 1902, at the age of 74. They acted together the following year (Jan. 2, 1864) in Donna Diana, a poetical comedy adapted by Dr. Westland Marston from the German version of Moreto's Spanish play El Desden Con el Desden, and produced at the Princess's. After playing various important engagements at Metropolitan and other theatres, on July 20, 1867, he produced The Man o' Airlie (W. G. Wills) at the Princess's, playing James Harebell, a character with which Mr. Vezin's name will always be associated in dramatic annals. The germ of the play was an early poem, written by Wills on the occasion of the centenary of Burns. The piece, though partly derived from the German, was practically original. It might have been thought that a play which, with Mr. Vezin's acting in it, drew from George Henry Lewes in the Spectator one of the most enthusiastic appreciations, could not fail to make its mark. Those who went to see the piece were profoundly moved. Yet, produced in broiling July, it achieved little, nor has it ever been revived on the scale of its merits.

Another character which greatly increased the reputation of Mr. Hermann Vezin as a painstaking and judicious artist was that of Dr. Davy, in a comedy of that name, adapted from the French, Le Docteur Robin, a play by Jules de Prémaray, produced at the Paris Gymnase, in 1842, with Bouffe as the hero. Of this a German version was made by W. Friedrich in 1849, and translated into English by Hermann Vezin. Doctor Davy, based on Friedrich's piece, was the joint work, says Mr. Freeman Wills, of James Albery (author of Two Roses), Vezin, and W. G. Wills; "but it was chiefly the work of the last-named, though produced under Albery's name." Doctor Davy was produced at Greenwich in 1865, and Mr. Vezin played the title-rôle on the revival of the one-act comedy at the Lyceum in June, 1866.

On Oct. 3, 1868, at the Lyceum, Mr. Vezin sustained the part of Sir Guy de Malpas, first performance of Lord Lytton's drama, The Rightful Heir, Mrs. Hermann Vezin being the Lady Montreville, and subsequently at the Queen's Theatre, Long-acre, April 29, 1869, the character of Philip Earnscliffe in Burnand's play, The Turn of the Tide, founded on A. Edwardes's novel, "Morals of Mayfair," a piece which had a considerable run. On March 6, 1869, Westland Marston's Life for Life was produced at the Lyceum Theatre, in which Mr. Hermann Vezin played Murdock Mackane, supporting Lilian Adelaide Neilson in the part of the heroine, Lilian. At old Astley's Theatre he was the Iago to Phelps's Othello on Feb. 26, 1870—Mrs. Vezin playing Desdemona—a performance that he repeated on the occasion of the presentation of Othello by Creswick previous to his departure for America in the same year. On July 4, 1870, at the Gaiety, he played Dubosc and Lesurques in The Courier of Lyons, and on Sept. 7, 1870, he created the part of Roderick O'Malley in Boucicault's drama The Rapparee, produced at the Princess's. At the opening of the Court Theatre by Miss Marie Litton on Jan. 25, 1871, the deceased actor appeared in the character of Buckthorpe in Sir (then Mr.) W. S. Gilbert's piece Randall's Thumb.

On Sept. 9, 1871, Wills's Hinko was performed for the first time at the Queen's Theatre, Mr. Vezin undertaking the principal character, Henrico, and Mrs. Hermann Vezin being seen in the part of Markitta. At the Royal Alfred (the Marylebone) Theatre on Feb. 20, 1872, he appeared as Jasper Luxmore in the drama Life's Race, and returned to the Court in March of the same year to play Bertrand d'Etanges in Broken Spells. On Sept. 4, 1872, he made one of the chief hits of his acting career in the part of Martel in The Son of the Soil at the Court Theatre. The piece had been cleverly adapted by Hermann Merivale from Le Lion Amoureux by Ponsard, and was a great success. The critics of the day regarded Mr. Vezin's acting as a most brilliant piece of work. The honours of the evening were shared by Miss Ada Dyas, who passed away about two years ago. The original French piece referred to was produced at the Comédie-Française in 1866, with Bressant, Delaunay, Coquelin, and Madeleine Brohan in the chief rôles. During 1873 he acted Robert Audley in Lady Audley's Secret, and Peregrine in John Bull, and in 1874 Sigurd in The White Pilgrim, and Ford in The Merry Wives of Windsor. In 1875, at the Opéra Comique, he played Jaques in As You Like It. At the Haymarket Theatre, Oct. 2, 1875, he "created" the part of Percy Pendragon in Byron's Married in Haste. The piece ran for a considerable time.

During the year 1876 he acted Macbeth at Drury Lane; Othello, at the Alexandra Palace; the Man o' Airlie, at the Haymarket; and Dan'l Druce (the first performance of that play, Sept. 11, 1876), at the same theatre, with very great success. In the cast of Dan'l Druce Mr. Forbes Robertson took the part of Geoffrey Wynyard, Miss Marion Terry was the Dorothy, Mr. E. J. Odell the Reuben Haines, and Mr. Henry Howe, the Sir Jasper Combe. On the production at the Crystal Palace, June 13, 1876, of Sophocles' Œdipus Colonos, the title-rôle was assigned to Mr. Vezin, who won distinction by the performance. In 1877 he played De Taldé in The Danischeffs at the St. James's Theatre, followed by the character of Sir Giles Overreach. Both were important successes. On March 30, 1878, Mr. Vezin sustained, at the Royal Court Theatre, the character of Dr. Primrose in Wills's Olivia, a play which met with remarkable favour. Of this part—which he got by the merest chance, since Sir John Hare meant it for himself, and when he found the cares of management more than enough first offered it to Charles Kelly—Mr. Vezin gave a most delightful and moving delineation. Mr. Vezin's vicar indeed was most impressive, and no more pathetic performance could well be imagined than that of Mr. Vezin during and after the finding of Olivia. It may be added that Olivia "ran" for one hundred and thirty-six nights, finishing Sept. 6, 1878. On Sept. 23 Mr. Vezin "opened" at the Adelphi as Pierre Lorance in Proof, a version of Une Cause Célèbre, adapted by Burnand, and continued to play the part till Feb. 1, 1879. At the same theatre, during Miss Adelaide Neilson's season, he appeared as Master Walter and Sir Thomas Clifford, in The Hunchback, alternating the parts with Mr. Henry Neville. He also shared with Mr. Neville the triumphs of a revival by Miss Neilson of Amy Robsart, Andrew Halliday's version of Sir Walter Scott's "Kenilworth," and appeared as Joseph Surface in The School for Scandal; and at morning performances as Richelieu. In the drama Rescued, by Boucicault, produced at the Adelphi on Sept. 30, 1879, he created the part of Count Ruskov. At the opening of the Imperial Theatre for the spring season of 1880 by Miss Marie Litton Mr. Vezin played Jaques in that lady's memorable revival of As You Like It.

[Photo by J. Page Croft.

THE LATE MR. HERMANN VEZIN.

He played Colonel Abercrombie in Mr. Mortimer's version of Les Vieux Garçons, produced at the Haymarket on Sept. 14, 1881. In The Cynic, played at the Globe in 1882, Mr. Vezin presented an equivalent of Mephistopheles. Other parts were Simon Renard, in A Shadow Sceptre, Prince's Theatre, Manchester; Count de Lys, in Mr. Mortimer's adaptation of Diane de Lys; Edgar, in Tennyson's Promise of May, the Globe; Priam, in Helena in Troas, Hengler's, 1886; Count Fread, in Christina; Iago, in Othello, Vaudeville, 1887; and Coranto, in The Amber Heart, Lyceum, 1888. During the run of Macbeth at the Lyceum in 1889 Mr. Vezin for a time replaced Irving. He appeared as the Man o' Airlie in a revival of that play at the Grand Theatre, in 1890. On Nov. 2, 1891, he appeared as Napoleon in A Royal Divorce, at the New Olympic. His last appearance was made at His Majesty's on April 7, 1909, in the part of Rowley in Sir Herbert Tree's revival of The School for Scandal. His farce from the German, entitled Cousin Jack, was tentatively produced at the Opéra Comique on Nov. 12, 1893; and his farce, entitled Mr. M.P., also from the German, was produced at same place on Dec. 1 of that year. At the opening of St. George's Hall by Messrs. Maskelyne and Cooke on Jan. 2, 1905, Mr. Vezin appeared as Tur, the King of The Coming Race, the title of a drama distinguished by magical sensations and cleverly worked automata.

Mr. Hermann Vezin was entitled to be ranked among the refined and accomplished actors of poetic drama. From the beginning of his career he conscientiously studied acting as an art, and devoted his talents, as far as opportunity afforded, to the thoughtful impersonation of Shakespearean character, and of such parts as belong to the higher range of our dramatic literature. In the representation of these he was in the main successful, and won the sympathy and appreciation of the thoughtful portion of the audience in whatever theatre he appeared. It is a saddening reflection that Mr. Vezin did not live to benefit by the testimonial performances which his friends and admirers, with Sir Herbert Tree at their head, were organising on his behalf. That was to have taken place in the spring of this year, but, owing to unavoidable circumstances, it had to be postponed until the autumn. The occasion would assuredly have been widely made use of as an opportunity for testifying to the high esteem and profound respect in which the late actor was held.

In accordance with his own wishes, there was no ceremony on Wednesday in connection with the cremation of the late Mr. Hermann Vezin's remains. The body was removed to Golder's Green Crematorium, and in the coure of Wednesday morning was cremated there. No flowers were sent, and there was no service or ceremony of any kind. Nor were there any "mourners," in deference to the dead actor's expressed wish. Mr. Vezin, the son, went to Golder's Green to see that his father's directions were duly carried out, and with him were only two companions, Mr. Roy Horniman, a personal friend, and Miss Kate Emil Behnke. Miss Behnke represented Mrs. Behnke, the executrix under the late actor's will. When the remains had been incinerated, the ashes were reverently strewn broadcast over the flower-beds in the crematorium gardens.

Mr. Edwin Drew, in a letter to this paper, says:—"In November last the late Hermann Vezin became really ill, and after that literary, dramatic, artistic, and social celebrities and friends sought his bedside, all to be astonished at the mental might which he manifested, and his strangely keen interest in life. Vezin was a truly intellectual personage, well read in English, American, German, and French literature, and all this was broadened and beautified by his contact with the most gifted minds, while his sense of humour enabled him to gather mental variety from those whose educational equipment was nil from the book point, but useful from the daily, practical view. His memory was faultless, and yet he slowly and laboriously acquired the words of a part, and then intellectual assimilation commenced as he thought out the value of words and sentences.

"His leading dream was to see one of the plays he had by him produced at a West-end theatre, and there seemed hopes of such a consummation, as one of his best was placed in the hands of a prominent actor-manager who came to his sick room.

"He bitterly resented the calumny that he was a 'Jonah,' and when he went through his successes and engagements, it was fully evident that he had seen much success in his sixty years, and in his final engagement with his friend Sir H. Beerbohm Tree at His Majesty's Theatre, he received from the audiences every possible recognition, and by post plenty of assurances that Vezin was not forgotten.

"As a teacher he was painstaking and straightforward in his advice to the aspirant, always stating that he was averse to people seeking the stage without the most certain capacity for it."

VEZIN'S FINEST PERFORMANCE.

"The Man o' Airlie was produced in July, 1867, at the old Princess's Theatre, with Mr. Hermann Vezin as James Harebell," writes Mr. F. Wills in his Life of his brother, W. G. Wills. "It was his greatest performance, and one never to be forgotten by those who witnessed it. But the business of the piece was discouraging to him as manager. He was playing in The Man o' Airlie to an average of thirty pounds a night. The weather was oppressively sultry, and the theatres were doing hardly any business. Of course, they were not confessing to this, but keeping up the usual game of bluff, while instead of £200 or £250 houses their receipts were as low in some cases as £10 or £12. In reality, therefore, although he did not know it then, Vezin was doing extraordinarily well; and if he had not been disheartened might have made a great hit with the piece later on, when the weather cooled and town filled again. Strange to say, the play has never had a fair hearing in London. To describe the effect which it produced I cannot do better than transcribe the words of a famous critic, George Henry Lewes, who thus wrote in the Spectator, July 27, 1867:—

"'Mr. Herman Vezin, lessee of the Princess's Theatre, has made a very audacious experiment. He has ventured, in an era of burlesque, melodrama, and great triumphs of carpentering, to bring out on the stage a genuine and modern English tragedy, The Man o' Airlie, by Mr. W. G. Wills. The writer had strolled on the second night of the performance into the pit, knowing nothing of the piece or its author—rather expecting a kind of Highland melodrama, and he can bear unbiassed testimony to the depth of feeling several times displayed. Women, evidently of the lower middle classes, who scarcely understood the bad Scotch in which the dialogue is carried on, were sobbing unrestrainedly; and if the stout Scotch tradesman who stood next me was not crying he ought to consult an oculist about the state of his eyes. The value of this emotion as a test of the value of the piece is increased by the fact that it is due exclusively to sympathy with mental pain of a rare and spiritual kind—the agony of a ruined and maddened poet; agony no doubt in part that of a bereaved husband, and therefore common to mankind, but in part, also, of a blasted literary and poetic ambition, which might under other treatment seem ridiculous. To make shop-girls care—care to pain—because an ignorant simpleton in a plaid cannot get his 'sangs' published seemed to us a triumph of art.

"'Vezin used Aberdeen Scotch, the most difficult of all for Englishmen to follow. "Oh, hang it!" said a man near me, "that's a fine beggar, what's he saying?" And then, and all through the piece, extempore translations were offered in audible tone in four or five parts of the pit.

"'The second act is deficient in action, though it might read well. In the third, however, the action quickens. Harebell has accepted the situation as private secretary, his wife has died of the close city air, and the poet, frenzied by her loss, saddened and bewildered by the blasting of his hopes of literary fame, wearied with incessant copying of documents, gradually loses his reason, wakes for a moment to refuse to betray the man who has plundered him, and finally fancies he sees his dead wife, and walks over the stage with his arm in that of her invisible spirit, his face expressing a bewildered fondness, his left hand patting the air where her head should have been. In the strange affectation of insanity, Mr. Vezin did the scene well; there was no applause, except from one fool of a claqueur, who, we hope, will read this opinion of his judgment; but over the house, dropping as it were from gallery to pit, descended a dead strained silence, a silence such as we never but once recall in a theatre, succeeded, as Harebell vanished, by a roar of recall. In the recognition and death of Harebell no words can fairly express the dramatic power of the scene.'"

THE late Mr. Hermann Vezin one day in 1889 was about to go to see Irving's revival of Macbeth at the Lyceum, when Mr. Bram Stoker called upon him with the news that Irving's health had suddenly broken down. "Can you act the part tonight, or will you help us out of the difficulty by reading it?" he asked. "I certainly won't read it, but I can and will fill the rôle," Mr. Vezin replied. He had not played the part for eight or ten years, but his Macbeth that night was perfect. So delighted was Irving that he gave him a diamond ring and a cheque for £120.

MR. VEZIN well remembered the great American tragedian, Edwin Forrest. "A little more culture," he said only last year, "would have made Forrest the greatest actor who ever lived. One day a fellow-actor complimented Forrest on the way he played Lear. 'Play Lear!' was the retort. 'I play Hamlet, Othello, Macbeth, but let me tell you, sir, I am Lear!'"

IT was in Berlin, at the age of twenty, that Mr. Vezin first appeared behind the footlights, and his introduction was among the curious episodes of his career. "If you want to become a theatrical, why don't you start, instead of talking about it from early morn to late at night?" asked a man whose acquaintance he had formed, and without more ado he took him, figuratively, by the coat-collar, led him to a theatrical manager, and said, "Here's a youth who wants to go on the stage; find him something to do." With that curt introduction he was left and was engaged as supernumerary.

THE QUEEN'S.

On Monday, June 13, Revival of the Play, in Three Acts, by Charles Reade, entitled

"THE LYONS MAIL."

Joseph Lesurques, Dubosc	MR. H. B. IRVING
Courriol	MR. ERIC MAXON
Choppard	MR. CHAS. DODSWORTH
Fouinard	MR. TOM REYNOLDS
Durochat	MR. STUART MUSGROVE
Jerome Lesurques	MR. FRANK TYARS
Dorval	MR. HENRY VIBART
Didier	MR. STANLEY HOWLETT
Joliquet	MR. ARTHUR CURTIS
Guerneau	MR. ALEX. SCOTT-GATTY
Lambert	MR. J. PATRICK CURWEN
Postmaster of Montgeron	MR. J. B. GLOVER
Coco	MR. H. R. COOK
Commissary of Police	MR. W. GRAHAM
Postillion	MR. W. CASS
Guard	MR. ROLAND PERTUIS
Waiter	MR. S. BEAUMONT
Julie	MISS GLADYS BAIRD
Marie	MISS MAY HOLLAND
Niece to Postmaster	MISS E. FRANCES DAVIS
Jeannette	MISS ESME BERINGER

The popularity of past seasons is being renewed at the Queen's, where Mr. H. B. Irving on Monday revived The Lyons Mail. Mr. Irving's previous production of Charles Reade's famous drama attained to a run of 125 consecutive performances, and had the distinction of figuring at the last State performance before King Edward at Windsor Castle. Tribute to Mr. Irving's embodiment of the chief rôles was long since worthily won by a dual impersonation of rare artistic skill, deep study, and finish. In his realisation of the cold-blooded miscreant Dubosc, Mr. Irving rises superior to the melodramatic environment of the part, giving it intellectual force, and endowing it with a grim humour and a sarcasm the keenness of which lies chiefly in its delivery. Complete, too, is the contrast obtained in the two rôles. The honest citizen and polished gentleman show themselves in Lesurques' every look and action, and hard indeed must be the heart that fails to be touched by the pathos of the innocent man's agonised appeal to be released from the terrible suspicion that is fastening itself upon him. The interview between father and son is made inexpressibly poignant, and an effect of bold relief is secured at the close, when Dubosc's appalling ferocity comes close upon Lesurques' tender parting with his daughter. The impersonation maintained its hold on the audience, and repeated curtain-calls testified to the pleasure derived.

An alteration to the cast of decided interest is the allotment of the part of Julie to Miss Gladys Baird, a youthful actress who bears a name which Mrs. H. B. Irving has made famous in the annals of the stage. Miss Baird is sweetly girlish and graceful, and gave a pretty performance, which lacks only the touch of experience. Julie's affection for her father was admirably real, and there was a genuine ring, too, in the girl's hysterical outbreak at parting from him. Miss Baird's voice is of penetrating quality, and she made herself well heard, and only requires strengthening to make it completely effective. Miss Esmé Beringer is also a newcomer to the cast, and finds in the distressed Jeannette an outlet for her dramatic gifts, the passion of the part being well portrayed, and her share of the terrible struggle with Dubosc being cleverly accomplished. For the two companions in crime, Choppard and Fouinard, Mr. Chas. Dodsworth and Mr. Tom Reynolds are again available, and the ripe abilities of the comedians are once more made apparent. Distinctive shades of rascality are suggested by both actors, whose portrayals result in much laughter. As Courriol Mr. Eric Maxon repeats a performance which won commendation at a previous revival, the jaunty airs and graces of the dandified rogue being effectively assumed. Mr. Frank Tyars repeats with added intensity his fine embodiment of Jerome Lesurques, being very impressive in the old man's denunciation of his son. Mr. Henry Vibart confers distinction on the part of Dorval, his commanding physique and elocutionary skill making the part agreeably conspicuous. Mr. Arthur Curtis once more assumes the restlessness of the boy Joliquet with effect. Miss May Holland and Miss E. Frances Davis again do well as the servant Marie and the niece to the postmaster, that functionary being now consigned to the care of Mr. J. B. Glover, who renders the part full justice. Mr. Alex. Scott-Gatty and Mr. J. Patrick Curwen acquit themselves admirably as Guerneau and Lambert; and Mr. Stanley Howlett is again the devoted lover to the life as Didier. The piece is superbly mounted and stage-managed, the clamour of the crowd outside the place of execution being realised with marvellous fidelity. The musical effects prove invaluable to the representation, and are artistically gained by Mr. J. Meredith Ball's orchestra.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

Minutes of the Council meeting held at 32, Regent-street, on Tuesday, June 14. Present, Mr. Frederick Morland (in the chair), Mr. H. W. Mote (hon. solicitor), Messrs. Chris. Walker, Fred Annerley, F. J. Arlton, Robson Paige, C. F. Collings, Murri Moncrieff, and Langford Reed; Misses Rose Cazalet, Mildred Cottell, Beatrice Chester, and Mr. D. Young (secretary). The minutes of the previous meeting were read and passed as amended.

The Chairman read a letter from Mr. F. J. Arlton, tendering his resignation as a member of the Finance Committee. A proposition "that Mr. Arlton be asked to reconsider his decision" was carried unanimously.

With regard to a letter from an actress, the Secretary was desired to thank her for her letter, and to say that the Council regretted they were unable to take action on her behalf, as they were debarred from using the funds of the association for non-members, but if she would call on Mr. H. W. Mote, 11, Grays Inn-square, their hon. solicitor, he would be pleased to advise her, and if she were able to give further corroboration of her case they would consider the question of posting the manager's name.

With regard to a letter from Messrs. Lynn and Harding, the Secretary was directed to thank Mr. Lynn and to say that the Council very highly valued the copy of his book, "Stage Facts and Figures," which they had presented to the Association, and had no doubt the members of the Association would find the information very useful.

A vote of condolence and sympathy with Mr. Arthur Vezin, on the death of his distinguished father Mr. Hermann Vezin was carried. This vote was passed all standing. The Secretary was instructed to ask Mr. Vezin if he could kindly favour them with a photograph of his father as a memento for the rooms of the Association.

Mr. Robson Paige having notified the fact of the death of Dr. William Rose, a member of the hon. consulting staff, a vote of condolence was passed to the relatives of Dr. Rose, and the Secretary was instructed to send a letter to Dr. Donald Armour, asking him to be good enough to convey this vote to the relatives of Dr. Rose.

The Finance Committee's report was submitted by Mr. Arlton and adopted. The Hon. Solicitor reported that he had advised in three cases. The Secretary reported nine engagements through the agency. Elections: Maud Robertson, Barbara Everest, and Joan Harcourt. Nominations: Milly Lester Stephens and Robert Symes Entwistle.

THE DRAMA IN BERLIN.

"JACOB UND KRISTOFFER."
Comedy, in Four Acts, by Peter Egge, Produced at the Deutsches on June 8.

Jacob Ringen .....Herr Tiedtke
Ingvald .....Herr Montua
Elt .....Fraulein Werkmeister
Jensine .....Fraulein Berg
Kristoffer Ringen .....Herr Herrfeld
Magna .....Fraulein Krause
Maren .....Fraulein Richard
Hänschen .....Herr Lotz
Flock .....Herr Bienefeldt
Kristi .....Fraulein Erneck
Andrine .....Fraulein Petzold

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, Thursday, June 16.—The author is a Norwegian who enjoys an excellent reputation in his own country as a novelist and essayist. His play—which has been very well translated, although the name of the translator does not appear in the bill—is a pleasant contrast to the general rule of Scandinavian plays as we know them. It is not gloomy and morbid, nor does it deal with enigmatical problems, after which the audience leaves the house with a note of interrogation in its brain. It is a simple story, simply told, with plenty of the right kind of humour, and really convincing characters. Jacob and Kristoffer are brothers, but brothers who have very little in common, except, perhaps, the fact that they are both widowers. Jacob, the younger, is a small farmer, and not overburdened with brains, while Kristoffer has risen by dint of hard work and keen intelligence, to a position of wealth and influence as a great merchant. Jacob Ringen is completely in the hands of a wily serpent, otherwise Elt Vold, one of his two women servants, who is about as bad a specimen as may be found anywhere in the whole of Scandinavia or elsewhere. She has, it may be casually observed, already done a long term of penal servitude. This sinister maiden means to marry poor Jacob nolens volens, and she uses an ingenious system of blackmail to accomplish her end. She has found a pocket-book containing 5,000 crowns, which fact she keeps to herself, intending it for the dot she brings Jacob. She confides her secret to him, in order to make him a party to the crime, and she sews the pocket-book with its precious contents into the lining of a waterproof cloak. The villain of the piece, a pedlar named Flock, gets wind of the matter. He cuts open the lining and makes off with the notes, and then uses his knowledge against poor, weak Jacob's peace of mind, so that the man is driven desperate. Ultimately, he goes to his brother with his troubles, making a clean breast of everything. Kristoffer, who has long been wishing to find his lost brother, receives him with the utmost kindness. He turns out to be the loser of the money, and both the vicious Elt and the blackmailer Flock are brought to justice. To complete the entire reconciliation, Jacob's son Ingvald falls in love with Kristoffer's pretty daughter Magna, who returns his affection. The interpretation was capital all round, and artists and manager were called before the curtain repeatedly. This was the opening performance of Dr. Geyer's season, and the success speaks well for the future.

Notwithstanding the tropical heat, a large audience was present at the Komische Oper last Thursday for the 60th performance of Smetana's Bartered Bride. Always one of the most successful works in the repertory of that theatre, both on account of admirable interpretation and very brilliant mounting, the jubilee was the subject of ovations. The cast was partly new, but every rôle was rendered with customary excellence, and Fräulein Deetjen, in the name-part, was particularly good. Herr Merkel sang the part of Hans, and Herren Mantler and Kreuder, as Kezal and Wenzel respectively, gave their customary faultless renderings. Kapellmeister Meyrowitz conducted with spirit and circumspection, and—last, but by no means least—the members of the Imperial Russian Ballet executed the dances, in which, of course, Mlle. Will made her usual mark. All in all, the evening was a red-letter one in the annals of the Komische Oper. Herr Mantler, by the way, is leaving the Komische for the Royal Opera in the autumn.

The Royal Opera and Royal Schauspielhaus have closed for the summer holidays. At the New Royal Opera (Kroll's) Herr Gura commences his summer season this evening with Die Meistersinger. An excellent cast is announced, including Herr Feinhals, of the Munich Court Opera, as Hens Sachs. To-morrow the performance is Lohengrin, and for Sunday a couple of novelties are in the bill—Ueberfall and Der verlorene Sohn.

At the Lessing, in the absence of the company proper, the military farce Kasernenluft is attracting good houses. At the Thalia the immortal Charley's Aunt is doing well, and Die goldene Ritterzeit (When Knights Were Bold) is still holding the boards at the Neues, to the exclusion of all else. It is the judicious aim of our managers to give their audiences very light fare during the dog-days, which have set in with unusual force.

DEATH OF MR. E. A. BELL.

Our readers will learn with considerable regret the news of the death on Friday, the 10th inst., after a prolonged illness, of Mr. Edward Armstrong Bell, for many years acting-manager for Mr. J. W. Boughton, the popular licensee and managing-director of the Royal, Portsmouth. For several months past severe illness compelled Mr. Bell to relinquish his duties, although his name still figured in the bills.

Mr. Bell was an actor of the old school, and commenced his career in the autumn of 1856 at the Theatre Royal, Newcastle-on-Tyne, then under the management of Mr. E. D. Davis, who was renowned for the efficiency of his stock companies. Commencing at the bottom of the ladder, Mr. Bell played a small part in The Lady of Lyons. After some four years with Mr. Davis he migrated to the Theatre Royal, Leeds, under the management of Mr. John Coleman, being engaged as a member of his stock company. It was here that Charles Reade's famous drama It's Never Too Late to Mend was produced, and Mr. Bell was allotted the important part of George Fielding, in which his success was so pronounced that henceforth he was regularly selected for the lead. Some three years later he transferred his services to the Amphitheatre, Liverpool, now the Court, where he came into frequent contact with G. V. Brooke, Chas. Dillon, Barry Sullivan, Sam Emery, Charles Matthews, John Drew, and other famous actors of those days. He was then offered an engagement at the Adelphi, London, by the late Benjamin Webster, which he accepted. It might here be mentioned that in all his work he was loyally supported by his wife, formerly a Miss Armstrong, herself an actress. His next experience was of management, Shrewsbury, Halifax, Rochdale, and Coventry being the scenes of his labours, until finally, when in charge of a touring company which happened to be at the Royal, Portsmouth, he received a tempting offer from Mr. J. W. Boughton to take up the position of acting-manager, which for the past fifteen years he has so worthily occupied.

Among those present at Covent Garden on Wednesday to witness the performance of La Tosca were the Earl and Countess of Portsmouth and the Earl and Countess of Kinnoull, Lord and Lady Charles Beresford, Baron and Baroness de Meyer, the Earl of Crewe, Lady Allington, Lady Speyer, Lady Maxwell, and Sir William Bell.

PRESENTATION TO T. F. DOYLE.

On Monday evening, by the kind permission of Mr. John Hart, the Theatre Royal, Bradford, was placed at the disposal of a number of influential Bradford gentlemen, who were anxious to recognise in a substantial manner the appreciation in which Mr. T. F. Doyle, the popular general manager of the house, is held by the theatre-going population of the city.

For fifty years Mr. Doyle, as actor, author, and manager, has been before the public, and as his connection with the Royal, Bradford, extends over thirty years, it was thought only fitting that his "jubilee" should be celebrated by a benefit and testimonial, and a local committee was quickly formed, with the Lord Mayor (Alderman W. Land) at its head, and a committee of the profession, with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree as chairman.

A fine list of attractions was provided, consisting of turns by Siems, the Danish card manipulator; Ethel Leigh, a local lady, who gave a masterly execution of violin solos; Mr. Tom Graham, tenor; Miss Dollie Doyle and Miss Irene Pearson, in costume dances; Mr. K. Scott-Barrie, comedian; Mr. W. Cannon-Dalby and Mr. George Coxon, elocutionists; Madame Mary Poole and Miss Maud Ferens, vocalists; Mr. A. E. Oldbury, baritone; Mr. Russell Wallett, drawing-room entertainer; Mr. Russell Carr, ventriloquist; The Williams Jubilee Singers; Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, the Singing Box-Makers; The Bradford Amateur Operatic Society, in a performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's Trial by Jury; and it was decidedly appropriate that Mr. Doyle should again make a professional appearance before the footlights, associated with Mr. Herbert Shaw, in the burlesque operetta, The Blind Beggars, which was capitally acted.

In making the presentation, the Lord Mayor said that Bradford theatre-goers had to thank Mr. Doyle for the manner in which he had catered for them. Dramatic art had a fine representative in Mr. Doyle, and it was striking evidence of the good feeling which existed between the popular manager and his patrons that the subscription list should have met with so generous a response. In addition to the testimonial of £165, the takings of the "house" amounted to £103, making a total of £268. He desired to tender the thanks of the Committee to the subscribers, to the artists who had kindly given their services, and to Mr. John Hart for his generosity in granting the use of the theatre.

On Mr. Doyle's entrance, the audience, led by the band, sang "For he's a jolly good fellow." In a graceful acknowledgment, Mr. Doyle said he was quite overwhelmed by the kindness shown him, and it was not within his power to express all he felt. In a brief reference to some experiences of his versatile career, he humorously referred to a letter received that morning in which the writer said he had known him in '63, which was rather an unpleasant reminder of his age. Mr. Doyle recalled that he began life in the profession as a super at the Surrey Theatre in London. He had also worked in the circus and the music-hall, and he had since had the honour of playing with the best people who had appeared on the English stage in his day. He confessed to having written one hundred and twenty pantomimes, and the genial manager remarked, no doubt someone would say "What a vast amount of rubbish that man must have written!"

Mr. Doyle again feelingly thanked the committee and the audience for their support, and the curtain fell amidst great applause.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

A dramatic and fencing recital by pupils of Messrs. Charles Cruikshanks and W. Mortlake Mann was given in the theatre of the Guildhall School on Thursday evening. The order of the programme was slightly altered, and commenced with two recitations, the Potion speech from Romeo and Juliet, and "Seven Ages" from As You Like It, both well delivered by Miss Florence Bedding. "Pack clouds, away" was sung by Miss May Frisby with taste, and the clarionet obbligato ably played by Mr. Mendelssohn Draper. "Over the Fishpond to Fashion" (Cotsford Dick) and "But they didn't" (W. Cook) were recited by Miss Maud Jones with considerable humour; and Miss Winifred Waters gave Shelley's poem, "Ode to the West Wind." Some degree of gesture is welcome in a recitation, but Miss Waters somewhat exaggerated; in other respects her recitation was excellent. In "The Legend Beautiful" of H. W. Longfellow Miss Gladys Uden was warmly applauded. All the young ladies who recited are pupils of Mr. C. Cruikshanks. Miss Hildegarde de la Vingne was heard in the "Jewel Song" from Faust; and Miss Dorothy Browne in Bemberg's "Nymphes et Sylvains." Miss Marguerite von Bibra, a clever pupil of Mr. Cruikshanks, displayed much humour in monologue "A Charity Sermon," from the Joneses and the Asterisks (Gerald Campbell), the audience being much amused by the remarks made by a lady to her daughter during the sermon. In an original dramatic sketch, The Lady Interviewer, by Herbert Swears, Miss Dorothy Lucas appeared as Miss Maguire, a lady journalist; and Miss Georgina Darby as Eliza Binks, housemaid. Miss Darby was funny as the servant, mistaken by Miss Maguire for Miss Ortelons, the well-known novelist. The fencing display and illustrations of different styles of stage combat by pupils of Mr. W. Mortlake Mann aroused great interest. The first item was a Grand Salute by lady pupils, who looked remarkably well in their fencing dress of thick white jackets, with gilt buttons and short black skirts. In an assault with foils between Miss Collins and Miss Sargent Mr. Mann acted as umpire, and, like Osric in the friendly encounter between Hamlet and Laertes, called "A hit, a very palpable hit" (although not quite in these words) when a successful thrust was made by either of the young ladies, who wore wire masks, leather gloves, and fought with great skill. In the second encounter with foils, Miss Davis and Miss Sargent, the latter lady proved very expert, and had three or four "hits" to her opponent's one. There can be no doubt fencing for ladies or gentlemen is a fine exercise, and the graceful attitudes of the young ladies was as much admired as their skill with the foils. For a novice to encounter any of Mr. Mann's pupils with real weapons would mean certain death or a lasting injury, and to the professor himself, as Ingoldsby has it, "He was just such a man as you'd say at first sight, You would much rather dine or shake hands with, than fight." The duel scene from The Corsican Brothers was cleverly acted by four pupils, and the duel itself a very thrilling affair. In this case no masks or gloves were used, and Chateau-Renaud and the Corsican fought in shirt-sleeves as in the regular stage. When Chateau-Renaud breaks his rapier by accident, the Corsican breaks his as in the famous play, and the duel is continued with the broken ends used as daggers. So realistic and well acted was the finish, that, to use a theatrical term, "it brought down the house." Very spirited also was the sword and buckler encounter between Mr. Mann and Mr. A. Cohen, and "A Night Affair in the Olden Time" Duel with rapier and lanthorn. Other exhibitions of sword play were rapier v. rapier and rapier and dagger v. the same. The Misses Carmen, Inns, Collins, Hasham, Sargent, Oviatt, Addison, and Shaw were the lady pupils; and Messrs. Smith, Busvine, Corbie, Braham, Hughes, and Cohen the gentlemen. The display of fencing was very interesting, and the pupils did great credit to Mr. W. Mortlake Mann.

"Theatrical Accounts for Business Managers," by Cuthbert E. Smedley, A.C.A. Price 3s. 6d., post free 3s. 9d. Published by The Era Ltd., 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

THE LATE H. E. REID.

The interment took place last Monday at Brighton of the late Mr. Henry Erastus Reid, age 83, for very many years known at Plymouth both at the Theatre Royal, where he was musical director afterwards lessee and manager, and also in connection with the Grand Theatre, which structure he built on retiring from the Royal. He married the elder daughter of the late Mr. J. R. Newcombe, the former lessee of the Theatre Royal, and one of our oldest theatrical managers. Since Mr. Reid's retirement from the Grand T., Plymouth, he has made his home in Brighton. He was one of the favourite conductors of the late Mrs. Swanborough, of the old Strand Theatre.

The funeral cortège consisted of Mr. Frank Reid (son), Mrs. J. Reid and Mrs. A. Reid (daughters-in-law), Mr. Henry Frank Reid (grandson), and Messrs. S. Zucker, Henry L. Compton, [Photo by Simmons.

THE LATE HENRY ERASTUS REID.

and T. Grace, personal friends. The floral contributions included a harp, violin, heart, cross, wreath, lyre, and several sprays.

THE ALBERT HALL AND STAGE PLAYS.

Mr. Horace Smith resumed the hearing, at the Westminster Police-court, on Saturday, of the adjourned summons by the London County Council against "The Corporation of the Hall of Arts and Sciences" (the Royal Albert Hall) for the public performance of stage plays without authority by virtue of letters patent from His Majesty, and without licence from the Lord Chamberlain or London County Council.

Mr. Bodkin prosecuted, and Mr. Cecil Whiteley appeared on behalf of the defendant corporation.

Mr. Richard Stanley, one of the inspectors of places of public entertainment under the County Council, gave evidence that on certain days mentioned in the summons he paid for admission to stage plays in the theatre at the Albert Hall.

Mr. Bodkin asked if he noticed anything about the gangways at the rear.

Mr. Whiteley: I submit that this is irrelevant.

Mr. Bodkin: I agree that it would not be relevant to go here into any detailed survey of the accommodation, but I just want to prove—subject to permission—that there was something to justify the attention of the authorities responsible for the safety of the public.

Mr. Horace Smith did not think the matter of exits or public safety could be discussed on these summonses.

Mr. Bodkin: What I want to convey is that the council are not interfering unnecessarily. They justify these proceedings from a public safety point of view. But after your expression I will not press it.

Mr. Cecil Whiteley in his address for the defence, said that the corporation had always consisted of very distinguished people with the King as patron. The defence was that the corporation by letters patent were entitled to perform stage plays in the theatre. Under the charter granted in 1867 the objects set out were the advancement of science and art. Acting was an art—it was hardly necessary to go back to the old authorities to prove this. It might be good or bad art, but the classical definition held good. The London County Council at one time suggested that their licence for music and dancing was required for the Albert Hall, but finding that the corporation were protected by their letters patent, were unable to do anything. The learned counsel having referred in detail to the terms of the Albert Hall charter and the supplemental charter, said that this prosecution was accompanied by the pronouncement that the County Council were desirous of acting in the interest of the public. The Albert Hall Theatre held but 252 people; the Albert Hall itself held 12,000 people. Yet the hall itself was expressly exempted from London County Council interference under the last London Building Act, 1905, with its multifarious provisions. It was indeed strange under these circumstances that jurisdiction was claimed over the little theatre. In concluding his argument, the learned counsel pointed out that the Lord Chamberlain himself had approved the performance of new plays at the theatre.

Mr. John Hilton Carter, manager and secretary of the Royal Albert Hall, in giving evidence, said the theatre could be cleared in five minutes. The witness knew that at one time the County Council claimed that the hall must get a music and dancing licence. They abandoned this position—or, rather, did not persist in it—recording on their minutes that they had no jurisdiction over the Albert Hall.

Considerable discussion arose as to whether at the time of the passing of the Theatres Act of 1843 the site of the Albert Hall was regarded as included as within the Liberties of the city of Westminster, and therefore solely within the jurisdiction of the Lord Chamberlain.

The case was adjourned for this point to be further considered and for the magistrate's decision.

A novel and decidedly interesting experiment was tried at the New Theatre, Oxford, during the latter half of last week, when Dr. H. P. Allen, organist of New College, Oxford, presented Beethoven's Fidelio for three nights. With the exception of Mr. Campbell McInnes and Mr. Charles Child, who sang with much success as Pizarro and Jaquino, all the principal parts were sustained by local amateurs. Dr. Allen himself conducted an orchestra of over sixty performers, who, with the exception of a dozen professional wind players from London, were all members of the orchestra so skilfully trained at Oxford by himself; and the chorus of fifty voices were supplied by the local choral societies. Miss Rosina Filippi produced the play, and an undergraduate (Mr. E. Bridges-Adams) painted the scenery and acted as stage-manager so efficiently that there was never a hitch in the performance. The success of the production was pronounced.

"PAYING THE PRICE."

Drama, in Four Acts, by J. S. Willard, produced at the Alexander Theatre, Hull, on Monday, 13th.

Lord Delemere .....Mr. Willard
Paul Hartman .....
Capt. Dick Clinton .....Mr. Jackson Wilcox
Nell Fortescue.....Miss Marguerite Treskie
Doris Delemere .....Miss Alice Bowes
Hal Vortoone .....} Mr. Charles Carte
Jan Vortoone .....}
Hon. Cecil Dalrymple ..Mr. H. Vivian Thomas
John Dent .....Mr. Richie Bell
Corporal True .....Mr. John Farley
Mary Esdale .....Miss Winnie Leslie

The author of Paying the Price has told a strong and coherent story; its incidents are interesting, and its episodes exciting.

The action of the play is laid at a period antecedent to the last Boer War. Lord Delemere, before he succeeded to the title, had been in South Africa at the time of Majuba, and had become implicated in a shooting affray in which he believed he had killed a Boer under discreditable circumstances. Hal Vontoone, brother of the man supposed to have been killed, comes back to England on a blackmailing mission, and threatens to expose Lord Delemere unless he purchases his silence. The latter, incensed, endeavours to put the Boer out. In the struggle he topples over the cliff, and is supposed to have been killed on the rocks below; but subsequent events prove this not to be. Nell Fortescue, a variety artist, who has called to solicit the officers' mess patronage to a charity fête, is witness of the quarrel, and under the belief that Colonel Lord Delemere has killed her man, exacts as the price of her silence his marriage with her. This he is loth to agree to; but, in the end, she carries the day, much to the disgust of his daughter, Doris.

The second act opens in Captain Clinton's rooms, with whom Doris is much épris, and when the scene opens he is found reading a letter from the little girl saying she is coming to seek his advice. He writes to tell her to avoid so compromising a situation, but the new Lady Delemere comes in at the moment, burns the letter, and thus leaves Clinton without a protecting shred to prove his innocence. She then tries her wiles on the Captain, and is discovered by her husband, who feels that his wife has been dishonoured by his friend, and for such that there is only one thing—cashiering from the army.

The dead man comes to life, and remains in the pay of her ladyship, on consideration that he lies low for a convenient period. But the source drying up, the Boer tells the whole of the story to Captain Clinton.

Lady Delemere has a lover in the person of Paul Hartman, who is in the pay of a European Power, and the two endeavour to steal the plans of the Dover fortifications. They lock Captain Clinton up in the safe, but he is, unknown to them, released from his dangerous position.

The closing act of the play takes place in South Africa, and a fine scene takes place between the old Boer General, whose contempt is so great for the spy Hartman that he kills him in cold blood. At Rietfontein the contending forces of Boer and Britain meet, and the large skeins are unravelled. Virtue is rewarded, and vice, in the person of Nell Fortescue, is apparently allowed to go scot free.

Miss Marguerite Tueskie was all that one could have wished for in the rôle of Lady Delemere; there was restraint and force properly defined. Mr. J. Willard played the dual rôle of Lord Delemere and Paul Hartman with considerable credit, and hit off the diverse characters with good effect. Mr. Chas. Carte made the Boer a striking living picture. There was something finely British in the Captain Clinton, played effectively by Mr. Jackson Wilcox. Miss Alice Bower won the sympathy of the house with her reading of the rôle of Doris. The rest of the company worked hard, as likewise did the dumb actor "Tiger," a fine specimen of boarhound.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

Being a digest of the Law relating to Theatres and Music Halls, and containing chapters on Theatrical Contracts, Theatrical, Music and Dancing, and Excise Licences, Dramatic and Musical Copyright, &c., with an Appendix containing the Acts of Parliament relating thereto, and the regulations of the London County Council and the Lord Chamberlain, by Albert A. Strong, LL.B. (London), solicitor. Third edition.

The Artist's Legal Handbook.—We welcome a third edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's "Dramatic and Musical Law" (The Era Offices), as it is nine years since the second appeared, and much has happened since then, not least the foundation of the V.A.F. and the resultant Award of 1907. This will be found incorporated in the now greatly improved and extended Appendix of Statutes, ranging from the Disorderly Houses Act of 1751 to last year's L.C.C. Cinematograph regulations. As far as is possible with further developments in daily progress, this invaluable work of legal reference for all interested in the entertainment profession has been brought up to date. Sixty pages have been added, and the whole revised and rendered easier of reference by the re-arrangements that have been made and the numerous marginal headings that have been introduced. Strong on "Dramatic and Musical Law" may be regarded as the layman's complete authority on the subject, whether he be proprietor, manager, or artist, and with a lucid explanation of the law so readily available, the artist will be wise to consult its pages before venturing on new contracts and agreements, whether as employed or—in these days of "combinations," sketches, troupes, and what not—as employer.—The Performer, May 12, 1910.

Mr. Albert A. Strong's valuable treatise on "Dramatic and Musical Law," published at the offices of The Era, has reached a third edition. This includes the text of the recent Berlin Convention and the new Copyright Act of the United States, also all the important decisions of the Courts, since the last edition, on which the compiler has been able to lay hands. As Mr. Strong remarks, "There is probably no more fruitful source of litigation than the ordinary theatrical contract." If the work under notice achieved no other object than to impress this fact on the parties concerned, it would still be worth its weight in gold.—The Music Hall, May 12, 1910.

Mr. Albert A. Strong's valuable work "Dramatic and Musical Law," published at The Era Offices, Tavistock-street, has reached its third edition. The author has made every effort to bring the book right up to date.—Referee, May 15, 1910.

Dramatic authors, composers, and all of those interested in dramatic enterprise will find much that is useful and instructive in "Dramatic and Musical Law," by Albert Strong.—Sporting Life, May 16, 1910.

Price 5s., post free 5s. 4d. Published at The Era Offices, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

Miss Dolf Wyllarde, a well-known novelist, has written, in collaboration with Mr. Elliott Page, a four-act comedy, entitled His Lordship's Cure, which is to be produced at a matinée in aid of the Middlesex Hospital at the Apollo Theatre on July 5. The scene is a garden in June, when the chrysanthemums are being potted, and all the technicalities of scientific horticulture are shown up to the last scene, in October, when the flowers are in full bloom. "His Lordship," a dissipated young man, is cured of his vices, and grows into the bloom of manhood as rapidly as the chrysanthemums. Miss Katharine Pole, the well-known South African actress, is to play the part of a lady gardener.

ON THE ROAD, JUNE 20.

Alone in London.—Kursaal, Boxhill.
Arran-na-Poour.—Lyric T., Hammersmith.
As Your Hair Grows White.—T. R., Halifax.
At the World's Mercy.—Star T., Swansea.
Benson, F. R. (N.).—Artillery T., Woolwich.
Can a Woman be Good?—Bordesley P., Birmingham.
Castellano's Opera Co.—King's Lynn.
Cingalee, The (A.).—Birkenhead.
Country Girl in London.—Prince's T., Preston.
Cruise of the Constance.—P. G. T., Folkestone.
Destroyer of Men.—New Washington.
Diana of Dobson's.—Grand T., Hull.
Diver's Luck.—T. R., Darlington.
Draycott, Mr. C.—P. O. W., Nuneaton.
East Lynne (Watt).—Palace T., Perth.
Eve of Her Wedding.—Metropole T., Manchester
Fast Life, A.—T. R., Sheffield.
Female Swindler.—Richmond.
Florodora (Constant).—Shakespeare T., Liverpool.
For Old Time's Sake.—Royalty T., Barrow.
For Wife and Kingdom.—T. R., Belfast.
Gamester of Metz.—Bordon and Colville.
Garrod, Mr. W. V.—Prince's T., Preston.
Her Fatal Marriage.—Smethwick.
Her Fatal Past.—T. R., Stratford.
Her Life in London.—Rotunda T., Liverpool.
Her Path of Sorrow.—P. O. W., Nuneaton.
Her Secret Lover.—O. H., Coventry.
His Real Wife.—T. R., Stratford.
In the Shadow of Night.—Kelly's T., Liverpool.
La Comedie Anglais.—Newcastle West.
Lodge-Percy, J. C., and J. Martin's Repertoire.—Birkenhead.
Love of the Princess.—Palace T., Newcastle.
Lucky Durham.—Palace T., Maidstone.
Lucky 'Liza.—Grand T., Stockton.
Marsh, Alexander.—Junction T., Manchester.
Midnight Mail.—T. R., Stockport.
Miss Lancashire, Limited.—Aquarium, Yarmouth.
Miss Plaster of Paris.—Hippo., Scarboro'.
Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace.—West Pier, Brighton.
Mummy and the Humming Bird. — Marina T., Lowestoft.
My Irish Molly.—Queen's T., Farnworth.
My Lady Bellamy.—T. R., Woolwich.
New Boy, The.—T. R., Bournemouth.
Nihilist, The.—O. H., Doncaster.
No Mother to Guide Her.—P. O. W., Salford.
Our Flat.—D. P. T., Eastbourne.
Power of a Wicked Woman.—T. R., W. Bromwich.
Private Secretary.—Grand T., Southampton.
Raynor's Repertoire Co.—King's T., Manchester.
Royal Divorce.—Gaiety T., Hastings.
Shadow of a Crime.—Metropole T., Birmingham.
Sin of Her Childhood.—Prince's T., Blackburn.
Sorrows of Satan.—T. R., Smethwick.
Temptations.—Cambridge, Spennymoor.
Theodor's Flutter.—Lyceum T., Edinburgh.
Two Little Drummer Boys.—T. R., St. Helens.
Uncle Tom's Cabin.—T. R., Bury.
Under the Iron Heel.—T. R., South Shields.
Was She to Blame?—St. Helens.
When it was Dark.—T. R., Bristol.
Why Smith Left Home.—Scarboro' and Harrogate.
With Edged Tools.—Empire T., Southend.
Woman's Past.—T. R., Scarboro'.
Wrecker of Men.—T. R., Dewsbury.
You Never Can Tell.—O. H., Blackpool.
10.30 Down Express.—T. R., Wolverhampton.

COLLECTING LITHOS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—The collection of window lithos being still practised by some of the touring companies, any idea to facilitate or improve the present condition of affairs might be set down as welcome. It has been argued by experts that the collection of lithos does not always (in effect) assist the advertising department, inasmuch as it often happens that a percentage of such lithos become overlooked "in the hurry" of business by an advertising staff when they start out on their rounds, but it is a strange truism that the aforesaid "overlooked" lithos adopt the methods of the pantomime demon and "spring up" (towards the end of the visit of the company in) from odd corners in a most sudden and exasperating manner until the "dozens" assume quite respectable proportions. Now, another weird thing about these "collected" lithos is that they have retained their cleanliness and new appearance—not a pinhole or other mark being discernible with the aid of a magnifying glass. My excellent managerial confrères will readily admit that when such incidents happen they are somewhat nonplussed as to a remedy, and it is accordingly with much pleasure I approach you, sir, with the hope that you can spare a little of your valuable space, relative to a notion "invented and practised" with considerable success to his theatre and the touring manager, by Mr. Charles Bush, of the Queen's, Leeds.

If the visiting manager desires a return of lithos all collected stuff is taken direct to Mr. Bush's private office, where it undergoes the careful scrutiny of himself or his lieutenant. If any of the sheets bear a suspicious resemblance to perfect cleanliness then "trouble lurks in the air," a full list of the windows is overhauled, inquiries made, details and excuses thoroughly sifted, and—well, it is a sine qua non that the touring manager visiting Mr. Charles Bush enjoys the satisfaction of feeling that the lithos he has paid twopence per sheet for have performed their mission in the sphere of theatrical operations, and he grudges not the threepence per dozen he pays for the returns, as the latter come in useful for flying or ordinary posting.—Yours faithfully,

W. SCOTT PHIPP.

Managers' Club, June 14, 1910.

BIRTHDAYS OF THE WEEK.

We wish Many Happy Returns of the Day to the following ladies and gentlemen:—

Fred Marlow—Saturday, June 18.
J. M. Glover—Saturday, June 18.
George Alexander—Sunday, June 19.
Tom Braithwaite—Sunday, June 19.
H. Cecil Beryl—Sunday, June 19.
Henry Neville—Monday, June 20.
Charles Glenney—Monday, June 20.
Fred Storey—Monday, June 20.
Sybil Arundale—Monday, June 20.
Marie Dainton—Monday, June 20.
Leah Marlborough—Monday, June 20.
Nellie Harcourt—Monday, June 20.
Lionel West—Monday, June 20.
H. Louis Wilson—Monday, June 20.
H. Ketteman—Tuesday, June 21.
Fred. E. Ellis—Tuesday, June 21.
Bernard Stavordale—Tuesday, June 21.
George Belmont—Tuesday, June 21.
William Bailey—Tuesday, June 21.
Arthur Bourchier—Wednesday, June 22.
Martin Harvey—Wednesday, June 22.
Paul Martinetti—Wednesday, June 22.
Cora Duncan—Wednesday, June 22.
Vesta Brownie—Wednesday, June 22.
Geraldine Ulmar—Thursday, June 23.
Ben De Frece—Thursday, June 23.
A. G. Spry—Friday, June 24.

Cinematograph Act, 1909, which came into force Jan. 1, 1910, also the Cinematograph Regulations made by the Secretary of State, which came into operation Jan. 1, 1910, with an appendix concerning Limelight and What the Cinematograph Showman must do. Explanations of the Act and the Regulations. The Act—the Regulations—the Explanations—sent post free, four stamps. Address: The Publisher, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

"THE ERA" NEWSPAPER.

Notice to Contributors.

All communications intended for publication should be sent to "THE EDITOR," and be accompanied by the Writer's Name and Address, not necessarily for insertion, but as a guarantee of good faith.

The Editor will not undertake to be responsible for any rejected MSS., nor to return any Contribution unaccompanied by a stamped and directed envelope.

Notice to Subscribers.

"The Era" is sold by all Newsagents in all the leading English, Irish, and Scotch towns, every Saturday Morning. Price Sixpence.

TERMS, POSTAGE FREE.

Home Subscriptions.		Foreign Subscriptions.
One Year	£1 6 0	One Year	£1 12 0
Six Months	0 13 0	Six Months	0 15 0
Three Months ..	0 6 6	Three Months ..	0 8 0

Cash must accompany order.

Notice to Advertisers.

Advertisements should reach the Office early in the week and not later than Thursday, 7 p.m. Remittances, payable to "THE ERA," LTD., and crossed Lloyd's Bank.

Communications.

Business Communications should be addressed to The MANAGER,

"THE ERA" BUILDINGS,
5, TAVISTOCK-STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.
(two doors off Wellington-street).
Telegrams, "The Era, London." Telephones, 4747 and 1433. Central.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

[We do not answer inquiries by post. In all letters the names and addresses of inquirers must be given as a guarantee of good faith. Initials only or pseudonyms will be used in the answers if so desired.]

A. M. D. (Nottingham).—We are making inquiries.

PROSPERO.—We have no information, but are trying to obtain it through correspondents.

A. J. C.—We regret that we cannot give you any additional information concerning the family.

A. P.—We do not know. Write to Mr. Will Oliver, Spot Lodge, Trent-road, Brixton. He is, we believe, the lady's business agent.

G. BENNETT.—Forty. At the Grecian Assembly Rooms in May, 1885. Her daughter appeared with her in Johannesburg about twelve years ago, but is now married.

DONALD.—Are You a Mason? was adapted from Logenbruder, originally produced at the Residenz Theater, Berlin, Dec. 4, 1897. The piece had its first London performance at the Shaftesbury, Sept. 12, 1901.

B. C. H.—Kitty Grey was adapted from Mars and Hennequin's Les Fetards, and was first produced in its English form as a comedy without music at the Vaudeville, April 25, 1900. It was turned into a "musical play" some few months later.

SAMUEL KIRKHAM (Sunderland).—How is it possible to answer you, when you give no date of the lady's appearance at the house in question. It is quite probable that she sang the well-known air you name. Ask the management or the musical-director.

FREDERICK J. S.—"Fra Giacomo," a poem written by the late Robert Buchanan, has been recited both by Bransby Williams and Lewis Waller. It is included in the edition of Buchanan's works published by Chatto and Windus, and has been reprinted in Part II. of "The Elocutionist Up to Date," published at French's, Southampton-street, Strand.

J. CARLOW.—Yes. Miss Edna May played the part of Edna Branscombe when Three Little Maids was originally produced at the Apollo on May 10, 1902. Hilda Branscombe was played by Miss Hilda Moody, and the original intention was that Miss Ada Reeve should play the part of Ada Branscombe, but Miss Madge Crichton took up the part just before the production.

PLAYGOER.—The cast of Old Heidelberg, when produced at the St. James's on March 19, 1903, was as follows: Karl Heinrich, George Alexander; Staatsminister Von Haugk, Alfred Brydone; Hof. F. von Passarge, H. R. Hignett; Kam von Breitenburg, Richard Dalton; Kam Baron von Metzing, Boothroyd Fairclough; Dr. Jüttner, J. D. Beveridge; Lutz, E. Lyall Swete; Graf von Asterberg, Ernest Leicester; Von Wedell, Henry Ainley; Kellerman, E. Vivian Reynolds; Rüder, W. R. Staveley; Frau Rüder, Miss Henrietta Leverett; Frau Dörffel, Miss Elinor Aickin; Kathie, Miss Eva Moore. More than likely it is the same lady.

MR. BENJAMIN WOODGER, secretary of the Music Hall Home, desires to thank, on behalf of the committee, Mr. Jack Woolf ("Wonderland," Mile End), who has donated another £2 2s. to the Home Fund; Mr. Ernest Lepard (The Canterbury), for box collection of £1 19s.; Mr. Roy Cockraine (Surrey), for box collection of £1 18s. 6d. for the fund; Walter Norman has kindly sent a parcel of useful ties for the men. Men's old clothes and boots are very acceptable.

THE presentation of "The Era Medal" will take place at the Terriers' headquarters, 69, Kennington-road, on Thursday, July 14, at 3 p.m.

THE next committee meeting will be held on June 30, at 12 noon, at the Stags, Kennington-road. There are still a few Era shilling cards out for the Music Hall Home appeal. Will the collectors kindly return them to Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, The Era, Tavistock-street, Strand?

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, & DEATHS.

The charge for inserting in "The Era" an announcement of a Birth, a Marriage, or a Death, or an "In Memoriam" notice, not exceeding twenty-four words, is One Shilling and Sixpence.

As a guarantee of good faith, the name and address of the sender must accompany each notice.

BIRTHS.

FORSYTH.—June 11, at 35, North-gate, Regent's Park, N.W., to Mr. and Mrs. Neil Forsyth, a son.

HARDY.—June 15, at 13, Addison-road, Bedford Park, the wife of Arthur Steffens-Hardy (née Dido Drake), of a daughter.

MILLARD.—June 8, the wife of George Millard (Ada Brogden), of a son.

MARRIAGES.

CHRISTOPHERSON—GRIFFITHS.—June 15, at Cape Town Cathedral, Douglas Christopherson, of Parktown, Johannesburg, to Alma Griffiths, musical comedy actress.

ISITT—GENÉE (CHRISTENSEN).—June 11, at All Saints', Margaret-street, W., by the vicar, Rev. H. F. B. Mackay, assisted by the Rev. W. R. Carpenter Garnier and the Rev. F. B. Hawkins, Chaplain to the Duke of Newcastle, Frank Isitt to Adeline Genée (Christensen), première danseuse.

DEATHS.

ARMSTRONG BELL.—On the 10th inst., at 22, Landport-terrace, Southsea, after a long and painful illness, late acting manager Theatre Royal. Deeply mourned by his sorrowing wife.

DOONER.—Monday, June 13, 1910, at Bargoed, Glamorgan, James Dooner, aged 70 years. Deeply mourned and missed by his sorrowing family and hosts of friends.

HUGHES.—June 6, at Tramore, Mrs. Hughes (née Pollie Kinsella), late of Purcell's Portable.

JOHNSON.—June 12, at Grantham, Henry Johnson, retired acrobat, aged 103.

REED.—On the 9th inst., at Brighton, Henry Erastus Reed, late proprietor Grand Theatre, Plymouth, aged 83 years, the beloved father of Frank Arthur Reed, of 50, Heygate-street, S.W.

TILL.—May 31, at his residence, Linden, Mass., U.S.A., John Till (Till's Marionettes). Deeply mourned by his English relatives. R.I.P.

TYMMS.—June 15, at Westminster, Ellen Tymms (Nellie Thearle) the beloved wife of Stanley Hope, Opera House, Jersey, of cerebral hæmorrhage. Interment at Kirkdale Cemetery, Liverpool, Saturday, 18th inst., at 2 o'clock.

VEZIN.—June 12, at Lancaster-place, Strand, W.C., Hermann Vezin, actor, aged 81.

IN MEMORIAM.

BAUGH.—In ever-loving memory of Alice Lydia Baugh, who died on June 18, 1903.—FRED, RUTH, EDNA, CLARA, and TWO GRANNIES.

BAUGH.—In loving memory of Alice Lydia Baugh, who died June 18, 1908. Peace, perfect peace.—ROSE.

O'NEILL.—In loving remembrance of my dear sister, Mrs. O'Neill, of Carlton House, Grafton-street. Died June 15, 1907. Never forgotten by her sister, MRS. GREGORY, 6, Grafton-street, C.-on-M.

PITT JACKSON.—In loving memory of my dearly-loved wife Jessie (Macaulay), who died June 20, 1908.

INDISPENSABLE! Rayne's "Pocket Date Book." Contents: Map (19in. by 10in.), showing the distance betwixt the various music halls at a glance. Will tell if one hall is within the barring radius of the other, thus saving fears, worry, and anxiety. All about artists' luggage, list of clubs, information about stamping contracts, foreign money table, London music halls and theatres, their telephone numbers, list of brougham proprietors, list and address of photographers, size of theatrical printing paper, names and addresses of theatrical railway managers, &c. Price 1s., post free. The proceeds from the sale will be divided equally amongst the two great charities of the dramatic and musical professions, the Actors' Benevolent Fund and the Music Hall Home Fund. The Era Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

A COPY OF "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

BENGER'S

Benger's Food is different from any other food obtainable; it contains in itself the natural digestive principles, and, in its preparation, the degree of pre-digestion can be determined with the utmost delicacy. It can therefore be served to suit the exact physical condition of the patient.

Benger's Food is mixed with fresh new milk. It forms a delicious and highly nutritive cream, rich in all the food elements necessary to maintain vigorous health.

Benger's Food is sold by Chemists, &c., everywhere.

"THE ERA" LETTER-BOX.

A Stamped Envelope, plainly addressed, must be enclosed with application for each Letter. Letters, after lying at this Office for One Month, are forwarded to the Postal Authorities, to be returned to the Senders.

No Circulars, Post Cards, or Parcels admitted to this list.

Allen, Miss Mabel
Allen, Mr. Bert
Arnies, The
Ashwynne, Miss M.
Athelda
Banfield, Miss Iris
Beechman, Mr. Thos.
Benham, Mr. Ernest
Bergeron, Mrs.
Blyth, Mr. J. S.
Braide, Mr. Stewart
Browns, The
Brune, Miss P.
Burley, Mr. W.
Burton, Mr. Burt
Callam, Mr. John
Cancellor, Mr. Leyton
Carlo, Mr. H.
Cartwright, Mr. A.
Cerise, Miss D.
Chippendale, Mr. A. A.
Clensey, Mr. Cyril
Clevere, Miss Amy
Cliffe, Mr. H. C.
Coleman, Miss F.
Cook, Mr. Albert
Court, Miss D. D.
Coutts, Mr. Henry
Crawford and Johnson
Currie, Miss Lily
Cuthbert, Mr. Alfred
Dandy, George
Day, Mr. Geo. R.
De Gracia, Mrs. B.
Denton, Miss Dolly
Desormes, Mr. J.
Dobell, Mr. E. H.
Dockwray, Mr. Chas. W
Duncan, Mr. O.
East, Mr. J. M.
Entwistle, Mr. R.
Everard, Mr. Francis
Finucane, Miss M.
Fisher, Mr. Chas.
Fitzgerald, Mr. Dan
Forbes, Mr. Alec
Fox, Mr. Will H.
Gerrard, Mr. H. S.
Glynn, Mr. O'Rourke
Gray, Mr. Heaton
Hall and Earl
Halstan, Miss M.
Hare, Miss W.
Hartley, Mr. Chas.
Hast, Mr. Walter
Heath, Mr. Guyton
Hemming, Mrs. Alfred
Holding, Mr. Thomas
Hope, Mr. Jones
Houpla, Mr. Richard
Howard, Miss E.
Irving, Mr. Laurence
Jackson, Mr.
John, Mr. Arthur
Kearns, Mr. Sid
King, Miss Edith
Kingston, Miss Gertrude
Kremo, Mr. Karl
Lancaster, Mr. W. J.
Lawton, Mr. E.
Lewis, Miss Rose B.
Lewis, Mr. Leslie
Lilly, Mr. E. C.
Lisbon and Lester
Lloyd, Mr. H. C.
Loftus, Miss Kitty
Lukishamas, The
Lytton, Miss Ruth
Maclaren, Mr. Ian
Maron, Miss B.
Mars, Mr. Harry
Marsh, Mr. Alec
Martens, Capt.
Martin, Mr. Albert L.
Mayke, Mr. T.
Meynall, Mr. Clive
Mollison, Mrs. W.
Mozart, Mr. George
Neale, Mr. V.
Nolan, Mr. Alf
Nord, Miss Serene
Norton, Mr. Jack
Pattison, Mr. Bert
Pawle, Mr. Lennox
Paull, Mr. Ethel G.
Payne, Mr. W.
Pettigrove, Mr. Louie
Pettigrove, Mr. Thomas
Philliott, Mr. Gordon
Prince, Mr. Sidney
Purcell and Newns
Raymond, Miss Alice
Rhodes, Mr. Percy
Ridgway, Miss Nellie
Robertson, Mr. Ian
Rogers, Mr. Harry
Rosse, Mr. Russell
Russell, Mr. Wensley
Saxonians, The
Schonberg, Mr. W. L.
Scott, Miss D.
Sefton, Miss Clarice
Seymour, Mr. E. A. O.
Seymour, Mr. Ernest
Shaw, Miss Nancy.
Sivado, Mr. C.
Smith, Mr. Hickman
Squire, Mr. Reginald
Strange, Mr. George
Stratton, Mr. E.
Sutton and Raynor
Terris, Mr. T.
Thomson, Mr. Sam
Titus, Mr.
Tower, Mr. Allen
Tregonwell, Mr. A.
Trieve, Mr. Richard
Varley, Miss Pattie
Vasco, Mr. W.
Vaselisan Troupe
Von Leer, Miss Sara B.
Ware, Miss N.
Webb, Miss Ada
Wells, Miss Pattie
Weston, Miss Lucy
Wheeler, Miss Daphine
Whyte, Mr. C.
Willard, Mr. J.
Williams and Warden
Williams, Mr. Percy
Winona
Wun Hi Ching Soo

BLACKMORE'S THEATRICAL AGENCY, 11, GARRICK-STREET, W.C.
Under the present management since 1869.
Office hours, 10 to 3. Interviews between 11 and 4.
'Phone 1785 Gerr. Wires, "Dramatique, London."
All descriptions of Theatrical Business negotiated.
Also First-class Music Hall Business.

The Great Raymond
BREAKING RECORDS FOR BIG BUSINESS EVERYWHERE.

THE LAW OF MUSICAL COPYRIGHT.
By ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B., Lond.
Price 1s., post free 1s. 1d.
PUBLISHED AT "THE ERA" BUILDINGS, 5, Tavistock-st., Strand, W.C.

BIRKBECK BANK
ESTABLISHED 1851.
SOUTHAMPTON-BUILDINGS, HIGH HOLBORN, W.C.
2½ PER CENT. INTEREST allowed on Deposits repayable on demand.
2 PER CENT. INTEREST on Drawing Accounts with Cheque Book.
All general Banking Business transacted.
ALMANACK, with full particulars, POST FREE.
C. F. RAVENSCROFT, Secretary.

MONEY £5 TO £5000
DON'T BE WITHOUT READY MONEY. I will advance any sum you may require AT ONCE without fuss or formalities, and you can repay by easy instalments to suit your own convenience. Courteous personal attention. Call, write, or 'phone.
Mr. ROSSLYN STUART, Burton House, 253, Brixton Rd., Brixton, S.W.
Telephone 1285 Brixton.

ACCIDENTS OF ALL KINDS, SICKNESS, EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY, BURGLARY AND FIDELITY GUARANTEE RISKS
Insured Against by the RAILWAY PASSENGERS' ASSURANCE CO.
Capital (fully subscribed), £1,000,000.
Claims paid £5,700,000.
64, CORNHILL, LONDON.
A. VIAN, Secretary.

BUREAU DE CHANGE
SPECIALLY RECOMMENDED.
HANDS and CO., 16, STRAND, CHARING CROSS RAILWAY STATION, LONDON, W.C.

"I'll swear upon that bottle."—TEMPEST, Act ii., Scene ii.

WHITBREAD'S
BOTTLED BEERS
maintain their popularity because they are brought into condition by MATURING IN BOTTLE,
the Natural method,
without the aid of carbonating or other artificial process.
The Largest Beer Bottlers in the World.
APPLY TO CHIEF OFFICES,
BRITANNIA ST., KING'S CROSS, LONDON, W.C.
(Telephones: Nos. 2510 and 2511 North. Telegraphic Address, "Beerseller, London.")
FOR NAME OF NEAREST AGENT.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.
For Sustaining the Voice.
Invaluable for ACTORS and SINGERS.
Indispensable for PUBLIC SPEAKERS
GENTLEMEN,—For sudden affections of the Bronchial Organs I use and most cheerfully recommend "Brown's Troches." They are regarded as most eligible, convenient, and indispensable by numerous artists of my acquaintance, BOTH IN EUROPE AND AMERICA. They seem to act specially on the organs of the voice, and produce a clear enunciation.—Yours truly (Signed), MARIE ROZE MAPLESON.
SOLD EVERYWHERE AT 1/1½ PER BOX.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA.
The Best Remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion. The Safest and most effective Aperient for regular use.

TYPEWRITING.
MRS. MARSHALL, 126, STRAND, W.C.
PROMPT BOOKS and ACTORS' PARTS.
TRANSLATIONS FROM and INTO ALL LANGUAGES.
ADAPTATIONS of FRENCH and GERMAN PLAYS UNDERTAKEN.
SHORTHAND DICTATION in FRENCH or ENGLISH. REFERENCES to MANY LEADING AUTHORS and MANAGERS

Admitted by the Profession to be the most Valuable Remedy ever discovered.
DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S
CHLORODYNE
The Original and Only Genuine, is the best-known remedy for COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.
IT ACTS LIKE A CHARM IN DIARRHŒA, CHOLERA, AND DYSENTERY, and Effectually cuts short all attacks of Spasms.
The only palliative in NEURALGIA, RHEUMATISM, TOOTHACHE.
None genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the stamp.
Convincing Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.
Of all Chemists, 1/1½, 2/9, and 4/6.

DELICIOUS COFFEE,
RED WHITE & BLUE
For Breakfast & after Dinner.

TRADE MARK. H.W. No. 514,135.
Velvet Grip
Registered Trade Mark No. 804004.
Abdominal Hose Supporter with BELT.
Compress
Made in England. (Patent No. 16838/08 and under Licence of Patent 24215/99.)
Original Velvet Grip Hose Supporter Rubber Button.
These Hose Supporters fit the form like a glove; they gently but firmly depress the abdomen, they are healthful and hygienic. The Support and Compress are always light, graceful, easy, natural, and comfortable. The latest and best form reducer and belt supporter.
They hold UP without dragging the figure DOWN.
Fitted with adjustment for keeping suspender in correct position. Entirely supported from the back of the wearer. Supersedes all others. Easy to take off.
C5—1/6½ each. C15.—1/11½ each. C20.—2/8 each. Postage, 1d. extra.
If unable to obtain from your Draper, apply to the Manufactory, HACKNEY RD. WORKS, LONDON, N.E.

樓 花 採
PHONE, 7607 GERRARD. PHONE, 7607 GERRARD.
THE 'CATHAY' RESTAURANT
Open 11 a.m. till 11.30 p.m. Open on Sundays.
A PIONEER FIRST-CLASS CHINESE RESTAURANT, RUN ON UP-TO-DATE EUROPEAN METHODS.
. . CHINESE DISHES in great variety, . . and pure CHINA TEA (specially imported).
AMERICAN AND OTHER ARTISTES who have been accustomed to occasional Chinese Meals will find the menu at the "Cathay Restaurant" almost identical with that of the best Chinese restaurants in New York and other American cities.
SPECIAL NOTICE. The management gives special attention to little Dinner and After-Theatre Parties which may be arranged over the telephone or by correspondence.
22, DENMAN STREET, PICCADILLY CIRCUS, W.

LONDON THEATRES.

GAIETY THEATRE.
Manager, Mr. George Edwardes
Re-appearance of Mr. EDMUND PAYNE and full Gaiety Company.
EVERY EVENING at 8.
A Musical Play,
"OUR MISS GIBBS."
Box-Office open daily 10 till 10.

ST. JAMES'S.
MR. GEORGE ALEXANDER.
Every Evening at 9.
"THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST."
By Oscar Wilde.
MR. GEORGE ALEXANDER
and Mr. Allan Aynesworth in their original parts.
At 8.30, "A MAKER OF MEN," by Alfred Sutro.
MATINEE (both Plays), EVERY WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY, at 2.30.

DALY'S THEATRE.
EVERY EVENING at 8.15.
Mr. GEORGE EDWARDES'
New Production,
"THE DOLLAR PRINCESS."
A Musical Play, in Three Acts.
Matinée Every Saturday at 2.15.
Box-office (Mr. H. W. Anderson) open 10 till 10.

COMEDY THEATRE.
Sole Lessee and Manager, Arthur Chudleigh.
Every Evening at 9.
CHARLES FROHMAN presents
"Alias JIMMY VALENTINE."
a New Play in Three Acts by Paul Armstrong.
The cast includes
GERALD DU MAURIER.
At 8.30, NINA GORDON at a Piano.
MATINEE EVERY WED. and SAT. at 2.30.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE,
KINGSTON-ON-THAMES.
Summer Variety Season.
Twice nightly, at 7 and 9.
Mr. PETER DAVEY, Managing-Director.
Telephone, No. 58, Kingston-on-Thames.
Telegrams, "Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames."

MASKELYNE and DEVANT'S
MYSTERIES, St. George's Hall, W.
Daily, at 3 and 8.
New and Startling Mysteries, Pictures of the Royal Funeral, "The Scarab," a New Magical Farce, by Nevil Maskelyne and David Devant, introducing a series of Novel and Startling Illusions, &c., &c.
Seats 1s. to 5s.
'Phone, 1545 Mayfair.

LONDON MUSIC HALLS.

ALHAMBRA.
Enormous Success of
"FEMINA."
New Grand Spectacular Ballet.
LEONORA, FAICO, BRITTA, RI-TCHAVES, &c.
ETHEL LEVEY, Three Sisters Athletas, Franco Piper, Almasio and Yamina, The Excellos, Signorina Corona, Jury's Pictures.
Every Evening at 8 (doors 7.45).
Managing-Director, ALFRED MOUL.

EMPIRE (Leicester-square).
"HULLO! LONDON,"
MILLIE LEGARDE, J. F. McARDLE, &c.
LYDIA KYASHT and ADOLF ROLM,
in New Series of DANCE IDYLLS.
"EAST AND WEST."
Ascot on the Bioscope, Petit Roberto,
Emerson and Baldwin,
Mazuz and Mazetto, &c.
Evenings at 8.
Manager, Mr. H. J. HITCHINS.

PALACE.
Anna Pavlova, Michael Mordkin, Russia's Greatest Dancers, and Co., Arthur Prince, Barclay Gammon, Bert Levy, Boganny Troupe, Radford and Winchester, Royal Funeral Procession in Actual Natural Colours, &c.
Evenings at 8.
Matinée full programme, Saturdays at 2.
Special Matinée Wednesdays at 3.
Managing-Director, Mr. ALFRED BUTT.

OXFORD.
Little Tich, "Chanteclair," by Joe Peterman and Geo. Ricket's Co., Harry Tate, T. E. Dunville, Alex Dagmar, Lotto Troupe, Radie Furman, Daisy James, Bioscope, Farr and Farland, Ernest Rees, Bros. Horne, Dutch Daly, Three Cape Girls, Lawrence Barclay, Dorothy Goud, Tony Black, Bert Erroll, Angus Strong, Minnie Mace. Open 7.20; Saturday Matinée 2.15. Manager, MR. BLYTH PRATT.

TIVOLI.—
WILKIE BARD, LIANE D'EVE,
Mary Law, Hal Forde, Madoline Rees, The Five Orioles, The Westbrooks, Lennox Pawle and Robert Whyte, jun., in "The Odd Man Out," Ella Shields, Herbert Clifton, Gladys Huxley, Alec Chentrens, Cinquevalli, T. E. Dunville, Morny Cash, Madge Osmond, and others.
Open 7.40, Saturday Matinées, 2.15.

METROPOLITAN.
Twice Nightly,
at 6.40
and 9.10.
Six Bros. Luck, in "H.M.S. Perhaps," Melody Makers, Chris Richards, Harvey Boys, The Simms, Carlotta Levey, Len Teel, Radie Furman, Stewart and Morgan, Ruffell's Bioscope.

EMPIRE, Camberwell.
Proprietor (Debenture Holder),
FRANK POSTLETHWAITE.
6.30 Twice Nightly. 9 o'clock.
Eugenie Magnus and Co., Lona, Herman Friscari, Evelyn Wickens, The Cardows, Charlie Robinson, Ada Cerito, Jeapes' Animated Graphic, The Ten San Tan Girls, Milsted Bell Trio.

CHELSEA PALACE,
KING'S-ROAD, CHELSEA.
Twice Nightly, at 6.30 and 9.10.
Hayman and Franklin's Co., in "Toplitsky; or, The End of the World," Jack Smiles, Edie and Ramsden, in "Charlie's Visit," Ethel Stephenson, Hinton and Wooton, May Fairclough, Ruffell's Bioscope, Sybil Lonsdale, Ernest Shand, Max Waldon.

QUEEN'S PALACE OF VARIETIES,
HIGH-STREET, POPLAR. Tel. 714 East.
Proprietors, F. and M. ABRAHAMS.
General-Manager, Mr. Morris Abrahams. Twice nightly, 6.30 and 9.10. Matinée Thursday, 2.30.
Rehearsal 1 o'clock, Monday, G. Carncross and Co., Frank Cass, George Prince, Sisters Rhena, Mande Millar, Agnes Molteno and Co., Ted Curtis and Pics., The Sutcliffs, Bioscope, Annie Beal. Artists must forward bill matter to above, according to Clause 18.

THE NEW BEDFORD
PALACE OF VARIETIES, LTD.
Twice Nightly 6.10 and 9.
Monday, June 20,
Barbara Gott in "The Candle," Lily Eyton, Harry Emeric, Hyde and Cody Trio, Sam Bean, Mundey and Tipp, Alexander Loftus and Co., Dolly Harmer, Four Idlers, Madison and Webb, Bioscope, Amasis, Dent and Harris, &c.
Artists are notified that they must send their full Bill Matter in two clear weeks before opening. Rehearsal, 1 o'clock Mondays. All must attend. Artists not complying with the above rules are subject to having their Contracts cancelled at option of Management.

ROYAL STANDARD MUSIC HALL
(facing Victoria Station).—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. T. S. DICKIE.—One House Nightly. Monday, June 20. Nevill Graham and Co., Larola, Lotto, Lilo, and Otto, Rose Cabani, Elton Black, the Frohmans, Zeta Russel, Hilton St. Just and Louise Van Dalle, Lily Esplin, Four Jarrattis, Flo Inman, Edisonograph. Rehearsal Monday 1 o'clock. Open 7.30. Saturday, 7 o'clock, with augmented programme. Tele., 503 Westminster. Assistant-Man., Mr. MAURICE VOLNY.

FUNDS, &c.

ROYAL GENERAL THEATRICAL FUND.
FOR MEMBERS BECOMING INCAPACITATED EITHER BY OLD AGE OR INFIRMITY.
Hon. Treasurer, Edward Terry, Esq., J.P.
Subscribers are requested to send notices of alteration of addresses.
Charles Cruikshanks, Secretary,
Savoy House, 115-116, Strand.

ACTORS' BENEVOLENT FUND.
8, ADAM-STREET, STRAND.
C. I. Coltson, Secretary.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.
32 REGENT-STREET, PICCADILLY-CIRCUS, W.
Free Medical Advice.
Free Legal Advice.
Agency. Tours Booked.
Telegrams, "Actoris, London."
Telephone, 1753 Gerrard.

THE MANAGERS' CLUB
and
TOURING MANAGERS' ASSOCIATION, LTD.
For particulars of Membership, apply to The Secretary, 5, Wardour-street, W. Telegraphic address, "Playwright, London." Telephone 8458 Gerrard.

ACTORS' DAY.
The ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING will take place on MONDAY, June 27, at 12 mid-day at the DUKE OF YORK'S THEATRE
(by kind permission).
Agenda:
To receive Report from the Advisory Board.
To elect to vacant seats on the Advisory Board.
Nominations for the Advisory Board, proposed and seconded by contributors, must reach the office not later than 12 mid-day, Saturday, June 25.
Address,
Hon. Sec., Actors' Day,
Dudley House, 37, Southampton-street, Strand, W.C.
June 15, 1910.

MUSIC HALL SICK FUND.
Founded in 1867.
Committee Meetings second Wednesday in the month at 4 p.m.
Sick Payments—£1 for 6d. per week, £1 10s. for 9d. per week. £10 paid to nearest relative on death of member. President, Mr. FRED KARNO. Hon. Auditors, Messrs. W. Brisco and T. Carney. Trustees, Messrs. H. Jennings, Jesse Sparrow, and Douglas White; Vice-President, Mr. W. J. Wainratta; Treasurer, Mr. Pat Carey; Secretary, Mr. R. T. Baines. Address all communications, the Crown Hotel, Charing Cross-road, W.C.

ACADEMIES AND SCHOOLS.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,
TENTERDEN-STREET, W.
Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
The Academy offers to Pupils of both sexes an opportunity of receiving a thorough education in Music in all its branches, the Drama, and Dramatic Elocution under the most eminent Professors.
For terms and all other information, apply to
F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC
(Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883).
Prince Consort-road, South Kensington, S.W.
Director, Sir C. Hubert H. Parry, Bart., C.V.O., D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec., Charles Morley, Esq.
Syllabus and Official Entry Forms may be obtained from FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC,
Victoria Embankment, E.C.
Established and Managed by the Corporation of London.
Principal, W. H. Cummings, Esq., Mus.Doc., F.S.A.
Students' Orchestral Concert in the City of London School, on Wednesday next, June 22, at 6 p.m. Programme includes Symphony in B Minor (The Unfinished), Schubert, and Pianoforte Concerto in A Minor (Op. 16), Greig.
Tickets, on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope, can be obtained of the Secretary.

TRINITY COLLEGE OF MUSIC.
(Inst. 1872.)
Chairman of Board, Sir Frederick Bridge, M.V.O., Mus.D. Director of Studies, G. E. Bambridge, F.T.C.L., F.R.A.M. Director of Examinations, C. W. Pearce, Mus.D.
Students may join at any time, and are received for a single subject or the Course.
June 20, at 5 p.m., Pianoforte Recital, by Miss Maud Agnes Winter; June 22, at 8 p.m, Orchestral Concert at Queen's Hall. Prospectus and concert tickets on application. Shelley Fisher, Secretary. Mandeville-place, Manchester-square, London, W.

COLONIAL THEATRES.

AUSTRALIA.
MELBOURNE, SYDNEY, BRISBANE, WELLINGTON, N.Z.
Mr. J. C. Williamson,
Manager of the Leading Australasian Theatres,
HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, MELBOURNE;
HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, SYDNEY;
THEATRE ROYAL, SYDNEY;
HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE, BRISBANE.
London Representative,
J. A. E. Malone, Adelphi Theatre

AUSTRALIA.
MR. HARRY RICKARDS,
Sole Proprietor and Manager,
GRAND OPERA HOUSE MELBOURNE;
PRINCE OF WALES' HOTEL, MELBOURNE;
TIVOLI THEATRE, SYDNEY;
TIVOLI HOTEL, SYDNEY;
TIVOLI THEATRE, ADELAIDE;
PALACE THEATRE AND GARDENS, PERTH.
Address all communications, Head Office, Tivoli Theatre, Sydney. Cable Address, "Tivolian, Sydney." General-Manager, John C. Lees.

AUSTRALIA and NEW ZEALAND.
GEORGE MARLOW'S ENTERPRISES.
London Agent,
EDWARD THANE.
15, Mount Pleasant-lane, Upper Clapton, N.E.

NEW ZEALAND.
FULLER'S AMUSEMENT ENTERPRISES.
Props., JOHN FULLER AND SONS.
AUCKLAND OPERA HOUSE, SKATING RINK (shortly building).
WELLINGTON THEATRE R. (shortly re-building) HIS MAJESTY'S OLYMPIA RINK.
CHRISTCHURCH OPERA H., COLOSSEUM.
DUNEDIN, HIS MAJESTY'S, ALHAMBRA, and PRINCESS THEATRES.
INVERCARGILL, ZEALANDIA HALL.
Head Office, Wellington.

BOMBAY. — CALCUTTA.
BOMBAY.—CALCUTTA.
EMPIRE AND NOVELTY THEATRES, BOMBAY.
GRAND OPERA HOUSE, CALCUTTA.
Cables:
"Soundy, Bombay."
"Operahouse, Calcutta."
The Finest and Most Up-to-date Theatres in the East.
Apply,
Soundy and Co., Ltd.,
Bombay;
or,
Manager,
Grand Opera House,
Calcutta.

COLONIAL THEATRES.

INDIA AND THE FAR EAST.
BANDMANN'S EASTERN CIRCUIT.
MAURICE E. BANDMANN
controls
the only Circuit of Theatres in the East, and can offer attractions a Twelve to Eighteen Months' Consecutive Tour.
Rent! Share! or Certainty!
ROYAL OPERA HOUSE, BOMBAY.
Joint Owners, Maurice E. Bandmann and J. F. Karaka. District Manager, F. Mitchell.
The Premier Theatre of Bombay!
This new and magnificent three-tier theatre, now under course of erection, built on the cantilever principle, will be opened in October next. Holding capacity at ordinary prices £300. Every modern improvement. Stage capable of any production.
EMPIRE THEATRE, CALCUTTA.
Joint Owners, Maurice E. Bandmann and A. Stephen. District Manager, J. Bury.
Acknowledged by Press and Public as the Premier Theatre of the East!
Now in its second year of unprecedented success. Holding capacity at ordinary prices £350. A magnificent four-tier playhouse, built on the cantilever principle, with modern mechanical stage capable of any production.
A play palace.—Vide Press.
At last Calcutta has a theatre where one can both see and hear in.—Vide Press.
A Manager writes:—I have taken more money at the Empire, Calcutta, in one night than in another theatre in Calcutta in one week.
THEATRE ROYAL, CALCUTTA.
Sole Owner, A. Stephen. Joint Lessees, Maurice E. Bandmann and A. Stephen.
Holding capacity at ordinary prices £250.
THE FAR EAST.
District Manager, Roy H. Smith.
Address all communications to District Managers or to London Representative, 44, Cranbourn-street, W.C. Cables, "Svengali," London. "Svengali," Calcutta. "Svengali," Bombay.

PROVINCIAL THEATRES.

ALDERSHOT.—THEATRE ROYAL.
VARIETY SEASON TWICE NIGHTLY.
NEW EMPIRE, KINGSTON (now building).
Address, Mr. Clarence Sounes, 18, Walpole-road, Surbiton, Surrey. Telephone, 1200 P.O., Kingston.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL. Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill. First-class companies required for Oct. 3, 31, Nov. 7, Dec. 12. Fast booking, 1911. Address, Charles Revill, T. R., Stockport.

BIRMINGHAM.
CURZON HALL.
Holding capacity about 3000.
To Let
for various dates
during 1910 and 1911.
Suitable for Circus, Diorama, &c.
For particulars apply to
Edmund W. Berch,
Chartered Accountant,
37, Temple-street,
Birmingham.

BLACKPOOL.
HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE,
WINTER GARDENS,
The PRINCIPAL THEATRE.
Holds MORE MONEY at ORDINARY PRICES and has better average business throughout the Year than any Theatre in the Town.
The Most Comfortable, Elegant, and Best-equipped Theatre, Large and Well Electric Lighted Stage, and First-class Orchestra.
All visitors to the Theatre have Free Admission to the Winter Gardens, Floral Hall, Empress Ballroom, and Pavilion Entertainments; thus Companies visiting Her Majesty's Opera House have this additional attraction, which no other Theatre can offer. Only best No. 1 Companies Booked. For Dates address, Jno. R. Huddlestone, Manager, Winter Gardens, Blackpool.

BLACKPOOL.
GRAND THEATRE, BLACKPOOL,
under the entirely new Proprietorship and Management of the Blackpool Tower Co., Ltd.
General-Manager, Geo. H. Harrop.
Acting-Manager, Percy Harrop.
The Finest, most Popular, and High Record Money-holding Theatre at ordinary prices in the town. Charmingly re-decorated and re-appointed throughout. A beautiful, luxurious, and perfectly appointed playhouse. Spacious and brilliantly-lighted stage. Superior dressing-rooms. Magnificent Orchestra.
Only Vacancy this year, July 4, and Oct. 24, No. 1 Companies only.
All communications, which should be made at once, to Geo. H. Harrop, General-Manager, as above; or, Mr. E. Lockwood, 5, Winterbrook-road, Herne Hill, London, S.E. Teles., "Tower, Blackpool."

BRIGHTON.
MARINE PALACE AND PIER.
Manager, F. W. Walkington. Tele. 341.
The Finest Pier in the Kingdom.
Brilliantly illuminated with 6,000 incandescent and 32 powerful arc lamps. First-class Military Bands during Season. Handsome and luxuriously furnished Theatre, stage seen from every seat, wind and rain covered way from Pier entrance. Chief tram terminus opposite.
Theatre Vacant after Sept. 30; tenant required.

CAMBRIDGE.—NEW THEATRE (Ltd.)
Man.-Directors, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.
A theatre among the most beautiful in England.—Sunday Times.
Now booking Autumn Dates for this year and Spring of 1911.
Silence a polite negative.

CORK. — OPERA HOUSE.
A few Autumn Dates still open.
Vacant Aug. 1 (Bank Holiday), 22, Sept. 12, Nov. 7.
Forward bookings and pencillings include: Mr. Martin Harvey, "Our Miss Gibbs," "The Arcadians," "Dollar Princess," "Dairymaids," "Miss Hook of Holland," "Little Damozel," Mr. Edward Compton, "The Naked Truth," "A White Man," "Tantalising Tommy."
Apply to R. J. Bell, Manager.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE, LTD.
Established 1884.
Managing-Director, Joseph H. Currr.
Open all the Year Round.
Telegraphic add., "Curry, Grimsby." Tel. No. 240.

HANLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.
The Staffordshire Potteries
for all
Dramatic Purposes
must be considered as one large town.
Accommodation for 3,000 People.
Electric Trams and Trains after Performance to all ends of the District.
Vacant Spring Dates.
Sept. 5, 12, 19, and onwards.
First-class attractions only.
Chas. E. Elphinstone, Managing-Director.

HERNE BAY
URBAN DISTRICT COUNCIL.
All applications for Shares or Rental of the TOWN HALL THEATRE,
PIER PAVILION THEATRE, and various Al-fresco Sites, &c., to be made to the Entertainment-Manager, ARTHUR J. BARCLAY, Town Hall, Herne Bay.

LONDON, S.E.—Correspondent Required to supply occasional reports of the Rotherhithe Hippodrome. Apply, Dramaticus, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

NORWICH. — THEATRE ROYAL.
Now booking Autumn.
Weekly Matinées for Country Visitors.
Silence a polite negative.
Fred Morgan, Manager.

PROVINCIAL THEATRES.

OLDHAM. — GRAND THEATRE.
One of the finest Theatres in the Provinces.
Vacant for No. 1 Attractions only.
Sept. 5, 12, 26, Oct. 17, Nov. 14, onwards.
Can entertain a big Panto. Xmas Production.
Address, Ernest Dottridge.

OLDHAM. — EMPIRE THEATRE.
Twice Nightly Drama.
Vacant Aug. 1, 8, 15, Jan. 9, on.
Address, Ernest Dottridge.

OXFORD. — NEW THEATRE.
Managers of First-class Companies are invited to apply for Dates to
Mr. C. C. Dorrill,
Managing-Director,
Silence a polite negative.

PLYMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL
Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.
Vacant dates,
Sept. 5, March 27, April 10, 24, May 1, and onwards.

PORTSMOUTH. — NEW THEATRE ROYAL.
Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton.
Open throughout the year.
First-class Companies.
Weekly Matinées.

ROCHDALE.—Correspondent Required to supply Theatrical Reports Weekly. Address, Dramaticus, c/o "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

SOUTHPORT. — OPERA HOUSE.
Lessee and Manager, Percy Hutchison.
Vacant.
Oct. 24, Nov. 14.

SOUTH SHIELDS. — THEATRE ROYAL. Lessee and Manager, John Coulson. Vacant Aug. 15, Sept. 12, 26, Oct. 10, Nov. 14, for first-class attractions only.
Silence a polite negative.

STOCKPORT.—THEATRE ROYAL.
Sole Owner and Manager,
Mr. Charles Revill.
The Premier Theatre of Cheshire.
Vac. Nov. 7 and 14. Fast booking 1911.

SUNDERLAND.—KING'S THEATRE.
Lessee and Manager, S. F. Davidson.
Business Manager, Lloyd Townrow.
Visited by all the best companies, including Geo. Alexander, Lewis Waller, Oscar Asche, Martin Harvey, Geo Graves, Moody-Manners, D'Oyly Carte, "Arcadians," "Merry Widow," &c., &c.
A few vacant dates in the Autumn.

WORKSOP.—Correspondent Required to supply Theatrical Reports Weekly. Address, Dramaticus, c/o "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

A FEW VACANT DATES
for the following
First-class Theatre Circuit:—
OPERA HOUSE, TUNBRIDGE WELLS;
GRAND THEATRE, SOUTHAMPTON;
THEATRE ROYAL, BOURNEMOUTH;
OPERA HOUSE, CORK;
THE GRAND THEATRE, SWANSEA, can be booked in conjunction with the OPERA H., CORK. Journey via the popular Fishguard-Rosslare route.
GAIETY THEATRE, DUBLIN;
THEATRE ROYAL, DUBLIN;
OPERA HOUSE, BELFAST.
Apply, Frede. Mouillot,
1 and 2, King-street, Covent Garden.

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR PROVINCIAL THEATRES
AND
PROVINCIAL MUSIC HALLS.
Five Lines, TWO and SIXPENCE.
Thirteen Insertions (Including a Copy of "The Era" Weekly), THIRTY SHILLINGS.
For Each Additional Line, Sixpence.
Address, the Publisher,
5 Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.
"Wire," "The Era," London.
"Ring-up," 4747 or 1433 Central.

PURSUANT to an Order of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, made on the 12th May, 1910, in the matter of the Estate of Thomas Barrasford, deceased, and in the action of Thomas Pacey against Maud Barrasford (widow). The Creditors of Thomas Barrasford, late of 11, Leicester-place, Leicester-square, in the County of London, and of Hippodrome House, Brighton, in the County of Sussex, who died on the 1st Feb., 1910, are, on or before the 11th day of July, 1910, to send by post, prepaid, to us the undersigned, Amery-Parkes, Macklin, and Co., of 18, Fleet-street, London, E.C., the solicitors of Maud Barrasford (widow), the executrix of the deceased, their Christian and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their accounts, and the nature of the securities (if any) held by them, or in default thereof they will be peremptorily excluded from the benefit of the said Order.
Every Creditor holding any security is to produce the same before Mr. Justice Joyce at his Chambers, situated in the Royal Courts of Justice, London, on Tuesday, the 19th day of July, 1910, at 12.30 o'clock in the afternoon, being the time appointed for adjudicating on the claims.
Dated this 9th day of June, 1910.
AMERY-PARKES, MACKLIN, and CO.,
18, Fleet-street, London, E.C.
Solicitors for Maud Barrasford (widow).

NOTICE
TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.
I, MARCUS D. DRAPER, of Adel Rectory, Leeds, England, hold absolutely the No. 2 and Fit-up Rights of producing and representing the play in a Prologue and Four Acts, entitled "THE CHRISTIAN" in the Provinces of Great Britain for a period of twelve months from June 1, 1910, with the option of a further twelve months from June 1, 1911.

Price 3s. 6d. Post free 3s. 10d.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER.
By ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).
Chapter I.
COPYRIGHT AS OPPOSED TO PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter II.
PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter III.
INFRINGEMENT AND REMEDIES.
CHAPTER IV.
MUSICAL COPYRIGHT.
Chapter V.
INTERNATIONAL AND COLONIAL COPYRIGHT.
Copyright confusion is like the poor, always with us, and as it seems likely to remain so until at least the crack of doom, it were well for all concerned, or likely to be concerned, to take immediate steps to secure a copy of Mr. Albert A. Strong's new work, entitled "The Law of Copyright." Mr. Strong is already favourably known to the profession for his textbook on "Dramatic and Musical Law," which, like his latest production, is published at "The Era" office. "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" essays to make clear to the non-legal mind what is—or, in some cases what probably is—the law as to musical and dramatic copyright. The chapters on the Berne Convention and on the Chase Act, passed by the United States Congress last March, are full of interest.—Referee.

Published at "The Era" Offices,
Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

ALPHABETICAL LIST
OF
ILLUSTRATED BIOGRAPHIES.

Albury, Mr. Eric H.	Feb. 5, 1910
Allan, Mr. Charles	Jan. 22, 1910
Anthony, Mr. Mark	Jan. 1, 1910
Arnold, Mr. Harold	Nov. 6, 1909
Austin and Cowan	Feb. 5, 1910
Avinal, Mr. Edward	June 11, 1910
Barbour, Late Mr. William	Feb. 19, 1910
Barclay, Miss Lila	July 24, 1909
Barrasford, late Mr. Thomas	Feb. 5, 1910
Barratt, Mr. Lester	Oct. 23, 1909
Bassett, Mr. Leon Alfred	July 3, 1909
Beltram, Miss Josie	Jan. 22, 1910
Black, Mr. Kenneth	Nov. 20, 1909
Blackwood, Miss Nancy	March 12, 1910
Blanchard, Miss Mildred	Nov. 27, 1909
Box, Mr. Ted E.	Nov. 6, 1909
Boyde, late Mr. Edwin	Nov. 6, 1909
Braithwaite, Mrs. J. W.	April 30, 1910
Brand, Late Mr. Oswald	Aug. 28, 1909
Brough, late Mr. Lionel	Nov. 13, 1909
Broughton, Mr. W. H.	Jan. 22, 1910
Brown, Mr. Frank	June 11, 1910
Buonaparte, Mr. Juan	July 31, 1909
Bushell, Mr. Albert	Nov. 20, 1909
Calvert, Mr. Cayley	Feb. 12, 1910
Carpenter, Late Mr. Ernest	Jan. 1, 1910
Carpenter, Mr. F. W.	March 5, 1910
Carr, Mr. James	March 5, 1910
Caselli, Sisters	Nov. 13, 1909
Cecil, Mr. Douglas	Aug. 21, 1909
Chapman, Miss Ida Assheton	Dec. 18, 1909
Clarkson, Mr. Willie	Jan. 29, 1910
Clifton, Miss Dorothy	Feb. 12, 1910
Clyffe, Miss Dolly	Jan. 22, 1910
Colley, Mr. Herbert	Jan. 22, 1910
Collingwood, Mr. Lester	March 26, 1910
Collins, Late Miss Lottie	May 7, 1910
Collins, Mr. Arthur	Feb. 26, 1910
Compton, Miss Viola	June 11, 1910
Colyer, Miss Kitty	June 19, 1909
Conway, Late Mr. H. B.	Aug. 21, 1909
Corri, Mlle. Ghita	April 23, 1910
Cranston, Mr. Edward	June 26, 1909
Craven, Miss Elise	Jan. 1, 1910
Cross, Late Mr. A. B.	Jan. 8, 1910
Curlette, Miss Cissie	Oct. 23, 1909
Dallas, Mr. J. J.	Sept. 4, 1909
Dalton, Miss Florence	July 31, 1909
D'Arc, Mr. W. J.	Aug. 28, 1909
Dare, Mr. Charles	Sept. 11, 1909
Darien Mr. Philip	Feb. 5, 1910
Darling, Jessie	Oct. 2, 1909
Davidson and Mitchell	Aug. 7, 1909
Davies, Late Mr. Chas. J.	Jan. 29, 1910
Day, Mr. Harry W.	March 26, 1910
Delaine, Miss Josie	Feb. 12, 1910
Diamond, Master Cliff	Oct. 23, 1909
Earle, Miss Amy Lloyd	Feb. 5, 1910
Edgar, Late Mr. J. W.	Aug. 28, 1909
Entwistle, Mr. Henry	June 11, 1910
Erskine, Miss Ella	Sept. 18, 1909
Evans, late Mr. Evans	Nov. 6, 1909
Feldman, Mr. Bert	Feb. 12, 1910
Fern, Miss Sable	Jan. 22, 1910
Ferris, Mr. Edward	March 26, 1910
Ford-Howitt, Miss Gladys	Jan. 22, 1910
Ford, Mr. Herbert	May 7, 1910
Ford, Late Mr. T. W.	Sept. 18, 1909
Foster, Mr. Edward	Aug. 28, 1909
Franklin, Miss Irene	Aug. 14, 1909
Gibbons, Mr. Walter	Feb. 5, 1910
Gittins, Mr. Ernest Ch.	Feb. 5, 1910
Grahame, Miss Dorothy	June 11, 1910
Graydon, Mr. J. L.	Jan. 15, 1910
Gregory, Mr. Walner	Jan. 15, 1910
Griffiths, Mr. F. R.	May 28, 1910
Hales, Late Mrs. Martha	Oct. 2, 1909
Hampton, Miss Louise	Aug. 14, 1909
Hardacre, Mr. J. Pitt	Oct. 23, 1909
Hargreaves, Mr. W. H.	April 23, 1910
Harwood, Late Mr. Robb	Feb. 26, 1910
Hastings-Batson, Mr. J.	March 5, 1910
Heath, Late Mr. Frank	Dec. 18, 1909
Herbert, Miss Katharine	June 26, 1909
Herries, Miss Lillian	July 3, 1909
Hickman, Mr. Charles D.	April 23, 1910
Hill, Mr. Rowland	May 28, 1910
Housley, Miss Edith	Aug. 7, 1909
Hudson, late Mr. T. P.	July 3, 1909
Illing, Late Mme. Meta	Jan. 1, 1910
Jenoure, Miss Aida	July 17, 1909
Jerome, Miss Daisy	Nov. 13, 1909
Jesson, Mr. C.	June 4, 1910
Kenney, Late Mr. Chas. H.	Sept. 25, 1909
Kitts, Mr. Charles S.	Feb. 12, 1910
Knight, Miss Agnes	July 10, 1909
Leon, late Mr. Frank	Nov. 6, 1909
Lilburn Mr. Charles	Sept. 4, 1909
Lloyd, Mr. Tom	May 7, 1910
Lockhart, Mr. William	Nov. 27, 1909
Lomath, Mr. Stuart	May 29, 1909
Loveday, Late Mr. H. J.	April 2, 1910
Mackay, Miss Ida	Feb. 12, 1910
Mackay, Mr. A. B.	Feb. 12, 1910
Mapleson, Colonel	April 23, 1910
May, Miss Daisy	April 2, 1910
Mellon, Late Mrs. Alfred	Sept. 11, 1909
Melville, Mr. Andrew	Oct. 2, 1909
Montague, Little Constance	April 30, 1910
Moore, Late Mr. G. W.	Oct. 2, 1909
Morell, Miss Daisy	July 17, 1909
Morgan, Miss Dorma	Dec. 25, 1909
Morgan, Miss Mabelle	Oct. 30, 1909
Moss, Mr. Hugh	June 12, 1909
Newall, late Mr. Richard	Oct. 30, 1909
Nolan, Late Mr. Michael	Jan. 15, 1910
Payne-Seddon, Mr. W.	April 16, 1910
Pembroke, Mr. Clifford	Sept. 4, 1909
Penso, Mr. R.	Nov. 27, 1909
Perrette, Mr. W. H.	Jan. 22, 1910
Phillipini, Madame Jeannette	Feb. 5, 1910
Power, Mr. Oscar	March 12, 1910
Pringle, Mr. William	April 23, 1910
Raymond, Mr. and Mrs. M. F.	Dec. 18, 1909
Reeves, Fred and Horace	Jan. 1, 1910
Rexos, The	Aug. 28, 1909
Reynolds, Mr. Walter, L.C.C.	Jan. 1, 1910
Reynolds, Mr. Walter	Nov. 6, 1909
Rhodes, Mr. Percy	June 11, 1910
Richardson, Miss Dorothy	Feb. 5, 1910
Robina, Miss Fanny	July 31, 1909
Russon, Mr. Harry	March 5, 1910
Salambos, The	Jan. 8, 1910
Sargent, Mr. Frederic	Feb. 5, 1910
Schalkenbach, Late Herr	April 16, 1910
Schonberg, Mr. W. Lake	May 28, 1910
Scott, Mr. Bennett	Oct. 16, 1909
Selwynne, Miss Clarissa	Feb. 5, 1910
Shaw, Late Mr. Sydney	April 23, 1910
Simms, Rosa and Kitty	Nov. 20, 1909
Smith, Late Mr. Vere	Jan. 29, 1910
Somerfield, Late Mr. Fred C.	Feb. 26, 1910
St. John, Mr. Herbert	May 28, 1910
Stretton, Mr. Alfred	March 26, 1910
Stuart, Miss Eva	Dec. 25, 1909
Stuart, Mr. Dudley	April 2, 1910
Studt, Mr. Henry	Oct. 2, 1909
Swinerd, Late Mr Henry	Jan. 8, 1910
Taylor, Late Mr. Henry	May 28, 1910
Tracy, Miss Louie	March 12, 1910
Tracy, Mr. Howard L.	April 30, 1910
Trevosper, Miss Marguerite	July 3, 1909
Victor, Mr. Frederick	Dec. 18, 1909
Vine, Miss Lily	March 26, 1910
Vint, Mr. Leon	Jan. 8, 1910
Wakeford, Miss Marion	Feb. 26, 1910
Ward, Miss Maud E.	Jan. 8, 1910
Warren, Mr. Charles	Oct. 30, 1909
Watson, Mr. John E.	July 10, 1909
Weaver, Mr. Wyn	May 28, 1910
Wellesley, Mr. Alfred	Feb. 5, 1910
Wentworth, Miss Fanny	Feb. 5, 1910
White, Mr. Will	Feb. 12, 1910
Whitling, Mr. Townsend	Feb. 12, 1910
Wilson, Late Mr. Charles	July 31, 1909
Winslow, Mr. Samuel E.	Dec. 11, 1909
Woottwell, Mr. Tom	Aug. 7, 1909
Workman, Mr. C. H.	Sept. 11, 1909
Wynne, Miss Molly	July 10, 1909
Wynne, Mr. Edwin H.	Feb. 12, 1910

Copies of "The Era" containing the above can be obtained, price 6d. each for any issue 1910; other dates double price.

Address, The Publisher, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

THEATRICAL SHOE AND HOSIERY MANUFACTURERS,
MAKERS TO THE PRINCIPAL LONDON THEATRES.

Louis Heel Dancing Shoes a Speciality.
Sixty Art Shades of Linen Back Satin,
Specially Woven for the Manufacture of Dancing Shoes, kept in stock.
This Satin has a Fine Lustre, and is almost as Strong as Leather.

Large Stock of Pure and Spun Silk Tights, Worsted and Cotton Tights, Opera Hose, Stockings, &c.
A Special Study made of Symmetrical Paddings.
The Most Up-to-Date Stock of Stage Requisites and Sundries.
Everything of the Best and at Store Prices.
H. and M. RAYNE,
115, 117, and 119, WATERLOO-ROAD, LONDON, S.E.
(Opposite Electric Tram Terminus).
Tel. 7978 Central. Telegrams, Raynaloo, London.
And at 49, Charing Cross-road, W.C. (near Hippo).

TO OUR READERS.
A SINGLE COPY OF "THE ERA."
Post Free to any Address in the United Kingdom for SIX STAMPS.
Telegraphic Address, "The Era, London."
Address, THE PUBLISHER,
"The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-st., Strand, W.C.

SATURDAY, JUNE 18, 1910.

THE ACTOR'S ANXIETY.

Mr. MARTIN HARVEY, in his admirable speech at the Royal General Theatrical Fund dinner on Sunday last, touched, with his usual acuteness, on the great trouble of the modern actor. It is doubtful if, in any previous period since the theatre was established in England, the lot of the average actor has been so uncertain. If we may judge from the chronicles of the time, even the life of the strolling player, rough and hard as it was, had less of the element of anxiety than that of the better-paid, better-clothed, and better-educated actor of the present day. As for the actor's life under the old stock and circuit system, it was security itself compared to the modern "in-and-out" existence which is forced upon the actor nowadays. The members of the old stock companies were each engaged for a special line of business. The salaries were low, but they were generally forthcoming; and the engagements were tolerably permanent. There was not in the production of plays such a contrast of brilliant success and utter failure as at present. Altogether, the experienced actor in a stock company may have been poor, but he was what is called comfortable.

The modern method of choosing the actor to suit the part which is practised at our London theatres results in a realism of impersonation which often approaches perfection, and which was impossible when the types of character were broader, more conventional, and less subtly defined. But that result has been attained at terrible cost to the individual actor. The greatest sufferers are not the respectable performers who have an established reputation for reliability and utility, and are content to take a sound, steady way round the provinces year by year. It is the talented and ambitious actor, who has achieved recognition but not great eminence, who is most sorely tried. The other day we talked with an actor of notable ability who had made his name well-known at the West End theatres. He had been "resting" for eight months. Lest it should be thought that he is an eccentric or an incompetent, we hasten to add that he is now fulfilling an excellent engagement at a good salary. But imagine the slow torture as the bank balance, accumulated when in employment, steadily diminished, the dread lest the unemployment should be continuous, the pressure of that idleness on an active disposition and a highly-strung, energetic temperament. For, unlike the artist and the author, the actor cannot practise his art in private. He needs a stage, the company of his fellow players, and the stimulus of an audience. He is reduced to the wearing, miserable alternative of patience.

The way in which these troublous times are borne is nothing short of heroic. The actor does not carry his heart upon his sleeve. He manages to keep up appearances, both as regards dress and manner. Seldom does he complain, and still more seldom does he commit suicide. But the modern system makes the profession of acting a very trying one. It exacts from the rank and file of the calling a quiet, stubborn endurance which, under a more favourable dispensation, would be quite unnecessary. The actor does not make a parade of his providence; we might even say that, like all artists, providence is not natural to him. Dealing with ideas and not with facts and figures, he shares with all pleasure-makers the danger of indifference to the future, of vivid delight in living, which is the great foe of foresight. But soon after he enters the profession the precarious nature of engagements is forced upon him. It is marvellous, when we think of the smallness of the salaries paid in the lower branches of the calling, that the inevitable "breaks" are bridged over with so little obvious or demonstrative distress.

And the irony of the situation is made all the more keen by the comparatively large salaries paid to actors of merit while they are working, and their social status and popularity. A young West End actor would be more than human if he did not endeavour to enjoy himself. But, however modestly he may live in private, he must, as part of his business and his pleasure, present a respectable, not to say fashionable, exterior in public and in society. His position is to a certain extent a false one. His salary is pretty well known; but few take the trouble to do the simple sum of mental arithmetic which would show the average which is created by the long periods of unemployment. The great curse of the modern actor is anxiety.

It would be better if these facts were understood outside the profession; and then we should have fewer stage-struck young persons helping to over-stock it. Apart from its artistic attraction, the stage as a profession has little to recommend it. It demands in its votaries—we had almost written its victims—a passionate, whole-souled love of the art of acting as a make-weight for its troubles. GOLDSMITH called poetry the "source of all his joy and all his woe," and we can well understand an old actor looking back on his life, and after balancing the good and the bad, the pleasure and the pain, coming to the conclusion that the path he took was the right one for him. But this cannot apply to the silly youths and maidens who go on the stage with the idea that they are going to have an easy time of it, and in the end will be able to "retire from business" on a competence. The latter result can only be attained by stern self-denial. But it is made more easy by the existence of that admirable institution the Royal General Theatrical Fund. Apart from the advantages which it offers to the actor in the liberal scale of its annuities, it is of infinite value as a great advertisement of the possibilities of professional thrift, of the means of attaining ultimate independence. Mr. HARVEY'S speech contained a gem of description which is worthy of quotation for its vivid picturesqueness. Said Mr. HARVEY:

> Let me recall a typical case, that of one of our annuitants. All his working life he has lived in a modest little cottage in a remote suburb, though to be sure he has earned a handsome salary at times which he would have had some excuse for thinking warranted a larger establishment, but he had resisted the temptation to cut a dash, and has, night by night, after his work is finished, reached his cottage by 'bus and his own sturdy foot; only once or twice has he fallen into arrears with the quarterly payments as a subscribing member of the fund. Engagements of late years have been less frequent, but from time to time his astounding gifts of humour have been remembered by some manager, and he has emerged from his cottage to convulse the playgoing world with his irresistibly comic personality—a personality which is the more irresistible when compared with the solemn gravity of his deportment in every-day life. The constant denial of many years has at last brought him to his goal of rest. He is now well past eighty, and has drawn his annuity regularly for over twenty years. His step upon the stairs when he comes to receive his quarterly payments at our secretary's hands is a little feebler year by year, and he has greater and greater difficulty in finding his way out of the office and down the stairs, when, with his well-earned allowance in his pocket, he returns to his cottage and his roses.

The picture is a pleasant one, and it is realisable by any actor who will accept the advantageous offer which is made to him by the Royal General Theatrical Fund.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, June 16.—Henry Bataille is one of our most talented playwrights. Unfortunately, he is a little too fond of litigation. His name is as well-known in our Law Courts as it is in the theatres, and many a time our Judges have expressed the wish that these literary questions might be settled out of Court. In his last action against Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, however, M. Bataille has gone really too far, and has been told a few unpleasant things in the Paris press. The curious part of the affair is that M. Bataille had the law on his side, and that in his action against Mme. Bernhardt in respect to one of his plays which she had accepted and refused to produce, the Court had awarded him the damages he had claimed. But where he was wrong was when he ordered Mme. Sarah Bernhardt's property to be seized, and a cry of horror was heard on every side when this became known. Heaven be praised, the feeling for Art, for those who represent it in so worthy a manner as our great national Sarah, is not dead within us. We admire and respect her for all she has done for the French drama, and the cry of horror soon developed into such a howl that good M. Bataille promptly ordered all proceedings to be stopped. The matter, therefore, is settled, but it has left an unpleasant after taste of which M. Bataille will feel the effects for some time yet. Poor Catulle Mendès used to say that he would accept a kick from three persons—from Flaubert, Richard Wagner, and Sarah Bernhardt. He had a real cult for the great tragedienne, and this feeling is shared by everybody in the theatrical world. We still have our idols, and it is not safe to attack them, even under cover of the law.

As to the "affaire Lantelme," it is shrouded in mystery, in so far as it was heard in camera, and very little transpired of what took place behind the closed doors. All we know is that Mlle. Lantelme, looking very pretty in a tight-fitting dress and a becoming hat, entered the sanctum, summoned there by M. Deval, the well-known manager of the Théâtre de l'Athénée. Mlle. Lantelme had been engaged by him to play the leading rôle in Manon, fille galante, to be brought out at the before-mentioned house. Suddenly Mlle. Lantelme refused to learn her part, alleging that it was so "peppery" that no decent actress could be expected to play it. And, as this young artist had already appeared in Le Circuit and other plays of a rather spicy character, we are naturally led to suppose that Manon, fille galante, must be exceptionally strong, unless some other reason induced Mlle. Lantelme to throw up her rôle.

Deval claims damages, which Mlle. Lantelme refuses to pay, because, as she says, she is in the right. One of the Judges asked M. Deval to produce the MS. so that they might judge for themselves whether Mlle. Lantelme's statement is not somewhat overdrawn. But M. Deval refused to show the play, alleging that he could not do so without the author's sanction, and as the author happens to be no less a person than M. Bataille, he (M. Deval) will not run the risk of a law suit. The case will again come for hearing in a few days, when judgment will probably be given. M. Deval says he is sure to win, and his fair opponent is equally certain of victory.

"THE ACCOLADE."

A One-Act Play by Gaston Gervex, Produced by Mr. H. A. Saintsbury at the Court Theatre on Thursday afternoon, June 16.

The Marquis de Valencourt ..... MR. H. A. SAINTSBURY
Sir Harry Edgecombe ..... MR. STANLEY HOWLETT
François ..... MR. FRED GROVE
Gabrielle de Fontenay ..... MLLE. D'AIREL

To the making of sketches and plays dealing with the French Revolutionary period there is no end. The Accolade, stated to be by Gaston Gervex, was seen for the first time last Thursday at the Court. It deals with the love of an English baronet and also a French Marquis for Gabrielle de Fontenay. Sir Harry Edgecombe is declaring his passion for Gabrielle, who is the affianced wife of the Marquis de Valencourt, when the arrival of the French nobleman interrupts his avowal. François, the old butler at the château de Valencourt, is violently agitated by the news that the revolutionary mob is advancing on his beloved master's mansion, and beseeches the Marquis to fly with Mlle. to England until happier times shall come. Sir Harry also urges his friend to fly. But the Frenchman, with all the pride of his race, declares he will die in his old home sooner than desert it to the mob. Left together, the two men talk of their love for the same woman, and it is agreed that if Mlle. chooses the Englishman he and she shall fly to England, and that if the lady chooses the Marquis it will be her privilege to die by his side when the rabble sacks the place, as is inevitable. Mlle. de Fontenay tells Harry of her love for him, but decides that it is her duty to stay with the Marquis. By a subterfuge the Marquis sends his fiancée and the Englishman off, promising to follow a little later. The scene that follows between the Marquis and his old butler is exceedingly well done and affecting; after which the Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity brigade arrive and make very short work of both the gallant nobleman and his beautiful château. Mr. H. A. Saintsbury gives us a very vigorous yet dignified idea of the Marquis de Valencourt. He made his audience live with him. His troubles were theirs, and one could not resist a sob of despair at his untimely end. Quite a lovable character, too, was old François the butler, excellently played by Mr. Fred Grove. Mr. Stanley Howlett also did very well in the part of Sir Harry Edgecombe. Mlle. D'Airel was seen as Gabrielle de Fontenay. The little play met with a most cordial reception from a well-filled house.

Preceding The Accolade Mr. Clive Currie presented the Forest scenes from As You Like It in a most creditable manner. The love story of Rosalind and Orlando is always a favourite with students of Shakespeare, and Miss Mary Forbes undertook the heavy work of the heroine with every success. In doublet and hose she looked "a goodly youth indeed." Her acting was extremely spirited, and her delivery of the epilogue was one of the good things of the afternoon. The part of Orlando fell to the share of Mr. Clarence Derwent, a handsome lover enough, with a clear delivery, though at times lacking spirit. The best in the cast was undoubtedly Mr. H. A. Saintsbury as Touchstone the Jester. He evidently had made an intense study of the part. He took his lines in the most natural manner possible, getting every point with a dry acerbity that was a relish to all who heard them. Not for many a long day has the renowned jester been better represented. Mr. Clive Currie was another of the actors to give distinction to his part—that of Jaques. One likes his moods from the first, and his terse delivery is very effective. The part of the Banished Duke was well handled by Mr. Walter Ringham, and Mr. Lewis Carlton worked hard and got everything in the most creditable manner from the country lout William's small doings. Miss Jean Graeme made a very pleasing Celia. She seconded Miss Forbes' efforts admirably. The others who did well in the parts allotted to them were Mr. Montague Mazeran, Mr. Dennis Cleugh, Miss Evelyn Grey, Miss Evelyn Vandersee, and Mr. Fred Grove as Adam, the old servant.

DINNER TO MISS HORNIMAN.

The close of the third year of Miss Horniman's work in Manchester was celebrated on Thursday night by a dinner at the Queen's Hotel, Mr. B. Iden Payne presiding. The dinner was arranged by a committee composed of Henry Austin, Lewis Casson, and Edwin T. Heys. It was attended by practically every member of the present company and several past members. Some scores of letters and telegrams were received in the course of the evening from those who had been connected with the company at one time or another, and who were unable to be present. In acknowledging the toast of her health, Miss Horniman spoke of the unusual distinction of the forthcoming degree of M.A. to be conferred upon her, a woman, and one connected with the drama. She referred humorously to some effects of her recent speech in Liverpool, and said that if she wished to say what would make an impression on Manchester she should say it in Liverpool. Miss Horniman spoke of her pride in her company, and, despite any rumours, she stated emphatically that she was not going to throw up the sponge.

Mr. Stanley Drewitt greatly amused the company by describing an American request to produce a play in which the characters were all flies, whose business it was to walk about upside down on a ceiling. Mr. Charles Charrington proposed "Miss Horniman's Company." He contended that the stage must preach, and must have some earnest, and, for the want of a better word, religious force at the back of it, universal, and not belonging to any creed or sect. The stage was capable of expressing anything that the Church had expressed in bygone times. He had great respect and admiration for the work that Miss Horniman's company was doing, and was privileged to have been a member of the company. Wherever you had the commercial spirit at the back of the repertory theatre, the thing instantly became too difficult. Mr. Payne responded, and referred to the great strides made by the company in national and international reputation.

MISS ADA REHAN has reached London from New York on her way to her English summer home. Miss Rehan is uncertain whether she will return to the stage, from which she has been absent for five years.

THE consideration of the accounts showing a deficit of £5,200 on the Brighton Aquarium and Municipal Orchestra was deferred at the meeting of the Borough Council on Thursday, pending a report from the borough accountant. Councillor Griffith, who has taken a prominent part in financial reform, while rejoicing in the town's possession of a first-rate orchestra, has publicly stated that he shares the general astonishment at its heavy cost. While the band costs the town approximately £9,000 a year, it is maintained that it does not sufficiently provide the outdoor music so much required by visitors.

THE West Ward Ratepayers' Association has now urged upon the Council the desirability of removing the present bandstand on the Lower Western Lawn and the improvement of the esplanade there so that, whether a sunken bandstand be constructed or not, outdoor performances may be given on what is regarded as an ideal spot. On Thursday Alderman Wilson advocated more concerts being given in the Pavilion Grounds, which offer more shade than the Old Steine enclosure, but no decision was arrived at. The Council had before them the revised accounts of the musical festival showing a deficit of £334.

A LICENSING SUGGESTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—With regard to the forthcoming movement on the Censorship and One Licence for all Theatres question, may I offer one simple suggestion as a solution which should appear satisfactory to all concerned—that is, that all places of entertainment, whether theatres or music halls, should be granted exactly the same privileges as our present opera house at Covent Garden. To the best of my knowledge this proposal has not yet been brought forward, and as much of the original matter debated upon has perhaps been half forgotten, may I be permitted to refer to the beginning of the argument in as few words as possible?

Authors had a grievance, and for the purpose of airing their trouble they engineered a committee to inquire into, report upon, and propose a remedy. This committee calls a number of witnesses, including bishops, authors, actresses, actors, critics, and managers, to hear their expressions of opinion and to be cross-examined as to the advisability of retaining the reader of plays or abolishing this post. After listening to voluminous evidence—vide report—and after the committee has deliberated upon it, what is the result? A verdict of utter damnation, affecting a body of innocent people, the head landlords. Not so very long ago theatres were under the sole direction of the Lord Chamberlain, by whom landlords and managers alike were treated with the utmost kindness and courtesy. Many will remember the days when Sir Spencer Ponsonby Fane visited the theatres, representing the Lord Chamberlain. Then followed Sir Arthur Ellis, and eventually the London County Council took the entire structural control. (The Lord Chamberlain grants no licence until he receives the favourable report of the L.C.C.) What will be the result of the present attack upon the Lord Chamberlain if the Covent Garden licence is not adopted? The landlord and manager may have yet more masters, viz., the L.C.C., the Licensing Magistrates, and the police. Then God help the mob! I say mob, for you landlords and managers will form one of the mob on licensing days when you apply for your public house licence. Most of you, I imagine, are ignorant of what this means. Wait and see. Some may obtain their licence, some may not; and even the privilege of getting the licence may not repay you for what you will have to go through. And, moreover, it is quite possible you may not obtain even a theatrical licence. So there may be three degrees:—

1. A theatre with no licence.
2. A theatre with a theatrical licence.
3. A theatre with a theatrical licence and a drink licence.

If there is any risk of landlords and managers being punished in this manner, surely they should unite at once, and petition the King for protection. Let the authors fight their own battles. The point is, do you prefer the dignified, courteous treatment of the Lord Chamberlain's office, or to be treated as one of the mob? I am casting no aspersion upon either the Licensing Magistrates or the London County Council. These great bodies cannot occupy themselves with any individual; you must go up with the mob in your turn and take your chance, and you are all aware what a tyrant chance is.

A change in the policy of the entertainment world is necessary, and—if licence there must be—there should be free trade and one licence for all, as advocated in a modified form by Sir Herbert Tree and Mr. Henry Arthur Jones.

Take Whiteley's, Peter Robinson's, Maple's, Shoolbred's, Selfridge's, Harrod's, and such like. Have they all to obtain a licence to live? Boots, and other chemists of that ilk—have they to obtain a licence to live? Lipton, Lyons', A.B.C. shops—have they to obtain a licence to live? No. But a man who ventures his all in building a theatre of some £100,000 must not only obtain a licence to use it, but has to face the opposition of another man who has perhaps a fat living in the same locality, who says "How dare you come here to earn your living? This is my pitch." Take the Empire Theatre: it was closed for two years, battling down the opposition of the Alhambra and other halls before it got a licence.

So it applies all round, one place opposing another as if, forsooth, that particular landlord or company had the sole monopoly of earning his bread and butter at the expense of others starving. I shall not enter into the pros and cons of free trade, but at once give you a glaring example of what is and what should be. One law and one protector for all alike.

Covent Garden Theatre.—It may be a circus, a playhouse, an opera house, a concert hall, a variety house, a dancing saloon. It may permit smoking in the auditorium, and it may serve food anywhere and keep open all night, and, moreover, serve drink all over the premises during prohibited hours.

Yet the house and all these privileges are under the direction of the L.C.C. and Censor. What harm has accrued from this free house? None. If one house may enjoy free trade, why not all? I maintain that it is most unfair, unjust, that any one house should have any advantage over another.

We are not living in 1910 B.C., but in A.D. 1910, and this being so, it is time that matters should be equalised, and all given the same opportunity of earning their living and supporting the State.

Everyone has the right to work for his living, and everyone should have an equal chance of so doing, and no law, ancient or modern, should give to one man an opportunity of earning his bread at the expense of his starving brother.

Now that the question of free trade is raised, I submit in the name of justice and in the strongest possible language, that it is a burning iniquity that Covent Garden Theatre should be the one and only free trade house in London. Will the new law begin with commonsense and fair play by giving every manager equal right to submit whatever form of entertainment that is not harmful or dangerous the public may approve of? And the same refreshment conditions as at Covent Garden.

Possibly I am speaking somewhat warmly on this subject, but I certainly think the time and circumstances demand unrestrained speech.—Yours faithfully,
B. DISTIN-MADDICK.
Scala Theatre, Charlotte-street, W.

THE vicar of St. John's, Newcastle, takes a rational view of theatres. "They relieve the dullness of life for many," writes Mr. Hepher in his parish magazine, "and send them back to work refreshed, and often edified and instructed." He, however, laments that present-day taste runs in favour of "empty-headed and banal musical burlesque" instead of the comic operas of the Gilbert-Sullivan days, and marvels at the appeal which the variety stage makes "with its little snippets of performances."

MR. HEPHER is philosophical enough to concede that tastes differ and to believe that, generally speaking, the influence of the stage makes for temperance and decency. He sees, however, that the public can, if they will, exert a valuable influence on the stage. For he says:—"The way to improve the stage is to go to the theatre, and find fault with the manager when things are wrong; to select the plays you see with care, and if need be to leave the theatre as a protest if illicit things are done or said, taking care to ask for a return of your money."

"THEATRICAL ACCOUNTS FOR BUSINESS MANAGERS." By Cuthbert E. Smedley, A.C.A. Price 3s. 6d., post free 3s. 9d. Published by The Era, Limited, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

"STALLS FOR TWO."

A One-act Play, by Mrs. George Norman and Mr. David Ellis, Played for the First Time at the Rehearsal Theatre, Maiden Lane, on Friday, June 17.

Tom Tatham ..... MR. DUNCAN YARROW
Mr. Jackson ..... MR. ALFRED DRAYTON
Mrs. Morgan ..... MISS ESTELLE STEAD
Lucy Morgan ..... MISS EVELYN GREY

Two very ambitious plays—one a single act, the other in three—were staged for the first time at Mr. Clive Currie's cosy little theatre yesterday (Friday) afternoon. A very good audience assembled, and both productions—which were under the management of Messrs. Jay and Mann—got a very cordial reception. Stalls for Two deals with the story of how Lucy Morgan, the daughter of the late Captain Morgan, of the Merchant Service, is, on the demise of her parent, forced to accept a situation as typewriter with a Mr. Jackson, who is a patent boot-blacking merchant. Young Tom Tatham, employed by the downstairs beef-tea firm, is rather smitten with Lucy's charms, and, despite her protests that she cannot go to the theatre, induces her to promise that she will do so. Now Mr. Jackson wants Lucy to do some extra typewriting that evening before she goes, and on her intimating that she has accepted an invitation to the theatre, promptly informs the girl that theatres mean damnation and—also "the sack." Lucy has a selfish old mother who subsists on the girl's earnings, and there is a pretty little scene between the two women when the elder learns that the younger is going "gallivanting." Regretting her hastiness, poor Lucy promises to give up her theatre treat and to stay and do the typewriting. She informs Tom Tatham that she cannot keep her promise, and that young gentleman instantly jumps to the conclusion that he is "not good enough for her." He tells Lucy this to her face, but ultimately that young lady explains the real reason. Like the decent boy he is, he at once offers to help her with her work, and, in addition, gives her the glad tidings that his employers have given him a big rise in his salary only that day. So sweet little Lucy is enabled to get her work done, to go to the theatre, and, best of all, to keep her situation.

Stalls for Two is a delightful little human incident. Miss Evelyn Grey as Lucy Morgan is splendid. The dear little girl's troubles one feels are one's own. The youthful lover, Tom Tatham, is well and brightly played by Mr. Duncan Yarrow. Rather nervous, but still good, was Mr. Alfred Drayton as the Nonconformist, Mr. Jackson. The selfish mother was played by Miss Estelle Stead. The sketch is well written and the dialogue very clever at times.

The Duchess of Down was in progress as The Era was going to press, so that a detailed notice is quite out of the question.

AN old letter of Hermann Vezin, hitherto unpublished, and written on Oct. 25 in an unspecified year to Edward Truelove, famous in days gone by as a bookseller and as a daring publisher, recalls an event that is worth remembering in days when it is proposed to build a theatre in memory of Shakespeare. In 1863, on the tercentenary of Shakespeare's birth, an oak tree was planted on Primrose Hill. It was to be the Shakespeare oak. "I remember the planting of that tree," wrote Hermann Vezin to Mr. Truelove. "I fear the public cares too little for such matters, and will forget all about it unless its memory is jogged by a proper inscription. Primrose Hill was to be called 'Shakespeare's Hill,' too. This was rather absurd, and impossible of achievement. His own published plays and the theatres where they are presented will always be his greatest monument."

AT the river carnival and dramatic and vaudeville matinée in aid of the Daily Telegraph Boy Scouts' Fund on Eel Pie Island at Twickenham on Thursday, July 14, an attractive programme will be presented under the patronage of Field-Marshal Earl Roberts and others. Mrs. Brown Potter, Mlle. Zelie de Lussan (by kind permission of Mr. Thomas Beecham), Miss Marie Lohr, Miss Phyllis Dare, Mr. Rutland Barrington, Mr. Harry Tate, Mr. George Gray, Miss Clarice Vance, Mr. John Lawson (who will travel specially from Ramsgate for the occasion), Mr. Pat Doherty, Mr. Fred Allandale, Mlle. Hellena Dolli, Miss Grace Warner, Mr. Alan McWhirter, Miss Cora Lanner, Miss Constance Montague, Miss Nina Gordon, Miss Lallie Forsyth, Professor Roberti and Miss Lavinia Caston, Miss Josephine Airlie, Miss Haïdee Wright, Fräulein Marie Woltereck, Miss Augusta Walters, Miss Yvonne Fitzroy, and Mr. Leslie Stuart and company have kindly consented to appear.

DEVOTEES of Ibsen claim for him that he has initiated a new school of play-writing, and that his work marks a new era in dramatic literature. The influence of "the Master" is no doubt inestimable, but in his own country he has to share honours with Björnstjerne Björnson, who although a younger man, was famous first. The two writers are compared in the interesting prefatory note to the latter's play, Laboremus, published by Chapman and Hall.

"The genius of these two poets has run on parallel lines, if with very different force and velocity, and when the history of Scandinavian literature is written, the rivalry between them will be the most interesting feature of the Northern literary revival in the nineteenth century. In almost all instances Björnson has been first in the field. Thirty years ago his name was known to a dozen persons where but one had heard of Ibsen. Both began by writing Sagas, but Ibsen emancipated himself earlier from the romantic, and took to the realistic treatment of his subjects a few years before his rival. Yet Björnson dealt first with the problem of marriage—De Nygifte (The Newly-married) foreshadowing Nora Helmer in A Doll's House; and in En Fallit (A Bankruptcy) and Redaktören (The Editor) he wrote social dramas which were the forerunners of Ibsen's Pillars of Society and The Enemy of Society. The similarity is that of the process of development, of nationality, of contemporaneous activity; there is little in their treatment of the same subjects, none whatever in the spirit of the men themselves. Ibsen is the judge, the stern arbiter, arraigning all known creeds and social conditions, shattering all that he attacks by his scathing criticism, a revolutionary who shows us no new organisation to take the place of the ruins he creates. Björnson, on the other hand, is the herald of the future, the prophet and the reformer. He deals with no evil for which he does not see a remedy; there is no bitterness in his warfare. Whilst Ibsen would sweep away the existing conventions of the relations of the sexes as fraught with possibilities of evil, Björnson 'cheerfully proposes to modify manners'; and the point of view is the same in each of the problems with which they have concerned themselves. Ibsen loves the Idea, Björnson loves Mankind. Nor is the contrast in character and temperament less great. Ibsen, solitary, gloomy, a pessimist 'far removed,' might seem at first more typically Scandinavian than Björnson. But it is not so. The younger dramatist, the sunny optimist, the poet who has ever felt the 'daylight of life' to be his element, is the born nationalist. According to Dr. Brandes, to name the name of Björnson is like hoisting the Norwegian flag. 'In his merits, his faults, his genius, his weakness, he is as distinctly national-as Voltaire and Schiller.' The Norwegian poets of the eighteenth century have sufficiently proved that loud light-heartedness and sunny optimism are Norwegian, and Björnson introduces in his characters the taciturnity, the shyness, the sobriety which distinguishes the other half of his people.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

The House of Commons had attention drawn to the needs of the entertainment profession and the anomalies of licensing in Parliament on Tuesday, when, in reply to a question from Mr. Robert Harcourt, Mr. Winston Churchill (Home Secretary) stated that the report of the Joint Committee on Censorship and Licensing was under Government consideration.

In the Council on the same day the frequently postponed discussion on the one licence drew forth some interesting pronouncements from Mr. George Alexander—fully reported in another column. He said that until the law conceded free trade—which, by the way, it practically does in the outer metropolitan districts—the theatres ought to be protected, at least to the extent of the maintenance of the compromise.

Mr. Alexander seems to be much more anxious about the protection of theatres than his fellow actor-managers—Mr. Lewis Waller, Mr. Herbert Sleath, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, or Mr. Seymour Hicks, who have all been quite happy in drawing good salaries from either Mr. Alfred Butt or Mr. Oswald Stoll, and have each in their turn produced pieces which would have not found a place in the programme of any theatre, either patented or protected. We quite agree with Mr. Alexander when he urges the L.C.C. to give the double licence.

Mme. Hanako, the celebrated Japanese actress, will come to the Coliseum on Monday with her company from Tokio, to produce for the delectation of Mr. Stoll's patrons the dramatic playlet, The Tea House. It will be remembered that this versatile player from the land of the chrysanthemum produced about two years since at the Hippodrome a tragedietta, entitled Otake.

The gruesome simplicity of this, presented in a foreign tongue, did not impress English audiences, even though everything possible was done to reproduce the Japanese atmosphere. Otake, it will be remembered, was adapted into English by Loie Fuller, a great student of Jap literature, and produced at the Duke of York's on Aug. 26, 1907, as The Little Japanese Girl, with Miss Pauline Chase in the title-rôle.

Mr. Charles Coborn and Mr. Jack Straw have been appointed joint honorary secretaries for the forthcoming Music Hall Sports, on behalf of the poor of the profession, on July 21 at Stamford Hill grounds.

They are on the warpath for scalps in the form of prizes or donations towards that highly-deserving object, and are "chortling in their joy" over their progress to date, amongst their victims being Mr. Harry Tate (the president of the V.A.B. Fund), with a ten-guinea prize; Mr. Chirgwin, ex-president; Messrs. White Brothers, of Nottingham, with a prize of one of their best hampers (and "pro.'s" know what that means); the Era; Messrs. H. and M. Rayne; Mr. Herbert Shelley, with a donation; Mr. A. Jennings, of the Buchanan-street Station Hotel, Glasgow; the V.A.F.; the Performer; and a number of others, whose names will be published in due course.

The sports arranged are numerous and highly interesting, and the committee will heartily welcome gifts of prizes, donations, and advertisements for the official programme of the day. Communications may be sent to Messrs. Coborn and Straw, 40, Perran-road, Tulse Hill, S.W. Telephone, "Brixton, 277."

Carl Junor and company in Fred S. Jennings's successful sketch The Spirit of Music, having just finished a Gibbons tour, start with Moss' Empires on Monday at the Holloway Empire. Fred and Horace Reeves are sole agents for this attraction.

Mr. Herbert Sleath, by arrangement with Messrs. Arthur Bourchier and Charles Frohman, will appear very shortly at the Tivoli, Strand, in a sketch entitled The Littlest Girl. This does not mean that Mr. Sleath is relinquishing his part in Glass Houses at the Globe Theatre, for he will appear first at the Tivoli and later at the Globe. Several other actors and actresses have celebrated the entente cordiale between theatres and halls in similar fashion.

The London Theatres of Varieties has invited application for an issue of 100,000 7 per cent. cumulative preference shares of £1 each at par. Dividends will be payable half-yearly, the first instalment, calculated on the amount paid up at the end of September, falling due in October. The company was incorporated in 1908 to acquire a group of variety theatres, and fourteen were then taken over, the Holborn Empire occupying the central position.

The present issue of the London Theatres of Varieties shares is made in order to enable the company to secure the direct and complete ownership of the London Palladium, now in course of construction, situated in Argyll-street, adjoining Oxford Circus; the Hammersmith Palace of Varieties, which occupies a prominent position in King-street West, Hammersmith Broadway; and the Lewisham Hippodrome, now being erected at Rushey-green, Lewisham, on plans prepared by Mr. Frank Matcham.

Mr. Alfred Butt, the manager of the Palace Theatre, and European agent for the newly-formed International Music Hall Syndicate, has just returned to London from Germany. He went over to Berlin to meet Mr. Meyerfield, the president of the American Orpheum Circuit, one of the controlling factors in the new syndicate, and as the result of their meeting it was decided to establish in the German capital "the largest music hall" in Europe, to be run on similar lines to the Palace Theatre in London. This decision is of particular interest as being the first move of the new music hall combine and an indication of its far-reaching ramifications.

Berlin, it is said, is ill-provided with vaudeville amusements, and Mr. Butt and those acting in conjunction with him take the view that the new music hall, which will seat 2,000 persons comfortably, will prove a formidable competitor to the less attractive beer gardens. English turns are to be employed, but the programme is to be run on cosmopolitan lines. It is understood that the police objections, which were by no means slight, to the scheme have been overcome, and that the plans of the proposed music hall have not only been approved, but that the order for building has been given, the site having been finally selected. The field of operations of the combine extends not only to America, Germany, and England, but to France, where they are acting in conjunction with the Alhambra.

In the syndicate are some 130 or 140 music halls joined together for mutual advantage and working under a common agreement. Artists will be engaged for two years, and as there are 140 music halls to be supplied with turns, there will be no necessity for any artist to be longer than a week at any particular music hall in the combine. It is understood that Mr. Butt's arrangement with the syndicate has no bearing on the Palace Theatre, though very likely it will give the Palace an opportunity of keeping in touch with the world's best talent.

It is proposed to make a presentation to Mr. P. D. Elbourne, of the Hippodrome, Birmingham, who is leaving Birmingham to take up the managership of the Leicester Palace. A Testimonial Fund Committee has been appointed, with Mr. M. Bernsten, of Midland Amusements, as hon. secretary.

Miss Gertie Gitana (who is one of Sunderland's greatest favourites) has been receiving enormous receptions from crowded houses at the Empire during the past week, and when Mr. Dick Thornton personally presented her, on Tuesday night last, with a beautiful bouquet there was quite an ovation.

Our Paris correspondent writes:—"We have had an exciting week. No novelties have been produced, but scandal-mongers in the theatrical world here have had a famous treat, inasmuch as they not only had the "affaire Lantelme," the "affaire Bataille," but also the Liane de Pougy marriage to discuss with their friends.

"Mlle. de Pougy, whose real name is Chassigne, has been connected with the music-hall stage, where she became celebrated for her beauty. Hard-working and ambitious, she would have given worlds to become a 'star.' Unfortunately, unsurmountable difficulties stood in her way. She engaged the best professors of singing, declamation, dancing, diction, &c., but their joint efforts failed in placing their fair pupil at the head of the profession. This, however, did not prevent the lady from appearing frequently before the public.

"From the Folies-Bergère she went to Russia, to return to the Folies-Bergère, and go back to St. Petersburg. If I am not mistaken, she also made her bow to a London audience in 1901 at the Palace Theatre in Yacheska. She then grew tired of the stage and attempted "writing." She brought out a few volumes, and even a one-act play l'Enlèvement, but her literary efforts did not bring her the fame she coveted. To console her, a kind fate had bestowed upon her magnificent jewellery and a pretty strong dose of what we call here esprit.

"Both stood her in good stead on the day of her famous encounter with Otero la belle at Monte Carlo. Otero, la belle, has—as everybody knows, a magnificent collection of necklaces, bracelets, rings, and tutti quanti, of which she is justly proud. Mme. Otero, happening to be in Monte Carlo when her younger rival in jewellery arrived, decided to take what is vulgarly called the shine out of her.

"After dinner la belle entered the rooms ablaze with shining stones. A murmur of admiration went through the crowded rooms as she quietly took her seat by the side of her friends. It was an anxious moment. The gamblers stopped playing, and the croupiers, rake in hand, kept their eyes riveted on the doors awaiting Mme. Liane de Pougy's arrival.

"That lady at last made her appearance, and people stared with astonishment. Tastefully, but simply dressed, Mme. Liane wore no ornament whatsoever except a rose in her hair. But she was followed by her maid covered from head to foot with her mistress's pearls, diamonds, rubies, and other precious stones. Mme. Liane has always been proud of her little victory.

"But she has become a princess, an authentic princess—Mme. la Princess Ghika. Oui, ma chère! Love, we all know, is a deep and delicate thing, that comes upon us when we least expect it.

"One Sunday, whilst this lady was walking with Prince Ghika at Saint-Germain, a man, accompanied by two ladies, made fun of Mme. Liane's hat. A discussion arose. The prince pluckily stood up for the lady and her hat, but his opponent gave him a black eye.

"And it was that black eye that won him the heart of the fair lady, and won her a title. They were married in the Town Hall of the 8th arrondissement, and I happened to catch sight of the interesting couple. Madame looked as fascinating as ever, and the bridegroom bears a strong likeness to Kubelik. The lady's chief witness was M. Lewis, the famous milliner, the same who manufactured the hat that led to the trouble in Saint-Germain and to the marriage in Paris. I wish the little Princess every happiness."

At their meeting on Tuesday the Margate Town Council granted a licence for the performance of stage plays at the Margate Hippodrome. Similar application had been made on several occasions to the Town Council as the licensing authority, but had hitherto always been successfully opposed by Mr. Edward Michael, managing-director of the Theatre Royal. On this occasion notice of opposition had been given, but was withdrawn.

Habitués of the Leeds music halls are at present loud in complaint of a nuisance which, though not a new one, appears to be growing to inordinate dimensions. About the exit-doors numbers of ragged urchins are to be seen, at the end of each performance, skipping about from visitor to visitor inviting them to "Give us yer programme, please." Improbable as it seems, numbers of these used programmes are sold for the next performance. The nuisance has been recognised by the music hall authorities, but despite the forcible attentions of doorkeepers it still continues to flourish.

On behalf of Mr. Frederick Mouillot (the licensee for the performance of stage plays at the Boscombe Hippodrome and the Grand Theatre) and his co-managing director, Mr. Walter de Frece wrote last week asking the Council to kindly expunge the clause from the regulations stated upon the back of the licence that "no smoking shall be allowed in the auditorium or promenades."

Hitherto the performances given at the Grand Theatre had been almost entirely of the variety description, and smoking was not precluded during such performances. But as it was intended to provide a series of plays licensed by the Lord Chamberlain, or which might otherwise be held to bring the premises under the stage play licence, it would be inconvenient to cause the public to stop smoking during such performances, seeing that upon other occasions it was, and had been, freely indulged in.

Mr. Hubert Dunbar also wrote, on behalf of Mr. Mouillot, stating that he would be obliged if the Council would grant a variation from the licence in force at the Theatre Royal, Bournemouth, for the weeks commencing July 4 and 11 by allowing smoking in the auditorium, which in view of the programme being arranged would tend to the additional comfort of visitors during the fêtes. It was eventually agreed that, without removing the restrictions, the Council should offer no objection to the suggestions of the proprietors of the two theatres.

Mr. Bob Baxter (the Genial One) and his wife (Miss Alma Obrey) have taken over the Half Moon Hotel at the corner of West-street and Boyce's-street, Brighton, and will be pleased to see all their old friends. They would like a few photos to place in the smoke-room.

Mrs. Geo. H. Smythson, who has been suffering from nervous breakdown, has been away with her husband and family for three weeks' holiday in the West, and has now returned to town greatly benefited by the change.

Mr. Jack Straw is running a unique sideshow at Rosherville on the day of the Variety Artists Benevolent Fund Fête and Gala. It is to be known as Jack Straw's Castle of Mysteries, and promises to be interesting and mysterious.

Mr. Alexander Loftus, who has been so long associated with The New Barmaid, will produce on Monday at the Bedford a musical sketch entitled Brother Bill, in which he will be supported by Mr. Charles Adeson and a full chorus.

A new farcical sketch from the pen of Edwin S. France, entitled An Artful Widow, has been secured by Miss Lily Annesley and Mr. Arthur Curzon, and will be produced at the Empress, Brixton, on Monday next, through the courtesy of Mr. Nelson Francis.

Mr. Henry Bedford will produce at the Hippodrome, Peckham, on Monday, The Bottom Dog, by Arthur Shirley. The theme is old, and taken from Victor Hugo, but it will be found to have been treated by Mr. Shirley in quite an original manner. Mr. Bedford will play the part of Bill Baxter, a thief.

By the kindness of Mr. Oswald Stoll, Miss Daisy Dormer was able to play a flying matinée at the Theatre Royal, Birmingham, on Thursday last, where she met with a flattering reception. Miss Dormer was back in town to fulfil her engagement the same night at the Hackney Empire, where she is topping the bill.

Mr. Harry Lauder, the Scotch comedian, is considering an offer made by a syndicate to undertake a tour of the world. Mr. Lauder stated at Liverpool on Saturday that the salary offered is in excess of any he has yet been offered, and the tour includes America, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, India, and South Africa. It would occupy two years.

Messrs. Beecham and Wheeler have received a cable from Miss Vesta Victoria, now on the Orpheum Circuit, stating that, owing to the enormous success made by her, Mr. Martin Beck has retained her for three successive weeks at San Francisco. Beecham and Wheeler's office is busy answering inquiries from other American proprietors.

Mr. Fred Barnes, after an absence of four and a half years, returns to the Gaiety, Birmingham, this week, where he bottoms the bill. Seldom has an artist had such a grand reception and welcome home. Mr. Barnes is a native of Birmingham, and was bred and born in the city, where his father is in business, so all his friends are giving a grand time to "The black sheep of the family," written by himself, and a great impersonation.

Sir Edward Moss will lend his patronage to the forthcoming river carnival and dramatic and vaudeville matinée, which is to be held on Eel Pie Island and in the Pavilion, Twickenham, on Thursday, July 14, in aid of the Boy Scouts' Fund being raised by the Daily Telegraph. To the list may also be added Sir Thomas Skewes-Cox and Miss Braddon, Mrs. Brown-Potter, and Mr. George Gray.

At the 663rd meeting of the Executive Committee of the M.H.A.R.A., held on Wednesday afternoon at the offices of the Association, Mr. Charles Coborn (vice-president) occupied the chair. It was decided to close the offices of the Association on the day of the fête and gala at Rosherville on Wednesday, July 6, from 2 p.m. The committee also agreed to provide a prize to the value of £5 5s. for the sports.

The monthly financial summary showed the funds in hand to be:—Reserve account, £545 17s. 3d.; deposit account, £167 7s. 4d.; current account, £273 15s. 4d.; and cash in hand, £45. A cheque for £36 12s. was ordered to be drawn, this representing the amount received on behalf of the V.A.B.F. from the extra shilling on the green cards.

Miss Sylvia Cavalho, who has met with great success in vaudeville, has secured the rights of Sanctuary, by Malcolm Watson, and will produce the same at the Coliseum on Sept. 12. Sanctuary had a successful run at the Empire in December and January, with Miss Evelyn D'Alroy and Mr. Charles Bryant in the principal parts. Miss Cavalho will have the valuable support of Mr. Clifford Pembroke and a first-class company.

The hon. directors of the fête and gala at Rosherville-gardens, in aid of the Music Hall Benevolent Institution, on Wednesday, July 6, have specially engaged H.M. Band of the Royal Marines to perform during the afternoon and evening. The band will consist of twenty-five picked men and the conductor, Mr. Charles Hoby, and will play from 3.30 to 5.30 and from 7.30 to 9.30. As the Royal Marines have never before played at Gravesend, the band should attract many lovers of good music.

There are thousands of London's playgoers who still remember with delight the antics of Marceline, the famous Spanish clown, who made a continuous stay of five years at the London Hippodrome. Nearly six years ago Marceline was captured by the Schuberts for the New York Hippodrome, and given a life contract to appear there. Mareline's name is just as much a household word in the States to-day as it was formerly in London. Last Saturday the incoming Lusitania brought the famous little clown to England for a very short holiday, and when the same liner sails to-day (Saturday), Marceline will again be a passenger.

"I just came for a blow," he explained to an Era representative, "and to see all my old friends in London." It certainly has not been Marceline's fault if he has not succeeded in his object. All the week he has been meeting brother and sister artists, which on Friday led him to exclaim in his quaint broken English: "I never, never, never eat and drink so mooch in mine life." In wishing Marceline a pleasant trip back to the States, we hope his return to us—if only on holiday—may be speedy.

In conjunction with Mr. Charles Urban, joint inventor of Kinemacolor, Mr. Alfred Butt hopes to reproduce at the Palace Theatre on Monday next, Ascot Races in the veritable tints of Nature. The term hopes, is used advisedly, since the variable moods of our present weather, with heavy skies and lowering rain-clouds, are distinctly opposed to the very delicate process by which natural colours are recorded with absolute fidelity by the action of the sun alone.

Even with the preponderance of national mourning there remains a diversity of colour and form to give the expert bioscopist subjects in abundance—the sleek coats of the thoroughbreds, the satin jackets of the jockeys, the emerald tints of the bushes refreshed by summer rain, the unequalled display of rhododendrons and the famous avenue of red, white, and blue blossoms which the Ascot gardeners have made historic. Mr. Urban will, with favourable weather conditions, add scenes of the Richmond Horse Show, taking place yesterday and to-day, to this exhibition.

Mr. Herbert Shelley, who concludes this week another highly-successful tour of the Moss-Stoll Empires, produces in three weeks' time a new Irish protean comedy, the scene of which is laid in Phœnix Park in 1800.

The Brothers Webb, the humorous musical clowns, who are paying a return visit to the Palace, Oldham, find their Lancashire friends as appreciative as ever of an entertainment that is always droll, up to date, and distinguished by perennial freshness.

Mr. Wentworth Croke's elaborate production of East Lynne opens at the Camden on Monday next. This engagement was made by Fred and Horace Reeves, who have been appointed exclusive representatives for all Mr. Croke's vaudeville enterprises.

In our review of the production of the new sketch A Great Conspiracy at Olympia, Shoreditch, the flattering notice to the impersonator of the part of Mozarin should have been associated with Mr. E. Hoggan-Armadale, who played it. Unfortunately, in the cast forwarded to us two names were transposed. Hence the error.

Lloyd Morgan, the light comedian, as we predicted, has been secured by most of the leading variety managers, and little wonder. The public gladly welcome a new-comer who has everything to recommend him—voice, style, and new, up-to-date business. The West-end will be sure to think L. M. a welcome addition to the front rank.

Mr. Tom Nelldon (Vere and Nelldon) was initiated into the mysteries of the Terriers Order on Sunday last. The ceremony was performed by Terrier Ted Karno, P.W.T., assisted by Terrier Fred. A. Hooper, V.T. Terrier Arthur Were officiated as Organist. Messrs. Guido Alutto, Phil Bransby, William Butler, and Arthur Preston have successfully passed the ballot for membership of the association.

Tickets for the annual river outing may be obtained of the Secretary. Terrier Ted E. Box has presented a handsome case of silver fruit knives as a prize at the river outing sports. Terrier S. N. Salter has given a guinea to the prize fund. A large muster of Terriers at the meeting on Sunday last extended a hearty welcome to Terriers W. H. Atlas, Ted E. Box, Harry Barnard, Leo Sterling, and Harry Gribben upon their re-appearance in the kennel.

Summoned at Kingston on Thursday for exceeding the motor-car speed limit of twenty miles an hour, Mr. Fred Karno, the well-known comedian, contended that the police had mistaken for his car another vehicle that passed him while he was going along the measured distance. The "trap" was on the Oxshott road, where it is bordered by Claremont Woods, and the defendant's speed was alleged to be 33miles 1,693 yards an hour.

Mr. Karno complained very justifiably that after he was stopped he could not persuade the police to show him the measured distance. "The police," he said, "simply took my name and address and disappeared into the backwoods again. Four of us searched the woods for two hours and could not find them." The bench thought that the mistake was on Mr. Karno's side, and fined him £2, with 17s. 8d. costs.

Mr. Walter Graham, with his lilliputian music hall and his imitations of famous comedians, from Leybourne to Lauder, has been heartily cheered this week by audiences at the Theatre Royal, Dublin, where they are now running a hippodrome season. The delighted Dublin folk encored him many times, and his ability found such gratifying recognition that he had to appear four times before the tableau curtains. Next week he joins the combination run by Lafayette.

Miss Maude May Murray is making her first appearance this week at the Palace, Southampton, in her electrical aerial dances. With infinite grace and charm she floats round in diaphanous silks whose shimmering folds throw up the beauties of all kinds of coloured fantastic pictures reflected by artistically manipulated lanterns. Flowers, birds, figures of all kinds, and fascinating designs are thus focused on the dancer, who becomes a species of whirling spectrum; at one moment she flies upward as a butterfly, and the next she floats in the air in some quaint fairy guise. The dances are cleverly conceived and admirably executed, and the applause evoked by them is richly deserved.

Information having reached us of the death of Joseph Kirkbride Charles in a South African goldmine, through the premature explosion of a cartridge, some particulars concerning his eventful career will not be without interest for many of our readers. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lennard Charles, and brother of Mrs. Harry Burns, who is, perhaps, better known to us as Miss Helen Charles, now at the London Pavilion.

On the death of his parents, young Charles was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coborn, and after spending some three years at their home, he was sent, on doctor's advice, to a situation in South Africa—to be exact, at Whiteley's store in Mafeking. Later he joined the British Bechuanaland Police, actuated by a desire for an active outdoor life, and subsequently, on the disbandment of that force, migrated to South Australia and New Zealand, turning his hand to sheep-farming.

Returning to South Africa, the deceased took part in the late war, and after much service and many vicissitudes, he was severely wounded, and taken prisoner by the Boers, remaining in their custody for about eleven months. Strange to say, he subsequently formed one of Colonel Plumer's column which went to the relief of Mafeking, his first place of abode in the country. He was married and had at least one child. In his very young days he had some little experience of the stage, but never adopted it fully. Had he done so, there is little doubt but that he would have worthily maintained the family traditions, as he developed a very sweet tenor voice; but family ties prevented any move towards "the boards." Joseph Charles possessed a most agreeable personality, and was greatly esteemed. His loss is regretted by all who knew him.

Mr. Bert Levy, the well-known Australian artist and caricaturist, will reappear at the Palace on Monday, after his successful tour through the Continent and United States. Another item which has always proved very popular with the patrons of the Palace is that provided by the Bogannys.

Mr. Pan E. Draco, a well-known and popular figure in theatrical and variety circles, is giving up the management this month of the Reading Palace of Varieties, where he has been since its inauguration. For many years Mr. Draco has been held in high esteem as a touring manager, and has been prominently associated with various charities. He is exceedingly popular in Reading, where a testimonial fund is being raised on his behalf. The proprietors of the Palace have kindly consented to a complimentary benefit being given there, which is to take place on an early date. We are asked to invite any friends and artists who would be willing to give their services on this occasion to communicate with Mr. Draco at the Palace, Reading.

Mr. John Toner would like to be put in communication with his son, known on the variety stage under the name of the Belfast News Boy. His real name is John Dominic Toner. The address of the father is 117, Westminster-avenue, Vancouver, British Columbia.

Mlle. Tamara Karsavina, now appearing with M. Leginsky in the ballet Les Sylphides at the Grand Opera House in Paris, returns to the Coliseum in the near future. Mr. Oswald Stoll also promises the reappearance of Andreeff's Imperial Balalaika Orchestra, which was so successful there last year.

The Six Ceylons, after making a big success at the Regent, Salford, in their new comedy act, A Dream in an Opium Den, which has been arranged and produced by John Clifton, will present the same on Monday next and during the week at the Euston Palace at 9.50. Proprietors looking for a novelty should take an early opportunity of seeing it.

Mr. Henry Kemble has a decided winner in The Gay Countess, a musical comedy in a nutshell. With a company of thirty artists he most successfully produced it last Monday, and it will be the chief attraction at the Hippodrome, St. Helens, next week. The chief parts are taken by Miss Josie Farrington and Mr. Cyril Craven, and the music is by W. Harvey Pelissier, of Trinity College, Dublin.

On behalf of the committee of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild, Miss Melinda May (secretary) begs most gratefully to acknowledge the following amounts:—Mr. Mike Johnson, 4s. 6d.; Miss E. G. Clarke, A.C.U. hospital tickets for outdoor treatment; Sisters Macarte, babies' new wool boots and photo postcards; and Miss Lottie Albert, ladies' vests and babies' shoes.

The croquet set given by the Sisters Macarte has been sold for £1 5s. A set of large-sized band books, presented by Messrs. Dennis and Morris, are for sale.

One of the most famous acrobats of the last century—Henry Johnson—who had performed before King William IV., Queen Victoria, and King Edward VII., died at Grantham at midnight on Sunday at the age of 103.

He was born at Norwich on Christmas morning, 1806, and was one of the performers at the original Sanger's circus. When only fourteen years old he went with Hughes' circus to Peking, and even in those early days was accounted an expert gymnast, ropewalker, and equestrian. "On a bareback horse I can do pretty well anything," he often said.

Afterwards he toured England with Mullaba, a celebrated Chinese juggler, and in 1830 the couple were commanded to appear before King William and the Court at Buckingham Palace. There they found a large stage had been erected on the lawn for their special benefit, and so delighted was the King with the performance, that he not only gave them fifty guineas, but a licence to perform at any market town or fair in the British Isles.

Johnson also had the honour of appearing before Queen Victoria (when she was Princess Victoria) at the Royal Hotel, Tunbridge Wells. The Princess was accompanied by her mother, the Duchess of Kent, and they gave the acrobat £10. Years later he performed before King Edward at Sandringham. That was fully thirty-five years ago, on the occasion of a dinner to the Royal tenantry.

A couple of accidents marred the serenity of things at the Rotherham Hippodrome last week. Minnie Kaufmann, the lady trick cyclist, fell from her machine and severely strained the leaders of her leg, and one of the Marlineks, during the performance of their speciality The Rag Doll, fractured his knee-cap. These unfortunate incidents placed the Hippodrome management in an awkward position, but they got over the difficulty, and at the first performance on Tuesday two capital turns appeared to deputise for the injured artists.

At the invitation of the management about forty of the officers and crew of the Terra Nova, the British Antarctic vessel, attended the performance at the Palace, Cardiff, on Saturday night. They were enthusiastically welcomed by the audience. During the performance the manager (Mr. W. A. Jackson), on behalf of the proprietor (Mr. Frank Macnaghten), expressed wishes for the success of the expedition, and stated that he hoped to have the pleasure of their presence at the Palace again upon their triumphant return.

Responding to Mr. Jackson's speech, Lieutenant Evans (second in command of the Terra Nova), speaking from the dress circle, said that as a Cardiff man himself he was proud of the cordial welcome extended by the citizens of Cardiff to Captain Scott and his men, and he fully appreciated the fact that the success of the expedition was nowhere more heartily desired than it was in Wales. Lieutenant Evans's party included Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Captain Scott, Lieutenant Campbell, and Lady Campbell.

The marriage of Mr. Oscar Vetter to Miss Annie Selkirk took place on Thursday, the 16th inst., at Southfields. Both bride and groom come from well-known professional families, for Mr. Vetter is one of the two Vetter Brothers, equilibrists and gymnasts, and Miss Selkirk has been long associated with the Selkirk's juvenile spectacular productions.

The ceremony was at St. Paul's Church, Southfields. The bride looked charming in a champagne-coloured silk gown and black hat. A reception was held afterwards at 55, Southdeangardens, where a large assembly wished the newly-married pair every happiness and prosperity.

Amongst the guests were the parents of both bride and bridegroom; Mr. Wallace Selkirk and Mrs. Shaw, brother and sister of the bride; Mr. Alfred and Miss Rose Vetter, brother and sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. George Smythson, of the Smythsons; Mr. W. Doodles, of the Hippodrome, Yarmouth; Mrs. and the Misses Bourne and Mr. Gilbert Bourne, aunt and cousins of the bride; Mrs. Nicholls, Mrs. White, Mrs. Werner, and many others.

The bridal couple were the happy recipients of some handsome presents, which included a cheque from Mr. Wallace Selkirk; a gold watch, bracelet, and brooch from the bridegroom to the bride; from the bride to the groom, a heavy gold wedding ring; a diamond pendant from Mrs. Shaw; a silver twin jam dish from Mr. and Mrs. Verstone, of Liverpool; a cheque from Mr. and Mrs. Philip Verstone; a silver cake dish from Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Shields; a silk handkerchief sachet, night-attire case, and shaving tidy, all hand-worked, by the Misses Smythson; a case of silver spoons, a silver pickle-fork and jam-spoon from Mrs. Werner; a silver Indian-work belt from Mr. Gilbert Bourne; a silver brush and mirror from Mr. Doodles; a silver-backed brush and mirror from Miss Daniels, of the Five Musical Marvels; a ladies' travelling bag from Mrs. Harrison, of Hull; a pair of hand-embroidered slippers from Messrs. Smith and Kirby, of Leeds; a flowered silk parasol from Miss Littlewood, of Huddersfield; a pair of satin slippers from Miss Bourne; and others. There were over a score of congratulatory wires from all parts of the country, and the festivities were kept up to a late hour.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

TO-DAY (Saturday) is a red-letter one in the calendar of the music trade of Great Britain, for this morning the entire fraternity will be supplied by Messrs. Francis and Day with that which has been awaited with eager expectancy—the issue of the two volumes that each succeeding year give such a great impetus and fillip to the business; and on Monday next, wherever a dealer in music exists, there will be found on sale copies in galore of Messrs. Francis and Day's Twenty-ninth Song Annual and of their Twenty-ninth Dance Album. So tremendous proved the advance orders received for the books that additional premises had to be requisitioned in which to store the great mass of printed matter that went to make up the first large edition, and which will be all gone before the day ends.

A GLANCE at the contents of the song annual shows that the firm have, as in former years, spared no pains or expense to give splendid value for money, the seventy-two pages containing the complete words and pianoforte accompaniments of the following popular numbers:—"Let's all go down the Strand!" (sung by Chas. R. Whittle), "Has anybody here seen Kelly?" (Miss Florrie Forde), "I used to sigh for the silvery moon" (G. H. Elliott), "The Corsican maid" (Miss Evie Greene), "I've loved her ever since she was a baby" (Harry Lauder), "I've got rings on my fingers" (Miss Ellaline Terriss and Mr. Seymour Hicks), "I'm waiting here for Kate" (Wilkie Bard), "It looks like a big night to-night" (Miss Marie George), "For months and months and months" (Jack Smiles), "Now I have to call him father" (Miss Vesta Victoria), "One of the girls" (George Lashwood), "Salome" (Miss Clarice Vance), "The girl in the clogs and shawl" (Chas. R. Whittle), "Shine on, harvest moon" (Miss Olive Lenton), "How I climbed the pole" (Little Tich), "I wish I lived next door to you!" (Miss Daisy Dormer), "The Agitator" (Ernest Shand), "There are nice girls everywhere" (Whit Cunliffe), "Serves you right!" (Billy Williams), "Love makes the whole year June" (Miss Florence Esdaile), "Robin Redbreast" (Harry Champion), "Do you remember? How can I forget!" (Wallis Arthur and Miss Doris Lee), "Come with me to Dixie Land" (The Courtiers), and "Archibald—Certainly not!" (George Robey).

THE twenty-ninth Dance Album is also again a golconda of the best efforts of the first writers of the time, as is evidenced by the following list of the contents:—Warwick Williams's "Big Boom" lancers, Charles Coote's "Vive la Danse" waltz, Karl Kaps's "Top o' the World" quadrilles, Archibald Joyce's "Mickey's Birthday" two-step, Henry E. Pether's "Cecilia" valse, Neil Moret's "Lady-Birds' Review" two-step, Sophie E. Turney's "La Fuite d'Amour" valse, T. W. Thurban's "Billy 'Possum" two-step, Harry Wood's "Le Carnaval des Patineurs" valse, Clement Harris's "Latchford" schottische, Harry Jones's "Topeka" two-step, Henry E. Pether's "Navy" two-step, Moritz Wurm's "Le Rêve de Delila" valse, and C. W. Murphy's "Kelly" two-step.

AT the Empire, Portsmouth, Miss Florrie Forde has been riveting attention with her unequalled songs "Flanagan," "'Tis a faded picture," and "Rip Van Winkle," which are each being received in a manner which must be gratifying in the extreme both to the popular lady, the authors and composers, and to the publishers, Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter.

AT the Empire, South Shields, the acclamations of full houses have nightly greeted Mr. G. H. Elliott, the Chocolate-coloured Coon, who seems, as the time goes on, to achieve at each hall he visits the apparently impossible and unattainable feat of going even better and better at each reappearance. His songs, "There's a little black Cupid in the moon" and "Mister Owl," are two of the finest he has yet sung, and his publishers, Messrs. Francis and Day, are fully cognisant of the fact that the sales promise to equal, if not excel, his previous successes from the same experienced authors and composers.

MISS ETHEL LEVEY, who at the Alhambra, Leicester-square, a while back created a furore by her rendering of "Pride of the Prairie Mary"—the audiences not only joining heartily in the refrain, but according the singer recall after recall, and then redemanding the popular Francis and Day item—returns on Monday to the scene of her previous triumphs, when she will essay for the first time "Little Knickerbockers," a number by Weston, Barnes, and Fred Elton, also published by Messrs. Francis and Day.

SHE has also in study for immediate production a new Irish song by Weston, Barnes, and Maurice Scott, entitled "Miss O'Hara and her Emerald tiara," which is expected to be even a bigger hit than the same trio of writers' "I've got rings on my fingers and bells on my toes" and "Tahiti" (the rubber boom song), both Francis and Day publications that have become positive rages in the hands of Miss Ellaline Terriss and Mr. Fred Elton respectively. "Miss O'Hara," needless to add, is being issued in music form by the same firm.

AT the Palace, Tottenham, Mr. William Burgess, the popular chef d'orchestre, late of the Oxford Music Hall, who a week or two since received the congratulations of hosts of friends on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of his birthday, has been nightly conducting with marked success Messrs. Francis and Day's fine march "Defiance," by Donovan Meher, whose name had quite a Spanish flavour given it when altered by the printer of the programme to "Don Meyer."

MESSRS. FRANCIS AND DAY have purchased the rights of publication of a taking number, written and composed by T. W. Connor, which is entitled "What a difference when your ship comes home!" Other songs about to be issued by the famous house include "I had a flower in my heart," by P. J. Barnes and Charles Collins; that richly humorous burlesque descriptive item that will be known as "Tom Leamore's miser song (gold, gold, gold!)," written, composed, and sung by the genial comedian himself; Miss Annie Purcell's "In the land where the beautiful Conway flows," by Harry Gifford, Arthur Stroud, and Aubrey Burnett; and Mr. Joe Archer's laughable song "It's poor old mother!" by Barnes and Weston.

HERBERT E. HAINES'S two notable and musicianly successes, "Coquette" dance and "Frolic" two-step, have been warmly and deservedly applauded when played by Mr. Harold Grimston's band at the Globe Theatre, where Glass Houses has been attracting large and critical audiences. Both of these musical items are published by Messrs. Francis and Day.

ONE of Messrs. Francis and Day's numbers that will be sung by Mr. Gordon Stretton when he opens in town shortly is "It may be true what you say, Mr. Coon." It is from the pens of Lester Barrett and Herman E. Darewski.

A NEW number that is already spoken of as a song that is likely to rival in popularity the same composer's "Rainbow" is being issued by Messrs. Francis and Day. It is named "In cherry blossom time in Japan," the lyric being by Leonard Cooke and the music by Henry R. Pether.

(Continued on page 22.)

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE HIPPODROME.

It was Buatier de Kolta, a conjurer of the last century fit to rank with Houdin and Hermann, who was chiefly concerned with l'escamotage d'une personne vivante, or what was commonly known as the disappearing lady trick. Mr. Chung Ling Soo, who has returned to the Hippodrome after a successful stay in Australia, has as one of his chief illusions the materialisation of a lady from space, an "experiment" poetically named "the crystal lamp enchantment." He has also many tricks with flags and paper, but these are mostly to be found in the portmanteaux of other illusionists, one of whom was attentively watching the genial Chinaman on Monday afternoon, when Chung's "sleights" did not all quite come off. The most puzzling of them is the magic cauldron, underneath which a fire is lit, and into which water is poured. There is steam, but it does not affect the well-being of a number of animals and birds produced therefrom, or of a smiling lady, who apparently has been concealed therein. The audience, genuinely astonished, gives the conjurer an appreciative welcome.

Yvette Guilbert, who is quite as much at home in London as she is in Paris, varies her répertoire by quaint English songs, such as "No, John, no," to the verses of which she gives a world of meaning. Her rendering of "Mary was a housemaid," originally sung some years since, if we mistake not, by Miss Claire Romaine, is that of a comedienne who can put various shades of meaning into precisely the same words. Happy Fanny Fields does not vary her entertainment, and its potency for the creation of laughter is being proved twice a day at this beautiful house, where Fanny is finding a large number of new friends.

LONDON PAVILION.

Mr. Frank Glenister is putting on a programme in which there is plenty of fun, but it is always allied to refinement. This is especially the case with the entertainment of Mr. Tom Clare at the piano, an intrument of which he is a complete master. "The night the old cow died," which is Mr. Clare's most successful song, is one of those numbers of which the verses may be increased ad infinitum. The audience on the night of our visit would willingly have heard a few more. Eadie and Rameden are also among the happy crowd who have made a hit this week. They label their quaint acrobatic and piano act, Charlie's Visit. Charlie is a regular—or perhaps we should say irregular—twister, and his antics are irresistibly droll, especially when he does a bit of legmania round the piano on which he accompanies his fair partner. His final dance brings down the house.

Billy Merson is new to the London Pavilion, and, we believe, new to the West End. In a costume of droll incongruity he burlesques to his heart's content and to the immense amusement of everybody else the soldier, and parodies the serious reciter of marrow-freezing ballads. His business as a dancing novice is refreshingly novel, and there can be no doubt that Billy will shortly become one of London's favoured humorists.

Miss Louie Tracey, the dapper dandy boy, has returned to the Piccadilly-circus house after a short absence to renew the highly favourable impressions formed of her particularly neat male impersonations. As a soldier on parade, with a big cigar, Miss Tracey is quite lifelike in her method of hitting off the weaknesses of Tommy Atkins, and in a suit built for the seaside she describes the joy of the Saturday to Monday tripper when mashing the dear girls on the parade. Early in the evening Lina and Darius, a lady and gentleman, present a refined musical and vocal scena, in which much ability is displayed, and we have that charming and cultured singer Miss Ruth Davenport—who, by the way, looks particularly handsome in an eighteenth century costume—to delight us in a selection from Dorothy and to trill to us that pretty melody "Nightingale." Miss Hunt, too, is quite at home in the colatura singing required for the proper rendering of Sir Henry Bishop's "Tell me, my heart," which precedes her impersonation of a jealous wife, whose raising of a storm in a teacup through her unfounded jealousy provides a lively quart d'heure. Mr. Rhys Thomas plays the husband with an easy nonchalance that is quite effective.

Mr. Whit Cunliffe, always very welcome at the "Pav," has capital numbers in "Let's start all over again" and "There are nice girls everywhere"; Mr. Malcolm Scott comments on the absurdities of the ballad "Where are you going to, my pretty maid?" a line of business in which he had a great predecessor at the London Pavilion—the late Dan Leno. Mr. Scott foots it very lightly, and discards skirts for the severity of male evening dress. Miss Annie Purcell, who was not in such good voice as usual on the night of our visit, sang "The Shepherdess" and "Faithless Pierrette" with no little charm; and we were presented with the essence of musical comedy by the March Hares, a troupe of young people with bright ideas and the cleverness to present them in an artistic setting. Miss Helen Charles with her imitations of little girl singers at the piano and her artistic whistling is encored; the Oakes duo have a hearty reception, and others on the bill are Radford and Valentine, Signor Tapiero, ocarina soloist, La Belle Linda, Miss Mabel Berra, and Ethel Arden and George Abel in Three of a Kind. Mr. Bond Sayers has a fine orchestra here.

WILLESDEN HIPPODROME.

A well-diversified programme is presented this week at this popular hall, and the management is rewarded with crowded houses. Fred Karno's popular sketch Perkins, M.P., is the leading attraction, with Albert Bruno in the title-rôle. Here we have a comedian who brings an audience to the verge of tears with laughter at his sayings and doings. The part of the juvenile partner is well undertaken, and the company fully deserves the excellent reception accorded it.

Wish Wynne, a comedienne of rare gifts, makes a most favourable impression in her three numbers. She opens with a song, very cleverly sung, entitled "Swank." The second is a most interesting character-sketch of a typical London schoolgirl, whose troubles and woes become strikingly lifelike as delineated by this admirable character impersonator, whose wonderful versatility is further displayed in an impersonation of a country lass in white dress and summer bonnet, who sings with really delightful archness "I wur afraid." Miss Wish Wynne's quiet, unassuming style is distinctly original, and she has the power to create. She should go far. Billy Merson in his soldier's red coat and plaid trousers cuts a very funny figure, and causes hearty laughter. "When I hear the bugle calling" is sung by Billy in very quaint style.

A well-acted dramatic playlet, presented by George Sheldon and Rawson Buckley's company, is entitled Before the Dawn. The story presupposes a similar state of affairs in the East to-day as occurred in the mutiny of 1857, and the scene is laid at the camp at Malia. The sketch opens with the discovery by Major Stetson and his colonel's son (a boy of thirteen) of treachery in the camp, of which they are the only two whites. Their guns have been tampered with, and they are cut off from all help. The rebels offer terms which, according to the Major's speech with the boy, are that one of the two is to be shot at dawn. The Major allows the boy to be taken, and gives as his reason that since the Colonel is away the command devolves upon him, and that his duty is to live; but the excuse sounds poor. Hardly has the boy been taken away than a relief party, under the command of the boy's father, rescues the Major, who is thereupon accused by the Colonel of cowardice in connection with his son's fate. The rebels' true terms are then made known to the Colonel, being to the effect that one should be shot and the other tortured to death, and the Major is thereby shown in true heroic colours. The story ends happily, as the relief party were in time to prevent the shooting of the boy, and the scene closes with an apology to the Major by his chief.

The character of Major Stetson was most capably sustained by Mr. F. Rawson Buckley, and Master Reggie Connor must be congratulated upon his interpretation of Dick Alwynne, the Colonel's son. The setting of the sketch was all that could be desired.

Ambrose Thorne, the popular light comedian, is well received in his number "I hope they won't put a tax on girls"; Carney and Armstrong justly earn their popularity with their song "On the promenade" and some excellent patter; the Maples present a clever dancing and acrobatic turn; Miss Nora Stockelle, a charming comedienne and dancer, is singing "If your way was my way"; Arthur Pier is good in his descriptive song "And their heads nestled closer together"; the Six Lancashire Lassies are successful in their clog-dancing act; and Goodfellow and Gregson are also in the bill. The Bioscope brings the entertainment to a close. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. G. R. Hatley, continues to render excellent assistance; and the manager, Mr. L. F. Maloney, and his assistant, Mr. A. Durham, preside successfully over the front of the house.

HAMMERSMITH PALACE.

Heading one of the best programmes we have seen in Hammersmith is Miss Elise Craven, and what a string of complimentary adjectives is wanted to describe correctly this charming and dainty little lady's dancing! Miss Craven's act is one of sheer delight, her dancing is so graceful, and throughout her sweet little face charms one with its winsome expression. Miss Craven dances with Master Bert Clerc, who proves an exceedingly clever boy dancer, and two interludes are given by Max Martini in solo dances. "Pas de Deux," "Danse Bacchanale," and "Les Caprices D'Amour" are the three given by Miss E. Craven and Master Bert Clerc, all being most artistic efforts, and the applause given to the act was loud and prolonged.

Mr. Billy Merson is one of the strongest favourites on the programme, his humorous soldier song and "I'm going to dance," in which his patter provokes roars of laughter, winning him a well-deserved popularity. Mr. Alan Holt and company are again visiting Hammersmith with the dramatic sketch, A Society Woman, and meeting with their usual success. Miss Marie Jones, in her quick-change playlet, Wanted, a Co-respondent, does some exceptionally smart work and is ably assisted by Mr. Ernest Munro. Mr. Cyrus Dare's imitations of little children singing, his collection of tales illustrating their quaint sayings, and also his tenor solo, "My sweetheart when a boy," all win for him much applause.

Miss Rita Rhylic, an attractive lady with a tuneful voice, does well in her song, "Make your hay while the sun shines." The Eight Monte Carlo Girls, prettily costumed, sing and dance their way into favour, their skipping-rope dance being decidedly smart. Miss Lily Black, handsomely costumed, sings in good voice, "Health, wealth, and the girl you love." The Bros. Ashley, in their comedy boxing sketch Next, Please, raise many a laugh. The Bioscope, with fresh films, and the orchestral selection complete a programme of exceptional merit, on which Mr. Jack M. Hart and his chief are to be heartily congratulated.

SHEPHERD'S BUSH EMPIRE.

Mr. Lewis Vincent has a most attractive and varied programme to offer his patrons during the present week, and, needless to say, large audiences are the result, for the Shepherd's Bush Empire is one of the most popular of music-halls. At the head of the bill is that versatile and clever actor, Bransby Williams, who is appearing in character sketches "From Bookland and Stageland." Never have we seen Mr. Williams give such a diversified contribution to a programme as he is doing this week, and moreover such splendid proof of his great ability. Commencing with an impersonation of a character from the works of Charles Dickens, namely, Montague Tigg, he next appears as Hamlet, and enacts the ghost scene from the most famous of all plays. This he follows with an imitation of Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree playing Svengali; and finally he gives one of his own most popular items, "The Penny Showman." On Tuesday evening Mr. Williams appeared to be in a particularly light-hearted mood, and his happy and good-humoured "digs"—during "The Penny Showman"—at several more or less well-known and distinguished people connected with the variety profession, who happened to be "in front," were most amusing.

The Miles-Stavordale Quintette are responsible for some most artistic playing on banjoes and a harp, a clever item in their performance being the suggestion of voices singing in the distance. Andy McLeod, acting as deputy for Nelson Jackson, is a really good comedian, his performance being original and causing great laughter; whilst the Andos, Happy Little Japs, are a particularly good troupe of acrobats, jugglers, and agriculturists. A couple of American entertainers, Grant Gardner and Marie Stoddard, present an act chiefly remarkable for the original and most amusing business introduced by the gentleman and the excellent burlesque acting of the lady—a most refreshing turn, fully deserving the loud applause received. Jack Lorimer, the Scottish entertainer, sings a couple of good songs, "I've got married to-day," and "Polly, my wee Scotch Polly," and finishes with a most eccentric dance.

Winifred Hare, a charming artist, always sure of a hearty welcome, sings a pretty song entitled "My Island of Dreams," and afterwards—in principal boy attire—the very tuneful "Rings on your fingers and bells on your toes." Miss Hare has just returned from her record visit to Johannesburg, where she had great success, the popularity of the artist and her songs being enormous. Stella Stahl, a very pretty little lady, proves herself a delightful comedienne and dancer; and the New Macs are more amusing than ever with their patter, singing, and dancing. The programme, as usual, concludes with a new series of up-to-date subjects on the American bioscope, Mr. Vincent has a keen and very popular assistant acting-manager in Mr. Herbert Mack.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

One of the finest variety programmes ever presented by Mr. Peter Davey at the Royal County Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames, has been seen twice nightly this week, and has been attracting good houses. It includes two sketches, one of which, an original fantasy, entitled The Flowers that Bloom in the Spring, will be found noticed in another column. The other is a "farcical episode" entitled Oh, What a Life Office! in which Messrs. A. Stanley and P. L. Julian and Miss Alice Drummond take part. This is an immensely amusing turn, the dialogue of which is especially rich in wit and humour, and it was undoubtedly well received in every part of the house.

Melville and Russell appear in a song-scena, entitled An Eastern Flirtation, in which an Indian prince falls in love with an English lady aviator, who surprises him very much by arriving upon his estate in an airship. The scene in which the two warble their affection is a very pretty picture of Indian scenery. Not the least interesting turn in the programme is the first, a performance by Mr. Harry Edwards, whose conjuring with billiard balls, cards, and coins was a revelation to many of the old local habitués of the theatre. The trick of producing a small fortune in coins from the air with the naked hand and arm, one at a time, was performed with marvellous dexterity.

"Smith," from the Strand Theatre, kept the audience in a continuous roar of laughter with his witty patter; and "Weeping William" succeeded in a like way with his quaint American stories. Miss Eva Daunton created a most favourable impression by her singing and dancing, which was most graceful; and the comedy duologue by Miss Florence Castell and Miss Constance Coopman, entitled Before the Concert, was also much appreciated, and earned for the artists a well-deserved encore. The only other item in the programme was the hand-balancing performance of the Bernarr Brothers, who showed a remarkable muscular development, except the Overture, and a selection given midway through the programme by the orchestra, now a pleasant feature of Royal County shows since Kopski took over the conductorship several weeks ago. The Royal County Band has never before been so well in hand.

ROTHERHITHE HIPPODROME.

A morning paper this week discoursed on the delights of the Thames Tunnel, and even went so far as to have illustrations of the happy people of Wapping and Rotherhithe thoroughly enjoying themselves in the coolness of the great under-river roadway. The journal in question might have gone one better and published something concerning the delights of the programme being given this week by Manager Fred T. Murray at the

FRANCIS, DAY & HUNTER,

THE WORLD'S SONG PROVIDERS.

SONGS YOU WILL HEAR AT THE SEASIDE.

THE CHORUS SONG OF THE YEAR.

FLANAGAN.

SUNG WITH ENORMOUS SUCCESS BY MISS FLORRIE FORDE.

MISTER OWL.
G. H. ELLIOTT'S LATEST & GREATEST SUCCESS.

DOWN IN JUNGLETOWN.
The "CHANTECLER" HIT of "HULLO—LONDON!"

ON THE SILVERY SANDS.
Sung with Enormous Success by MISS MADGE TEMPLE

I'VE GOT RINGS ON MY FINGERS.
THE RAGE OF ENGLAND AND AMERICA.

THERE'S ANOTHER FELLOW LOOKS LIKE ME
GEORGE LASHWOOD'S LATEST HIT.

PUT ON YOUR TATA, LITTLE GIRLIE.
MISS CLARICE MAYNE.

IF I HAD THE WORLD TO GIVE YOU.

THE BALLAD HIT OF THE YEAR.

DAVE CARTER'S GREATEST SUCCESS.

HE'S A NAUGHTY, NAUGHTY BOY.
CHARLES WHITTLE'S LATEST HIT.

HI! HI! MISTER McKIE.
MISS ELLA RETFORD.

YOU WANT A SWEETHEART.
MISS HELEN TRIX.

WE DID ENJOY OURSELVES IN LONDON.
A Great Chorus Song sung by GUS GARRICK and the TWO ARNATOS.

'TIS A FADED PICTURE.
MISS FLORRIE FORDE.

MY SOUTHERN ROSE.
A Novelty Chorus Ballad sung by MISS MAUD COURTNEY and MISS ANNA CHANDLER.

SAM!

SUNG BY MISS HELEN TRIX.

THE Dame Song for the Coming Pantomimes.

FRANCIS, DAY & HUNTER, 142, Charing Cross Rd., London, W.C.

local Hippodrome, situated hard by the entrance to the tunnel.

Pride of place is given in the bill to the reproduction of Mr. Frank Hardie's Anglo-Indian episode The Great Green Diamond, the thrilling work of Mr. William Fenton. It will be remembered that the story deals with the fatality attaching to the possession of a diamond that, at the time of the Indian Mutiny, was taken from the head of the Goddess of the Moon. The English officer who takes it in the first place dies an untimely death. His heir loses his life and estates next; and finally the son of the ruined man, in handing his daughter the jewel as a wedding present on the morning of her marriage, dies by the hand of Prince Amed Hassin of Kallawar.

As presented at the Rotherhithe Hippodrome Mr. Hardie's sketch is well played, and there are many thrilling moments in it, more especially in the Temple scene. Mr. Fenton as the Indian Prince has made a fine study of the Indian character. He is the polished gentleman our English education has made him, but all the scholarships in the world never makes him forget the wild border home of his Indian forefathers, and what is due from him to the heathen rites he still believes in. Mr. Fenton has a chance of good acting, and does not fail to make the most of it. Mr. Seymour as Major-General Dunstan looks well as the old military officer; and Mr. D. G. Noble as Captain Victor Norman makes an ideal bridegroom and a heroic soldier. As the artist, Montague Marriott, Mr. Frank Hardie is always funny, and he works up an intense situation in the Temple scene with the best of work. Miss Irene Carlton looks delightfully pretty as the soldier's bride, and plays extremely well a very difficult part in the last scene.

There is another Indian sketch in the same bill, presented by Mr. Haldane Crichton, and entitled Music Hath Charms. It deals with the way in which a British soldier, stationed with his regiment in India, suddenly goes mad and runs amok. He invades his commanding officer's quarters, and discovers the daughter of the Major playing the piano. In his delirium he insists that she is his sergeant, and threatens to shoot her. With remarkable presence of mind the girl talks to him of music—for the soldier is a splendid pianist and has been her tutor—and induces him to sit down and play to her. She appropriates the revolver he has incautiously placed on the piano, and then gets him to play "Home, Sweet Home." This, it has been arranged between the officer and his daughter, shall be her signal to the guard that she is in danger. The Major rushes in, and the sight of him recalls the usually docile soldier to his senses. The little trifle is finely played by all concerned. We regret we are unable to praise them individually. But that is the fault of the bill.

Barbara Babington looks pretty and sings sweetly; Victor Warde, garbed in cowboy raiment, "reminisces" of his far-away lady; Sterling and Love supply us with an excellent "Rhapsody in Two Flats" that is very tuneful and very amusing; and there are Grogie, Cissie Esdaile, Monahan and Sheenan, Verner and Dent, Elsie Athas, and Alf. Passmore to amuse us besides.

SHOREDITCH EMPIRE.

The programme this week at the above pleasant and comfortable hall contains many novelties, each of which contributes to the evening's enjoyment. Ellis and Campbell, a droll couple as the Scot and his pal, score a complete success in their conversational tit-bits; Mr. Johnson Clark is a clever ventriloquist, who affords much amusement; and Tennis and Laune, two captivating young ladies, sing in a fascinating manner "Chivalry" and "Away in Tokio," and must be congratulated on the excellence of their dance.

The Three Torontos, on their first appearance in London, give a fine display of strength, their various feats being really wonderful. One of the trio finds no difficulty whatever in supporting by means of his arms and legs four men of more than average size, also a number of heavy barbells about the weight of which there can be no possible deception. Again, it seems nothing for two of them lying upon their backs to bear the combined weight of sixteen men; in fact, to all appearances this task to them seems but child's play. Their turn is much appreciated and enthusiastically applauded.

Mr. Harry Levaine raises a hearty laugh at every opportunity. He sings "She cost me seven and a tanner" and "In the Free Library," and squeezes every atom of fun out of his numbers. La Belle Nello, a charming young lady of muscular ability, tastefully sings "The smart athletic girl," and afterwards gives a fine display of equipoise in a chic bathing costume and amidst surroundings representing the sunny seashore. Mr. Charles Stevens as a light comedian scores a complete success. He sings "I musn't go out to-night" and "I'm Billy Fisher," both of his efforts meeting with distinct success.

The New York Nippers contribute a clever singing and dancing act. Their songs "Roses are everywhere" and "Mandy Loo" are capably rendered, and their dances are very neat. Michael Madden amuses with his dame song "I'm a bird in a gilded cage," and the Six Melody-Makers in their novel vocal and instrumental scena The Burglar's Dream do much to promote harmony. In their various numbers their voices are beautifully blended. They also play four pianos on the stage at the same time, making the result a musical treat. Their turn is greatly appreciated. Various amusing and interesting pictures on the Bioscope bring the entertainment to a successful close. The orchestra is under the capable direction of Mr. Wm. McDonald, and the management of the hall is ably undertaken by Mr. T. G. Richards.

MISS ITALIA CONTI'S PUPILS' VOCAL AND DANCING RECITAL.

By kind permission of Mrs. Shute the pupils of Miss Italia Conti gave a vocal and dancing recital at 46, Prince's-gate, S.W., on Friday afternoon, June 10. The programme commenced with a clever recitation, "Firm Friends," by Miss Esmé Wynne, quite a little girl, who spoke her lines with admirably clear enunciation. One of Miss Conti's most wonderful pupils is Miss Mavis Yorke, a charming child about nine years old, who gave a delightful song and dance entitled "Cupid," in which she appeared in a most dainty costume, and made excellent "business" with her little gilded bow and arrow, and not the least attractive feature of her performance was the clever dancing. Miss Mavis Yorke also recited "Ten Little Fingers" and "Johnny," an amusing sketch, in which the little lady was warmly applauded, and a song and dance, "He loves me, he loves me not," that included some really difficult dancing, was most skilfully executed. Miss Mavis Yorke was associated with Miss Esmé Wynne in a duologue and minuet, "Tu Quoque," by Austin Dobson, to Paderewski's music. Miss Italia Conti recited "Heart of Gold" and "The Water Sprite" with charming effect, and Miss Gilderoy Scott sang "Slow, horses, slow," and "My brown boy," and was heartily applauded in two folk songs. In two piano solos of Brahms, Valse and Hungarian Dances, Miss Ethel Attwood displayed much talent, while Miss Mavis Yorke and Miss Esmé Wynne, in very pretty costumes, again delighted the audience with a gavotte, "The Rendezvous," sung by Miss Grace Vaughan. The accompanist was Miss Muggeridge.

Mr. M. Carlos, who has just arrived from the Colonies, is in search of startling novelties, suitable for the stage or show—nothing too big or too small, but must have drawing powers. He is prepared to accept engagement as manager, either for a stage show or under canvas. His experience includes the grand tour of Australia, New Zealand, Tasmania, Fiji.

"IN VAUDEVILLE."

MISS ANNIE HUGHES TELLS OF SOME DELIGHTFUL TIMES.

To Mr. Lawrence Brough belongs the credit of first suggesting to that admirable actress, Miss Annie Hughes, the advisability of going upon the variety stage. Challenged on this point, Miss Hughes herself admits that "Mr. Brough had a sketch that was, I understand, written for me some few years ago by Mr. Frank Stayton, and entitled Love in a Railway Train."

Miss Hughes continues: "Mr. Brough and I rehearsed it for over a week, when suddenly some unknown person swooped down upon us, accusing our nice author of piracy. Awful, wasn't it?

"Mrs. Oscar Beringer came to the rescue, and her clever—though unfortunately, for the variety stage, too sombre—play The Agitator was produced.

"To the courtesy of the Syndicate Halls do I acknowledge my first bow to the lovers of smoke and brightness. I appeared at the Euston and the Metropolitan, playing The Agitator four times each evening.

"Being under contract to play The Chorus Lady in the provinces with Mr. William Mollison, I had to relinquish my very promising first appearance on the halls. The moment The Chorus Lady set me free I started my own compaign with Napoleon's Washerwoman at the Chelsea Palace—again with the Syndicate Halls. Napoleon's Washerwoman, with myself as Sans-Gêne, has proved a great success, and I had the infinite pleasure of appearing last week at the Empire, Liverpool, with Mr. Stoll. It is not my intention to attempt to boom such a management as that governing the Moss and Stoll Circuit; it is my intention—or should be—to boom myself. Suffice it to say, I had one of the happiest weeks of my life there, receiving such consideration and courtesy which, since 'the days of my youth' and unqualified success as an ingénue, I have not encountered for many, many a long day.

"I am looking forward to Manchester in July, when I shall be with Mr. Stoll again. I am asked on all sides for the author's name of Napoleon's Washerwoman; but I am sworn to secrecy—or rather, I was. But if you are fond of conundrums, you can guess this one. Should I divulge his name I might receive chastisement from 'The Whip.'

"Next December I start a long and varied campaign with the Syndicate Halls and other managements. I have another costume sketch which will, I hope, add to the fame of Napoleon's Washerwoman.

"Being under contract to provincial managers from August to November to play Miss Tommy, by Jerome K. Jerome, I am reluctantly compelled to abandon my variety work until the first week in November; but when I return it will, I hope, be for as long as I am wanted."

Mr. Wentworth Croke, it seems, offered Miss Hughes the part of Glad in The Dawn of a To-morrow, Mrs. Hodgson Burnett's play.

Naturally with her varied experience of stage work Miss Hughes can "spin a good yarn." Once, at Warrington, she was playing Rhoda Broughton's heroine in a revival of Sweet Nancy, and was rather astonished that the house was crowded to capacity every night. One evening she asked her advance manager if he could account for the exceptionally good business being done. "Yes, madam," he replied. "You see, your father once kept a large hotel in the town, and he ran away, leaving three pretty daughters—and you are one of them. They went on the stage, and—there you are. I didn't contradict the story; and so everybody is coming to see you."

[Photo by Dover Street Studios.
MISS ANNIE HUGHES.
With her well-known griffon "Master Murphy," who has taken many first prizes at the Ladies' Kennel Club.

Not only did everybody come to see Miss Hughes in front, but several people insisted on interviewing her in her dressing-room as well, as they claimed more than a nodding acquaintance with "Hughes's daughter." The advance man was heard to growl that "Miss Hughes needn't have spoiled the business by denying her parentage."

We may mention that Miss Hughes is looking forward to a return visit to America, where, in Yankee parlance, she "scored a big hit" on her previous acquaintance. Next time she hopes to play in vaudeville. Previously she played in R. C. Carton's bright sketch, Mr. Hopkinson, which ran for over three months in New York. When she crosses again Miss Hughes will probably present Miss Tommy with the Shuberts.

"SMILER'S WATCH."

A Nautical Sketch, by F. D. Bone, Produced at the Camden Hippodrome on Monday, June 13.

Smiler .....Mr. Lionel Atwill
Ginger .....Mr. H. Bagge
Griper .....Mr. Edward Sorley
Master-at-Arms .....Mr. Olaf Hylten

This nautical sketch, which is being produced by Mr. Henry Bagge, has the makings of a dramatic piece in it, though it seems to lack something at present. The incident it relates is, perhaps, hardly strong enough to sustain the interest throughout. However, it is well written and staged in a most finished manner, and met with a capital reception. The action takes place on the deck of a troopship; it is Smiler's watch, and he is joined by Ginger, who objects to the crowding below. They discuss the discomforts of a troopship, and tell of how one Griper has a few days before jumped overboard to escape them. At least, that is the impression on the boat, and his ghost is said to haunt the vessel at night. While they are speaking Griper wanders in, and they soon discover that it is no ghost, but a man mad with drink, for it seems he has been in the hold at the rum stores. The master-at-arms comes across deck, and, seeing the state Griper is in, starts kicking him, but Griper resents it and kills him, afterwards jumping overboard. Smiler and Ginger, fearing they may be accused of murder, throw the body of the master-at-arms overboard, and Smiler gives the cry "All's well."

Mr. H. Bagge plays Ginger with a touch of grim humour, which is most effective, while Mr. L. Atwill is seen to advantage as Smiler, a part he handles with skill. The Griper of Mr. Edward Sorley is a capital study, and realistic to the last degree. Mr. Olaf Hylten as the master-at-arms also acquits himself ably. The sketch has been most carefully produced, and the deck of the troopship is wonderfully well shown, with full attention to detail.

Dan Ashton, the popular collier comedian, opens at the Empire, South Shields, Monday next, with a new and up-to-date collier's scena, composed by himself.

Professor Wingard, the oldest conjurer living, has recovered from his serious illness, and is once more able to use his fingers with all his customary dexterity.

Wullie Frame, the warbling Scotchman, described in Belfast as the Music Hall Wonder, is a standing monument to the virtue of humour. It keeps him alive, alert, and youthful, as it does all those who believe and indulge in it.

Mr. Harry Hart, the young variety agent, has just taken a business partner in Harry Bayne, a well-known concert agent. The pair have opened palatial offices in New Bond-street as Harry S. Hart, Bayne and Co., and will book first-class acts of every description.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

(Continued from page 21.)

At the Tivoli and Metropolitan this week the hit of the programme is undoubtedly Miss Ella Shields, who, in her inimitable impersonation of a dapper soldier, easily wins the suffrages of her auditors, who, "like one man," sing "I don't admire the girl in white" ("in the Army"). Nor is her other contribution, "Come by the drum in the big brass band," to be despised, inasmuch as the Metropolitan frequenters sing the introductory chorus long before Miss Shields makes her first entrance. Both songs are published by Feldman and Co.

Mr. Harry Lauder has, indeed, found a winner of the first water in William Hargreave's great song, "It's just like being at hame," which he will specially feature in London at all his West-End engagements. Messrs. B. Feldman and Co. have this number in hand for immediate publication.

Harrington and Hargreave's ballad, "All in a day," bids fair to eclipse even the original expectations of its success. Two of the leading West-End houses will ere long be captivated by its haunting refrain. Messrs. Feldman and Co. publish this number.

"The man fra' Lancasheer" (Mr. George Formby) is convulsing audiences this week at Oldham with his rendition of "Playing the game in the West" and "I put on my coat and went home," which latter the people in front are exceedingly loth to allow him to do. A new song from the practised pen of the writer of the last-mentioned song, Mr. William Hargreaves, entitled "I'm taking my father's tea," is now in active rehearsal, with a view to immediate production. All three songs are published by B. Feldman and Co.

Mr. George Lashwood, at the Empire, Liverpool, is making what he eloquently describes as the "success of his life," with Benjamin Hapgood Burt's great comedy song "Mister Pat O'Hare," a number in which Messrs. B. Feldman and Co. have undoubtedly a pantomime winner, apart from a Stoll tour success.

Miss Mignon Tremayne has been scoring a signal success at the Canterbury during the week with Feldman and Co.'s dainty ballad, "I wonder if it's true?" by Miss Clare Kummer, the composer of that celebrated song "Egypt."

The pierrots continue to be exceedingly busy with Feldman songs, and at the Beach Pavilion, Aberdeen, Mr. David Thomson's company is making a pronounced success with "Pretty little girl from Nowhere," "Molly O'Morgan," and "I do like to be beside the seaside." They will be also featuring "Beautiful garden of roses." At the Pavilion, Bexhill, Miss Lilian Errol has made a hit with "Pretty little girl from Nowhere." Miss Nina Carlton at Llandudno is also scoring heavily with "Seaside," "It's the Alpine dress you're wearing," and "Come over the garden wall"; and Miss Edith Earle is doing wonders in Miss Clarice Mayne's two songs, "Georgie took me walking in the park" and "I'm longing for someone to love me." At Bexhill Miss Lilian Errol is making "The pretty little girl from Nowhere" the hit of the season.

Mr. Tom E. Finglass has been creating a furore at the King's Theatre, Dundee, this week, with "It's all right when you're doing all right" and "My Baby."

EAST HAM PALACE.

Brighter and merrier entertainment than that being presented here this week could not be desired, and the excellent programme thoroughly merits all the applause which it receives. Under the astute and enterprising management of Mr. Albert E. Hill, who has the happy knack of knowing exactly the tastes of his patrons, the Palace programmes are always delightfully varied and blended, which fact is undoubtedly the nucleus of the success achieved by this outer metropolitan hall.

The return visit of Sam Mayo is a welcome one, and his two new numbers "Ha, ha, ha," and "Oof," are singularly successful, the audience literally shaking with laughter at the drolliness with which they are rendered. Chas. Whittle is another welcome return visitor, and his songs, "Can you make room for a little one?" and "He's a naughty, naughty boy" are warmly received and "chorused" by the audience, who, as usual, clamour for more of this popular comedian's ditties.

Hinton and Wooton give an exceedingly clever and novel bicycle act, playing a game of football whilst on their machines, the shooting at goal being done with the wheels. Each cyclist represents a local team—West Ham and Millwall respectively—which naturally, is very popular and interesting. Their manœuvring is very skilful and warmly applauded throughout. George Prince, the crazy comedian, is mirth-provoking, and causes ceaseless merriment with two really funny songs, "We haven't seen the old man since" and "Paraffin." In the latter song the eccentricities of this comedian are seen to great advantage. The Burnells, styled the comedy artists on the links, give a very amusing sketch, introducing some grotesque attempts at golf and boxing, and their performance concludes with a cleverly-rendered musical act on the xylophone. Miss Marie Blythe, descriptive vocalist, sings two excellent songs, "What does it matter" and "I wonder if you care?" her rich contralto voice reaping a harvest of appreciation and applause.

An exceedingly pretty vocal and dancing scena is presented by the Simms (Rosa and Kitty), the skipping dance and the song, "From school to stage," being features deserving special mention. Hearty applause is also accorded their singing of "My little white girl." The Alaskas, in their comedy acrobatic act, and Harry Clark, juvenile comedian, also submit excellent contributions.

Mr. Monte Bayly and Miss Diana Hope are coming to the Canterbury on Monday in a new act entitled The Altar of Duty.

Lennard and Vereker, who introduce some startling effects in their vocal pictorial speciality, are making a decided success on the London Macnaghten circuit. Their methods of presentation are distinctly novel, and Miss Lola Vereker is a young lady with a charming voice and winning manner. This is their first appearance in London, but let us hope we shall see more of them in the near future.

Regretting that her music hall engagement will prevent her taking part in the Suffragette demonstration next Saturday, Mme. Yvette Guilbert has written to the organisers:—"Be sure if I am not with you with my feet, I am surely with my heart. I hope our cause will be victorious one day."

Mr. Frank Coyle's bookings this week include Norman Telma, Charles Daix (Dort and Leonard), Beatrice English, and one month for Charlier, the celebrated French mimic at the Palace Theatre, Shaftesbury-avenue; also two Stoll tours. Not bad for an amateur agent.

Mr. Fred Higham, the popular variety agent, has gone to Paris, where he will be looking round the café concerts in search of novelties for London and provincial halls. Mr. Higham has been something like a quarter of a century in the business.

FELDMAN'S

PIERROT PLUMS.

SOMEWHERE.
I DO LIKE TO BE BESIDE THE SEASIDE.
THE PRETTY LITTLE GIRL FROM NOWHERE.
IT'S THE ALPINE DRESS YOU'RE WEARING.
MOLLY O'MORGAN.
BEAUTIFUL GARDEN OF ROSES.
OH! I MUST GO HOME TO-NIGHT.
COME BY THE DRUM IN THE BIG BRASS BAND.
IN THE ARMY.
COME OVER THE GARDEN WALL.
I'M LONGING FOR SOMEONE TO LOVE ME.
MOON, MOON, MOON.
PUT ON YOUR OLD PLAID SHAWL.
SHE'S A GIRL UP NORTH.
I CAN'T KEEP MY EYES OFF THE GIRLS.
I'M LONGING FOR ONE SIGHT OF YOU.
MY SWEET GARDEN QUEEN.
SWEET LITTLE SUN-BONNET LADY.
GEORGIE TOOK ME WALKING IN THE PARK.
IT'S THE GREEN, GREEN RIBBON.
MARIE LOUISE.
PLAYING THE GAME IN THE WEST.
I PUT ON MY COAT AND WENT HOME.
AND MANY OTHERS.

B. FELDMAN & CO.,

2 & 3, Arthur St., New Oxford St., W.C.

Tel. Address: "HUMFRIV, LONDON." Telephone: 4147 GERRARD.

"THE ODD MAN OUT."

A Triologue, by Affleck Scott, originally Produced at the Vaudeville Theatre on May 20, 1908, as Breaking It Gently, Reproduced under the above title at the Tivoli, on Monday, June 13.

Fred Bousted .....MR. ROBERT WHYTE, JUN.
George Long .....MR. LENNOX PAWLE
Mary Stewart .....MISS MONA HARRISON

Mr. Robert Whyte, jun., is again responsible for the reproduction at the Tivoli of a playlet that has seen service at the theatre, bringing along with him on Monday Affleck Scott's comedietta Breaking it Gently (produced at the Vaudeville Theatre on May 20, 1908), which has been renamed The Odd Man Out. The triologue, as the trifle has been called, went exceedingly well on Monday, laughter being frequent during its progress. Mr. Lennox Pawle represents a prosperous emigrant, who, in the old country, has followed the precarious calling of a gasfitter's labourer. After three years in Canada he has "made good," and we find him on the wharf at Montreal awaiting the arrival of his sweetheart, Mary, who has come out on the Patagonia to marry him. George has many misgivings when contemplating his approaching marriage. Three years, he says, is a long time to expect a girl to remain true, and, besides, he has got up in the world, "so to speak," and Mary is probably the same humble, industrious toiler she has always been, and not a fit mate for a chap who thinks himself somebody. George's meanness and pride are sufficiently exposed during a conversation he has with Fred Bousted, his pal, who has little or no sympathy with George's ethics. The steam whistle of the approaching Patagonia is heard, and at the last moment George determines that Fred shall meet Mary, sudden illness being arranged as an excuse for George's absence. Mary arrives and makes an immediate conquest of Fred, who goes back on his pal, and trumps up a tale that George is dead; but, it must be admitted, he only does this after discovering the full extent of George's meanness. When Mary has consented to go back to England as Fred's wife, and is in his arms, George returns. He abuses Fred roundly; but Mary feels that she has secured the right man for a husband, especially when she learns that George had been ashamed of his engagement, and her affection for Fred is confirmed. Scorning George, she marches off on Fred's arm to the boat that is going to take them back to the old country.

Mr. Lennox Pawle, though rather fluffy in his lines on the opening night, succeeded in making the character of George Long quite as unattractive as the authoress could have wished; and as the diplomatic Fred Bousted Mr. Robert Whyte, jun., with a style reminiscent of the lamented Robb Harwood, extracted all possible value from situations and dialogue. Mary Stewart is a character drawn on the lines made popular in the early part of last century; but Miss Mona Harrison, an actress of considerable charm, contrived to make her interesting all the time. The triologue should do well on the variety stage. It had a particularly warm reception.

A new-comer to the Tivoli is Mr. Tom Jones, who comes straight from the Carnarvonshire hills with a pure and natural baritone voice, and a style that is immensely taking. It would be strange indeed if anyone bearing the name did not sing about the girls, and Tom sings blithely of "Gwennie, a lass of Aberystwyth" to strains that have all the charm of melody allied to good orchestration. In his second number the comedian from Carnarvon patters amusingly of a Welshman's adventures in London. It does not require the gift of prophecy to predict that Tom Jones will shortly be regarded as the representative comedian of gallant little Wales. He quietly "gets there" without aggressiveness, without abnormally loose trousers, without a red nose, and without any reference to mother-in-law. Tom may be said to have "arrived."

Mr. Wilkie Bard has a new number with special scenery and "business," entitled "The doorkeeper at Frightley's." The janitor is fuming over getting the sack, and it is the trying to "get his own back" that provides the fun, which promises well, and is likely to be still further developed. His number, "Hail, smiling morn!" is droller than ever. A popular lady is Ella Shields, who sings a soldier's song, and looks particularly smart in uniform; Miss Madge Osmond is an interesting male impersonator who has a sense of character; Mr. Morny Cash gives us fits as a Lancashire comedian, who is racy of the soil; and that established favourite Tom Dunville convulses his hearers with a style of which the complete originality has never been questioned.

Cinquevalli has returned to the Tivoli after a short absence, and does tricks that proclaim his unquestionable supremacy in his line. Liane D'Eve is Parisienne to her finger tips; Herbert Clifton scores in burlesque items; and other names on the bill presented by Mr. Joseph Wilson are Alec Chentrens, King and Benson, Jack and Evelyn, and Lilian Herlein. Ruffell's Bioscope presents up-to-date pictures.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

The palace and park were never more full of attractions than at present. On Monday opened a grand exhibition of Co-operative productions in the Bazaar Hall, vacated pro tem. by the stall-holders. A good band and concert in the Central Hall in the evening, all free, was largely attended. Continuous daily shows of electric animated pictures, with some of the latest up-to-date films, are given in the theatre. The Grove promenade concerts, every night excepting Friday, at low price of admission, supported by Parker's excellent band, was also liberally patronised. Perci Honri at the new alfresco theatre pavilion presented a capital company called the Drolls and Demures Costume and Comedy Company, with artists of good all-round ability. Miss Agnes Mayo as an elocutionist was commendable; Miss Aida Corelli hit the mark with "Bobby, dear," and other light comedy numbers; Miss Pearl Pearce won favour in her Japanese love-song, and displayed good stage technique in "Maidie and her little Teddy Bear," in which she was assisted by the chorus of the company, and received a very emphatic re-demand; Fred Solo, either in burlesque or dancing, was equally prominent and proficient; G. Nelson Parker's renditions were praiseworthy, both solo and humorous duets with his brother, Mr. H. N. Parker; Mr. Tho. R. Norbury with "Bid me to love" showed vocal ability; Mr. Barrett Clifton did good and arduous duty as accompanist and entertainer at the piano. The other instrumental selections with banjo, guitar, and mandoline appealed with success to the audience. Mr. Lewis, the manager at the front, does praiseworthy work.

REPORTS have just reached London of the phenomenal business even at this early period, both at Largs and Prestwick, in Ayrshire, of the entertainment enterprises with which A. J. Lawrance, the well-known composer, is connected. All the new numbers employed of Messrs. Francis and Day's publishing are being freely inquired for at both centres.

AT the Liverpool Empire Mr. George Lashwood has once more been the cynosure of all eyes and the admiration of his hearers, and his novel song-scena "Oh, blow the scenery on the railway!" which has been published by Mr. David Day's firm, has been a source of favourable comment from both Press and public.

THE energetic Jim O'Connor has just booked the Brothers Durant for next Christmas pantomime at the Alexandra Theatre, Birmingham, with Mr. Lester Collingwood.

MARRIAGE OF MLLE. GENEE.

There was a large congregation at All Saints', Margaret-street, on Saturday, when Mr. Frank Isitt and Mlle. Adeline Genée, the popular and accomplished dancer, were married, and a large crowd that awaited the arrival of the bride broke through the line of police and surged round her motor-car, cheering heartily. The music was rendered by an orchestra, which played while the guests were assembling a selection from the "Meistersingers." Four of the choristers and a cross-bearer met the bride at the door, and as she entered, escorted by the Duke of Newcastle, who afterwards gave her away, sang the first verse of "The Voice that breathed o'er Eden" as a quartette, the choristers in the chancel continuing the hymn as the bridal procession passed up the church. The bride, who was married in her real name of Christensen, wore a charming dress of white satin, made with a long square train. Over this was a tunic, almost to the hem, of Brussels net and lace, embroidered in long lines with milk-white beads while scarf-like draperies of Brussels were arranged at the back. A wreath of real orange blossoms and leaves was worn under a tulle veil, and the bride's ornaments were the brooch given to her by the Queen-Mother, and a diamond and pearl brooch, the gift of the bridegroom. A page in a white satin Court suit, Master Norman Courage, carried the train. Beside him walked Miss Audrey Temperley, wearing a dress of white ninon de soie hemmed with satin, and a satin sash finished with cords and tassels. On her dark brown curls was a wreath of white roses, and she carried a white satin cushion, on which the bride's initials were embroidered, for her to kneel on during the service. Two other bridesmaids followed, Miss Violet Isitt and Miss Nina Bishop. Their dresses of white ninon de soie were deeply hemmed wth satin, and were arranged tunicwise over satin. The bodices and the satin hem on the tunics at the back were finished with white satin buttons and loops, while the yokes and sleeves were of net.

At the entrance to the chancel, where the bridegroom awaited the bride with Mr. Fred Isitt, his nephew and best man, Miss Temperley, the bride's "best girl," was also in waiting. She wore a dress similar to the bridesmaids, but with a long skirt, and they all had hats of Tegal straw, trimmed with white acacia and white roses. Bouquets of lilies of the valley were carried, and diamond and pearl brooches, the gifts of the bridegroom, were worn. The officiating clergymen were the vicar of All Saints', Margaret-street, the Rev. M. R. Carpenter Garnier, and the Rev. B. Hawkins, private chaplain to the Duke of Newcastle. Before the blessing, "From Thy love as a Father," from Gounod's "Redemption," was sung as an anthem, and after it "For the flame of love is as fire," from Mackenzie's "Rose of Sharon." Both were accompanied by the orchestra.

The church was massed with lilies on either side of the chancel, and an arch of palms shaded the bridal group.

The Duchess of Newcastle, who sat in the front pew, was in a clinging dress of black crêpe de soie. Lady Ross, who came with her grace, was also in black with a cluster of pink carnations pinned into her dress, and a diamond ribbon round her throat. The Consul-General of Denmark was present, with Mrs. Faber, and Lady Colin Campbell and Lord Claude Hay were also to be seen in the church. Mrs. Fordred, the bride's sister, wore grey charmeuse, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations Mr. Cyril, Mrs., and Miss Maude and Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Irving were also present. Among others in the church were Mr. Marcklaw, the well-known American impresario; Mr. and Mrs. George Edwardes, Lieut.-Colonel Newnham Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Temperley, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bourchier, Sir Charles Wyndham, Mrs. Erlanger, Sir Richard and Lady Muriel Paget, the Duke and Duchess of Somerset, Lord Hope, the Earl and Countess Rosse, Major and Mrs. Stirling, Mr. and Lady Rowena Paterson, Major and Mrs. Vaughan, General and Mrs. Bond, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Forbes-Robertson, and Sir J. D. Linton.

Mme. Genée, who is the bride's aunt, sat near Mrs. Isitt, who had a lace scarf with her black satin dress, and Mrs. Knatchbull (Dora Bright), the authoress and composer of The Dryad—in which the bride made such a great success at the Playhouse, the Empire, and His Majesty's Theatre—and Mr. Cunninghame Graham, were also among the congregation.

After a small reception to the immediate relatives and friends of the bride and bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Isitt left by motor-car for their honeymoon, which they will spend in the Tyrol.

The bride's going-away dress was of pale grey ninon de soie, the skirt tucked, and with a tucked plastron on the bodice falling over a touch of Royal purple, and long bretelles of Irish lace. A little basqued coat of duller grey crêpe meteor was worn, charmingly embroidered with cording of the same colour, and the black crinoline straw hat was trimmed with white flowers.

It is understood that Mrs. Isitt has persuaded her husband to permit her to give farewell performances both in England and America before she settles down into private life.

THE PRESENTS.

Queen Alexandra, who was always a great admirer of Mlle. Genée's exquisite dancing, sent the bride a diamond brooch. Other presents included the following:—

Duke and Duchess of Newcastle, silver tea and coffee set.
Duchess of Newcastle, motor-car footstool fitted as luncheon basket.
Duke and Duchess of Somerset, old gold box.
Lord Lonsdale, silver ornament.
Lord and Lady Manvers, old Sheffield cruet.
Countess de Casa Miranda, diamond scarf-pin.
Mr. Alfred de Rothschild, diamond and pearl brooch.
Directors of the Empire Theatre, Rose du Barri dessert service.
Members of the Empire ballet, silver rose bowl.
Mrs. Isitt (mother of the bridegroom), a canteen of plate.
Lady Beatrice Kaye, a pierced Dresden fruit basket.
Lord and Lady Francis Hope, a silver tray.
Lady Colin Campbell, an embroidered silk shawl.
Members of the bride's London company (who accompanied her to America), a silver mirror.
Members of the bride's American company, case of silver bonbon dishes and silver cake dish.

The bridegroom's presents to the bride were a diamond pendant, diamond earrings, and a pearl and diamond brooch, and the bride gave the bridegroom a platinum dress watch.

[Photo by L.N.A. Photo Co.

MR. AND MRS. ISITT (NEE MLLE. ADELINE GENEE).

STRATFORD EMPIRE.

The Great Lafayette is the "star" attraction here this week, and at each house nightly the theatre is filled. Lafayette introduces for the first part of his programme an elaborately-staged conjuring entertainment, consisting of pigeon-catching with a net, freehand painting in sections, concluding with a disappearing scene, in which a negro plays a prominent part; and, although very interesting, nothing strikingly mystifying is introduced. His next item, Leda and the Swan, is a fantastical scena, pretty and effective, and this practically concludes the conjuring part of Lafayette's entertainment, the second part consisting of two performances by the Lafayette Travesty Band, the second of which, the overture to Tschaikowsky's "1812," is performed with many theatrical effects, and concludes with a "quick-change" by Lafayette from the bandmaster to a mounted officer, this part being entertaining rather than mystifying.

Miss Ada Colley, who was accompanied at the piano by Penyston Miles, sang two ballads so delightfully that she was compelled, in response to the vociferous applause, to contribute a third number, her turn being quite a vocal treat. The Bros. Bright contribute an athletic act, in which much daring and skill are exhibited, and the twain are the recipients of very loud applause. Gwennie Hasto quickly wins her way into popularity with an excellent number, and her graceful, agile dancing is highly appreciated. For Will Poluski, jun., a deputy appeared on the night of our visit, who sang a "Chauffeur" song, which was well received.

Peggy Pryde is, as usual, securing a good reception, and sings two songs in her inimitable style; and the Three Merrills contribute some clever trick cycling, with which is blended capital comedy business. The Bioscope pictures form no inconsiderable part in the attractions of the current programme, and we must not omit a word to the orchestra for their spirited rendering of the selection "Yeomen of the Guard," under the bâton of Mr. Albert Whipp, Mus.Bac. "In front" Mr. E. J. Macdermott, the acting-manager, is most assiduous, and he has an able lieutenant in Mr. A. E. Barnes.

A. J. MILLS and Bennett Scott's song, "Tell 'em that I'm your uncle," is becoming exceedingly popular in the hands of Mr. Fred Barnes, who is the singer.

"HONOURABLY MENTIONED."

A Comedy by Sydney Blow and Douglas Hoare, Produced at the Holborn and Kilburn Empires on Monday, June 13.

Lady Dralia Vincent ....MISS DAGMAR WIEHE
Mr. White .....MR. JOHNSON
Mr. Buton .....MR. FRED PALMER
Mr. Ruby .....MR. FAWNCOURT
Mr. Blown .....MR. GOODSON
Hon. Monty Desborough
MR. LAWRENCE GROSSMITH

This comedy, intended to serve for the introduction of Lawrence Grossmith and Miss Dagmar Wiehe to Kilburnia and the variety stage, is of slight texture. Lady Dralia Vincent and the Hon. Monty (popularly known as "Minkie") are engaged to be married, but shortly before the day fixed for the ceremony the lady reads in a society paper that at a dog show "Minkie" and "Lady Florence Belvedere" have been "honorably mentioned" by the judges. With the usual misunderstanding peculiar to comedy she immediately makes up her mind to break off the match, and proceeds to cancel all matrimonial arrangements. Therefore, when Monty calls upon her, according to custom, he is met with several large boxes containing his letters and all his presents to his fiancée, who refuses to have anything more to do with him. When tradesmen and milliners call for their orders and the church organist for instructions as to the music for the ceremony, each in turn is received by Monty, who places each in a different room. On being asked for an explanation of her conduct, Lady Dralia shows the offending paragraph to Monty, who then, by telephone, obtains satisfactory information from the newspaper editor, and, of course, after this there is the usual inevitable happy ending.

The sketch proved very entertaining, mainly through the very clever acting of Mr. Lawrence Grossmith, whose impersonations of the "young man about town" are so popular, and Miss Dagmar Wiehe, who, charming actress as she is, has very little to do.

The remaining portion of the programme directed by the courteous Mr. C. Foster-Marner at Kilburn is altogether of an amusing nature, and judging from the uproarious laughter in all parts of the house, appeared to meet with general approval on Monday, when the first to appear was Elsie Roby, the original "slavey," who sang, danced, and played the piano with much ability. Then came Maxwell and Frances, the lady of whom sang and danced effectively, and both joined in a song medley which met with much applause. No. 2 on the programme brought forward Mr. Phil Ray in his most abbreviative mood. Then the Bensons appeared in their vaudeville tit-bits, most smartly and amusingly carried out. Mr. George Rae was very Scottish in a clever song, "I could na do it." The serio-comical sketch Wha-Wha-What, played by Mr. E. D. Nicholl's company, is a further episode in the life of the Dreadful Detective Dare-Devil Dripping. Miss Mabillia Daniell gave a couple of Cuban dances in particularly graceful manner, and the Bioscope pictures of the Canadian Northern Railway system are thoroughly interesting.

A tabloid musical sketch entitled A Resourceful Lover provides Lee and Kingston with many opportunities for amusing the audience. Mr. Alix Lukos introduces a new song of King George the Fifth, which meets with unqualified success, owing to its spirited words and smart chorus. Victor's Juveniles are responsible for excellent impersonations of popular entertainers. The orchestra is under the able conductorship of Mr. H. Sheldon.

"EAST LYNNE."

A Tabloid Version of Mrs. Henry Wood's novel, from the pen of Mr. Fred S. Jennings, Produced by Mr. Wentworth Croke for the First Time on Monday Evening, June 13, at the Queen's, Poplar.

Archibald Carlyle .....MR. LEONARD YORKE
Sir Francis Levison...MR. GEORGE R. MONTFORD
Ebenezer Walker ....MR. ARTHUR E. MASKELL
Barbara Hare .....MISS MURIEL MARSDEN
Cornelin Carlyle .....MISS MADGE LAVERTON
Little Willie .....MISS MARGOT BROWNING
Lady Isabel .....MISS BETH ELLIOTT

Various tabloid versions of Mrs. Henry Wood's novels have from time to time been produced on the music-hall stage, but none, we opine, with such a coherent running story as the present production. No less than seven scenes are played—and that capitally—in the short space of but twenty-two minutes. The story in the main adheres to the original text; but the various additions and alterations that have been effected only tend to increase its prettiness and charm. The sketch is exceptionally well staged, the scenery being by the Lyric Theatres Studios, and should certainly have a long life.

Mr. George R. Montford as Sir Francis is specially deserving of praise for the excellence of his acting. The pathetic rôle of Lady Isabel was capably portrayed by Miss Beth Elliott, who spoke her lines with genuine feeling and naturalness. Miss Muried Marsden looked very pretty as Barbara Hare, and acquitted herself well.

A capital variety programme is always certain of being witnessed at this snug little hall, and this week's bill positively bristles with "stars," the well-packed houses being ample testimony to the fact.

Allen and Austin sang two songs, misfired some gags, and danced. Sterling and Love have an interesting and well-acted sketch in Discord and Harmony, the vocal and instrumental duet "Whisper and I shall hear" being greatly appreciated. Elsie Kidward sang "Maggie Lee," and won merited applause for some very fine silent dancing. A bright and breezy turn was that of Chris. Baker, who has two very good numbers in "I wish I was" and "The School Teacher," which he rendered in humorous fashion.

Poole and Maguire hold a prominent position in the bill, and deservedly so. How great is the favour in which they are held was proved by the reception accorded them. Their patter is positively great, many subjects being treated in most amusing fashion. Fred has quite a good tenor voice, and so has Dora, both combining well in "Ever Green," a very pretty number. Tennyson and Wallis are an amusing couple, and manage to extract humour from everything they do on the stage, keeping the audience in perpetual merriment. The bill also includes Tom Hulme, with his "Girly medley" song, and the usual good bioscopic subjects.

The front of the house is attended to in the customary capable fashion by Mr. Morris Abrahams and his brother Ben—the latter we were pleased to see back again after his somewhat severe illness; whilst the stage-management remains in the able hands of Mr. Biegen. The orchestra continues to do good work under Conductor W. Hinkinson, their rendering of a selection from The Mikado being really excellent.

A CORRESPONDENT, B. De Frece, writes from Poona, India, under date May 27 last:—"Could you inform me if the pair of triple-bar artists Marzello and Millay are still in existence? If so, would you kindly inform Marzello that his brother Alfred Brimmell is very anxious to hear from him. The address, 8, Arsenal-road, Poona, India, will find him.

MR. GEORGE GERALD and family desire to thank the numerous friends, directors, artists, &c., for the many kind letters, expressions of sympathy and condolence on his sad bereavement, and hope they will accept this acknowledgment, as it is impossible to write to each one individually.

"ON THE SHORES OF THE SHANNON."

Drama, by C. A. Clarke, Produced for the First Time in England at the Royal Theatre of Varieties, Liverpool, on Monday, June 13.

Sir Boyle Carew .....MR. R. SEATH INNES
Ted Carew .....MR. LEO MONTGOMERY
Owen Darrell .....MR. HARRY TRESHAM
Michael O'Leary .....MR. SYDNEY GRANT
Colley .....MR. E. D. ALLEN
Rooney .....MR. TOM H. SOLLY
Foxie Keogh .....MR. CHARLES TOWNSEND
Father Fogarty .....MR. CECIL RAVENSWOOD
Elfie Carew .....MISS GERTRUDE ENTWISTLE
Dora O'Rooke .....MISS LINA NAZEBY
Miss Dodd .....MISS MILLIE DENCH
Katey .....MISS GERTRUDE GILMAN

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Originally produced in Australia, the above play is one possessing exceptional merit and containing all the necessary qualities to grip an audience from the opening chapter until the final fall of the curtain. The plot is somewhat away from the common track, and the language rich and telling. Unfortunately the necessity of somewhat compressing the work for the purposes of a two-houses-per-night entertainment at the Royal took away a deal of matter that could very acceptably have been retained.

Briefly, the story is that Sir Boyle Carew, pressed for money, disposes of his heavily-mortgaged estate at Ballycarew, West of Ireland, to a wealthy pig dealer named Michael O'Leary, who, immediately after the transaction, determines to turn the Baronet, along with Ted and Elfie, the son and daughter, out of the place. During the proceedings, however, O'Leary is attracted by the beauty of the girl, and offers to marry her and allow her father to remain on the estate and to stay the threatened proceedings against her brother in regard to the forgery of a cheque. A half-witted fellow named Colley overhears a conversation between O'Leary and the girl, to the latter of whom he is attached, and while pretending to conduct the pig-dealer home, throws him over a cliff, severely injuring him. Owen Darrell, who is the girl's lover, discovers the body, and whilst removing it from its dangerous position, is met by young Carew, who at once concludes that he committed the crime. O'Leary, recovering consciousness, conveniently places the blame on Darrell, who is arrested. Colley, as stated, is half-witted. Some time before he saw his father drown, and his mind became unhinged, when, on hearing the news, his mother jumped into the sea; ever afterwards he fancies that he frequently saw his mother rise from the waves. Pending the arrival of the magistrate Darrell is locked up in the old picture gallery of the castle, and whilst there discovers certain documents behind a picture frame which go to show that one of his ancestors was the owner of the castle, and that the succession was still before the law courts, he being the heir.

Meanwhile O'Leary and the girl have left the neighbourhood with the intention of getting married, but are followed by Colley to the ruins of St. Douglagh's Abbey. The idiot seizes O'Leary and fastens him in one of the apartments, believing him to have returned from the dead, and then conveys Elfie to the cave of the Eagle's Nest, intending to take her under the sea, where his mother is, as soon as the tide rises. As he is making preparations some of the residents arrive and rescue the girl. O'Leary, whose intentions towards Elfie seem to have some semblance of honesty, is forgiven, and he is also repaid his outlay on the estate by means of valuable jewels that are discovered hidden away, Darrell, the rightful heir, coming into his own, and marrying Elfie.

The play was received with unbounded delight, the whole of the cast doing it full justice. Mr. Harry Tresham showed his high abilities in the trying rôle of the lover Darrell; Mr. Sydney Grant gave a capital rendering of O'Leary; Mr. E. D. Allen did everything necessary as mad Colley; Miss Gertrude Entwistle, a talented young actress, won general favour for her earnest and natural acting as Elfie; a merry Katey came from Miss Gertrude Gilman; Mr. Tom H. Solly was humorous as Rooney; a staid and good Father Fogarty was presented by Mr. Cecil Ravenswood; Mr. Leo Montgomery deserves thanks for a thoroughly sound rendering of Ted Carew; and Mr. R. Seath Innes showed ability as Sir Boyle, as did Miss Lina Nazeby as Dora.

"THE FLOWERS THAT BLOOM IN THE SPRING."

A New and Original Fantasy, Produced, for the First Time, at the Royal County Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames, on Monday, June 13.

Lady Millicent Vane ....MISS DAISIE WALLACE
Robert .....MR. BUCKSTONE CLAIR
James .....MR. CHARLES V. SANDFORD
Matey .....MISS MAY HART

The description given of this, the latest production at the Royal County Theatre, that it is "a blend of pathos, comedy, brilliant fairy effects, charming music, and a magnificent spectacle," is amply justified, and a well-filled house received it with open arms on the first presentation on Monday night. There is a touching little story running through the twenty-five minutes' play. A poor little flower-seller, Matey by name, is seen in a West End square on a snowy night trying to sell a few bunches of spring flowers for food, which she has not tasted all day. Outside one of the great mansions she comes across a policeman enjoying the hospitality of a friendly footman at the expense of his employers, who have no bowels of compassion for the friendless orphan, and she is turned away. The young lady of the house is having a birthday party, and the music and the dancing in the warmly-lighted house furnish a strong contrast to the poverty and wretchedness of the homeless outcast. When the lady returns from a walk, Matey presses her to buy her flowers, but the lady, with rather shocking indifference, spurns the girl's importunities, and when she closes the great door in her face the poor thing drops down in the snow unconscious, and the dark cloth rising discloses her dreams. It is a lovely sylvan spot full of spring flowers and peopled with fairies all beautified with them, and King Narcissus raises her up and welcomes her to their happy land; and when the good fairies have gone through some graceful evolutions, the cloth descends, and the flower-girl is seen still prostrate in the snow. The policeman, who had placed his great-coat over her, returns as she awakes from sleep, and the lady, coming out of the house, is conscience stricken at the recollection of her cruel behaviour, and in an access of generous emotion, not only receives the little flower-girl into her house as a guest, but rewards the constable for his humane action. The little play ends with a very effective tableau furnished by the fairies in "The Land of Spring Flowers."

The production had a most favourable reception. The fairy scenes especially were exceptionally fine, as excellent, indeed, as many tableaux in a first-class pantomime. Though these furnish a by no means inconsiderable part of the fantasy, the ladies' costumes, the scenery, and the electrical effects seem to have been provided without regard to cost, and everyone was loud in their praise of them. Miss May Hart gives a very touching picture of the little flower-seller, and Miss Daisie Wallace is a very winning impersonator of the part of Lady Millicent Vane. Mr. Charles V. Sandford makes a typical butler, and the Robert of Mr. Buckstone Clair is really good. The lines and lyrics are by Arthur Hanley, and Kopski, the chef d'orchestre, and Mr. Herbert Goldstein have composed the music.

THE NEW AMUSEMENTS LICENSING ACT.

MR. GEORGE GRAY'S BILL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

THE SKETCH ASSOCIATION.

SIR,—The sub-committee of the above Association appointed to deal with the question of the Censorship report of the Lords and Commons of July, 1909, and take what steps they deemed expedient, decided that having regard to the apathy following former commissions of enquiry, more particularly with reference to the one of 1892, it would be materially beneficial to all parties if some legislative step were taken without further delay. On Tuesday last they met to receive for consideration the draft outlines or heads of a bill I was deputed to draw. It being approved, I am empowered to submit same to you, sir, knowing the vital interest you take in the matter, for kind publication with a view to speedily obtaining the views of the various societies it concerns, and an ultimate conference with the deputies of same in furtherance of necessary legislation.—I am, sir, yours faithfully,

GEORGE GRAY,
President Sketch Association.

6, Adelphi-terrace, W.C.,
June 16, 1910.

HEADS OF PROPOSED BILL.

An Act for amending the Laws relating to the Licensing of Stage Plays, Theatres, and Public Places of Entertainments.

Whereas the existing Acts of Parliament for the regulation of Theatres and other places of Public Entertainment have been found to be inadequate and inefficient to meet the exigencies of the present times, and have tended to cause friction and dispute between, and inflict hardship upon certain sections of the Entertainment Profession or Industry from time to time and whereas such Entertainments have been found to have exercised a prevailing good moral and instructive influence upon the people And whereas a Select Committee of the Lords and Commons was appointed in July 1909 to enquire into such Acts of Parliament governing the Licensing and Regulations of Theatres and Public Places of Entertainments and the Laws relating to the Censorship of Stage Plays and such Committee having recommended alterations and amendments of such Acts of Parliament aforesaid It be expedient that the Laws relating to the Licensing Stage Plays of Theatres and Places of Public Entertainment known as Variety Theatres Music Halls and such other names where performances of a Dramatic Musical or other Entertainments of the Stage or part thereof are given or performed

Be it enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal and Commons in this present Parliament assembled and by the authority of same.

I. That the Acts of Parliament of 1751 Geo. II. Cap. 36 1843 (6 and 7 Vic. Cap. 68) and subsequent Acts so far as relates to the governing or controlling the Licensing of Theatres and Public Places of Entertainment and Stage Plays shall be repealed by this Act.

LICENSING AUTHORITIES.

II. Be it enacted that the Licensing of Theatres and all places used or to be used for Public Entertainment whatsoever within the area of the County of London shall be vested in the authority and power of the London County Council and outside the radius of the County of London authority and power shall be vested in the Justices of the Peace or such other Local Public Authorities duly and legally appointed for such purposes of licensing.

TO WHOM LICENSES GRANTED.

III. And be it enacted that a license shall not be unreasonably or prejudicially withheld from any applicant or applicants for such license or licenses provided always that the usual rules and regulations of the Licensing Authorities aforesaid for the protection and safety of the Public and the persons employed in such Theatre or place of Entertainment from fire panic or riot and provided always that it be proved to the satisfaction of the Licensing Authorities aforesaid that the applicant or applicants for such license or licenses be of acknowledged probity and responsibility and shall find two sureties or bonds in the sums of £100 each and the fees for any such license shall be a sum not exceeding 5s. for each calendar month or part thereof during which the Theatre or public place of entertainment is licensed to be kept open and every applicant for license or transfer of such license shall give 14 days' clear notice to the Licensing Authorities of such intention to apply for same.

TIME AND FEES.

IV. And be it enacted that such Licensing Authorities shall be empowered to grant temporary licenses and to transfer a license from one person to another during the course of twelve months for which the license was originally granted and the fee for each and any transfer shall be a sum not exceeding 5s.

V. And be it enacted a copy of the said rules and regulations shall be attached to each and every license and transfer of such license and the name of the Licensee or Transferee shall be legibly and conspicuously inscribed upon the door of the entrance of such Theatre or public place of entertainment.

PERFORMANCES.

VI. And be it enacted that any person or persons holding a license shall be empowered to permit present produce or perform stage plays therein or other performances but may exclude the exhibition of wild beasts and other performances that may cause risk to public or employees without special precautions for safety being applied.

MEANING OF STAGE PLAYS.

VII. And be it enacted a stage play within the meaning of this Act shall be taken to include every Tragedy Comedy Farce Opera Burlesque Burletta Interlude Melodrama Pantomime Sketch Duologue Monologue or mechanical electrical reproduction of same or any entertainment of the stage or any part thereof.

PENALTIES FOR PERFORMING WITHOUT LICENSE.

VIII. And be it enacted that any person or persons occupying or keeping a Theatre or Place of Entertainment and permitting or causing or allowing to be performed any Entertainment of the Stage as aforesaid without a license previously obtained shall be liable on summary conviction to a penalty of not exceeding £50 for each day on which the same is kept open or used for any of the above purposes and any person or persons taking part in such performance or representation shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 for each day And it shall be Lawful for any officer or officers by authorization of the Public Authorities by warrant to enter into and upon such unlicensed premises and to apprehend all and everyone found therein in order that they may be dealt with according to Law.

MUSIC SINGING AND DANCING LICENSE.

IX. And be it enacted that a license may be granted for Music and Dancing and Singing for the use of Assembly Rooms Gardens Hotels Restaurants Clubs Skating Rinks and Concert Halls on the payment of a fee not exceeding five shillings Provided always that the Licensing Authorities be satisfied of the bona-fides of such applicant and the Licensee shall affix in legible and conspicuous letters on the entrance door of the premises for which the license is granted "Licensed under the Act of _____" for Music Singing and Dancing and such license shall be for one year or other lesser period according to application But if at any time any person or persons holding such Music Singing and Dancing License do permit or cause to be permitted presented or produced any stage play or colourable or mechanical or electrical imitation thereof or any Entertainment of the Stage or part thereof as aforesaid he shall for every such offence forfeit such sum as shall be decreed by the Court or Authorities by whom he shall be convicted not exceeding £50 and his license shall forthwith be annulled and made void.

SMOKING.

X. And be it enacted it shall be lawful and within the discretionary power of the Licensee or Licensees to permit or refuse to be permitted the act of Smoking in such Theatres or Public Places of Entertainment and after exhibiting legible notices in conspicuous places forbidding such act of Smoking and after personal warning and drawing attention to such notice to evict or cause to be evicted any person or persons who shall wilfully resist such order or warning and that such person or persons shall be liable to subjection to penalties not exceeding £5 in each instance on conviction by a Court of summary jurisdiction.

POWERS OF INSPECTION OF AUTHORITIES.

XI. And be it enacted it shall be lawful at all reasonable times for the representative of the Licensing Authorities to enter into and upon the premises of such Theatres or Public Places of Entertainment or such other places mentioned in Clause IX. in order to inspect and advise as to the security of the structures and the safety of the public and employees And in the event of riot or breach of the peace or breach of any rules or regulations applying to such license close such premises and such enactments shall also apply to Music Dancing and Singing Licenses aforementioned.

SALE OF REFRESHMENT AND LIQUORS.

XII. And be it enacted it shall be lawful for the licensee or licensees of Theatres and Public Places of Entertainment to provide and sell reasonable refreshments and where it has been and is customary to sell wines and spirituous liquors by the obtainance of an Excise License such custom shall continue Provided always that the places of such sale of wines and spirituous liquor are kept distinct and apart from the auditorium and not disposed of or sold in any part of such auditorium And provided always that the conduct of the licensee in the sale of such reasonable refreshment wines and spirituous liquors be good and satisfactory to the Licensing Authorities And it shall not be lawful for any Licensing Authority to impose any conditions and restrictions bearing reference to the sale of refreshments wines and spirituous liquors in granting licenses for Theatre and Public Places of Entertainments Such licenses for the sale of wines and spirituous liquors where such licenses have not previously been held and are not held may be made the subject of separate application by the licensees of such Theatres and Places of Public Entertainment.

RIGHT OF APPEAL.

XIII. And be it enacted it shall be lawful in the event of any refusal by the Authorities to grant any of such licenses to any applicant therefor for such applicant if he feel aggrieved at any order made by such Authorities to appeal therefrom to a Judge in the King's Bench.

LICENSING OF PLAYS AND FEES.

XIV. And be it enacted it shall be lawful that any Licensee Licensees or responsible manager of any Theatre or public place of entertainment or author or authors of Stage Plays may at his her or their discretion submit to the Lord Chamberlain or his duly appointed Examiner of Plays any play for his approbation and license to perform such play and at the time of submitting shall pay fees not exceeding two guineas and within 14 days from submission of such play the Lord Chamberlain shall grant such license unless in his reasonable judgment such play be considered (a) to be indecent (b) to contain offensive personalities (c) to do violence to the sentiment of religious reverence (d) to conduce to crime or vice (e) to be calculated to impair friendly relations with any Foreign Power or (f) to be calculated to cause a breach of the peace And a copy of every play submitted shall be kept in the office of the Lord Chamberlain for reference and in the event of refusal by the Lord Chamberlain to grant such license to perform on any grounds aforesaid or on any other grounds he shall give such reasons in writing to the said Licensee or author.

RIGHT OF PERFORMANCE OF PLAYS WHEN LICENSE REFUSED.

XV. And be it enacted the Licensee or author notwithstanding such refusal of license to perform may in any duly licensed Theatre or Place of Public Entertainment present play and perform such play And it shall be lawful to present play and perform in any such duly licensed premises any play or plays that may not be submitted to the Lord Chamberlain or his duly appointed Examiner or Reader of Plays.

POWERS OF DIRECTOR OF PROSECUTIONS.

XVI. And be it enacted when any submitted play has been refused a license to perform the Lord Chamberlain may forward a copy of such play to the Director of Public Prosecutions who may proceed in the High Court against the Licensee or responsible manager where the play has been produced and played and against the author of the play and pending the decision of the High Court the performance of such play shall be suspended and such cases shall be adjudicated before a Judge of the King's Bench who may at his discretion hear such case or cases in camera And the Court shall be empowered to prohibit the performance of the play for a period of not more than ten years and impose penalties on the Licensee or responsible manager of such Theatre and the author of such play and endorse a conviction on the license of such Theatre or Public Place of Entertainment And such play after such period of ten years shall not be again performed without license being granted by the Licenser of Plays.

FORFEITURE OF LICENSE.

XVII. And be it enacted the license of a Theatre or Public Place of Entertainment which has been endorsed three times within a period of five years shall be forfeited and not renewed for a period of five years following.

UNLICENSED PLAYS.

XVIII. And be it enacted it shall be lawful for the Director of Prosecutions to demand and obtain copies of unlicensed plays with the acting directions and adopt similar procedure as in Clause XVI. on reasonable representations being made to him by public authorities and by persons deputed by himself to report upon the alleged irregularities and improprieties.

UNINTERRUPTED PERFORMANCES PENDING PROSECUTION.

XIX. And be it enacted it shall be lawful for the Director of Prosecutions to adopt similar procedure as in Clause XVI. towards plays already licensed and under circumstances in preceding paragraph XVIII. but the performance of such licensed play shall not be interrupted or discontinued pending the decision of the Judge of the King's Bench and in the event of appeal from any decision of such Judge then until the decision of such Court of Appeal but such immunity shall apply only to the actual text of the play duly licensed by the Licenser of Plays.

COMPENSATION.

XX. And be it enacted it shall be lawful for the Licensee or author or both that in the event of the decision of the Judge in the High Court or Court of Appeal being favourable to one or both against whom proceedings have been taken costs and fitting compensation shall be awarded and the play continued without interruption.

PLACES EXEMPTED FROM LICENSE.

XXI. And be it enacted that nothing in this Act shall affect the provisions of any place used for recreation or entertainments conducted under any State Authority or provisions of Section 7 of the Army (Annual) Act 1889 or of Section 174a of the Army Act 1881.

XXII. This Act shall apply to the whole of Great Britain.

REPEAL OF ACTS.

XXIII. The enactments described in the schedule to this Act are hereby repealed.

THE SCHEDULE.

The Disorderly Houses Act 1751 (25 Geo. II. c. 36).
The Theatres Act 1843 (6 and 7 Vic. c 68).
The Public Entertainment Act 1875 (38 Vic. c 21).
The Public Health Amendment Act 1890 (53 and 54 Vic. c 59) Section 51.
The Music and Dancing Licenses (Middlesex) Act 1894 (57 and 58 Vic. c 15).

TITLE OF ACT.

XXIV. This Act may be cited as The Stage Plays Theatres and Public Places of Entertainments Act.

MUSIC HALL CELEBRITIES.

MR. MAURICE DAVIS.

A score of years in the music-hall profession in South Africa has been reached by Mr. Maurice Davis, who now occupies a position at the front of the house at the Empire, Johannesburg. Mr. Davis joined the Verdi Opera company at the Old Theatre Royal at Johannesburg in March, 1890, and was subsequently with the late Mr. Luscombe Searelle, who took out to South Africa Miss Genevieve Ward and the late Mr. Lionel Brough. In 1892 Mr. Searelle opened the Theatre Royal as a music hall, where Miss Marie Loftus, Mr. Ben Brown, Mr. J. H. Milburn, and many others figured at one time or other as stars. In 1894 Messrs. Hyman opened the old Empire and bought Mr. Searelle's business at the Theatre Royal. Mr. Davis joined the Hymans in 1895, and has remained with them ever since.

The twentieth anniversary of Mr. Davis's professional work in South Africa was celebrated by a benefit at the Empire in March last, when a "bumper house," including the élite of Johannesburg, testified to the popularity which "Brother Pro.," as he is familiarly known, had won. A testimonial took the shape of a travelling trunk, all the fittings of which bore the monogram "M. D." in silver. The presentation was made by Mr. Edgar Hyman who spoke very highly of Mr. Davis's services during his fifteen years' stay, and hoped he would live to remain another twenty years in the profession. Mr. Hyman also presented him, on behalf of the staff, with a silver cigar box and case.

[Photo by Gannon.

MR. MAURICE DAVIS.

ELECTION SONGS.

In the Chancery Division on Thursday was heard an action brought by Mr. Josiah Booth, a composer, of Crouch End, against Edward Lloyd (Limited), in which the plaintiff sought to restrain an infringement of his copyright in a musical piece called "Commonwealth," which had been published by the Daily Chronicle in their "Election Song Book" last January.

Mr. T. Terrell, K.C., and Mr. J. Hunter Gray (instructed by William Hurd and Son) appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Butcher, K.C., and Mr. Eustace Hill (instructed by Messrs. Alpe and Ward) for the defendants.

Mr. Terrell said that during the recent General Election it occurred to the Daily Chronicle that it would be useful to publish a set of songs to be sung at political meetings, and at the head of these they published the plaintiff's "Commonwealth." When one looked at the character of the other songs it was easy to see what view Mr. Booth took of his hymn being placed with them. One of the songs was called "Free Trade for Ever," to be sung to the tune of "Hearts of Oak." Counsel did not know whether the defendants suggested that this was poetry, a work of art, or a work of skill. Another song was entitled "A Right Little Tight Little Budget," and a further song was called "The Poor House of Peers." The book gave instructions that "all Liberals should sing these songs with a swing."

Mr. Terrell said that Messrs. Reid Brothers, the music publishers, had a licence from the plaintiff to print the tune, and the defence was that by a custom in the trade Messrs. Reid, who published the "Election Song Book," could do so and put the name of the Daily Chronicle on the imprint as printers and publishers.

His Lordship: Messrs. Reid had got the licence to print; surely they are entitled to get it printed for them. They are not bound to have a printing press of their own.

Mr. Terrell: Then when once a licence to print has been granted the whole value of the copyright would be gone, because the licence could allow anyone else to print.

Mr. Booth, giving evidence, said he would not have agreed to the inclusion of the "Commonwealth" in the defendants' book.

Mr. Butcher: Do you know the song called "D'ye ken Lloyd George?" Would you like me to give you a sample of it?

His Lordship: I object. We cannot have music in court.

Mr. Butcher: I was only going to quote the words, my lord.

His Lordship: Oh, I thought you were going to favour us with a song.

Mr. Butcher:

"D'ye ken Lloyd George and his Budget bold,
When he's taking toll of the rich man's gold;
D'ye ken Lloyd George and the tales that he has told
To the Tory crew in the morning."

Mr. Booth: It appears to be a parody on "D'ye ken John Peel."

Mr. Butcher said he was reading from the Liberal "Tune Book," which also contained the "Commonwealth."

Mr. Booth said it was included without his consent, and the Liberal Publication Department had sent him a very courteous letter apologising and offering to pay him.

Mr. Butcher said the defence was simply that a musical composition, if properly printed, was open to anyone in the world to publish. He could satisfy the Court that Messrs. Reid printed the book for the defendants.

His Lordship held that there had not been an excessive exercise of Messrs. Reid's licence, there being no limitation that they were to print in their own name. He could not, therefore, grant the injunction. At the same time, the action was induced by the direct misrepresentation that the Daily Chronicle were the printers and publishers of the "Election Song Book," and the action would be dismissed without costs. If this was, as alleged, a common custom in the trade the sooner it became uncommon the better, as it was not a right thing to do.

NEW YORK AGENCY BILL.

The new Agency Bill for the State of New York—the aim of which is to amend the general business law relative to employment agencies—has passed the Assembly and the Senate at Albany, and will take effect on receiving the signature of the Governor of New York. It contains some important articles with reference to theatrical agencies. We quote those likely to be of interest to our readers:—

"The term 'theatrical employment agency' means and includes the business of conducting an agency, bureau, office, or any other place for the purpose of procuring or offering, promising, or attempting to provide engagements for circus, vaudeville, theatrical, and other entertainments or exhibitions or performances, or of giving information as to where such engagements may be procured or provided."

"A person shall not open, keep, maintain, or carry on an employment agency, a theatrical employment agency, or a domestic and commercial employment agency, unless he shall have first procured a licence therefor as provided in this Article from the mayor or the commissioner of licences of the city in which such person intends to conduct such agency. Any person who shall open or conduct such an employment agency without first procuring said licence shall be guilty of a misdemeanour, and shall be punishable by a fine of not less than $50 and not more than $250, or by imprisonment for a period of not more than one year, or both, at the discretion of the Court."

"Every licensed person conducting a theatrical employment agency shall keep an employers' register, in which shall be recorded, in the English language, every application received from any person desiring the services of any person for a theatrical employment or engagement; the name and address of the applicant and of the person for whom such services are desired; the nature of the employment or engagement, the town or city, street, and number, if any, where such employment or engagement is to be performed, and the salary or compensation paid or to be paid by such employer.

"Such employers' and applicants' register shall be open at all reasonable hours to the inspection of the mayor or the commissioner of licences or their inspectors. No such licensed person, his agent, or employees shall make any false entry in such registers.

"Every such licensed person, whenever possible, shall communicate orally or in writing with at least one of the persons mentioned as references for every applicant for work in private families or employment in a fiduciary capacity, and the result of such investigation shall be kept on file in such agency; provided, however, that if the employer voluntarily waives in writing such investigation of references by such licensed person failure on the part of such licensed person to make such investigation shall not be deemed a violation of this section.

"Every licensed person conducting a theatrical employment agency, before making a theatrical engagement, except an emergency engagement, for any person with any applicant for services in any such engagement shall require the applicant to provide a written verified statement, signed by such applicant or his authorised agent, setting forth how long he has been engaged in the theatrical business. If such applicant is a corporation, such statement shall set forth the names of its officers and the length of time such corporation and its officers have been engaged in the theatrical business, and the amount of its paid-up capital stock. The statement of any such applicant shall state whether or not he has failed to pay salaries or left any companies they have been financially interested in starting, and shall contain the names of at least two persons as references. Every such licensed person shall investigate the truth of such statement and such references. Such statement and the result of such investigation and inquiry shall be kept on file in such agency for the benefit of any person whose services are sought by any such applicant as employer."

"Every licensed person conducting a theatrical employment agency who shall procure or offer a theatrical engagement to an applicant shall have executed in duplicate a contract containing the name and address of the applicant; the name and address of the employer of the applicant, and of the person acting for such employer in employing such applicant; the time and duration of such engagement; the amount to be paid to such applicant; the character of entertainment to be given or services to be rendered; the place where such entertainment or services are to be given or rendered pursuant to such engagement; the number of performances per day that are to be given by said applicant; the name of the person by whom transportation is to be paid, and if by the applicant, the cost of transportation from the city in which the engagement is made to the place where such entertainment or services of said applicant are to be given or rendered; and the gross commission or fees to be paid by said applicant; and such contracts shall contain no other conditions and provisions except such as are equitable between the parties thereto, do not constitute an unreasonable restriction of business, and shall be first approved by the mayor or commissioner of licences respectively. The form of such contract to be used by such licensed agency while acting under such licence in the procuring of engagements for applicants must be approved by the mayor or the commissioner of licences. One of such duplicate contracts shall be delivered to the person engaging the applicant and the other shall be retained by the applicant. The licensed person procuring such engagement for such applicant shall enter in a book provided for that purpose a copy of such contract."

"The gross fees of licensed persons conducting theatrical employment agencies charged to applicants for theatrical engagements by one or more such licensed persons, individually or collectively procuring such engagements, except vaudeville or circus engagements, shall not in any case exceed the gross amount of 5 per centum of the wages or salary of the engagement when the engagement is less than ten weeks; and an amount of 5 per centum of the salary or wages per week for ten weeks of a season's engagement constituting ten weeks or more. The gross fees charged by such licensed persons to applicants for vaudeville or circus engagements by one or more such licensed persons, individually or collectively, procuring such engagement, shall not in any case exceed 5 per centum of the salary or wages paid. The gross fees for a theatrical engagement, except an emergency engagement, shall be due and payable at the end of each week of the engagement, and shall be based on the amount of compensation actually received for such engagement, except when such engagement is unfulfilled through any act within the control of the applicant for such engagement."

"No licensed person conducting a theatrical employment agency shall send out any applicant for a theatrical engagement without having previously obtained a bond fide oral or written order therefor, and if it shall appear that no theatrical engagement of the character applied for existed in the place to which such applicant was directed, such licensed person shall pay to such applicant within three days of demand the consideration that such licensed person represented such application would receive from such engagement, and any sum paid by such applicant for transportation in going to and returning from such place and all fees paid by such applicant to such licensed person for such engagement."

A Copy of "The Era" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

The Theatrical Sports Committee are receiving a most encouraging response on all sides to their applications for assistance. At a meeting held on Monday evening Mr. James Carew, chairman, presiding, the following were present: Messrs. A. P. Horne, P. Raphael, A. Malcolm, H. Porter, H. J. Kemp, C. Thorogood, P. Sheridan, Ed. Stow. The following additions to the prize fund and list of prizes were reported:—Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree will present the three first prizes for "The Relay Race"; Mr. Alfred Lester, a silver cup; Mr. H. Arnold, a prize; Messrs. H. and M. Rayne, a prize; Mr. J. Grant Allen, £1 1s.; Mr. John Galsworthy, £2; Mr. Lewis Waller, £1 1s.; Mr. Herbert Trench, £1 1s.; Miss Dorothy Green, 5s.; Miss Gertrude Forbes-Robertson, £1 1s.; Mr. Otho Stuart, £1 1s.; Mr. C. T. H. Helmsley, 10s. 6d.; Mr. Walter Hann, 5s.; Mr. C. Thorogood, £1 1s.; Mr. Robert Horton, £1 1s.; Sir A. Conan Doyle, £1 1s.; Lord George Sanger, £1 1s.; Mr. Cyril Maude, £2 2s.; Mr. Frank Desprez, £1 1s.; Mr. S. M. Bligh, £1 1s.; Mr. Arthur Phillips, 10s. 6d.; Mr. John Grant, 10s. 6d.; Mr. T. J. Digby, £1 1s.; Messrs. Whitbread, £1 1s. Mr. Edward Compton has taken tickets value £1 1s., Mr. Edward German tickets value 10s., Mr. Thomas Beecham tickets value 10s.

Miss Mary Moore's prize for the Quarter-Mile Obstacle Race will be an oak combination tantalus. Mr. Fred Terry is presenting a valuable silver cup as the first prize for the 100 Yards Running Handicap. The Era is generously presenting the five gold medals, the first prizes for the Tug-of-War (The Era Challenge Shield). A large number of friends are selling tickets for the sports, and every aspect indicates that the sports will be far more successful this year.

A considerable number of entries for the Ladies' Race (for which Miss Ada Reeve has promised a prize) will be received. Already some twenty-six ladies have entered for this event. The Tug-of-War teams already entered are: Drury Lane A and B Teams, Woolwich Hippodrome (the holders of the Shields), Putney Hippodrome, Balham Hippodrome, Richmond Hippodrome, Holborn Empire. The Relay Teams entered are: The Duke of York's Theatre, Balham Hippodrome, Empire (Leicester-square), Alhambra, Holborn Empire, Grand Theatre, Croydon, Lyceum A, B, and C teams.

About 400 entries have been received for all events. The Committee have considered the question of placing these sports under the A.A.A. laws next year, and an announcement to this effect may be placed in this year's programme. In the meanwhile those members of the A.A.A. who wish and are eligible to enter for the sports this year should join and give their name to the Secretary, who will endeavour to secure permission from the A.A.A. for such men to compete this year under the Committee Rules. If the A.A.A. will not give permission this year, the Sports Committee will no doubt refund the fees of anyone so prevented from competing.

The following have already agreed to act as judges at the sports: Mr. Frank Shorland, Mr. C. T. H. Helmsley, Mr. Robert Horton, Mr. Fred Fredericks, Mr. James Carew, Mr. A. H. Horne, and Mr. F. H. Pedgrift. Mr. E. Arnold will be the honorary timekeeper.

It has been decided to keep open the handicap events until to-day, and probably entries would be received up to first post on Monday morning. Entries for the non-handicap event can be received up to Saturday next, which would be latest day, as the matter for the programme would then be sent to the printers.

A general meeting of members of the Cinematograph Operators will be held on Tuesday morning next in the Musicians' Union Club, 9, Great Newport-street, W.C. All members in London are urged to attend. Mr. John Hutchins has been appointed secretary in place of Mr. H. J. Merritt, who has had to resign the office owing to pressure of private business.

Mr. H. S. Henby, who went to America as stage-manager to Miss Maud Allan, has returned, and reports a most successful and enjoyable trip. His card of membership in the N.A.T.E. got him a welcome in every city from the members of the American Alliance. Mr. Henby thinks the Boston Opera House the best-equipped house in the world, and that it provides the most comfortable quarters and most modern facilities for the staff.

The Heads of Departments Association, at their meeting on Thursday evening, Mr. J. Cullen presiding, decided to arrange their second annual river outing for Sunday, July 17. The route will be from Paddington by the 9.40 to Bourne End, where the party will join the river launch and proceed to Henley for lunch, after lunch proceeding up the river. Tea to be provided on board, and returning to Bourne End about eight o'clock. The tickets will be limited to the reasonable accommodation of the launch, and an early application is suggested.

Mr. Robert Arthur's popular dramatic productions are bowling along merrily at the Kennington Theatre, which has been filled each night with a most appreciative audience. This week there has been considerable difficulty in finding room for people wishing to see The English Rose. George R. Sims and Robert Buchanan's fine play In the Ranks will be revived next week.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

SYDNEY, May 10.—All places of amusement closed on Saturday afternoon and night on receipt of the news of the death of King Edward, the generous patron of theatre and opera.

"Carmen" was staged on Monday by J. C. Williamson, a most decided change for the better. The new Carmen is Bel Sorel, and a most vivacious interpretation she gives, free from any of the approach to animalism to which others have been prone. The Don José of Frederick Blamey was the best thing he did since he came here. His acting was even better than his singing. Mr. Orme Darvall made the most of Zuniga; his voice rang out true and clear. The best male parts were Dancairo and Remendado, as represented by Messrs. Rufus Ferguson and Edward Wynn. They, with Misses Rosina Buckmann (Mercedes) and Mabel Bachelor (Frasquita) joined Bel Sorel in the success of the night, the quintette in the second act. An encore was demanded; but, fortunately, the artists failed to pick up the place. Miss Maria Pampari made but little impression as Michaela.

Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton are still making the massacre of St. Bartholomew appear to have been a religious plot instead of a political one in Count Hannibal. They give a matinée in aid of the Hospital Saturday Fund on the 12th, and depart to make room at the Criterion for Mr. Matheson Lang and Miss Hutin Britton.

F. V. St. Clair has written a great song entitled "Mary from Tipperary," published by Francis, Day, and Hunter. Mr. Fred Barnes has the sole rights of this number.

Harry Carlton has just written and composed a most original and funny song for S. W. Wyndham entitled "My Sunday's joint of meat," and great things are expected of it. He is responsible for all S. W. Wyndham's other biggest successes.

RINKING GOSSIP.

Powell Meets Moore at Bournemouth.

THE Westover Skating Rink, Bournemouth, was crowded when Allie Moore met P. F. Powell, N.S.A. (floor-manager at the Rink). Powell has made a name for himself as a speed skater, having come in fifth in the championship race at Olympia, in which, it will be remembered, Allie Moore was second and Harley Davidson first. The two competitors started with half a lap dividing them, and there was little to choose between them. A good pace was kept up all through, and the American gained slightly at the beginning of the second mile, but was unable to increase his lead, whilst Powell could not reduce the advantage gained by his opponent, who finished a second to the good. The times were:—Moore, 7min. 36 2-5sec.; Powell, 7min. 37 2-5sec. After the race Moore gave his marvellous exhibition of sensational and daring skating.

£23,506 Scheme at Barry.

AT a joint meeting of the Barry Public Works and Licensing Committees of the District Council, a scheme for the development of Barry Island has been considered. The complete scheme is divided into four sections, the whole to cover the construction of a sea-wall, 1,900ft. long, with an average depth of 19ft. to the sand. A promenade 40ft. wide would be made at the top. The first section provides for the erection of a large shelter on the western part of the gardens, facing the sea, with a length of 200ft., capable of accommodating 2,500 to 3,000 persons. Six shops are to be placed in the building, and the roof of the shelter is to be utilised as a skating rink.

Roller Skating in Birmingham.

ALTHOUGH the warmer weather is somewhat against indoor roller skating, it has had little effect upon the popularity of the sport, and there are still many devotees of the pastime in Birmingham. The Empire Skating Palace, in Walford-road, continues to receive its full share of the public patronage. At every session the floor is thronged with people. The floor is kept in excellent condition, and the place is well ventilated, while the enjoyment is enhanced by a good military band. The popularity of the City Rink, in John Bright-street, has also been well maintained. The excellent ventilation enables visitors to indulge in the popular pastime in a cool atmosphere.

Good Business at Blackpool.

DEVOTEES of the roller-skating art, and there are many at Blackpool, find the conditions which prevail at the Pleasure Beach Rink just to their liking, and at each session there is a good complement of skaters. Mr. J. D. Tweddell, the manager, is sparing no efforts to obtain all that is necessary for the comfort of his many patrons, and the floor, after being resurfaced, is now one of the best in the town. During the hot weather the sides of the building are opened. At the Colosseum Rink, which is close to Manchester-square, the newly-formed skating club has a large number of members, and the venture is proving very popular. There is a full military band, while the floor is perfection itself. The best Winslow ball-bearing skates are in use.

The Longton Rink,

ONE of the most successful of the Staffordshire rinks, from a financial point of view, is the one situated in Edensor-road, Longton, and the proprietors are justly pleased with the result of their enterprise. The rink first opened on Dec. 23 last, and the fact that five sessions were held daily for some time after the opening shows that the inhabitants of Longton and district appreciated the pleasures which are to be derived from roller-skating. The patronage extended to the rink up to now has been very encouraging, and still further success is looked forward to for the future.

And Its Popular Manager.

THE success so far attained is due, to a considerable extent, to the appreciable way in which the manager of the rink, Mr. Meredith Raynes, has carried out his duties. Mr. Raynes is a Hanley man, and, previous to taking up his appointment at the Longton rink, was well known as a local amateur skater, and was successful in winning the two-step and mile competitions held at Olympia. Mr. Raynes has introduced many novel competitions to his patrons, and he also has arranged specially attractive evenings, which have been much appreciated. On the latter occasions snowstorms, novel moonlight, and weird thunderstorm and lightning effects were arranged. Another feature of the management of the Longton rink, and one that attracted a deal of enthusiasm, was the introduction of special teaching weeks, which include free instruction in the waltz, two-step, and fancy skating during the whole of the particular week.

Maidenhead Rink.

THE arrangements for ventilation here are so perfect that the attendance has kept up to the mark throughout the hot weather. Fancy dress carnivals and hockey matches are not only successful in drawing local patronage, but attract from Windsor, Reading, Marlow, and other surrounding towns. The floor is in splendid condition.

Victoria Rink, Weston-super-Mare.

AT the Victoria Rink, Weston-super-Mare, Mr. Carlyle Vernon, whose band is so much appreciated here, was given a complimentary benefit on Friday, 10th June, when the place was crowded to overflowing.

Big Hockey Contest at West Stanley.

THE West Stanley Skatery is still going strong, and is being well patronised. A hockey competition on skates commenced last Tuesday, twenty teams being entered. The competition will be continued nightly till completed.

York Manager's Benefit.

THE Sycamore Skating Rink was the scene of an enjoyable gala, arranged by the York Roller Skating Club for the benefit of Mr. H. Ingham, the general-manager of the rink the other day. The rink will be closed during the summer months, and before the closing days commenced the Roller Skating Club thought it would be appropriate to show their appreciation of Mr. Ingham's work by promoting this benefit. During his association with the rink, Mr. Ingham has gained the approval of all with whom he has come in contact, and the large company which assembled was a striking testimony to the regard in which he is held.

The Philadelphia Rink.

THE new rink at Philadelphia, near Houghton-le-Spring, continues to be well patronised, and the varied competitions arranged by the manager (Mr. Stratton) are being highly appreciated.

Rothesay Pavilion.

THE opening of the new roller skating rink and entertainment pavilion at Rothesay took place last Saturday. A large and fashionable audience assembled. The new pavilion is erected on the site of the old gasworks, and is capable of holding 4,000 persons. Mr. John P. Reid, chairman of the company, presided, and was supported on the platform by Mr. Harry Hope, M.P., Mr. G. B. Caldwell, Mr. Alex. McClure, along with a representative company of Rothesay magistrates, town councillors, officials, and other prominent citizens. The artists engaged for the occasion were Mr. Robert Burnett, vocalist; Millie and Arthur, musical sketch artists; and Mr. Leslie Harris, society entertainer. An exhibition of fancy roller skating was given by members of the pavilion staff. The orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Richard Daeblitz. Mr. Charles A. White is manager.

THE L.C.C. AND AMUSEMENTS.

The weekly meeting of the London County Council was held on Tuesday at the County Hall, Spring-gardens, Mr. Whitaker Thompson (Chairman) presiding.

THEATRES v. MUSIC HALLS.

The Theatres and Music Halls Committee again brought up their report and recommendation dated April 13, the consideration of which has been adjourned from time to time. The full report has already appeared in The Era. The Committee recommended that the reference to them on Dec. 21 and 22, 1909, to consider and report what amendments should be made in the standing orders of the Council with the view to granting a general and uniform licence to all places of entertainment licensed by the Council under which it would be optional for the licensee, subject to such restrictions as may be considered desirable, to give either dramatic or what are known as variety entertainments be discharged.

Mr. H. J. GREENWOOD, chairman of the Committee, moved the adoption of the report.

Mr. GEORGE ALEXANDER moved the following amendment of which he had given notice—"That as the performance of stage plays in buildings which are licensed for music and dancing only is illegal, the Council, when considering applications for music and dancing licences, will have regard to any evidence which may be submitted as to illegal production of stage plays at places of entertainment licensed for music and dancing only." He said he thought the Council would agree with him that the theatrical manager was at present placed in a very unfair and difficult position. If the Council maintained that two licences were desirable, it was clearly its duty to see that the terms of the licences were fulfilled, and that places having a music and dancing licence should not be allowed to produce stage plays, and that places having theatrical licences should not be allowed to give variety entertainments. If the Council was not prepared to do that, they should be prepared to do everything in their power to give the double license to both places of entertainment, as was done in the country. The Council had done nothing to enforce the law. The music hall proprietor was able to produce stage plays in his building, but if a theatrical manager proposed to give a variety entertainment he was called over the coals, and prevented by the Lord Chamberlain on the ground that he was not fulfilling the terms of his licence. The effect of this was that the music hall proprietor could do what he liked, and the theatrical proprietor could not. As was known to many members of the Council, there was an understanding in existence between the music hall proprietors and the theatrical managers, and it was only in cases where the friendly agreement was not adhered to that the theatrical managers would ask the Council to protect their interests. The Chairman of the Theatres and Music Halls Committee would doubtless tell them that the theatrical manager could always prosecute, but he submitted that this was a course which the theatrical managers should not reasonably be asked to follow; but when a conviction by a magistrate was brought before the Theatres and Music Halls Committee, the applicant for a licence should be warned, and, if necessary, his licence should be refused. He could assure the Council that this was no dog-in-the-manger policy on his part. He was anxious there should be a single license for theatres and music halls, and he wished to do everything that would give employment to the legitimate actor; but until the recommendation of the Joint Select Parliamentary Committee became law, it was clearly the duty of the Council to see that the regulations, both of the music and dancing licenses and the theatrical licenses, were properly fulfilled.

Mr. WALTER REYNOLDS, who seconded the amendment, said he had nothing to say against the music halls at the present day; on the contrary, he thought there was very much to be said in their favour. They had done a great deal to promote temperance; and the public had opportunities at the music halls of seeing great artists at a small cost. And a man could obtain there a two hours' entertainment for the price of a glass of ale, the halls thus doing much in promoting temperance principles. A few weeks ago there appeared at a London music hall one of the great French artists of the day in her répertoire and with her own company and scenery from Paris. Though he was delighted that people were able to see her at very cheap prices, there was no getting over the fact that both the lady and the manager of the hall at which she appeared were breaking the law. In a few weeks the greatest French artist of the last century would be seen at a London music hall, and yet the Council, as the licensing authority, did nothing. They not only permitted illegalities to be practised, but actually encouraged them. Not only were these practices illegal, they were also unfair, because the great dramatic stars had hitherto only appeared at the ordinary theatres, and not at the halls. He thought he should be able to show that the Council had not even the excuse of consistency. There was the case of the Camden Theatre, which, failing as an ordinary theatre, was compelled to give a variety entertainment. Both the licensing authorities and the Lord Chamberlain knew of what was being done, but ignored it. Then the Common Informer came along, and, under the Disorderly Houses Act of 1751, gave information, with the result that the licensee was fined 40s., and the theatre had to close. The Theatres Committee recommended the granting of a music and dancing licence to the theatre, but at the annual Licensing Sessions this recommendation was defeated, with the result that the owners of the house lost thousands of pounds, it being closed for a whole year. And yet the Council granted licenses to fifty-three music halls at which dramatic performances were given under a music and dancing licence. He thought that this was a state of things that could not be tolerated much longer, and that Mr. George Alexander was perfectly right in making the protest he had done.

Mr. GREENWOOD said that, speaking on behalf of his Committee, he might at once state that he was quite unable to accept the amendment, as it travelled very far beyond the recommendation before the Council. For reasons given in the preamble of the Committee's report, it would be quite impossible to accept the amendment. With regard to the alleged illegal performance of sketches in music halls, the matter came before them in 1905 in connection with the Oxford Music Hall, and again in 1909, when the application of the Coliseum was opposed on this ground. On both occasions the Council did not consider that the arguments used were strong enough to justify them in refusing the application, and held that if a breach of the law were committed, it was open to the aggrieved party to take action. As a matter of fact, numberless actions had been taken and fines imposed. The Council felt that they would be going outside their duty if they made the producing of sketches at the halls a reason for refusing applications for licenses, and he hoped that the Council would see fit to adopt the Committee's recommendation.

Mr. JESSON said he had a great amount of sympathy for the amendment. The theatre proprietor found that the tastes of the people in regard to entertainments were changing, and he saw his theatre audiences leaving and going to the music halls instead. While the music hall proprietor could put on a play which is called a sketch, a theatre proprietor was not allowed to put on a variety entertainment, this placing him at a serious disadvantage with his competitor. Matters were further complicated by the arrangement which had been entered into between the proprietors of the theatres and the halls that sketches shall be allowed at the halls, provided that they played not more than thirty minutes and contained not more than six characters. He thought there was no doubt that a drastic change in the law was required. Theatre proprietors should be allowed to stage any form of entertainment provided it was a proper one. His reason for opposing the amendment was that, if carried, it would cause confusion in the amusement world, and throw a large number of people out of work. He should support the Committee's recommendation, because he did not see any other way out of the difficulty. He hoped that this discussion would be the means of hastening legislation, so that all places of entertainment would be placed on the same footing.

Mr. LEA supported the amendment on the ground that the Lord Chamberlain, being a Court official, should have nothing to do with the amusements of the people. Theatrical proprietors were labouring under a great injustice as compared with music hall proprietors, and he could not conceive how people could put up with such an anomaly as the Lord Chamberlain.

The CHAIRMAN: I don't think that the question of licensing by the Lord Chamberlain arises on the amendment.

Mr. LEA was proceeding to condemn the veto exercised by the Lord Chamberlain, when

Mr. GREENWOOD interrupted him, and pointed out there was nothing before the Council with regard to the duties of the Lord Chamberlain.

Mr. LEA proceeding, said he was in favour of the music halls being open on Sundays, but that the employees should have one day's rest.

Mr. GORDON considered that as long as the law remained as it was, it ought to be enforced whenever a breach of it was committed.

On a show of hands, the amendment was defeated, only ten members voting for it, and the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

CINEMATOGRAPH HALLS, &c.

The following recommendations formally opposed at previous meetings were now carried—"That no objection be offered to the construction of a permanent cinematograph chamber in the dress circle saloon at the Alexandra Theatre, Stoke Newington; also that provided that the work shown on the drawing submitted by Mr. G. Duckworth with regard to a cinematograph hall to be erected in Lower Clapton-road be commenced within six months, the Council will be prepared to grant a certificate to the owner of such building."

A similar recommendation in respect of a cinematograph hall, proposed to be erected in St. Stephen's-road, Bow, by Messrs. Andrews and Peascod.

A DESIRABLE RESIDENCE.

WOODLAWN, KINGSTON HILL.

Those wanting a house in charming surroundings, yet conveniently situated with respect to town, should examine Mr. Frank Allen's compact and well-arranged detached residence, with stabling and delightful grounds, on Kingston Hill, overlooking and adjoining Richmond Park, known as "Woodlawn." It contains seven bedrooms, dressing-room, fitted bath room (with hot and cold water supplies), w.c., and lavatory, three capital reception rooms, excellent domestic offices on the ground floor, and spacious cellarage, detached stabling for three horses, double coach-house and two rooms over; also motor garage, suitable for containing two large motor cars, fitted up with bench and cemented pit, and having well-timbered and pretty grounds of about one acre. The estimated rental value is £120 per annum. The property is held for an unexpired term of about sixty-five years, at a ground rent of £37 10s. per annum. It is at present occupied by owner, and may be viewed at any time. Its price is £2,000, or it will be let on seven years' lease at a rental of £130 per annum, or on a three years' agreement at £140 per annum. "Woodlawn" is close to the Wimbledon Common and Coombe Wood golf links, and within easy drive of Hurlingham.

LONG RUNS.

"In order that a manager under ordinary modern conditions should not lose his money," writes Miss Edith Lyttleton in the Nineteenth Century, "it is necessary for a play to run many months. The best work does not appeal to a large enough number of people, and therefore does not run for months; the best work is therefore not in demand, and its production is not encouraged. The other aspect is that if a play containing thought, originality, and poetry is written, it does not often get itself played, because the managers are quite justly afraid of it. But, granted that, by a happy conjunction of circumstances, the fine play is produced and wins a deserved success, what happens? For night after night the orange is squeezed. Even if the actors do not become weary—and it must be admitted that they constantly contrive to infuse freshness into a very often repeated performance—the play certainly suffers and becomes stale. Instead of entering into the literature of the stage, instead of for many years, for perhaps several generations, making its appeal to the audiences who can understand and appreciate, and to whom it was addressed, it is played and played out of existence. And this very often, not because of its intrinsic worth, but because it happens to have a happy turn of humour, or to suit some popular actor. A French playwright of European fame is content if his drama accepted by the Comédie Française is played thirty times in one season—twice, or sometimes thrice, a week for three months. He knows that if the play is worthy it will form part of the repertory of the theatre for years to come, and will always command the kind of audience for whom it was written. It will run no risk of having its fine shades slurred, its wit coarsened, and its humour broadened by actors oppressed with the double motive of relieving their own weariness and of attracting and holding the large heterogeneous public. Has not everyone experienced the listless unwillingness to go and see a play which has been running for a long while—an unwillingness often justified by the results? All the fineness of the play may have evaporated, the audience will laugh merrily where they should be grave, and miss the subtler shades of the satire or the humour. This is only in a secondary way the fault of the actors; it is really the fault of the long run."

Col. Fox and Kinematograph Dangers.

DELEGATES from all parts of the country attended the annual meeting of the Association of Professional Fire Brigade Officers at Westminster Guildhall on Thursday, the president, Lieut.-Col. Fox, chief of the London Salvage Corps, occupying the chair. Colonel Fox said that he had a film which he thought solved the whole question of safety. Proceeding to test a piece of transparent film, Colonel Fox held it over a lighted spirit lamp without it burning. As soon as he put it into the flame and held it there it took fire, not suddenly, but (in his own words) slowly, as if it were wood, and it extinguished itself.

Fulham's New Picture Palace.

THE Fulham Theatre has been converted into a "picture palace." On Monday, however, there was added to the programme—and incidentally, one gathers, produced for the first time—a short musical play called At the Photographer's. The characters are three in number—a husband, a wife, and a lover. It proved very much to the taste of the audience, and was acted with considerable spirit. As for the pictures, they are varied and good. Monday's selection—for they are constantly varied—included some of the late King Edward's Funeral. Particularly impressive was the one labelled Entering Windsor Castle, in which, as the sea of escorting bluejackets advanced into the focal plane, the gun-carriage and its burden gradually, as it were, materialised. Two performances are given nightly—the one at seven o'clock, the other at nine.

TENNIS and Laune, who have been meeting with success at the Empire, Camberwell, and the Empire, Shoreditch, leave for the provinces on Monday next, returning to the London halls in August. These young ladies have been re-engaged by Mr. Ben Court for pantomime at the Grand Theatre, Brighton, 1910-1911.

MISS VERA SAUNDERS, one of the latest recruits to the vaudeville stage, has been booked by the syndicate halls and will shortly appear in London in a new scena, entitled Brides. Miss Saunders, who comes from an old Surrey family, is only seventeen, and is stated to be remarkably gifted as an actress, vocalist, and dancer.

THE latest quotations of music-hall shares are as follows: Alhambra, 1⅞; Empire (15s. pd.), 1⅞; Empire (10s. pd.), 1⅛; London Pavilion (5), 2⅛; London Pavilion Pref. (5), 5⅛; Metropolitan, ⅞; Moss' Empires (5), 4; Oxford (5), 6⅞xd.; Palace Theatre (9s. pd.), 1; Tivoli, New (5), 6⅛.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

M. Claude Debussy's Pelléas et Mélisande, produced for the first time in this country last season, was again performed at Covent Garden on Thursday evening, June 9, with the same beautiful scenery and attention to every artistic detail that marked its first production. In the story of Maeterlinck M. Debussey found a subject admirably suited to his music drama and refined style of musical expression. The composer relies chiefly on the orchestra, which is quite as important in the opera as any illustration given by the vocalists on the stage, while throughout Pelléas et Mélisande the music flows on in a continuous stream. Whether M. Debussy's operatic methods ever become popular with other composers or the public time alone will show; but the composer displays a command of tone colour in his scoring for the orchestra that places him in the front rank of musicians. Of separate solos there are practically none, but the long series of recitatives often contain passages of rare beauty and subtle musical charm, which well express the various situations. Mme. Edvina appeared for the first time as Mélisande, and by her refined singing and graceful acting created a most favourable impression. The ideal poetical character of Mélisande, as well as the music, suits Mme. Edvina perfectly, and her performance was very successful, and the best she has given this season. The Pelléas was M. Devriés, who looked the part well and sang the music artistically in a light but pleasing voice. M. Bourbon again gave a very striking performance of Golaud, and when the music gave him any chance used his fine voice with great ability, while his skill as an actor was displayed to advantage in a part of such varying emotions. M. Marcoux was excellent as the old grandfather Arkel; Mlle. Symiane as the child Yniold deserved much praise; while Mlle. Bourgeois (the Genevieve) and M. Crabbé as the Doctor were very successful. The beautiful scene of a Well in the Park, the lovely picture of A Grotto, and the fine massive Castle Towers were all greatly admired by a large audience. The orchestra played the delicate score with refinement, and Signor Campanini conducted a very artistic performance.

On Saturday evening, June 11, Rigoletto was again performed at Covent Garden, with a new jester in the person of Signor George Baklanoff, a Russian artist, who made a most successful first appearance. Signor Baklanoff has a fine, rich toned baritone voice, of ample power, and it was evident the newcomer is an accomplished actor. The dramatic music of the part is well adapted to the Russian singer, but Signor Baklanoff is tall, and had, therefore, little chance of realising the deformed and grotesque figure of Rigoletto. In the scene of the third act he sang with great emotional power and expression, and was warmly applauded. Mme. Tetrazzini again sang brilliantly as Gilda, and delighted the audience as on former occasions with her wonderful rendering of "Caro Nome." Signor Rostowsky appeared as the libertine Duke, Mlle. Bourgeois as Maddalena, and M. Marcoux was an excellent Sparafucile. Signor Panizza conducted.

In Verdi's Otello, given at Covent Garden on Tuesday evening, Mme. Melba made her second appearance this season. Desdemona has always been considered Mme. Melba's finest creation, and the pathetic death-scene, the charming Willow Song and Ave Maria, and the various dramatic situations in so powerful an opera reveal the great artist at her best, both as vocalist and actress. When Verdi's fine opera was revived some years ago Mme. Melba astonished her admirers by displaying an amount of dramatic intensity never expected from the famous prima donna.

The performance of Otello on Tuesday night, although not what might be called superlative, had many excellent features. Signor Zerola, who sang with much success in Aida, undertook the exacting rôle of the jealous Moor, and sang the music with considerable power. As an actor Signor Zerola did not at times fully realise the intense passion required in some situations, such, for instance, as Otello's great scene in the third act, and his fiery outburst when Iago arouses his fatal jealousy and distrust of Desdemona. Mme. Melba, while not perhaps in finest voice, sang, however, with delightful finish and pathetic feeling, and acted better than ever. As Iago Signor Sammarco sang with his accustomed skill, but the Credo failed to make any deep impression, nor did this talented artist give a particularly subtle reading of the part.

M. Lheureux, a newcomer, was excellent as Cassio; and Mr. Murray Davey sang finely the music of Ludovico. Mlle. Bourgeois was successful in the part of Emilia; as also were Signor Zucchi and M. Morin as Roderigo and Montano. The chorus sang well, and Signor Campanini secured excellent results from the orchestra. There was a very large audience, frequent recalls of the principal artists, and a display of great enthusiasm.

THE HAPPY CHORUS.

"The only happy girls in the cast of the dramas," says the Manchester Despatch, "are the chorus girls, and the reason is that they and they only have skirts in which they can walk.

"Poor heroines who weep beneath villainy's oppression in full view of the audience, are subjected to an additional curse—this time at the cruel hands of fashion. Their skirts must be the very latest, and must be tied tightly round the knees; and ladies who are heroines must have the very latest. It is unthinkable that a heroine could be dowdy.

"The theory recently advanced by a Paris professor that the crinoline had quite a robust influence on the drama was supplemented by a journalist who, yesterday, saw one of the leading ladies in a London drama; she dies nightly exactly at half-past ten, and goes home to a cold supper at eleven four-and-a-half exactly.

"'Crinoline!' she exclaimed aghast. 'Why the new skirt is worse than the crinoline. Imagine me running across the stage with a full-blooded villain in pursuit and outdistancing him easily. When the old wide skirt was in vogue the betting on me was 5 to 1, but now this creation has come in vogue he is generally at my heels just as I glide behind the wings. Then I have to fall gracefully in the last act but one, and this skirt simply won't let me do it.

"'I thought of applying for the Balkan Girl part in Mr. Grossmith's play Billy's Bargain, and it makes me delirious with joy to think of having a wild career round the stage clad in the costume of the ragged maid.'

"'What do you think will be the outcome of it, then?'

"'I don't know. If only someone would ask the authors to write a play round the new skirt, with special reference to the band round the knees, perhaps it would be easier to bear it. It would be real nice if someone wrote a play where the heroine had only to stand and look at her ease. That is the next thing you will see. Fashion always precedes plays and dictates what kind of romance is to be seen on the stage.'

"'That is a prophecy?'

"'No; it is a fact. How do you think Juliet would have looked in the balcony scene in a skirt like this?'

"And the actress returned to her tears."

A FINE picture of the Marathon coaching contest from Bushey Park to the Horse Show is being presented on the Bioscope at the Empire, the ten coaches which took part in the competition being very clearly depicted. Scenes are taken at Bushey, Twickenham, and entering the ring at Olympia. The Empire series of Ascot pictures will include scenes in the grand stands, paddock, &c., and many of the principal races.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD

THE MOVABLE DWELLINGS BILL (1910).

At the end of the 1909 Session of Parliament the Select Committee of the House of Lords, to whom the Movable Dwellings Bill, 1909, had been referred, issued the following sessional report:—

"That the Committee have met and examined numerous witnesses. They have been unable, owing to the short time at their disposal, to complete their inquiry during the present Session. They, therefore, recommend that the Bill should be reintroduced, and that they should be reappointed during the next Session of Parliament. The Committee have directed that the minutes of evidence and proceedings, with an appendix, be laid before your Lordships." The Sessional Report referred to gave, as stated, the full minutes of evidence of all the witnesses examined by the Committee. These were: Mr. H. C. Munro, C.B., Assistant Secretary to the Local Government Board; Dr. H. Franklin Parsons, an assistant medical officer to the same Board; Dr. Reginald Farrar, Medical Inspector of the Local Government Board; Dr. Haynes Fosbrooke, Medical Officer for the County of Worcester; Mr. Edwin F. Chamier, agent to the Rolle Estate, Devonshire; Mr. James Beck, Clerk to the Rural District Council of Orsett, Essex; Mr. J. Harris Stone, Hon Secretary and founder of the Caravan Club of Great Britain and Ireland; Dr. H. M. Chesters, member of the Surrey County Council; Mr. John Pedder, a principal clerk in the Home Office; Sir Reginald Bray, one of his Majesty's judges and a large landowner in Surrey; Col. the Hon. Charles Hay Drummond, of Sunninghill, Berks; Captain M. L. Sant, Chief Constable, Surrey County; Dr. Ernest A. Farr, Medical Officer of Health of the Andover Rural District Council; Sir Anthony Cope, Bart., Bramshill, Northants; and the Rev. T. Horne, Hon. Chaplain and Organiser to the Showmen's Guild of Great Britain.

Some Results of the Inquiry.

The greater weight of the official evidence tendered by the Local Government Board was against the Bill. The various officials showed that the Home Office and the Local Government Board were fully alive to the difficulties of dealing with gipsy and other nomadic kinds of life. So far as legislation could help in the solution of the problem the official opinion was that all that could usefully be done had been done by these great administrative departments. Dr. Farrar, in his exhaustive inquiries into English gipsy life, carried on by the Local Government Board, drew a clear distinction between the genuine gipsy and the nomad or tramp falsely classed as gipsy. Both Mr. Munro and Mr. Pedder, each for his own department, held that the Bill could fulfil no useful purpose, and that it might become an instrument of oppression. Dr. Parsons showed that the model sanitary by-laws of the Local Government Board, the Health Acts, and the Notification of Infectious Diseases Acts, and the Housing of the Working Classes Act already gave the local authorities ample powers of control for health over vans, tents, and sheds.

Dr. Farr, Medical Officer at Andover, testified in the highest terms to the good health conditions of shows and living vans at the fair time. Mr. J. Harris Stone, for the amateur caravanners, claimed complete exemption for the rapidly growing class of people who holiday on wheels and attempt the simple life in a van. Mr. Chamier, agent to Lord Clinton, Devonshire, desired to limit any additional legislation to matters of health. He would only have gipsies interfered with by the local authorities where their encampments threatened to pollute streams that fed public water supplies. The Devonshire gipsies, he held, were respectable and moral people. They had few tramps in his part of the county.

The evidence against the gipsies chiefly came from Dr. Chesters, of the Surrey County Council, Mr. Beck, of Ossett, Essex, Col. Hay Drummond, and Dr. Fosbrooke. Sir Reginald Bray and Sir Anthony Cope expressed the objections of landowners in general against the trespass of gipsies on their property, and wanted drastic powers to drive gipsies away. Captain Sant, the Surrey Chief Constable, explained the powers of the police under existing laws, and his trouble with landlords as well as with gipsies. Captain Sant bore out Dr. Farrar's statements with regard to the law-abiding character of the genuine gipsy, and attributed most of the petty thefts and the terrorism to criminal tramps and not to gipsies. So far as the inquiry has gone it has been largely a vindication of gipsy life. The criminal nomad is the sinister figure all through the inquiry, but the criminal nomad is not a van-dweller, and seldom is found under a tent. The gipsy is blamed for the depredation and the crime of the vicious and idle tramp.

Points of the Evidence Touching Van Life.

Mr. H. C. Munro, C.B., of the Local Government Board, doubted if legislation could be usefully extended beyond the scope of the present law. In answer to Lord Salisbury, the chairman of the Committee, as to what the present law provided with regard to vans and tents, Mr. Munro replied: "The specific provisions are contained in Section 9 of the Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1885. That section does three things: it applies the provisions of the Public Health Act, 1875, with regard to nuisances; to nuisances in tents, vans, sheds, and similar structures used for human habitation which are in such a state as to be a nuisance or injurious to health, or so overcrowded as to be injurious to the health of the inmates, whether or not members of the same family. Next it provides that Urban and Rural District Councils may make by-laws, which are subject to confirmation by the Local Government Board, for promoting cleanliness in and the habitable condition of such structures, and for preventing nuisances and the spread of infectious disease in connection with them. Then it also contains a provision authorising entrance by day to those dwellings by persons duly authorised by the sanitary authority or by a Justice of the Peace. That is the present law practically with regard to these dwellings. There are provisions also in the Public Health Act with regard to making by-laws for fruit-pickers' and hop-pickers' dwellings, but I need not deal with those." The Infectious Diseases Notofication Act also applies to movable dwellings as to houses. Cases of infectious disease occurring in these dwellings have to be notified to the Medical Officer of Health.

Expert Medical Evidence.

Dr. Parsons, the expert from the Local Government Board on the working of sanitary and health by-laws, held the opinion that the powers now obtainable from his department were sufficient to regulate the proper health conditions of vans and tents. He bore witness to the general good health of van-dwellers in the following words:—"Dr. Farrar, who has made a good many inquiries as to that, says that they have generally very good health. They are used to open-air life, and they do not suffer from exposure as town-bred people would if they took to that life. And living in the open air they do not suffer much from consumption or other diseases. They generally have good health, and we have not had any complaints of overcrowding or of the uninhabitable character of the vans themselves."

He saw no objection on the score of health to these movable dwellings, as occupied at the present time. He thought that under the Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1885, regulations could be made to prevent any danger to health from the encampment of a van in any situation.

Dr. Farrar on Gipsy Character.

Dr. Farrar, whose evidence occupied the greater part of one meeting of the Select Committee, dealt fully with gipsy van life. He scouted the idea that gipsy vans were a menace to public health, or that gipsy life was a means of conveying epidemic diseases. In answering to the chairman, he said, with regard to the general character of gipsies: "They lead a healthy life; they have been habituated for generations to a nomad existence, and it seems to suit them. They have generally got money, and they are well clothed, and I take them to be well lodged." Their standard of health was fully up to, if not better than, the agricultural population. With regard to the standard of comfort, the doctor said: "One sees a great many East End people down among the hop-pickers and the pea-pickers, and they will put up with conditions that the gipsies would not put up with. The van dwellers always have a water-tight, weather-tight shelter. They mostly live in a van with a nucleus, and then if there were three or four in the family the husband and wife would sleep in the van and the daughters would construct a little tarpaulin wigwam—tarpaulin or blankets over bent osiers, and it is perfectly water-tight. I have inspected a great many of them, and they are absolutely water-tight and perfectly adequate." He had visited their settlements at night, and had found no cases of overcrowding. At the conclusion of his evidence Dr. Farrar quoted the opinion of a number of medical officers in districts that gipsies frequent in support of his own view of the general good health conditions of gipsy life.

Evidence from the Home Office.

Mr. Pedder in his evidence dealt fully with the difficulties that Clause 5 in the Movable Dwellings Bill would create, and expressed the opinion of the Home Office that such legislation was contrary to the whole scope and spirit of jurisprudence. In answer to the chairman with regard to Clause 5, which reads as follows: "Where it appears to any registration authority that the presence of movable dwellings on any specified place or places within their area would be dangerous to the public health, or constitute a nuisance to the neighbourhood, the registration authority may by by-law prohibit such movable dwellings being on such specified place or places; and any person acting in contravention of any by-law made under this section shall be guilty of an offence under this Act," Mr. Pedder said: "It is intended, I suppose, to deal with difficulties arising out of van-dwellers and gipsies and movable people generally, and such difficulties have come before the Home Office in connection with by-law-making powers in the first instance, which were tried some years ago—the by-laws I mean for good rule and government, preservation of order and prevention of nuisances, that is other than sanitary nuisances. Sanitary nuisances, of course, go to the Local Government Board and not to the Home Office. Nuisances other than sanitary nuisances are noises, small damage to property and anything not sanitary, anything which you might call a breach of the peace or tending to breach of the peace. The Home Office also, besides the by-laws, directs itself every year to watching proposals in private and local Bills, with particular regard to questions affecting the ordinary liberty of the subject, the imposition on particular classes of persons of special obligations and the creation of new criminal offences. Under all these headings, proposals relating to van-dwellers have from time to time come up, and in accordance with the usual practice the Home Secretary addresses a report to the Houses of Parliament on the Bills containing those proposals. The Home Office, being also the Police Authority in the Metropolitan Police District, and being, although not the Police Authority, in close touch with the Police Authorities all over the country, receives a good deal of information as to any trouble that is caused by movable dwellings and people inhabiting them. That, I think, is a short statement of the way we deal with the matter."

Dealing with the Clause itself, he said that "the effect of the clause as it stands seems to be that if a County Council thinks a van dweller would be a nuisance (it is only 'would be,' which is very vague), then and there a van dweller is prohibited, and as the clause says 'the registration authority may by by-law prohibit such movable dwellings being on such specified place or places'; although the van dweller might be able to show that he was quite willing to conform to all the regulations and laws, and to prevent himself from being a nuisance, still, if the edict had once gone forth that it was a place where there would be a nuisance, he could not go there. That in particular seems to have a hard effect on travelling showmen, because although they might be perfectly proper as a popular amusement and able to keep themselves in order, if somebody else had made a nuisance on that place and the local authority had said, 'This is a place where a van dweller would be a nuisance,' the showman could not go there save under a penalty. There is no provision to allow him to go in spite of the original prohibition."

The Home Office and By-Laws.

An extremely valuable part of Mr. Pedder's evidence was that relating to bye-laws. The policy of the Home Office of to-day differed fundamentally from the policy of twenty years ago. On the working effect of restricted bye-law, he said: "I think perhaps I ought to give an instance here of bye-laws which were allowed and have ceased to be allowed. About twenty years ago the bye-laws were allowed, under the general powers of making bye-laws for the good rule and government of a county or borough or any part thereof in order to deal with the particular difficulty at West Ham in 1889, where there was a vacant piece of ground in a crowded area which was said to be occupied by movable dwellings, and caused a great nuisance. The bye-laws then allowed were to the effect that no owner of land should allow his land within 200 yards of a highway or street or dwelling-house, to be occupied so as to cause annoyance, injury, or disturbance to residents by van-dwellers, and also the van-dwellers were not to occupy the same land so as to have those results. That was in 1889 as regards West Ham, and subsequently the bye-laws were allowed to be extended to ten thickly populated districts in Middlesex; but there was very great doubt in the first instance as to whether these bye-laws were within the powers of the very general powers of making good rule and government bye-laws, and also as to their operation, and in 1894 and onwards the Home Secretary decided that no further extensions of these bye-laws were to be allowed, and they have not been further extended." The only definite effect which could be traced to them was that the gipsies went next door, and that was not an effect—at least, the opinion was held that that was not an effect—which ought to be produced by a bye-law under the general power of good rule and government, setting one district against another. It also showed that the general power of making bye-laws should not be used against particular classes of persons. The effect of such legislation, if made general, would wipe the van-dweller off the face of the earth." In 1904 the matter came up again, ten years after the refusal to extend the bye-laws from Middlesex, and a bye-law was drawn, which the Home Secretary was advised might be valid and proper under these general powers, much more carefully restricted, and it was offered to the Middlesex County Council, but they did not approve of it, and did not adopt it. They said they would try to get powers from Parliament in a private Bill, and in 1906 the Middlesex County Council did come to Parliament with a Bill and ask for powers. Previously to 1906 several applications had been made to Parliament in private Bills for special powers against gipsies or van-dwellers, and had been all refused. In 1906 the Middlesex County Council brought up their Bill, and the effect of it was to make these bye-laws which I have just mentioned, which had been made for certain districts in Middlesex, general all over the whole county; and the police and Sanitary Committee went into the matter very thoroughly, and found that the County Council would have considerable difficulty in making out the case for any such provision, but finally agreed that in view of the existing bye-laws (their decision was very carefully confined) in certain parts of the county, which, good or bad, were in existence and had had some effect, further powers were desirable. So that they passed a clause which again was carefully guarded, although somewhat hastily settled, as a sort of compromise, at the end of the Committee."

A Summary of this Part of the Evidence.

It is conclusively shown that under existing laws all the requirements of local government are fully provided, and that restrictive legislation, whether by general enactment or by further powers of making bye-laws, would inflict unnecessary hardship upon all classes of van-dwellers. The expert evidence from the Local Government Board and the Home Office is in direct contradiction to the allegations of the witnesses for, and the promoters of, the Bill. It is shown that all that can reasonably be expected is already being done, and that to attempt more will be contrary to the spirit and working of our laws. The experts did not conceal their opinion that even if the objects of the Bill were just and reasonable the Bill itself was so badly drafted that it would fail to effect the intention of its promoters. We hope to deal in other articles with the showman's brief and expert evidence against the Bill. Our reason for dealing again with the subject is that the Select Committee held its first meeting this session on Tuesday last, June 14.

Fairs Ahead.

The fairs ahead till the end of the month are: Chipping Campden, on the Great Western; Coleford, on the Great Western and London and South-Western; Maidstone, on the South-Eastern and London, Chatham, and Dover; Newcastle-on-Tyne, on the North-Eastern and North British; Cinderford, on the Great Western and Midland; Southampton, on the London and South-Western, Great Western, and Midland and South-Western Junction; Newport Pagnell, on the London and North-Western; Selby, on the Great Northern and North-Eastern; Shipston-on-Stour, on the Great Western; Wadebridge, on the Great Western and London and South-Western; Andover, on the London and South-Western; Bromsgrove, on the Midland; Cambridge, on the Great Eastern, London and North-Western, and Great Northern and Midland Junction; St. Just, on the Great Western; Willersey, on the Great Western; Brampton, on the North-Eastern; Bridgwater, on the Great Western; Burslem, on the North Staffordshire; Coal Aston, on the Midland; Duckmanton, on the Midland; Dronfield, on the Midland; Elmton, on the Midland; Penistone, on the Great Central; Tibshelf, on the Great Central; Unston, on the Midland; Winster, on the Midland; Yeovil, on the London and South-Western and Great Western; Feckenham, on the Midland; Halifax, on the Lancashire and Yorkshire and Great Northern Joint; Pershore, on the Great Western; Bolton-by-Bowland, on the Lancashire and Yorkshire; Folkestone, on the South-Eastern; Inkberrow, on the Midland and Great Western; Saltash, on the Great Western; Belper, on the Midland; Camborne, on the Great Western; Fareham, on the London and South-Western; Reedham, on the Great Eastern; Dereham, on the Great Eastern; Peebles, on the North British and Caledonian; Roxburgh, on the North British; Fraserburgh, on the Great North of Scotland; Lydney, on the Great Western; and Ton-y-Pandy, on the Taff Vale.

Death of James Dooner.

Another of the grand old men of Showland has passed away to his well-won rest. Universally beloved, James Dooner, after a most strenuous life, became a few years ago a victim to that national scourge cancer. Everything that medical skill could effect was done for him.

After an apparently successful operation eighteen months ago he gladdened the hearts of his family and friends by being seen once again in his familiar place on the show front. His cheerfulness under the heavy affliction of his complaint was full proof of the nobility of his nature. We hear that he died, aged seventy years, with the show at Bargoed, Glamorgan. His end was peace. We are sure that to die with his beloved show, with his sons and daughters around him, was the death his soul desired. Dooner's show is famous in Wales and in the West of England. James Dooner and his family are highly esteemed in Showland, and are connected with many celebrated show families.

The Guild Chaplain on Tour.

The Rev. T. Horne will be at Mexborough Feast, Yorkshire, this week-end. On Sunday afternoon at 3.30 he will address the Yorkshire showmen at the Feast on the work of the Guild, and will hold a Guild Service at night in Tuby's show on the Feast ground.

New By-Laws for Grimsby.

The Corporation of Grimsby seeks new bye-laws. These will, if not amended, seriously hamper the show business in the famous port. The Rev. T. Horne has the matter in hand, and is taking advantage of his visit to Yorkshire to interview the Town Clerk and to lay the objections of the Showmen's Guild to the proposed bye-laws. Should the negotiations fail the Guild will petition the Local Government Board and the Home Office against the ratification of the proposed bye-laws.

Redditch Summer Carnival.

Held on the Recreation Ground. The chief amusements were P. Collins's circus, galloping horses, and steam yachts; Cullis's school of boxers; Williams's racing cycle track; Wright's and Montgomery's juvenile roundabouts and throwing games; variety stalls and novelties by Messrs. Powell, Birch, Jones, Deeks, Humphries, Hayes, and many others.

Neath.

Messrs. Sedgwick's menagerie paid their usual visit here on Monday. Cleanliness is the great feature of the genial proprietor. All the animals were in excellent condition, and went through some clever performances under the various trainers. The great feature of the evening was the daring act of Mr. Noice, the popular manager of Mr. Vent, in entering a den of full-grown lions calmly smoking his Havana. Mr. Sedgwick presented Mr. Noice with a cup amidst great applause.

Showmen's Letter-Box.

Letters await Messrs. J. W. Chipperfield, W. Biddall, H. Fossett, Anderton and Rowland, A. Purchase, and W. Purchase at The Era Office.

"Cinematograph Copyright." (The law affecting the same.) By William Jago, F.I.C., F.C.S. (Barrister-at-Law). Price 6d. Address, The Publisher, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-st., Strand, W.C.

FILM GOSSIP.

L.C.C. and Sunday Amusements.

The legal officers of the London County Council have taken the necessary preliminary steps to test the validity in the High Court of the decision by Mr. Chapman, the stipendiary, that in forbidding cinematograph exhibitions on Sunday under the terms of their licence the London County Council were acting ultra vires. Since that deliverance several picture palaces have been giving exhibitions on Sunday in the ordinary way, and contrary to the London County Council regulations.

Next Week's "Animated Gazette."

Amongst the English subjects in next week's film will be some excellent pictures of the Annual Parade of the London Scottish, the Coaching Marathon, the unveiling by Lord Desborough of the Memorial to Captain Webb at Dover, and other interesting events of the week.

New Century Film Service.

The New Century Film Service, Ltd., has been registered as a private company, with a capital of £16,000, in £1 shares, to carry on the business of lenders of films on hire, &c., and to acquire the film hire department of the New Century Animated Picture Company, Ltd. The first directors are Mr. L. A. Edmonds and Mr. S. H. Carter, both of Menston-in-Wharfedale.

Royalty and the Cinematograph.

Pathé's "Animated Gazette," the new topical film which is edited just like a newspaper, is quite a royal number this week, containing, as it does, animated pictures of King George's First Court at St. James's Palace, the King and Queen of Italy, the King and Queen of Belgium, and the Emperor of Austria, besides a large number of other pictures of topical events at home and abroad.

Fifteen Years' Popularity.

Messrs. Jasper Redfern, Ltd., the well-known photographers and animated picture experts, of Norfolk-street, Sheffield, have just completed a record run of fifteen consecutive years as film producers and exhibitors. Their picture entertainments at the Central Hall enjoy a high reputation and are well patronised, due, in a large measure, to the business ability of their energetic manager, Mr. F. W. Holmes, who has been associated with the firm for a number of years.

Pictures of the Horse Show.

At the Alhambra this week exclusive pictures of the International Horse Show at Olympia have been shown every evening. The films are specially obtained, and show clearly the exciting incidents in the jumping competitions. The scenes are being kept up to date, and the principal contests are depicted nightly.

Cinematograph Lessons.

In order to educate the public to the possible consequences of marriage when one or other of the parties suffer from tuberculosis a series of cinematogaph pictures is being shown by the American Biograph Company at the Cinemo de Paris, Bear-street. The pictures are very realistic. A young man who is engaged to be married is diagnosed by a specialist to be in a state of advanced consumption. In spite of this his fiancée insists on the wedding taking place, and he reluctantly consents. The physician, knowing that such a wedding would be a crime, tries to impress the young man by showing him a dying child, the offspring of consumptive parents. This object-lesson, however, proves unavailing, but the doctor succeeds in the end in breaking off the engagement, and the young woman finds a new lover, whom she marries.

Tariff Reform in Pictures.

An interesting series of views—lantern slides and cinematograph—accompanied by a descriptive lecture on the subject of "Tariff Reform as it will Benefit the Country," was given at the St. Thomas's Hall, Gillespie-road, by a Mr. John Bull last week. The lecturer, in speaking of the size and magnificence of the Empire, said that there was nothing that we required that could not be produced within our own boundaries. He showed a diagram which put in plain fashion the flowing-out of English wealth to pay for foreign goods. Taking a tour round the Empire, he pleasantly conducted his hearers, by the aid of pictures and comment, to various parts of the Empire. Gibraltar was first visited. He did not see why they should not encourage orange-growing in the island by taxing oranges from Spain and letting in these oranges free. Port Said, the Suez Canal, Aden, and India were next visited, and pictures of the tea-gardens in Ceylon were thrown on the screen, and then a big jump was made to Australia. Australia and New Zealand gave England a preference over every foreign country. Surely it was worth while to cultivate their trade in return. Why not tax Argentine mutton and let in Australian free? They would then keep their mutton and their money in the Empire. Dealing with the unfair taxes of to-day, he asked why they should have to pay 2½d. tax on 1d. worth of tobacco? Could they not tax American tobacco and let in Colonial tobacco at a cheaper rate? Apart from its political bearing, the lecture and pictures were excellent.

Victor McCalla, Manager.

The old Hippodrome, Ton-y-Pandy, closed on Saturday last. The new building, which is some 500yds. from the old one, will be ready for opening on Aug. 1. The services of Mr. Victor McCalla, the bioscope operator, whose pictures are quite a feature in the Rhondda Valley district, have been retained, and he will be seen at his usual post on the opening of Mr. Stone's new theatre. Mr. McCalla is a brother of the sisters Dolly and Madge McCalla.

The Bannister Howard Theatres.

The management of the Electric Theatre, Bath, has decided to put a sliding roof on to the top of the theatre, as it was thought that the place got a little overheated at times. Mr. Bannister Howard will shortly open similar electric theatres in Newport (Mon.) and in Aberdeen.

Standard Electric Theatres.

The statutory meeting of this company was held on Wednesday last. Mr. Harold Rowsell Bishop, who presided, stated that they had taken over a hall at Southampton, for which they paid £390 in cash and £500 in fully-paid shares. The hall seated 400, but from the returns which they had had the opportunity of seeing in the last three weeks they felt confident that the hall would be quite as paying as the others owned by the company. The hall at Margate would be a good proposition, as it occupied a most important position in that town. The company's receipts during the last ten weeks had been £1,674, and they had earned a dividend of 8 per cent. for the quarter. The number of shares applied for was 10,738, and the vendors took 16,800, leaving about £14,000 in share value upon which to pay dividends. The general outlook with regard to electric theatres was very rosy. Mr. Ogden Smith said the company had at present two halls open on Sunday, and the proceeds were given to the Women's Health Association. The authorities at Bristol and Southampton had granted full licences to their halls in those towns, and they were also open on Sunday.

Amalgamated Cinema Theatres.

The Amalgamated Cinematograph Theatres has been formed with a capital of £150,000 to carry on the business of amusement caterers, providers of entertainment, and cinematograph pictures, &c., and to adopt agreements with Finsbury Park Cinematograph Theatre, Ltd., Recreations, Ltd., Cinematograph Theatre, Ltd., Walham Green Cinematograph Theatre, Ltd., and M. A. Pyke. The signatories are: C. B. Wells, 184, Hydethorpe-road, Clapham Park, S.W.; S. C. T. C. Feigate, 31, Portman-avenue, East Sheen, S.W.; G. A. S. Porter, 46, Downton-avenue, Streatham Hill; B. A. Hyem, 27, Dalebury-road, Upper Tooting, S.W.; W. W. Cresswell, 9, Quality-court, Chancery-lane, W.C.; J. W. Lovett, 9, Quality-court, Chancery-lane, W.C.; and G. B. Norbury, 2, Noel-street, Colebrooke-row, N. The first directors are M. A. Pyke, R. A. Lyons, Sir Wm. Bass, Bart., J. J. Newbould, and T. M. Madden.

Opposition to Clapton Picture Palace.

Mr. G. W. H. Jones, of North Hackney, has presented a petition from the inhabitants of Lower Clapton, praying the Council not to sanction the erection of a new cinematograph hall in the Lower Clapton-road, near St. James's Church. The petition has been referred to the Theatres Committee.

Forest Gate Picture Theatre.

The splendid electric theatre at Forest Gate, which was opened some little time ago, continues to do exceptionally good business, and there is no doubt the venture has proved an eminently successful one. During the past week excellent films have been shown, and a new and popular feature in the Animatophone has been introduced. The pictures exhibited on this are wonderfully clear and very pleasing to the tastes of all who have witnessed them. An abridged series of pictures illustrating the important scenes from the well-known opera Faust, together with the singing on the gramophone of the best-known songs and choruses, has made the Animatophone a huge attraction. Other interesting films have been Baffles, the Bandit, The Clown and His Dogs, and a very amusing one, That Gentleman Has Won the Million. This latter film deals in very comical fashion with the pursuit of a man supposed to have secured a fortune by a lottery ticket.

Greenwich Electric Theatre.

Crowded houses testify to the popularity of this theatre. Last week a complimentary benefit was given to Mr. Chapman, the manager, and the receipts were handed to that gentleman as a wedding present.

A Popular Hackney Picturedrome.

The plan of providing for the summer months a varied programme, chiefly of the best pictures procurable, at the Alexandra Theatre, Hackney, continues to prove in every way highly popular; and, despite the warmer weather, satisfactory "houses" are the record each evening. The pictures of the Derby have been an unfailing source of attraction, and the remainder of the bioscopic selections include all the elements of love, fun, and sensation, as well as a number of beautiful films of wild birds on land and water. The matinée teas are still increasing in the public favour, and lovers of the weed may consume their votive offerings under the pleasantest conditions, not the least of which is the coolness at which the theatre temperature is maintained.

Hammersmith's New Picture Palace.

The new Hammersmith Palace of Varieties was opened last Wednesday afternoon by the Mayor of Hammersmith. Lord Rosmead, Mr. Walter Seymour, and other directors were present. The building accommodates 800 people, and the decorations are very artistic. The tip-up seating is by Messrs. Lazarus and Co., and the electric installation by the Cinima Electric Installation Co. Mr. Gilbert Booth was the architect, and the building work has been carried out by Messrs. Pitcher and Sons. Performances will take place daily from 2 o'clock to 10.30, at 3d. and 6d. (children 2d.). The resident-manager is Mr. Bert A. Bigney.

Electric Theatre, Tufnell Park.

Admirable pictures are always shown at this popular theatre, at the Lower Stanley Hall, Junction-road, and one can always be assured of seeing all the latest and best pictures at this cosy resort. The continuous performance seems to be very well appreciated by the patrons, and the pictures are changed every Monday and Thursday.

Bournemouth's Enterprise.

Bournemouth's new picture palace will be an imposing structure, with seating capacity for about one thousand. It will be luxuriously furnished, and will embody the acme of ease and comfort. There will be a specially constructed tea lounge, where afternoon tea may be taken by patrons of the theatre and others without entering the theatre itself. The exterior will be attractive, and the lofty façade when electrically lit will be seen for some considerable distance. The Bournemouth, Exeter, and Plymouth Bioscope Theatres, Ltd., are also acquiring theatres, which will shortly be opened in Exeter and Plymouth, where there is a great demand for this popular form of entertainment. The directors announce the issue of 25,000 £1 shares at par. The capital is £40,000 in 40,000 shares of £1 each. The company has secured the sole right to take cinematograph pictures within the enclosures at the Bournemouth Centenary Fêtes, including the International Aviators' Meeting, at which many of the principal English and foreign aviators have entered for competition. These films should prove of considerable value and be a great attraction at the company's various picture palaces. In order to take advantage of the large number of people that will come into the town from all parts of Europe and the British Isles on the occasion of the first International Aviators' Meeting in this country, which will be held in July next in connection with the Bournemouth Centenary celebrations, arrangements have been made for renting and opening by that time premises admirably suited and easily adaptable for an electric theatre, centrally situated in the square into which the principal streets converge, and which is also the main tramway centre of the town. Arrangements have been made for opening the picture palaces in Exeter and Plymouth next month.

Winter Garden, Cheltenham.

The up-to-date manager of the skating rink, Mr. Cecil Gill Smith, will open an electric theatre here next Monday at popular charges. Local films are being taken this week, causing much excitement.

Skating Rinks as Picture Palaces.

The enterprising managers of the King's and Queen's Picture Halls, Birmingham, have taken over the Smethwick Skating Rink for the summer season, and this week have arranged a splendid programme, the chief contributors to which are Kennedy's Komiks. The place was opened on Monday night to a crowded house, many being unable to gain admission. This is undoubtedly the kind of attraction required in skating rinks during the summer season.

Strand Theatre de Luxe.

The programme submitted this week at the Theatre de Luxe, 65, Strand, W.C., has included the following films:—The President's Special, Native Life in Malacca, The Horseshoe, Bradford's Claim, The Modern Music Hall, Double-Dealing, and Method in His Madness.

Coaching Marathon Pictures.

On the bioscope at the Empire Theatre a splendid film has been shown this week of the coaching marathon from Bushey Park to the Horse Show.

Londonderry Opera House.

The King's Funeral pictures shown at the Opera House, Londonderry, have been a big success. At the Opera House the management has established an excellent band and an Alleffex machine (for producing effects).

OPERA NEW AND OLD.

In matters musical, particularly where opera is concerned, affectation plays a prominent part (says a writer in the Morning Advertiser). Indeed, certain types of theatre-goer display a degree of ignorance which, though a little irritating to the genuine music-lover, affords entertainment to all who possess a sense of humour. Blissfully unconscious of the fact that Richard Strauss's and Wagner's music have a good many characteristics in common, they declare that Elektra is a dream, and that Die Walküre (which, though forty years old, in some respects is almost as modern as anything that Strauss has composed) "is hopelessly behind the times." Invite enthusiasts of this description to witness the performance of a time-honoured work in which a simple story—simply told—is set to unpretentious music, which, being written for the voice, as the technical expression has it, enables the singer to show to advantage, and ironical laughter will follow. Yet, in their heart of hearts, the snobs would infinitely rather listen to an opera which they are capable of understanding. Although wild horses cannot drag the admission from them, a study of their bored faces during the representation of the favoured effort, on which they have set the seal of approval, completely gives them away.

The intolerant younger generation, in its haste to pass judgment upon the music which charmed their forebears, fails to take into consideration those circumstances which, we are told, should alter cases. An instance is furnished by the present Covent Garden revival of La Sonnambula, which Bellini composed seventy-nine long years ago, at a time when flowing melody, an "aria" apiece for the principal characters, one or two duets, two or three concerted pieces, and—at intervals—a rousing chorus, satisfied the connoisseurs. Complex orchestration had not even reached its infancy, and it was agreed by all musicians that the composer who permitted the accompaniment to drown the voice-parts did not know his business. Consequently, the operas of the early nineteenth century, viewed from the modern standpoint, are a little antiquated.

That, however, is no reason why alleged superior people, some of whom probably are sufficiently ill-informed to imagine that the musical conditions of 1831 and 1910 are identical, should gibe as they have at the performance which took place on Thursday evening at the Royal Opera. Besides, the lyrical work in question makes a strong appeal to all whose minds are charged with happy memories of bygone operatic days, and who are glad of an opportunity to compare modern tenors with Rubini and with less remote Elvinos of the past, and Tetrazzini with Patti. There are many people for whom the work of down-to-date musical impressionists has little interest, but who, joyfully sitting through the four acts of La Sonnambula, are raised to the seventh heaven of happiness by Bellini's sympathetic and vocal score. Its tunefulness delights them; in listening to the well-remembered music they conjure up visions of an enchanted past, and, in a word, renew their youth.

As a matter of business, the syndicate is to be commended for bringing forward the work in question. The supporters of the Royal Opera include habitués of varied tastes, and the manner in which they are catered for is a matter which reflects great credit upon the Covent Garden management. The French, German, and Italian contingent are given opera in their own languages; modern French and Italian works bulk large in the répertoire, and if the achievements of Russian, Bohemian, and American composers met with a demand, they too, no doubt, would be exploited. Meanwhile, it has been proved beyond all shadow of doubt that La Sonnambula, which a reputed wit of the 'sixties burlesqued under the title of Sonnambula; or the Supper, the Sleeper, and the Merry Swiss Boy, is still a "draw," and consequently completely justifies the prominence accorded it.

TOTTENHAM PALACE.

Billed largely last week as the attraction for this week. The name of Wilkie Bard brought a larger audience than the average to Tottenham on Monday. A notice in the box-office, however, told them the comedian was unable to appear, owing to "loss of voice," and not a few went regretfully away. Mr. Mayne, however, secured Harry Champion to deputise, and lost no time in posting bills to this effect. Another artist absent was Miss Gladys Huxley. Her place was filled by Miss Queenie Finnis, and an excellent deputy she proved. Harry Champion, ever a popular "vocal" comedian, soon set all laughing and applauding his hurricane ditties. He gave his audience a sumptuous feast of "Boiled beef and carrots," well garnished with his inimitable style. "You don't want to keep on showing it" and "Down came the blind" were two others of his rib-ticklers, which set the hands of his audience going in hearty fashion. Queenie Finnis, pleasing in voice and refreshing in appearance, sang two numbers. Her coy mannerism and dainty deportment were distinctly appetising. Her first song was "Nurse, nurse, I'm feeling worse"; her second was "You want a sweetheart, not a bow-wow." George Newburn, a clever mimic, gave us a piece of Mark Sheridan, a dash of George Formby, a big slice of Whit Cunliffe, and an idea of Sam Mayo.

Ray and Calden were voted two of the most popular comedy duos Tottenham has seen for quite a long time. Their act teems with bright tit-bits, quaint notions, and funny patter. Harry Ray's burlesque water-colour painting "London by Night" elicits one of the biggest laughs of the evening, and his back falls and tumbles plentifully dispensed throughout this act are smartly executed. Miss Lily Ray comes in for a great reception for her song on "Ragtime" and its accompanying dance. Lloyd Morgan has a good policeman's song in "Wait till I'm off duty," and tastefully attired as a son of the West, immaculate and debonair, delivers a second contribution, "What a peaceable world it would be."

The Sisters Rhen, two raven-haired lassies, give an excellent sample of coon dancing, and harmonise well together in a Carolina duet. Herbert Clifton hits off, with his £1,000 voice, Daisy Dormer and Gladys Huxley to a nicety in his burlesque of serios. As "himself" he lets his voice go to fine advantage. A well-applauded turn and deservedly so was that of Hubert Clifton. The Melody Makers, comedians and vocalists, six in number, are here with their original act. Their weird fantasy "The burglar's dream" serves to introduce some rare vocalism, simultaneous piano-playing, and dancing. Miss Carlotta Levey has two good motto songs, "Stick to the bridge that carries you over" and "Dear old Pals," both with easy choruses, which are readily taken up by her hearers. The Ghost of Jerry Bundler, presented by Mr. Harold Nuttall's capable company, including Mr. Martyn Roland, bottoms the bill. It could have topped easily, as undoubtedly on the occasion of our visit it earned the biggest reception of the evening. The story is interesting, and the enactment praiseworthy. The Ghost should enjoy a long life. The pictures round off the entertainment, which is stage-managed by Mr. Harry Phillimore, from the Empire, Stratford.

"RAYNE'S POCKET DATE BOOK." Price 1s. The proceeds from the sale will be divided equally amongst the two great charities of the dramatic and musical professions, the Actors' Benevolent Fund and the Music Hall Home Fund. Address: The Publisher, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

SCOTCH COMICS.

In the "Looker-On" page of the Glasgow News appears the following interesting remarks concerning Scotch comics:—

Scotch comedians have of late gone home so much to the great heart of the Anglo-Saxon people that their tours extend throughout the Empire; they are better paid than statesmen, and apparently more beloved. It is a great mystery. For their songs and their "business" are very much the songs and the "business" of the Scotch comedians of thirty years ago, and the Scotch comedian of that date had to be content with little more than a local reputation and a very small salary. Leaving aside the casual exponent of the vernacular Comic Muse at free-and-easies, the race, so far as I can learn, appears to have started in Glasgow with John Drummond, who gave concerts in a hall in Nelson-street, City, and sang "The Drygate Brig" and "The Auld Drucken Howdie." It was there that Jamie Houston as a lad opened his career in song and recitation with "The Cork Leg," "Beautiful Biddy of Sligo," "Tell's Speech," "The Ruined Cottage," and "Macbeth to the Dagger," and discovered himself a Scotch comedian of the type of to-day with a song of his own composition—"The West-End Park." "There was nothing in it," as he says himself in his Autobiography, "but it went well, as it suited the times. Already the elements of Scotch comic songs were conventionalised—any old thing about a lass and a glass and the ran-dan served the purpose. James Houston's "I lo'e a lassie" was:—

"My bonnie Scotch lass none can surpass,
In figure and form as light as a fairy;
'Mong the girls there are few, between me and you,
So handsome and modest, so constant and true.
Eyes so bright that shine by night;
Hair so light and teeth so white;
To see her ankle, what a mite!
My trig little bonnie Scotch lass."

The Scotch comic song, as London thrills to it to-day, is peculiarly a product of the Glasgow accent, and the sentiment and fun of it are pure Glaswegian as fun and sentiment used to be understood at the Harmonie Concerts, otherwise the "Saturday Bursts." No modern Scotch music hall song ever came from Edinburgh and the East of Scotland; no Edinburgh comedian has made a great reputation, a fact I point out with pride to my Edinburgh friends who brag of their Wagner performances. The gaiety of England, in short, depends upon us, and we were the first to demonstrate to them the inherent and excruciating comedy of the kilt and the wiggly walking-stick. One gets absurdly old and loses touch with the finer issues of life, so that I am not certain whether there are Saturday Bursts now or not, but if there are, I am sure there will still be comedians there keeping up the traditions of Scotch humour.

It was at the Bursts in the National Halls on the South-side I saw Harry Linn, my first Scotch comedian in a kilt. He was celebrated for his "Jamie the Cairter Lad," and "Oh! Bonnie Scotland, what I'm sufferin' for ye noo!" but his chef d'œuvre was "Jock Macraw," which he sang in the uniform of the 42nd, there being no law at the time to prevent a burlesque of the Queen's uniform. To do Linn justice, he did nothing to make the uniform ridiculous apart from wearing it, but he made fun of his own exceeding thinness. "Jock Macraw" has recently been republished, and is very popular, I am assured, especially in the Colonies.

Linn undoubtedly made his own words and music, a versatility most Scotch comedians have laid claim to ever since, though, as a matter of fact, their songs are nearly all made by obscure men in Glasgow. If Alick Melville, or Tom Johnston, the Abercrombie-street barber-bard, had had royalties on the ditties they composed for Scotch comedians, they would be wealthy men. They have outlived the popularity of their songs, as they have outlived the singers of them. To Johnston, I fancy, J. C. Macdonald was indebted for most of the songs which pleased his public best. I am in shameful darkness regarding the Scotch comedians of to-day, except when I have made their acquaintance on the gramophone, so that my conviction that J. C. Macdonald was as good as the best of them is proffered with due reserve. He had what seems to be requisite to a London success with Scotch comedy—a strain of obvious sentiment; and a Tivoli audience, I am sure, would be sympathetic to his

"Wi' cheeks sae red and rosy, and een sae bonny blue."

There were two songs of Macdonald's which, by an ingenious combination and transmutation, have helped to make another man's fortune. Quarter of a century ago Macdonald was singing "I love the lassies, the bonnie, bonnie lassies,
I love the lassies short and tall,
Whether dark or fair be the colour o' their hair,
I love the lassies yin and all."

If the intelligent reader takes "I love the lassies" as a hint, he will be surprised to find how immediately they suggest one of the most popular Scotch serio-comic songs of the day.

Will the extraordinary vogue of the Scotch comedian on the music hall stage long continue? There is no audience more fickle; and once a darling exponent of any special kind of fun has dropped out, the public gives its heart to something totally different. The Lion Comique is gone; the "Sisters" and the knockabout pair and the Irish comedian have had their day, and another generation will doubtless wonder what we saw to laugh at in the dialect muse.

THE

LAW OF COPYRIGHT

IN

KINEMATOGRAPH

PICTURES.

BY

WILLIAM JAGO, F.I.O., F.O.S.

Barrister-at-Law.

Price SIXPENCE.

Published at "THE ERA" Offices,

5, Tavistock Street, Strand, W.C.

REVISED SCALE OF CHARGES FOR

ARTISTS WANTING ENGAGEMENTS.
MANAGERS WANTING ARTISTS.

THREE LINES (ABOUT TWENTY WORDS), ONE SHILLING.
Each Additional Line (Six Words or less), Sixpence.

This Scale does not apply to "Trade" Advertisements in these Columns.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION (Post Free).

	UNITED KINGDOM.	FOREIGN
One Quarter	6s. 6d.	8s.
Half Year	13s. 0d.	16s.
One Year	26s. 0d.	32s.

The Offices of "The Era" are
"THE ERA" BUILDINGS,
5, TAVISTOCK-STREET, STRAND, W.C.
For the convenience of Advertisers, Replies to Advertisements are received. They can remain until called for, or be forwarded by Post if postage be arranged.

NO STAMPS.

Advertisers and subscribers are politely requested to forward Cheques or Postal Orders in payment of their Advertisements and Subscriptions, crossed "Lloyd's Bank, Ltd." Remittances should be made payable to "The Era," Limited, and addressed,

THE PUBLISHER,
The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-st., Strand, W.C.
"Wire," "The Era, London."
"Ring-up," 4747 or 1433 Central.

IN case of the non-delivery of "THE ERA" by the First Post, the Publisher will be greatly obliged if Advertisers will forward their Postal Wrappers with the time of delivery marked upon them.

COMPANIES WANTED.

TWENTY WORDS, ONE SHILLING.
Each Additional Six Words, Sixpence.

MILTON BODE and EDWARD COMPTON'S THEATRES.

WANTED, First-class Companies, for THEATRE ROYAL, BRIGHTON.
July 11, 18, Aug. 15, Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 3, 31, Feb. 13, 20, 27, on.
DALSTON THEATRE, LONDON, N.E.
Sept. 12, 26, Oct. 10, Nov. 21, Jan. 23, Feb. 6, on.
COUNTY THEATRE, READING.
Aug. 15, 29, Sep. 5, 12, 19, 26, on.
OPERA HOUSE, LEICESTER.
Aug. 29, Oct. 31, Nov. 21, 28, Dec. 12, Feb. 6, on.
ROYALTY THEATRE, CHESTER.
Nov. 14, Feb. 27, March 6, on.
GRAND THEATRE, WOLVERHAMPTON.
July 18, Aug. 1, Sept. 5, 12, 19, Oct. 10, 24, on.
THEATRE ROYAL, HUDDERSFIELD.
Aug. 1, Sep. 5, Oct. 3, 10, 17, Nov. 21, Dec. 12, on.
OPERA HOUSE, NORTHAMPTON.
Sep. 5, 19, 26, Oct. 17, Nov. 7, on.
THEATRE ROYAL, LEICESTER.
June 27, July 4, Sep. 12, Oct. 17, 24, 31, Nov. 14, Dec. 19, on.
Address, MILTON BODE, Theatre, Reading.

PIER THEATRE, EASTBOURNE.
This Theatre will in future be booked by Mr. MILTON BODE, and all communications re dates should be addressed to him at COUNTY THEATRE, READING. All other communications to G. Hayes, Pier, Eastbourne.
A full week may be booked in conjunction with Pier Theatre, Hastings (three nights each).
WANTED, Companies for July 18 (6 nights), July 28 (3 nights), Aug. 15 (2 nights), Aug. 29, Sept. 5, 12, 22, 26, on.
Apply MILTON BODE, Theatre, Reading.

WANTED, First-class Attractions, for COUNTY THEATRE, BEDFORD,
Aug. 1, 8, onwards, with exceptions.
GRAND THEATRE, LUTON,
Aug. 1, 8, onwards, with exceptions.
THEATRE ROYAL, CANTERBURY.
Aug. 15, 22, onwards, with exceptions.
Address, E. G. FALCON, County Theatre, Bedford.

WANTED, First-class Attractions, for
MARINA THEATRE, LOWESTOFT,
Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 6 (3), and Easter.
NEW ROYAL THEATRE, KING'S LYNN.
Aug. 4, 11, 15, 22, 29, Sept. 5 and 26.
EMPIRE THEATRE, SOUTHEND.
Dec. 12, 19, Jan. 2, Feb. 6, on, and Easter.
HIPPODROME THEATRE, SHEERNESS.
Aug. 4, 15, Sept. 19, Nov. 28, Dec. 12, 19.
Address, B. PAREZER, Proprietor and Manager, Marina Theatre, Lowestoft.

KELLY'S THEATRE,
KELLY'S THEATRE,
Paradise-street, just off Church-street, Liverpool.
WANTED, First-class Attractions for July 11 and Aug. 15.
Wire or write to
W. W. KELLY,
New Theatre Royal, Birkenhead.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE, MIDDLESBROUGH.
GRAND OPERA HOUSE, MIDDLESBROUGH.
One of the handsomest Theatres in the county. Holding capacity 3,500. Visited by all the biggest Stars and Companies.
WANTED, Aug. 1, Bank Holiday, onwards, with exceptions, including Aug. 15 (Race Week).

CASTLE THEATRE, STOCKTON.
This handsome Theatre will reopen Aug. Holding capacity 3,000.
WANTED, Aug. 1, onwards, with exceptions, including Aug. 15 (Race Week).
All communications to
J. CHAS. IMESON,
Theatre Royal, Middlesbrough.

WANTED, First-class Attractions, for GRAND THEATRE, WEST HARTLEPOOL, Aug. 15, 22, and few later dates.
THEATRE ROYAL, NORTH SHIELDS,
Sept. 5.
GRAND THEATRE, LANCASTER,
Aug. 22, Sept. 15 (three nights).
OPERA HOUSE, WORKINGTON,
Aug. 8, 15, 29 (three nights).
THEATRE ROYAL, WHITEHAVEN,
Aug. 22 (three nights), Sept. 12 (3).
STANLEY ROGERS, T. R., North Shields.

THE QUEEN'S THEATRE, DUBLIN.
Rebuilt at a cost of £15,000.
WANTED, First-class Companies, June 27 (wire), July 4 and 18, and various onwards.
Address,
F. W. MARRIOTT WATSON, as above.

WINTER GARDENS, NEW BRIGHTON.
The Premier Place of Amusement.
WANTED, Big Attractions. First Vacant Date, Oct. 3. Oct. 17, and onwards, with exceptions. Musical or Farcical Comedy preferred. Must be First-class. Address, MANAGERS.

ROYALTY THEATRE, MORECAMBE.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, June 27, July 11, 18, 25, and Aug. 15.
Address,
CHAS. M. JULIAN, General Manager.

LYRIC THEATRE, LIVERPOOL.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, Share or Certainty.
All must play Twice Nightly.
HENRY C. ARNOLD, Managing-Director.

THEATRE ROYAL, PRESTON.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, Aug. 15 and 22, and several good Autumn Dates.
Apply, J. ALBAN NEWTON.

WORTHING THEATRE ROYAL.
One of the Prettiest Theatres on the South Coast. Rebuilt and enlarged. Holding £100.
WANTED, First-class Companies, Three Nights, One Matinée. First vacant date Aug. 4. Apply, C. ADOLF SEEBOLD.

WANTED, for the Prince of Wales Theatre, Salford, First-class Cos. for July 18, Aug. 1, 8, and intermediate on. E. B. GOULDEN.

COMPANIES WANTED.

WANTED, First-class Companies. Wanted, First-class Companies.

THEATRE ROYAL, WORCESTER.
THEATRE ROYAL, WORCESTER.
Vacant Sept. 19, Nov. 7, Dec. 5, 12, 19, onward, with exceptions.

EMPIRE, WORCESTER.
EMPIRE, WORCESTER.
Pictures and Bijou Vaudeville.
All arrangements complete at present.

THEATRE ROYAL, TON-Y-PANDY.
THEATRE ROYAL, TON-Y-PANDY.
Vacant July 11, 18, 25, Sept. 12, Nov. 7, onward, with exceptions.

NEW THEATRE, BARRY.
NEW THEATRE, BARRY.
This magnificent Theatre now nearing completion. Undoubtedly one of the finest theatres in Wales, up-to-date in every detail. Holding capacity over 2,000. Stage 62 by 37. Equipped with every modern stage contrivance. Superb plant of electric light, 500 ampères available. This Theatre caters for a very large population, standing right in the centre of the populous towns of Cadoxton, Barry Dock, Barry, and Barry Island, the latter being full of visitors during the summer season.
Wanted, Big Musical Attraction for Opening Date, in July, also for Aug. 1, Sept. 19, Nov. 28, Dec. 12, 19.

Bookings already include "Silver King," "Fatal Wedding," "Florodora," "Miss Hook of Holland," "Merry Widow," "When Knights Were Bold," "Gay Gordons," &c., &c.
BARRY ELECTRIC THEATRE DE LUXE.
Pictures and Bijou Vaudeville.
All arrangements complete at present.

Wanted, Dates, "ALADDIN," "BABES IN THE WOOD," "PUSS IN BOOTS."
All communications,
ARTHUR CARLTON,
Theatre Royal, Worcester.
Telegrams, "Carlton, Worcester."

WANTED, Good Company, Aug. 1. Please quote lowest certainty.
ARTHUR CARLTON, Theatre, Worcester.

QUEEN'S THEATRE, FARNWORTH, BOLTON.
WANTED, Powerful Attractions, June 27 (?), July 11 (?), 18 (?), 25, Aug. 1, 8.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

EMPIRE THEATRE, WEST HARTLEPOOL.
Managing-Director, RICHARD THORNTON.
The most gorgeous and up-to-date Theatre out of London.
Bookings include George Edwardes' own Company, in "The Dollar Princess," Moody-Manners Opera Co., Seymour Hicks and Co., Great Pantomime Production, "Aladdin"; other important engagements pending.
WANTED, No. 1 Musical or West End Attractions, for one or two vacant dates.
London Stars playing North could arrange Flying Matinées. All communications to HARRY ESDEN, Empire, Sunderland.

WANTED, First-class Attractions for Aug. and Sept., at all Theatres.
Apply, Mr. ROBERT ARTHUR, 24A, Regent-st., S.W.

PALACE THEATRE, NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.
WANTED, Strong Dramatic Attractions, Aug. 29, Sept. 5, Oct. 24, Nov. 7.
Apply, T. W. ROWE.

OPERA HOUSE, DUNFERMLINE.
WANTED, High-class Company, Aug. 15, 22, Sept. 1, 5, 19, on; nothing but the best can be entertained. W. E. POTTS.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SWINDON.
WANTED, Musical and Dramatic Attractions, July 11, 18, 25, Aug. 1, 29, Sept. 5, 12, 26, Oct. 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, on, with exceptions. Also Variety Combinations, Musical and Dramatic Attractions, first three nights, Garrison T., Tidworth, July 4, 25, Aug. on. ALFRED MANNERS, as above.

PIER PAVILION, HASTINGS.
WANTED, Wanted, Companies.
Mr. Walter Maxwell is now booking First-class Attractions from July 4 for the Season.
Three Nights for preference.
The week may be completed at the Pier, Eastbourne.
Address all communications,
WALTER MAXWELL, 52, Bedford Court-mansions, London, W.C. 'Phone 4,270 Gerrard.

WANTED, First-class Attractions, OPERA HOUSE, TUNBRIDGE WELLS, July 18 (3 or 6 nights).
GRAND THEATRE, SOUTHAMPTON, July 25.
GAIETY THEATRE, DUBLIN, Aug. 1.
OPERA HOUSE, CORK, Aug. 1, 8 (?), 22.
Apply, F. MOUILLOT, 1, King-st., Covent Garden, W.C.

THEATRE ROYAL, STOCKPORT.
WANTED, First-class Dramatic Companies, for Aug. 1 and 22.
Address, CHARLES REVILL.
VENTOR AND CO., Variety Agents. 'Phone 7873 Central. Tel., "Executive." Address, 24, Devonshire-street, All Saints, Manchester.

WANTED, First-class Dramatic, Musical, or Variety Attractions, for Scotland's Provincial Theatres, for Aug. and Autumn, 1910.
Apply, R. C. BUCHANAN, 6, John-st., Adelphi, W.C.

GRAND THEATRE, STONEHOUSE, PLYMOUTH.
WANTED, High-class Popular Dramas, Musical Comedies, fortnightly Pantomimes, &c., all must play twice nightly. Applicants must have good stock of pictorial printing. Letters in first instance, with terms, share or certainty, to be addressed to Mr. HERBERT TAYLOR, Booking Department, United County Theatres, Ltd., Broadmead House, Panton-st., Haymarket, London, S.W.

WANTED, Good Companies for (3 nights) Sept. 1, 2, 3, 12, 19, 26, on, with exceptions.
PHILLIPS, Coliseum, Aberystwyth.

WANTED, good Company, Musical Comedy, Dramatic or Variety, July 18, probable Flying Week. J. W. CHAPMAN, Grand T., Doncaster.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, CARLISLE.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, A few weeks vacant in July and Aug.
Apply, THOS. COURTICE.

NOTICE.
In reply to many enquiries, I hereby beg to inform the Profession generally that it is my intention to run the Palace Theatre, Gloucester, and Palace Theatre, Porth, on Dramatic Lines during the coming season, consequently I shall not be able to take over any of Poole's, Ltd., Bookings.

WANTED, good Musical Comedies, Dramas, and Big Attractions to communicate with WILL SMITHSON, Empire, Barnsley.

GAIETY THEATRE, BURNLEY.
WANTED, good Dramatic Companies, July 18, 25, Aug. 1 and 8.
Address, Mrs. T. CULLEN.

THE NEW THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, BLACKBURN.
The most Magnificent Theatre in East Lancashire.
WANTED, High-class Attraction, Aug. 15, 22, 29, and Sept. 5.
A few Spring Dates possibly vacant.
Address all communications re dates to HARRY YORKE, Managing-Director.

THEATRE ROYAL, CROOK.
Closed for important structural alterations.
WANTED, Companies, September, on.
WALLACE DAVIDSON, Globe Hotel, Bristol.

WANTED, First-class Companies, twice nightly.
July 4, Bury and Dewsbury.
OTTO C. CULLING, Theatre Royal, Bury.

COMPANIES WANTED.

Booked by
MOSS' EMPIRES, LIMITED.
BORDESLEY PALACE THEATRE,
GRAND THEATRE, NOTTINGHAM,
BROADWAY THEATRE, NEW CROSS,
and
GRAND THEATRE GLASGOW.

WANTED, Musical Comedy or very Special Attractions.

BROADWAY THEATRE, NEW CROSS.
Vacant Sept. 26, Feb. 13, 20, March 6, 13 (?), 20, 27, April 10, May 1, 8, 15, 22, 29.
Several Autumn (1911) Dates.

BORDESLEY PALACE THEATRE.
Vacant Sept. 5, Nov. 14 (?), 28, Dec. 12 (?), Jan. 9, 23, Feb. 13, 20, March 20, 27, April 10. May 1, 8, 15, 22, 29, June 5, and several Autumn (1911) dates. Good Pantomime for two weeks at Christmas.

GRAND THEATRE, NOTTINGHAM.
Vacant Aug. 1 (?), Oct. 31 (?), Nov. 14, 28, Feb. 20 (Pantomime), 27 (?), April 3, 10, 17, 24, May 1, 8 (?), 15, 22, 29, June 5. Several Autumn (1911) dates.

GRAND, GLASGOW.
Vacant Aug. 1, 8, 15, 22, 29, Sept. 5, 12, 19, Oct. 3, 10, 17, 24, Nov. 7, 14.

Good Stock Companies Wanted for all Theatres. Address, with full particulars, terms, &c., where can be seen, to
MOSS' EMPIRES, LIMITED,
Cranbourn-mansions, Cranbourn-street, W.C.
Envelopes marked "Theatres."

THE SPA, WHITBY.
WANTED, good Companies, July 28, 29, 30, Aug. 1 (owing to transfer), Sept. 8, 9, 10.

THEATRE ROYAL, LINCOLN.
Wanted, good Dramas, twice nightly, Aug. 1 and 8, Light Attractions first three nights of week, Sept. 5 (?), and one or two Autumn Dates.

CORPORATION THEATRE, CHESTERFIELD.
Vacant Sept. 12, 19, Oct. 10, and on.

KING'S THEATRE, GAINSBOROUGH.
Vacant Aug. 8, 15, Sept. 19, and on.
W. PAYNE SEDDON, The Spa, Whitby.

WEYMOUTH NEW THEATRE.
One of the most charming Theatres in the Provinces. Holds £120 at ordinary prices. Lit throughout by electric light. No other Theatre within radius of thirty miles. Drawing capacity 60,000.
WANTED, First-class Companies, July 11, 18 (3), Aug. 4, 5, 6 (?), 11, 12, 13 (?), Sept. 1, 2, 3 (?), 8, 9, 10 (?), Oct. 10, 24, Nov. 7, 21, on.
All coms. re dates to London Representatives, JAY and MANN, 16-11, Jermyn-street, S.W.
All other coms. direct to W. R. WALLIS.

ROYAL ARTILLERY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, WOOLWICH.
Lessee and Manager, JULES RICHEUX.
WANTED, First-class Attractions for Aug. 22 (?), 29 (?), Sept. 12, 19, Oct. 3, 10, 24, Nov. 14, 21, Christmas (three weeks for Pantomime). Bookings: D'Oyly Carte, Moody-Manners, and Turner's Operas, "Merry Widow," "Arcadians," "Our Miss Gibbs," "Dairymaids," "Gay Gordons," "Miss Hook," "Cingalee," "Country Girl," "Flag Lieutenant," "Knights Were Bold," "Raffles," &c. Re dates direct to JAY and MANN, 10-11, Jermyn-street, S.W.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.
WANTED, Strong Dramatic Attractions new to Stratford, July 11. Apply,
A. E. ABRAHAMS, 73, Romford-road, Stratford, E.

WANTED, First-class Companies, Aug. 1, 15, 22, 29, Sept. 12 (three nights), 19, Oct. 3, 10, 24, and 31, Nov. 14, 21, 28. Terms, &c., to Managing Director, Theatre Royal, Exeter.

WANTED, Theatre Royal, Margate (not Drama) Season Dates, July 25, Aug. 29, Sept. 12, 19, on. Apply, WEATHERBY'S Agency, 3, Bedford-street, W.C.

GRAND THEATRES, CHORLEY and RADCLIFFE.
WANTED, Strong Répertoire Co., seven nights July 16 (Chorley Holidays), also July 25, Aug. 1, 15, 22 on; also Aug. 8, 15, on, Grand, Radcliffe. SANTE, Radcliffe.

ABERYSTWYTH ROYAL PIER PAVILION.
WANTED, First-class Attractions.
Apply, J. H. ROWE,
C/o A. J. Hughes, Town Clerk, Aberystwyth.

WANTED, for Grand Theatre, Nelson, First-class Attractions for July 18, 25, Aug. 1, 15 to 29, Oct. 3, 17, 24, Nov. 14, 28. Address, HORNER, Victoria Theatre, Burnley.

DOUGLAS, GRAND THEATRE.
The Premier Theatre in the Isle of Man.
WANTED, Known, through re-arrangement, the season date Sept. 12, vacant for First-class Company. Address,
JAS. BUCK, Sec., 30, Brown-street, Manchester.

GRAND THEATRE, LLANDUDNO.
WANTED, First-class Attractions only, Aug. 4 (three nights).
Address, The MANAGER.

WANTED, Good Company, Dramatic, Variety, or Musical Comedy, Aug. 8, 9, and 10 (three nights) to precede Compton Comedy Company.
J. W. CHAPMAN, Grand Theatre, Doncaster.

COLISEUM THEATRE, WHITLEY BAY.
Holding capacity, 3,000.
WANTED, good Musical Comedy, Comic Opera, and Drama, August Bank Holiday. Splendid stage. Every accommodation.
Full particulars to Management.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, WIDNES.
WANTED, First-class Companies, for Aug. 15, Sept. 19, Oct. 3, 10, and 24, and onwards, with exceptions.
Address, THOS. SWINTON.

THEATRE ROYAL, BURY ST. EDMUNDS.
Reopens first week in August, with THE CASTELLANO OPERA COMPANY.
WANTED, Attractions, for vacant Autumn dates, three nights weekly.
Address, MAX JEROME,
238, Castellain-mansions, Maida Vale, W.

ROYALTY THEATRE, LLANELLY.
WANTED, good Panto., Jan. 1, 8, or 16; also sound Attractions for March.
Apply, ALICE ROCHEFORTE, as above.

WANTED, Strong Dramatic Attractions, Nov. 21, 28.
WILLIAM COUTTS, Star Theatre, Swansea.

KING'S THEATRE, GREENOCK.
WANTED, for Re-opening of Season, First-class Musical and Dramatic Attractions, Aug. 1, 8, 15, 22, 29, Sept. 5, 12 (Holiday date), Oct. 24, Nov., Dec., onwards, with exceptions.
Address, A. B. and J. J. WRIGHT.

WANTED, Attractions, Touring Scotland, to Book Theatre Royal, Inverness, open September, onwards. Manager, CAMERON BURGESS.

KING'S THEATRE, SEACOMBE.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, Aug. 8, Sept. 19, Oct. 3, 10.
Good Pantomimes for Christmas.
Apply, JAMES KIERNAN.

TOWN HALL THEATRE, CROMER.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, two or three nights, for Splendid Season's dates, July 25, 28, Aug. 22, 25, 29, Sept. 5 and 15. Hunstanton to precede or follow. BARING BROS., Cheltenham.

WANTED, for "Pretoria," Okehampton (main line Exeter-Plymouth), Companies, two nights. Hall holds 300; scenery. E. WILKINSON, Whimple-street, Plymouth.

MANAGERS, PLEASE NOTE.
WANTED, all holding Contracts with the Great Raymond, or desirous of Booking the Great Raymond, to communicate direct with MAURICE F. RAYMOND,
Sole Proprietor and Manager, as per route.
June 20, Empire Hippodrome, Ashton-under-Lyne.

COMPANIES WANTED.

IMPORTANT SOUTH COAST CIRCUIT.
WANTED, High-class Companies, DEVONSHIRE PARK T., EASTBOURNE,
The Premier Theatre, open all the year.
Oct. 17, 31 (?), Nov. 7, 14, 24 (3 nights with Folkestone).
GAIETY THEATRE, HASTINGS.
Companies booked at, or wishing to visit, this old-established and successful Theatre are reminded that they must not book elsewhere, or permit their plays to be performed in Hastings, St. Leonards, or Bexhill.
All the Leading Attractions Secured.
Vacant July 18, Sept. 29 (3), Oct. 3, 10, 24, 31.
PLEASURE GARDENS T., FOLKESTONE.
Oct. 3, 10 (?), 24, 31, Nov. 7, 21 (3 nights with Eastbourne.
Apply for all above,
H. W. Rowland, Theatre, Folkestone.

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, BARROW-IN-FURNESS.
Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson.
The Premier Theatre in the Town, with a holding capacity greatly in excess of any other Theatre in the Town.
Booked by Mr. George Edwardes, Mrs. D'Oyly Carte, George Dance, Mr. Arthur Hart, Mr. Frank Curzon, Mr. Fred Mouillot, Messrs. Sidney Cooper and Lyn Harding, Messrs. Paumier and Howard, Mr. R. Courtneidge, Mr. J. W. Turner, &c., &c.
WANTED, First-class London Successes, for July 4, 18, 25, Aug. 1, on, with exceptions.
All applications for dates to Hugh Robertson, Theatre Royal, Jarrow.

MINERS' THEATRE, ASHINGTON, NORTHUMBERLAND, NEAR NEWBIGGIN-BY-THE-SEA.
Lessee and Manager, Arthur C. Moody.
WANTED, Wanted, Wanted,
Powerful Attraction for Opening Date, Aug. 2, and various onwards.

The above Theatre is now being thoroughly renovated, and when completed will be one of the most comfortable and up-to-date Theatres in the North. Managers may with confidence book Blyth and Ashington. Both Theatres are under the personal supervision of
Yours faithfully,
Arthur C. Moody.
All correspondence to Blyth pro tem.
Managers holding Contracts please communicate.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, BLYTH-BY-SEA.
See Page 15 of "The Era," dated May 7, 1910.
New Theatrical Watering-place.
WANTED, Powerful Attractions, for Aug. 8, Sept. 12, and Oct. 24 (?), and 1911.
All communications,
Arthur C. Moody, Blyth-by-Sea.

CATLIN'S NEW ARCADIA, SCARBOROUGH.
The most magnificent Theatre and Concert Pavilion in England. Seating for over 2,000, and with standing will accommodate 3,000; magnificent Scenery, electric light, competent staff. This Theatre is situated right on the sea front, and is built so that in a few minutes can be entirely Al Fresco. Full Dramatic Licence.
WANTED, Known, a few vacant dates for Flying Matinées, also Orchestras, Concert Parties for Sundays in July and August; no vacancies for evenings. Apply Mr. Dudley Harcourt, Manager for Mr. W. Catlin, "Arcadia," Scarborough.

PALACE THEATRE, TYNEMOUTH.
WANTED, for Summer Season, 1911, First-class Musical Comedy Productions.
Rosen and Bliss, 12, Henrietta-street, London, W.C.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE, BARROW-IN-FURNESS.
WANTED, First-class Costume Concert Parties (à la "The Follies"). July 18, 25, Aug. 1, 8. Seasons of one two, three weeks, or more, can be arranged. Apply, Calvert Routledge.

THEATRES WANTED.

TOM H. TAYLOR'S COMPANIES.
"CAN A WOMAN BE GOOD?"
WANTED, Important Theatres, Aug. 1, Nov. 14, 21, and Xmas.
Grand Autumn Production,
"THE CRIMINAL'S BRIDE,"
Written by Edward Marris.
Wanted, Important Theatres, Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 3, 10.
Tom H. Taylor, Bordesley Palace, Birmingham.

"THE GIRL WHO LOST HER CHARACTER."
WANTED, Dec. 26, Dec. 26.
Douglas Bruce,
14, Bloomsbury-street, London, W.C.

"THE FEMALE SWINDLER."
WANTED, July 11.
Douglas Bruce,
14, Bloomsbury-street, London, W.C.

ANDIE CAINE'S PANTOMIMES.
"CINDERELLA," "LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD," "BABES IN THE WOOD." Thanks Percy Broadhead, Esq., for Eight Dates. Clean, smart, funny, and bright. Once or twice nightly. Theatres or Music Halls. Productions settled.
WANTED, for few Remaining Vacancies (Lancs. or Yorks.) Address, J. L. Barry, 49, Sidney-street, North Shields.

"A ROYAL DIVORCE."
"A ROYAL DIVORCE."
"A ROYAL DIVORCE."
WANTED, for this Phenomenal Success, Weeks of Sept. 5 and Oct. 3.
Wire or write to
W. W. Kelly,
New Theatre Royal, Birkenhead.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."
"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."
WANTED, Theatres, Aug. 22, Sept. 5, Oct. 10, on, Big Company,
Chorus, Specialities.
New Plant of Scenery and Printing.
Charles Harrington,
Theatre Royal, Bury.

"DARE-DEVIL DOROTHY."
"DARE-DEVIL DOROTHY."
ONCE OR TWICE NIGHTLY.
WANTED, July 28 (three nights), South, Aug. 4 (three nights), South), Sept. 5 (?), 12.
All communications, J. W. Cordiner, Managers' Club, Savoy Mansions, W.C.

"THE PRIVATE SECRETARY."
EUGENE C. STAFFORD'S No. 1 CO.
WANTED, for this Wonderful Moneymaker, Sept. 26, Oct. 3, 17 Nov. 7, 14, 21, and Dec. 26. Bishopsdale Biddenden, Kent.

"SILVER KING" CO.
WANTED, Dates, Oct. 17, 24, 31, Nov. 7, 21, also Spring, 1911.
Address, G. M. Polini, 93, Penge-rd., London, S.E.

WANTED, First-class Theatres, "A MESSAGE FROM MARS," (No. 1 Company), Oct. 17 (?)
(North or Midland),
also Xmas week at big Theatre.
Apply,
F. Mouillot, 1, King-st., Covent Garden, W.C.

WANTED, June 27,
"Caste," G. W. Anson as Eccles.
Cora Anson, 28, Werter-road, Putney.
June 20, New Theatre, Cardiff.

"LES CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE."
WANTED, Aug. 11, 12, and 13, for the above to follow Llandudno.
Apply, Milton Bode, Theatre, Reading.

WANTED, July 18, 25, Aug. 1, for London Star, in Répertoire.
Haldane Crichton, New Theatre, Oxford.

MR. OSWALD CRAY'S
Magnificent Production of S. Buchanan Rogerson and Guy Thorne's Wonderful Play,
"WHEN IT WAS DARK"
(by arrangement with T. Morton Powell).
The most sensational Play of Modern Times. Refer any Manager visited re Scenery, Company, Printing, and Business done.
WANTED, Sept. 12, Oct. 10, 17, and 24, Nov. 14. Fast filling Autumn and Spring.
Oswald Cray, Theatre Royal, Bristol.

THEATRES WANTED.

MORTON POWELL ENTERPRISES.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates.

"DRIVING A GIRL TO DESTRUCTION."
By Mrs. Morton Powell.
Oct. 17, 31, Nov. 7, 14, Dec. 5.
Morton Powell, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

"BROUGHT TO RUIN."
by Mrs. Morton Powell.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates.
"BROUGHT TO RUIN."
Sept. 26, Nov. 21, Dec. 12.
Morton Powell, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

"A GIRL'S TEMPTATION."
By Mrs. Morton Powell.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates.
"A GIRL'S TEMPTATION."
July 25, Aug. 8, Nov. 14, 28.
Morton Powell, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

"FROM MILL GIRL TO MILLIONAIRESS."
By Mrs. Morton Powell.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates.
"FROM MILL GIRL TO MILLIONAIRESS."
Oct. 3, 10, Dec. 12, Jan. 9.
Morton Powell, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

MR. AND MRS. F. G. KIMBERLEY'S COS.
"TWO LITTLE DRUMMER BOYS."
WANTED, June 27, July 4, Aug. 1.
June 27, July 4, Aug. 1.
Many thanks to Wm. Morton, Esq., for Contracts.
"HER SECRET LOVER."
"HER SECRET LOVER."
Wanted, Sept. 12, Sept. 12.
This play now acknowledged to be one of the finest on the road. Many thanks to Wm. Morton, Esq., J. F. Elliston, Esq., E. Tilney, Esq., for return Contracts; guaranteed one of the strongest Casts on the road, including Miss Laura Walker, Miss Flora Leslie, Mr. Stephen Langton, &c.; also vacant Oct. 10.
"THE POWER OF THE KING."
"THE POWER OF THE KING."
Wanted, July 25, July 25.
Entirely new Scenery, new Uniforms; special cast, including Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley, Chas. Whitlock, Edie Macklin, &c. This play guaranteed to be one of the most superb productions on the road. Thanks J. F. Elliston, Esq., for Contracts; P. Broadhead, Esq., J. Coulson, Esq. Managers needing well-mounted and good shows wire or write
F. G. Kimberley, T. R., Bolton;
next, T. R., St. Helens.

"THE SORROWS OF SATAN,"
and
"NANA, THE RAGE OF PARIS."
WANTED, June 27 and July 4, Various Summer Dates.
Magnificent opening at Clapham.
Tuesday, 15s. less.
Wednesday, £13 above Monday.
Wire, Loie Esmond, Shakespeare T., Clapham.
June 20, T. R., Colchester.

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR HINTON AND TRAVIS GREEN
present their No. 1 Co. in
"HER FATAL MARRIAGE."
WANTED, August Bank Holiday, Nov. 14 (?), Dec. 12, Xmas,
and various Spring, 1911.
JERROLD HEATHER as Zaco.
HILDA SHIRLEY as Myra.
Wire or write, Arthur Hinton,
To-day, T. R., Aston; Monday, Smethwick.

WANTED, for "The Cingalee," Sept. 5, Oct. 10, Nov. 7, 14, Xmas, Jan. 2.
Haldane Crichton, New Theatre, Oxford.

KIMBERLEY'S, GREEN, AND HINTON'S
"WAS SHE TO BLAME?"
By Mrs. F. G. Kimberley.
WANTED, July 18, 25, Aug. 29, for this great popular play, refer J. F. Elliston, Esq., re this week, also Wm. Morton, Esq. Acknowledged to be one of the finest productions on the road.
Wire, F. G. Kimberley, this, T. R., Bolton; next, T. R., St. Helens.

MONTAGUE BEAUDYN'S SUCCESSES.
"FOR HONOUR AND REVENGE."
"SEND HIM VICTORIOUS."
"THE POWER OF A WICKED WOMAN."
"A BEAUTIFUL FIEND."
WANTED, Sept. 12 (3 nights), Sept. 26, Oct. 17, Oct. 24 (3 nights).
Wire or write, T. R., West Bromwich.

Mr. and Mrs. CHARLES DRAYCOTT'S CO.
"THE HEART BOWED DOWN."
By Mrs. F. G. Kimberley.
WANTED, March 13 and 20, May 8, 22, and 29, Autumn, 1911.
"HER PATH OF SORROW,"
by Mrs. F. G. Kimberley.
Vacant Nov. 7, Dec. 26, Jan. 16, Feb. 13, various onwards.
Repertoire Co.
Vacant Jan. 2, 23, and 30.
Charles Draycott, next 4 weeks, P. O. W., Nuneaton.

The New Musical Success,
"MISS PLASTER—OF PARIS."
WANTED, good Theatres, June 27, Aug. B. H., 8, 15, Sept. 12.
Henry L. Osmond, Hippodrome, Scarboro'.

MISS NORA CARTON'S TOUR.
with Russell Vaun's Latest Dramatic Success,
"TEMPTATION."
One of the Strongest Dramatic Casts on the Road.
WANTED, good Dramatic Theatres, Aug. 22, follow Barnsley; Sept. 12, follow Paisley; Oct. 10 (North), Oct. 31, and Nov. 7 (precede Ramsgate), Dec. 5 (precede St. Helens), Jan. 30, and Feb. 6 (South Wales), Dec. 26 (between Warrington and Star, Swansea).
All coms., Martin Comstock,
Cambridge Theatre, Spennymoor.

"MAN AND WIFE,"
by Walter Howard.
WANTED, for above (by arrangement with E. Van Biene), Aug. 1, 8 (?), 15, precede Edmonton, Aug. 29, between Edmonton and Colchester, Sept. 19, follow Metropole, Birmingham, All October, North, and Nov. 7, 14, precede Alexandra, Belfast. Company includes Miss Ethel Griffies. Excellent printing. Good scenery and effects. Griffies and Skelton, 45, Boathouse, The Point, Exmouth.

E. HILL MITCHELSON'S CO.
WANTED, Wanted, Theatres,
"WHO IS SHE?" Oct. 24.
"KING AND THE UNKNOWN WOMAN,"
Sept. 26, Oct. 10, 31, Nov. 7.
Address, c/o "The Era."

"LITTLE PHIL'S MOTHER."
WANTED, Theatres for Nov. 21 and 28, Jan 2 and 30.
Address, Frank M. Thorne, Curbar Cottage, Moor-lane, North Hykeham, Lincoln.

CLIFFORD HAMILTON and CHARLES LOCKE'S CO.
"A WOMAN'S PAST."
WANTED, July 25 (?) follow Alex., Hull; Aug. 29, Sept. 12, 19, Oct. 10, 31, South.
Address, Charles Locke, T. R., Scarborough.

"LUCKY 'LIZA."
WANTED, July 11.
Enormous success at Newcastle.
Dickie Clare, Grand, Stockton.

WANTED, Wanted, Known,
Mr. Leonard Boyne has July 11, 18, 25
Vacant (South or East Coast).
Mr. Boyne will himself appear as "RAFFLES."
Supported by his London Company.
Apply, Mr. A. Bingham, 9, St. Martin's-court, London, W.C. Telephone, 7,298 Gerrard.

MURRAY KING AND CO., in "OUR FLAT."
WANTED, July 4 (week), July 21 (3 nights).
King, Devonshire Park T., Eastbourne.

WALTER STEELE'S TOUR, "A FAST LIFE."
The great Drama that is doing big business every week.
WANTED, good Theatres, July 11, Aug. 29, Oct. 31, and Dec. 26, once or twice nightly.
Walter Steele, T. R., Sheffield.

THEATRES WANTED.

FRED GRANVILLE'S PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
"THE BETTER LAND."
WANTED, for this phenomenally Successful Domestic Drama,
Sept. 5, 19, 26, Oct. 3, and later.
"ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE."
Wanted for this Great Attraction,
July 18, 25, Aug. 1, 15, and later.
"A HOT NIGHT,"
Musical Comedy. Screamingly Funny.
Gorgeously Mounted and Dressed.
30 Performers 30.
Wanted, Good Theatres,
Aug. 1, onwards.
PANTOMIMES.
"BABES IN THE WOOD."
Wanted, for this Colossal Production, Jan. 9, 16, 23, 30, to follow run at Grand Theatre, Derby.
"BEAUTY AND THE BEAST."
Wanted, Good Theatre for Production, Dec. 26.
Also vacant Jan. 16, 23, 30.
"ALADDIN."
Wanted, Good Theatre for Production, Dec. 26.
Also Vacant Jan. 16, 23, 30.
Re Dates, A. R. Feather, Manager, The Depository, Cazneau-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, Aug. 8, 22, 29.
THE WILSON BARRETT ORIGINAL VERSION
of the Famous Play,
"EAST LYNNE"
(BULLOCK VERSION),
by Arrangement with J. Pitt Hardacre.
TOM WATT'S SPECIALLY-SELECTED CO.
Broke all records at the Theatre Royal, Belfast, week commencing April 11. Gross receipts £306, 10,040 persons paying for admission during the week. Hundreds turned away on the Saturday evening. Return date immediately booked.
The following week played to £322 at the Queen's Theatre, Dublin. Refer to Messrs. Fred Warden and F. Marriott Watson.
Note.—No one but Mr. Tom Watt has any interest whatsoever in this production, and the sole theatrical rights of this version are vested in him.
Managers requiring a sound Attraction and sure Money-maker, wire or write,
Tom Watt, 6, Adelphi-chambers, John-street, W.C.
Vacant Aug. 8, 22, 29, Sept. 5.
Autumn Dates rapidly filling.
June 20, Palace T., Porth.

MR. BULMER'S ENTERPRISES.
"THE GIRL WHO WENT ASTRAY."
"THE GIRL WHO WENT ASTRAY."
"THE GIRL WHO WENT ASTRAY."
The Drama that is averaging £200 a week.
Three weeks' receipts exceed £1,000.
Vacant Oct. 10, Dec. 5, Xmas.
Vacant Oct. 10, Dec. 5, Xmas.
"THE TYRANT."
"THE TYRANT."
"THE TYRANT."
(By arrangement with Miss Marie Dagmar.)
WANTED, Aug. 1, on, with exceptions.
Fred Bulmer,
Managers' Club, Savoy-mansions, London, W.C.

CHARLES GIBBON'S TOURS.
WANTED, for the Magnificent Production, "ALONE IN LONDON."
"ALONE IN LONDON."
Carefully-selected Company, including
MISS NELLIE CLYDE
as Nan, the Flower Girl.
Sept. 5, 12, 19, Oct. 3, 17, and Nov. 14, only Dates Vacant.
Wanted, for the Funniest Farcical Comedy of the day,
"THE LITTLE STRANGER."
"THE LITTLE STRANGER."
By Michael Morton.
From the Criterion Theatre.
Only Date this year, three nights, July 28 (precede T. R., Newcastle). Address,
Chas. Gibbon, Managers' Club, till Wednesday. After, Kursaal, Bexhill.

WANTED, Aug. 15 and 29, on with Exceptions.
John Leopold's and the Original Leopold's Co.
"THE NEW FRIVOLITY."
Preceded by
"THE HOUSEBOAT."
The clever, excruciatingly funny, and yet refined show. No risk as to whether they will "go." They will "go." They are tried, true, and firm successes.
PLAYED ONCE OR TWICE NIGHTLY.
All communications to General Manager,
198, Brixton-road, London, S.W.

WANTED, good Theatre, Nov. 14 and Xmas, for the money-maker, "His Real Wife."
Address, T. E. Ward, T. R., Stratford, E.

MISS FLORENCE BAINES' COMPANIES,
in the Musical Farce,
MISS LANCASHIRE, LIMITED."
WANTED, Good Theatres,
Aug. 8, 15 (South or Midlands), Nov. 14 (precede Portsmouth), Nov. 28 (precede Burnley), and various Spring.
A new Musical Farce in active preparation, by the Author of "Miss Lancashire, Limited."
Address,
Miss Florence Baines, Aquarium, Yarmouth.

"THE 10.30 DOWN EXPRESS; OR, GUILTY GOLD."
WANTED, July 11, 18, London only, also Aug. 1, between Birmingham and London.
Horace Stanley, Smethwick.
Next, Royal, Wolverhampton.

"MAN TO MAN."
Edward Lloyd and Clifford Bown's Co.
WANTED, Aug. 29, Oct. 24, Midlands.
Edward Lloyd, Queen Square Hotel, Bath.

WANTED, Theatres or Halls, July 4, 18, 25, for a big Variety Combination.
Address, E. Dottridge, Empire, Oldham.

MANAGERS, PLEASE NOTE.
WANTED, all holding Contracts with the Great Raymond, or desirous of Booking the Great Raymond, to communicate direct with Maurice F. Raymond,
Sole Proprietor and Manager, as per route.
June 20, Empire Hippodrome, Ashton-under-Lyne.

ARTISTS WANTED.

E. HILL-MITCHELSON'S CO.
WANTED, First-class Heavy Man, Heavy Lady, Child Actress, and Carpenter. Terms, photos., references, and two weeks' address.
E. Hill-Mitchelson, c/o P. O., Ramsey, Isle of Man.

MISS PAMELA MORRIS CO.
WANTED, Full Company (except Ladies) and Lead, rehearse Manchester. Letters, photo., references, Moore, 24, Milwain-road, Levenshulme, Manchester.

WANTED, for Special Week, June 27, Rehearse June 22, Artists, to complete cast for "My Sweetheart," including good Tony and Tina (must sing and dance well and have played parts). Terms, photos, &c., C. M. Julian, R. T., Morecambe.

WANTED, Lady for Grande Dame, Juvenile and Character Actor, Juvenile Lady, High-class Comedy. Terms, age, full particulars, Box 7,866, "The Era."

WANTED, for one week, commencing Monday, June 27, probably longer, Artists in all Lines available for Burlesque, must sing and dance and be capable of single and double turns. Rehearse Friday previous. Those in the neighbourhood preferred. Address, with absolute lowest terms, photos, &c., G. Vando, The Pavilion, Lofthouse Park, near Wakefield, Yorks.

WANTED, Artists in all Lines, for long Irish Tour, commencing Aug. 15. References, photo., and lowest terms. Dr. Ormonde, 3, Cathedral-terrace, Armagh, Ireland.

WANTED, for Autumn Tour of "Temptation," Eccentric Comedy Old Man, to double, also smart Young Lady, for Responsibles, act as Maid, and understudy. Photos., Miss Nora Carlton, 1, Timothy-terrace, Spennymoor.

ARTISTS WANTED.

WANTED, Lady for Tyneside Character Old Woman (dialect essential), for one week commencing June 27. Rehearse Tuesday, June 21. Terms, references. Stanley Rogers, T. R., North Shields.

WANTED, for "A Soldier's Honour," smart Chambermaid Character Comedy, for Edie Macklin's part, for special few weeks. Send photos, terms, refs., &c., to F. G. Kimberley, 33, Tollemache-street, New Brighton; rehearse next week.

WANTED, Leading Gent., own Script, to Star for three weeks; liberal terms; also Responsible Gent. Burnette, Camborne, Cornwall.

WANTED, for Sketch, Seven Weeks, commencing July 11, Tour to follow, Rehearse July 5, Dewsbury, Handsome Lady, must be tall, Russian Countess (not lead), elegant winter walking dress; also Tall, Robust, Heavy Gent, short Military part. Actual height, lowest terms, age, photos, latest references. Monday, Grahame and Harrington, Hippodrome, St. Helens.

WANTED, Smart Amateur Lady, for Sketch, Small Part for Gent. Photo, &c. Appointment only. Grace Rubina, 71, Lavender-sweep, Clapham Junction.

WANTED, for High-class Sketch, Smart Ladies and Gentlemen to walk on; West End Hall, June 27.
Letters, Blake, 137, St. George's-road, Southwark.

WANTED, Lady, refined, to join famous Quintette, and travel the Provinces and then Abroad, to fulfil over two years' bookings. One who is fond of music. Would be thoroughly taught mandoline, banjo, and harp, and receive good wages after few weeks. References exchanged. £50 premium, on acceptance.
Letter only, Box 7,860, "The Era."

WANTED, good voices, immediately, to train for Musical Comedy; Engagements guaranteed. Private Tuition by First-class Professor.
Fullest particulars, Box 7,876, "The Era."

"THE FATAL WEDDING" TOUR.
WANTED, for above, a few clever Children, about 14 years of age, able to sing and dance. Send full particulars, &c., to Percy Williams, 8, Clarence-place, Stonehouse, Plymouth.

WANTED, Four Boys, with good voices; must Sing and Harmonise.
Pope, 27, Baker-street, Lloyd-square, W.C.

WANTED, Wanted, Known, opportunity for Young Actor for Summer Engagement
AS OUTDOOR LECTURER at the
JAPAN-BRITISH EXHIBITION.
Apply to Staff-Manager, by letter.

WANTED, Dramatic Artists who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Sons' Bookstalls to kindly communicate with the Publisher, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

PANTOMIME ARTISTS WANTED.

FRED GRANVILLE'S PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
PANTOMIMES, 1910-11.
"BABES IN THE WOOD,"
"ALADDIN,"
"BEAUTY AND THE BEAST."
WANTED, Artists in all Lines. Full particulars, terms, references, and where can be seen working next six weeks, to A. R. Feather, Manager, The Depository, Cazneau-street, Liverpool. Mark envelopes "Panto."

FRANCIS LAIDLER'S PANTOMIMES.
"FORTY THIEVES." Theatre Royal, Leeds.
"BABES IN THE WOOD," Prince's T., Bradford.
WANTED, Principals for all parts, with few exceptions. State last Pantomime engagements, and where can be seen for the next four weeks, also lowest terms, Francis Laidler, Prince's Theatre, Bradford.

WANTED, Chorus Ladies, for Pantomimes, not less 5ft. 7in. Photos, terms, references, Ernest Dottridge, Empire, Oldham.

SCENIC ARTISTS WANTED.

WANTED, Scenic Artists, Theatre Managers, &c., to write for Leete's Catalogue of Colours, Varnishes, Painting Brushes, and every requisite for Scene Painting and Theatre Decoration. The fullest range of colours in the trade. A. Leete and Co., 129, London-rd., Southwark, S.E.

WANTED, commence immediately, really good Scenic Artist (own brushes), quick and effective, but capable of first-class work when required. Special month at stores here. Probable permanency to suitable man. Age, terms, references, and addresses of same. Henry Chattell, Kenton Hall, Henley-on-Thames.

SCENIC ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Scenery, Contracts, Productions, Our Paint Frames, 40 by 34 Theatres completely fitted with Scenery, Ropes, Blocks, Cleats, &c. Estimates and Designs submitted free. Scenery bought and exchanged. Fred Wilkins and Bro., Ltd., 27-35, Duke-street, Liverpool. Telegrams, "Theatrical."

WANTED, Known, Scenery, Properties, Profile Boards.
Bernasconi's, Ltd., Scenic Artists,
41, Gore-street, Liverpool. Tel. 732 Royal.

SCENERY.
WANTED, Contracts for Scenery, Pantomimes, Dramas, Sketches, &c.
Reasonable terms. Estimates free.
Townsend and Co., Rotunda Theatre, Liverpool.

SCENERY OR PROPERTIES.
WANTED, Contracts, New or Secondhand, Hire or Purchase. Largest stock in London. Estimates free. Sharp, 272, St. James-road, Old Kent-road. Tel., 497 Hop.

WANTED, Contracts for Painting Scenery, First-class Work guaranteed. Cecil E. Hicks, Painting Room, Princess's Theatre, Oxford-street, London, W.

WANTED, Known, Theatrical Advertising Curtains, designed, painted, and written. Distance no object. Real good showy work. Will Molesworth, Shirley, Warwickshire.

WANTED, Known, R. W. Miller, Scenic Artist (late Gaiety, Dundee), at Liberty Pantomime. Scenery a Speciality. Permanent address, 3, Churchill-place, Broughty Ferry, near Dundee.

WANTED, Known, Contracts or Engagements by Sidney Beltram, Touring Scenery repainted; now completing special six weeks Grand Theatre, Brighton; refer.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WANTED, Smart Man as Resident Acting-Manager, for Variety Theatre (Midlands); must have had experience, be gentlemanly in appearance and manners, a man of strong character, tactful and resourceful; only those able to refer to a good past record need apply by letter, which will be treated in confidence, stating age, full details of experience, salary required, references, &c. Address,
Manager, Box 7,850, "The Era."

WANTED, Resident Manager, for Provincial Theatre in Scotland. Apply, with copy testimonials, and stating experience and salary expected, and when free to commence duties, to Box 7,838,
"The Era."

WANTED, Resident Acting-Manager, for No. 2 Theatre. Lowest terms and references,
Box 7,864, "The Era."

WANTED, First-class Acting-Manager, for Music Hall, must be experienced and used to twice nightly. Apply by letter only, giving qualifications. Will Sley, 180, Oxford-rd., Manchester.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WANTED, Gentleman to learn the duties of Business Management in well-known Drama. Good Salary and Prospects.
Letter only, Box 7,861, "The Era."

WANTED Circus Agent, in Advance, for Biddall's Circus, touring Scotland, at once; steady and reliable. Lowest terms, wire or write to James Biddall, Circus, Dornoch Sat., Golspie Mon., Brora Tues.

WANTED, Manager, for First-class Cinematograph Show; thoroughly experienced, and able to operate when required. Lowest salary, &c., to Pictures, Box 7,870, "The Era."

WANTED, immediately, Operator-Electrician, must be smart, reliable man, and used to the business. Apply personally, Manager, Chelsea Rink, Church-street, Chelsea.

WANTED, for Autumn Tours, two First-class Carpenters and two Property Men.
Apply, with references and lowest terms, to Milton Bode, Theatre, Reading.

WANTED, Wanted, Billposter, fully qualified, with knowledge of horses.
Permanency.
Billposting Company, Mexborough.

WANTED, a Smart Youth, about 18, for Seaside Town, to sell Music, &c., Alfresco Show and Hall. Apply by letter.
Dare, Claremont, Elm-grove, Peckham, S.E.

WANTED, through hall changing hands, as Manager or Acting-Manager Pictures, Dramatic or Variety, One or Two Houses Nightly. A Hustler, and not afraid of work. Just concluded 11 months Manager, Grand Hall, Bromley. Wire or write, Cory, 22, College-road, Bromley, Kent.

WANTED, Known, Will Cartwright, Stage-Manager, Elephant and Castle Theatre, Scenery, Baggage, &c., Cartage and Storage, trains met any hour, day or night.

WANTED, Engagement, by Arthur Purdy, as Advertising Inspector, ten years with the late T. Barrasford, Esq.; good refs. 5, Collingwood-road, Southsea, Portsmouth.

WANTED, by Foreman Billposter, Position take charge Branch, London and Provincial experience; excellent refs. Box 7,852, "The Era."

WANTED, Situation by Billposter, 30, married, Theatre, Music Hall, or Billposting Company. Abstainer. Good references. Start at once. Mitchell, Billposter, Dawnton, Wilts.

MUSICIANS WANTED.

WANTED, Conductor for Small Orchestra, must have good répertoire of music, be a thorough musician, and be able to harmonise and write scores for band.
State age, salary, and give references.
Box 7,858, "The Era."

WANTED, for Palace Theatre of Varieties, Reading, First-class Musical Conductor. Apply, letters only, G. Howard Watson, c/o Stanhope and Co., 12, Buckingham-street, Strand, W.C.

WANTED, Musical-Director, for Summer Season, must be First-class Violinist, well recommended and able to introduce competent musicians for Variety and Ball Room Orchestra. Address full particulars to Chas. Evans, Grand Hall-by-the-Sea, Margate.

WANTED, Resident Musical Director, Violinist, to start about middle of August for Theatre in the North. Terms and particulars to Brooks' Agency, 36, Shaftesbury-avenue, W.

TIVOLI THEATRE, ABERDEEN.
WANTED, First-class Leader, to open July 18, must be well up in Variety business, sobriety indispensable. Apply, stating age, references, and terms (permanency), to Shepherd, Musical-Director.

WANTED, experienced Leader, Soloist, Stockham's Ladies' Orchestra, permanency if suitable; commencing July 1. English Orchestra, 32, Rembrandtplein, Amsterdam. Stamp 2½d.

WANTED, through disappointment, Seaside, June 27, 11 weeks, First Violin, Variety; others write. Age, refs., lowest terms, Harveys, Band Office, Sheffield.

WANTED, for Rink Band, a Cornet Player, commencing Monday, June 20.
State lowest salary,
and apply to the Manager,
Palace, Tynemouth.

WANTED, at once, for E. H. Bostock's Railroad Circus, good Cornet, capable of taking first when required; salary 32s. 6d. Apply, Sam Powell, Leader, Bostock's Circus, Dundee, until 21st, inclusive.

EMPIRE, DUBLIN.
WANTED, Solo Cornet, also good Drummer, with own Tympani and Effects. Latest reference and lowest terms to Musical-Director.

WANTED, a First-class Experienced Solo Cornet, for the Empire Palace, Edinburgh. Send references. Apply, M., Moss' Empires, Ltd., Cranbourn-mansions, W.C.

WANTED, thoroughly experienced Clarionet, all lines, disengaged June 25 through Summer closing. Clarionet, Hippodrome, Darlington.

WANTED, First-class Bassoon, under 35 years of age, for good Amateur Staff Orchestra, London; clerkship offered to suitable candidate, residents in or near London preferred; only good men need apply.
Box 7,868, "The Era."

WANTED, Euphonium and Trombone Players, commence July, 12 weeks, Seaside, Somerset. Apply, terms, &c., Band Agency, London-road, Gloucester.

WANTED, through disappointment, a reliable Bombardon Player, steady and respectable. Harry Woodage, 6, Parnell-rd., Clevedon, Somerset.

WANTED, First-class 'Cello, Soloist, Viola, Oboe, Cornet, Seaside, Concert Season.
Conductor, 13, Riding-street, Southport.

WANTED, for High-class Hotel Pavilion, good Gentleman Vocalist, able to play 'Cello preferred. Stewart, Phipps Port, Soderick, I.O.M.

WANTED, Harpist, to join Flautist, for Pitching and Engagements; permanency. Address, Butler, 10, Cordwallis-st., Maidenhead, Berks.

WANTED, good Harpist or Portable Player, Sight-readers, and Sing Ballads; join Violinist, Summer, Seaside. Shares; good prospects. Violinist, 63, St. Werburgh's-park, Bristol.

WANTED, Lady Pianist, must be thoroughly accustomed to Pictures, Vocalist preferred. Age, photo., references, lowest terms, E. G. Falcon, County Theatre, Bedford.

WANTED, July 18, for Season, First-class Pianist, for Continuous Picture Show. Must work effects. State lowest salary with references.
Baring Bros., Cheltenham.

WANTED, Pianist, must be used to Pictures and Variety, permanency if suitable. Lowest terms and references. Manager, T., Gosport.

Herne Bay.
WANTED, First-class Pianist, young, must be able to manage Single Line and Memorise. Apply, Arthur Vernon, Springhill, Gordon-road, Herne Bay.

WANTED, Soprano Pianist, for refined Concert Party.
Large répertoire.
Box 7,872, "The Era."

WANTED, First-class Lady Musicians, for Ladies' Orchestra (those able to do turn preferred), for long Irish Tour, commencing Aug. 15. References, terms, photo., to Dr. Ormonde, 3, Cathedral-terrace, Armagh, Ireland.

WANTED, small Ladies' Orchestra, three or four instruments, including Piano, for July 11, onwards. Terms and full particulars to Secretary, Queen's Arcade, Rhyl.

MUSICIANS WANTED.

CATLIN'S ARCADIA, SCARBOROUGH.
WANTED, to complete Ladies' Orchestra, First and Second Violin, Flute and Piccolo, Cornet, Trombone, all to open July 17, rehearse two days. State very lowest terms for eight weeks certain to Mr. DUDLEY HARCOURT, Manager Catlin's Arcadia, Scarborough.

WANTED, Musicians, all Insts., for Seaside Engagement. Leader and Solo Violinist. Gentlemen only. Oboe, Bassoon. BANDMASTER, 61, Warwick-avenue, Maida Vale.

WANTED, all Instruments for Royal London Military Band and London Bohemian Orchestras, experienced in Theatre, Opera, Exhibitions. Age, refs., terms, WILHELM RUSSELL, Bohemia, 3, Bodafon-row, Llandudno.

WANTED, Military Band Instrumentalists for Season, starting July 16, at Withernsea, near Hull. Apply, stating lowest terms, refs., to MUSICAL-DIRECTOR, 17, Waiters-street, Withernsea, Yorkshire.

WANTED, for Palm Court of First-class Hotel, 'Cello and Violin Players (ladies, to live in preferred). Apply by letter, stating salary required, to K., Hotel Burlington, Worthing.

LONDON COUNTY ASYLUM, HORTON, EPSOM.
WANTED, Male Attendant, Euphonium player preferred, previous Asylum experience not necessary, wages £31 per annum for first six months, then, if satisfactory, rising to £33, and subsequently by £1 annually to £43 per annum, with board, lodging, washing, and uniform; also special payments for Band duty. Attendants are pensionable under the Asylums Officers' Superannuation Act, 1909. Daily leave, subject to the convenience of the service, 8 p.m. to 10 p.m.; weekly leave, 1½ days; annual leave, first fifteen months (after nine months' service) six days; the following twelve months, twelve days; each successive twelve months fourteen days. Candidates must not be more than 35 years of age. First-class Attendants are appointed by promotion from the Second Class. Apply to THE MEDICAL SUPERINTENDENT, at the Asylum.

WANTED, Musicians who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Son's Bookstalls, or from any Newsagent in the United Kingdom, to kindly communicate with the PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

MUSICIANS' WANTS.

WANTED, Engagement, as Conductor, Leader, or First Violin, any business, Variety preferred, at Liberty; late Conductor for Mr. E. H. Bostock. MILLAR, Conductor, Hippodrome, Hamilton, Glasgow.

WANTED, Known, H. F. Petersen, Piano Conductor, late Walthamstow Palace 6½ years, open for Engagements. Thanks for offers. 75, Effra-road, Brixton, S.W.

WANTED, Engagement, by First-class well-known Musical-Director, in Music Hall or Theatre, London or Suburbs preferred. Box 7,854, "The Era."

WANTED, Engagement, by experienced Violinist (Lady), good sight reader, First Violin or Leader. Particulars, 13, Bromet-place, Bradford.

WANTED, through Hippodrome closing, position as Leader or First Violin; excellent reference. J. MARSH, 7, Garthland-lane, Paisley, N.B.

WANTED, Known, Ernest Wake, Solo Violinist and Conductor Royal Albion Hotel, Brighton, Liberty shortly; good offers.

WANTED, Engagement, as Violin or Viola, Variety. Apply, VIOLINIST, 31, Mayfair-street, West Hartlepool.

WANTED, short Engagement by experienced Violinist, any business; abstainer; good refs. Apply, POSTILL, 3, Stanhope-road, Doncaster.

WANTED, an Engagement, by thoroughly experienced and reliable Violinist, Leader, First, or Viola. JAS. HEAP, 55, Cog-street, Burnley.

WANTED, by First Violinist, Re-engagement. Ten years experience, all lines. Can open Monday. Abstainer. Good refs. PHIPPS, c/o Clements, 176, Great George-st., Glasgow.

WANTED, Engagement by Violinist, First or Second, Variety, Skating Rink, or Seaside Orchestra. Good references. S. Phasey, 35 Belmore-road, Eastbourne.

WANTED, Engagement as Violin, can open at once, any distance, good references. THOMAS PASS, 5, Baker-street, Reading.

WANTED, Engagement as Violin or Viola, any business. Would deputise. Wire or write, KIRKMAN, 120, Albert-road, Blackpool.

WANTED, Re-engagement by Leader, Cornet, Tenting, or otherwise. Reliable, good répertoire. H. JAMES, 15, Lower Drayton-place, West Croydon, Surrey.

WANTED, Engagement, by Cornet, any business; can join immediately. CUTHBERT, 186, High-street, Perth, N.B.

WANTED, Re-engagement, by Cornet, First or Second, any business. G. TURNER, 50, Cotton-street, Poplar, London, E.

WANTED, Engagement by Good, Reliable Cornet (second), any business, London or country. CORNET, 41, Byrne-road, Balham, S.W.

WANTED, Engagement, Good Cornet, Reliable, any business. Could start at once. Excellent refs. Good appearance. LEEDHAM, 73, Clarence-road, Sutton.

WANTED, Engagement, as Cornet, any business, steady and reliable; excellent refs. Write or wire, CORNET, 65, Clough-road, Sheffield.

WANTED, Engagement, Clarionettist, any business, good refs., abstainer; young and reliable. GEORGE WHITE, 9, Culford-grove, Kingsland.

WANTED, Engagement, by Clarionet, experienced, sober, and reliable, any business. A. STRETTON, 9, King's-ter., George IV.-rd., Hounslow.

WANTED, Engagement, First or Second Clarionet, Orchestral, String, Viennese Conservatoirist, good refs. FRED NOWAK, 3, King William-street, Strand.

WANTED, Engagement, through closing, by First-class Clarionettist or Violin, experienced all Lines; would deputise. H. SCHAFER, 85, Highgrove-street, Reading.

WANTED, Engagement, or Deputising, through closing, by good Clarionet, sober and reliable, any business; good refs. J. MAYO, 48, Claret-street, Accrington, Lancashire.

WANTED, Engagement as Clarionet, Military or String. Combine Second Violin. C. STEAD, 1, Beaufort-bldgs, Pittville, Cheltenham.

WANTED, an Engagement, by Clarionet Player. X., 82, Robert-street, N.W.

WANTED, Known, Miss Grace Nicholls, Double Bass, is at Liberty to accept offers, any business. 74, Cowley-road, Ilford, Essex.

WANTED, Engagement by Lady (young), thoroughly experienced, Contra Bass. Only good-class work wanted. M. J., 145 Albany-road, Roath, Cardiff.

WANTED, Engagement by Contra Bass, any business. Can open at once. Address, MORETON, 84, Barton-street, Aston, Birmingham.

WANTED, Known, Double Bass, experienced high-class player, temperate, reliable. Highest references, deputy, or permanent. R. B., 19, The Green, Richmond, S.W.

WANTED, Engagement as Trombone, experienced in any business; can open at once. J. THOMAS, 21, Queen-street, Irthlingborough, Northamptonshire.

WANTED, Engagement, by good Professional Trombonist, any business. Wire or write, J. GREENDALE, 92, Chapel Field-road, Norwich.

WANTED, Known, First-class Trombone at Liberty, any business, London experience. Abstainer, strictly reliable. BANWELL, 76 Miskin-road, Trealaw, South Wales.

MUSICIANS' WANTS.

WANTED, Engagement, by thoroughly competent Trombonist, Summer Season, last engagement 9 years. Address, CORFIELD, 123, Bradford-street, Birmingham.

WANTED, Engagement, by good Euphonium, any Business, abstainer; strictly attentive to business, and reliable; excellent refs. C. W., 14a, Wycliffe-road, Wimbledon, S.W.

WANTED, Known, Disengaged, Euphonium (Soloist), late Army B.-Sgt., experienced Military Journals, Seaside or permanency. B. L., 36, Auckland-road, Victoria Park.

WANTED, Summer Engagement, by First-class Euphonium Soloist. Highest reputation and testimonials. Orchestra or Military. F. GIRONE, 92, Calder-street, Crosshill, Glasgow.

WANTED, by ex-Army Bandsman, Engagement as E Flat Bombardon, could take Second Violin; efficient and reliable. BRUCE, Maltravers-street, Arundel, Sussex.

WANTED, Summer Engagement, by First-class Bombardon, highest references, age 35. Address, L. S., 41, Seagrave-road, West Brompton, London.

WANTED, Engagement, by French Horn, any business. W. PATTISON, 23, Hartismere-road, Fulham, S.W.

WANTED, by French Horn, Engagement, through disappointment, young, good refs.; reliable player. Box 7,874, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, at Liberty, French Horn, also First-class Saxhorn, both experienced. Add., c/o 12, Wilpshire-avenue, Crowcroft Park, Manchester.

WANTED, Engagement, by 'Cellist, any business, could open at once; would deputise. 'CELLO, 125, Northwold-road, Upper Clapton, N.E.

WANTED, by 'Cello, Engagement or Deputising, any business, or Solo, good ref. Address, R. SORTIN, 65, Torren's-buildings, City-road, E.C.

WANTED, Known, 'Cellist, disengaged through reduction of orchestra, experienced in all lines. Good references. Address, 'CELLIST, 25, Annandale-road, Greenwich.

WANTED, by experienced 'Cello, Engagement, First-class references. Address, 'CELLO, 17, Macdonald-road, Forest Gate, London, E.

WANTED, by good Norwegian Violinist, 8 years in an Orchestra in Munich, Engagement in England, to start in the Autumn or earlier; is also a Trombonist. Please address, M. M., 3375, c/o Rudolf Mosse, Munich.

WANTED, Engagement, by Flute and Piccolo, good, sober, reliable, experienced, any business; good refs.; would deputise. ROMERIL, 33, Mimosa-street, Fulham.

WANTED, Known, Flute and Piccolo, disengaged, any business, steady, reliable; touring off. AMES, care Parry, 69, Webb-rd., Clapham Common.

WANTED, Known, Flute and Piccolo, Disengaged, Military Band, Variety, or any business. Good refs. ALEXANDER, 251, West Derby-road, Liverpool.

WANTED, Engagement, by experienced and reliable Flautist, any business. FLAUTIST, 93, Narbonne-avenue, Clapham Common, London, S.W.

WANTED, by Lady, Engagement, brilliant Piano Solos, Piano and Sleigh Bells, Solos, Spielephone, Organ Chimes, Tricks, and Songs at Piano. HOPE, 1, Norfolk-road, Streatham.

WANTED, Known, Lady Pianist, excellent accompanist, desires engagement with Professional Singer, abroad preferred. C., 3, Sydney-villas, Fifth Cross-road, Twickenham.

WANTED, Re-engagement, Lady Pianist, experienced Orchestral, Dramatic, Pictures, Variety, Expert Accompanist. PIANIST, 28, Glenfield-road, Balham, London, S.W.

WANTED, Engagement, in London, by smart Young Lady Pianist, Accompanist to Professional, Orchestra, or any other capacity. Miss F., 1, South Park-road, Wimbledon

WANTED, Engagements as Vocal Accompanist and Coach. Exper. Opera, Sight-reader. Rec. by famous F.R.A.M., excellent pianist. Box 7,869, "The Era."

WANTED, Summer Engagement, by Experienced Pianist, Solo, Orchestral and Accompanist, seaside preferred. FRED HOOTON, 14, Clarendon-st., Nottingham.

WANTED, Engagement, Drums, Tympanist, &c. Owing to closing. Experienced in all Lines. Address, G. FREEMAN, 47, St. Mary's-road, Southampton.

WANTED, Summer Engagement, as Double Drums and Effects, good references and total abstainer. R. E. MURPHY, 2, Dunkirk-st., Leicester.

WANTED, Summer Season, by First-class Drums and Effects; finest refs.; age 29. Address, DRUMS, 31, Beaconsfield-rd., L. Edmonton.

WANTED, Engagement by Competent Double Drummer, experienced in all lines. Good references; would deputise. F. MCCROHAN, 34, Waylen-street, Reading.

WANTED, Engagement, by reliable Double Drummer and Effects, experienced Dramatic, Variety, any business; best of references. DRUMS, 14, Hilldrop-terrace, Torquay.

WANTED, Engagement as Double Drums, Effects, through disappointment. At Liberty now, any business. Excellent refs. PEARSON, 24, Albion-street, Darlington, Co. Durham.

WANTED, Engagement, good Double Drummer and Effects, any business; good all-round experience; good refs. H. HATHRILL, 54, John-street, Luton.

WANTED, an Engagement as Double Drums and Effects, any business; experienced, reliable; at Liberty now. 27, Towson-st., Liverpool.

WANTED, Engagement, by steady reliable Drummer and Effects, young, disengaged through closing. RICHARDSON, 101, Fildes-street, Great Grimsby.

WANTED, Engagement, by Double Drummer, Tympani, Glockenspiel, or Xylophone Soloist. The best references. Box 7,785, "The Era."

WANTED, Engagements, Celebrated Ladies' Poppy Orchestras and Singers, from Brighton, Southport, Ramsgate Piers, Olympia, &c. Scarlet costume. 19, Bedford-place, Brighton.

WANTED, Known, Celebrated Ladies' Cremona Orchestra, including Vocalists, &c.; smart uniform; any business. DOROTHEA A. VINCENT, 8, Grafton-sq., Clapham, S.W. 'Phone 990 Battersea.

WANTED, Known, Imperial Ladies' Orchestras, Vocalists, Bells, &c.; established 1890. Directress, Madame NELLIE BAKER, 114, Woodlands-road, Ilford. 'Phone 877 Ilford.

WANTED, Engagements for Madame Angless's Celebrated Orchestra of Ladies, vacant Summer. Great Success New Britannia Pier, Great Yarmouth (nine consecutive seasons). Smart Costumes, up-to-date Répertoire. 61, Dumbarton-road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

WANTED, by Miss Kathleen Wolseley's Quartette or Small Orchestra, Seaside Engagement. Leader, Medallist R.A.M., R.C.M., Extensive Répertoire. 88, Chichele-road, Cricklewood.

WANTED, Engagements for Ladies' Trio or Orchestra. Terms and vacant dates apply, Mme. SILVESTER, 84, Cavendish-place, Eastbourne.

WANTED, Good Agents for the English tour of the Italian Royal Piedmont Hussars, Military Band and Orchestra. MUSICAL DIRECTOR, R. P. H. Banda-Orchestra, Valenza (Torino), Italy.

WANTED, Engagement, by the Talented Zingari Band (brass), splendid uniform and répertoire. Professor MITCHELL, Oates-square, St. Mark's-street, Leeds.

MUSICIANS' WANTS.

WANTED, Seaside, any business, Collini's splendid Military, Orchestral Band, concluding Stamford Hill Rink, re-opening Sept., Highgate, Stratford, &c. C/o "The Era."

WANTED, Engagement, Good Brass or Military Band, any number, any business, reasonable. Just finishing twelve months, Skating Rink. BANDMASTER, 73, Norwich-road, Lowestoft.

WANTED, Engagement, Orchestra, seven Musicians, including piano, smart uniform, Aug. week; moderate terms. BLUE WYVERN ORCHESTRA, 115, Humberstone-road, Leicester.

WANTED, Engagement in London by Smart Quartette (Piano, lady, two First Violins, 'Cello, or Double Bass). Good Répertoire. H., 94, Camden-street (2nd and 3rd floors), Camden Town, N.W.

CIRCUS ARTISTS WANTED.

WANTED, Agouste and Clown, to assist Lady with Troupe of Dogs, Al Fresco, one used to Comic Entrées, Acrobatic, and Stills preferred. Terms low. HENGLEUR, Tudno House, Rhyl.

WANTED, Circus Artists who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Sons' Bookstalls to kindly communicate with the PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

CIRCUS ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, John Irvin, Dexterous Foot Equilibrist, Liberty July and Aug., for Galas, also myself and Miss Pinder, Bareback Equestrians, with seven Acts, for Circus, own Ring, Horse, Riding Dog, and Flight of Pigeons. Address, 1, Idonia-street, Deptford, S.E.

WANTED, by The Knotellas (Harry and Rose), Flexible Acrobats and Dancers. June 20, on, Fêtes. 4, Peterborough-mansions, Fulham.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS WANTED.

WORCESTER PALACE OF VARIETIES.
WANTED, Variety Artists, also Empire, Worcester. No wires. ARTHUR CARLTON, Palace, Worcester.

BRITANNIA, GLASGOW.
WANTED, Variety Artists, Specialities, Double Turns, Sisters, Comedians, Comediennes, Dancers, &c., now, and onwards.

Apply, MANAGER, as above.

WELLESLEY PICTURE PALACE, DENBEATH, METHIL, FIFE, N.B.
WANTED, Variety Artists in all Lines, June 13, and onward. Send lowest terms to FARMER and CAMPBELL, Proprietors.

WANTED, Variety Artists, all Lines, and Good Specialities, suitable for High-class Electric Theatre, to open June 27, and onwards. State lowest terms and dates. F. BARNES ALLEN, Ibrox Roller Rink, Glasgow.

WANTED, Variety Artists, all Lines, July, August, or September. Terms and particulars, &c. MANAGER, Hippodrome, Blackpool.

WANTED, Variety Artists, all Lines, July, on. Very lowest terms. Full particulars first instance. HENRY CARLTON, Cleethorpes.

WANTED, Monday, July 4, and onwards, Variety Artists, all Lines, Stars and good Specialities. Particulars, KETCHINGMAN, Aquarium, Scarborough.

WANTED, Variety Artists all Lines, immediate and future dates. Send Bookings and terms, NIGHTINGALE'S Agency, T. R., West Bromwich.

THEATRE ROYAL, ALDERSHOT.
WANTED, First-class Variety Artists, July 5. Lowest terms. J. GLADWIN, Manager for Mr. Sounes.

WANTED, Variety Artists, all Lines, Doubles doing Singles, June 27, on. Hall and stage small. Summer terms to ARTHUR IZON, Pal., Morley.

DALTON'S AGENCY.
29, Mauldeth-road West, Withington, Manchester.
WANTED, Music-Hall Artists,

MONDAY NEXT. Let me know by Monday first
MONDAY NEXT. post if open the following
MONDAY NEXT. Monday, with very lowest
MONDAY NEXT. terms.

WANTED, Artists in all Lines, to send full list of Bookings. Suitable turns can have tour arranged in Scotland, also North of England. Wire "Contracts, Greenock"; 'Phone 800. SKIVINGTON'S Agency, 41, Ardgowan-street, Greenock.

WANTED, Star Artists, all Lines, for Immediate and Future Dates. WILLIAM MOULD, Central Palace, North Shields.

WANTED, Star Artists all Lines, from now onwards; Hall small, terms same. Good break for Artists going North, South, or Ireland. J. J. SCOTT, Empire, Wrexham.

BIRMINGHAM AND DISTRICT VARIETY AGENCY.
WANTED, Artists in all lines, June 20, onwards, Jugglers, good Sisters, Doubles doing Singles. Letters, R. FORDHAM, Star Hotel, Brierley Hill, Staffs.

FRED DURHAM'S AGENCY.
WANTED, Artists in all Lines, June 27, on. 1A, Loughboro'-rd., Brixton. 'Phone 15 Brixton.

WANTED, Artists, Specialities, &c., June 27, July 18, 25, and Aug. 1. Particulars, terms, and state when last in Warrington. H. BURTON, Court T., Warrington.

WANTED, Artists, Fêtes, Stroud, Evesham, Swindon, Aug. 1. Wire-walker and Comedy Triple Bars with second Act write. TOM HAY, Gloucester.

WANTED, Star Artists, all Lines, for immediate and future dates. Specialities of every description. Nothing too Big. Terms, bookings, lithos., &c., Address, FRANK COYLE, 160, Woodhouse-st., Leeds. 'Phone 4195. Telegrams, "Alarm."

WANTED, Artists in all Lines, for several Halls in the North, for immediate and future dates. Apply to Signor PEPI, Tivoli Theatre, Barrow-in-Furness.

VERNO'S AGENCY,
16, Elizabeth-street, Liverpool.
WANTED, Artists, in all Lines, June 27, onwards.
Telegrams, "Merriment." Telephone, 2,076 Royal.

WANTED, for Chappell's Concerts, Artists, all Lines, now, on. HARRY BARKER, Manager, 6, Harley-road, Great Yarmouth.

WANTED, Artists all Lines, American Amusement Park, Brussels, Specialities, Novelties, Vents., Quartettes, &c. Carl Wynn write. Photo., envelope, Camera Obscura Lens. ARTISTE, 73, Rue Broquiez près Midi, Brussels.

WANTED, Artists in all Lines, Aug. 1 and 8, for Fêtes and Galas; those doing double acts preferred. Sample lithos. and lowest terms to WILDERS, Agents, Great Francis-st., Birmingham. Wanted, the Pichel Troupe, to communicate immediately.

HIPPODROME, TON-Y-PANDY.
WANTED, June 27, on, Stars and Specialities, all Lines, nothing too big. Also Variety Artists, all Lines. Apply, lowest summer terms, to Managing-Director, D. TAYLOR, Hippo, Ton-y-pandy. N.B.—Please state when and where last appeared in Pandy.

SYNDICATE HALLS.
STILL WANTED.
WANTED, Original Turns who have not appeared at above. Send bookings, lowest terms, particulars, &c. (no callers), WARREN AGENCY, 21, Victoria-street, Liverpool.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS WANTED.

WANTED, Wanted, Wanted, All sorts of Turns, Tops, and Bottoms, Small Turns, &c., &c. Acts wanted for three weeks in Ireland.

Send full list of Bookings, absolute lowest terms, HARRY THURSTON, G.P.O., Blackpool. I can give good Acts fourteen weeks. Must have full list of Bookings.

WANTED, Big and Small Turns, new to Tynemouth, Shields, Whitley Bay, Sunderland. Terms, bookings, and vacancies. MOORE, Palace, Bristol.

WANTED, Talent all Lines, for immediate and future dates; the bigger the Act the better. Send lowest terms, photos. (if any), permanent address, along with full list of bookings. The following towns are merely a few we are well in with: Blackpool, New Brighton, Manchester, Darwen, Rochdale, Wigan, Hull, Scarboro', Southport, Hyde, Pontefract, Leeds, Liverpool, Buxton, Glasgow, Gateshead, Sunderland, Newcastle, Dundee, &c.

WANTED, Very Best of Talent, in all Lines, for Widnes, Runcorn, and Northwich. Refinement Essential. HAMILTON & HUGHES, Co-Op. Hall, Widnes.

WANTED, for Palace, Sunderland, Big Specialities, Novel Musical Acts, Big Animal Acts, Panto. Sketches, with own Trick Scenery, and anything with strong magnetic drawing powers, for July 4, 11, onwards. Address, lowest terms, samples of printing, MANAGER, Palace Sunderland.

WANTED, Wanted, immediately, First-class Big Star Acts and Comedy Specialities, Comedy Musical Acts, &c., for Blackpool, Southport, and Morecambe, for July, Aug., and Sept.

WILL SLEY, 180, Oxford-road, Manchester.

SMYTHSON'S AGENCY,
38, Craster-road, Brixton Hill, London, S.W.
WANTED, Big Acts for Continent, Sole Agency only entertained, Striking Novelty Acts. If unknown to me state where can be seen during June and July. Silence a polite negative pro tem.

SMYTHSON'S AGENCY,
38, Craster-road, Brixton Hill, London, S.W.
WANTED, Tops and Bottoms of Bill, London and Provinces, also, Pantomime Principals for best Panto. Houses, 1910-11. Previous engagements and lowest terms first letter.

WANTED, by T. Elder Hearn, Paying Theatres on Shares, from July 4, and on. Also immediately, Comedy Acts, mostly in one, Must be Top of the Bill Acts.

Write direct, June 20, Hippodrome, Huddersfield.

WANTED, good refined Comedy Acts, Specialities, &c. Address, MANAGER, Picturedrome, Bradford.

CHARLES DEETRICH'S AGENCY,
31, Islington, Liverpool. 'Phone 1269 Royal.
WANTED, the Biggest Acts in the Market, for June 27, July 4 and 11. Full list of Bookings and lowest terms in first instance.

WANTED, June 27, on, for Dublin, Belfast, Glasgow, Rochdale, &c., Variety Acts. Aug. 1, Gala Acts, &c. GANNON, 3, West-grove, Bristol.

WANTED, Big Novelty Acts, June 27, July 4, 11, and Aug. 1, and later. WILL SMITHSON, Empire, Barnsley.

WANTED, Variety Combinations, for immediate and future dates; only strong Attractions entertained. Full particulars and lowest terms, WARHURST, Amphitheatre, Rhyl.

BARNARD'S AGENCY, Shaw-street, Liverpool.
WANTED, Strong Attractions of all descriptions, July 4 and on, also sharing Tops, Novelty Acts of all description, July 4, on. Recognised turns only treated with. Telephone 2349 Royal.

WANTED, Drawing Novelties for Outdoor Fêtes, Aug. 2 and 25, and Sept. 1.

Write full particulars to C., c/o ASHTON & MITCHELL, 33, Old Bond-street, London, W.

WANTED, Cheap Specialities, Alfresco, July and August. Small Stage. Current lowest terms. DAVIS, Pier, Saltburn.

EMPIRE THEATRE, HYDE.
WANTED, Big Star Tops, on share or salary. Variety Artists, all Lines, new for Hyde, for June 27, all July. Wanted, Big Acts, for North, all Dates. Artists Vacant June 27 wire quick. Address, CLIQUOT'S Agency, 9, Monton-street, Denmark-road, Manchester.

TOPS OF BILLS.
WANTED, Big Acts, Shares or Certainty, Empire, Dudley. Immediate and Future Dates. Particulars, BOWMAKER, Pal., Northampton.

WANTED, Tops and Bottoms, write at once, I can Book them a town in Scotland. HARRY TAFT, Music Hall, Belfast.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS WANTED.

PERCY VICTOR'S AGENCY.
WANTED, the Greatest Top-liners, Artists all Lines, Principal Boys, Comedians, Fairy Queens Acrobats, for Six Pantomimes. State where to be seen. Two-act People, Galas, Aug. 1, 8, good small Specialities (Vocalists, Musical, &c.), 27th, on. Several immediate Dates for Big Combinations. Bookings, 48, Bilston-street, Wolverhampton. Permanent.

PALACE THEATRE, READING.
WANTED, Tops and Bottoms of Bills, several dates this and next year. Letters only. STANHOPE and Co., LTD., 12, Buckingham-st., W.C.

PALACE, DURHAM (on the main line).
WANTED, Big Tops, June 27, also Aug. 1, onwards. T. C. RAWES, Proprietor.

WANTED, Big Tops, Big Comedy Acts, Specialities, Comedy Sketches, Chinese Jugglers, Comediennes, for June 27 and onwards. Send full list of bookings and absolute lowest terms. BROWN'S Variety Agency, 58, Chicksand-street, N.E. Telephone No. 1098 City. Seen by appointment only.

WANTED, Star Comedians, Star Serios, Big Specialities, and Drawing Cards in all Lines, for TON-Y-PANDY HIPPODROME, June 27, onwards. State when last there. Wanted, Star Attractions in all lines, also smaller numbers, for Watford Theatre, Aug. 1, onwards. Full particulars. CADLE'S Agency, 105, Strand, W.C.

SYLVESTER'S GALAS, AUG. BANK HOLIDAY.
WANTED, anything suitable for Open-air Performances. Specimen lithos., lowest rock-bottom terms per day (not week), or useless. Letters only. No callers. 271, Clapham-road, London. Old clients write.

WANTED, by well-known Lady Illusionist, for the Continent, a young, intelligent, and pretty Girl Assistant, good appearance; also two Young Men, for Stage and Baggage. References indispensable. IONIA, De Vere, Yellowstone Park, Rosny à Bois, Seine, France. (Postage 2½d.)

WANTED, immediately, Lady Assistant to Illusionist. Full particulars first instance, or useless. Address, Box 7,859, "The Era."

WANTED, Young Lady Gymnast, also Apprentice, height 5ft. 5in. First-class situation. Apply, 95, Vassall-road, Brixton, London.

WANTED, refined humorous Entertainer, Patter, Monologues, &c. Age, height, married or single, experience, répertoire, and terms. GEO. KINGSTON, 345, Waterloo-road, Blackpool. Montague Leslie write.

WANTED, young, refined Scotch Comedian, used to Concerteds. Send photo., répertoire, lowest terms, MELVILLE, Rathbone-gardens, Portobello. Good Palmist wanted.

WANTED, Smart Comedian and Dancer, with high voice, for well-known Sketch. Letters, photo, age, &c., HORACE WYATT, Hip., Nottingham.

WANTED, Good Comedy Bar and Trampoline Performer; must be really Funny. Write, stating lowest salary, age, height, weight, and tricks; act booked. Letters only. FRANCIS, 66, Kennington-road, London. S.E.

WANTED, by Comedy Posturer and Handbalancer, June 27, to join Troupe or Partner. WILL MASTERS, O. H., Northampton. Thanks Will Douglas, Esq.

WANTED, a smart Hand Balancer, 7st. to 8st. Send terms, &c.; good shop to good man. WILL RENZ, Varieties, Leeds.

WANTED, Several Competent and Reliable Operators. Apply, giving full particulars of past experience and enclose copies of recent references, to TETLOW, Panopticon, Cardiff.

WANTED, Wanted, Known, for Original Songs try EGAN, Bedford House, 3, Bedford-st., Strand, W.C.

WANTED, Music Hall Artists who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Son's Bookstalls to kindly communicate with the PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Known, Madame Adah Payne, the Australian Prima Donna, late of Moody-Manners' Principal Opera Company, at Liberty July 4 and 11. To-day, Hippo., Wakefield (third visit); next week, Pier Pavilion, Southport (return).

WANTED, by Dainty Dorretta, Comedienne and Acrobatic Dancer, June 27 (between London and Empire, York). Address, Walcot Cottage, Kennington-road, S.E.

WANTED, July 4, on, by Miss Cissie Arris, Vocalist and Gold Medallist, Top Boot Dancer. Next week, McLearn's Picture Palace, Govan, N.B.

WANTED, June 20, onwards, Babs Lloyd, Comedienne and Expert Dancer, Olympia, Newcastle-on-Tyne. After Saturday, 62, Upper Thomas-street, Aston, Birmingham.

WANTED, Known, the Sisters Terry, at Liberty June 27, July 11, 18, 25. This, Palace, Durham; next, Empire, Barnsley.

WANTED, by Sisters Geretti, July 11, 25, Aug. 1, 8, Casino, Rotterdam, Holland.

FOR CONTINUATION OF "WANTED" ADVTS. SEE PAGE 32.

BERSAGLIERI'S BAND.

WANTED ENGAGEMENTS BY THIS FAMOUS NOVELTY BAND
Apply, BANDMASTER, 74, FLORENCE RD., BRIGHTON.

MOSS' EMPIRES, LTD. & STOLL COMPANIES SUBSEQUENT

(Moss, Stoll, Thornton & Allen Theatres, Amalgamated.) WORKING IN CONJUNCTION (Including Coliseum Syndicate, Ltd.)

Chairman: SIR EDWARD MOSS — Capital £2,086,000. — Chairman OSWALD STOLL.

Managing Director: OSWALD STOLL

Assisting Director and Chief of Staff: FRANK ALLEN.

Department Superintendent and Chief Accountant: W. S. GORDON MICHIE.

Co-Operative Offices: CRANBOURN MANSIONS, CRANBOURN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

INTERVIEWS BY APPOINTMENT ONLY.

CALLS FOR MONDAY, JUNE 20, 1910.

Telephone: 1050 and 1051 Gerrard. Wires: Moss' Empires and Associated Properties, "Twigsoma, London."

THE LONDON HIPPODROME

Rehearsal at 10 a.m. for:—

Russian Dancers, Chung Ling Soo, Happy Fanny Fields, Grassis, Jackson Family, Ed. Blondell and Co., Seven Perezoffs, Du Cros Trio, Cassie Walmer, Animated Pictures, Albert Chantrier, Rinaldo.

EMPIRE PALACE, EDINBURGH.
Rehearsal at 1.30 p.m for:—

Harry Lauder, Bob and Jennie Leonard, Cull Pitt, F. V. St. Clair, Yamamoto and Koyoshi, Brothers Durant, Vecta and Minnie Pine, Pictures, Livesey and Rosebery in "An Amateur Anarchist," Ella Retford.

EMPIRE THEATRE, GLASGOW.
Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Raymond Phillips's Wireless Airship, Mona Garrick, Russell Carr, Maxey and Pete, Jock Mills, Eight Lancashire Lads, Alcide Capitaine, Jennie Hartley, Bioscope, Binns and Binns.

COLISEUM, GLASGOW.
Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Chas. T. Aldrich, Rich Taylor, Lyric Quartette, Carrie Laurie's "Belles of the Kitchen," Tom E. Finglass, Empire Comedy Four, Pender Troupe, Louie Frayne, Bioscope, Alicia Ramsey and Rudolph de Cordova's Co. in "The Organ-grinder."

GRAND THEATRE, GLASGOW.
Closed for Summer Vacation.

ARDWICK THEATRE, MANCHESTER.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

George Robey, Bioscope, New York Nippers, Walter Munroe, Martialo Trio, Keppels, Harry Bancroft, Emmie Ames, George Lestocq and Co., Albert Whelan.

HIPPODROME, MANCHESTER.
Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

George Lashwood, Frank and Free, Edward Davies, Brothers Egbert, Nell Emerald, Emma Don and Co., Bioscope, John Humphries and Co., Alice Raymond.

EMPIRE PALACE, BIRMINGHAM.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Welsh v. McFarland Fight on the Bioscope, Tom Stuart, Lily Flexmore, New Macs, Three Laurels, Dan Thomas, Pete and Minnie Lee, Griff, Fred Storey and Co., Chas. Leighton.

BORDESLEY PALACE, BIRMINGHAM.
Edward Marris' Stock Company.

GRAND, BIRMINGHAM.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Girard and Gardner, Lillian Bishop, Phillips and Merritt, Horace Pollock, Hall and Earle, Elton and Edwin, Harry Marte, Bioscope, Dan Crawley, Fred Lindsay and Co.

PALACE, LEICESTER.
Rehearsal at 2.30 p.m. for:—

Karno's "Jimmy the Fearless," Wullie Walker, La Freya, Chas. Norton, Ando's Japs, Ted E. Box, Miles-Stavordale Quintette, Maudie Francis, Bioscope, Poluskis.

EMPIRE, NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Mike Whallen, Anna Chandler, Wyndham and Kitty, Orpheus, J. W. Hall, Mitchell and Cain, Lena Verdi, Marconis, Bioscope, A. C. Lilly and Co., in "Drummed Out."

EMPIRE PALACE, LIVERPOOL.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

G. H. Elliott, Chas. R. Whittle, Jackley Trio, Dorothy Ward, Harry Jolson, Six Lancashire Lasses, Frasettis, Tom Moore, Bioscope, Lew Lake and Co.

OLYMPIA, LIVERPOOL.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Jack Lorimer, Welsh v. McFarland Fight on the Bioscope, Sisters Kilner, Onette Sisters, George Newburn, Five Vernons, Fielding and Hull, Stella Stahl, Twelve Fezzans.

EMPIRE, HACKNEY.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

"Futurity Winner," Helene Donald, Hardini Trio, Welsh v. McFarland Fight on the Bioscope, Laurie's Kindergarten, D'Arc's Marionettes, Daisy Martell, Will Johnson, Campbell and Barber, Juliette's Sea Lions.

EMPIRE, HOLLOWAY.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Bransby Williams, Ernie Mayne, Little Keeno, Bioscope, "Spirit of Music," Abdullah Arabs, May Mars, Roze and Calvert, Brennans, Alexandre and Hughes.

EMPIRE, NEW CROSS.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Horace Goldin, Frank Couch, Bioscope, Ted and May Hopkins, Brothers Artois, Bert Harrow, Duncan's Dogs, McGregors, Lillian, Gothams, Winifred Ward.

BROADWAY THEATRE, NEW CROSS.
Stock Company, "Arrah-Na-Pogue."

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, STOKE NEWINGTON.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Stock Company, Illustrated Song, and Pictures.

EMPIRE, STRATFORD.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

R. G. Knowles, Glenroy Troupe, Fred Poplar, Staig's Steeplejacks, Hilda Jacobsen, Kitty Wager, Bert Weston, Bioscope, Gardner and Stoddard, Anartos.

THE LONDON COLISEUM

Rehearsal at 10 a.m. for:—

Russian Dancers, Cecilia Loftus, Hanako and Co., Ricardo and Salving, Torbay, Humpsti Bumsti, Tom Costello, Takio, Bioscope, Olgar, Elgar, and Eli Hudson.

EMPIRE THEATRE, BRADFORD.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Le Roy, Talma and Bosco, Haytors, O'Gust, Margaret Parker and Co., Harvey's Boys and Girls, Ike and Will Scott, Johnny Fuller, Alice Kingsley, Bioscope, Nelson Jackson.

EMPIRE, SWANSEA.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Oswald Williams, Marie Kendall, Mary Ambrose, Harry Leybourne, Smite and Smote, Ed. E. Ford, Steve McCarthy, Bioscope, Albert and Edmunds Troupe.

EMPIRE, CARDIFF.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Geo. Ali and Co., Belle Belles, Azell A. Wilson, Delevines, Rosie Fitzgerald, Bioscope, Winifred Hare, Harry Weldon, Witty Watty Walton.

PHILHARMONIC HALL, CARDIFF.
Rehearsal at 3 p.m. for:—

Company as Booked.

EMPIRE, NEWPORT.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Will Evans, Bioscope, Luis Alvarez, A Ba-Be's Album, Heeley and Meeley, Delomes, Jack Pleasants, May and Kennerly.

EMPIRE, NOTTINGHAM.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Hetty King, Fatmah Diard, Bert Williams, Gustave Fasola, Lillian Dundas and Co., Brothers Redmond, Aida Martine, Florence Smithers, Sam Mayo, Bioscope.

EMPIRE PALACE, SHEFFIELD.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Harry Roxbury and Co. in "On the Track," Harry Lamore, Bioscope, Bertha Winder, Leo Tell, Walter King, Drew and Alders, Marco Belli, Avolos, Spry and Monti, Nellie Wallace.

PALACE THEATRE, HULL.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Arthur Roberts and Co., Cumminger and Colonna, Alf. Gibson, Conn and Conrad, Siems, Chas. Fisher's Vocalesques, Lillie Lassah, Bioscope, Gertie Gitana, George French.

EMPIRE PALACE, LEEDS.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Victoria Monks, Alice Maydue, Frank H. Fox, Carmos, Harry Herbert, Chris. Van Bern, Iva Voyce, King's College Boys, Conan and Doyle, Nellie Farrell, Bioscope, Holden's Mannikins.

EMPIRE, SHEPHERD'S BUSH.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

G. H. Chirgwin, Bert Coote and Co. in "A Lamb on Wall Street," Bioscope, Gwennie Hasto, Peggy Pryde, Three Merrills, Will Poluski, jun., Brothers Bright, Two St. Johns, Dan Lipton's "Songland."

The following are Booked in conjunction with the above:

EMPIRE, SUNDERLAND.
Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Mark Sheridan, Amy Marsden, Addie Dorina, Georgians, Carl Howard, Bioscope, Miller Brothers, Bros. Dean.

EMPIRE PALACE, SOUTH SHIELDS.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Wish Wynne, Sylvia du Barry, Harry May Hemsley, Kirbys, Dan Ashton, Mr. and Mrs. H Finden, Pictures, Leslie Brothers.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, WALSALL.
Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Seymour Hicks and Co. in "Scrooge," Billy Hobbs, Phil Rees' Stable Lads, Pat Rafferty, Cissie Thompson, Bioscope, Alf. Agoust, Lux's Dogs.

EMPIRE, WEST HARTLEPOOL.
Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Zona Vevey, Jean Seul, Bioscope, Kratons, Arthur Ferriss, Channings, De Wynne Brothers.

EMPIRE THEATRE, DUBLIN.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

W. F. Frame, Kathleen Gray, Alec Lawson, Roma and Romani, Pawsons, Pictures, May Henderson, &c., &c.

EMPIRE THEATRE, BELFAST.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Fred Earle, May Brilliant, Brull and Hemsley, Woodhouse and Wells, Johnny Walker, Pictures, Florence Yaymen, &c., &c.

IMPERIAL HALL, WALSALL.
Company as Booked.

CROYDON HIPPODROME.
Closed for Alterations.

SPECIAL NOTE.—NO DEPUTIES WILL BE ACCEPTED AT REHEARSALS.

IMPORTANT NOTICES.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS.—All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office. Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns. Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier. Artists employing agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents. New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our Districts Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow:—

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, and DISTRICT.—MR. S. GETHING, Empire Theatre, Glasgow.
LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, and DISTRICT.—MR. PERCIVAL CRAIG, Empire Theatre, Bradford.
BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HATTON WHARTON, Empire Theatre, Nottingham.
LIVERPOOL, MANCHESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HORACE COLE, The Empire, Liverpool.
SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.—MR. ALBERT MITCHELL, Empire Theatre, Cardiff.
LONDON DISTRICT.—MR. J. CHRISTIE, Empire Theatre, Shepherd's Bush, W.
TOURS COMMITTEE.—LLEWELLYN JOHNS and DISTRICT MANAGERS.
EMPIRE THEATRE, SOUTH SHIELDS.—Artists and Agents wishing to submit TRIALS for their Acts in the North, should apply to the Manager, as Matinées are held every Wednesday for that purpose.

N.B.—MR. OSWALD STOLL or MR. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously. Artists and Agents are requested to note that the Standard Theatre, Shoreditch, and the Terriss Theatre, Rotherhithe, come within the areas absolutely barred by us. Artists and Agents are also requested to note that the Hippodrome, Aston, Birmingham, comes within the area absolutely barred by the Grand Theatre and Empire Palace, Birmingham.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ARTISTS.—Artists must have at least Fourteen Band Parts for English Orchestrations, and Seventeen Band Parts for Foreign Orchestrations. Matter of Bill, Blocks, and Specimens of Pictorials FOR THE ABOVE THEATRES must be sent to CO-OPERATIVE OFFICES, at above address, THREE WEEKS before Opening, failing which Artists will run the risk of having their Engagements cancelled. It is important that separate bill matter, blocks, pictorials, &c., for Dublin, Belfast, and South Shields, be sent direct to Mr. Frank Allen at the Co-operative Offices. IMPORTANT.—Artists must forward Copies of Songs to the STAGE DEPARTMENT, ABOVE ADDRESS, TWO WEEKS previous to opening, with Assignments for same, which will be returned. Artists are requested to note carefully that the clause in their contracts relating to rehearsals will in future be strictly enforced. Artists' Scenery, Properties, &c., MUST be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Licensing Authorities. ARTISTS WILL CLEARLY UNDERSTAND THAT THEIR BUSINESS MUST BE FREE FROM ALL VULGARITY.

No order or contract for goods or services must be accepted for any of the foregoing theatres except upon receipt of an Official Form, issued from the Co-operative Offices, London, and signed by either Mr. Oswald Stoll, Mr. Frank Allen, or the Chief Accountant, otherwise the Company concerned will not be responsible for same, and will refuse payment. In special cases, where goods are required at once, suppliers must look to the individual placing the order, who will be personally liable, unless an official confirmatory order, signed as above, is received within forty-eight hours. Invoices must be sent to the Theatre, but monthly statements should be sent to the Co-operative Offices. The individual Company on whose behalf orders are signed is solely responsible for payment. The Management will not hold themselves responsible in the event of loss of or damage to any MSS., Songs, &c., submitted for consideration.

The Greatest Aggregation of Variety Theatres in the World

LONDON OFFICES:
— OAKLEY HOUSE, —
Bloomsbury St., W.C.,
where please address all communications in regard to the Professional and Publicity Departments of the PROVINCIAL CIRCUIT to Mr. SYDNEY ARTHUR.
—— Telegraphic Address ——
"CIRVAUMAC LONDON."
Telephone—No. 9167 GERRARD.

SHEFFIELD OFFICES:
KING'S CHAMBERS,
Angel St., Sheffield,
where please address all communications in regard to FINANCIAL, COMMERCIAL, and GENERAL BUSINESS MATTERS.
—— Telegraphic Address ——
"MACNAGHTEN, SHEFFIELD."
Telephone—No. 3449.

THE MACNAGHTEN VAUDEVILLE CIRCUIT

Director-General:
Mr. FRANK MACNAGHTEN.

Secretary: Miss AMY ROBINSON.

General Business Manager for the Circuit:
Mr. E. P. LAWTON.

Provincial District and Booking Manager:
Mr. SYDNEY ARTHUR.

CALLS FOR WEEK COMMENCING MONDAY, JUNE 20.

PROVINCIAL HOUSES.

PALACE, HALIFAX.
Carlton, Bros. Hannaway, J. C. Woods, Mysterious Cross, Cairo Trio, Leolin, Enzer and Clarice, Palace Perfection Pictures, "The Circus."

PALACE THEATRE, CARLISLE.
Williams' Jubilee Singers, Alice Craven, Musical Keiths, Walter Aubrey, Harry Keeble, Sissie Brand, Adam Tomlinson, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PAVILION, LEICESTER.
Little Georgie Harris, Gladys Wyse, Joe Belmont, Ellerslie Pine, Cruikshanks and Co., Five Jovers, Pavilion Perfection Pictures, Dene and Dixon.

PALACE, SOUTHAMPTON.
Welsh-McFarland Fight Picture, Walter Ellis and Co., Monie Mine, Canard, Bartholomew Girls, Will H. Fox, The Courtiers, Palace Perfection Pictures.

SADLER'S WELLS.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
Pictures, Geo. D'Albert, Elsie Claire, Nora Noble, Arnold Bell and Co., Willie and Johnny, Daisy Silcott, Acton and O'Keene's Co., Alskarno Trio.

FORESTERS'.
Matinées Monday and Thursday, at 2.30.
Pictures, Chris Baker, Rousby and Rene, Bessie Neilson, Soussi and Frotti, Carlotta De Yonsen and Co., Syd Walker, Dorie Duce, Little Dando, The Alaskas.

PALACE, BRADFORD.
Matinée Thursday.
Gilbert Heron and Co., Vaudeville Trio, Max Laube, Sisters Belmont, Pit Brow Girls, Vela, Josh Dixon, The Cedrics, Miss Elsie and Bob, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, WARRINGTON.
Vonetta, Milner and Storey, Tom Gott, Lilybelle, Guest and Newlyn, Lily Edwardes, Alfred Long, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE THEATRE, BATH.
Wilmar's Spirit Paintings, Myrtle Grove, Marie Altino, Wallace Whitney, Beattie Foster, Le Hurst, The Days, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, CARDIFF.
Welsh-McFarland Fight Picture, Will Cornish, Maude May Murray, Ford Williams, Sydney Brandon, Helen Martin, Geni Family, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, BURNLEY.
Jackson Family, Dan Conroy, Sisters Maynard, Flo Burnett, Chas. Woodward, The Fitzroys, Ted Waite, Mr. and Mrs. Lucas, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PIER PAVILION, SOUTHPORT.
"The Plumbers," Gene Morelle, Adah Payne, Four Rosebuds, Judge's Cockatoos, Oliver Martyn, Lestree, Picture of the Picture World.

PALACE THEATRE, LINCOLN.
Warsaw Bros., Bert Crosbie, The Seddons, Ethel Entwistle, Colley and Scott, Fallows and Beaumont, Walter Read, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE THEATRE, HUDDERSFIELD.
Velanche's Dogs, Danvers and Rosslyn, Arthur Stacey, The Two Unites, Ena Compton, John Macauley, The Westwoods, Palace Perfection Pictures.

COLISEUM, SOUTHAMPTON.
Norah Desmond.

HIPPODROME, STALYBRIDGE.
Closed.

THEATRE ROYAL, ROTHERHAM.
Blanche Marion, Two Lees, Pictures.

THEATRE ROYAL, CHESTERFIELD.
Harold Heath, Fred Ward, Pictures.

THEATRE ROYAL, ATTERCLIFFE.
Picture Entertainment.

KING'S, NOTTINGHAM.
Picture Entertainment.

HIPPODROME, STOKE-ON-TRENT.
"Two Little Drummer Boys."

PALACE, BLACKBURN.
"The Pawnbroker," Beattie and Blanche, Chas. Vincent, Reid and Power, Dan Fraser, The Motramos, Palace Perfection Pictures.

LONDON HOUSES.

PALACE, BOW.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
Pictures, Geo. Brooks, Lizzie Daniels, Mabel Florence, The Hulls, Jos. Crook, Eric and Nora, Florrie Thurstone, Four Sydney Girls, Fyne and Wood, Bernard Mervyn and Co.

SURREY THEATRE.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
Pictures, Robb. Wilton, Dan Hendy, Harry Hunter, Tiny Arnold, Leo and Roland, Edith Lewis and Co., Seven National Girls, Kitty Correlli, Two Runaway Girls, Constance Mori.

PALACE, BATTERSEA.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
Pictures, Will Challoner, Leon and Tee, "Telephone Tragedy," "Miser's Curse," Gyp Hodgson, Sisters Edwards, Leonard and Vereker, Harry Ugar, Irene May, Fred Moule and Co.

London District and Booking Manager: Mr. FREDERIC BAUGH.

SPECIAL AND IMPORTANT NOTICE.—Artists engaged will please note that Rehearsals at ALL Halls take place at 12 o'clock noon each Monday. No excuses whatever for non-attendance will be entertained. All billing matter and notification of appearance accompanied by samples of pictorial printing must be IN THE CASE OF THE PROVINCIAL HALLS SENT TO OAKLEY HOUSE, BLOOMSBURY STREET, W.C.; AND IN THE CASE OF THE LONDON HALLS TO THE FORESTERS' THEATRE, CAMBRIDGE ROAD, E., fourteen clear days prior to opening, or Contract may be cancelled at the option of the Management. Artists wishing to negotiate Engagements for the London Houses of the Circuit will please apply to Mr. FREDERIC BAUGH, Booking Manager for London, at the FORESTERS' THEATRE, CAMBRIDGE ROAD, E. Telegraphic address, "Stageyness, London." Telephone 5954 Avenue.

Artists wishing to negotiate provincial engagements, Agents and Managers of Touring Companies, can be seen at Oakley House by appointment only.

All applications for dates at the Theatre Royal, Rotherham, and Theatre Royal, Chesterfield, to be addressed to Oakley House, Bloomsbury-street, London.

THE SURREY VAUDEVILLE THEATRE, Ltd.
Managing Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.

In accordance with the Arbitrator's Award, Eight Weeks' Notice is hereby given that the above Theatre

Will be Closed on Saturday, July 30, 1910,

for the purpose of Rebuilding A definite date for re-opening will shortly be announced. All Artistes booked will be given other dates.

FREDERIC BAUGH,
For the Surrey Vaudeville Theatre, Ltd.

All Coms, The Foresters' Vaudeville Theatre, Cambridge Road, London, E.

Telegrams: "Stageyness, London." Telephone: 5954 Avenue.

EMPIRE THEATRE, BURNLEY.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the above Theatre will cease to be in the possession and occupancy of Mr. W. C. Horner, as and from the 19th day of August, 1910, and all contracts with Variety Artists entered into with the said W. C. Horner are thereby cancelled as and from the date herein mentioned, in accordance with the Arbitrators' Award.

W. C. HORNER.

HANDSOME FAMILY RESIDENCE. 98, Tulse-hill, with beautiful Ornamental Grounds, well-stocked kitchen and fruit garden, tennis lawn, hot-houses, large fishpond, good stabling, coachhouse, conservatory, 7 bedrooms, large dining and drawing-room, library, and bath-room; must be sold, a bargain. No reserve; may be viewed any day.

NOTICE TO ARTISTS, AGENTS, PROPRIETORS, AND MANAGERS.

ON AND AFTER MONDAY, 20th June, 1910, all booking business for Halls controlled by UNITED COUNTY THEATRES, Ltd., viz.: Palace, PLYMOUTH; Grand Theatre, STONEHOUSE; Palace, BRISTOL; King's Theatre, GATESHEAD; Palace, ABERDEEN; King's Theatre, DUNDEE; and the Hippodrome, DEVONPORT, will be conducted from the Head Offices of the Company, Broadmead House, Panton-street, Haymarket, London, S.W., and all communications relative to the same to be addressed to Mr. HERBERT TAYLOR, Booking Department,
United County Theatres, Ltd.,
Broadmead House, Panton-street,
Haymarket, London, S.W.
IMPORTANT NOTICE.—Artists and Agents seen by appointment only.

Posters for all New Films
SEND FOR CATALOGUES, &c.
STAFFORD & CO., Ltd., Netherfield, Notts.

MOODY BROS., Theatrical Printers, Birmingham, for Pictorials. Machinery to print 60 by 40. Write for new catalogue, which contains Mackenzie's and Hollingshurst's Illustrations; also Culliford's Catalogue for Bargains. Contracts for New Work solicited. 'Phone One-two-o-six Central. Tel. "Moody's, Bmgham."

WILLSON'S
Supply Streamer Letters.
The Largest Assortment in the United Kingdom.

Mammoth Posters, Daybills, and the general Run of Show Printing at our usual Low Rates.
Roll Tickets and Railway Tickets a Speciality.

NEW WALK PRINTING WORKS, LEICESTER.

GAMAGES

The World's CHEAPEST HOUSE for Amateur and Professional Make-Ups and Properties.

THE SECRETS OF MAKING-UP.
By J. AINSLEY BROUGH.
The most useful book on the subject published.
Highly Recommended.
Price 1/-
Post Free.

PIERROT COSTUMES
INCLUDING
HAT.
LATEST PATTERN.
Price 14/6
Postage ... ... 6d.

A. W. GAMAGE Ltd. HOLBORN. & BENETFINK & Co. Ltd. CHEAPSIDE.

PROFESSIONAL APARTMENTS.
Three Lines, ONE SHILLING.
Thirteen Insertions, TWELVE SHILLINGS.

BRIGHTON.—Seven Stars, Ship-street, opposite G.P.O. The professional house, Sunday Reunions. Always a hearty welcome. Luncheons, &c., at popular prices. DE COSTA, Proprietor.

EDINBURGH.—Cathedral Hotel, near Lyceum, Royal, Empire, and King's. Recommended. Personal Supervision. CHARLES GRANT.

GLASGOW.—Buchanan-street Station Hotel. Recommended. Terms, moderate. Near Royal, Royalty, Grand Theatre; Empire, Pavilion.

HULL.—22, John-st. Two sitting-rooms, 2 bedrooms, 2 combined; piano, bath (h. and c.); Nat. Tel. 334Y7. Mrs. Holmes.

ILKLEY.—Comfortable apartments and board; terms moderate. Mrs. Sendey, 15, Wellington-road, Ilkley.

LIVERPOOL.—Royal Court Hotel, Queen-sq.; 35s., inclusive. Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. de Silva (Cossie Noel). Tel. 3938 Royal.

LONDON, S.E.—One drawing-room, with bed-room, and one bed-sitting room vacant for Sunday 19th, Mrs. Gatehouse, 123, Kennington-road.

LONDON, S.E. — Camberwell Gate. Large combined rooms vacant; bath (h. and c.), piano; very moderate. Board-residence, 15s. 23, Grosvenor-terrace.

LONDON, S.W.—Superior apartments. Bath (h. c.), new piano, good cooking and attendance; large garden. 145, Brixton-road.

LONDON, W.—Piccadilly Circus. Sup. furn. apartments. Bedrooms, from 10s., combined ditto, and suites, bath. 6 Arundell-street, W., opp. Tube.

MANCHESTER.—Mrs. Gilman, 1, Repton-street. Comb. rooms, 6s., 7s., 8s.; also bed and sitt.; piano, bath; central; vacant Sunday.

PORTSMOUTH.—Judd's Hotel. In same family over 30 years. Accommodation for Professional gentlemen; inclusive from 30s.

PORTSMOUTH.—North's Temperance Hotel and Restaurant, delightfully situated between both stations; good cooking; moderate.

RHYL.—Mrs. Canton, 4, Bridge-st. Professional apartments. Moderate terms.

ROCHDALE.—Mrs. Shelley, Park View, 25, Church-stile, late of Sussex-street; five minutes from Theatre, three minutes from Halls.

SOUTHPORT.—Mrs. Yvette, 2, West-st. Superior Professional Apartments, 1 minute from Empire and O. H., sea; piano, bath (h., c.).

WAKEFIELD. — Harewood Arms Hotel. Professional house of call. Close to Empire. All papers taken. WALTER HEWITT.

THE COVENTRY HOTEL
FOR BACHELORS.
7 and 8, Rupert-street, Coventry-street, W.
Bed, Breakfast, Bath, and Attendance, 4s. 6d.

BRAID HILLS HOTEL, MORNINGSIDE, EDINBURGH. Charmingly situated hotel, completely appointed, every modern luxury, uninterrupted views of the city and surrounding district, 450ft. above sea level, pure mountain air, splendid public golf course adjoining hotel, also ladies' course; cable cars to and from city every three minutes up to 11.30 p.m. Terms moderate.
For descriptive brochure apply to MANAGER.

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS AND LITTLE BOYS. Mrs. Budge, Crowland, 163, Trinity-road, Upper Tooting, London, S.W. Good house, healthy situation; near Wandsworth Common Station and Balham trams.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

Being a digest of the Law relating to Theatres and Music Halls, and containing chapters on Theatrical Contracts, Theatrical, Music and Dancing, and Excise Licences, Dramatic and Musical Copyright, &c., with an Appendix containing the Acts of Parliament relating thereto, and the regulations of the London County Council and the Lord Chamberlain, by

ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (London), Solicitor.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS—

THE ENCORE, May 26, 1910.
We have just received the third edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's book on Theatrical and Musical Law, which is published at The Era Office, 5, Tavistock Street, Strand. Since the second edition of this work was published—nine years—many changes have taken place in the laws relating to entertainments, and these have necessitated a considerable enlargement of the volume. Full texts of the recent Berlin Convention and the United States Copyright Law are included in this edition, in which is also published the awards governing the relations between artists, agents, and managers. A number of new cases are also cited illustrating the effects of the barring clause. The Musical Copyright Act, children on the stage, the sketch question, and the Workmen's Compensation Act are all fully dealt with and in a readable and easy style, as free as possible from legal phraseology and technicalities. It is a legal axiom that ignorance of the law is no excuse for breaking it, and, therefore, it behoves everyone connected with the entertainment world to make himself acquainted with the law as it stands in relation to the profession or business in which he may be engaged. To everyone connected with the Drama or Variety Mr. Strong's book is a necessity, and this last edition is so comprehensive that anyone who consults it can have no possible excuse for infringing the law on the ground of ignorance. The work will, no doubt, have a ready and rapid sale, for all artists, managers, and agents should have it at hand.

THE FINANCIER, June 8, 1910.
"Dramatic and Musical Law," by Mr. A. A. Strong, LL.B., has reached a third edition, and gives in simple language such parts of the law as relate to subjects with which the profession is concerned.

SPORTING LIFE, May 16, 1910.
Dramatic authors, composers, and all of those interested in dramatic enterprise will find much that is useful and instructive in "Dramatic and Musical Law," by Albert Strong.

REFEREE, May 15, 1910.
Mr. Albert A. Strong's valuable work "Dramatic and Musical Law," published at "The Era" Office, Tavistock-street, has reached its third edition. The author has made every effort to bring the book right up to date.

SUNDAY TIMES, May 29, 1910.
A third edition of Mr. Albert Strong's "Dramatic and Musical Law" is just published. The work has already established its value, as a comprehensive and accurate book of reference, and the new edition has been brought up to date by the inclusion of all recent decisions of the courts, and the texts of the Berlin Convention and the new Copyright Law of the United States.

THE FINANCIAL NEWS, June 13, 1910.
In view of the frequent litigation concerning theatrical matters there can be no doubt as to the usefulness of this little book to those whom it concerns, and, apart from its usefulness, it is really quite an interesting little volume, in saying which we are paying tribute to Mr. Strong's lucid methods of explaining the intricacies of the law. He has avoided legal terms as far as possible, and theatrical cases exemplifying legal principles he has given in full. To make this, the third, edition as complete and useful as possible, Acts of Parliament relating to theatrical matters and the regulations of the Lord Chamberlain and London County Council are set out in full in the appendix, with the text of the recent Berlin Convention and the new Copyright Act of the United States.

THE PERFORMER, May 12, 1910.
THE ARTIST'S LEGAL HANDBOOK.
We welcome a third edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" Offices), as it is nine years since the second appeared, and much has happened since then, not least the foundation of the V.A.F. and the resultant Award of 1907. This will be found incorporated in the now greatly-improved and extended Appendix of Statutes, ranging from the Disorderly Houses Act of 1751, to last year's L.C.C. Cinematograph regulations. As far as is possible with further developments in daily progress, this invaluable work of legal reference for all interested in the entertainment profession has been brought up-to-date. Sixty pages have been added, and the whole revised and rendered easier of reference by the re-arrangements that have been made, and the numerous marginal headings that have been introduced. Strong, on "Dramatic and Musical Law," may be regarded as the layman's complete authority on the subject, whether he be PROPRIETOR, MANAGER, or ARTIST, and with a lucid explanation of the law so readily available, the artist will be wise to consult its pages before venturing on new contracts and agreements, whether as employed or—in these days of "combinations," sketches, troupes, and what not—as employer.

THE MUSIC HALL, May 12, 1910.
Mr. Albert A. Strong's valuable treatise on "Dramatic and Musical Law," published at the offices of "The Era," has reached a third edition. This includes the text of the recent Berlin Convention and the new Copyright Act of the United States, also all the important decisions of the Courts, since the last edition, on which the compiler has been able to lay hands. As Mr. Strong remarks, "There is probably no more fruitful source of litigation than the ordinary theatrical contract." If the work under notice achieved no other object than to impress this fact on the parties concerned, it would still be worth its weight in gold.

SPORTSMAN, May 14, 1910.
"Dramatic and Musical Law," by Albert A. Strong, LL.B. ("Era" Office, W.C.), has gone into a third edition, which would seem to prove its usefulness.

To the Publisher.
1, Renfrew-road, Lambeth, S.E.
15th June, 1910.

My Dear Sir,—
I have had an opportunity of looking into the third edition of Mr. Albert Strong's "Dramatic and Musical Law," published from your office recently, and I have pleasure in testifying to the great value I have found the previous editions in my practice among ladies and gentlemen connected with the profession for which your valuable paper caters so admirably.

That Mr. Strong has had a wide experience in the matters with which he deals so ably in his book is evidenced by the lucid yet exhaustive manner in which he has treated the various subjects therein, and this last edition is eloquent testimony of the care and ability which he bestows upon his work.

Brought thoroughly up to date it will without doubt find a wide circle of usefulness among the profession whose contracts, Mr. Strong aptly remarks, are so fruitful a source of litigation.

Believe me,
Yours very faithfully,
W. H. ARMSTRONG.

Third Edition. Price 5/- Post free 5/4.

Published at "THE ERA" OFFICES, 5, Tavistock St., Strand, W.C.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 29.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Wanted, Known,
Three Sisters Sprightly
(Maud, Florrie, and Heba),
Unexpectedly vacant June 20, 27.
Coms., 27, Winsiade-rd., Brixton Hill, London.

WANTED, by Eileen and May, Sisters, Bright Musical Act, Expert Dancers, June 27, July 4. Co-operative Hall, Widnes.

WANTED, Known, Managers requiring a safe Bottom of the Bill for June 27 and Aug. 8 can secure one by booking
GORDON STRETTON, "the New Coon," in his Latest Song Scenas by Darewski and Barrett, Mellor and Gifford, Harrington and Neat, &c., &c.
All coms. to
STRETTON, 78, Camberwell New-road, S.E.

WANTED, by E. Lucknow, Refined Comedy Musical Comedian and Story-teller, June 20, 27. Central Hall, Oldham, for LUCKNOW. Wire.

WANTED, Monday, also July 4, to follow R. C. T., Warrington, by Dave Abbott, Eccentric Scotch Comedian and Grotesque Dancer. 76, Caledonia-road, Glasgow.

WANTED, June 27, July 4, by Jimmy Shields, the Clever One-legged Comedian and Dancer. Address, Hippodrome, Bursiem, Staff.

WANTED, Monday, also June 27, by Syd Herman, Hebrew Comedian, and The Wymans, Comedy Duo. 34, Warburton-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, 27th, on, exceptions, Dan Ashton, Collier Comedian, Colliery Pictures, Durham, Northumberland preferred. 20th, Empire, South Shields.

Wire June 27. Wire.
The Great Vincent, Acrobatic Table Expert.
The Great Vincent, Acrobatic Table Expert.
WANTED, June 27, Wanted.
This week, Hippodrome, St. Helens;
next week, Empire, Ton-y-Pandy.

WANTED, Known, Stylo, Expert Hoop Juggler, from London Hippodrome and Alhambra. Vacant June 20, 27, July 4. 83, Upper Conran-street, Manchester.

WANTED, Monday next and 27th, by Sergeant Bert Powell, the famous Military Entertainer and Illusionist, concludes to-night, Opera House, Northampton; next week, 13 Windsor-terrace, Salford, Manchester.

WANTED, by De Meglio, Speciality Entertainer, Ventriloquist, Conjurer, Smoke Painting, Chapeaugraphy; own lithos; Piers, Pavilions. Perm. address, Chadwick-road, Eccles.

WANTED, Known, Little Hackenschmidt, World's Champion Bantam Weight Wrestler, fourth year of successfully Starring in this country. 34, Margaret-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, June 27, July 11, various, on, The Monckton (Fred, Lillie), Comedy Duologuists, featuring Farcical Funniosities, "A Woman's Curiosity," "Two in a Flat," &c. Palace, Nelson.

WANTED, Monday next, June 20, by The Lovelaces, American Song Illustrators. Wire, Hippo., Norwich; after Saturday night, Hippo., Salford.

WANTED, Empires, Hippodromes, Theatres, or Picture Palaces, Monday and on, by Chant and Chant, Vocal Comedy Duo. 7, Arboretum-ter., Nottingham.

WANTED, Known, Gladys and Alber, in their Famous Comedy Singing, Dancing, and Tumbling Act. Next, Hippo., Sheffield. Vacant June 27, July 18, Sept. 26, through closing.

WANTED, by Harry Keeble, the Incomparable Ventriloquist, and Gladys Wells, Contralto, Aug. 1, Sept. 5, also Panto. Mon., Palace, Carlisle.

WANTED, June 27, to follow Merthyr, The Ives, Athletic Speciality Artists, Gorgeous Electric Fit-up. Wire or write, Temperance Hall, Merthyr.

WANTED, Monday, 20th and 27th, by The Bronsons, Comedy Musical Sketch Artists, Lady and Gent. Success everywhere. Wire, 12, Ogleforth, York.

WANTED, June 20 and 27, The Carlsens, Comedy Trampoline Speciality and Champion Somersault Dog "Jack." Own scenery, splendid lithos. Sure success. Wire, T. R., Workington. After Sun., 40, Sidney-street, Manchester.

WANTED, by the Bros. Webb, July 11.
Theatre Royal, Dublin.

WANTED, by McBride and Logie, the Canadian Lumbermen, Acrobatic Novelty. June 20 and 27, on. Wire, c/o LEACH, 32, Gloster-street, Bolton.

WANTED, June 20, Rohde and Roche, Chameleon Artist, and IT, a novelty act. Wire, Hippo., Hastings. Also vac. July 4, on. After Sat., 25, Weymouth-st., C.-on-M., Manchester.

WANTED, June 27, by Cambo and Castelle, sensational Musical Monkey Act. Two acts if required. Monday, Hippodrome, Devonport. Wire.

WANTED, by Frantz's Comedy Five, June 27, July 4, 11, Empire, Portsmouth. Per. address, 15, Richmond-terrace, London, S.W.

WANTED, 20th, 27th, and 4th, by Atlas and Vulcana Troupe, Five Champions, including the Most Marvellous and Beautiful Posing Ever Known by the Beautiful Vulcana.
Wire, ATLAS, The Hollies, Fulham.

WANTED, Monday next, by La Dor Troupe, male and female Novelty Acrobats, three Acts. Wanted, Smart Youth, Acrobat. 16, Market-place, Burslem.

WANTED, Known, Le Blond and Miss Ol. Dare, at Liberty June 18, and onward. New and sensational revolving and breakaway ladder. Wood Castle, Bordesley Green, Birmingham.

WANTED, June 27, July 11, 18, by Three Original Hodginis. Aerial Gymnastic Wonders (Seaside Scene). This, Bottom of Bill, Empire, Barnsley; next week, E., Dewsbury.

WANTED, June 20, on, the Four Flying Oreniuses, last week (topping), Ilkeston. Offers invited also for Galas. 67, Walcot-sq., S.E.

WANTED, July 11, 18, 25, by Hulbert, Ventriloquist, and De Lil, Illusionist; two smart Acts. Offers invited. Pavilion, Northwich.

WANTED, June 27, onwards, by Gulliver, Ventriloquist. Halls or Good Alfresco.
Monday, Poole's Palace, Treherbert.

MISS ELLA'S FAMOUS LION SHOW.
WANTED, June 27 (South preferred), all July, and First Three Weeks in August.
Coms., Theatre Royal, Worthing.

WANTED, Known, Mdlle. Hengleur's Beautiful Russian Poodles. Thanking Ercole's Agency offer Continental Tour. Vacant June 13, 20. Wire Monday.

WANTED, Known, Edith Tudora's Ponies, four in number, huge success everywhere, Liberty June 27, Ireland preferred. All coms., Ballsbridge Grounds, Dublin.

WANTED, Known, The Cyclinis, Champion Somersaulting Cyclists, Football on Wheels, Galas wanted, vacant Monday next, also July 4, on. 7, Ebberstone-street, Moss Side, Manchester.

WANTED, Known, Swift Duo, a Funny Act, on Cycles, vacant June 27, July 4.
Bowes Park, Sittingbourne.

WANTED, Wanted, Known,
bring your Songs, and I will teach them to you. Reasonable rates.
EGAN, Bedford House, 3, Bedford-st., Strand, W.C.

PIERROT WANTEDS.

WANTED, Amateurs of Education, Refinement, and Ability, for First-class Concert Party.
LYNN and HARDING,
Savoy House, Strand, W.C.

WANTED, Concert Party, Specialities, Novelties, Comedy Acts, or anything with good drawing powers (refined), outdoors, Aug. 18. Tenders, giving full particulars, and fee, not later than June 25. J. MARCHE, Hon. Sec., Carnival Committee, Weston-super-Mare.

WANTED, Costume Companies, Lighthouse Pavilion, Hoylake. Sole Entertainment Manager, FREDERICK LANE, Concert Direction, Avenue, Ealing, London.

WANTED, Engagement, Christine Oxley, Soprano, High-class Concert Party, Opera, or Alfresco. Experienced. Address, THE FROLLICS, Central Pier, Morecambe.

WANTED, Summer Engagement, by The Druids, Male Concert Party (twenty in number), Wales Premier Prizewinners. For dates, terms, &c., apply, E. T. WILLIAMS, Sec., Resolven, South Wales.

WANTED, Wanted, Known,
have your Music copied
by
EGAN, Bedford House, 3, Bedford-st., Strand, W.C.

SHOWMEN'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE CAKE-WALK AND SEE-SAW SLIP MACHINES.
By Royal Letters Patent in all the Leading Countries of the World.
Providing for the Public a Sensational Ride and Thrilling Slip. Always on the Move. Quick Money-takers. Apply for full particulars to TAYLOR, PLINSTON BROS., and Co., Ltd.

WANTED, Known, we are Sole Makers of W. Taylor's Patents for above Novelties, 94 Farncombe-street, and 98, Bermondsey-wall, London, S.E. Registered Trade Mark "Cake Walk."

WANTED, Known, Cartridges, all Brands, Winchester Repeaters, Glass Globes, Water Balls, Targets, and every size cartridge, for the Stage, in stock. GREENE, 74, Falmouth-road, S.E.

WANTED, Known, to Fairkeepers, Rifle Ranges, &c., we supply everything, Cartridges, Targets, Swing Ropes, Flare Lamps. BRITISH Co., 457, High-road, Tottenham.

WANTED, First-class Freaks and Other Good Attractions for Crouch's Old-established Wonderland and Variety Theatre, Argyle-street, Glasgow.

WANTED, Freaks, Novelties, and Attractions, now and onwards.
Full particulars, sample Lithos, and Postcards, in first letter.
A. E. PICKARD, American Museum, Glasgow.

WANTED, Good Novelty or Freak for Shop, Seaside. Shares; or would buy good Side Show. MORGON, 66, Ocean-road, South Shields.

WANTED, Good Novelties for Show Business, Summer Season, with paintings or posters. Write or wire, S. BAKER, c/o Post Office, Ashford, Kent.

WANTED, High Diving and Swimmers.—I have secured Sole Right of giving Diving and Swimming Performances during the season on the Victoria Pier, Folkestone. I will find all advertising, platform, and do collections for one-third of same. Only first-class men entertained. Apply, Monsieur LEOPOLD, Victoria Pier, Folkestone.

WANTED, Statue or any other Good Shows. Rent or Shares.
MERRYLAND, 72, Upper-street, Islington.

PALMISTRY AND CLAIRVOYANT.
WANTED, Lady for old-established business; salary and commission. HUNT'S Studio, 87, Hurst-street, Birmingham.

PALMISTRY.
WANTED, Lady for Private Practice, 30s. week and half extras. Address Box 7,856, "Era."

WANTED, First-class Palmist, Lady or Gentleman, to commence at once, for Season. Terms Shares. NELSON, Harbour House, Margate.

WANTED, a couple of Good Auctioneers and a Pitch-getter and Floorsman.
Apply, 5, Lime-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, Known, Wanted, Known, Wanted, Known, that Mr. M. Carlos just arrived from the Colonies, is in search of startling Novelties, alive or dead, suitable for the Stage or Show, on their own, nothing too big or too small, but must have drawing powers. I will pay cash for the right Shows; or I am prepared to accept engagement as Manager, either for a Stage Show or under canvas.
I know the right places at the right time, and the pulse of the public.
Grand Tour Australia, New Zealand,
Tasmania, Fiji, &c.
Consultation by appointment.
M. CARLOS, 43, Shawfield-st., King's-rd., Chelsea.

WANTED, Known, Britain's Bearded Lady, Miss Maud Temple, success, Stewart's, Edinburgh. Vacant Sept. Good Flash Paintings, Lithos, &c. Shares or salary. Coms., G. NORMAN LEWIS, Stewart's, Edinburgh.

WANTED, to Let, Handsome Shops, Electric lighted; also Spaces. Real Novelties only. F. W. WALKINGTON, Manager, Palace Pier, Brighton.

WANTED, to Let, Space for Monograms, rent £15 for Season, or would work on com. good man who knows the business. Sea View Exhibition, Great Yarmouth.

WANTED, to Let, on Hire,
Large Distorting Mirrors.
Address, MILTON, 77, Virginia-street, Southport.

WANTED, to Hire, set of Gallopers or Switchback; for Aug. 1 and 2, South Coast. Terms, &c., ROBINSON, Coney Island, Chatham.

WANTED, to Sell, cheap for cash or Hire-purchase terms, 7 h.p. Fowler's Compound Showman's Road Loco, 8 h.p. Burrell's Compound Showman's Road Loco, Foster's Compound Showman's Steam Motor Tractor, also Compound Showman's Steam Motor Tractor, by Clayton and Shuttleworth, only bought new about 18 months since. GRAVEN, Ely, Cambs.

WANTED, to Sell, Cakewalk, complete Arc Lamps, Organ, &c., in good working order and repair. Can be seen working at any time. Apply Box 7,820, "The Era."

WANTED, to Sell, Love Letters, Palmistry, Fair, Dark, Comic Cards, Eyes, Marriage Liars' Licences. Illustrated Catalogue. MEURICE, 39, Argyle-square.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatic Machines, New and Secondhand, Card Delivery, Mother Shiptons, marvellous money-takers. New Catalogue. MEURICE, Argyle-square.

WANTED, to Sell, Gold-framed Photos, Husbands, Wives, Babies, X-rays, latest sensation, for Automatic Machines. Catalogue illustrated. MEURICE, Argyle-square.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatic Machines all kinds, lists free, Husband, Wife, Eye, Hair Fortune, Astrologer cards, 5s. 1,000; Love Letters, 9s. LESLIE, 5, Denning-road, Hampstead Heath.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatic Machines of every description, (including the marvellous Guess Your Weight Weighing Machine). WORMALD, 123, Blythe-road, West Kensington, London.

WANTED, to Sell, greatest and best money-getter, Hindoo Spirit Writer, only one left. Cost £8; sacrifice 50s. JACKSON, 457, High-road, Tottenham.

WANTED, to Sell, Penny Slot Model, latest novelty, Enchanted Pool, best money-taker invented; no rubbish. JACKSON, 77, Stonebridge-rd., Tottenham.

WANTED, to Sell, Large Barrel Organ, cheap, suit Roundabout, Show, or Rink, extra large barrel, 12 tunes. Particulars, JACONELLS, 40, Banbury-street, Birmingham, manufacturers of Piano and Mandoline Organs.

SHOWMEN'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

WANTED, Punch Ball, Saloon Rifles, and Automatic Machines.
Apply, WAITE, 51, Tontine-street, Folkestone.

WANTED, every Showman who uses the railway to send to "The Era" for a copy of the article on the new Railway Rates. This will be sent on application, free of charge, to any Showman in the United Kingdom.

WANTED, Known, the Seventy Thousand Showmen who use the Columns of "The Era" and are moving about should know that they can make "The Era" Offices their Permanent London Address. Letters received will be held till called for, or immediately re-addressed according to instructions. Address all communications respecting the Letter Department to the PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand.

WANTED, Showmen who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any Railway Bookstall to kindly communicate with the PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

SKATING WANTEDS.

WANTED, Champion Exhibition and Racing Skaters for July and August. State lowest terms and qualifications. MANAGER, Olympia Open Air Rink, Folkestone.

WANTED, Summer Season by Jas. Graham-Kelly (late Hengler's), Exhibition Skater. Holder of British record for high-jumping on skates. A Skater and an Artist.
A graceful and charming exhibition.—Era, 17/7/09.
As a trick skater Kelly is daring and sensational.—Rinking, 20/1/10.
Management or Exhibition Skating. Also combine. All coms., GRAHAM-KELLY, Manager and Exhibition Skater, Roller Rink, Motherwell.

WANTED, by Experienced Instructor and Instructress, positions on good seaside rink. First-class skaters, latest waltzing, two-step, &c. Address, POWTON, 84, Farm-lane, Fulham.

WANTED, by Prof. T. Butterworth, Re-engagement, First-class Rink, as Floor-Manager or Management combined, daily exhibitions given. 41, New Hall-street, Burnley.

WANTED, to Let, Olympia Rink, Park Place, Merthyr, by Tender for the Summer Months. Dimensions of Building, 200ft. by 60ft. Every convenience for Bioscope. Box, Curtain, &c. Seating over 2,000. Music and Cinematograph Licence granted. Tenders to MANAGER.

WANTED, Skating Rink Buildings, commencing Nov., must be in large towns.
Apply, with particulars, to Box 7,853, "The Era."

WANTED TO SELL.

THEATRE ROYAL, CARDIFF.
Just Vacant.
WANTED, to Sell or Let on Lease.
Apply, SEEL, Secretary,
Theatre Royal Chambers, Cardiff.

WANTED, to Sell, as a going concern, Modern Freehold Music Hall in Midlands, good reasons for sale. Principals and solicitors only write first instance, HALL, Box 7,832, "The Era."

WANTED, to Sell, for Electric or Picture Theatre, in Edinburgh, First-class Premises, best attractive position for business; present hall seats about 600, which, with little alteration, could be much increased.
Address,
No. 308, KEITH and Co.,
Advertising Agents, 43, George-street, Edinburgh.

WANTED, to Sell or Let,
CINEMATOGRAPH FILM FACTORY, ideal, quiet locality for picture making; big studios, electricity, telephone, water, all ready.
Apply, MARTIN, Alton, Hants.

WANTED, to Sell, Portable Electric Light Plant. Suit Bioscope Hall.
ARTHUR CARLTON, Theatre, Worcester.

WANTED, to Sell, Several Fine Panto. Productions; or would Let on a Percentage of the Receipts. ARTHUR CARLTON, Theatre, Worcester.

WANTED, to Sell, a Large Quantity of Theatrical Scenery and Properties.
Apply, ORMESHER'S, Duke-street, Stockport.

WANTED, to Sell, Films, cheap, and Films for Hire, up-to-date.
THE BENDON TRADING Co., 75, Jamaica-st., Glasgow.

WANTEL, to Sell, Portable Electric Light Plant, suitable Bioscope Hall.
ARTHUR CARLTON, Theatre, Worcester.

WANTED, to Sell, cheap, four Electric Battens, 2 26ft. and 2 24ft. long, 30 lights each (two-colour), and one Footlight, 21ft. long, 128 lights (three-colours); also Switchboard and Resistance Wheels, substantially made.
H. W., 1, Archer-street Works, Rupert-street, W.

WANTED, to Sell, Bull, full grown, pure Hereford, 2 years, smallest alive, fat, active, quiet, 34in. high, £25; worth £100 for exhibition. Colmore Hotel, Birmingham.

WANTED, to Sell, Xylophones, Rattles, Tubular Bells, Spielaphones, Macaronis, Organ Chimes, Gongs, Resonaphones, Marimbas, Glockinspiels. LISLE, 209, Camberwell New-road.

WANTED, to Sell, Tubular Bells, plated, powerful standard pitch, folding stand, 5ft. 3in. high. Handsome. £4. CONDUCTOR, 9, Elizabeth-street, Blackpool.

WANTED, to Sell, splendid pair of Tympanis, Hawkes', cost 14gs., nearly new, including sticks and covers, £9. Death reason for disposal. 61 Tewkesbury-st, Cardiff.

WANTED, to Sell, Several Stage Illusions, many original; also quantity up-to-date Conjuring Apparatus. Bargains. 212, Kennington-road, S.E.

WANTED, to Sell, fine Collection of African, American, Indian, and Chinese Curios, about 250 finest specimens, from 5s. to £5, sell separate or complete for £100, greatest bargain for Performer, Artists, or Side Shows. A. WINKLER, 20, Rusthall-avenue, Bedford Park, London, W.

WANTED, to Sell, Frock Frills, Leno, plain with ruche, 3s. 11d. dozen; Accordion-pleated, 5s. 6d. Samples free. KING, 2, Dysart-road, Grantham.

WANTED, to Sell, twenty Concave Armour Tunics, 12s. each; Tights, 2s. pair; twenty Papier Helmets; ditto Shields, Weapons, 1s. each; six suits Armour, 10s. DYMOND, Flag Maker, Wyndham-arcade, Cardiff.

WANTED, Known, Lady going Abroad has Dress Basket for Sale, cheap; also several Dresses. Box 7,878, "The Era."

WANTED, to Sell, Strong Successful Drama, short cast, pretty scenery, effective printing; can be seen playing in London next fortnight. Address, Box 7,871, c/o "Era."

WANTED, to Sell, Two Good Songs and an Excellent Single Song Act.
EGAN, Bedford House, 3, Bedford-st., Strand, W.C.

WANTED, Wanted, Known,
for First-class Band Parts
try
EGAN, Bedford House, 3, Bedford-st., Strand, W.C.

WANTED TO BUY.

WANTED, two pairs of Gong Drums (second-hand), must be in good condition. State lowest price. Box 7,839, "The Era."

WANTED, Cheap, Tip-up Seating, in good condition.
Full particulars
to
BARING BROS., Cheltenham.

WANTED, immediately, 400 Tip-up Pegamoid or Plush-lined Seats, in good condition. State lowest price.
F. BARNES ALLEN, Ibrox Roller Rink, Glasgow.

WANTED TO BUY.

WANTED, to Purchase for Cash, Large or Small Houses of Furniture.
Address, F. and W. PEARSON, 6, Station-road, Finsbury Park, N. 'Phone No. 2,913 North.

WANTED, to Buy, Portable or Marquee, suitable for Pictures, hire or purchase. Full particulars to J. DICKSON, 1, W. Bell-street, Dundee.

WANTED, Bioscope Outfit, must be in First-class condition, Pathé or Gaumont preferred. ELECTRICIAN, 70, Ling-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, small Troupe of Dogs, Summer Terms, must be reasonable; also Hire or Buy Joey and Trick Pony, used to Stage. STEADMAN, 12, Millbank-road, Rhyl.

WANTED TO LET OR HIRE.

WANTED, to Let, Grand Theatre, Stalybridge. Apply,
ALFRED WILD, Sec., 42, Grosvenor-sq., Stalybridge.

WANTED, to Let, Dates in June and onwards, Byculiah Athenæum, Enfield, any kind entertainment, Scenery, Electric Lighting. MANAGER.

WANTED, to Let, Picture Hall, now running, everything ready, fine central stand, over 100,000 population. Principals only; banker's reference. Box 7,855, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, Wright's Gymnasium for Practice, suitable for any Act; new floor; strictly private; 5s. per week. 66, Kennington-road, London, S.E.

WANTED, to Let, a number of Advertising Curtains and Programmes in First-class towns and theatres.
Apply, LEON VINT, Globe Villa, Exmouth, Devon.

WANTED, Known, Films for Hire, from 15s. per 1,000ft. per week. Send for new lists. Bargain Films, Accessories. Cut Prices. CROSS'S Imperial Pictures, 12, Macclesfield-st., W. Ger. 9844.

WANTED, to Let, for Stock Seasons, Up-to-date Dramas, with good printing. Special MSS. for twice nightly. MONTAGUE BEAUDYN, Theatre Royal, West Bromwich.

WANTED, Halls and Buildings, suitable for Cinematograph performances, London, Seaside or Provinces. Lowest terms to Box 7,867, "The Era."

WANTED, in Town or Country, Halls or Sites, suitable for Cinematograph Shows or Roller Skating. Letters only. M. W. SHANLY, 33, King Henry's-road, South Hampstead, N.W.

WANTED, to Hire or Lease, Hall, Theatre, or Pavilion. Distance no object. State particulars. MANAGER, 23, Burchell-road, Leyton, E.

WANTED, to Hire, with Option of Purchase, Interior Cottage scene, recessed window, hooded fireplace, &c. Full particulars, Box 7,875, "The Era."

PARTNERS WANTED.

WANTED, Known, Advertiser having purchased a Freehold Property of 4½ acres, formerly used as Pleasure Gardens, is desirous to meet with an enterprising Syndicate to exploit same, two Boating or Fishing Lakes, Skating or Concert Hall, 135ft. by 45ft., spacious Lawns, &c., &c., suitable for Scenic Railway and similar Attractions, population of over 200,000 within easy distance. Apply, B. T., 8, Warwick-road, Worthing.

WANTED, Partner with £100, for Established Theatrical Concern,
Showing Good Business Duties,
Official and Provincial Experience not Essential.
Address, Box 7,862, "The Era."

WANTED, Partners, with Moderate Capital, for Two Tours of Musical Plays, London Successes. Parts open. First-class management.
Fullest particulars by letter to Box 7,877, c/o "The Era."

WANTED, Known, Steady Young Man wishes to join Partner for Comedy Acrobatic Act, good bearer and club juggler. Letters, C., Box 7,857, "The Era."

WANTED, Gentlemanly Artist, with all-round experience, to join Versatile Author. Address all particulars to Box 7,865, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, Young Man, good Head and Hand-to-hand Balancer, at Liberty to join Troupe or good Partner, weight 9st. Letters, Box 7,863, "The Era" Office.

WANTED, Female Partner, must have strong voice, good dancer, must live near. Apply letter first, Miss DAISEY, 180, Camberwell New-road.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TWENTY WORDS, ONE SHILLING.
Each Additional Six Words, Sixpence.

WANTED, Known, Fred Karno's Theatrical Factory and Cartage Stores, 28, Vaughan-road, Camberwell, S.E. All kinds of Scenery, Properties, Costumes, and Electrical Effects made and supplied; Sketches and Models free. The Scenic Factory is equipped with full-sized Paint-Frames, capable of carrying any size Cloth. The Scenic Stores are large, lofty, and dry.
Estimates for Storage given on application.
Every Description of Theatrical Cartage (day or night) on most reasonable terms. Omnibuses, Broughams, Lorries, and Motors on Hire. Contracts wanted for above. Telephone 3550 and 3551 Hop. Telegrams, "Karno, Camberwell, London."

WANTED, Known, for Ventriloquial and Marionette Figures and Specialities, LE MARE and SON, 79, Burlington-st., Oxford-road, Manchester.

WANTED, Known, F. G. Wright, Gymnastic Apparatus Maker, Electrical Engineer, and Theatrical Blacksmith. 66 and 68, Kennington-road, S.E.

WANTED, Known, C. Kinch, Gymnastic Apparatus Maker, Theatrical and General Blacksmith, 17, St. Mary-sq., Kennington-rd., S.E. Large Hall for Practice.

WANTED, Known, Sleigh Bells, Organ Chimes, and Spelaphone, for Gabrielle Hope's Grand Musical Novelty Act, were made by Lisle, Camberwell.

WANTED, Artists to write for Free Samples. Memos. from 1s. 100, two colours; Cards, Envelopes, &c. Mention paper.
ARTISTIC PRINTING Co., Forest Hill, London, S.E.

WANTED, Known, Pictorial Postcards reproduced from your own Photograph, 250 for 8s., 1000 for 16s. SENIOR & Co., Cotham-hill, Bristol.

WANTED, every Member of the Profession to go to
LYNN and HARDING,
If you wish to place Songs, Plays, Sketches, &c., or to Purchase Songs, Plays, Sketches, &c.
This quarter's Clients for whom we have done business include:—
Messrs. Herbert Fordwych, Mark Melford, John S. Egan, Max Cardiff, H. E. Garden, R. Findlay, B. Beir, W. Hart, Bert Cramer, A. Harding, A. Lewis, T. Dalrymple, Robert Ayrton, A. Jennings, A. Wyndham, A. Mitchell, The Misses D'Alroy, Milner Rowna, Noel, Kersey, Carroll, Mignonne, &c., &c.

WANTED, Known, Band Parts neatly, legibly scored by experienced arranger, good combination and effect speciality. HIRST, 56, Chestnut-street, Southport.

WANTED, Wanted, Known,
Band Parts, Music copied,
Songs Taught.
EGAN, Bedford House, 3, Bedford-st., Strand, W.C.

WANTED, Known, Melodies Composed and Arranged. Band-books supplied. Sample 9 stamps. FOX and SON, 134, Queen's Park-road, Brighton.

WANTED, Variety Dialect Comedian requiring Successfully Produced Sketch on share to address
AUTHOR, 3, Evelyn-mansions,
Queen's Club Gardens, London, W.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WANTED, Known, Ladies and Gentlemen tired of the Stage, and wishing to make a fresh start in a different direction, should consult Mr. Davies at the British Schools, who has many opportunities of placing educated persons of good appearance and address as Secretaries, &c.
Terms arranged to suit individual cases.
Call or write,
97, New Bond-street, London, W.

WANTED, Artists when visiting Manchester to pay Mosco's Swiss House a visit, best house in the trade for all classes of Laces, Embroideries, and Fancies of all kinds; Draperies and Curtains always kept in stock. Note the address, 16, Oldham-street, Manchester.

WANTED, Known, Mr. Arthur C. Moody, Theatre Royal, Blyth, Northumberland, desires to thank all applicants for the positions advertised in last week's "Era," and begs to inform them that the vacancies are now filled.

WHAT DO YOU WANT?
If it is Artistes or Engagements, Scenery or Properties, Baggage Collected or Delivered, To Buy, Sell, or Hire Wardrobe, 'Scripts, Parts or Letters Typed, a Permanent Address for Redespatching Letters—in fact, if you are in any Doubt or Difficulty, and want to save yourself Time and Trouble, Ring up
Gerrard 3714,
THE UNIVERSAL THEATRICAL BUREAU,
49, Bedford Street, Strand, W.C.
Telegrams—"UTRIBURO, LONDON."
WE WILL FIND IT!!!

C. G. SPENCER and SONS,

56a, Highbury Grove, London, N.
Manufacturers of Airships, Aeroplanes, Balloons and Parachutes, Captive Advertising Balloons, and Small Toy Balloons.
Price Lists or Quotations 1 Stamp.
SPENCER BROS., LTD.,
45b, Aberdeen Park, Highbury, N.,
Aeronauts to the Crystal Palace, &c.
Balloon Ascents, Parachute Descents, Captive Balloons, Airship Flights.
Terms upon application.
Telegrams, "Aeronaut, London." 'Phone, 1893 Dalston.

MR. FRANK ALLEN desires to either
SELL OR LET ON AGREEMENT
the beautifully-compact Detached Residence, known as
WOODLAWN, KINGSTON HILL
(held for an unexpired term of about sixty-three years, at a ground rent of £37 10s. per annum), containing seven bedrooms, dressing-room, two fitted bathrooms, with hot and cold water supplies, w.c., and lavatory, three capital reception rooms, excellent domestic offices on the ground floor, and spacious cellarage.
Detached stabling for three horses, double coach-house, and two rooms over, also motor garage, suitable for containing two large motor cars, and fitted up with bench and cemented pit.
Well timbered and beautiful grounds of about one acre. All new and up-to-date drainage and sanitation. A fine 18-hole golf course is being laid out opposite the house, in addition to which there are other three courses, two on Wimbledon Common (barely two miles away), Coombe Links (one mile), and the Wimbledon Park Golf Club (two-and-a-half miles).
The estimated rental value is £180 per annum, but an offer would be accepted of £140 per annum on a three years' agreement, or £130 per annum on a seven years' lease.
The ridiculously low price of £2,000 would be accepted. Mr. Allen's only reason for desiring to sell or let this beautiful residence (which combines the advantages of a town house with the pleasures of a country home), is owing to the recent marriage of his daughter.
Further particulars may be had on application, and the house can be viewed at any time by appointment.
Telephone No. 99 Kingston.

SUMMER EVENINGS BANDS' COMMITTEE.
GUERNSEY.
Wanted, Troupes, Bands, Entertainments, &c.
SEASON—JULY, AUGUST, SEPTEMBER.

LEOLYN HART CO.
SCENIC ARTISTS
to the Principal London, Provincial, and Continental Theatres, Exhibitions, &c.
THE LARGEST STOCK OF SCENERY IN THE KINGDOM ON HIRE
for Special Productions, Matinees, Sketches, &c.
LATONA-ROAD, OLD KENT ROAD, LONDON, S.E
Telephone 1544 Hop.

"THE ERA" IN AUSTRALIA.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS AND SUBSCRIBERS.

MESSRS
GORDON AND GOTCH.

SINGLE COPIES ON SALE.
SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED.
ADVERTISEMENTS ACCEPTED.

Australian Artistes visiting the Metropolis use The Era Offices, as their Permanent London Address.

Apply or Address,
MELBOURNE—
Messrs. GORDON and GOTCH, QUEEN-STREET.
SYDNEY—
Messrs. GORDON and GOTCH, PITT-STREET.
BRISBANE—
Messrs. GORDON and GOTCH, QUEEN-STREET.
PERTH—
Messrs. GORDON and GOTCH.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERTILLERY.—THEATRE METROPOLE.—Mr. Andrew Melville's company, under the direction of Mr. Francis Everard, is here with True Till Death. The leading parts, Harry Deniston and Jack Deniston, are well taken by Mr. T. Arthur Ellis and Mr. Francis Everard. Mr. Edwin Turner makes a capital Pedro Cortes, and an Indian half-breed is ably portrayed by Mr. John Soden. Lillian Meadows is well sustained by Miss Kate Randolph; Miss E. Leslie is good as Kate Farrar.

PAVILION.—A series of pictures are on show here, including the McFarland and Welsh fight.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Miss Olga Audre and company are here with The Great Awakening. Miss Olga Audre creates a deep impression by her finished embodiment of Lola Selby; Mr. Herbert Barrs is a powerful James Selby; Mr. Charles H. Mortimer a vigorous and manly Captain Lambart; Mr. Tom Arkinstall is admirably suited as Guy Logan; Mr. Andrew Esmond is remarkably good as Sir Henry Merton; and Mr. Arthur Wimpeny capably plays Jack Merton. Mr. Ernest Kendrick is a quaint Billy Brass; Miss Dorothy Oswald a bright and attractive Selina; and Miss Evie Conway a pleasing and unassuming Molly Merton.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Accrington Hippodrome Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—The Great Wolfowsky Troupe of native Russian vocalists, dancers, and instrumentalists are the premier attraction here. The Bros. O'Brien have a smart horizontal bar act; Bains and company, comedy acrobats, prove an acceptable turn; Laurie Leyton, ventriloquist, gives unqualified pleasure; Herbert Rule, comedian, is popular; the Three Royal Temples, operatic vocalists, provide a turn which delights all; Barney Murphy creates much laughter with his funny antics; and Rhobins and Kruso are capital musical experts; E. Clifford acquits himself with distinction as a novelty dancer; and the Bioscope pictures are deserving of praise.

ALDERSHOT.—ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jack Gladwin.—Variety is still the order of things at this place of amusement. A trained chimpanzee, called George the First, is the star turn. Introduced by Dandy George, it gives an exhibition, dressed as a little man, of various things, including trick cycling and partaking of a five-course dinner. Ernest Montefiore and company appear in a musical scena, The Little Colonel, with capital effectiveness, those responsible for the interpretation being Ernest Montefiore, Belle Vicars, and Ivy Laurel. The Crisps contribute a dance scena, which is very successful, the chief item being "Dance des Apaches." Henry Hilton proves himself a very clever conjurer, and gives a number of new magical tricks. As a Scotch monologist Albert Mackelvin is deservedly well received, and Maisie Dene, soubrette and dancer, and Marion Scott, vocalist, also amuse. Cyrus Dare, child mimic, is wonderfully clever.

ASHINGTON.—PAVILION PALACE.—Proprietors, McGraw and Wealleans; Manager, Mr. Joe Curry.—The T. W. Tiny Stars are here for a second week, and are delighting good audiences with their dancing and singing; Sabino, in his unique musical turn, is very good; and a capital selection of pictures includes the local sports held on Saturday.

BUFFALO PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. J. and E. Lamb; Manager, Mr. W. P. Carr.—The Mars Trio of gymnasts in "Whirling the Whirl" are very daring and clever; the Two Le Bruns (Edie and Edgar) are good jugglers and equilibrists; and the pictures are of a high order.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill, jun.—Messrs. Fox and Leonard's company is running Greed of Gold here. Mr. B. M. Fox gives a realistic interpretation of Tom Welstead; Mr. Herbert Leonard as Con Creamer is full of characteristic humour; Miss Amy G. Earle sustains cleverly the part of Mrs. Maxwell; Mr. Jack Edwin as her nephew, Harry Hood, plays with distinction the part of the villain, an arduous rôle; Mr. Alf Edwards as Mr. Brightstone, K.C., a legal adviser, is all that a limb of the law should be; Mr. Monson Thorpe as Arthur Errol is manly; and Miss Mabel Phillips in her rôle of Dora sustains her reputation as an actress of resource and power.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Jesse Burslem.—The big turn of the variety week here is the remarkably clever magician, humorist, and fantasist, the Great Raymond, who is making a first visit. Raymond has mystified and at the same time delighted and astonished his audiences by his wonderful magic power. Every change is remarkable and mystifying, thoroughly absorbing and enchaining the attention. Other artists are Fred Denistone, comedian, a jester with a budget of fun; Little Sunbeam, a clever serio-comic; Les Gossi, clever and graceful dancers; Morris and Moore, expert dancers; and Ryde and Beeman, acrobatic eccentrics, with Luella Cross.

THE NEW PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech; Assistant-Manager, Mr. E. A. Sims.—During the sultry weather pleasant leisure can be enjoyed at the Pavilion. The double programme for the week includes some charming travel pictures, amusing comedies, and tragic happenings, supplied by the special A. B. Company and other makers of films. Hunting Wolves in Russia is good and The Kid a charming rustic comedy. Village Life in Siam is a good picture of travel, and Last Days of Heliogabalus a fine scenic barbaric picture.

THE ODDFELLOWS' HALL.—Lessees, The Ashton Entertainments Syndicate; Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Marks.—The Hall programme for the week includes some really fine art pictures and good comics. The Outlawed Baron was very good as a romantic age picture of violence and outlawry, The Aero Police of the Future, and others. An old favourite and a famed artist of the halls thirty years ago, Mr. T. W. Barrett, is here, and still in good form as an eccentric comedian.

THE PICTUREDROME.—Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros.; Acting-Manager, M. P. Leckie.—Some very fine films are shown here this week, and these pictorial dramas, adventurous, historical, and humorous, include The Artist's Dream, The Sins of the Fathers, Guilia Colonna, The Planter's Wife, and others. The special artist is T. E. Johnstone, in song and monologue.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS. — ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Mr. Fred J. Webb's company, in For Old Time's Sake, is here. Mr. Webb as Rupert Sidney plays the villain with great power, and Mr. J. C. Carlyle is an excellent contrast as Paul Sidney; Mr. Harold Lewis is a capable Jean Brooke, and Miss Mamie Stanton plays Phyllis Brooke with much success; Mr. R. Oliver is a good Frank Rivington, and Miss Marie Danvers-Smith as Sareta Berkley wins admiration.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—The Will o' the Wisps are here for their last week, and retain their popularity.

TIVOLI.—Lessee, Signor R. Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Wood.—A capital programme is presented here, the chief item being Maria Racko and partner, in a smart acrobatic act. The Dalett boys and girls are capital in songs, concerted pieces, and dances; Leo Fields keeps his audience in a continuous roar; a word of praise must be given to Colbert for some clever club juggling; Harry Elliston and company are amusing in a sketch, entitled Aunt Matilda; Beatrice Allen renders her songs in a pleasing manner; Harry Maynard is a capable vocal comedian; and Vernon's Bioscope concludes.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Lessees, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Newman's British Empire Picture and Variety Company is showing some interesting films.

BARRY DOCK.—PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; Manager, Mr. W. W. Minto.—The principal turn here is presented by the Three Van Earles, exceedingly good dancers; The Custances are seen to advantage in Keep off the Green; Clare and Pastor are deservedly recalled; and the pictures are of the usual pleasing kind.

BATH. — PALACE THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—Dr. Wilmar's "Spirit Paintings" are bewildering audiences here, and the Days, second-sight artists, are equally puzzling; Le Hurst proves himself a smart ventriloquist; Beattie Foster, comedienne, puts plenty of life into her songs; Wallace Whitney, comedian, causes merriment by his quaint impersonations; Myrtle Grace sings and dances herself into favour; illustrated songs by Marino Aftino are appreciated; and the pictures include The Fisherman's Bride and The Terror and the Terrier.

ELECTRIC THEATRE.—The chief draw is some capital views of the International Horse Show.

SYDNEY GARDENS.—The fine weather is all in favour of outdoor entertainments. The Trumps, under the direction of Mr. Rex Burchell, are the latest concert party to amuse the habitués here.

BELFAST. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Salmond.—Monday commenced the final week of the revival season under the direction of Mr. Matthew H. Glenville and Mr. Fred Osmond. Miss Emma Litchfield's comedy drama A London Actress is the attraction. Miss Hettie Zillwood gave an exceedingly clever portrayal of the difficult rôle of Hilda Mannering; Mr. Albert Guyon furnished a capital impersonation of Sergt.-Major Clive Crawford; and Mr. Chas. G. Gallier interpreted the rôle of Capt. Mannering, R.N., in a manner calling for the highest praise. Mr. Fred Osmond gained high encomiums for his treatment of the rôle of Pat Maloney; and Miss Audrey Canning was all that could be desired as Biddy Maloney. A good character sketch of the Hebrew Moses Mendoza was furnished by Mr. Frank Sutherland; and Miss Margaret Frame did well justice to the rôle of Phyllis Crawford. Mr. Reginald T. Fox acquitted himself with distinction as Lieut. Ned Kingston, R.N.; and the rôle of P.C. Lewis was quite safe in the hands of Mr. R. H. MacCandless.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred Willmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The clever eccentric juggler Mr. W. C. Fields tops the bill here; the remarkable feats of the Lukushimas, Japanese entertainers, are undoubtedly a feature of this fine programme; the amusing comedy duo The Waldrons have, as usual, been most successful; the Lyric Mummers delight all with their vocal song-scena; the beautiful soprano voice of Amelie de L'Enclos has been heard with infinite pleasure; Sibb and Sibb's trapeze act finds favour; Mr. Bruce Green is a very droll comedian with good songs; and also here are Ada and Gert (juvenile duettists and dancers), Mr. Harry Taft (comedian), and the Hipposcope.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. C. Laidler.—The star here is Mr. Fred Earle, whose droll songs gained success at both houses on Monday; Miss Florence Yayman caricatures coon songs with much satisfaction, her reception being gratifying; Woodhouse and Wells, comedians, are undoubtedly most amusing with their songs and patter; Brull and Hemsley stage with effect their act Fun in a Music Shop; MissMay B. Brilliant is a charming comedienne and excellent dancer; and also appearing are Mr. Johnny Walker (comedian), Miss Rosie Pink (a capable comedienne who knows how to dance), and the Bioscope, under the direction of Mr. McGibney.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Will White.—Some beautiful pictures have been exhibited here, including Too Late, Lieut. Rose, R.N., The Passing Shadow, &c. The vaudeville element is sustained by Mr. Barney Vox, the witty Irish ventriloquist, who is accorded a terrific reception, and Miss Ailsa Douglas, a popular singer of chorus songs.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL.—General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Rogers.—Many interesting films are shown here this week, including The Love of Lady Irma, How Scroggins Saw Halley's Comet; A Victim of Bridge, &c. Mr. G. O. Battle, actor-vocalist, appears at each performance with much success in his great song-scena Old and Grey.

PRINCESS PICTURE PALACE.—General-Manager, Captain T. A. Blake.—Among many beautiful pictures exhibited here may be mentioned The Eleventh Hour, The Ranch-Girl's Legacy, &c. The fine baritone vocalist Mr. H. W. Baird appears, also Miss Bessie Eakin, a ballad vocalist of ability.

BILSTON.—ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Edwin C. Jazon; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Tunstall.—A quick-change speciality by the Musical Shipbuilders forms the chief attraction; Stelfane, the lady magician, gives a clever exhibition; and in addition we have Minnie Torr (contralto vocalist and dancer) and Enda West (comedienne) The Hippograph shows some interesting and amusing pictures.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Herbert M. King.—Messrs. J. C. Lodge-Percy and James Martin's company opened on Monday with a revival of Mr. Barnes of New York. Mr. Lodge-Percy gave a fine exposition of the title-rôle, and Miss Henrietta Schrier was an irreproachable Marina Paoli. The cast generally was most efficient, and the production was cordially received. During the week Camille and A Fool's Paradise have also been performed.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Keating.—Leroux's cycling monkeys are a leading feature, and are certainly marvels of animal training. Mr. Frank Lister's company, in the sketch No. 99, is an attractive item, and Mr. E. J. Sheldon, comedian, is on a welcome return visit; Mr. Harold Batt and Miss Mary Lynn appear in a clever act, which includes some excellent dancing. Other good turns are provided by Avon and Crest, comedians; Mr. Archie Glen, vocalist and dancer; Zellini, comic juggler, &c.; Mr. Ryder Slone, character comedian; Miss Lily Arthur, comedienne; and Brown's Royal Bioscope.

HIPPODROME.—Director of Entertainments, Mr. Will Sley; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Weston.—Miss Winifred Maude's company in The Stowaway prove attractive. Mr. Victor Du Cane gives an incisive rendering of Dicky Deals, and Miss Maude a fine performance of the heroine, Althea Dale. Mr. William Vane is a robust and convincing Tom Inglis, and Charles Etherington is well embodied by Mr. Morris Maude. The piece is liberally staged.

WINTER GARDENS, ROCK FERRY.—General-Managers, Messrs. B. Alandale and L. Blattner; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry A. Dooley.—Mr. Ernest Ch. Gittins' company are appearing in condensed operatic selections with pronounced success. A capable variety company also lends interest to the programme.

BIRMINGHAM.—ALEXANDRA.—Proprietor, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. T. Guest.—Mr. Frank Lindo's popular melodrama, Home Sweet Home, is a big attraction here. Mr. Norton Shields impersonates Stephen Armitage with distinct skill; whilst Mr. Tom E. Lewis does well as his father, David Armitage. Miss Marion Wakeford, a talented actress, wins the hearts of all present by her charming presentation of the rôle of Joan; Mr. Sidney Dench sustains the part of the Duke of Ancaster with success; and Mr. Leonard Laurence appears as Lucas Lyle. Little Doris is entitled to hearty commendation for her graceful work as Dora.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward.—The Diver's Luck is an old favourite here, and Mr. Edward Marris's company are warmly complimented for clever acting. Two preformances are given each evening. Mr. Joseph Millane is excellent as Martin Faber; and Miss Blanche St. Albans is responsible for a delightful characterisation of the rôle of Helen Wyngate. Others who merit special mention are Mr. H. C. Robinson as Tom Hall, Mr. J. Leicester Jackson as Maurice Wyngate, Mr. Charles Williams as Lieut. Turner; and Mr. Percy Boucher and Miss Ella Willmer in comedy parts.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—An Unwedded Wife is proving a big attraction, and it is effectively produced by Mr. Will Casey's company. Miss Chrissie Dunbar, in the title-rôle, gives a faithful and sympathetic characterisation, and carries the audience with her; the rôle of Philip Blackstone is adequately filled by Mr. E. St. Clair Forbes; Mr. Casey is prominent as Napoleon; and Mr. Arthur Cheeves is good as Frank Armstrong. Others who deserve praise are Mr. B. Boomer, Mr. A. Mitchell, Mr. L. Ernest, Mr. Ern Turner, Mr. W. Fisher, Mr. Frank Masters, Miss Ethel Spense, and Little Doris Sorsby.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Williams.—A well-varied programme is headed by Mr. Fred Story in the popular sketch Rip Van Winkle. He has never appeared to better advantage than he does in this piece. Griff is a clever entertainer, his juggling feats being novel and skilful; the New Macs are funny men, whose jokes are up to date and dancing novel; a bright musical act, with a strong element of comedy, is presented by Pete and Minnie Lee; Tom Stuart is highly amusing in his burlesque impersonations; the Three Laurels appear in an extremely clever speciality act; Dan Thomas is a big favourite; Lily Flexmore contributes some wonderful dances; Charles Leighton has well-chosen comic songs; and quite a feature of the bill is the living picture depicting the Welsh-McFarland Fight.

GRAND. — Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting - Manager, Mr. E. Foster; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Lucas.—Eddie Girard and Jessie Gardner figure in an exceptionally clever farcical sketch entitled Dooley and the Diamond. They are smart artists, and thoroughly deserve the enthusiastic plaudits of the audience; the show of Schichtl's marionettes is one of the best items; it is admirably worked, and there are some surprising transformations; a comedy episode, Hester's Mystery, by Pinero, affords ample scope for a display of humour by Mr. Horace Pollock; Dan Crawley again has a funny répertoire; Hull and Earle create roars of applause; Claire Romaine is a character comedienne of exceptional ability; Elton and Edwin are responsible for novel and remarkable selections on the banjo; Phillips and Meritt, society entertainers, and Harry Marte, comedian and dancer, complete the programme.

GAIETY.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—Signor Arvi's tableaux, "Les Metables," occupy first place on the bill, and the show has been favourably received. Carter's Ten Dixie Girls are paying a welcome return; Nelly Moore is a clever impersonator of prominent actresses; Arthur Croxon is extremely amusing as a "Yorkshire entertainer"; an interesting comedy acrobatic act is presented by Briff, Braff, and Broff; whilst Niagara and Falls show in the same line of business. Louis J. Seymour (light comedian), Cora Corina (a smart singer and dancer), and Gladys Re'vell (chorus comedienne) make up a programme of all-round merit.

HIPPODROME.—Resident-Manager, Mr. P. D. Elbourne.—Considerable interest is being aroused by Salge's animate sculpture, Mlle. Marguerite figuring prominently in the tableaux; a comedy sketch of unusual merit, entitled Ferdie's Ma-in-Law, is admirably played by Mr. Arnold Richardson and two others; Scott and Whaley are accorded a warm reception, and their dancing is a strong feature of the programme; other coloured performers are Carlisle and Wellman, in a bright musical act; a mirth-provoking sketch, called A Broker's Man, is played by Drum and Major; Lucia Collins is a bright, vivacious comedienne; Phillip Levard is an up-to-date conjurer and illusionist; a clever acrobatic performance is given by the Goodlow Trio; and L. W. Harris is a stylish light comedian.

HIPPODROME, ASTON.—Resident-Manager, Mr. T. H. Middleton.—Miss Maude Mortimer is scoring a big success with her chorus songs; Beatie and Babs are exceedingly clever in their pretty scena, A Pavement Rehearsal; Karl Cynski gives a delightful musical performance; the Kremlia Brothers appear in a clever eccentric acrobatic turn; Mark Leslie is a promising coon impersonator; Marie Dreams sings in a baritone voice; a sketch by Alfred Wellesley, entitled Uncle's Courtship, is very amusing; Maude Beaumont is a clever burlesque actress; and Mlle. Ottino performs smart conjuring feats.

CURZON HALL.—Lessee, Mr. Waller Jeffs.—This pioneer of local picture halls has a fine photographic reproduction of Maeterlinck's fairy play The Blue Bird. The pictures give a perfect idea of the beautiful scenes and graceful acting. In addition, the usual "potted plays," humorous, dramatic, and sentimental, are being displayed.

KING'S HALL.—Proprietors, Messrs. Moore and Kennedy.—A capital series of animated pictures includes The Cowboy and the Straw, The Thread of Destiny, and The Power of the Press. Vaudeville items are given by Sammy Turner, Mollie Revell, and the Mosaics.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—The "Kinemacolor" is the name given to the new coloured moving picture process, which will be exhibited here for a month.

BISHOP AUCKLAND. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, The Hippodrome (Bishop Auckland), Ltd.; Managing-Director, Signor Pepi.—Miraculous Mysticus entirely baffles his audience; Archie Royer is a clever trick comedian; Paul Corrix (whose assistant is a skilful juggler) is an excellent equilibrist; Percy Dalton has an eccentric and novel dancing turn; and included in the bill are Ward and Davis, Harry Zetter, Bessie Callow, and the Hipposcope.

BLYTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—Mr. H. Armitage's company, in East Lynne, has met with a very liberal patronage. Mr. Algernon J. Hicks as Archibald Carlyle played the part well; whilst the Francis Levison of Mr. Henry Nunn won the usual recognition accorded to the gentlemanly stage villain; Mr. William Clayton made an ideal Justice Hare; Mr. Harry Wren was conspicuous as Lawyer Dill; Mr. Campbell Goldsmid was seen in a new character as P.C. Bullock, and acquitted himself effectively; Miss Elizabeth Watkins, in the dual rôle of Lady Isabel and Mme. Vine was the object of much praise.

BOLTON. — THEATRE ROYAL, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Moncur.—Mr. Chas. H. Lester's company is here with A Life for a Life. The part of Don Leon Fernandez is capitally rendered by Mr. Chas. H. Lester; whilst Miss Lallah Davis is good as Eulalie. Wee Winnie Warden is successful in her personation of Venetia; and other parts are capably filled.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—An entertaining programme consists of Reano and his famous band of instrumentalists; Leonard Charburn's Young Stars, in a pretty vocal scena, A Picnic up the River; Ena Corelli, dancer, &c.; Harry Megan, comedian; Devon and Earle, wooden shoe dancers; The Three Krakes, in their amusing comedy act, The Electric Car Conductor; Cromo and Hamilton, burlesque artists; Sylvia Bond, soprano vocalists; and the Sisters Brenton, comediennes and dancing experts.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME (BOLTON) LTD.—Director of Entertainments, Mr. Will Sley; Manager, Mr. A. R. Harrison.—Miss Augusta Tullock and her company are presenting the powerful drama, Judith, the Woman who Sinned.

BOOTLE.—WINTER GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale; Managers, Mr. Ludwig Blattner and Mr. Bobbie Allandale; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Wellings.—For the first part of the week the musical comedietta, The Cruise of the Losertanner, was presented, the company including Mr. Kennedy Allen, Miss Kitty Allen, Mr. Martin Kitts, Mr. Albert Royle, Mr. Laurie Leyton, and Miss Ivy Proudfoote. Clever items were also contributed by Vera and Neldon, and Vladimir Brodo, baritone. The programme is entirely changed for the remaining three nights, Mr. Frank Dunlop and company appearing in a new musical comedy, The Gay River.

BRADFORD.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Councillor F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. M. Hamilton.—Mr. Junius Booth and his company occupy the boards here this week with the new American drama Way Out West, which is staged with wonderful realism. Mr. Booth himself plays the hero, and presents a striking figure in a stirring story of adventure, around which a strong love interest is woven; Miss Alice West is the heroine, and she is admirable in the part, both artists being finely supported by Mr. Millar Anderson, a villainous speculator; Miss Lilian Deane, in the part of Paquita, a Mexican girl; and Mr. Charles S. Brooks as a Chinese laundryman. The incidents are striking, and hearty applause greets the representation.

THE EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. J. Kelly.—Once again Le Roy, Talma, and Bosco are astounding and delighting big audiences here with their very remarkable illusions, clever coin manipulating, and their well-blended humour; O'Gust, the clown mimic and imitator, is on a return visit too, and popular as ever; the Haytors give a distinctly novel and particularly diverting sketch, The Electrician, with much success; and Nelson Jackson, at the piano and as a story-teller, elicits hearty laughter. The Harvey's American Boys and Girls (with Frank Victor), with cowboy ditties and Teddy Bear dances, are very entertaining; in a dramatic sketch, Lucky Jim, Miss Margaret Parker in the title-rôle is convincing, and she is well supported; Miss Alice Kingsley's songs are well rendered and prettily illustrated; Johnny Fuller as the acrobatic cat gives a clever performance on the wire; and interesting films are shown by the Bioscope.

THE PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. E. Harrison.—Much interest is aroused here this week in Arthur Rouse's very dramatic sketch The Key, represented with conspicuous ability by Jessie Danvers, Gilbert Heron, and George Robinson; the Belmonts dance very daintily; Josh Dixon's songs and "patter" are amusing; the clever feats by Miss Elsie and her Cousin Bob elicit applause; and Vela is clever in a comedy wire act; the Vaudeville Trio are good vocalists and dancers; an amusing comedy act is presented by the Cedrics; there is some very remarkable whistling by Max Laube; and the vocalism of the Lancashire Pit-brow Lasses commands hearty applause. The Palace Perfection Pictures are an interesting feature.

BRIDLINGTON.—ROYAL PRINCE'S PARADE.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—Mr. Harold Montague and his Vagabond Players are drawing big audiences to their capital entertainments in the Grand Pavilion. The Municipal orchestra, in the Floral Pavilion, under the able conductorship of Mr. Norfolk Megone, are giving excellent promenade concerts twice daily, the great attraction this week being Mr. Harry Reynolds, a bass-baritone vocalist, who possesses a voice of fine compass and purity.

NEW SPA AND GARDENS.—Manager, Mr. R. C. Luxton.—The Georgians, costume concert party, under the directorship of Mr. Robert Carr, entered upon their second week's engagement on Monday, and are giving some capital programmes.

SUMMER GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs. Beanland, Bath, and Danton; Manager, Mr. Charles Beanland.—The variety turns at this popular resort are loudly applauded, and the special attraction this week is an amusing burlesque Demented, in which the entire company appears, the various characters being admirably played.

BRIGHTON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Gates; General-Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—The stock company here is presenting The Love that Women Desire. Miss Maisie Hanbury gives a charming and much-appreciated impersonation of the heroine Sybil Thornburn; Mr. Frank E. Petley makes a manly and popular hero, Philip Carnaby; Mr. Austen Milroy is powerfully effective as the villainous Richard Abingdon; Mr. Tom E. Sinclair is highly entertaining as Dennis O'Rourke; Miss Lucy Murray submits a capital representation of Pattie Swift; Mr. Chas. R. Hann is well suited as Squire Abingdon; Miss Nellie Lauraine's Madge Abingdon merits warm praise; and the remaining characters are ably sustained.

ALHAMBRA.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Alfred Smith; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Smith.—Harry Randall appears in his latest successes and wins enthusiastic applause; Lucas's dogs give a wonderful performance; the Seymons (Lily and Fred) are well received in their equilibristic juggling act; the Sisters Lowell are charming duettists and dancers; Edith Chantler is a pleasing juvenile vocalist; the Evalos are warmly applauded for their jocular juggling and gymnastic gyrations; Nat Lewis is a highly diverting comedian; Bell and Dare are a capital comedy duo; Mr. E. poses as a "pit-pat patterer"; and the Alhambra Picturegraph is interesting.

BARRASFORD'S HIPPODROME.—Resident Manager, Mr. Bertram J. Brown.—Miss Carrie Moore is a delightful musical comedy artist; the Ten-ka troupe of Japanese magicians submit a very clever performance; Coram gives an amusing ventriloquial turn; Arthur Lennard is a diverting comedian; the Lacori family are graceful and daring on the trapeze; Russell Brandow is enthusiastically applauded for his acrobatic dancing; Sinclair and Whiteford are highly successful in their sketch illustrating matrimonial differences; Flora Cromer is a very pleasing vocalist; and effective turns are presented by Dewson, instrumentalist and vocalist; the Blessings, equilibrists; Chorley and Connor, Scotch comedians and dancers.

WEST PIER.—Secretary, Mr. A. W. Scholey.—Mr. Keith G. Kenneth's company opened here on Monday with Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace. Mr. Keith G. Kenneth submitted a masterly impersonation of Captain Mowbray; Miss Betty Fairfax handled the character of Mrs. Corringe with distinct success; Mr. Charles Ashwell acquitted himself very ably as Lieut. David Cairn; Miss Evelyn Ward's Mrs. Jardine and Miss Mynnee Kirke's Miss Potts merit praise. The programme for the week also included Under the Greenwood Tree.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Jay and Mann; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wilfred H. Kent.—An excellent series of picture plays is exhibited here. The Letter is a pathetic story; Sudden Wealth is highly interesting; A Difficult Task and Madness and Love are dramatic films; In a Submarine conveys much instruction; and Rigollo, the Man of Many Faces, and A Night in Armour are amusing.

COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. Maud Barrasford; Manager, Mr. F. J. Thompson.—A capital series of animated pictures is provided here. A Secret incident in the life of Marie Antoinette is replete with interest; The Sorceress of the Surf is very dramatic; Roman Walks is instructive; The Tree of Happiness is of a fairy character; and much amusement is afforded by A Hero in Spite of Himself, and Mamma's Angel Child. Mr. Osland Denner contributes baritone songs in artistic style; and Mr. Arthur W. Briggs merits praise for his descriptive pianoforte accompaniment to the pictures.

THEATRE DE LUXE.—Proprietors, Electric Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, W. H. Cousens.—The exhibitions of animated pictures here continue to attract good houses. Very strong dramatic stories are conveyed by President's Special, Double Dealing, and Bradford's Claim; Native Life in Malacca is instructive; and the comics include The Horseshoe and Method in His Madness.

BRISTOL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mrs. Emma Carpenter; Manager, Mr. Henry C. Alty.—Mr. Oswald Cray and company are here with When it was Dark, the play being staged in a liberal manner. Mr. Cray acts very effectively and in natural style as the Rev. Basil Gortre; Mr. C. Wordley Hulse displays power as Constantine Schwabe; Mr. Edward Valentine presents a clever study of Sir Robert Llewellyn; Miss Lillian Herries does admirably as Gertrude Hunt; and Miss Rosalie Notrelle is pleasing in the sympathetic part of Helena Byars.

PALACE.—Local Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Treasurer and Assistant-Manager, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman. — Clifford Marle and Josephine Colona's company successfully present the naval phantasy Nelson; Mooney and Holbein entertain with song, patter, and dance; Edith Courtney and Florence Wilton please with their musical duologue A Marble Flirtation; Milton Brothers are both expert and amusing roller skaters; Richards Trio excel as eccentric acrobats; Henry A. Moore successfully imitates popular artists, &c.; Marco does good work as a magician; and interesting animated pictures conclude.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—Fred Karno's company amuse with the new production Wontdetainia, the sketch being capitally played and well staged; the Woodwards do a very clever cycle-balancing act, &c.; Ida Kessanley and her admirably-trained troupe of fox terriers provide a capital and interesting turn, the football match being most amusing; Gus Harris obtains appreciation for his speciality "Primrose Day"; Fred Hastings does well with

On their garments not a blemish,
But fresher than before.—The Tempest.

CLEAN UP FOR YOUR

AUTUMN TOURS.

By special arrangement

TOURING MANAGERS CAN HAVE THEIR WARDROBES CLEANED BETWEEN SHOWS WHEN IN OR NEAR LONDON

by the

CHEMICAL CLEANING & DYEING CO.,

T. HARRIS, Manager.

ORIGINAL THEATRICAL CLEANERS & DYERS.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS.

"27, Moore Street, Lennox Gardens, S.W., May 22nd, 1910.

Mr. HARRIS,—I am very much obliged to you for the prompt way in which you attended to my request, and also for the very satisfactory way in which the things were dyed.—Yours faithfully (Signed) ENID SPENCER-BRUNTON."

"45, Green Road, Southsea, Hants, May 18th, 1910.

Dear Mr. HARRIS,—Thanks so much for taking the trouble to do a little order like this so quickly for me.—Faithfully yours, STUART ALEXANDER."

"Royal Aquarium Theatre, Great Yarmouth, May 26th, 1910.

Dear Mr. HARRIS,—Goods just received; am delighted with them. Very many thanks. Kind regards.—Yours faithfully, J. W. CORDINER."

For further particulars apply to

6, ARGYLL STREET, REGENT STREET, W.

Telephone: Gerrard 1911 (2 lines). Telegrams: "CLEANING, LONDON."

his monologue Study in Courtship and Marriage; Jessie Albini pleases with her clever skit on the Chantecler craze; Nan Farren is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; Michael Madden is a smart dame comedian; and Dan Weldon is a clever whistler. Animated pictures conclude.

BURNLEY.—Victoria Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Among the pictures shown here are A Tramp's Story, which is cleverly acted and beautifully reproduced.

Palace Theatre and Hippodrome.—Managing Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident Manager, Mr. J. R. Badcoe.—The Jackson Family head the list here with music on various instruments; the Dickens sketches of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lucas are presented with vivid power; Ted Waite, comedian, keeps the audience laughing; and Flo Burnett is applauded for songs of the sentimental order. Clever and clean is the acrobatic performance of the Fitzroys; Dan Conroy is very amusing with Irishisms; and Charles Woodward, comedian, the Sisters Maynard, graceful dancers, and the Palace pictures complete.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.—Opera House.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. de Hague Body.—Dr. Walford Bodie opened here to crowded houses on Monday, and met with a most cordial reception. He was supported by a good company, including La Bella Electra, with whom the doctor gave some bewildering and scientific experiments; Mr. W. H. Williams, expert bones, banjo, and bagpipe manipulator, fairly took the house by storm; Mr. G. H. Walker is a typical Highlander, and his two songs were well received; Miss Dolly Robson was also a great favourite; and others appearing were Bella Skene (musical comedy star), Billy Walters (society ventriloquist), and Tom Gold (comedian). Good pictures were shown on the Operascope.

CARDIFF.—New Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—Caste, pleasingly presented by Miss Cora Anson's company, is delighting the numerous patrons here. Eccles is portrayed by Mr. G. W. Anson in a manner which stamps this popular actor as a finished artist; Miss Cora Anson as Polly Eccles would be difficult to surpass; and Miss Lydia Busch impersonates Esther with rare skill and grace; Mr. T. A. Shannon gives a portrayal of the Hon. Geo. D'Alroy, which reflects on him the highest praise; Mr. Cecil Collins' Captain Hawtree is carefully and creditably enacted; Mr. W. Allison as Sam Gerridge amuses with his clever character study; and Miss Helen Vicary as the dignified and stately Marquise completes a list of talented and painstaking artists.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Taylor.—Heading an exceedingly strong programme is a sketch brimful of humour, entitled Papa's Day Off, in which Mr. Geo. Ali undertakes the "all-fours" part of the dog "Sport," his antics from time to time causing uproarious laughter; Miss Winifred Hare makes a pleasing appearance, and scores tremendously with sweet and taking renderings of two songs; Harry Weldon, the popular comedian, is as funny as ever as Stiffy, the goalkeeper; another comedian who is quaint and full of smart sayings is Witty Wattie Walton, who keeps the audience in the best of humours; in a comedy act Flipp and Flopp, the Delevines cause considerable merriment; the Three Belle Belles are exceedingly clever vocalists and dancers; and Azell A. Wilson performs a remarkably graceful gymnastic act; an illustrated song is rendered with distinction by Rosie Fitzgerald, a juvenile vocalist of much promise; and the Bioscope pictures complete.

Palace and Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will A. Jackson.—Full and exclusive pictures of the great boxing match between Freddie Welsh and Packy McFarland have drawn crowded houses; the acrobatic performance of the Geni Family, with the introduction of three ponies, is marvellous; Maude May Murray's electrical aerial dances are clever and picturesque; Sydney Brandon's dramatic character studies are thoroughly appreciated; Ford Williams is a fine bass-baritone vocalist; and Will Cornish, the musical bell expert, is really good. Helen Martin, sweet vocalist, and the Bioscope are also on the programme.

CARLISLE.—H.M. Theatre.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Steward M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—Mr. Edmund Tearle again puts on The Shadows of a Great City, and appears in a favourite rôle, Tom Cooper, his clever and breezy impersonation delighting large audiences. He is well supported by the members of his company, and the scenery and stage effects are quite a feature of the performance. Mr. Tearle was announced to appear as Macbeth on Friday.

The Palace.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. D. Askew.—Adam Tomlinson, the Tyneside comedian, is on a return visit, and with new tales and funny patter keeps his audience in roars of laughter. A vocal treat is provided by Williams' Jubilee Singers, a talented combination of coloured persons; Alice Craven is a clever Lancashire comedienne, whose catchy songs and saucy style please the audience. Mr. Walter Aubrey is a wonderful dancer; the Musical Keiths, in a novel and cleverly executed musical act, catch on immediately; and Sissie Brand, a dainty comedienne, and Harry Keeble, ventriloquist, are quite successful.

CASTLEFORD.—Queen's Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Chas. Beanland and Will H. Emerson.—A packed audience assembled here on Monday, when a new series of up-to-date films was presented by the Loyal Dominion Co. Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, the singing boxmakers, are to be congratulated on the heartiness of the reception accorded their vocal scena. Bert Chapman, a blind baritone, acting as deputy, sings two songs with much feeling and sincerity. New electric fans introduced here on Monday were thoroughly appreciated.

CHATHAM.—Barnard's Palace of Varieties.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—Here we have Elise Denby, comedienne; the Moxon Trio, in a smart and amusing acrobatic display; Taree, the Australian musical bushman, whose entertainment is a decided novelty; Frank Maura, in his well-known equilibristic performance; Stuart and Evans, comedians and patterers; Tom York, whose coster songs always go well here; and Sheldon and Buckley's company in an Eastern episode Before the Dawn, which is produced in excellent style.

Gaiety Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Captain H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr. Geo. Humphries.—The Jees top the bill here, and are once more pleasing all with their sketch The Musical Smithy. Les Wartanas prove very neat manipulators of clubs, hats, plates, &c.; Ray Espinosa deputises successfully for Lola Lee; Master Harcourt Mills gives impersonations of popular actors; the Haydns (Mabel and Rosa) are deservedly applauded; Chas. Rose gains plenty of applause for his neat dancing; Sybil Lofting wins favour as a vocalist; the Edisonograph has up-to-date films.

CHELTENHAM.—Montpellier Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. Alfred W. Newton.—John Ridding's Opera Company pay a welcome return visit on Monday, presenting Maritana to a large and appreciative gathering. In the title-part Miss Lucie Lever played with charming vivacity; Miss Vera Vizard as Lazarillo sang and acted nicely; Mr. Ditchfield was thoroughly capable as Captain of the Guard, as was Mr. C. Fredericks as the Alcalde. Mr. F. S. Gilbert was in happy vein as Don Cæsar; Mr. Michael Kemble took Mr. Ridding's place as Don José in a highly artistic manner, his singing being greatly admired; Miss Frederick Clendon as King of Spain made a decided impression. Fra Diavolo and other operas were in the week's bill.

Poole's Picture Palace.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. B. Shenton.—A film representing the Passion Play is proving a great attraction this week.

Winter Garden Electric Theatre.—Lessees, Gillsmiths, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Cecil Gill Smith.—This new venture was successfully launched on Monday, when a big crowd assembled to witness the views of local life expressly taken for this exhibition. Other films, supplied by Moss' Empires, Ltd., were much enjoyed, as was Mr. John A. Latham's illustrated songs.

CHESTER.—Royalty Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—The bill-toppers this week are the Royal Tokio Troupe of Japanese performers, whose startling feats astound the audience; Beatty Bros. are smart character comedians and patterers; the Welsh Girls are gifted and novel vocalists; Michel Bros. are clever society acrobats; De Hais Bros. are extraordinary club jugglers; Nicklin Williams presents his latest song-scena Recalled, and creates a well-deserved success; Tom E. Hughes, an accomplished comedian, wins enthusiastic plaudits; and Vernon's Bioscope concludes.

CHORLTON-CUM-HARDY.—Theatre and Winter Gardens, Ltd.—Proprietors, The Chorlton Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Walter Stott.—Mr. Fredk. Yates' company opened on Monday to an appreciative house. Miss Nan Hawkins has a delightful soprano voice and Miss Gertrude Pitt sings contralto songs and dances cleverly; Miss Sybil Glenn is an able vocalist; Mr. Hinton Jones is the possessor of a good tenor voice; Mr. J. Michael Watson is a powerful bass; and Mr. Len Robinson greatly amuses the audience with humorous and pathetic sketches at the piano. Included in the programme is a capital short musical comedy, entitled The Hunt Supper, in which all the party distinguish themselves.

CLACTON-ON-SEA.—Pier Pavilion.—Lessee, Mr. Will C. Pepper; Manager, Mr. Allan Thomas.—Mr. Will C. Pepper's company of White Coons has opened here for the season, and is doing good business. Mr. Joe Morley's banjo solos are enthusiastically received, as are also his duets with Mr. Allan Thomas, the latter rendering also some good songs; Mr. Wilfred Stracey provokes much laughter with his songs; ballad songs are tunefully rendered by Miss Bessie Bowness; Miss May Windsor's impersonations of a child are extremely funny; and concerted numbers by the company are a feature of the entertainment.

West Cliff Gardens.—Proprietors, Messrs. Graham Russell and Bentley.—These gardens are now opened for the season. A strong bill includes: Arthur Melrose (the whistling comedian), Miss Lilian Barnes (contralto), Joseph Boddy (tenor), Bernard Russell (comedian), Bert Graham (humorist and monologist), Will Bentley (comedian), and Cyril Weller (at the piano). Good audiences are present at every show.

Operetta House.—Lessee, Mr. W. F. Jury; Manager, Mr. A. Bloomfield.—A varied selection of pictures is shown here.

COLCHESTER.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Graham Macdona.—Miss Loie Esmond and company are giving The Sorrows of Satan on four occasions, the remaining two nights being devoted to Nana. A good house assembled on Monday to witness the first-named play, and Mr. Edward Neville won high encomiums for his portrayal of the part of Lucio. Miss Rosie Neville enacted Lady Sybil with dramatic force, whilst the winsome character of Mavis Clare was charmingly depicted by Miss Dorothy Dewhurst; Miss Loie Esmond was faithful to the part of the American débutante Diana Chesney; Mr. I. McGaig made an acceptable Geoffrey Tempest; and as the retainers Morris and Amiel Mr. Percy Foreman and Mr. Hemnic Sisto acquitted themselves capitally.

Hippodrome.—Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—The Ten Loonies, who combine wild hilarity with musical skill, top the bill, and provide excellent entertainment; Ben Lewin, character actor, gives admirable impersonations from Dickens and the like; Karr and Kooney, the scarlet comedians, excel in merry jest; the Four Braggs present a high-class balancing act; Kenneth and Kane work hard and win great applause; Len Hale dances in taking fashion; Nora Dene is an attractive vocalist with very popular numbers; and the pictures win admiration.

CORK.—Opera House.—Manager, Mr. R. J. Bell.—Hippodrome season opened here on Monday with the engagement of Lafayette, "the man of mystery." The other attractions are the Sisters Gladwin, graceful dancers; Graham, a remarkably clever entertainer, who as a human marionette presents lifelike impressions of famous music hall artists; and Niblo's wonderful talking birds, another novel attraction.

COVENTRY.—The Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—Her Secret Lover is presented by Mr. and Mrs. Kimberley's company and is thoroughly well staged. The cast is a strong one, all the characters being in capable hands; Ivy Seymour is admirably portrayed by Miss Laura Walker; and Mr. Arthur St. John is a great success as Gilbert Seymour.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. S. T. Newsome; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. E. Wright.—The top turn on the bill is the comedy sketch Her Husband, played by Walter Bird's company, including Ernie Lottinga. It is a remarkable combination of farce and melodrama; the Pasquali Brothers, tumblers and equilibrists, perform a variety of daring feats; Natalia and Diana, two lady trapeze gymnasts, are clever performers. Other artists are Walker and Lake, who contribute an amusing patter dialogue; Albert Le Fre, versatile comedian and quaint dancer; the Lannons, vocal duettists and champion double high pedestal dancers; Mlle. de Rose, lady baritone and pianist; and J. H. Hawtrey, patriotic songster.

CROYDON.—Empire Palace of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace Jay.—Much excitement is being caused here by the marvellous performance of Darracq on his whirling motor-car; Goodfellow and Gregson are exceptionally good in comedy act; Maidie Scott is a lively and attractive comedienne; Barney Armstrong and eccentric Kelly keep the house in good humour; Colin Bryce and company are well received in the comic sketch Are You a Socialist? Sammy Shields is an irresistible comedian; Celia Retford is clever; and the Bioscope pictures are up to the mark.

Queen's Hall.—The pictures here are well selected. An attractive feature are the singing pictures of the opera Faust. There are also other novelties of a humorous, dramatic, and picturesque nature.

DARWEN.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. F. R. Griffiths; General-Manager, Mr. D. P. Cooper; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Sutcliffe.—The Godfreys, musical comedy artists, bring down the house; Charles Ashdown creates laughter with his comic songs and dances; and J. Meath is applauded for his clog dancing. Among the films shown is The History of a Sardine Sandwich—interesting and educative.

Albert Hall.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Holden.—East and West are an entertaining comedy duo with a refined and novel style, and J. Grierson, society entertainer, is well received. The films include a Biblical study, The Life of Moses.

DERBY.—Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Sole Proprietor and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley.—An excellent programme is headed by Spissell Bros. and Mack, eccentrics and pantomimists, whose performance is one of all-round excellence; La Belle Nello, described as the Queen of Equipoise, is responsible for an exceedingly graceful act; Romanoff, gipsy violin virtuoso, skilfully renders several good selections; an excellent juvenile turn is supplied by the Denaro Bros., whose equilibristic turn is smart and neat; Charles Stevens, the convivial comedian, sings well, and is entirely successful; Percy Curry creates much merriment; Kydd and Kydd are excellent patterers; and Kitty Leon is a dainty soubrette and dancer. The Bioscope adds to the entertainment.

DEVONPORT.—Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. G. Prance.—A really pretty little musical comedy, entitled Cupid's Arms, is the chief attraction here, the principal characters being undertaken by Mr. Frank Danby in the rôle of a landlady and Mr. J. C. Piddock, who is a finished dancer and first-rate vocalist; Silbon's cats, some trained dogs, and a pony go through wonderful evolutions and perform remarkable tricks; the Keebles (Nora and Edie) are responsible for an attractive number; Elsie Ellis, an accomplished little comedienne, is the recipient of much hearty applause Fred Lincoln, an old favourite, is as popular as ever; Halter and Roy are heard to advantage in some good songs; and Cambs, billed as the musical monkey, assisted by Miss Castelle, is a thoroughly good entertainer.

Metropole.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—An excellent rendering of East Lynne was given on Monday by the popular stock company. The principals are Mr. Leonard Aardale (Archibald Carlyle), Mr. Chas. Lincoln (Francis Levison), Mr. Chas. Vivian (Richard Hare), and the Misses Rita Sponti, Jessie Yatman, and Maggie Lindsey. The piece is preceded by an interesting little tabloid drama, entitled The Iron King, from the pen of Mr. E. Birch, a local councillor.

DEWSBURY.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Herbert Asquith.—Mr. C. Watson Mills's company, in The Wrecker of Men, is here this week. As Risca Mallinson Miss Ruth Zillwood submits a powerful rendering; Mr. S. Pitt gives a remarkably fine portrayal of Jim Murley; and Mr. Arthur Robinson is efficient as Guise Strange. The part of Doris Melville is in the capable hands of Miss Gwendoline Talbot, who acts charmingly; Mr. William Heilbron gives an excellent study of Pharasophus; Mr. Edward A. Brooke, in the rôles of Ezekiel Isaacs and Karnaphus, does good work; Mr. Richard Bosco is well placed as Railton; and Mr. Thompson Carruthers (Eric Melville) and Mr. W. A. Armour (Hon. Reggie Verincourt) ably sustain their parts. Miss Lydia Hart as Vavasole Slopper supplies some excellent comedy.

Empire.—Proprietors, Messrs. G. W. and G. E. Smith; Manager, Mr. Claude Shayler; Musical-Director, Mr. E. G. Summerfield.—Heading a strong programme here is Mr. James Hare's company in Wrong 'Uns. Mr. Hare successfully enacts James Redman, and receives able assistance from Harry Rignold as Esau Hebron, Mr. C. P. Wentworth as Sir Laurence Farrant, and Irene Clifford as Nell Radford. Jennie Johns has a flattering reception; she has a charming presence, and her songs are smartly rendered. The Three Hodginis, in their daring and sensational ladder act, appear with great success; O'Malley and Brown, Irish comedians, are very funny; a smart turn is done by Burnetti, quick-change character musician; Frank Weaver, an excellent sand dancer, is loudly applauded; George Rogan, versatile comedian, goes well; and Gertie Martini, vocalist, also appears with credit. The Palascope projects the usual entertaining films.

Hippodrome.—General-Manager, Mr. George Weldon; Stage-Manager, Mr. P. Hogg.—The display of animated pictures here is highly appreciated. The Stricken Home and The Last Day are two highly interesting and dramatic films, and The New Reporter and The Tomboline Duel are fine comedy pictures. Bob Selvidge and Poppy Holland present an exceedingly funny sketch, The Dotted Crotchet; Martin Henry and Irene Rose contribute a clever episode, The Silver Medal; Frances Haskell sings patriotic songs, which are beautifully illustrated, with success; Mollie Watson is a dainty comedienne; and Francesco, vocal chameleon, submits a unique turn.

Industrial Hall.—Lessees, Messrs. A. and H. Andrews; Resident-Manager, Mr. B. J. Christian.—The entertainment provided here draws good houses. Some excellent films are shown, and are greatly appreciated.

DONCASTER.—New Grand Theatre and Opera House, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—The town was invaded on Monday evening by thousands of miners, who thoroughly enjoyed A Prince's Secret Wedding. Mr. George Mitchell was well placed as Ivan Nowasky, and equally effective was Mr. O. Silverstone as Prince Alexander; Mr. Cowell Clark gave light and shade to the part of Karl Orloff; and mirth was aroused by Mr. Harry Wright as Robbie Smart; Little Minnie Halstan was a pleasing Alexina; Mrs. O. Silverstone, a dainty Katrina Zindoff; Miss Edna Clare, an excellent Alexina Orloff; and Miss Florry Kalsey, a brilliant Princess Olga.

DOUGLAS.—Gaiety Theatre, Ltd.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Gray.—The Gaiety Theatre opened on Monday for the season with Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner, which was artistically interpreted by Mr. Charles Graham and his company. Miss Winifred Scott, who played Elizabeth Philipse, is a dainty comedienne, and possesses passion and power; Mr. Fred Penley proved by his portrayal of the character of Mr. Valentine that he is an unctuous comedian; the Edwards of Mr. Richard Walsh was a thumb-nail sketch full of artistry; Mr. Graham Phillips played with sincerity an unthankful rôle; in the local colour parts of Black Sam and Cuff Mr. Frank Woodville and Master Alex. Wosely were excellently quaint; the Captain Harry Peyton of Mr. Charles Graham was a distinct tour de force; Miss Leonora Braham's Mistress Sara Williams was a perfect exposition of refined comedy; and Miss Nora Macdonnell was pleasing as the serving-maid Molly. The play was beautifully mounted. It was preceded by a clever curtain-raiser The Very Devil, written by Mr. A. H. Young, and played with spirit by Mr. Graham Phillips, Mr. Charles Graham, Miss Nora Macdonnell, and Miss Maud Britten.

The Palace, Ltd.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brittain.—The season here is in full swing, and a large shares of patronage is commanded. Mr. Harry Wood's orchestra would induce Diogenes to dance—tub and all; roller skating is provided, and there is an excellent variety programme in the New Opera House. The artists engaged are all popular. Miss Mona Vivien is a clever vocalist, mimic, and dancer; Jennion's Marionettes are ever provocative of fun; Mr. Bert Byrne is a clean and clever comedian; the Three Brothers Huxter present a refined tumbling act, in which comedy plays a part. Vernon's Bioscope puts the world's happenings before the public.

Buxton's Amusements.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Fred Buxton.—The Pierrots' concerts are given three times daily. The artists include: Mr. Allan Hanbury, a fun-provoking comedian; Miss May Birkett, a soprano singer who scores; Mr. John Story, a popular monologue artist and impersonator of Dickensian characters; Miss Edith Butler, vocalist, instrumentalist, and versatile artist, who is a great favourite; Mr. Sydney Bach at the piano is in his right place; Mr. Harry Braddon as a Manx raconteur has few successful rivals; Mr. J. J. Mannix's sketches of coloured character are realistic; Mr. George Cristo as an illusionist and ventriloquist gives a good show; and Mr. Fred Buxton renews his success as a ballad singer. Mr. Robert Sedgewick is the musical director. In the Picturedrome, at eight, films are the chief draw. Miss Mildred Buxton gives the dramatic picture-song, "A little child shall lead them." Little Miss Buxton is a talented actress and a sweet vocalist. Other attractions at Buxton's are roller skating twice daily and the billiard hall.

Empire Theatre.—Lessee and Proprietor, Mr. Charles Dan; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Carr.—Animated pictures here are catholic in their scope and up to date. Dare's White Minstrels appear with success in a concerted number The Pump; and Messrs. Penn and Rolfe are humorous duettists. The attendance has been very large.

The White Minstrels are, as ever, a feature on Douglas Head.

DUBLIN.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frederick Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Terry.—The talent here this week is exceptionally good, and large audiences are present at each performance. Courtice Pounds and company, in a musical sketch, Charles, his Friend, receive rounds of applause. Miss Clarice Mayne is an enchanting comedienne, and her songs are excellently sung; the Francoli Troupe, in their acrobatic pantomime, The Billposter and the Terrible Children, are amusing and clever; Mahatma is very bewildering in her second-sight performance; Bros. Webb are extra good as the Musical Grimaldis; Fred Lindsay is well appreciated as the Bushman and Stock-whip Wonder; and George S. Melvin scores with his Scottish songs and dances. The Royal Bio. completes the programme.

Queen's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Marriott-Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Wright.—Fun on the Bristol is being played here by Messrs. O'Brien and Ireland's company. Mr. James O'Brien gives a humorous impersonation of the Widow O'Brien; and Mr. Harry Ireland is exceedingly good as Captain Cranberry; Mr. Tom Conlan does full justice to the rôle of Richard Sparks; and Mrs. Mary Glenville creates much merriment as Bella. Mr. James Daly is well suited as Count Menaggio; and Miss Madeline Hurst is seen to advantage as Dora. Tom Cranberry has a good representative in Mr. J. C. Warren; and Mies Laura Lawson is pleasing as Nora O'Brien. The curtain-raiser, The County Councillor, is well received.

Empire Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Assistant-Manager, Mr. George H. Marsh.—The premier attraction here is W. F. Frame, whose reputation is great in this city. Needless to say, his songs are heartily encored; Kathleen Gray has many admirers; Roma and Romani are clever and versatile instrumentalists; Miss May Henderson is an entertaining comedienne; and Barney Stuart proves himself an excellent comedian. Alec Lawson, dancer; the Lindons, comedy duo; the Rawsons, and the bioscope pictures are successful.

Tivoli.—General-Manager, Mr. Chas. M. Jones; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—The bill is topped here by the Frank L. Gregory troupe of hoop-rollers and jugglers, whose smart performance merits applause; Osborn and Brooks, the musical comedy duo, are well appreciated; and King Luis and Partner, equilibristic novelty, is greatly enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard, in a comedy sketch, Coming Home, are highly amusing; and other acceptable turns are provided by Mark Stuart, comedian; May de Rouse, comedienne and dancer; Nancy Renshaw, vocalist and bone soloist; Jack Rae, gymnastic comedian; and Marie Brayman, refined vaudeville artist. The bioscope completes the programme.

Palace Pleasure Gardens, Rathmines.—This pleasant resort was opened on Saturday last for the season, when Herr Victor Vorzanger's orchestral band performed several selections which were heartily enjoyed by the large audience present. Master Harold Vorzanger gave an excellent performance on the cymbals, and Miss Violet Elliott, contralto, sang vocal numbers charmingly. An addition to the programme is the engagement of the Misses Mather's band from Edinburgh.

Pavilion, Kingstown.—The Sabots are drawing capital houses. Miss Winnie Brown sings and dances herself into favour; and Mr. Sydney Warwick is an excellent baritone vocalist; Mr. Walter Walters, a humorous comedian, gains great applause; and Miss C. Stroud, soprano, is well received. Mr. Henry Rumings' sketches create much laughter; and the Bioscope shows an interesting series of pictures.

Arcadia, Bray.—Manager, Mr. Jack Macdermott.—The vaudeville company is drawing full houses nightly. The programme presented by the Arcadian company is thoroughly enjoyed; and Mr. Arthur J. Hill as a ventriloquist and as "The Living Lilliputian" proves highly diverting.

World's Fair.—Proprietor, Mr. Charles A. James; Manager, Mr. Robert W. Sprengel.—The bill of fare here is furnished by Doyle and Deane, vaudeville artists; Fred Walton, comedian; Miss Cora Leslie, comedienne; Charlie Coll, comedian; and Arthur Rosene, character comedian.

DUDLEY.—Opera House.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—Notwithstanding the warm weather large audiences are again enjoying the excellent pictures shown.

Empire.—Proprietors, Midland Entertainment Corporation, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Robert Watt.—Charming and artistic is the delightful performance of La Belle Thelma and her seven lady models at the top of the bill this week. Too much praise cannot be given Sauteron Wonders, clever comedy speciality artists; Bros. Gerrard are real smart in music, mirth, and melody; Ben Jackson proves an expert banjo soloist and humorist; the efforts of the Lomas Duo in The Birthday Teddy Bear are much appreciated; and Harry Bland also scores well as an eccentric comedian. The Jollity Girls are lively in song and dance; and Ethel Payne, Australian ballad vocalist, is in good voice.

DUNDEE.—King's Theatre and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Manager, Mr. S. McIntosh.—Topping a brilliant bill are Ellaline Terriss and company, in a diverting musical sketch, entitled The Pink of Perfection, which finds great favour; Gus Garrick hits off the different types of comedians very humorously, his burlesque on the Spanish dancer sending the house into convulsions; the Three Cunards' dancing act is marked with the utmost neatness and precision; wit, humour, and music are happily blended in Bromley and Fontein's sketch The Man Behind the Music Stand; Ridiculous Recco gives a clever acrobatic display, his comedy business being of the most ludicrous description; Linden Lang sings with fine voice and expression; the Hudsons are a vivacious comedy duo; and the Kingscope pictures are, as usual, excellent.

Gaiety Theatre.—Acting-Manager, Mr. J. K. Stewart.—Miss Dora Hammersley's company, under the direction of Mr. Charles Kean, commenced their dramatic stock season here on Monday evening with The Shaughraun. Miss Dora Hammersley as Claire Ffolliott acted with dignity and pathos, and won all hearts; Mr. Charles Kean made a fine figure of Capt. Molineux, and declaimed his lines with good effect; the Conn of Mr. Finn Doyle was as humorous a performance as one could wish for; Robert Ffolliott was rendered in manly and spirited fashion by Mr. Edwin Morton; Mr. T. Dennis Byron acted with distinction as Corry Kinchela, his brogue being very effective; his accomplice in villainy Harvey Duff had a most efficient representative in Mr. Leslie Vyner, who invested the part with refreshing humour; Mr. Ernest C. Edwards was excellent as Father Dolan; a sweet and natural Arte O'Neal was found in Miss Cissie Bellamy; Miss Clarise Jenner made a vivacious Moya; and Miss Bella Power and Miss Ethel Ronald as Mrs. O'Kelly and Bridget Madigan respectively were distinctly good; and Messrs. James Somerville, Tom Mortimer, Will Henderson, and Jack Smythe all lend able assistance. The drama is capitally staged and dressed.

Palace Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. Tom Lunn.—The high standard of the picture programmes here is well maintained this week by another excellent display of films, which includes Love's Stratagem, A Quiet Pipe, Victims of Fate, and The Angel of Dawson's Claim, in addition to which there is a host of comic films, along with the always-popular singing and talking picture.

Empire Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. W. Austin.—Good houses continue to be attracted here, the picture programme being of the most up-to-date.

EASTBOURNE.—Devonshire Park Theatre.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Murray King and Clark.—Mr. Oswald King's new farcical comedy, Turning the Tables, produced here on Monday last, is noticed on another page.

Pier Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Mr. Alfred West's Life in Our Army and Navy is here. The beautiful and unique photographs are of the most interesting kind, and, in addition to the latest moving pictures, there is a series of bird studies, which for attractiveness and technical art would be difficult to excel. Lieut. J. G. Sutherland, R.N.R., is a remarkably able guide; Mr. Julian Fredericks deserves praise for his finely arranged music.

Royal Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; Acting-Manager, Mr. B. F. Woodward.—Heading the bill here are the Schafer Four, who have a novel and taking musical turn; Miss Daisy Stratton, prettily and tastefully gowned, sings brightly; the Three Aza Boys are dancers of ability and neatness; Royston and Bradfield do capital work in a very effective sketch, The Bailiff and the Actress; Miss Edie Andersen sings and dances with gaiety and cleverness; Mr. Archie Pitt and Mr. Tod Lowen figure as comedians; and new films are shown.

ECCLES.—Crown Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert Rogers.—We are having a welcome change to variety this week. A De Bessell, the original clay-modeller, provides a novel turn; Penstone and San-Go are responsible for some clever feats of legerdemain; Johnson and Hart, American hoop-rollers and jugglers, are good; Sammy Foster, comedian, creates mirth; Cara Magda, Continental lady gymnast, meets with success; the Three Favourites, vocal and speciality artists, also contribute to the programme. A number of interesting films are shown.

EDINBURGH.—Royal Lyceum Theatre.—Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie.—Mr. E. C. Hedmondt, the well-known Wagnerian operatic singer, and company are here this week in a farcical comedy, Theodor's Flutter. The play is not the thing in the case of this piece, for Theodor's Flutter is a somewhat weak specimen of French light drama. But the production is redeemed by the delightful music, by Mr. Joseph Maas and Mr. Willy Scott, with which it is freely seasoned. Rendered in admirable style by Mr. E. C. Hedmondt as Plumeau, clerk to a firm of pickle manufacturers; by Mr. Charles Victor, a splendid baritone singer, as M. Alfred Durand; and by Miss Doris Woodall—whose impersonation of Carmen is an artistic treat—as Aurelia, the various numbers in the play are given in a manner which makes a deep impression on the audience, and evoke enthusiastic applause. The other members of the cast are all capable singers, and an especially warm reception was bestowed upon a charming interpretation of a trio, "I want to be loved," by Miss Marion Broom (Angela), Miss Annie Van Dyck (Claire), and Miss Hilda Morris as Eve. Mr. Hedmondt had a double recall for a fine solo, "Queen of the sunshine," composed by Mr. Willy Scott, in which the singer displayed the passion of his style and the beauty of his voice. Another excellent number is the "Tendresse" waltz, a sextett, capitally rendered by Mr. William O'Connor, Mr. Schofield, Mr. R. F. Matthews, and the Misses Marion Broom, Annie Van Dyck, and Hilda Morris. Mr. Percy Blunden, in the title-rôle, and Miss Lawson Tayler, a vivacious Toinette, scored a success in the "Chanteclair" duet; and Mr. Bob Owen was an amusing Moreau. Miss Woodall received an ovation when she first appeared upon the stage, and she sang throughout with her wonted charm and expressiveness. A large audience on Monday evening applauded vigorously each number, and encores were frequent. A veritable feast for music-lovers is announced for a matinée on Saturday, when a recital of Schumann's songs will be given. Miss Woodall will sing the Cycle of "Frauenlieben und Leben," Mr. Hedmondt will be heard in the Cycle "Dichterliebe," and Mr. Victor and Mr. Willy Scott will also contribute to the programme.

King's Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Amand Mascard.—Mr. John Clyde and a specially-selected company occupies the King's this week, supporting Miss Lydia Donovan in her own version of East Lynne. Miss Donovan's success in the double rôle of Lady Isabelle and Mme. Vine is widely and favourably known, and she played throughout with all the necessary dignity and pathos; Mr. Clyde's Archibald Carlyle was marked by all this sterling actor's force and impressiveness; and an excellent study of Francis Levison was submitted by Mr. C. Quinton Fulford. The oddities and humour of Cornelia Carlyle were well brought out by Miss C. Henderson; Barbara Hare had a pleasing representative in Miss Jean Mackintosh; and Joyce, Susanne, and Little Willie lost nothing at the hands of Miss Barratt, Miss Amy Findlayson, and iss May Barratt; while Messrs. Roy Rhind, David Blair, Mr. J. Finlayson, and Mr. T. J. Waddington were all acceptable in the parts of Justice Hare, Richard Hare, Mr. Dill, and Detective Smart. The pleasant old comedy-drama Cramond Brig gave Mr. and Mrs. Clyde congenial work as Jock and Tibbie Howieson; with Mr. David Blair at his best as the king; Mr. Graham Wilton and Miss Amy Finlayson both well cast for Birkie and Marion; and Miss Jean Mackintosh a pretty page.

Empire Palace Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—The programme here is full of most admirable entertainment, and the house has been crammed at each of the two evening performances. Mr. Harry Lauder's name, no doubt, counts for much; but the other turns on the bill are all noteworthy. The popular Scotch comedian is in his best form, and his new songs, "Bessie Lea," "Sunday morning," and "A Highland picnic," giving him the opportunity of showing his pawky humour in its most effective manner; Miss Ella Retford, a dashing comedienne, whose songs are rendered with a gaiety that is irresistible, is loudly applauded; the Sisters Pine are excellent vocalists; Mr. Cull Pitt's sleight-of-hand tricks are capital, his patter is humorous, and his imitations are distinctly good; Mr. F. V. St. Clair arouses the enthusiasm of the audience with his topical songs; Yamamoto and Miss Koyoshi give a daring exhibition as equilibrists; the Brothers Dumont display neatness in a fresh acrobatic turn; and Bob and Minnie Lemand are amusing in an exhilarating sketch, An Interview. Mr. Carter Livesey and Miss Lilian Roseberry provide a new dramatic sketch, of which a detailed notice is given in another column.

Operetta House.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. J. H. Sanders.—The Final Settlement, a dramatic story of the backwoods, and The Livingstone Case, a cleverly-worked-out detective mystery, are the principal films here this week. A gruesome picture of the ravages of cholera is given in Saved from the Jaws of Death. There are many humorous subjects, such as Foolshead Marries Against His Will, which cause much laughter. The variety part of the programme is excellent and well appreciated.

Pringle's Picture Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Edmunds.—The patrons of this popular place of entertainment are being well provided for this week, and a new feature, in the form of a fire-proof operating-box, has been put in. The pictures maintain their high quality in An Eye for an Eye, The Gallant Field-Marshal, and The End of the World. Jack Ramsay, comedian, and the Waltons, sketch artists, are heartily received.

Marine Gardens

menced an engagement on Monday, which has proved exceedingly popular. The skating-rink attracts a goodly contingent of skaters; and an exhibition billiard match between Inman and Aiken is well patronised. Balloon ascents and parachute descents continue to be chief amongst the many outdoor inducements to visitors, and the gardens themselves are looking their best. In the concert-hall large audiences have gathered to enjoy an excellent production of The Pirates of Penzance by Mr. Douglas Archer's Portobello amateur opera company. A very charming Mabel was found in Miss May Scott Hastie; the part of Ruth was happily rendered by Miss Jeannie Gulland; and Miss Ina Hill made a pleasing Edith; while of the male artists Mr. John A. Moir and Mr. R. C. Gray were thoroughly successful in their respective rôles of the Major-General and Frederick.

ELLESMERE PORT.—HIPPODROME AND PICTURE PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. A. Corelli and Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Corelli.—The patrons of this popular place of amusement are favoured with a return visit of Mr. Coleman Davies and company in The Ticket of Leave Man and A Stolen Inheritance. The chief characters in both plays are undertaken by Misses Eunice Udall, Florrie Hall, Nora Temple, and Messrs. Coleman Davies, J. Nelson Turner, T. Roydon, Merriman, and Courtney Robinson, and minor rôles are in capable hands. Animated Pictures are thrown upon the screen prior to and at the conclusion of each performance.

EXETER.—NEW HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. Sandy. — The engagement of the celebrated Kilties Band of Canada is proving a very popular selection, judging by the crowded and enthusiastic houses that fill the Hippodrome twice every night. There is no doubt as to the band, which numbers forty artists, being a musical treat. Between the items presented by the band one of the troupe, Angus McAlphine, a talented baritone, sang with great effect "The Bedouin love-song"; Mr. J. Coates Lockhart, who is the possessor of a sweet tenor voice, gave "The trumpeter"; Mr. Bert Daniels, in his cornet solo "Columbia" and Pipe-Major Johnstone, in his bagpipe solo, were exceedingly popular; Percy Lorraine proved a clever mimic of animals; and the Clan Johnstone Troupe, in Scotch reels and Irish jigs, were loudly encored.

FLEETWOOD. — EMPIRE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. J. Snelson.—Mr. T. Arthur Jones' company is proving a great draw. When Other Lips opened to a full house on Monday, when Miss Marie Daventry scored a triumph. The company is a powerful one, and the mounting excellent. Life's Sweetest Sin was announced for Thursday and Friday.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Mr. Harry W. Lumley's company, in the musical comedy The Cruise of the Constance, is supplying a bright and lively evening's entertainment. The play is admirably staged, and the company includes some capital artists. Mr. Charles McNaughton keeps the house in roars of laughter by his quaint humour and clever dances as Potts, the steward; Miss Irene Verona as Mrs. Hope does full justice to the part, and her delightful acting and singing are abundantly recognised; Mr. Fredk. Hobbs is excellent as Lieut. Wensleydale, R.N.; his voice is nicely modulated, and his songs give much pleasure; Miss Ruby Vyvyan, a clever actress, is responsible for an excellent interpretation of Clements, the maid; and Mr. Lockwood Philpot is entrusted with the rôle of the thieving secretary, Mr. Hardy. The remaining characters are capably filled, the chief being Captain Jackson, Mr. Albert Kavangh; Miss Isobel, Miss Carlotto Sylvano; and the café proprietor, Mr. Tom Prentice. The singing of the chorus is all that can be desired.

GLASGOW.—KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. W. Wyndham and G. T. Minshull; Business-Manager, Mr. Hugh Macfarlane.—On Monday Mr. H. F. Maltby and company opened here with The Laughter of Fools. Mr. H. F. Maltby's impersonation of Colonel Greig is a fine character sketch; Miss Mara Maltby acts the part of the quiet and unassuming Doris Henley with good effect; the part of Captain Vidal is admirably portrayed by Mr. Francis Drake; and as the masterful Mrs. Greig Miss Helen Pendennis plays in a telling manner; Wyn Weaver makes the most of his opportunities as Bertie Greig; Miss Ethel Percival brings into prominence the part of Mabel Greig; and Miss Irene Malvesyn is most amusing as the gawky servant Elizabeth; Mr. Frank Stoney appears to advantage as Hubert Hughes.

ROYALTY.—Sub-Lessees, The Scottish Playgoers' Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Waring.—Mr. J. J. Bell's amusing Scotch comedy, Oh, Christina! is now in its third week.

METROPOLE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—The change of programme this week to The Irishman gives another fillip to the Irish Dramatic Season, which has been so successful in this popular and comfortable theatre. Mr. Tyrone Power has another character in Larry O'Rourke which suits him to the life, in which he is ably assisted by Miss Jessie Glenn as Molly O'Flaherty, Mr. Fred Lloyd in the part of Owen Kavanagh, Mr. Dane Clarke as Felix Blake, and Mr. Morley Carroll as Micky Wheelan give faithful renderings of their parts. The rôle of Norah Desmond has a faithful exponent in Miss A. Grahame, and Miss Annie Hylton as the outspoken Kate Kearney leaves nothing to be desired. For Thursday and Friday The Irishman gives place to Willy Reilly.

EMPIRE.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Reynolds.—Mr. Raymond Phillips is showing here his newly invented airship under wireless control, and the perfect manner in which he manœuvres it through the auditorium is the cause of much wonder. The Eight Lancashire Lads show their neatness and dexterity in song and dance. Binns and Binns present a musical turn that is as clever as it is new and unconventional; Alcide Capitaine's dainty trapeze and rope act is received with the heartiest applause; Mona Garrick gives several strong scenes from famous plays, and acts powerfully in each; Jennie Hartley is a smart serio and dancer; Jock Mills takes well in his humorous Scotch ditties; Maxey and Pete are a clever couple of comedy and trick cyclists; Russell Carr's ventriloquial turn is very good, and mention should also be made of the excellent musical selections by Mr. W. Moore and his orchestra.

PAVILION, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Evan Good; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest R. Foster.—Bellew and Stock's company, "The Romps," give a very enjoyable musical scena, which is well received. Miss Lilian Herlein, an American prima donna now here appears with success in several humorous and patriotic scenas; W. G. Raby is an eccentric comedian of much merit; Les Croisit Trio show wonderful strength and skill in all their various feats; Berg Bros. are a couple of Yankee trick cyclists with a number of new and daring feats; the Piccolinos, the miniature cyclists, dancers, acrobats, and wire walkers, are a clever troupe of artists, and take well; F. Rotting's feats as a conjurer evoke the heartiest applause; Godfrey Price is a bass vocalist of much ability, and his scena, "The Trumpeter," is cleverly staged.

PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Rich. Waldon; General-Manager, Mr. Harry M'Kelvie.—Mr. Louis Taylor's London company tops the bill in The Adder's Tooth. Mr. Fred D. Bromwich, Mr. Hodgson Taylor, and Miss Katherine Clarke fill the leading parts powerfully. Miss Ida Barr, vocalist; Friend and Downing, the Hebrew and his Hebrew friend; Marcel and Boris, in a novel equilibristic act; Annie Braddon, an excellent comedienne; Pat Lynch, the dancing demon; J. E. Bates, acrobatic dancer; and pictures on the Bioscope are other turns.

COLISEUM.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—Chas. Aldrich, the man of many parts, this week presents an entertainment thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated by all. Alicia Ramsey and Rudolph de Cordova's company presents a dramatic sketch, The Organ Grinder; Tom E. Finglass, coon vocalist. Carrie Laurie's juveniles, the Empire Comedy Four; Louie Frayne, vocalist, instrumentalist, and dancer; Rich Taylor, in a ventriloquial turn; the Pender Troupe of comedy giants and dwarfs; the Lyric Quartette; and Bioscope films are other attractions.

GAIETY.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Dickinson.—The outstanding pictures here are those representing The Troubadour, A Case of Identity, and the Treasure Hunters. The vaudeville programme is capitally sustained by Flo Ramsay, comedienne and dancer, and the Brothers Raeburn, clog dancers.

PANOPTICON.—Proprietor, Mr. A. E. Pickard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Sinclair.—Mark Anthony, on a return visit, meets with a good reception; Nellie Duval, in both her numbers is pleasing; Sam Haslam takes well as a comedian; an entertaining turn is provided by Hart and Hart; and the Bioscope films are still interesting.

HENGLER'S.—Proprietor, Mr. Albert Hengler; Manager, Mr. W. Milne.—This circus has been closed for several weeks for alterations, and reopened on Monday with a very good display of films, both grave and gay. The anxeto-gramophone is heard in new musical items, and variety turns are given by the Two E's as "The Lady and the Yokel," and by Bee Smarte, the military girl.

GLOUCESTER. — PALACE THEATRE. — Messrs. Poole's Theatres, Ltd.—The chief picture is a good representation of the Oberammergau play. The vocalist, Miss Kitty Woodford, comes in for applause for her songs, and the Vocaphone choruses are well taken up.

THEATRE DE LUXE.—Manager, Mr. G. Boultwood.—A capital programme of pictures proves very popular.

GOOLE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. Hainsworth.—An attractive bill is headed by the Harrison Brothers, who keep the house in roars of laughter; Marquis and Truly are successful in their acrobatic and musical act; Maud Ethelda is a charming comedienne and dancer; and Miss Elsie Le Var, comedienne, is a prime favourite. The pictures by the Monarch-scope are very enjoyable.

GREAT YARMOUTH. — ROYAL AQUARIUM. — Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. H. Nightingale. —Miss Lancashire, Limited, is the attraction here. The principal rôle is filled by Miss Florence Baines, who has established herself a favourite.

THE GEM.—Managing-Director, Mr. E. V. Barr.—The pictures are excellent, and include The Soul of Venice, Rubber Boom, and Smuggling Up to Date. Percival, the burlesque comedian and trick pianist, is proving a great attraction; Oliver Conroy is repeating his success of last week; and Tom Taylor is a favourite with his song-scenas.

CHAPPEL'S PROMENADE CONCERTS.—Managing-Director, Mr. E. V. Barr; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Barker.—The season opened here on Monday under most favourable conditions, and before a most distinguished audience, including the Mayor and Mayoress. J. H. Crew scores with his songs and eccentric sayings; Astor is an up-to-date ventriloquist; Mr. Harry Barker has established himself a favourite with his well-rendered songs; Lena Pinaud is a clever dancer; Willie Black causes a lot of fun; the Brothers Farrant are aptly billed as "the Smart Set comedians"; the Sisters Redfen contribute a pleasing turn; Rubie and Elsie Dago's selections are well received; and Arthur Rugby is a first-class entertainer.

GREENOCK.—HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—The present season concluded here on Monday evening, when the members of the staff took their annual benefit. An excellent programme was presented, which was appreciated by large audiences at both houses.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr. J. J. Bennell; General-Manager, Mr. J. B. Lawton; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. L. Clayton.—A very attractive series of animated pictures have been exhibited here, including A Rich Revenge, Sandy, the Substitute, An Old Soldier, The Beautiful Snow, An Interrupted Honeymoon, and a singing picture, entitled One of the Girls.

GRIMSBY. — PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—A drama now to Grimsby, The Black Mask, is here this week. Mr. F. Marriott Watson gives a vivid representation of the mysterious criminal, Henri Le Noir; Miss Florence E. Florence does well in the strongly emotional part of Nellie Cunninghame; Mr. J. Woodall Bird is well adapted to represent Dr. Walter Blackmore; the child Philip is well played by Miss Dot Fordo; whilst Mr. Jas. Chippendale as Jim Rudge, Mr. Fred Imbert as Samuel Winkle, and Miss Hettie Senior as Emma Burt, also accomplish good work.

THE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Verner Walford.—The Tally-Ho Trio are talented vocalists, and they also introduce a good deal of genuine comedy; That Dreadful Detective is a capital burlesque; and Mr. E. D. Nicholls makes the most of the principal part; Leoni Clarke's cats, monkeys, and various other animals give a display that shows careful and patient training; Miss Mabel Sinclair is a clever lady ventriloquist; Reg. Bolton is excellent in his speciality, The Editor's Imp, and sings well; Beattie Bloom is a lively comedienne; and Wisper is a smart juggler.

GUERNSEY. — THEATRE ST. JULIANS.—Joint Lessees, Messrs. Ed. Marris and Albany Ward; Resident-Manager, Mr. George A. Deighton.—Imperial electric pictures and varieties are doing good business here. The Bijou Juvenile Troupe are exceptionally clever youngsters.

HALIFAX.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Mr. Herbert Fuller's Répertoire Company is here, playing The Sorrows of Satan, Trilby, and As Your Hair Grows Whiter. In the first-named Mr. Fuller is successful as Prince Rimanez, and Miss Agnes Collier ably plays Lady Sybil. Miss Lilian Burns is excellent as Mavis Clare. Mr. Fuller is adequately supported by Messrs. C. Taylor, F. Emery, H. T. Monte, J. H. Mansell, L. Weston, S. Hoban, P. St. Clair, the Misses M. Court, L. Lennon, L. Fuller, and R. Howe.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—Elton and Elma, knockabout gymnasts, are excellent and amusing; Regan and Ryan are two smart comedians. A good selection of pictures is provided.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—Carlton, the card manipulator and illusionist, is as big a success as ever. He appears in three turns—card manipulator, illusionist (The Mysterious Cross), and a showman, in sketch, The Circus. Enzer gives an excellent display as sword expert and juggler. Miss Clarice brings down the house with her exhibition of ju-jitsu; the Bros. Hannaway are capital patter comedians and humorists; the Cairo Trio are capable musicians; Leolin, in juggling scena; Helmsley and Ambrose, in A Pavement Rehearsal; and J. C. Woods, violinist, complete a good bill.

HANLEY. — GRAND. — Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Arthur Rand.—This week Frank and Jen Latona are the attraction, or, to be more strictly correct, Jen Latona is the star turn. She is simply irresistible. Tom Joy is well received for two funny ditties; the Florodoras return with their pretty scena Two's Company; Edna Latonna, male impersonator, has good songs; Steve Bartle, Edeophone soloist, is received with much favour; and Cheebert's Royal Imperial Chinese are decidedly clever.

KING'S.—Lessee, Mr. J. P. Moore; Manager, Capt. F. Shaw; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Hazlewood.—Fine pictures are shown here. Claude Howell, elocutionist, recites "The Lifeboat," and a humorous piece cleverly.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Eric Fielding-Smith.—For the first three nights of the week variety was in the bill. Dan Whitley was an excellent top, and went well; Miss Millie Gorton is a clever classical dancer; Mr. Charlton is a good conjurer, and did some remarkable tricks; Mlle. Dalmere was one of the hits of the bill with her table circus of performing animals; Miss Ada Leach is a capable ballad vocalist; and Les Atans did wonders with their teeth. Tennis and Laune and the Rowntrees completed the bill. The rest of the week Miss Winifred Chalmers presents Miss Plaster of Paris.

THE KURSAAL.—Manager, Mr. J. E. Wilshire; Musical-Director, Mr. Julian Clifford.—Mr. Alfred Heather, the Yorkshire tenor, was here for three nights; Mr. Sydney Gandy and Miss Inglefield did some wonderful thought-reading business, and Mr. Gandy was also responsible for a clever ventriloquial turn. For the latter half of the week Miss Jessie Broughton and Mr. Dennis Credon are the vocalists.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr H. W. Rowland; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. E. Scutt.—This house reopened on Monday after the annual renovation with Mr. W. W. Kelly's company in the historical play A Royal Divorce. Napoleon was enacted by Mr. Frederick Moyes very successfully; the Empress Josephine was finely played by Miss Violet Ellicott, who secured the complete sympathies of her numerous audience; Miss Winnie Tempest well assumed the haughty arrogance ascribed to Marie Louise of Austria; and the little King, her son, was well played by Miss Dorothy Hudson; the treacherous Marquis de Beaumont was forcibly played by Mr. Charles Stirling; and Mr. J. H. Roberts was a picturesque Talleyrand. Mr. George Hudson found plenty of scope for humour in his part as Grimaud, and Miss Helen Meadows effectively realised Mother Lomas. The play was well mounted.

PIER PAVILION.—General-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—Under the direction of Mr. T. H. Friend, the Royal English Opera company are making their annual visit here. Mr. Tom Lawton conducts the operas, and the accomplished vocalists do justice to their respective rôles. Mr. Henry Beaumont submits a delightful rendering of Faust; Mr. Arthur Winckworth as Mephistopheles renders the music with considerable ability; as Valentine Mr. Tom Griffiths sings in spirited fashion; Miss Lydia Cara, in the part of Siebel, is heard to great advantage; Miss Elizabeth Burgess as Marguerita sings with agreeable ease and fluency. Other operas in their répertoire are Il Trovatore, The Bohemian Girl, The Marriage of Figaro, and Maritana.

HEATON-ON-TYNE. — BRINKBURN PICTURE HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. T. McHarg.—Excellent business is being done at this new hall. The principal films are The Unchanging Sea, Ranson's Folly, and The Tramp's Story. The Two Spadonis, duettists and dancers, had a flattering reception.

HEREFORD.—GARRICK THEATRE.—Director, Mr. Sidoli; Managing-Operator, Mr. G. Wilson.—The animated pictures are a great attraction here, judging from the large crowds which assemble nightly. A Daughter's Devotion and The Sins of the Father are excellent films.

HUDDERSFIELD.— HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—An excellent programme includes T. Elder Hearn, who, in addition to his amusing juggling act, does some clever quick-changing business; Clown Argo, farmyard mimic; the Landuccis, with wonderful feats of strength; the Claymore Trio of club jugglers and dancers; J. P. Ling, comedian and mimic; the Carlo Maie Troupe of acrobats; the Gilberts, expert dancers; and a thrilling scene, entitled "The Rat," which gives Gaston Chevallier and Mlle. Etoil le Noir an opportunity to display their vivid Apache dance. The pictures complete.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Herbert Garside.—Interesting entertainment is provided by the Westwoods, a clever and daring cycling troupe; John Macauley, who has a fine mellow baritone voice; Velanche's troupe of trained dogs and fox; Arthur Stacey, comedian and eccentric dancer; Miss Ena Compton, singer and dancer; Vay's smart band of juvenile artists; Jimmy Danvers and Miss Eva Rosslyn, in burlesque; the Two Units, comedians, on the bouncing table; and the Palace pictures.

HULL.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Morton's, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Diana of Dobson's is attracting good houses, and is meeting with a great reception nightly. Miss Eleanor de la Porte plays the name part with considerable skill, and brings out the three phases of the character in a marked manner. The Captain of Mr. Leslie Rea is another piece of good work; Mr. Thomas Paunceforte plays the character of Sir Jabez Grinlay with excellent appreciation of its demands; Miss Marie Ault portrays a dual rôle with decided skill; Miss Hilda Francks fulfils all demands made upon her as Mrs. Cantelupe. The curtain-raiser is Out West.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Morton's, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Geo. Morton.—Mrs. Morton Powell's latest play, Driving a Girl to Destruction, is meeting with considerable patronage. The Ruby of Miss Maud M. Powell is a powerful piece of acting, and awakens the sympathies of the house. Mr. Leslie Austen is a faithful and true lover, and invests the part with proper force. The heavy rôle of Lucas is well filled by Mr. Walter Clarke; Mr. Henry Scatchard is not less successful as Octavius Screwe; the Ruth Wright of Miss Edith Wallace is a talented piece of work; Miss Ana Corri plays the part of Madame de Merai with proper emphasis; Miss Eva Norman is well cast as the cripple boy. The comic relief is well brought in by Miss Lilla Nordon, Mr. Wm. Clements, Mr. Ed. Swinton, and Mr. Mackintosh Clyde. The play appears destined to have a long run.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. John S. Barnett.—Arthur Roberts, the prince of comedians, presents a humorous sketch, entitled The Importance of Being Another Man's Wife. Mr. Roberts plays the part of the masher in his own inimitable style. Gertie Gitana sings and dances in her usual attractive way; Siems, the Danish card-manipulator, presents a number of clever tricks; Alf Gibson is a quaint comedian; and George French, in song and patter, has a flattering reception. A novel turn is that given by Charles Fisher's Vocalesques—a musical treat; Lillie Lassah is a smart comedienne; Cumminger and Colonna are dancing experts; and Conn and Conrad, aviating comedians, win favour.

THE HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter Bentley.—Jake Friedman and company are responsible for the production of Happy Holland; Cullen and Carthy are entertainers of a high order; and Arthur Boyne and Harry Conlen are old favourites. Helen Lambert and Fred C. Glover present a funny absurdity; Edith Haley is a versatile comedienne; and Edith St. Clair, comedienne, and the Three Warringtons' herculean equilibristic act conclude a bill of all-round excellence.

ILKESTON. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albert Leigh.—At the head of a strong programme we have the Maningoes, head and hand balancers, their clever and well-finished performance meeting with warm approval; Daisy Hicks is a charming comedienne whose songs are very taking; Clive Watts, comedian and wooden shoe dancer, is a performer above the average; Lucy Coventry is a lively and popular song and dance artist; an amusing turn is provided by Dolia and Snowball, in eccentric songs and dances; and the musical act of the Bros. Erard is novel and original. Marked appreciation is extended to Nita Crystal and Geoffrey Saville, in their clever act, Jack's Jacket.

JARROW.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Lionel Locke.—Variety is again proving a draw. Minola Hurst is an excellent vocalist, and her miniature marvels are popular; the famous Everhart astonishes with his marvellous performance with the hoops; Al and Lal, ventriloquists, are favourably received; Happy Attwood proves himself a capable comedian; and the bill includes Phillips and Bristow, vocalists and dancers; Margaret Ogilvie, comedienne; and A. G. Spry, a diverting comedian; and Alice Hughes and company, in an entertaining sketch, entitled The Star of the Bazaar.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr Edward Marris; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley Hope.—Mr. Albany Ward continues to present some splendid films here. The speciality this week is one representing the departure of Major-General Hugh S. Gough, who left Jersey last week, when he was replaced by Major-General Rochefort as Lieut.-Governor. This film, which pictures many local celebrities, is much applauded. The vaudeville turns include a good knockabout act by Knoks and Lee and the famous Sutcliffe Family, who perform some really wonderful feats.

OLYMPIA WINTER GARDENS.—Proprietor, Mr. Louis Marks; Manager, Mr. Charles A. Barnett.—The Cremona Ladies' Orchestra continues to be the chief attraction here.

KEIGHLEY.—HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. Barrasford.—Consul is presented by Mr. Bostock, and proves a strong attraction; Henry and Tyler, in their comedy bicycle act, are big favourites; Miss May Lilian Levy sings in good style, and the choruses are readily taken up; Ess and Hoey, skate dancers, are well received; Earle and Melville, comedians, are very humorous. A capital picture, Studies in Waves, is displayed on the Bioscope.

KING'S LYNN.—NEW ROYAL THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Reginald Pareezer.—Cavaliere F. Castellano's Italian grand opera company is presenting, with signal success, here Il Trovatore, Rigoletto, Faust, Lucia Di Lammermoor, Cavalleria Rusticana, and Carmen.

LEEDS.—THE ROYAL THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. Nathaniel Hepworth.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company, in From Slave to Princess, is drawing good houses. Mr. Charles E. Johnson enacts the rôle of the police spy with dramatic effect, and Miss Doris Gilham acts capably as the jealous Claudia; a fine impersonation of Prince Julian is furnished by Mr. Wernham Ryott, and Vera, a slave, is capitally portrayed by Miss Agnes Verity; comedy parts by Miss Margaret Davidge and Mr. J. O. Cuthbertson afford much amusement.

THE EMPIRE.—District-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alex Galby.—Victoria Monks is a big drawing turn here with several of her popular songs; Chris Van Bern, in a unique comedy act, gains much applause; Frank H. Fox, a smart comedian, with a powerful voice, has a good selection of songs; and Nellie Farrell's Irish songs are a welcome addition to the programme. Harry Herbert (a capable comedian), Holden's Mannikins, the Carmos (in a clever act), the King's College Boys, and Iva Voyce, all render attractive items.

THE HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Dunford.—Herbert Sleath's company present a cleverly acted sketch, entitled The Deputy Sheriff; Lottie Bellman and Bay Russell give a clever vaudeville entertainment. Other favourites include Harry Taylor, Narow Brothers, Havannas troupe, Cash and Clair, Scottish Meisters, and Cedar and Elgar.

THE VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sam Jones.—W. T. Ellwanger and company present a capital sketch, Who dis It? which arouses laughter; Lily Lonsdale's voice is much admired, and she has some pretty songs; Bonhair and Tess present a clever quick-change scena; Arthur Woodville hits the popular fancy; the Venetians give a pretty statue and singing act; Lisbon and Barker, topical duettists, are big favourites; and other good turns include Gwennie Morgan.

THE QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Bush.—Maude Elliston and company present a farcical production, Dobson's Day Off; the Olympian troupe of cyclists show skill in a football act; Sara Rosebury, a Lancashire dialect comedienne, is a big favourite; as also is Ernie Myers; the Five Musical Marvels give an attractive entertainment.

LEEK.—GRAND THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Leek Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. James Bibby.—Some capital pictures exhibited here include Grahame White's Flight to Manchester. The vaudeville element is sustained by T. W. Lenner, comedian and patterer, who creates considerable merriment, and Florrie Wright, who proves a good vocal comedienne.

LEICESTER. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Allerton Turner.—We are well entertained here by Mr. Hubert Helliwell's company in the Passion of Life. Various parts are enacted in a convincing manner by Mesdames Ada Hender, Maud Garth, Emily Lewis, Madge Maher, and Clarissa Rose; and Messrs. F. Owen Chambers, Hubert Helliwell, Fred Luard, Basil Mitchell, Owen Edwin, J. O. Stevenson, and D. Rose. Yesterday (Friday), a new play, by Fred A. Marston and Maurice Scott, entitled The Wrongs of Woman, was produced. A report will appear in our next issue. The manager for Mr. Helliwell is Mr. Charles F. Johnson, who was the first acting-manager at the Palace Theatre here.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. S. Buccleuch.—Topping this week's bill is Fred Karno's company in Jimmy the Fearless—an elaborate realisation of the boy's penny dreadful. The sketch affords a capital entertainment. At the other end are the Poluskis (Will and Sam), smart parleying patterers; Ted E. Box, a first-rate comedian, has established himself as a favourite here; the Miles-Stavordale Quintette are past-masters as banjoists, their refined and clever show meeting with the heartiest appreciation; Ando's Happy Little Japs are smart acrobats, jugglers, and equilibrists; Chas. Norton is again scoring with his mimetic monologue Pros. at the Races; La Freya is good in her original artistic visions; and other artists who entertain are Wullie Walker, Scotch comedian, and Maudie Francis, juvenile comedienne and dancer.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joseph Lawrence.—This week's programme is supported by Florence Creagh and Dick Cruikshanks, in the pretty and interesting dramatic duologue Her Return; Mr. Ellerslie Pyne is good in his novel scena Too Late: or, An Actor's Dream; the Five Jovers are making a hit as double-bar gymnasts; Wee Georgie Harris is making a successful appearance; Dene and Dixon are popular in their comedy duo, The New Pageboy; Joe Belmont is aptly described as the human bird; Gladys Wyse is a delightfully clever juvenile Scotch comedienne and dancer. The pictures are again of the best.

EMPIRE.—Sole Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Company; Managing-Director, Mr. F. R. Griffiths; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. R. Craig.—The Pet of the Big Horn Ranch and Lines of White on a Sullen Sea are the two principal pictures here. Evelyn and Chip, pedestal dancers, are an additional attraction.

EMPRESS PICTURE PALACES, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. P. W. Willard; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. V. Horton.—There is the usual first-class array of films here this week.

LINCOLN.—PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. A. E. Dobney.—A smart turn is being given here by the Warsaw Brothers, an act of music and mimicry; Colley and Scott are an entertaining comedy pair; the Seddons, in their juggling, offer a pleasing number; Fallows and Beaumont sing finely; Ethel Entwistle, in her single number, reveals ability; and Walter Reed, banjoist, Bert Crosbie, a comedian who dances well, and the Palace pictures are other features.

LIVERPOOL. — SHAKESPEARE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wentworth Croke; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—This being the week of the Royal Agricultural Show at Liverpool, the management of this theatre decided to reopen for six nights with the popular Florodora. The bright musical play is being presented in capital style by Mr. Charles Constant's company, and is doing good business. Head of the funmakers is Mr. Johnnie Schofield, whose Tweedlepunch proves immensely diverting; Miss Kate Leicester pleases everybody with her vivacious Lady Holyrood, receiving loud applause for some charming singing and accomplished dancing; Miss Daisy Lake is an artistic Dolores, and sings with much taste and expression; Miss Florence Hersee (Angela Gilfain), and Mr. Johnnie, jun. (Captain Donegal), give a smart example of the Apache dance, and the lady also earns much commendation for her own remarkable dancing. Credit is due to Mr. Stanley White for his uncommonly good picture of Cyrus Gilfain, and to Mr. Martin D. Pitts, who makes a thoroughly capable Frank Abercoed. Several new features are introduced into the play, which goes with a merry swing.

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—Her Life in London is presented by Mr. Stanley Coulton's company. Miss Rubie Maud gives a fine rendering of the rôle of Astra Bell, for which she receives cordial applause; as the Rev. Allan Gordon Mr. Stanley Carlton acquits himself admirably; Madge Rendall is capably presented by Miss Constance Medwyn; credit is due to Mr. Claude Aymond for his telling picture of the blind burglar, Grattan Gale; and worthy support also comes from Messrs. W. Vernon, Joe Redfern, and John Croudace, and the Misses Alice Thorne, Evelyn M. Walton, Jennie Bostock, and Emily Marsh.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—Another Man's Wife is here with Mr. Fred Granville's company. In the part of Lucie de Vergas Miss Ruby Loucraine shows high powers, and earns rounds of applause; Miss Lilian Raybourne makes a powerful Inez de Castro; Mr. Granville undertakes the part of the rascally Paul Bernstoff in able manner; Mr. Willie Reid is particularly funny as the energetic Sam Smiles; Miss Dorothy Love plays the child Lucy with much taste and naturalness; and other good supporters are Miss Marion Mayne, Mr. Leonard Marshall, two capital comedy parts, and Mr. Stanley Radcliffe.

KELLY'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant.—Paying the Price, which first saw the light last week at Hull, is the attraction here, and Mr. James Willard's company have done the acceptable piece every justice. Mr. Willard himself displays much power in the parts of Lord Delemere and Paul Hartman; Mr. Jackson Wilcox is a manly Captain Clinton; high praise is earned by Miss Marguerite Tueskie, who presents the dual rôles of Nell Fortescue and Lady Delemere; as Doris Miss Alice Bowes shows a deal of spirit, and gains popularity; the part of Cecil Dalrymple, held by Mr. H. Vyvyan Thomas, proves very amusing; Miss Winnie Leslie, in the character of Mary Esdale, also helping with the fun; and Mr. Charles Carte handles the rôles of Hal Vortoone and Jan Vortoone with judgment and tact. The staging is excellent EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Manners.—The ever-welcome G. H. Elliott is here with his latests ditties, for which he obtains a flattering reception nightly; Charles R. Whittle delights everyone with his capitally-rendered songs; Lew Lake and company present a merry sketch, King Nobbler, which proves highly diverting; the Six Lancashire Lasses are charming vocalists and capital dancers with wooden shoes, receiving a big measure of applause; Dorothy Ward finds great favour for her able selections; Harry Jolson, an operatic black face comedian, had some taking songs; the Jackley Trio of acrobatic comedians provide an excellent entertainment; as musicians Les Frasettis present a turn which earns much favour; and Tom Moore, character comedian, also appears.

LYRIC.—Lessees, Liverpool Lyric Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—The Majilton Company are affording much delight with She would be a Widow. Mr. Jim Bond is Ben Butternut, a rôle in which he excels, and keeps his audience in constant laughter; Mr. Charles Majilton also helps greatly as Dr. Syrup; Miss Lena Valli, in the part of Ethel Rosebud, the widow, is particularly good; Miss Maddie Majilton proves a lively slavey; and other artists who acquit themselves well are Messrs. George Hunter and Tom Carroll, Miss Lizzie Boyle and Miss Nelly Clifford.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—Top of the bill here we have Flo Stanley's company of comedians in the lively sketch The Prince of the Dandies, which is favourably received. Mr. Arthur Watson is Sprouts, and clever dances are introduced by the Empire girls; Dave Samuels is here again with his amusing Hebrew character sketches, and keeps his audience in shouts of laughter; Les Berthos has a smart acrobatic dancing act; The Dancing Master is an amusing turn provided by Pyck, Tholl, and Taylor; Les Ados introduce some interesting Olympic games; Hughes and Elliott are a very diverting couple; and Tom Franks (ventriloquist), the Melbournes (vaudeville entertainers), and Willie Allan (Scotch comedian and dancer) also contribute.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The attraction offered by the stock company here is The Missionary. Excellent work is done by Messrs. Harry Tresham, Sydney Grant, Leo Montgomery, R. Seath Innes, Miss Gertrude Entwistle, Miss Lina Nazeby, and Miss Getrude Gilman. Brown's Bioscope shows Rogues of the Turf.

OLYMPIA. — District-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wighton.—Highly delighted audiences here are giving Jack Lorimer a cordial greeting for his merry Scotch songs; some fine pictures of the Welsh v. McFarland fight are thrown on the Bioscope; the Twelve Fezzans go through a marvellous acrobatic performance; George Newburn shows great powers of mimicry, his imitations of leading stars being exceedingly well done; Annie Fielding and Bert Hull have a neat tabloid musical comedy Mixed Bathing; an excellent and pleasing performance on xylophones is given by the Five Vernons; the Onetti Sisters have a clever turn as gymnasts, for which they receive loud applause; Stella Stahl pleases as greatly as ever with her songs and dances; and the three Sisters Kilner earn recognition for their acrobatic dances.

PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. George F. Slatter.—Top of the bill is the laughable Cockneys in Japan, presented by Alec Hurley and company; Marguerite Broadfoote delights everybody with her taking songs; Ida Dorrie finds favour for her popular numbers; Sergeant Fearnought and His Raw Recruits is a very funny sketch given by the Phillipi Bros.; another laughter-provoker is "The Postman's Knock," submitted by Purvis and Partner; G. W. Hunter is as amusing as ever; the Estmanoff Troupe of Russian national dancers are well worth seeing; and the Davis-Gledhill Trio present a wonderful cycle and motor race.

LLANDUDNO.—PIER HEAD PAVILION.—Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale's vaudeville entertainers continue to perform to good audiences twice daily. They are fortunate this week in having Wilfrid Burnand at the top of the bill, his impersonations of leading actors and comedians being par excellence; Arthur R. Sutcliffe, the popular local manager, contributes some catchy songs; Flora Driver, an entertainer at the piano, is good; Fred Mason, whistler, Edgar Driver, comedian, and David Stewart, comedian, all add to a good programme, and J. A. Tonbridge, pianist, is all that could be desired.

LONDONDERRY.—OPERA HOUSE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. W. Payne Seddon; Manager, Mr. R. E. Warton.—Cinematograph pictures constitute the programme this week, the films shown being of an exceedingly interesting character. A series depicting the principal scenes in Macbeth is noteworthy, and pictures of the Derby were also excellent.

LOUGHBOROUGH.—VINT'S ELECTRIC HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brogden; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lindsay Edwards.—Another well-selected set of pictures is shown here this week; the Vanderbilts, comedy artists, give a smart variety turn; and the Calcotts are clever singers, dancers, and musicians.

TEMPERANCE HALL. — Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros.; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Evanson.—The pictures here are all that can be desired, and variety is provided by Marjory and Maud, vocalists and dancers, and Henri Albano, concertina specialist.

LOWESTOFT.—MARINA.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer.—A capital attraction is The Mummy and the Humming Bird. Mr. H. Hamilton Stuart displays much ability in the rôle of Lord Lumley, and other parts are equally well treated. The mounting and dressing are good.

OLYMPIAN GARDENS.—Proprietor, Mr. Paul Mill.—"The Cigarettes" are giving popular concerts twice daily, the artists including Mr. Reg. Crowe, a local comedian.

MAESTEG.—PICTURE PALACE.—Lessees, Poole's Theatres Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. G. F. Knowles.—In addition to the enjoyable pictures, varieties are given by the Brothers Obr, comedians, who cause roars of laughter, and Spiridion, a juggler above the average.

MAIDSTONE.—PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Ewart C. Potter.—Lucky Durham has been played here to good houses by Mr. Arthur Leigh's company. Mr. Edmond Kennedy makes a striking personality of the title-rôle; Mr. Arthur Leigh plays the Hon. Reginald Steighton in a natural and pleasing manner; Mr. W. Calvert does well as Lord Mountfallon; Mr. Chas. Wemyss, the capable stage-manager, scores as Mr. Vallerton; and Mr. Frank Elton as Arthur Walcombe and Mr. John Hartt as Tasker are well placed in the cast. Miss Florence Tressilian is a charming Helen Vallerton; Miss Nellie Bonser a sympathetic Mrs. Durham; and Miss Frances Wolviston as Lady Mountfallon and Miss Dorothy Turner as the Hon. Margaret Steighton also take part. Mr. R. F. Kennedy is to be congratulated on the excellence of the production.

MANCHESTER. — ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason.—Mr. Lawrence Brough and company are again entertaining local audiences by their performances of The Lady of Ostend at this theatre. It is, as usual, very well received. Love in a Railway Train precedes.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—The top turn here this week is Ada Paglini, whose performance on the violin is accomplished and entertaining to a high degree. The O-K-Dians, in their musical comedy, are also a prominent turn, and the Seven Wulfrunas give a smart comedy gymnastic act. Other clever contributors are Little Vestos, juvenile vocalists and dancers; Beatrice Bonnie, in a novel musical act; Mitchell and Stott, comedy gymnasts; Hanson and Hartley, vaudeville artists; and the Brothers Loo, comedians.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hearn.—Mr. Wilson Benge presents here this week The Eve of Her Wedding, a picturesque and effective domestic play. Miss Florence Zillwood as Rennie de Tello has much to do with the success of the piece, and Mr. Louis Lingard is admirable as George Tremaine, while Mr. C. Digby contributes humour as Rudolph Earle. The other parts are in good hands, and the play is well staged.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Brearley.—Mr. Leigh Lovel and company are playing here in Sowing the Wind, which is excellently rendered, and fully appreciated by good audiences. Mr. Lovel gives a capital interpretation of the part of Mr. Brabazon, and Miss Octavia Kenmore does full justice to the rôle of Rosamond. Among the remainder, Mr. Davis Curtis is conspicuous for a clever rendering of the bachelor Mr. Watkin.

KING'S THEATRE, LONGSIGHT.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. R. Trippett.—Mr. Raynor and company are here this week in an interesting répertoire, beginning with The Tree of Knowledge, and including also Still Waters Run Deep and Captain Swift, all well played and appreciably received.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—The one and only George Lashwood is here with several new songs; Alice Raymond and her players are exceedingly good in a novel spectacular musical production, A Night in Egypt; John Humphries, the well-known comedian, and company are highly amusing in sketch, Ancient Britons; the Brothers Egbert, as usual, cause no end of laughter as the Happy Dustmen up-to-date; and that popular tenor Edward Davies meets with a deservedly good reception. Other capital turns are those of Frank and Free, comedy artists; Emma Don, smart male impersonator; and Nell Emerald, comedienne and dancer. Some excellent pictures complete.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—Great enjoyment is caused here by George Robey, who is giving the best selections of his current répertoire, while sharing the honours of the second place on the bill are Albert Whelan, the neat and clever Australian entertainer, and George Lestocq and company in a smart comedy sketch. Other good turns are the New York Nippers, singers and dancers; Walter Munroe, the Irish comedian; the Martialo Trio of balancing jugglers; the Keppels, operatic vocalists; Harry Bancroft, actor vocalist; and Emmie Ames, a pleasing comedienne.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Manager, Mr. A. J. Carter.—Charles Austin is very amusing here this week as Parker, P.C., and causes much laughter. He is very ably assisted by a large company. A wonderfully clever roller-skating performance is gone through by McLellan and Carson; the Banzai Family of Japanese are exceedingly smart, and deserve their good reception; and the Gaudsmidt Bros., acrobatic clowns, with well-trained Spanish poodles, are seen in an act of great merit; Vardon, Perry, and Wilbur give an enjoyable musical, singing, and dancing novelty; Olga Dore, Australian prima donna, sings well, and is greatly admired; whilst other smart items are those of Horace White, ventriloquist at the piano; Bella Braham, pictorial songstress; and Clifton and Gibson, comedians and dancers.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Alice Favier, the original creator of La Poupée, is here this week in a delightful répertoire of songs, and is well received; Beatrice Eveline charms in her violoncello act; Ruby and Laws are pleasing, as usual, in their vocal comedy act; Black and White are clever lady acrobats; Iris Banfield, an exceedingly dainty comedienne, sings several taking songs nicely; Kenny Ray scores in a spoof ventriloquial act; Billie Burford, chorus comedienne, takes well; and Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Hayes cause amusement in their sketch, The Other Mrs. Brown. Pictures complete.

HULME HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Dry. — The famous Elliott-Savonas top the bill here this week in their beautiful spectacular musical act The Palace of Orpheus, and are highly successful. Lulu Russell, charmingly gowned, makes a big hit with taking style and songs; Harry Marlow, comedian, scores with his song, "Don't forget the chorus"; Victoria Dagmar and comedy assistant give a smart gymnastic display; whilst other good turns are offered by Harry Russon, actor comedian; Bertha Evelyn, vocalist; Menotti, the Stockholm wire-riding wonder; and Golden and Chance in novel eccentric act. The Power of the Press on the Bioscope is good.

RUSHOLME PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Leslie; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Phillips.—Ernest Lord's Excelsiors are the attraction here this week, with Ernest Lord himself at the piano. This excellent combination of entertainers include Ona Ashton, soprano, Alice Singleton, contralto, Nora O'Malley, comedienne; Harker Holt, tenor; Frank M. Quinn, baritone; and Frank Crawford, comedian.

BIJOU ELECTRIC THEATRE (Erskine-street, Hulme).—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thos. Morrison.—There is plenty to amuse and instruct in the beautifully clear films this week, including When the Cat's Away, Customs Officer's Dog, A Romance of the Western Hills, Sandy the Substitute, Rubber Boom, and A Deal in Broken China.

MARGATE. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. Edward Michael; General-Manager, Mr. F. Weathersby.—Mr. Leslie Stanley's company is presenting the new musical comedy The King of Mystonia, which has been having a very successful run. Mr. Charlie Towers as Fido Tennyson makes all he possibly can of a most amusing part, and keeps the audience in a continuous ripple of laughter; Mr. Tom Lyle is first class as Frank Warrington; Mr. Ralph Shore is excellent as Reginald Mudwick; Solomon Ikeston has a capable exponent in Mr. Will Kirk; and Miss Kitty Vernum makes a captivating Violet. Miss May Warden sings delightfully, and plays the part of Estulah in a convincing manner; Mr. J. Musgrove is the naughty Sultan Je-hu-tah, and a really good one he makes; Miss Marie Vere is very good as Trixie; and the other members of the company all do excellent work. The chorus is effective, and the mounting and dressing of the piece all that one could wish for.

HIPPODROME, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Mayall.—La Milo is the attraction, in a new répertoire of classic studies which have been witnessed by crowded audiences. In conjunction with Cruickshank's pictorial libels on public men, this is the most popular turn in the bill. The programme also includes Royburn and Dix, comedians, in their skits on the telephone; Ted Karno and company, in The Hotel de Quick; Sidney Bach, at the piano as the Welsh landlady; Fred Costin, comedian; Marie Mangus, concert artist; and Charles Banks and his dog, in an amusing and novel act.

MIDDLESBROUGH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Imeson.—Mr. Montague Beaudyn's company is doing well here in a round of dramas. On Monday they presented A Beautiful Fiend, in which Miss Sidney Crowe played with marked ability the part of Wonda Lubinoff. Miss Madge Palmer was successful as Patty Woodlands; Mr. Herbert Skardon's Major Ivan Paulovitch was appreciated, as was also the Count Fedor Karateff of Mr. G. M. Montanini and the Sergius Strogoff of Mr. Howard Hardy. During the week Send Him Victorious and For Honour and Revenge have been presented.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles G. Rembges.—The Four Royal Scots give a pleasing musical performance; the Spanish Juanitos provide a capital acrobatic show; the Three Gascoignes are entertaining comic jugglers; and Hans and Lux, comedians; the Raymonds, vocalists and dancers; Victor and Louis, vocal comedians; Miss Connie Isca, vocalist; Bu-Val, comedian; Randolph King, comedian; and the Empire pictures.

MORLEY.—ALEXANDRA PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Tom Diacoff; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Izon.—This is the last week of the Merrymakers, who conclude their engagement with an enjoyable musical scena entitled The Houseboat Party. Mesdames Lyndon and Beatlie Howard vocalise sweetly; and Tommy Sloan, Joe Shamrock, and Syd Bazley keep up the merriment from start to finish. Another capital turn is the Digbys, in a funny comedy act; and Charlie Dixon's eccentricities and dancing hit the popular taste.

NEATH.—PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; Managing-Director, Mr Arthur Brogden; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Noice.—The programme here this week is bright and varied. Among the pictures Fishing for Eels is an instructive subject. The variety programme includes J. P. Adderley, actor vocalist; Henson Bros., comedians; and the Canworths, vocalists and instrumentalists.

NELSON.—PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Benson.—The Kio Tani wrestlers supply the principal turn here. The Monckton Lave an original comedy entitled A Woman's Curiosity; Reed and Cully provide a sensational tumbling act, and other capable artists include Beketow Bros., in a novel pot-pourri and jumping act; Nancy Laurel, a refined vocalist; the Three Tivoli Girls, coon singers and acrobatic dancers; Wat Tyler, character vocalists; and Carney Cairo, swell comedian.

NEW BRIGHTON.—WINTER GARDENS.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Jones and Douglas.—A capital house witnessed the first performance here of Mr. Weedon Grossmith's extremely funny comedy The Night of the Party. The chief characters are undertaken by Mr. Howard Tracey, Mr. Archie Selwyn, Mr. W. Lockhart, Mr. Stanley Arthur, Mr. E. J. Hinge, Mr. Eric Pardow, Miss Denbigh-Russell, Miss A. Maude, and Miss Clair Townsend. The staging is first-class.

TOWER.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. R. H. Davy.—Animated pictures are very popular. The company includes Messrs. Blarney and Bland, comedians and dancers; Miss Lillie Le Main, living marionettes; and Mr. Chris Dacre, vocalist.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale.—Once again the management have placed before their supporters the "musical comedy without a plot," entitled The Gay River, in which the following ladies and gentlemen appear successfully:—Mr. Frank Dunlop, Mr. R. Manning,, Mr. F. Roberts, Miss Harne Fawn, Miss C. Pansy, Miss Edith Fawn, and Miss Jeanne Jenne. Mr. Parry is an able conductor.

NEWPORT.—EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Major Gallagher; Assisting-Manager, Mr. Percy Wilde; Musical-Director, Mr. C. Bye.—A very attractive programme is placed before the patrons of this cosy hall this week, with the result that full houses are being experienced, notwithstanding the almost tropical heat. At the top of the bill is Will Evans, in his screaming burlesque of Chantecler; the item is of the most hilarious description and keeps the audience in one long loud laugh. Luis Alvarez, the famous tenor from the Royal Opera House, Madrid, is scoring heavily; he sings delightfully and gives a varied répertoire. To the current bill Jack Pleasants is a welcome contributor, each of his numbers is most effective, and into them he puts a wealth of comic detail that sets the house in a roar. Heeley and Meeley, the Lucky Tramps, keep the audience in delirious laughter with their surprises and novel falls that are irresistibly funny. May and Kennerley are entertainers of no mean talent, their comedy singing and dancing act is most pleasing. Others who contribute and gain favour are A Ba Be in a medley of music and artistic posing, and the Royal Delomes, speciality dancers. A word of praise is also due to the orchestra, for they add most materially to the evening's entertainment.

NORTHAMPTON.—TEMPERANCE HALL.—Secretary, Mr. G. Skempton; Resident-Manager for Andrew's Pictures, Mr. Frank Lyndon.—An attractive series of films includes The Genfersea, Tenderfoot's Triumph, and A Hero in Spite of Himself. Miss Margaret Payne's vocal items are well received.

THE COUNTY ELECTRIC PAVILION.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Lyle Edwards.—The Late King's Funeral is shown at the matinées only. The pick of the evening programme is The Angel of Dawson's Claim and Electra.

PICTURE PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. J. F. Bentley; General-Manager, Mr. J. W. Borrowman.—Good dramatic subjects are Heart of an Outlaw and The Father the Son's Rival.

Northampton will shortly have a new and up-to-date music hall. An important and extensive site in Abington-street, with a frontage of 80ft., rear the new Public Library, has been secured, and building operations may be expected to commence early in the autumn.

NORTH SHIELDS. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—For the race week attraction the stock company has presented A Beautiful Fiend. Mr. Albert Sember gives an excellent impersonation of Ivan Pantovitch; Mr. Ed. E. Louis is a capable Count Fedor Karateff; Mr. Ernest R. Allen skilfully represents Sergius Strogoff; Mr. Lonnen Meadows pleases immensely as Christopher Crackles; Mr. C. Alan Hineson makes the most of Sergeant Malachi; Miss Kate Froude as Wanda Lubinoff handles the rôle in capital style; Miss Fay Garnet Vayne, as Nadine Strogoff displays ability, and Miss Effie Macintosh is quite at home in the part of Patty Woodlands.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. William Mould.—The present is the last week of the picture season, and this popular resort will be closed until Bank Holiday for redecorations, &c. Mr. Albert Albert, actor vocalist, is at the top of the holiday bill, and makes a decided hit; Willie Ashton, boy vocalist and impersonator, wins much favour; Mr. J. P. Carrol, the soldier tamborinist, is very smart, and capital pictures make up a good programme.

NORWICH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—The chief pictures are La Savelli, a representation of the famous play, The New Reporter, and A Romance of the Western Hills. Ray Royal, songstress, and selections on the auxetophone add to the entertainment.

YE OLD SPRINGS GARDENS.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt.—The famous Jesters are doing well here. Mr. James Saker is very good; Mr. Herbert Connorton makes himself popular; Mr. Fred Beck and Mr. J. Melton Hayes are humorous; Miss Edith Brockley is very pleasing; Miss Winnifred receives hearty greetings; Miss Spindler is an excellent accompanist.

THE NEST, ROSARY-ROAD.—Proprietors, Messrs. Goodman.—Miss Cissie Scott is quite a favourite; Miss Rosie Effingham sings taking songs; Miss Delmore causes amusement; Mr. Jack Bonny's tenor is heard to advantage; Mr Ernest Beare sings good songs; Mr. F. Corpron delights with his violin solos; and Mr. Leslie Sears creates laughter with his droll ditties.

NOTTINGHAM. — GRAND THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. Harry J. Crane.—A Woman's Redemption is a drama of thrilling interest. Mr. Otto Minster assumes the rôle of Rev. John Ganthony, and his vigorous manner is well suited to this trying part. Miss Bessie Rignold portrays in lifelike style the gipsy Ruth, and Miss Violet Agnew does good work as Mary Griffiths. Much laughter is evoked by the thoroughly humorous study of a maid of all work contributed by Miss Daisy Meynard; Mr. Herbert Morgan is convincing as Bernard Sutcliffe, and Mr. Gerald Venning is responsible for an excellent character study as Farmer Griffiths. Messrs. Geo. H. Asquin, Horace Kenny, Leslie Nolan, Arthur Schipper, J. K. Sharman, and Miss Lilian Duncker complete an altogether admirable company.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—That thoroughly charming and versatile male impersonator Miss Hetty King is once more successfully wooing the Nottingham variety lovers. Sam Mayo occupies the bottom position on the bill. Fatmah Diard uses her voice with ability and power; Bert Williams, ventriloquist, entertains cleverly; and Aida Martine is winsome and dainty; Miss Lilian Dundas and company in Convict Nance present a powerful sketch; Miss Florence Smithers, a popular comedy actress, causes much amusement in Our Mary Jane; Fasola, a man of mystery, mystifies in first-class style, and the Bros. Redmond present an excellent acrobatic turn. Bioscope pictures complete.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwards; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. F. Miller.—At this house the premier position is occupied by Harry Roxbury's sketch, The Cowboy Millionaire, including Tubby Edlin. Wonderful in their quickness and agility, the Five X-Rays are acrobats of the highest order; Vena Valma sings and dances delightfully, and Charles Grantley amuses by his eccentricity. The Quality Quartette produce vocal harmony, and Moon and Morris, eccentrics, in song and dance present a highly appreciated turn; the Luzellas are gymnasts of considerable attainments, and Smit and Smit clever knockabouts; Lilian Farrar, charming in appearance, sings with expression, and the programme is brought to a close by good films.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietors Theatre and Entertainments Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Brown.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Draycott and their répertoire company commenced a stock-season of four weeks on Monday with The Shaughraun. Mr. Draycott as Conn received an enthusiastic welcome, and captivated the audience with his irresistible good humour; Mr. George Steel made a capital Captain Molineaux; Mr. St. John Stuart did well as Robert Ffolliott; Mr. Theo. Balfour invested the part of Father Dolan with dignity; Mr. Clinton Baddeley handled the character of Corry Kinchela in an artistic manner; Mr. Joseph Magrath successfully depicted Harvey Duff; Mrs. Charles Draycott as Clare Ffolliott was seen to advantage and met with warm approval; Miss Issa Steel made a charming Arte O'Neale; Miss Louise Millward gave a creditable performance as Mrs. O'Kelly; Miss Nana Flensberg made an engaging Moya. For the latter half of the week The Octoroon is billed.

OLDHAM. — COLOSSEUM THEATRE. — General-Manager, Mr. Wm. Eastwood.—Mr. and Mrs. Percy Brown and company are appearing in the interesting drama Geoffrey Langdon's Wife. Miss Amy Ellam as Mary acts in a charming manner; Mr. Wilson Coleman is a forcible Felix Beverley; Mr. Francis Roberts as Jack Stirling is very good; and Mr. Reginald Brown is excellent as Geoffrey Langdon. Miss Kathleen Magee acts cleverly as the scheming Honourable Mrs. Sands; and Miss Minnie Goepel gains applause as Sweet Nancy. Mr. Percy Brown as Thomas was responsible for hearty laughter, with some capital comedy, and is ably seconded by Mr. Alfred Raymond as Charles; Mr. Cyril Grier does good work as Colonel Mills; Mr. W. Annesley as Arthur Bellairs is very smart; and Messrs. Brooks and Drew as Detective Banks and Inspector Forest, are excellent.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—The Mockery of Marriage is being played here by Mr. W. Graham Arthurs and his company, and business has been good. Mr. Arthurs plays Dick Kenyon in a manner which is very much appreciated; his wife, Alva, finds an able exponent in Miss Mabel Elliott; Miss C. Middleton is a clever and sympathetic Rose Verham; Mr. Norman D. Cannon acts finely as Jack Stanley, the much-wronged hero; and Mr. J. Barker is capital as Joseph Verham. Miss Ida Lovatt is good as Nellie Kenyon; and Miss Ada Band as Mary Ann Barnicoat and Mr. David Phillips as Toby Wright cause much amusement. Mr. Lowe Mackenzie is capital as Seth Pearse; and Mr. J. E. M'Cann makes an effective P.C. Augustus Rice.

ROYAL THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Kilrow.—Interesting pictures are provided. Mr. Roger Alwyn contributes a good song.

HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. King.—Attractive pictures furnish the bill, and "No home like the old home" is also sung by Mr. King.

BROWN'S ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Proprietor, Mr. W. Brown.—Pictures are popular here. The vocalist for the week is Mr. Mills, who contributes a couple of songs.

OSBORNE HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. W. Hughes.—A good selection of dramatic and comic pictures are entertaining audiences here.

OXFORD.—NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. C. C. Dorrill; Assistant-Manager, Mr. G. T. Lucas.—This week Miss Madge Crichton and company are appearing here in Caste and The Artfulness of Ada. On Monday night Caste was received with all the old delight by a fashionable house, this week being Commemoration Week. Miss Madge Crichton's Polly Eccles is a delightful impersonation, full of brightness and charm; Miss Ida Phillips is a good Esther, and Miss Lucy Beaumont is well suited as the Marquise. Mr. Frank Tennant is natural and convincing as George D'Alroy; Mr. Douglas Vigors is an admirable Captain Hawtree; Mr. Jack Crichton provides a fund of amusement as Sam Gerridge, and Mr. G. Delaforce gives a clever study of Eccles.

EAST OXFORD THEATRE.—Lessees, East Oxford Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Stuart.—Mr. Harry Tilbury's company is here with His Dishonoured Wife. As Frank Lindon Mr. A. George Fry is robust; Mr. Fred Owen is seen to advantage as Neil Locksley; and Mr. Alex Alexander makes an effective Lord Davant; Tom Redman is in good hands with Mr. Frank Orchard, and Mr. Harry Tilbury causes endless fun as Micky Doolan; Miss Arline T. George does well as Alice Harvey; Little Violet is successful as Mabel Lindon; and Miss Belle Tilbury fills the rôle of Florence Lindon capably.

PENTRE.—TIVOLI.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Will Stone; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Gunn.—The chief films of a double programme shown here are Indian True Heart, Along the Nile, and the House of Cards. A clever lassoing and lariat manipulating act is given by the Four Mexicans; Dolly and Madge McCalla score as vocalists and dancers.

WORKMEN'S HALL.—Manager, Mr. H. Solway.—An up-to-date picture programme is presented with variety turns by the Sisters Carlton and Mostol.

PERTH. — PERTH THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Aldridge.—The pictures include a remarkable coloured film. Miss Maggie Robertson is a popular contralto vocalist; Mr. Tom Flynn, a local Scotch comedian, gives much promise; and Mr. Frank Aldridge, the genial manager, sings a couple of tenor songs in fine style.

PETERBOROUGH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Manager, Mr. Percy Hart.—Deservedly at the head of a capital programme is Rapoli, whose juggling and balancing performance is marvellous; Kittie Corri, comedienne, is heard with much pleasure; and the Arnolds, in their cabinet mystery "Spiritus," are quite successful. Chas. Sloman scores as a comedian; the Brothers Matthew are good comedy artists; and Florence Raymond, a ventriloquist with new ideas; Jimmy Grant, Scotch comedian, is applauded; and Will and Roze, Continental eccentriques, give a clever turn.

PLYMOUTH.—PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—Mr. Henry Coutts, the well-known quick-change artist, met with enthusiastic applause this week at the New Palace Theatre. Mr. Coutts assumes eight different characters on the stage with remarkable rapidity. The national songs given by Les Andres meet with hearty appreciation; Hanvarr and Lee, as The Golfer and the Maid, are responsible for a smart turn; Damarell and Rutland give a refined turn; a dainty dancer is Kitty Arnold; Tom Lloyd, comedian, is repeatedly recalled; and Scholey and Scholey contribute an original sketch.

PONTEFRACT.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—The Three Romas appear in a new classical and refined gymnastic head and hand balancing act; Tom Child, tenor, delights with his selections; J. W. Darley and company appear for a second week in the sketch, My Dear Little Lancashire Home; Bessie Hardmann is a good soprano; Charles Erard, the pianist mimic, finds favour; Carlos Menard is a novelty musician and trick violinist; Winona and King are rifle experts; the Six Yorkshire Lasses, singers and dancers, receive applause; and the Alexscope shows some of the latest films.

PONTYPRIDD.—ROYAL CLARENCE.—Sole Owners, Messrs. Trenchard and Jones; Manager, Mr. Chas. Trenchard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Willie Trenchard.—Not Before the Missus is being played by Miss Nannie Goldman and company. The success of the piece is Miss Goldman, who keeps the whole show alive as Jane Parker, and Mr. Wm. Holles, who is exceptionally good as Barnaby Bunston; Miss Elsie Walton is a lively Matilda; Mr. Leonard K. Mansford's Augustus Whistler, Mr. Francis James' Vandyke Brown, Mr. Fred Cook's Derry Dix, Mr. Francis Leslie's Alphonse Duprez, and Mr. Toby Jones's Bob Longshanks are exceptionally good; the Misses Pattie Walton, Helene Dale, and Edith Bruce as Constance Bunstone, Judia, and Bessie are also successful.

PORTH.—PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Pooles, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. W. Bynorth.—Mr. Tom Watts' company are presenting East Lynne. Archibald Carlyle is capitally acted by Mr. Frank Beresford; Mr. W. P. Mansfield is especially fine as Levison; Mr. Tom Watts does well as Lord Mountsevern; Mr. Joe Rowlands makes a capital Bullock; Miss Laura Hansen is seen to advantage as Lady Isabel; Miss Ida Heron as Barbara displays ability; Cornelia Carlyle is ably sustained by Miss Isabel Singleton; and Miss Beryl Forbes as Joyce is capital.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL. — Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Horner.—Mr. Silvanus Dauncey and Mr. Hansworth Browning present Dolly Reforming Herself. The part of the extravagant Dolly is admirably taken by Miss Dorothy Giles; the husband, Mr. Harry Telfer, is well impersonated by Mr. Ethelbert Edwards; Mr. Cecil Brooking is highly amusing as Dolly's father; Miss Florence Steventon makes a charming Mrs. Sturgess; whose gallant admirer, Captain Lucas Wentworth, is cleverly portrayed by Mr. Hanworth Browning; Mr. Russell Barry is quaintly droll as Professor Sturgess; Mr. Arthur Vezin proves an excellent Rev. James Pilcher. Jerry and a Sunbeam makes a pleasing curtain-raiser.

PRINCE'S.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Agate.—Mr. Lewis Gilbert's powerful company is presenting A Daughter of the Sea. As Sunshine Miss Florrie Green proves both a young and attractive heroine; Mark Glensdale, an old scoundrel, is cleverly portrayed by Mr. Lewis Gilbert; Mr. Roy Denham portrays Ken Moreland, a young fisherman, with considerable ability; Mr. Joe Monkhouse provides much amusement as Billy, the village idiot, who is not so stupid as he seems; and the remaining artists are suitably adapted to the rôles allotted them.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Capt. E. H. Warren-Wright; Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—The attraction this week is John Clempert, whose speedy escapes from handcuffs, chains, ropes, and tanks are truly marvellous; Tom Foy presents his humorous sketch The Yorkshire Lad in London; much mirth is provoked by Sid Cotterell's comedietta The Substitute; Albert St. Clair possesses the ability of changing his voice at will; Edwards and Ward score in song and patter; other good turns include Vera Rochdale, danseuse; The Sprees, vocal comedy duo; and Barrington at the piano.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—The Mirza Golem Asiatic Troupe of Acrobats present at once a weird and enchanting spectacle. The scenery, setting, and jewelled robes are truly gorgeous, whilst the marvellous acrobatic feats performed interest the audience from start to finish. Van Allen, the musical tramp, has a quaint style of his own, which is deservedly appreciated; My Fancy is an accomplished sand and step dancer; an excellent turn is provided by Horton and La Triska, the latter's impersonation of a doll being wonderfully realistic; Arthur Reece, the light vocal comedian, scores in songs of topical interest; and the Three Orleans, in song and dance; Les Marsumas, trick cyclists; Harry Hayton, comedian; and Amy Sullivan, comedienne, are turns that please.

KING'S.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Broughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Claude Marner.—George Leyton, the well-known reciter, causes a great impression by his magnificent rendering of that fine military sketch "Lucknow." He is flanked on the stage by nine local Crimean and Mutiny veterans. The Marriott's perform extraordinary feats of thought-reading; Jan Rudenyi, in a one-act drama, A Storm, taken from Tolstoy's "Kreutzer Sonata," handles his violin in a masterly and charming manner; the Three Prestons present their comical sketch The Village of Shift 'Em; the La Scala Opera Company, including Mrs. Arthur Rouseby, prove a great success in an excerpt from Cavalleria Rusticana. The remaining artists who deserve praise are Tiny and Mite, juvenile entertainers; Kitty Upton, comedienne; the Lafaille Trope of Acrobats; and Johnson and Devere, trick cyclists.

SOUTH PARADE PIER.—Manager, Mr. A. Lalande.—The screaming farce Our Flat is being played with great success. The Merry Boys and Mascots provide the vocal entertainment.

PRESTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page; General-Manageress, Mrs. M. M. Clarkson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas

RAMSGATE.—ROYAL PALACE THEATRE.—Under the sole direction of Mr. Charles Evans; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry Bowman.—Messrs. Frank Hardie and company are giving a varied programme twice nightly. They have produced The Traitor (a Franco-German War episode) and The Great Green Diamond (an Indian character item). The programme is strengthened by the inclusion of a number of attractive varieties, including Mr. Harry Moore, the newsboy vocalist; Mr. E. Budden, bone soloist, skater, &c.; the Armenians, Mr. Wallace Whitmore, Miss Elsie Langton, and Miss Millie Denham.

MARINA THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. J. Attack.—"Pictures up to date—and the best at that" is the Marina motto. Manager sees to it that his programme keeps up its high standard of attractiveness. The Sisters Gay, clever comediennes, make a big hit.

READING.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. A. Evans.—Rastus and Banks, the coloured entertainers, give an excellent turn; Kioto and Esa furnish a marvellous ladder and equilibrist performance; Violet Shelley and company prove very successful in their sketch The Ideal Woman; Alf Chester, the ever popular comedian, is well received; Clarke and Mostol give a very entertaining turn; Irne Hayman and company produce a good sketch entitled Christmas Eve, and two excellent films are displayed on the Biograph.

CAVERSHAM-ROAD OPEN AIR CASINO.—The Pocket Pierrots, a very clever troupe of juvenile artists, have commenced an al fresco season here.

WEST'S PICTURES.—The films shown here include The Rabbit Industry in Victoria, The Order to March, Persuasive Powers of a Revolver, Abandoned, Feminine Tenacity, and The End of the World.

VAUDEVILLE ELECTRIC THEATRE, BROAD-STREET.—A capital film of Ascot Races and other good subjects have been on view here.

ROTHERHAM.—HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. George E. Smith; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur R. Holland.—The Brooklyn Comedy Four create an excellent impression; Sandy McNab and company are enthusiastically received in the very funny sketch The Egyptian Mummy; Selby and Myers are expert duo dancers; the Zaid Trio present a sensational Oriental speciality; Maud Esmond is a pleasing chorus artist; the Great Virto is deservedly applauded in a finished musical speciality act; Agnese and Arthur Lynch, picture song artists, are well received; Petro and Leon (Hattie and Pete) are highly successful in a finished classical simultaneous gymnastic act; and the Hipposcope pictures are effective.

RUNCORN.—PUBLIC HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. Hamilton and Hughes.—The "turns" here include Lenton and Lane, a funny couple; Victor Brothers, clever athletes; Wilton Warton, a taking humourist and conjuror; and the Bros. Curran, in an amusing comedy act. The pictures are again much enjoyed.

SALFORD.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—No Mother to Guide Her, by Nita Rae, was on Monday presented to a good house by Mr. Will Glaze's company. Miss Rene Belle Douglas as Nan quickly becomes a favourite with the audience, and she has several comical incidents with Mr. Will Glaze as Bob Coleman; Felix Campbell is a thorough villain in the hands of Mr. Paul Barry Lewers; excellent work is done by Mr. J. O. Stewart as the burglarious Bill Bunce; a jealous woman is well portrayed by Miss Georgette Thierry as Julia Patterson; and Miss Betty Seymour is a charming heroine as Millicent Saxby. The Rev. Tom Pelham is a good study by Mr. John S. Millward.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. R. H. Lee.—Florrie Forde is well received for her songs, including "Kelly"; much amusement is given by the comical comedian Victor Kelly, assisted by Miss Agnes; Maggie Walsh, the original singing mill girl, knows how to use a sweet voice, and gets much appreciation; Little Claude has the making of a good light comedian and dancer; Hartley Wonders, in their clever jumping speciality; Three Seabornes, smart acrobats; Gallimore Trio, in comedy act; Hyam Hym, quaint comedian; and Dolly Dewer, comedienne and dancer, also give acceptable turns.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; General-Manager, Mr. H. Winstanley; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. J. Boyle.—The Brigands of Tarragona, Herbert Darnley's musical production, in three scenes—including Charles H. Bell as the waiter and Tarragonna dancing girls—provides much amusement. Robb Rossi, tenor vocalist, does well; a good juggling scena is given by Alman Correze, assisted by the droll Keith; Litt'e Sadie Lundy sings well. Other turns are given by Burt Ward, comedy whistler and raconteur; the Harringtons, in comic juggling, with song and dance; Dix and Dox, continental musical groteeques; and Silvo, gymnast.

OPERA HOUSE AND ASSEMBLY ROOMS, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Shepherd.—Zingaro is a beautiful dramatic picture giving stirring smuggling incidents. Other good films include All's Well that Ends Well, That Girl of Dixon's, Tommy and the Powder, Fence on Barley Ranch.

CENTRAL HALL, BLACKFRIARS-ROAD. — Proprietors, Messrs. Matt. Raymond Co.; Manager, Mr. A. H. Gilbert.—As it is in Life, Golf Mania, Naughty Children, Hunting Wolves, Ghost of Mudtown, The Charcoal Lover, On the Border Line are among this week's pictures, and Mr. A. H. Gilbert also delights with his songs.

NEW CENTRAL HALL (PENDLETON).—Proprietor, Mr. Thomas Whiteley.—A good twice-nightly entertainment is provided, with the following among other films: Aunt Emmie's Scrap Book, I'll show You How it Happened, Officer McQue, No Rest for the Weary, and Modern Robinson Crusoe.

SALISBURY.—COUNTY HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. Arthur Whitehead; Business-Manager, Mr. T Brinsmead.—Mr. Ralph Pringle's animated pictures commenced a week's engagement here on Monday. The principal attraction is the fine set illustrating the Funeral of King Edward VII. A fine orchestra adds greatly to the evening's enjoyment.

SCARBOROUGH.—LONDESBOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Waddington; Manager, Mr. J. T. Carpenter.—Miss Madge Crichton and company are here for the second half of the week.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. L. Garside; Manager, Mr. F. P. Morgan.—Messrs. Clifford Hamilton and Charles Locke's company is here in A Woman's Past. Mr. Percy Dawson successfully appears as David Heath; Mr. Charles Locke does well as Frank Dellannoy; Miss Phyllis Elton is an interesting Clara Darrell; Miss Cherry Veheyne a capable Dorothy Heath, Mr. H. Ryeand Leigh an effective Uriah Craven, and Miss Dora Pass excellently fills the rôle of Bessie.

THE AQUARIUM.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. W. Kitchingman; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Bench.—The variety programme includes Bennett and Martell, who top the bill; the Emsons, comediennes and dancers; Harry Merryleas, Scotch comedian; the Creedons, double club jugglers; Dolly Golden, speciality artist; Harley and Melton; and Elroy, the armless wonder.

In the Indian Theatre the Palace Pierrots are making their first appearance in place of the usual ladies' orchestra.

THE NEW HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock.—Miss Plaster of Paris is being played here with distinct success by Miss Winifred Chalmers' company, with Mr. Charles Tolcher as Numbskull Nubbs; Mr. Sid Dean Mrs. Nubbs, Mr. Harry Ray Alexander the waiter, Miss Celestine Brandon the Barmaid, and Miss W. Chalmers the Manageress. Specialities are given by the Berlin Belles, Sisters Holman, and Miss C. Brandon.

THE SPA.—Proprietors, Cliff Bridge Co.; Manager, Mr. H. Chambers.—Very attractive programmes are submitted by Mr. H. G. Amers' band, and some interesting pictures are to be seen in the Electric Theatre.

SHEERNESS.—HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. B. Parezeer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Julian Graham.—Two packed houses appreciated the programme on Monday. Top of an excellent bill are the Three Pirmans, whose gymnastic and acrobatic display is remarkably clever; Miss Ella Blair and her American Bowery Boys in a vocal and dancing act make a great hit; the Vaudevilles are amusing in Taming a Suffragette; Will Webb, character comedian; Lyvette, musical artist; the Manakins; Adelini, facial impersonator; Sid Crossley, comedian; Miss Luna Clarke, serio and dancer, complete.

SHEFFIELD.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Closed.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Henfrey Aldred.—Mr. Walter Steele's company opened here on Monday in A Fast Life. Mr. Walter Steele as John Dixon gave an excellent study of the modern type of financial magnate, and all the other characters were carefully sustained. The mounting was effective.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—This week A Lighthouse Robbery, a domestic play, is here. Freda repeats her charming and pathetic impersonation of Nellie; Mr. Percy Beresford is good as the young fisherman, Tom Manley; Miss Hilda Baynton is a graceful and sympathetic Rosa Prescott; and Mr. S. Fortescue, Mr. Summerville, Mr. J. Cameron, Mr. R. Talbot, Mr. A. Rundall, Miss Alice Dent, and Miss Clarice Jenner all do earnest work.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss' Empires, LAd.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—Mr. Harry Roxbury is a general favourite here, and, supported by a smart company, is appearing with great success in On the Track, which creates hearty laughter. Mr. Walter King's doleful confessions compel mirth and evoke well-deserved applause; Miss Nellie Wallace, with her comic songs and general resourcefulness, shows the value of talent and experience; and the same remark applies to those clever performers Spry and Monti. Mr. Harry Lamore is a very versatile artist; Drew and Alders are energetic comedy acrobats and burlesque actors; the Avolos do a smart act; and Marco Belli, the Bioscope, Leo-Tell, and Miss Bertha Winder are all well received.

THE HIPPODROME.—The Barrasford Co., Ltd; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Poole.—A good all-round company is here this week, the "big liners" being Miss May Moore Duprez, the bright and vivacious Dutch soubrette, vocalist, and dancer; and the Four Ascotts, who do some extraordinary step-dances. The programme is also contributed to by the Two McKays, Athas and Collins, Mr. S. W. Wyndham, comedian; Gladys and Alber, in a novel entertainment; Pichez and Scali, Continental artists; Master Jack Marks, vocal comique; and the Two Kellys. The artistic Bioscope pictures are well received.

THE GRAND, THE IMPERIAL, THE CENTRAL, THE SURREY, and the HILLSBRO' PALACE continue to do good business here with pictures.

SMETHWICK. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—A cordial greeting was extended on Monday to Travis Green and Arthur Hinton's company in The Sorrows of Satan. Mr. Arthur Hinton's embodiment of Prince Lucio was complete in every detail; Mr. Travis Green in the rôle of Geoffrey Tempest played with much earnestness; and Mr. Arthur Beaufort made a mystical Amiel. Mr. Arthur Lowry took advantage of his opportunities as Lord Elton; Lord Lynton was creditably portrayed by Mr. Charles Morton; and Mr. David Allen as Morgensen, Mr. Frank Brunell as Bentham, and Mr. Harry Sidney as Ellis all contributed their aid towards the lighter scenes of the play. Miss Shirley Dalton played Diana Chesney with success; Miss Mabel Coleman was a pleasing Mavis Clare; Miss Leila Zillwood scored a success as the ill-fated Lady Sybil; and Miss Maud Evans did well as Annette.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA. — EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. Parcezer; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. L. Parcezer.—With Edged Tools is successfully portrayed by Mr. H. Armitage's company. Mr. Charles Hartopp as Jack Meredith gives a talented impersonation; Mr. Walter Russell characterises Sir John Meredith with pronounced success; Miss Marie Leonhard makes a pleasing personality of Jocelyn Gordon; and Miss Marguerite Cellier as Millicent Cheyne is equally successful in her flirtation rôle. Miss Edith Anton-Laing as both Marie and Lady Herries proves a capital interpreter; Miss Alice Maude is well suited as Lady Cantourne; and Messrs. J. D. Geddes as Guy Oscard and Charles Barrett as Victor Durnovo act powerfully; Mr. J. Grahame Pockett giving a good study of Maurice Gordon.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietary, The Southend Hippodrome, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lewis de Burgh.—The programme at the Hippodrome this week contains much that is new and novel. Metz and Metz are clever at clog dancing, and some humorous patter is thoroughly enjoyed; Mildred Parr sings some very touching descriptive songs, accompanying herself on the piano; whilst a recital from Sappho is cleverly done. Berg Bros., in a comedy act with their bumping bicycle, create much amusement; juggling McBanns introduce tricks with Indian clubs that are particularly dexterous; and their hat throwing is as novel as it is marvellous; Richard Fineberg gives selections from well-known plays with the artistic rendering of an accomplished actor, his impersonation of Marcus Superbus from The Sign of the Cross eliciting well-merited recognition; Mabel Mignon is a smart little dancer; the Zigeuner Quartette play selections from standard works with masterly skill; Gilbert Girard seems capable of imitating the cry of any bird or animal perfectly; the final item of the programme is a performance by the Craggs, in their absurdity The Territorials.

LUNA PARK AND PALACE (late KURSAAL).—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Hilton; Manager, Mr. T. W. Wright.—The opening of this popular rendezvous on Saturday last drew a large following, when the principal attraction was a fine display of fireworks, which proved a most enjoyable feature. This week's variety entertainment (given twice daily) gets well supported, and is of an excellent character. The items are given by the Sisters Harcourt, clever and pleasing duettists and dancers; Miss Elsie Kedwards, a novel danseuse and comedienne; Golden and Gray, in a delightful comedy sketch; Aldro Lukos, in a man-monkey speciality which provokes much applause; Fred Kendal, a Hebrew comedian; Four Louberts, who entertain successfully as Continental comedy acrobats; and Tom Hulme, patterer and comedienne. The sketch entitled Rejected Remounts, by Claude Ginnett and company, makes a pleasing concluding item. Dancing again this year will be made a special feature.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. E. Angless.—The Ticket of Leave Man is forcibly enacted by Miss M. Lowe-Dare's company, who shows both skill and force in her characterisation of May Edwards. Mr. Ernest Dare in the title-rôle is eminently successful; Messrs. Burton Yaldwyn as James Downey and Walter Hicks as Meker Moss both depict villainy in capital style; Mr. Frederic Morena as the detective, Hawkshaw, is well suited; Mr. Lionel Waltham makes a good exponent of Mr. Gibson; Miss Mona Maughan is a delightful impersonator of Sam Willoughby; Miss Maggie D. Hallé as Mrs. Willoughby is pleasing; and Mr. James Wear is responsible for the rôle of Malby, a publican

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE WINTER GARDENS.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Percy Hutchison; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Clarkson.—Mrs. Henry de la Pasture's charming comedy Peter's Mother forms the attraction for the last week of Mr. Hutchison's répertoire season, the play being excellently interpreted. The rôle of Peter is admirably depicted by Mr. Percy Hutchison, who displays great versatility, and shows a thorough grasp of the part; Lady Mary Crewys is capitally portrayed by Miss Lilias Earle, whose study of the character leaves nothing to be desired; Mr. Frank Elliott is to be credited with a vigorous and forceful impersonation of John Crewys; Peter's sweetheart Sarah is charmingly and artistically enacted by Miss Cicely Stuckey; Mr. Aubrey Mather makes the part of Dr. Blundel very effective; Canon Birch is well played by Mr. F. G. Thurstans; and Miss Mary Griffiths, Miss Celia Gordon, and Miss Pauline Straus as Lady Belstone, Georgina Crewy, and Mrs. Hewel respectively and Mr. Ernest Ruston as Sir Timothy Crewys give excellent accounts of themselves.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. John Coulson.—Mr. Wilson Howard presents Under the Iron Heel to good houses. Rene de Maupasant is cleverly depicted by Mr. Douglas B. Watson; the Otto Marks of Mr. J. W. Richards is another good portrayal; André finds a delightful exponent in Miss Marie Angus; Miss Carlotta Anson makes a realistic Germaine; and clever characterisation is displayed by Miss I. Douglas-Hicks as Maman Gouffe.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Bridgen.—Wish Wynne, who heads the bill here, is a most versatile comedienne, and is enthusiastically received. The Leslie Bros. cause much merriment in their sketch, Music Mad; the Kirbys are well received in comedy and burlesque; and other good turns are Mr. and Mrs. H. Finden; sketch artists; Harry May Hemsley, child impersonator; Dan Ashton, the collier; Sylvia Du Barry, vocalist, and the Bioscope.

GRAND ELECTRIC THEATRE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Will Clark.—Specially re-engaged here are the Glenisters, harmonising vocalists, assisted by Roy Lennard, the wonderful juvenile vocalist (the boy from the circle), in illustrated songs; Great Rackham, female impersonator, who has two distinct voices, is well received.

SPENNYMOOR.—CAMBRIDGE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. David Collins.—Mr. Frank Ayrton concludes his summer season here this week with Called Back, which is extremely well staged and ably produced. Mr. Vincent W. Carlyle has a commanding style as Gilbert Vaughan; and as Macari Mr. Norman A. Overton makes a hit. Mr. George A. Wallace acts cleverly as Ceneri; and Miss Ada Oakley as Pauline is well received. Miss Madge Seymour is good as Mary Vaughan; and Mr. Frank Ayrton plays amusingly as Tolsti.

PICTURE PALACE.—Manager, Mr. Arthur Sleep.—Some capital subjects are produced at this hall by the A.B. Picture Company, the specialities being The Derby, Adventures of the Golden Valley, The Eleventh Hour, and The Old Stevedore. The Brothers Armstrong are a fine turn of comedians and impersonators.

STAFFORD.—WINTER GARDENS.—Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allendale are providing a series of interesting vaudeville entertainments. This week's programme includes Mr. Norman Osborne, a clever ventriloquist; Fred Wamsley, smart comedian; Miss Emilie Tait, talented soprano; Fred Merry, light comedian; Miss Nellie Le Briton, comedienne; Bernard Davies, baritone; and the Dulcets (Edith and Evelyn), with a high-class musical act, introducing selections on the harp, piano, and saxophones.

ST. HELENS.—THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harry E. Johnson.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company is here in A Sister's Sin. Mr. J. Dobson Clyde takes the part of Harold Raymond with much success, and Mr. Sidney Fionnes also shows an admirable grasp of the character of George Oakley; Mr. Will Hee gives a realistic impersonation of the old farmer, Walter Hastings; Miss Cissie St. Elmo plays Charzel in an appropriately strong and telling way; and Miss Iza Lyndon as her sister, Gipsy Redempta, is also well placed; as Minnie Hastings, Miss Mabel Scudamore has great emotional opportunities, to which she does full justice; and a good word is to be said for the two small people Master Sydney Clarence and Miss Hilda Vokes, who do well as Jack and May. Amusement is caused by the laughable performance of Mr. J. Russell Bogue (Larry Murphy), and Miss Edie Macklin (Floss Perks), and Miss Lily Bales (Nell Stubbs).

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs Barrasford, Sley, and Wilmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Leo Weisker.—The Gay Countess is a bright and interesting sketch, and admirably performed by Henry Kemble's clever company; Florrie Gallimore is the particular star this week, and, as usual, makes a decided hit with her songs and delightful costumes; Elsie Malpass, a smart little lady of twelve, is a very amusing mimic; Grahame and Harrington are exceedingly interesting in an episode; Vera Mayne sings a good song; Fayre and Manning dance with great credit.

STOCKPORT. — THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—The exciting incidents of The Midnight Mail have been well portrayed here. Mr. John F. Traynor gives a manly impersonation of the engine driver Harry Steyne; Mr. Fred G. Evison infuses humour into the trying character of Billy Brewer; Mr. Frank S. Strickland acts with skill as Hassan Padisha; and Mr. Henry W. Hatchman makes a pleasing Leonard Royle. Miss Trissie Humphries acquits herself ably as Mary Steyne; and Miss Mildred Carr is amusing as Nancy Brewer.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—Mr. Montgomery's talented company maintains its popularity here, and is this week presenting the evergreen East Lynne, which has appealed to the sympathies of large audiences. Miss Nina Vaughton excels as Lady Isabel; Mr. Stanley S. Gordon acts capably as Archibald Carlyle; Mr. S. E. Scanlan is a most acceptable Capt. Francis Levison; Barbara Hare is admirably impersonated by Miss Lillian Redbourn; and Miss Kate Blair's acting as Cornelia Carlyle is distinctly meritorious.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES. — HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Stainton.—The premier turn here is Sergeant Longfellow, produced by Will Lytton and company; Harry Tate's company, in Motoring, keeps the audience in roars of laughter; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilde are successful society entertainers; Ethel Edwardes is an attractive comedienne; Frank E. Ford, a clever coloured dancer; the Three Phydoras give a pleasing musical novelty; and Ted Gill, tenor vocalist, and Frank Melvin, comedian, are also in the bill.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—The musical comedy Lucky Liza is presented here by Mr. Dicky Clare's company. The triple rôles of Silas Slim, the Judge, and the French Waiter are played with distinction by Mr. Dicky Clare himself; Miss Vesta Brownie is a captivating Lucky Liza. Some clever dances are contributed by the Jesmond Trio.

STOKE-ON-TRENT. — THE HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Arthur Burton.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company is this week presenting Two Little Drummer Boys. The full sympathy of the audience goes out to Captain Frank Carsdale, the muchly-wronged hero, a part ably sustained by Mr. J. Leigh. Captain George Darree is capably portrayed by Mr. Polson Turner. Comedy is in the able hands of Mr. Will Percy and Mr. A. Sillwood as two privates in the Warwicks; in the part of Drunken Meg Miss Ada Champion displays power.

STOURBRIDGE.—ALHAMBRA THEATRE, PICTURE PALACE AND VARIETY HALL.—General-Manager, Mr. D. C. Phelps.—Scottie's military production, Napoleon at Waterloo, hits the public taste; Will Warren is a good singer, with histrionic ability; Freda and Frank are acrobatic dancers of merit; Ivy Cornwallis is an artist of much promise; Scottie's Operatic Ballet Troupe give The Cry of the Children in perfect style; Wana and Wanotee score heavily with their humorous and clever turn; The Merries are delightful entertainers; Sandy and Ramsay deserve commendation for their clever show; Whizzing the Whirl causes much fun. The pictures are well chosen and capitally projected.

SUNDERLAND.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Dunn.—Mr. F. W. Bolam's company is playing here in Tommy Atkins. Miss Ada M. Ryder is capital in the exacting rôle of Ruth; Miss Lilian Earle as Elsie Wilson and Miss Annie Brunnette as Margaret both do excellent work; as Harold Wilson Mr. John B. Shinton gives a fine performance; Mr. F. Paterson is good as Captain Sparrow, as also is Mr. Sydney Reneff as Private Mason. Mr. Stanley Bedwell proves himself a stage villain of a high order; Miss G. Morella and Messrs. Bert Atherton and Fred Elvin have the humorous vein in their good keeping.

AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Mlle. le Breton is successful in a skilful gymnastic turn; Jack Shevill is a capable comedian; and the Acmes present a good musical speciality.

EMPIRE THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Mark Sheridan is heading the bill here this week, and, needless to say, is having a tremendously enthusiastic reception. With his songs, words, and action he is alike popular, and it appears to be impossible to get too much of him. Muir Bros. are eminently successful in their humorous gymnastic act; Carl Howard causes much amusement with his burlesque conjuring act; Addie Dorina submits a cleverly-conceived sketch, entitled Dr. Spot's Patients, with much success; the Phœnix Trio contribute an acceptable singing and dancing act; Will Mitcham has much smart patter and songs; and the Georgians give an agreeable instrumental and dancing scena.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Hamilton's Picture and Variety Co.—Naley's Garden of Girls are arousing much enthusiasm here this week with their cleverly-rendered songs and pretty dances; the Four Janowskys submit a daring acrobatic act; and Alfonzo, foot equilibrist, wins much praise.

SWINDON.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Wiltshire Entertainments Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Manners.—The star turn is the Dayton Family, twelve in number, who please with their numerous feats; Ivy Gallard, comedienne, gains favour; Dot and Williams are smart juvenile sand dancers; E. W. Selman, comedian, scores immensely; the Adams, comedy cyclists, cause amusement; Dora Campbell sings nicely; Professor Thornbury, lightning painter, is much appreciated; Three Spanish Armadas give a clever tight-rope act; and the Bioscope completes.

COUNTY ELECTRIC PAVILION.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur E. Melbourne.—The films here include Tree of Happiness, Short-sighted Duellist, Lieut. Rose and the Gun Runners, Glimpses of Sicily, The Way of the World, and The Road Agent.

TODMORDEN.—HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Richard Dewhurst.—Mr. Dewhurst's picture programme this week includes a fine drama, On the Borderline; The Unceaseable Pickpocket is a very laughable film.

OLYMPIA PICTURE PALACE.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. A. and H. Andrews; Manager, Mr. Chas. Tyers.—Good houses still patronise the animated pictures exhibited here. The film showing various incidents in the life of the late King Edward VII. is very popular. Mr. Chas. Tyers sings with success.

TONYPANDY.—ROYAL.—General-Manager, Mr. Sam Duckworth.—The two-houses-a-night principle is working extremely well here, and Mr. J. F. Preston's company, in their second week, are presenting Jane Shore. The title-rôle is admirably filled by Miss Mabelle Barlow; Mr. J. F. Preston is successful as Richard of Gloucester; Mr. H. Rutland does well as Lord Hastings; the Sir W. Catesby of Mr. E. Benson is duly sinister; and Anthony Yeaste is in the safe keeping of Mr. W. H. Barlow.

HIPPODROME. — Proprietor, Mr. W. Thomas; General-Manager, Mr. W. Pearson.—The Casey Army are making a hit here; the Three Van Dammes are clever tumblers; Sterling and Cashen are capital dancers; little Alice Winsome scores heavily; and the chief film presents The Half-breed.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Will Stone.—Mr. Jack Fortescue and company are exceptionally successful in their drametta Satan in the Flesh; Mr. Fortescue and Miss M. Thomas are deserving of special mention; Mr. Herbert Shelley, protean artist, makes a hit; Ted Saunders goes well; Marie Lea sings nicely; and Vincent and the Two Rosses merit praise. The Empiroscope concludes.

TORQUAY. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Alderman W. H. Mortimer; Secretary, Mr. Arthur Pearse.—Mr. Frank Weathersby's company in Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace is providing an excellent show this week. Miss Kitty Crichton as the irresponsible Mrs. Gorringe gives a fine performance; Miss Victoria Wray Holmes as Vicky Jardine is very acceptable; in the rôle of Mrs. Jardine a typical impersonation is given by Miss Viola March; Miss Lilian Hallows acts with charming dignity as Isabel; Mr. Theodore Kelly as the irascible Colonel Jardine is quite at home; and Mr. F. Pennington Gush is a powerful Captain Mowbray. As David Cairn Mr. Hal Charlton has a difficult part, but he does well; and Mr. Arthur Gibbons (under whose direction the play is produced) makes a characteristic detective.

PRINCESS PIER CONCERT HALL.—Proprietors, The Torquay Town Council; Manager, Mr. A. T. Tremlett.—Mr. Stuart Alexander's company, "The So-and-So's," conclude their engagement here this week. Miss Maude Davis (soprano) and Miss Pattie Biddulph (contralto) each receive encores; and Miss Alma at the piano is a comedienne who meets with much success. Miss Madge White is a talented impersonator; and Mr. Harry Leslie is also popular. Mr. Stuart Alexander sings in excellent style, Mr. Harry Quiningborough rendering some monologues with much acceptance.

TYNEMOUTH.—PALACE AND WINTER GARDENS.—Proprietors, The Palace Co., Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Harold Arnold.—Van Biene, the eminent actor-musician, is paying a welcome return visit here, and on Monday night his sketch, Van Biene's Baby, was received with great enthusiasm by a large audience. Van Biene was ably assisted by Miss Violet Vaughan and Mr. George W. Child. The Zanfrellas, novelty equilibrists, are responsible for an excellent turn; Maude Courtney proves herself a comedienne of considerable ability; Mr. C. sings and talks himself into favour; the Gilberts score in their tight-wire act; Louie Tracey, comedian, obtains a flattering reception; Fred Elton is a clever entertainer at the piano; and up-to-date animated pictures conclude.

WAKEFIELD. — NEW EMPIRE. — Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Miss Marie Santoi and company appear with success in a bright and "goey" vocal scena, A Night in Japan; the Rangers are a couple of clever trick cyclists; Miss Mabel Mavis gives a talented musical turn on glasses and piano; Miss Edna James is a dainty comedienne; Mr. Harry Curwen, character comedian, is popular; the Forestiers are good in a powerful dramatic sketch, A Society Sinner; and Mr. J. Gar Riddle, comedian, is amusing.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—The Two Ingares, continental dance artists, score with graceful and mystic dances; Mlle. Yetta is a daring and clever wire-walker; Crosby and Walker, comedians, evoke much laughter; Mr. J. H. Greener, singing pit lad, has a good reception; and the Sisters Ray, duettists, are entertaining. Pictures on the Bioscope complete.

WALLSEND-ON-TYNE.—BOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Hugh Duffy.—Robert Monteigle's stock company is retained another week, and on Monday The Dead Hand was staged before a large audience.

PREMIER PICTURE HALL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. T. F. McDonald.—The chief attraction here is the appearance of Cissy Clamp, a musical entertainer of more than usual ability. The Treasure Hunters is an excellent film among many good ones.

TYNE PICTURE HALL.—The Cowboy's Narrow Escape is the principal film here. Hector and Lauraine are appearing in a comedy speciality.

ROYAL PICTURE HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. T. McHarg.—The Unchanging Sea and Conscience are the chief attractions here.

WALSALL.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; Joint Management, Moss' Empires, Ltd., and The Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; Secretary and Manager, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—Mr. Seymour Hicks, in his great creation, Scrooge, was due to appear here this week, but owing to indisposition the engagement had to be postponed at the last minute. One of the best items of the remaining portion of the bill was supplied by Phil Rees' Stable Lads, in a smart little racing scena entitled Not a Crook; Pat Rafferty sang three songs in his inimitable style; M. and Mme. Agoust, in a juggling act, go through a smart performance; Lux and his dogs receive applause for a unique canine act; Cissie Thompson has a good voice, and knows how to make her songs go; Billy Hobbs is a smart dancer; and the pictures are most interesting.

THE IMPERIAL HALL.—Proprietors, The Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; Secretary and Manager, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—The pictures here continue to be good. A very striking film, entitled The Mystery of Temple Court, gains well-earned applause. Harry Henrick is a smart comedian, and the vocal selections of Charles France are much appreciated.

THE ELECTRIC PALACE.—Proprietors, The Electric Picture Palaces (Midland), LAd.; General-Manager, Mr. H. Stanley Marks; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. W. Robinson.—The chief attraction here is La Savelli, one of the finest and most realistic coloured films ever produced. Another very striking picture is An Indian Drama, which calls for mention.

WARRINGTON. — ROYAL COURT.—Proprietor, Mr. Joseph Beecham; Manager, Mr. J. M. Loader.—After a week's closure this popular place of amusement has been transformed into a "Paradise of Roses," where an entertainment, under the heading of Elysia, is given. The opening ceremony was performed by his Worship the Mayor (Alderman Forshaw), who spoke in eulogistic terms of the enterprise of Mr. Loader, and referred to the high-class entertainments provided since he had charge d'affaires. A refined bill of fare was the order, and the beautiful views of the Rhine from Cologne to Bergin were fine specimens of the photographic art. The clever Child Trio are splendid entertainers, and their equal as child musicians has not been seen in Warrington; Fred W. Graham, a popular favourite here, scores well in his Dame songs; Will Owen is a smart comedian and patterer; Collins and Irene are fine exponents of thought transmission and mental telegraphy; the Warners score well in a refined comedy musical and dancing act; Florrie Connolly is a typical Irish Colleen; Williams and Hayes do well in the sketch The Prima Donna and the Tramp; and Cestian is a unique juggler and acrobatic waiter. The Elysian Bohemian Orchestra, under the conductorship of Mr. Tom Borthroyd, play some charming selections.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Eric Longden.—Vonetta is here again this week, and her remarkable quick-changes and illusion act; Alfred Guest and Dorothy Newlyn have made a popular hit with the sketch The Hebrew and Soubrette, rich humour being introduced; Tom Gott is a quaint comedian with plenty of good patter; Milner and Story are seen to advantage in the sketch Tickets; Alfred Long has a remarkable contralto voice, and sang "I'll sing thee songs of Araby" with much feeling; Lily Edwards is possessed of a fine stage presence, and she is a clever comedienne; Lilybelle is a fine dancer. The pictures are good.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, The Central Theatres and Franco-British Animated Picture Company; Managing-Director, Mr. Wilberforce Turner; Manager, Mr. Jack Waters.—Lillie Southen heads the bill here this week, and she has delighted all with her character songs; Ellis Barritone has a smart voice of good range and purity, whilst Hilda de Gill is encored for her beautiful vocalisation; Allsop and Beckwith score in the sketch, The First Lesson in Acting. The pictures are very entertaining.

WELLINGBOROUGH. — KING'S PALACE.—The Lurains are making a hit here as lady brass instrumentalists. Other turns are Kinnard, conjurer, Cliff Reid, and Miss Doris Snowden.

EMPIRE.—The Zealanders are the chief feature of a strong programme, with their clever thought-reading; Monsieur Le Roy successfully goes through his performance of escaping from a locked mail bag; Trevor and Ware are very diverting; and King Leo is one of the most entertaining of ventriloquists; Ethel Sheffer sings well; and other good turns are Jessie Star and Edna Deno.

WEST BROMWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. R. Nightingale.—Mr. Montague Beaudyn is this week presenting the Co-operative Hall.—Lessee, Mr. J. Ritson.—This hall is still being well patronised. Amongst the various films shown, the most prominent are Guste's Last Stand and Comata the Sioux.

WHITLEY BAY.—The Whitley Bay Pleasure Gardens, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Auguste A. Peuleve.—This being the Newcastle Race Carnival week, special and powerful attractions are provided for the thousands upon thousands of visitors who journey to the coast upon this, the greatest holiday of the Northern metropolis. In addition to the capable stock company engaged, we have the Prince Milner trio, in their clever potpourri act; Gladys Hooley, a popular violinist; Claremont and Victor, acrobatic comedians; Frederica's wonderful terriers and cake-walking pony, Dot; Molly Augarde, vocalist; Leslie Bennett, character actor; the Arlena Brothers, comedians and dancers; and the Lizzette troupe of lady acrobats, singers, and dancers. The various side-shows and attractions, such as the "olde wheel," the Figure Eight Railway, the Social Whirl, and the exciting Water Chute have all been in great demand.

The Coliseum.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Imelt; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Patterson.—Quite recent events are depicted by the latest films, and the variety is contributed by Andrew McManus, comedian and dancer; the Percys, duettists and dancers; Chas. R. Torrain, chorus song vocalist; and Little Betty, comedy artist.

Lines Band Pavilion.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Wm. Catlin.—The fine evenings are bringing a big crowd to listen to Mr. Catlin's Pierrots.

The Toreadors (Stvan's-avenue), Promenade.—Manager, Mr. Charles Elderton.—The latest venture of Mr. Elderton opened on Saturday last. A neat and attractive enclosure has been erected, with a commodious stage and dressing-rooms. Miss Maude Hastings, soprano; Mr. John Tiller's Companies; Will Cameron, tenor vocalist; Isa Gibson, comedienne and dancer; James Matchell, baritone (Wm. Greet's Co.); The Cameron Quartette; Freda Murray, comedienne; Nellie Stuart, smart soubrette and dancer (Geo. Dance's Co.); and Mr. Teddy Worth form an excellent company. Mr. Jack Williams directs the musical portion of the programme.

Baths Pavilion.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. R. L. Grice.—Here, as elsewhere, we have a big bill for the "special" week of the year, and a well-diversified series of films prove very welcome. Varieties are furnished by Wee Winnie, a clever child impersonator; and Cissy Madcap, acrobatic and speciality dancer.

WIGAN. — Hippodrome. — Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—Sapho and Trilby are presented here this week. Mr. Edward Ouston gives a powerful portrayal of Jean Gaussin; Mr. Edwin Keene causes endless laughter as Uncle Cesaire; and is ably assisted by Miss Ethel Tinsley as Aunt Divonne; Miss Ada Abbott proves herself a talented actress as Fanny Legrand; and Miss Florence North makes a charming Lucy.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fred Ball.—Mr. Horace Stanley's company is here with Guilty Gold, which appeals strongly to the popular parts of the house. Mr. Ernest J. Fare gives a thoroughly consistent performance as Martin Haldane; Mr. George Arthur does full justice to the part of Ralph Bartlett; Mr. T. Arthur Plummer is convincing as Frank Seymour; Mr. T. B. Brabazon is good as John Hampton; whilst Mr. Horace Stanley, it is almost needless to say, creates no end of amusement by his admirable portrayal of Timothy Titmouse; Miss Cora Linda is a pleasing Hetty Hampton.

Empire Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Vivian Evans.—Mlle. De Verneuil, assisted by five ladies, is presenting here a beautiful series of living pictures. The posing, lighting, and general effect is truly artistic, and thoroughly deserves the applause which greets each tableau; Dale and O'Malley are comedians of considerable merit; Kitty Clinton is an artistic comedienne; Richard Wally, juggler, has left the beaten track for some of his tricks, all of which are clever; Sim Maree gives a marvellous performance on the rings; whilst Ivy Aberdare, comedienne and dancer, and Jack Haytor, complete a capital programme.

WORTHING. — Theatre Royal. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. Adolf Seebold.—Miss Ella's Lions are the chief attraction here, and good houses have gathered to see them go through their performance. The Melroses are proving excellent entertainers in their duo The New Page; smart work is the feature of the performance of the Les Four Kasracs, in a comedy acrobatic scena; and other items are contributed by Nina May, soprano; Harry Taylor, light comedy entertainer; Morelli and Moore; Ernest Stanley, baritone; and the Comedy Comets.

WREXHAM.—Empire Music Hall.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. J. Scott.—A sensational novelty, The Dude and the Dupe, is the main attraction here. It is produced by Spry and Bentley, character sketch artists. The banjo queen, Clarice Mignon, has also made a favourable impression in her charming and refined musical act. The pictures, always a special feature at this hall, include two excellent items, The Wonderful Ring and The Poor Nurse Girl.

YNYSHIR.—Workmen's Hall.—Lessees, Messrs. Fooles, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. W. Bynorth.—Excellent pictures are presented here this week, chief of which is a splendid dramatic picture, A Passing Shadow. The Cinephone has excellent new singing pictures.

YORK.—Opera House and Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brooke.—George Formby is always a warm favourite here; Mr. Edward Lewis and company introduce a farcical interlude The Five Wishes, which goes very merrily; August, September, and May cause, as usual, much merriment; Harris Coonie speedily dances himself into favour; W. H. Jones is a clever reciter; Elmo and Rego introduce some astonishing knockabout business; the Sisters Dudley are trained singers; Delvere and Wallace are smart in their business; and Maud Vera is a neat dancer.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Bowman; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. E. Bradley.—The Bros. Ford are meeting with success, and the pictures are far above average merit.

Victoria Hall.—Lessee, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Bert Rutter.—The films this week are being heartily applauded by large audiences. The Shepherd's Dog and The Unchanging Sea are serious items, and comic pictures are judiciously interspersed; Duncan Gray, comedian, also entertains.

The musical world has sustained a great loss through the death of Dr. Otto Briesemeister, one of the most artistic of German tenors. He was only forty-five, and by a singular fatality his death was caused by diphtheria, caught from his little daughter. The artist was an M.D., and devoted his attention chiefly to affections of the larynx. Dr. Briesemeiser, who was to have sung at the Gura Opera, Berlin, in a week's time, was best known on the operatic stage for his admirable impersonation of Loge in Rheingold. He leaves a widow and children and a large circle of mourning friends.

Messrs. Elkin and Co. are offering two scholarships for singing, one for female and one for male, for the seventh year in succession. Competitors must not be under sixteen years of age. The successful singers will study for twelve months, free of charge, under Mr. Charles Phillips, the well-known singer and teacher. Among the songs selected for the test is "Venetia," by L. Denza, published in the Pearson series of sixpenny songs.

ANIMAL DEFENCE MATINEE.

Influential support was given to the matinée at the Court Theatre on Tuesday in aid of the Animal Defence Society, which "upholds the principles of compassion and justice to our animal friends, and opposes cruelty in all its forms." The performance was under the patronage of the Princesse Marie Louise de Bourbon and many other distinguished personages, and the house was crowded. The programme, which was freely adorned with quotations from celebrated people against vivisection, included two new plays, the first being a comedy, in one act, adapted by Athol Stewart from Daniel Riche's La Visite, entitled

"THROUGH THE POST."

Edward Stacy Spells .....Mr. Otho Stuart
Lilian Stacy Spells ..Miss Lilian Braithwaite
George Binning ....Mr. Arthur Holmes Gore

Amusing dialogue is the chief recommendation of the above playlet, wherein it is shown how the advertisement for someone to afford intellectual consolation to a husband separated from his wife through incompatibility of temperament is answered by the wife herself, who is equally in want of congenial society. Unknown to each other, the pair have kept up a close correspondence under assumed names, until a meeting is arranged, when discoveries, of course, ensue. A reconciliation is arranged, but ere they sit down to tea the wife insists on indulging her mania for "re-arranging" every article of furniture in the room—a habit which was the cause of the original separation—and there is a heated dispute, as a result of which the couple agree again to part and to keep up their acquaintance only "through the post."

A witty pen is wielded by Mr. Athol Stewart in the piece, the success of which was assured from the beginning. Mr. Otho Stuart extracted all possible effect from the part of the resourceful husband, enhancing the humour of his lines by his quaint expression; and Miss Lilian Braithwaite was sweetly charming and prettily indignant as the wife; Mr. Arthur Holmes Gore, as a delightfully genial bachelor friend, helping to win the continuous laughter which was aroused.

The second novelty was a costume comedy, in one act, by M. Stanley Clark, entitled

"THE BETROTHAL OF LADY BETTY."

Lady Betty Childe .....Miss Decima Moore
Ralph Darrell .....Mr. Lawrence Leyton
Mine Host .....Mr. J. H. Brewer
Phœbe .....Miss Esme Hubbard

The true story of the famous Berkshire lady who lived and loved in the eighteenth century is the foundation of the above play, which shows how Lady Betty waylays her impecunious and backward lover, Ralph Darrell, at a country inn, and, with a mask hiding her pretty features and a pair of pistols in her hands, offers him the choice of either fighting or wedding the fair unknown. Ralph chooses the latter course, while protesting his love for Lady Betty, whose identity is revealed by the landlord, and a union of a more conventional kind is ensured. Lady Betty had a captivating exponent in Miss Decima Moore, who well became an exquisite costume, and whose every movement was instinct with fascinating grace. She delivered her lines with many musical inflections of tone, and a more captivating Court lady it would be impossible to imagine. She was well matched by Mr. Lawrence Leyton, who made a gallant and debonair lover. Mr. J. H. Brewer did all that opportunity offered as Mine Host of the Pelican; and Miss Esmé Hubbard gave a neat sketch of a country girl.

Also included in the programme was the one-act play, Shub 'Rat, by Florence Lady Clarke-Jervoise, in which the authoress herself played a devoted Indian servant, who stabs the unfaithful wife of her master. Lady Clarke-Jervoise, in an endeavour to secure the mystic atmosphere, spoke so softly that her lines in the earlier part of the play utterly failed to reach the audience, but she acted impressively the tragic incident with which the piece concludes. Mr. Athol Stewart and Mr. Leon Quartermaine were also in the cast, and acquitted themselves ably in two characters drawn on familiar lines. Mr. Sam Sothern also contributed to the enjoyment of the afternoon with an amusing monologue, What Shall I Say to Her? in which Mr. Sothern's dog Bob figured appropriately, taking the calls with his master with irresistible gravity.

THEATRICAL SPORTS AT BIRMINGHAM

Glorious weather favoured the annual procession and sports last Saturday, held under the auspices of the combined Birmingham theatres and music halls, in conjunction with the Aston Villa Football Club, in aid of local charities. The date originally fixed was Whit Tuesday, but a postponement was necessary owing to the death of King Edward. No doubt this fact is responsible for a deterioration of the procession and the moderate "gate" at Villa Park. The weather conditions could not have been more favourable. Much taste was shown in the arrangement of the tableaux cars, which were greatly admired by the crowds which lined the route. The most striking was undoubtedly the tableau arranged by the Theatre Royal, representing the siege of Harfleur by Henry V., and a company of mailed nobles and pikemen. Another pretty and effective car was sent by Mr. Goodwin Woodward from the Bordesley Palace. It represented "The Queen of Roses," and was quite seasonable. Mr. Foster, of the Grand Theatre, displayed considerable originality in his tableau. In the centre of the vehicle was a child's hospital cot, tended by a nurse, while in the background was a bust of King Edward, guarded by allegorical figures of Peace and Charity, and surmounted by the motto, "Keep his memory green by your good works." Mr. Lester Collingwood (Alexandra Theatre) turned out a gaily-decorated house boat. Another very effective tableau was that of the Birmingham Hippodrome. It depicted a scene in the Arctic regions, with Mr. Elbourne, the manager, crouched in furs amid ice-floes. It was entitled "Dr. Cook's first ap-Peary-ance in Birmingham." A different note was struck by the Empire, whose tableau was the trial scene from The Merchant of Venice. The Aston Hippodrome contributed a battlefield scene entitled "The Last Cartridge." A final touch of colour was given by a coach laden with military veterans in their uniforms. Upon arriving at the ground the judging of the tableaux took place, and the awards were made as follows:—Theatre Royal, 1; Alexandra Theatre, 2; Birmingham Hippodrome, 3.

A splendid sports programme had been arranged, and managers of local theatres and halls, and members of their respective staffs took an important part in the proceedings. Mr. Collingwood (Alexandra), Mr. Matcham (Empire), and Mr. Foster (Grand) were always to the front, and the latter was warmly complimented upon the part he took in the tug-of-war contest. The Bordesley team and the Grand team were prime favourites, and it was fortunate for the Grand (the victors) that some of the Bordesley "boys" were overcome with the heat. The cycle events were splendidly contested, and an abundance of wholesome comedy was introduced into the costume race and the greasy pole climbing contest. The committee were able to hand over the sum of £1,000, which endowed a bed in the Children's Hospital, and in many other ways benefactions have been bestowed. The committee have now decided to endeavour to raise a joint fund which will enable them to endow a bed in the Queen's Hospital at a cost of £1,250, and a cot at the Maternity Hospital at a cost of £800.

ECCLES "BUSINESS."

As the "sneeze" and "scorching coat tails business" introduced by Mr. Brember Wills into the famous pipe and baby episode in the part of Eccles in Robertson's play of Casts threatens to become traditionally incorporated into the stage instructions, affording once more material for the old controversy as to the imaginative stage-artists copy-rights and copy-wrongs, it will not be inopportune at this time of Robertson revivals to remark on it. An appreciation at the time it was first introduced ran somewhat as follows:—

"As will be remembered by all theatregoers, the action and comedy of the Eccles pipe-filling episode consists in the painful accumulation from the recesses of tattered pockets of the old man's few shreds of tobacco. The business usually ends with the scraping together of the odd fragments into a pitifully small heap on the table. Last night we witnessed a touch that seemed to lift the incident into the realms of the comic-tragic humanities, for, as is the relation of an earthquake or tornado to larger human interests, so is a sneeze—at the wrong moment—to Eccles' hardly gathered relics of past tobacco 'screws.' We were glad to see the audience last night rise to the occasion and spontaneously applaud as the comic harvesting they had witnessed was undone and the old man's labour almost lost. Suspense was real even while the second gleaning was in progress, as further explosions seemed imminent, but did not occur. When at the last moment—most of the golden grains being safely harboured in the pipe—a further particle was discovered and rescued from the floor where the rushing mighty wind had driven it, one experienced that sense of pleasure that ever comes from the presentation of what seems like the unexpected, but which is yet the natural and, perhaps, inevitable.

"Another innovation—as far as we know—was the realisation by the old toper, as he stood, back to fire, puffing at his 'clay,' that some other material besides the tobacco in his pipe was burning. A few loud sniffs, a sudden dive at his coat tails, and a placing of them lapel wise over each arm told in an irresistibly comic manner a natural story. The unexpected-inevitable again followed, for the actor's posterior anatomy, no longer protected by his coat, urged him, to the delight of the discerning, to make a sudden and feeling movement forward.

Photo by Coghlan.
MR. BREMBER WILLS AS ECCLES.

"The bringing down of the cradle to the chair and the rocking of it in motherly fashion with the foot while the pipe was smoked and dialogue spoken—not to mention an unconscious extra rock at one moment—was also action new to us, and gave a touch of domestic solidity and reality to this justly famous scene."—An appreciation.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

Minutes of the Council Meeting held on Tuesday, June 21, at 32, Regent-street. Present: Mr. F. J. Arlton, in the chair; Mr. H. W. Mote, Hon. Solicitor; Messrs. Chris Walker, Basil Dean, H. Le Grand, F. Annerley, Edward Morgan, C. F. Collings, Robson Paige, Murri Moncrieff, Misses Mildred Cottell, Rose Cazalet, Beatrice Chester, and Mr. D. Young, Secretary. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

The Secretary read the following letter from the Society of West End Theatre Managers:—"Dear Sir,—The form of contract which you sent me some time ago has been carefully considered by a committee of this Society. The majority of the managers have their own form of contract, therefore do not see their way to adopt the one proposed by the Association, and consequently I regret that nothing further can be done in the matter.—(Signed) J. E. Vedrenne."

The Chairman read a letter from Mr. Arlton, saying that he found he could not reconsider his resignation as a member of the Finance Committee. The Secretary read letters from holders of debentures, and it was decided that cheques for the interest up to June 25 should be drawn and issued with the cheque in payment of the debentures already agreed to, payment to be deferred until the debentures were returned at the request of the Secretary.

The Chairman moved a vote of condolence to the relatives of the late Mr. Henry Neville, a life member of the Association, which was passed by the Council all standing.

The Finance Committee's report was read by Mr. Morgan and adopted. Mr. Basil Dean was elected to serve on the Finance Committee.

The Hon. Solicitor submitted his report, and was instructed to take action on behalf of two members. The House Committee's report was read by Mr. Arlton, and adopted. The Secretary reported eight engagements through the agency.

Elections: Margaret Dolamore, P. Gredge Twyman, William Gilbert, Eve More Dunphie. Nominations: W. Walter Palmer, Geoffrey Guise, Katherine Morris.

In view of the annual garden party of the Actors' Orphanage taking place on Tuesday next, it was agreed that the meeting of the Council be held at 1.30 instead of 2.30. Mr. Le Grand offered to formulate a scheme with reference to the Golf Clubs and members of the Association, and to submit it at the next meeting.

In the Court of Chancery on the 14th inst. a petition was presented by H. Gittelsohn for the continuance of the voluntary winding-up of the Cambrian Theatres, Limited, Cardiff. Counsel who appeared in support of a petition for the compulsory winding-up of the company asked that the petition should stand over, in order that certain evidence in opposition might be filed. Mr. Justice Swifen Eady directed the petition to stand over for a fortnight.

THE PROPOSED MODEL CONTRACT

The following is a copy of the Memorandum of Agreement which has been submitted by the Actors' Association to the Society of West-End Managers:—

MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT

Made between .....

.....

hereafter called the Manager of the one part, and .....

.....

hereafter called the Artiste of the other part. The Manager engages the Artiste for.....

.....

or such parts as the Artiste may be cast for.....

.....

(and to understudy any parts herein specified required by the Manager for) a tour in Great Britain and Ireland, the Channel Islands, and the Isle of Man, to commence on the.....

.....19....such engagements to be

.....

.....

that no season, run, or tour, shall be terminated at less than a fortnight's notice. The Manager hereby agrees to pay all travelling expenses from London during tour, and to London at the termination of this Agreement. The return fares shall not be paid by the Manager if the Artiste breaks his or her contract. In consideration of which the Manager agrees to pay to the Artiste during the continuance of this Agreement a weekly salary of £.....

.....

for six performances, and one-twelfth for every additional performance, and one-sixth for every flying matinée, which salary shall be paid on Friday night in each week up to and including that night.

Payment for Rehearsals. All Artistes engaged at a salary of £5 per week or under to receive salary at the rate of £1 per week from the date of first rehersal to the date of first performance. Payment of salaries shall be subject to playhouse pay.

The Artiste is engaged exclusively for the Manager, and during the continuance of this Agreement will not perform, sing, dance, recite, or otherwise exercise his or her talent on week-days publicly either for his or her benefit, remuneration, or advantage, or for that of any other person or persons or other Theatre Company, Club, Institution, or Establishment (although not thereby prevented from fulfilling her or his engagement with the Manager), without having first obtained the permission in writing of the Manager.

The Manager shall provide all Special and Character Costumes. The Artiste to provide all Modern Wardrobe (except when otherwise agreed).

The Artiste agrees to the Rules and Regulations annexed to this Agreement, which shall be deemed to form part of same.

It is further agreed that any dispute arising out of this Agreement shall be settled by Arbitration.

The Arbitrators to be appointed by the.....

.....and the Council of the Actors' Association, whose decision shall be final.

RULES AND REGULATIONS ABOVE REFERRED TO.

1. The artist is required at all times during the tour to travel by the train or steamer conveying the company, and in the carriage assigned by the manager or his representative for the time being, and any infringement of this rule will entail on the artist cost of railway fare. No strangers, friends, or any person, not being a member of the company, shall (without permission) travel in any carriage or compartment which is reserved for the company. A reasonable amount of private luggage will be allowed.

2. The inability of any artist to attend to his or her professional duties arising from illness is to be communicated as early as possible by notice, in writing, accompanied by a medical certificate, to the manager or his representative, who is not liable to pay salary or any part thereof during the period of such absence, and should such absence exceed two weeks the engagement may be cancelled at the option of the manager.

3. Any person not attending to perform his or her duties except in case of illness shall at option of the manager forfeit one week's salary or his engagement.

4. All parts and music written or printed shall be returned to the manager in good condition (reasonable wear and tear allowed) whenever notice to that effect is put up, and if not so returned forthwith the value thereof or cost of making good any damage thereto will be charged to the artist. No artist shall part with any MS. or typewritten parts, or prompts, or music, the property of manager, or copy or allow copies to be made thereo.

5. Notices from the manager posted at the stage door will be held to be valid notices, and each artist shall enter his or her address in the General Address Book kept for the purpose.

6. No artist is to go into the front of the theatre, or to address the audience, or to bring anyone not engaged into the theatre behind the scenes, or into the dressing-rooms, without the permission of the manager or his duly authorised representative for the time being.

7. The artist to accept and occupy the dressing-rooms and position in same assigned to him or her by the manager or his representative, whose decision shall be final.

8. The artist to obey all the proper and lawful rules and regulations of the theatre in which the company is for the time being performing, and not to do any act whereby the manager may incur any liability to the resident management or any other person.

Dated this.....day of.....19....

Signed.....

.....

N.B.—This Agreement should be signed over a Sixpenny Postage Stamp, or stamped with an Inland Revenue Stamp, within 14 days of the date of signing.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Mozart's beautiful Serenade for wind in E flat, the first item in the College Concert on Thursday evening, June 16, was most intelligently performed by Mr. Francis Murphy, Mr. Harold G. Foreman, Mr. Haydn Draper, Mr. Mendelssohn Draper, Mr. R. de H. Tupper, Mr. H. Foote, Mr. Albert Davin, and Mr. Frank Probin, Mr. Ernest Tove acting as conductor. The students were particularly happy in their rendering of the second movement and the Adagio. In Paderewski's difficult Variations in A, op. 16, No. 3, for pianoforte, Miss Gladys Cawston displayed a command of technique far above the average, and well deserved her hearty reception and two recalls. An excellent tone was produced by Miss Cecilia J. Williamson in her violoncello solo of Max Bruch's popular "Kol Nidrei," and Mr. Philip Levine, Miss Evelyn M. Pickup, Mr. Frank Bridge, and Mr. Cedric Sharpe cleverly interpreted Schubert's Quartet for Strings in G major. Three lady vocalists appeared at the concert on Thursday evening. Miss Ivy Tilbrook was heard in the quaint "Amarilli" (Caccini) and Pergolesi's "Se tu m'ami"; while Miss Clytie Hine in the exacting song of Liszt, "Die Loreley," also merited commendation. The most successful of the three vocalists, however, was Miss Celia Turrill, who sang Schubert's "Geheimes" and "Blackbird's Song," by Cyril Scott, with rare beauty of tone and artistic expression. The accompanists were Mr. Walter Butler, Mr. H. Arnold Smith, and Miss Constance Stockbridge.

"THREE OLD MEN."

Melodrama, by John Darlison. Produced by the Author at the New Gaiety Theatre, Leith, on Monday, June 20.

Everard Saville .....Mr. J. W. Austin
Tom Sprate .....Mr. Ernest Regent
Joe Doddlecum .....Mr. Addison Thomas
Philip Tyndal .....Mr. Richard Ferris
Harry Stanton .....Mr. Mark Hannan
Dicky Twiddles .....Mr. J. T. Dale
Taddeo Scalazzi .....Mr. A. W. B. Kingston
Guiseppe Madoni .....Mr. Paul Dysart
Postman E.C. 14 .....Mr. David Porter
Bob Mivens .....Mr. Peter Dalton
Mrs. Stobs .....Miss Paulina Gear
Araminta Tudge .....Miss Kitty Thomas
Stella Scalazzi .....Miss Eleanor McHardy
Winnie Vernon .....Miss Doris Brookes

(from our own correspondent.)

The leading motive of this interesting play is the helpfulness of the poor towards each other, and Mr. Darlison has succeeded very happily in keeping his characters true to type while developing a consistent and possible story. There is no prominent star part in the cast, and no underplot; but a thrilling episode is introduced with startling effect in the third act, in strong contrast with the homely scenes which give the drama its title. The opening of the play introduces us to the establishment of Taddeo Scalazzi, an Italian stucco image-maker and "modeller after nature and other descriptions," in the East End of London, where we find, along with Scalazzi himself, his young assistant, Giuseppe Madoni, his daughter Stella, and Winnie Vernon, really the heiress to a considerable fortune, but whose present position is the seller of plaster models in the streets, and with whom Guiseppe is passionately in love. Scalazzi had formerly been valet to Philip Tyndal, a fascinating but unworthy scion of the aristocracy, and guardian to Winnie Vernon, with whose fortune he had made free for his own ends and purposes. To cover his fraud Tyndal plotted with his sometime valet to bring up his own daughter Stella as the heiress, and to pass off Winnie as his daughter.

In the first act the real Stella learns for the first time the full extent of the conspiracy in which she has been made to play a part, and, besides clamouring for a share in the spoil, insists that Tyndal shall marry her; and Winnie, moved thereto by the persecution of Guiseppe (whose affection she in no way returns) and by the hardships of her lot under her supposed father, has determined to run away. This she accomplishes with the assistance of Dicky Twiddles, a newsboy—one of those cheerful, happy-go-lucky youths so useful in rescuing the persecuted heroines of melodrama; and the runaway finds refuge with three odd old labourers working for a street-repairing contractor. These are the "Three Old Men," in whose joint lodging at 21, Brickfields-street, E., the scenes of the second and subsequent acts mainly take place. Here we meet a friendly neighbour, Mrs. Stobs, who does the tidying-up of the very homely quarters, and also Araminta Tudge, one of the untidy, good-natured sort of maids-of-all-work with whom such an irresponsible young fellow as Dicky Twiddles must, of course, finally pair off.

Here, too, is presented one of the best bits of the play, when Winnie's birthday is kept with hearty but frugal revelry. But the serpent has been on the trail; and Philip Tyndal, having first of all procured the dismissal of the three old labourers from their employment by means of a bogus advertisement, aided by Guiseppe, lures Winnie from her safe asylum to a lonely house on a cliff, where, in the third act, the sensational scene already alluded to is enacted. Mrs. Tyndal has proved rebellious to her husband in the matter of important documents, to which he demands that she should attach Winnie Vernon's signature; and he kills her while a terrible thunderstorm breaks over the house. Tyndal places a revolver in the hand of the corpse to suggest suicide; Guiseppe enters the room at the moment when the apartment is wrecked by lightning; and the current striking Stella's dead body causes the firing of the revolver and the death of Guiseppe.

The final act necessarily concerns itself with the old men's recovery of Winnie; Philip's payment of his debt to justice, mainly through Scalazzi's agency; and all the worthy people in the play made happy.

As indicated above, the drama gives good opportunities for every character in the cast, and the performers engaged in the initial production may one and all be congratulated on the success of their efforts.

The Three Old Men were cleverly differentiated by Mr. J. W. Austin, Mr. Ernest Regent, and Mr. Addison Thomas; Taddeo Scalazzi and Guiseppe were well portrayed by Mr. A. W. B. Kingston and Mr. Paul Dysart; and Stella Scalazzi found an impressive and highly-strung representative in Miss Eleanor McHardy. The cheerful natures of Dicky Twiddles, Araminta Tudge, and the brisk Mrs. Stobs were pleasantly indicated by Mr. J. T. Dale, Miss Kitty Thomas, and Miss Paulina Gear; and the small part of a road foreman was carefully rendered by Mr. Peter Dalton. Mr. Richard Ferris, forsaking his accustomed rôle of a virtuous hero, is to be credited with a wholly artistic and unconventional handling of the part of the polished evil-doer Philip Tyndal; and Miss Doris Brookes made Winnie Vernon as winsome and charming as her name indicates she is meant to be; while the part of her unassuming true lover, Harry Stanton, was quietly acted by Mr. Mark Hannam.

CRICKET.

GRAND THEATRE, NOTTINGHAM, STOCK COMPANY C.C. v. HYSON GREEN TRADESMEN'S C.C.

This return match was played on June 17. The Tradesmen put together 97, and set the Stock Company the stiff task of getting the runs in sixty-five minutes. This they accomplished, with 2 wickets to spare, thanks to resolute hitting by Morgan and Martin. The latter gentleman took 5 wickets for 41, and Asquin 4 for 27. Scores:—

Hyson Green Tradesmen's C.C.

Dean, b Martin	12
Hopper, b Martin	11
Slaney, b Martin	0
Tattersfield, c Morgan b Venning	0
Smedley, c Nolan b Martin	3
Hempshall, b Asquin	26
Stokes, st Morgan b Martin	9
Gent, b Asquin	0
Simpson, not out	14
Aprishaw, st Morgan b Asquin	1
Seaton, b Asquin	9
Extras	12
Total	97

Grand Theatre Stock Company C.C.

Geo. Asquin, b Gent	7
Herbert Morgan, not out	55
G. Venning, c Slaney b Gent	1
A. Schipper, c and b Dean	1
H. Martin, b Gent	23
Otto Minster, c Smedley b Gent	1
H. Kenney, b Gent	0
B. Levey, c Hempshall b Slaney	3
L. Nolan, b Gent	0
B. Porter, not out	1
Extras	12
Total (for 8 wickets)	103

K. Sharman did not bat.

"The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer." By Albert A. Strong, LL.B., Lond. Price 3s. 6d., post free 3s. 10d. Address: The Publisher, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

THE DUKE OF YORK'S.

The production of Billy's Bargain at the Garrick on Thursday made it necessary to secure another home for The Dawn of a To-morrow, which was transferred to the Duke of York's on Monday, when Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's play once more created a deep impression. Glad, the heroine, who is haloed with chastity, is bold enough to proclaim her faith in the efficacy of prayer in an environment of squalor and crime. At the "orspital" she had been told by a good sister to "arst" for things with a simple faith in the goodness of the Giver, and she would have. She talks this doctrine in the mephitic atmosphere of Apple Blossom Court, in the neighbourhood of Stepney, in the society of thieves and vagabonds; and it has more than a special significance for her when she pleaded for Dandy, a thief, that he should be prevented from joining in a burglary, at which murder has been done. But we need not again enter into the details of the plot, which was given in our issue of May 21. Miss Gertrude Elliott, who has played the part with immense success in America, easily makes one believe in the firm faith and unblemished reputation of Glad, whose example has so great an effect on the mind of the invalid Sir Oliver Holt, a part that exactly suits the crisp style of Mr. Herbert Waring. Mr. Henry Ainley, seemingly, has an unlimited range, and to those who have enjoyed his acting as imaginative or dreamy heroes, his Dandy is a veritable tour de force. Mr. James Hearn's Doctor Heath is endowed with a natural strength that is very impressive, and equally good is the more conventional, fashionable specialist, Sir Bowling Burford, so finely played by Mr. J. H. Barnes. Mr. Jameson Lee Finney presents a clever portrait of the libertine Mr. Oliver Holt; Miss Ada Dwyer realises the Cockney drollery of the character of Bet; and there is undoubted power in the Madge Delorme of Miss Portia Knight. The other members of a long cast acquit themselves well, and the representation is as perfect as the staging, which is particularly fine.

THE BRIXTON.

On Monday, June 20, the Drama, entitled
"THE RICH AND POOR OF LONDON."

This week Mr. Fred Melville is presenting to his patrons the above well-known and popular drama, and, despite the heat, fair houses have assembled. Mr. H. Bonhote Wilson is admirable as Dr. Leonard Norton, and wins the hearty applause of the audience. He receives most valued help from the other members of the now popular Brixton stock company, notably Miss May Pemberton, who, in the rôle of May Braithwaite, scores a success; Mr. Newman Maurice does justice to Spider Jack, and makes himself a great favourite; Miss May Day is very good as Polly Philpotts; and Miss Grace Emery is admirable as Dicksie. Mr. Walter Graham well realises the rôle of the Earl of Ravenswood, Mr. W. H. Porter is well cast as Mark Standing, and Mr. Marius St. John does capitally as Gussy Lambe. Mr. Victor Loraine is capable as Matthew Grabham, and Mr. Will Smith well impersonates Binky Bill. All the remaining characters are well played. The piece is liberally staged and mounted, and the production is deserving of warm praise.

THE LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, June 20, the Drama, entitled
"ARRAH-NA-POGUE."

Messrs. Mathew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company is evoking enthusiasm at this house in the above well-known drama from the pen of Boucicault. Mr. Mathew H. Glenville gains a warm place in the hearts of the patrons of the theatre by his breezy impersonation of Shaun the Post; Miss Lallah Stanhope also obtains the heartiest sympathy by her winning grace in the character of Arrah, the sweet Irish girl heroine; Mr. Wilson Reed is decidedly popular as the O'Grady; and Major Coffin is suitably filled by Mr. Frank McCellant. Mr. Ernest Hamilton's Winterbottom and Mr. Fred G. Kay's Sergeant are amusing, and Miss Fanny Power is well acted by Miss Lydia Andre. Mr. H. C. Gilpin handles the difficult part of Michael Feeny in admirable style, and Mr. Edward E. Hobart is good as Beamish M'Conly. The remainder of the company reflect credit on their selection.

THE PAVILION, E.

On Monday, June 20, the Drama entitled
"THE LIGHTS O' LONDON."

The stock company has prolonged its season, and this week is successfully presenting The Lights o' London. The plays of Mr. G. R. Sims are always appreciated in East London, the author having a masterly way of dealing with the life of the poor of the Metropolis. Mr. Ashley Page is to be congratulated upon his fine impersonation of Harold Armytage, which won much admiration; as Clifford Armytage Mr. Alexander Bradley played admirably, and won much applause; Mr. Oswald Lingard's impersonation of Seth Prune was realistic; Mr. Fred Rivers as Squire Armytage was good; Mr. Fred Harrison, who played the humorous Jarvis, aroused much laughter; Miss Marion Denvil played the part of Faithful Bess to perfection; Miss Nellie James made an excellent little Shakespeare Jarvis, quite captivating the audience; and as Mrs. Jarvis Miss Nell Gillmore played well.

BROADWAY THEATRE.

On Monday, June 20, the Drama, in Three Acts, by Dion Boucicault, entitled
"ARRAH-NA-POGUE."

The stock season here is in full progress, and the members are now established favourites. Mr. E. C. Matthews has gained a warm reception for his representation of Irish characters. This week his Shaun the Post has made a great hit. Mr. Fred Terriss brings his long and varied experience to bear with excellent effect in the part of the O'Grady. Mr. E. Vassall Vaughan is an interesting and earnest Beamish M'Coul. Mr. Will Clements' Michael Feeney is remarkably well played. Mr. F. Kirkby is good as the Secretary, and the same can be said of the Sergeant of Mr. F. Hunter. Mr. H. Hersee is a competent Winterbottom. Mr. R. A. Robinson (Oiny Farrell), Mr. G. Emery (Andy Regan), Mr. J. Jennings (Lanty), and Mr. A. Westwood (Moran) add to the general success. Miss Sadie Neville is a charming Arrah, gentle and sympathetic; Miss Alice Defoe is an attractive Fanny Power; Miss Claire Milvain is good as Kitty Walsh; and Miss Sinclair is a capable Bridget. Mr. Ellis J. Preston, the producer and stage-manager, enacts Major Coffin capitally.

ARTILLERY THEATRE, WOOLWICH.

Lovers and students of Shakespeare will be in their element this week, as Mr. F. R. Benson's company (North) are paying a welcome visit to the above-named house. A series of the immortal bard's best works is presented, Macbeth being staged on Monday; The Tempest, Tuesday; Richard II., Wednesday; Taming of the Shrew, Thursday; Merry Wives of Windsor, Friday; and Hamlet, Saturday. Matinées: Wednesday, Twelfth Night, and Saturday, As You Like It. The company is an exceptionally strong one, and is headed by the popular provincial favourite Mr. Henry Herbert, ably assisted in the leading rôles by Miss Gladys Vanderzee. The remaining parts are in the capable hands of Messrs. Robert Atkins, Jno. Cairns, H. S. Cohen, Luxmore Hocken, Jno. Hood, Andrew Leigh, Jos. O'Dowd, F. J. Richardson, Eric Snowdon, Chas. Sparrow, and Cyril Sworder; and Misses Lila Barclay, Mildred Howarth, Dorothy Johnson, Kate Turner, Dorothy Radford, and Betty Ward.

In addition to playing the leading rôles, Mr. Herbert is also stage-director of the company, and is responsible for the productions. The tour is under the personal direction of Mr. W. H. Savery. The scenery and dresses are new and complete in every detail, over twenty tons being required to mount the various plays.

"MY LADY BELLAMY."

A Play in Four Acts, by Dorothea Moore, Produced for the First Time in London at the Theatre Royal, Woolwich, on Monday, June 20.

King William III .....MR. E. H. BROOKE
Lord Crawford .....MR. ARTHUR LAYLAND
Robert Tarfax .....MR. HERBERT MAULE
Sir Geo. Barclay .....MR. L. D. ARTHUR
Captain Van Hesler.....MR. HAMPTON GORDON
Captain Oliley .....MR. A. L. BURKE
Sim Waring .....MR. PATRICK ALEXANDER
Mr. Hemming .....MR. ARTHUR BLAIR
Sudwell .....MR. GEO. LYTTLETON-HOLYOAKE
John Hemming .....MISS MAUD SHAW
Maurice Hemming .....MISS NORAH JOHNS
Sir Gervase Bellamy .....MR. ALEX MACLEAN
Queen Mary II. .....MISS MARY PALMER
Mrs. Hemming .....MISS MAUDE HARCOURT
Mrs. Mackie .....MISS MARGHARITA GORDON
Henrietta Lady Bellamy ....MISS LAURA LEIGH

The above play was first produced at the Theatre Royal, Margate, on April 11 last, and has since enjoyed a most successful run in the provinces. The piece provides many dramatic episodes and a large amount of comedy and pathos. The action is laid between the years 1690 and 1694, and the Jacobite plots against William of Orange are dealt with. My Lady Bellamy, the child heroine, is the twelve-year-old "wife" of Sir Gervase Bellamy, an Irish Jacobite of the devil-may-care type dear to romance-writers and readers. The marriage was one of convenience, and after the ceremony the bride was immediately taken away by Mr. and Mrs. Hemming, hardly having made the acquaintance of her "grown-up husband." Two years later she has an adventure with him. The soldiers of William are hot on his trail, and Lady Bellamy overhears a conversation between Tarfax and Hemming, when the former unfolds his scheme for the capture of Sir Gervase and his fellow-Jacobites at Waring's hut. "My Lady" escapes from her guardian's house and warns her husband and his companions of the approach of the King's men. Sir Gervase and Lady Bellamy make their exit through a secret door, and the soldiers break in, only to find Waring in a drunken sleep. Sir Gervase and his bride are afterwards found at the Bagpipes Inn, Edinburgh, and are in the act of leaving when they are captured. A trial takes place by Lord Crawford (President of the Privy Council of Scotland), who orders Sir Gervase to give the names of his confrères, which he refuses to do. Lord Crawford threatens torture to the girl-wife, who, in her child-like simplicity, secures the despatches found on her husband, but on reading them burns them so that they shall not fall into the enemy's hands. Sir Gervase still obdurate, even after torture, is taken to London, and is examined by the King himself. My Lady, however, arrives first, and, gaining admission to the Royal apartment, tells whom she thinks is the King's Chancellor—but who is in reality the King himself—the whole story. So plausible, indeed, is Lady Bellamy's account that the King sends for the Queen to give the girl-wife sound counsel and advice. Lord Crawford arrives with a deed already prepared to sanction further torture on Sir Gervase and only awaiting the King's signature. After hearing the evidence of the baronet and his "tool" Tarfax, His Majesty refuses to sign and dismisses the crafty noble, after sternly rebuking him. Bellamy is pardoned, but is ordered banishment for four years. The last scene opens in Kensington Palace Gardens on the girl-wife's sixteenth birthday. The King and Queen, who have grown to love the girl, offer her the best birthday present she can name, and Lady Bellamy asks for her husband, and a happy reunion takes place.

In the title-rôle Miss Laura Leigh is charming, and is perfection itself. Mr. Alex. Maclean is a fine manly actor, his Irish brogue and keen and ready wit winning him admirers. Several curtains were accorded the principals at the close of each act. Miss Mary Palmer was sweet and dignified as the Queen; the subtle craftiness of the spies Tarfax and Sudwell was well portrayed by Messrs. Herbert Maule and Geo. Lyttleton-Holyoake; the arch-schemer, Lord Crawford, was admirably enacted by Mr. Arthur Layland, his facial expression suiting his lines exactly. The remaining characters were in the hands of capable artists. The play was beautifully mounted, scenery and dresses being superb. So successful, indeed, has been the production that we may predict brilliant future for My Lady Bellamy.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, the Drama, by G. R. Sims and Robert Buchanan, entitled
"IN THE RANKS."

The pens of Mr. G. R. Sims and Mr. Robert Buchanan again provided the fare at the Kennington Theatre on Monday, the thrilling drama In the Ranks being presented to a well-filled house. From the time the curtain rose there was not a dull moment, and the admirable acting of the various members of the company was greatly appreciated by the audience, who showed their approval in no uncertain manner. As Ned Drayton, the hero, who through the treachery of the villain goes through many and great hardships, Mr. Walter Gay made a great hit; and as his pretty and brave wife, Ruth Herrick, Miss Jessie Wynter won the hearts of all present by her vivid portrayal of the rôle. Mr. Fred Morgan as the despicable villain Gideon Blake deserves hearty congratulations, his acting being well-nigh perfect. In the hands of Mr. Maitland Marler, whose fun is irresistible, the part of Joe Buzzard, the villager friend of Ned Drayton, was amusingly presented. Mr. Wilson Blake as Colonel Wynter, Drayton's guardian, was excellent; Mr. Frank Crimp as Captain Holcroft, Drayton's friend, was a typical Guardsman; Mr. Herbert Lloyd put some really excellent work into his rendering of the character of Richard Belson, the murderer, of whose crime Drayton is suspected; Mr. G. F. Polson was Sergeant Searle to the life, and made a good impression; while Winifred Whyte was an adorable Barbara Herrick, Ruth's sister. Miss Elsie Videan was charming as Polly Timmins; and Miss Lucie Evelyn won high praise and caused many a laugh by her delineation of the character of Mrs. Buzzard. The other parts were filled with equal success. Cinematograph pictures were given before and after the performance.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, N.

The farce selected as a supplement to the picture show this week at the Alexandra Theatre is My Neighbour's Wife. The play is rattled through with the customary spirit displayed by the Alexandra Stock Company, the chief honours on this occasion falling to Mr. Henry J. Corner, on whose shoulders falls the burden of the work, a responsibility which as Mr. Somerton he proves himself fully capable of bearing. The parts of Smith and Brown do not present very many opportunities, consisting as they do mostly of asides from behind a screen, but of the chances that are afforded the most is made by Messrs. J. J. Daly and Mark Lester respectively as Mr. Smith and Mr. Brown. Miss Frances Ruttledge and Miss May Hallatt are seen to advantage, and considerable brightness and vivacity is infused into her impersonation of Mrs. Somerton by Miss Nasmi Neilson. The illustrated songs are this week contributed by Miss Edith Blain, and the films shown are quite up to the average, calling forth frequent expressions of approval.

THE Royalty Theatre, Llanelly, built by the late J. E. Noakes, has been acquired by Mr. W. Haggar, another well-known portable theatre proprietor. Mr. Haggar, who is highly respected throughout South Wales is the proprietor of fine Bioscope shows. He intends running the house as a two shows a night cinematograph theatre, with frequent visits by good dramatic and variety companies.

"IT'S ALWAYS THE WOMAN."

Drama, in Four Acts, by "Riada," Produced at the Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham, on Monday, June 20.

Lady Margaret Desmond / Sister St. Barbara .....MISS LOUIS ADAIR
Little Marjorie Desmond.LITTLE BERTHA HANBURY
Paula Carlton .....MISS ADELINE RABY
Nancy Felton .....MISS ISLA GARNET-VAYNE
The Mother Superior .....MISS STANLEY BURT
Barker .....MISS AMY RANDOLPH
Wardress .....MISS LUCY VANE-TEMPEST
Detective-Sergeant Good ..MR. HERBERT SYDNEY
William .....MR. FRED BARNES
Inspector Thompson ....MR. HOLLIWELL JONES
Mike O'Flynn .....MR. HYLAND T. O'SHEA
Lord Grassmere .....MR. DUDLEY WYNTON
Jack Desmond .....MR. CYRIL AUSTEN-LEE
Major Quentin Stevington....MR. FRANK ADAIR

Vigorously cut, "Riada's" pathetic "story of real life" will undoubtedly enjoy a prosperous career "on the road," and at the suburban houses, for it contains all the essentials of a popular play—exciting situations and an abundance of heart interest and comedy relief; and it held the attention of Monday's audience throughout, some of the scenes being particularly impressive. The author's intention, we gather, is to show that when lovely woman stoops to folly, her share of the reckoning is always the larger; but in this particular instance the despicable nature of the man who is responsible for her shame is sufficiently revealed ere she takes the plunge which leads to her unhappiness. He is Major Quentin Stevington, cousin of her husband, Jack Desmond, a young Irish squire. The woman, Lady Margaret Desmond, is apparently no mate for Jack. He is of a sporting turn of mind; whilst she prefers a life of gaiety, and has incurred debts of which he is ignorant. She is pressed for payment of a large sum by her dressmaker, and Stevington offers to settle the account, very soon afterwards declaring his passion for Margaret, and asking her to go away with him. She at first indignantly spurns his advances, but soon capitulates, and the scheming Stevington is aided considerably by the presence at the Castle—the scene of the first act—of a wealthy widow, Paula Carlton, an unscrupulous woman, evidently infatuated with Desmond. Paula plans to put an incriminating letter and a £1000 diamond necklace in Margaret's jacket pocket, thereby proving her a thief; but this little scheme is frustrated by the delightful ingénue of the play, Nancy Felton, her half-sister, who, hidden up a tree, has been a witness of all the machinations of villainy, and removes the letter, the Major stealing the necklace. When the police are called in and search Margaret, she is, of course, highly indignant, and when the necklace is not to be found in her jacket, the Major produces it, inventing some plausible tale that will incriminate Margaret. Then it is that Nancy gives the lie to Paula and the Major, and the curtain falls on a very effective situation.

Despite, however, these proofs of the true character of Stevington, Margaret goes away with him, and in the next act, a Cottage near Brussels, after an interval of some years, we see her alone and in the depths of despair. The Major has not fulfilled his promise to marry her, although Desmond has divorced his wife in order that Stevington may be enabled to do so. In the third scene Margaret—believed by her friends in Ireland to be dead—has entered a convent, and here Jack Desmond brings his little daughter, Marjorie. She is to be the special charge of Sister Barbara (her own mother), and there is a very pathetic scene when the child is given into the care of Margaret. Meanwhile, Desmond has married the widow Paula, whose apparently inexhaustible wealth is being constantly drawn upon by the Major. He has her in his power, for he is aware that she killed her first husband by aconite poisoning. He soon learns that Margaret is at the same convent as her own child, and tells Paula so, and thinking that if the child should learn that Sister Barbara is her mother things will become awkward, the scheming pair decide, without Desmond's authority, to take her away.

In the first scene of the third act—Marjorie's Bedroom at the Castle—we see the youngster dying. She has been run over by a motor-car, the work of Stevington and an accomplice. Her mother—still disguised as Sister Barbara—is there nursing her; but her identity is revealed to the little one before her death. In the next scene Desmond is arrested for the murder of Stevington's partner in a racing stable. In the Major's bungalow, soon after, we see Stevington, half drunk with brandy, go to a writing-table and take from it papers which will prove Desmond's innocence. Margaret, who has entered unseen and hidden behind a screen, manages to obtain possession of these. When she has left Nancy Felton enters. She has lost her way in the fog, and asks Stevington to direct her home. The intoxicated Major asks her for a kiss, and when the terrified girl endeavours to elude him he catches hold of her and forces his unwelcome attentions upon her. In desperation, she stabs him with a knife. Then again enters Margaret. She has come for her revenge, for she means to kill Stevington, and when she finds she has been forestalled tells Nancy not to fear. She will take all responsibility for the murder, and telephones for the police. The Woman has made reparation, and in the last act "Finds Salvation."

The company responsible for the representation, Mr. Frank Adair's, was a thoroughly capable one all round, Mr. Adair himself appearing in the arduous rôle of Major Stevington—a cruelly callous scoundrel, with a sardonic laugh and a cynical manner that were most effective. The impersonation throughout was a clever one, the actor's handling of the drunken scene in the third act being admirable. Very convincing also was Miss Louise Adair as the erring Lady Margaret. In the first scene of the play she realistically indicated the unhappiness of the wife, who imagines she is neglected by her husband; and her acting in the later incidents of the play—particularly in the scenes with little Marjorie—was very natural and pathetic, the episode when the youngster dies in the arms of her mother being especially distressing. Indeed, her portrayal all through of a difficult part showed her to be an actress of much versatility and power, and she was called before the curtain at the end of the second act to receive the well-merited congratulations of the audience and a handsome bouquet. The unthankful rôle of Paula Carlton was excellently enacted by Miss Adeline Raby, the actress cleverly indicating Paula's passion for Desmond and her hatred of Margaret; and a more natural and lovable little Marjorie than that of the talented child-actress, Miss Bertha Hanbury, it would be difficult to imagine. Miss Isla Garnet-Vayne as Nancy Felton soon became a great favourite, her familiar quotations and her ingenuity in obtaining chocolate in the first scene creating much amusement. Her love scene with Lord Grassmere was played in exactly the right spirit, and in the intense episode with Stevington towards the finish she played in a natural yet effective style that is entitled to much praise. Miss Stanley Burt was excellent as the Mother Superior, and Miss Amy Randolph was a bright and amusing Barker, her scenes with her sweetheart, Mike O'Flynn, always making for merriment. That "broth of a boy" had a most humorous exponent in Mr. Hyland T. O'Shea, his description of a race being realistically rendered. Mr. Dudley Wynton as Lord Grassmere administered the thrashing to Stevington in a very convincing manner, and in the light comedy scenes was admirable; and Mr. Cyril Austen-Lee as the hero, Jack Desmond, was manly and impressive throughout, his scenes with his little daughter Marjorie being particularly well played. All the other parts were capably enacted, and the play was put on in first-class style.

"TURNING THE TABLES."

Farcical Comedy, by Oswald King, in Three Acts, Produced at the Devonshire Park Theatre, Eastbourne, on Monday, June 20.

Mr. Tunnell .....MR. EDWARD IRWIN
Wilfred .....MR. HAROLD WEST
The Hon. Mrs. Leversham MISS KATHLEEN GREY
Irene .....MISS BEATRICE FITZGERALD
James .....MR. ARTHUR FITZGERALD
Rev. Sylvester Slugge .....MR. TIM RYLEY
Admiral Fleming .....MR. HAROLD CARSON
Jack .....MR. VIVIAN GILBERT
Meta .....MISS JANE SAVILLE
Mardin .....MR. HENRY ADNES
Anton .....MR. BERTIE MURRAY

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The author's chief object has been to supply a couple of hours of wholesome fun, and in succeeding he has evolved some novel and amusing situations which caused hearty laughter among the audience on Monday evening.

The scene opens at the Hotel Quisana, Acoronte, where an aristocratic party is staying which includes Mrs. Leversham, her son James, her daughter Irene, and the Rev. Mr. Slugge. Here, too, is residing Mr. Tunnell, a vulgar Yorkshireman, who has made a fortune out of "Tunnell's Tablets for Tired Systems." This parvenu is anxious to obtain a footing in the society of the hotel, but is snubbed by everyone. A new party arrives at the hotel, and includes Admiral Fleming, an old sea-dog with a peppery temper and a habit of finding fault with everything. The boat by which he has travelled has had accommodation of the most objectionable kind, and when Admiral Fleming finds that Mr. Tunnell is one of the directors of the company running the line he pours out his violent wrath on the head of the unlucky tradesman who aspires to be one of the "nobs." Goaded to desperation by the snobbishness of the people arund him, Tunnell longs to revenge, and the chance soon arrives. Mardin, the proprietor of the establishment, rushes in and informs his visitors that an avalanche has cut off the hotel from the rest of the world by blocking up the pass leading from the place. Mr. Tunnell takes advantage of the occasion, buys the property, lock, stock, and barrel, for a good round sum, and proclaims himself the new proprietor.

In Act 2 we have the love interest of two pairs of young people—Wilfred Tunnell, a son of the tabloid merchant, and Meta Fleming, a daughter of the Admiral, and also Jack Fleming and Irene. Tunnell is pleased to think his son is aiming high, and approves his choice, but Mrs. Leversham discovers her daughter's intrigue, and apprises the Admiral of the fact. To the horror and dismay of the latter he finds his daughter is being wooed by young Tunnell, and the Tunnells, both father and son, become the victims of the eloquent abuse and physical violence of the Admiral. To retaliate, old Tunnell raises the prices to extortion, and sends in his bills. The visitors not having enough money with which to pay are offered the alternative of their going to prison for debt or that the male members of the visitors should become his servants, the ladies remaining as guests. Willy-nilly, they have to accept, and the act ends by Tunnell ordering the Admiral to don the hall-porter's coat and take up his new duties. In Act 3 we have the land of topsy-turvydom. The haughty Admiral is a humble hall-porter, James Leversham is an ordinary waiter, and the Rev. Mr. Slugge is transformed into an ostler. Many amusing predicaments are cleverly realised here, for Mr. Tunnell uses his despotic power to the full in humbling those who once scorned and despised him. But young Fleming does not approve of his father's scheme, and he earns the goodwill of the Admiral with the love of his daughter by providing a means of escape from the unbearable position the party is in. Young Tunnell's efforts, however, are not necessary, for the tabloid provider has, by a huge subscription to charity, earned a peerage, and from very joy forgives everybody; the young lovers becoming engaged, the older folks reconciled.

Mr. Edward Irwin as the broad Yorkshireman, Tunnell, contributed a consistently good performance. Mr. Harold Carson played throughout in the true spirit of farce and caused many hearty laughs as Admiral Fleming, whose uncontrollable fits of temper alternating with short periods of abject submission as the porter were very effective. Mr. Harold West's natural and refined acting as Wilfred Tunnell was admired, his excellent love scene in Act 2 deserving special praise; Mr. Vivian Gilbert was a polished and animated Jack; Mr. Arthur Fitzgerald was amusing and distinct as James; Mr. Henry Adnes achieved quite a realistic piece of work as Mardin; and Mr. Bertie Murray was a lightning and excellent waiter Anton. Miss Beatrice Fitzgerald and Miss Jane Saville were the charming exponents of the parts of Irene and Meta, and they they were interesting lovers; and Miss Kathleen Grey did capital work as the proud and haughty Mrs. Leversham.

STAGE QUALIFICATIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—In Mr. Granville Barker's recent address to the University Club at Liverpool on the subject of the Repertory Theatre, he urged that for the presentation of the plays "a company of youngish people with elastic minds" should be engaged.

